The support tendered the association by the leading merchants, bankers and business men of Sacramento, as well as the citizens who subscribed to the fund to induce the association to hold its meeting there was appreciated, and the thanks of the association are hereby tendered them.

To the president, secretary and directors of the State Agricultural Society the expressions of good-will tendered them are only slight indications of how grateful each and every member of this association feels toward the standard association on this Coast.

The local press of Sacramento is also deserving of thanks, for without the aid of such powerful institutions to foster and help the association dire failure would have resulted. Columns of well written articles were devoted to each day's races, and the Record-Union and Bee will always retain the good-will of all horsemen for the work done for the P. C. T. H. B. Association.

To the owners of horses and the trainers and drivers, the association is also under obligations for the splendid series of races given, and the desire so often manifested of every driver striving to make each heat a race and to win the purses offered irrespective of all the fascinations of the pool-box. There were only two admonitions heard from the judges' stand in regard to not driving to win, and they were heeded.

The directors of the association feel encouraged, and in 1896 the experience of this season will have its effect, so horsemen can therefore expect to attend the best summer meeting ever given in California.

The Petaluma Fair.

There will be a fair and race meeting in Petaluma from August 19th to the 24th inclusive. This meeting will follow the one at Napa. The Board of Directors, at their meeting last Saturday, decided to reconsider their motion of not holding a fair this year, and forthwith instructed Secretary Thos. Maclay to have the speed programme published at once and copies sent to all the horsemen on this Coast. The conditions are the same as those adopted by the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, viz.: "Five per cent. and five per cent. additional from winners." The following are the principal events, with the amounts to be given: Trotting, 2:40 class, purse $500; 2:27 class, purse $500; 2:24 class, purse $500; 2:20 class, purse $500, and 2:17 class, purse $500. Pacing, 2:25 class, purse $500; 2:19 class, purse $500; 2:13 class, purse $500, and a free-for-all race for a purse of $600.

The track is second to none in California for speed and safety, while its accommodations cannot be excelled anywhere. It is earnestly hoped that horsemen who have been doubtful where they would spend the week between the fairs at Napa and Woodland shall make entries for this meeting and bring their horses there, for good racing, justice and kind treatment will be found. At Vallejo, a number of Petaluma's foremost citizens will be seen soliciting horsemen to fill out the entry blanks given them and send them in on or before next Tuesday, August 12th. We have in this office a supply of these blanks and will forward them on application to any address.

With Petaluma taking its proud place, the California circuit is complete, and congratulations to the horse owners, breeders and trainers are in order. The associations have contributed their share toward keeping alive the interest in light harness horses, will those directly interested do theirs? Here is their opportunity; they should not hesitate one moment but place their shoulders to the wheel and aid these associations with all their strength, for by so doing they help themselves to place the great industry in its proper position.

OUR 2:30 list was crowded out of this issue. It will appear next week.

No Sprinters Wanted at Sacramento.

Have you read the splendid list of entries for the stake events to be contested for at the State Fair? No other proof of the progress of the thoroughbred industry is necessary than a perusal of this splendid list. The greatest and best horses in this State are represented, and what is of more importance to the breeders is the fact that the short horses, those that are only a little better than the old time short-bred quarter horses, are not given a place on the programme. If an aged horse cannot run three quarters of a mile he will not get stabling at the grounds. The State Agricultural Society has thus furnished a good precedent, and if the distances for all races were made not less than six furlongs the horses that had not speed and stamina to go that far would soon be relegated to the boneyard and breeders would strive to get thoroughbreds that would "go the route." Breeders of trotters will not breed their mares to a stallion that is not known as "game," and that is one of the strongest pillars supporting the industry to-day. There was a time in the history of thoroughbreds in America when quarter-horses were "short-bred," and horses fit to go a distance were thoroughbreds, but of late years the thoroughbreds are bred and prepared to go "sprint" races instead of going over a distance of ground and packing weight. The day will come when this will be changed, and then the word thoroughbred will be synonymous of "gameness."

THE Pacific Jockey Club has given to the public the conditions governing fourteen stake events. It will take race horses of stamina as well as of speed to capture the principal races, and they are calculated to please the public, tired of seeing so much sprinting all over the country. There is a marked absence of handicaps, however. There is the Spreckels Stake, four miles, a handicap, $6,000, of which $5,000 is guaranteed the owner of the first horse, $500 to the second, $300 to the third and $200 to the fourth horse; the Ormonde Stakes, three miles, $3,200, of which $2,500 to the first; the Crocker Stakes, two and a half miles, selling, $2,350, of which $2,000 to the first; the Ullman Steeplechase, full course, $1,850, of which $1,500 to the first; Palace Hotel Stakes for three-year-olds, one and one eighth miles, $1,900, of which $1,500 to first; the Gov. Budd Stakes, mile and a half, $2,000, of which $1,500 to first; Gen. Arthur Cigar Stakes, mile and a sixteen-h, $1,850, $1,500 to first; the Palo Alto Stakes, one mile, $1,850, $1,500 to first; California Stake, two miles, over eight hurdles, $1,500, $1,200 to first. The two-year-old stakes are in keeping with those mentioned above, and show that the new club aims to revive long-distance racing, so much liked by all true lovers of equine sport. That the stakes are liberal goes without saying—they show for themselves—and that the events will fill well and be immensely attractive is also certain. In all likelihood these stakes are only calculated for the winter meeting, though it has not been announced as yet. The stake events of the California Jockey Club will now be anxiously looked for, to see if they will be equally liberal and attractive.

DOES not Fresno's list show that the horsemen are anxious to go wherever associations offer sufficient inducements? Nothing succeeds like thoroughly advertising a meeting nowadays.

The Coming Auction Sale.

On Wednesday, August 21st, at the saleyard, corner Van Ness avenue and Market streets, Messrs. Killip & Co., the well-known livestock auctioneers, will sell all of the stock that belong to the Souther Farm, including well-bred colts, fillies, geldings, road and general purpose horses and broodmares, as well as some good sulkies, carts and harness. Besides this, there will be sold consignments from T. W. Barstow, L. Hewlett and others. One of the specialties of the sale is a model driving team considered by many to be the best matched roadsters in this city. They have never been excelled in the show ring or on the road.

In looking over the catalogues which have just been issued it will be noticed that there are a number of youngsters by the game trotting stallion El Benton, 2:23½, by Electioneer, out of Nellie Benton (dam of El Rami, 2:14½), by Gen. Benton, etc. They are particularly desirable, and should be very valuable for track or road. Then there are others by The Grand Moor, Glen Fortune, Fleetwood, Jester D., El Capitan, 2:29, Billy Lyle, Hawthorne, Secretary, Alcona 730, Antevolo Jr., Anteros, Nutwood, Nutwood Wilkes, 2:19, Cyrus R., 2:17½, Nutwood, 2:18½, and to make up the sale seven very desirable work horses will be sold.

This sale should attract the attention of all horsemen, for many of those consigned are superior individuals. Besides the horses, there are some excellent sulkies, carts, harnesses and miscellaneous horse goods that must be disposed of, as G. Tompkins, the proprietor of the Souther Farm is going East on business, and has decided to go entirely out of the horse business.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

WHILE "OUR HORSES" are gaining so much renown in the eastern division of this great country as to completely overshadow the performances of their kin in the far-away west, there are members of the clan, which are showing well in this land of their nativity. The foremost of them Palita, by Palo Alto, from Elsie by General Benton, her second dam Elaine and the third Green Mountain Maid. Therefore her breeding is a token of excellence, her size, form and action emphasizing the "blood-lines," and to give these prominence, a system of training which has proved so prolific of champions as the Palo Alto methods have turned out. That she could have reduced the 2:21½, 2:23½ which she made in Sacramento several seconds is the opinion of all who saw the race, and in her work she has shown flights of speed which warrant the belief that 2:10½ will not be the fastest two-year-old record when 1895 is brought to a close. Quarters in 33 seconds were marked in the winter, and there has been constant progression ever since. Still Arion is not likely to be dethroned as "hike" vs. "high-wheels" is a feature of the controversy which cannot be eliminated, and that is an acknowledged advantage, if even there is a variance of opinions regarding the number of seconds gained. It may be that Azote, Hulda or Fantasy, can move the figures which hang from the arch of the entrance gate at Cleveland, and it would have been of "world-wide" interest had the trial been made at the late meeting on that famous track. From the telegraphic report it does seem that Azote could have reduced the race-record had the effort been made and with 3½ seconds of a margin, his power and action peculiarly adapted to overcome the drawback of high wheels, would indicate success. Then, too, his experience as a weight-puller is greatly in his favor.

Mr. Robinson, superintendent of the horse department of the Vina Rancho, informed me that his big horse could haul him, a heavy man, and a heavy road cart at a rate that none of the others could show in any kind of a rig, and that was before Azote was thought worthy of regular training. The triple victory over Directum, Fantasy and Hulda, defeated in the order named, one heat in 2:06½, made so easily that that rate was evidently well within his powers, are tokens that the son of Whips is equal to the task of making the circuit of the Cleveland track, to an old-fashioned sulky, in less than 2:08½. That it is a severe task to accomplish has been demonstrated with a good deal of certainty, and the evident antipathy of owners to hazard a trial is not the lightest proof of it being considered a hard job.

This is a digression, however, a sort of by-play which sprung from the connection between Palita's chance to make 2:10½ while she ranked as a two-year-old, and that based on 2:21½ in July. Quite a long gap to overcome and yet not shorter than that which the champion closed. His first race was August 11th, 2:31, 2:25½ being the time, and on September 10th the score for him, 2:27, 2:21. This was accomplished in races, and his succeeding engagements as a two-year-old were "against time" and on a kite-shaped track, 2:15½, 2:14½, 2:10½, the result of three efforts on October 6th and 21st and Nov. 10th. Some argue that the advantage obtained from a track of that peculiar shape was as great as the hike gives, but that will not meet the approval of a large majority of trotting horse fanciers, and should Palita equal Arion's time on "a regulation" track "hitched" to the improved sulky will hardly be accepted as an equal performance. Enough to share the throne if the present occupant should still retain the sceptre.

Admitting that Palita made the most notable performance at the late meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. A. it does not follow that others did not distinguish themselves. The reports show that several are entitled to a good place, so many of them, in fact, that it would appear that there will be a close struggle for supremacy before the question is settled.

NEARER RIGHT—In the paper of last Saturday I doubted the accuracy of the dispatch which appeared in the Examiner, and was copied into the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, and these two paragraphs copied from the Evening Post of the 2d inst., is confirmation of my views:

"Mr. Williams smiled a little when told of a report that peace had been declared while he was East between himself and Ed. Corrigan, who is at the head of the project to establish a rival race course here.

"There's nothing in that," he said, "I never saw Corrigan while I was away. I met Joe Ullman, however, and we had a friendly chat. Possibly the rumor grew out of that, though there is no reason why it should have done so. Ullman and I have always been friendly, and the mere question of threatened business rivalry would not cause us to meet in other than a pleasant way. If I had run across Corrigan himself I'd have been just as friendly to him, for that matter. But the war is still on," added Mr. Williams, smiling, "and is likely to continue so far as anything I know to the contrary."

This was a part of an interview with Mr. Williams on the day of his return from the East, and, consequently, should be accepted as a true exemplar of his feelings. That a great deal has been published in relation to "the war" which was bogus, to use old-time phraseology, "fake" seems to be the word nowadays, is beyond question, and that these hogus statements roused rancorous feelings for the time is also probable. But there is far too much common sense in both associations to allow them so much weight as to preclude a harmonious settlement has been my belief from the start, and every day adds to that impression of confidence.

There is one point I have not touched on in previous articles, and though not of as great importance as those which have been treated, is well worthy of consideration.

Were it established that peace in place of war will prevail, there would be a better feeling all around. Not only at home, as with that assured, Eastern owners will be more likely to send their horses to California than when confronted with the prospect of battles in which they could hardly escape participation. Nearly certain to be involved, the smallest chance of escape from being forced into partisanship.

Then, too, it would be a natural conclusion that when the game was a losing one to both players it would not be long until the effects would be disastrous to all who were within the sphere of action, and that it would not be a wise move to incur the heavy expenses when there was any danger of a return of the outlay being jeopardized.

With unity of action, on the part of the two clubs, there would be no doubt of the pecuniary success of both meetings, and owners are well aware that prosperous associations are beneficial to them.

Much more agreeable to foreign visitors when peace and good will were the order than when strife and heart-burnings prevailed, and still more so to our own folk. The first named could decline the journey, those who are here have not the choice.

THE OTHER SIDE—When I read the article which is given below, I felt like commiserating the author on having presented it to the attention of the public, and resolved to let it pass without comment. While it appeared in the paper, which claims to have the largest circulation of any turf paper, and that claim fully sustained by the sworn testimony that shows that it is sent to 4,577 post offices in the United States and Canada, it does not follow that it is endorsed by that journal, and if it had not been copied into another, which is one of the oldest, if not the very oldest of the papers in this country, which gives the light harness horse a prominent place, I should still have let it pass without demurring.

That transfer, however, gives it a standing which it would not have obtained as the mere utterances of a correspondent of The Horse Review, if even by that means it had secured the attention of many thousands of readers.

Coleman's Rural World was established in 1848 by Norman J. Coleman who has been prominently connected with trotting horses for the past forty years, both as breeder and owner of trotting horses, and a participant in the sport himself. A worthy man, well entitled to the support of his fellow citizens who elected him to the second highest place in his State, Missouri, and he was also the first secretary of agriculture under the law which created the office.

His son is now the editor, who is on an European tour, but it is safe to say that in his absence, the Rural World, in the horse department at least, is under the supervision of the man who brought it into existence.

Therefore when it is copied into that department, without note or comment of any kind, it may be assumed that it meets the approval of a prominent member of the Board of Directors of the A. T. A. and also a director of the A. T. R. A., and in that case given weight which it would not have had as a simple paragraph in the chattering of the author of "By the Way."

Without that endorsement I should not have noticed it, not even to the extent of copying "Iconoclast's" criticism, which is also appended, the transfer and that being all that I have seen in the papers which come to me ament the subject of laying up heats. This transfer, however, being a virtual indorsement of the only argument in favor of the corrupt practice which has appeared, it is presented to the readers of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN as the sole plea presented by the other side.

If it merits other reply than that of Iconoclast I cannot see it, further than as "Grattan" characterizes what has been offered in opposition to the practice as "rot," whatever that term may mean this is the cap sheaf of a rotten stack. Not even worthy of John Randolph's comparison; "Stink and shine, shine and stink like a rotten mackerel by moonlight," plenty of winsome effluvia without a single scintillation to please the eye, not a grain of logic to sustain the position the writer occupies. The following is taken from Coleman's Rural World of August 1st:

"Jos. Cairn Simpson devotes considerable space in the special department of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN to the question of laying up heats, says Grattan, in the Horse Review. He is as bitter as quinine in his denunciation of the practice, which, he says, is no better than stealing. Let's see about that part of the matter. If a driver who lays up a heat is a thief, from whom does he steal. Why, from the gambler, of course. Does Mr. Simpson think that a crime? I don't. It's no harm to skin a catfish, is it? And the man who goes to a race course to play heats writes himself down a fish. I am opposed to heat betting because it is not sportsmanlike. Your game bettor will stake his judgment on a race, not on a mile dash. So will any man who is a judge of race-horse trotters or pacers. I firmly believe that if a driver believes it impossible to drive every heat to win, and win in the end, he's a double-dyed chump if he don't lay up one heat or more. Winning one heat don't always give a horse first money, and those who howl so loudly about the awful crime of laying up know full well that unless the best horses in a race are driven with the very best judgment, the poorest horse often wins. What sort of sport would we have if, in a field capable of miles in 2:15, the best were driven to their limit and killed in the opening rounds and the race was finally dragged off by a "dog" in 2:20, or slower? The truth of the business is that more rot has been written, and called argument, against laying up heats than on any other subject, and I am surprised to see Mr. Simpson engaging in it. More than that, I suggest to him and to all other writers that before they criticize the driving of specified races, that they either get all the facts or wait until they witness some which are won by horses not moved the first end of the contest. And I further respectfully suggest that they can do the world a better service than to waste time formulating a howl over losses sustained by a lot of gamblers who play in the safety notch by heat betting, that they may hedge if subsequent events demonstrate that their terms at guessing school were so much lost time.

This is what Iconoclast has to say in the Kentucky Stock Farm of July 18th:

"My friend Gratten writes as follows in the Horse Review:

"Joseph Cairn Simpson devotes considerable space in his social department of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN to the question of laying up heats. He is as bitter as quinine in his denunciation of the practice, which, he says, is no better than stealing. Let's see about that part of the matter. If a driver who lays up a heat is a thief, from whom does he steal? Why, from the gambler, of course. Does Mr. Simpson think that a crime? I don't. It's no harm to skin a catfish, is it? And the man who goes to the race course to play heats writes himself down a fish."

It may be right to "skin a catfish," but I submit that no disciple of Isaac Walton would skin a sucker, and there are quite as many suckers as catfish in the betting shed. Besides, it is the correct thing to wait till your fish is dead, whereas the driver who pulls a heat to improve the betting skins his fish alive. If an association allows betting it is the duty to see that its patrons are protected against dishonesty and fraud, and the driver who pulls for that purpose is guilty of both. He is playing with marked cards, or, if you please, with loaded dice. I agree that heat betting is not usually a wise thing, but as long as it is permitted it should be done honestly. The man who goes into a gambling den and gets deceived gets just what he has a right to expect, and there is usually very little sympathy for him. But when a man goes to a trotting meeting and puts up his money he has a right to expect fair dealing, just as he would have were he to engage in a friendly game of poker among gentlemen. If the object of betting at trotting meetings is simply to "skin catfish" and suckers alike the sooner it is abolished the better. I do not, however, believe that this is the object, and I am opposed to "skin games" whenever and wherever they may be practiced.

I will not so far underrate the intelligence of my readers as to point out the difference in the arguments; or the bearing on harness racing. One seeks to elevate it to a standard which every well-wisher must approve, the other, as I have stated before, would disgrace it to the level of the bunco sharp.

NO APOLOGIES—There is no necessity, in my opinion, for apologies in regard to using so much space in connection with the question of laying up heats, as I consider it one of the most momentous there is connected with harness racing. That it will be more generally recognized I have not the least doubt, and when its importance is realized so that the "horse papers" will give it attention there is certainty of reform. The rule must be emphatic either giving the right to lay up or making it obligatory for the judges to put a stop to the "pernicious practice."

The following, which is copied from the Kentucky Stock Farm, Iconoclast's department, is to the point, and well worthy of consideration.

I agree with Mr. Simpson entirely as to the practice of "laying up" heats, either for the purpose of playing the books or for the purpose of reserving the powers of a horse for the latter part of the race and thus enabling him to heat a better horse. Every horse should make an honest effort to win every heat where it is at all practicable. Still, as all race-goers know, there are cases where it would be madness to drive for a heat. It would only result in ruining the horse that attempts it, and no good purpose would be subserved by it. Such cases are now left to the discretion of the judges. In the Nellie W. case, which I cited several weeks ago, no driver should have driven to win the heat. The effort in that case should only have been to save distance. A set of judges who would punish a driver for not attempting to win under the circumstances of that contest would be grossly incompetent. The trouble about the rule is to know when to apply it in its strictness and when to make the proper allowance for adverse circumstances. When a horse loses the first four heats and wins the last three, as was the case with Impetuous, there is always at least ground for a strict scrutiny. I do not know whether the statement of McHenry in that case or the statement of the newspapers was correct, and, being ignorant of the facts, have taken no position whatever in regard to his driving. In fact, I had not investigated the matter then, and indeed have not now. From the newspaper statements there was unquestionably apparent ground for criticism. Whether that was just or not I do not know. From the fact that I knew nothing about the race I did not pretend to criticize McHenry's driving. And for the same reason I do not now. As long as betting on heats is permitted these questions will inevitably arise. When a horse trots indifferently in the early part of a race, and finally wins in good time, there are sure to be questions arising as to the manner in which he has been driven. The driver will usually claim that something occurred to prevent his winning the earlier heats and frequently can make a pretty good excuse. These excuses may be well founded or they may not, and a decision either way may be unjust.

The manner in which the Directum-Fantasy race at Minneapolis, to which Mr. Simpson alludes, does not appear to be justifiable, provided the current reports of the race are true. Fantasy could unquestionably have been driven a good deal faster than she was in the heats she lost. In these heats it seems to be almost certain that she was not driven to win. It would seem, both from the accounts of the race and from the summaries that she was laid up in violation of rules. When a mare like Fantasy trots in a race in 2:39 and 2:36 without an accident to excuse it, and in the same race trots in 2:09, there would appear to be something radically wrong. Unquestionably this sort of racing should not be permitted by the judges. These criticisms are made upon the hypothesis which seems now to be generally regarded as the true one, that there was no insuperable object to driving Fantasy out in the heats she lost. It is possible that this may be an error. I should certainly be glad to be convinced that it is, but on the face of the summaries, taken in connection with the reports, and with what is known of Fantasy's speed, it looks like something of a trick to beat Directum.

There is only one method that I know of by which this sort of performances can be stopped. Abolish heat betting, and in every clear case penalize heavily the driver who indulges in it, no matter who he may be. In this particular case the driver was one of the best in the country, and is a man who has always sustained an excellent reputation—as good a one as that of any other man on the track—but that is a matter of no consequence where such violation of rules is indulged in. It is the principle involved that must be considered. Heat betting has been the cause of more trouble on the track than all other causes combined. The easiest and most effectual method of purifying races will be to abolish it. I do not know that it cut any figure in the free-for-all at Minneapolis.

"STRICTLY" HONORABLE.—I was much pleased to hear from the party, who was the recipient of the check, for an act which does a great deal of credit to the owner, as well as being an exemplification of the question of laying-up-heats. John A. Goldsmith was the driver of a horse, which the man who trained and took care of, though had a fair chance to win. He gave Goldsmith $100 to place on him which was done before the race was started. The first heat was laid up, the second and third won, and he broke down in the fourth. Goldsmith gave the man a check for the amount lost, and when that was at first declined, insisted that it should be accepted as he was accountable for the loss, inasmuch as he could have won had the first heat been placed to his credit.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

Stamina in Horses.

While there is doubtless a great difference in what may be called the mental and moral characteristics of horses, and while certain special traits will manifest themselves in many of the descendants of the same stallion, still it is almost certain that the quality called gameness is most frequently the result of the physical constitution of the animal, and of the condition he happens to be in at the time he is called upon to display his energies. There are, for example, some strains of horses that have not sufficient lung capacity to stay through a mile heat at anything near their limit of speed. No matter what the mental characteristic of such horses may be, they are sure to stop in their races if pushed to their limit. They may have any amount of speed and may be able to win in races that are very much slower than their apparent speed capacity. Such horses are very often dubbed "quitters," and their failure to maintain a high rate of speed through the entire mile is attributed to a want of resolution. There may be, and in fact are, other hereditary defects that produce the same effect and that sometimes procure for whole families the reputation for faint-heartedness, while they may have all the courage and resolution necessary to win, their trouble being attributable to an entirely different cause. It is the deficiency in physical stamina and not any defect in disposition that makes them quit. It is true that it does not practically make much difference why a horse "stops" in a race, provided he does stop. The result is the same whatever may be the cause, but in such cases it is much more accurate to attribute his "stopping" to the true cause, which is a want of stamina rather than to a want of gameness. In repeated instances the defect has been cured by judicious crossing with strains that are free from this physical weakness. Some of the greatest trotting families have been falsely called quitters because some of their members have displayed a want of stamina in races. In a thousand instances it has been shown that where judicious crosses have been adopted the so-called quitting families have produced some of the gamest as well as some of the fastest performers upon the track.

There is probably not a very distinguished family among trotting strains that has not been at one time or other called a family of quitters. This has often been done on the strength, or rather the weakness, of a single performance. Very often it has been the result of rivalry between owners of different families, and very slight and insufficient facts have been seized upon to create such a reputation for some particular trotting strains.

Another very common cause of "quitting" is the want of condition. No horse can do full justice to himself when out of condition. Any one at all familiar with trotting races knows it is not at all an uncommon thing for horses to be started in trotting races when not in proper condition. It is sometimes a matter of very nice judgment to be able to determine whether a horse is at his best or not. Horses frequently appear to be in prime condition when they are not so. There is also a great difference between horses as to the ease with which they can be kept "fit." The events in which our horses are to be started are usually fixed for several months ahead. A skillful trainer may be able to have his horse "just right" when the race takes place. All trainers are not good conditioners or even good judges of condition. It therefore often occurs that horses are not brought to their races in prime condition. Where this is true something like quitting is very liable to result. Until some great exhibition of stamina the horse is reputed to be a quitter, and even when he wins in good time the fact is mentioned with the addition that at such and such a place he "stopped like a steer." This may be true, and yet it may have been due to causes entirely distinct from any lack of race-horse quality. The gamest horse that ever trotted can not do himself credit if not in proper condition, and is very apt to "show the white feather."

The horse is usually an uncomplaining animal. He may be suffering from some acute disease and yet not manifest it by external symptoms. A little restlessness and uneasiness may really be the only sign he makes of very considerable suffering. His power of expressing his feelings is very limited. Doubtless horses are often trotted in races when, if their drivers knew their condition, they would be left in the stable. An apparently slight lameness may be accompanied by excruciating pain. The fact that they often trot well under such circumstances illustrates forcibly the power of discipline as well as the docility of the horse.

It is highly probable that in the great majority of cases where horses quit it is not because of a deficiency of courage, but from some peculiarity of constitution or conformation which produces physical weakness, or, what is usually called, want of stamina. It is almost certain that when a horse shows great anxiety to win in the early part of a race and then "relaxes his efforts" that the cause of this relaxation is rather physical than mental. Some portion of the machinery becomes exhausted, and the animal still has the will, but lacks the ability for sustained exertion. This is reasonable, for it is easy to conceive that under severe strain the physical capacity of the horse may be diminished, but that there is no apparent cause for a change in his determination to win and that desire is also proven by the fact that as soon as he has had the needed rest he is ready to make the effort. It may be that some horses give way to fatigue more readily than others. But probably in the great majority of instances where a fast horse "quits" physical exhaustion is the primary and indeed the controlling cause, provided he was in proper condition when he began his race.

It has been urged very frequently that a "fresh infusion" of thorough blood will be useful to the trotting horse, and one turf editor goes so far as to call this "speed sustaining blood." The reply to this is that there are fully as many quitters among thoroughbreds as among trotters. If the thoroughbred has not stamina or resolution sufficient to prevent his quitting at his own gait, how can he enable other horses to stay at their gaits? The work both in training and in racing that the trotting horse now performs is almost inestimably greater than any thoroughbred endures. Trotting two-year-olds often trot long heat races and do it in good time. Thoroughbred two-year-olds run dashes which are sometimes of one mile, but generally much shorter distances. The scoring alone in trotting races will average more work than the thoroughbred does, all told. And yet the trotters live through it and trot often many years in succession, while the old runner is the rare exception on the turf. There is much force in the suggestion made several years ago by Aurelius that for the mere purpose of imparting stamina it would be much wiser to give the thoroughbred a few "fresh infusions" of trotting blood than to try to give the trotter stamina by an infusion of thorough blood. The well-bred trotting horse is the best stayer in the world. He has been bred to it for generations, and each successive generation has been an improvement on its immediate predecessor. The work of the thoroughbred in his dash races of from five furlongs to two miles is mere play when compared to the fearful strain of a seven or eight heat race of which every heat is a mile and in which the scoring is often many miles more. It is possible that there may be thoroughbreds that could stand such efforts, but the fact is unproven. Both for action-controlling and speed-sustaining blood the American trotter has no peer. —Stock Farm.

Horses Will Always Have Their Uses and be Highly Prized.

Years ago, when the stage coaches that had furnished the best market for horses, began to give place to the railroads, there was a general alarm among the horse breeders, who reasoned that with steam for transportation they could not longer be profitably produced. The oldest horsemen can remember well when the first railroads on this continent were built, and during that comparatively short period the iron roads have crossed and re-crossed the settled portions of the country in every direction, until evidently their limit is approximately reached, as there are at last about as many railroads as the country really needs.

Contrary to the general expectation, during all the time railroads were so rapidly building the demand and also the price for horses were steadily increasing. Not only were all grades of horses produced in great quantities in every portion of America, but even that was not sufficient to meet the demand, and thousands were annually imported. Of late years there have been in use in every State and in nearly every county and town many more horses than were owned there in those old stage days; furthermore, they have been greatly improved, the fastest have much greater speed, many of them have more size, and on the whole they are far better adapted for the various uses for which they are required, says "Vision" in Horse World.

At the present time, while there is no such alarm as existed when the railroads began to be built, articles are now being printed in the various newspapers at frequent intervals, the sum and substance of which is that we are nearing the horseless age. It is almost strange that such an absurd idea should be given any space at all. Looked at candidly there is not the slightest indication that such a time will come before the end of the world, and there are no indications of that time being yet reached for many millions of years, a point so very remote that anxiety now on that score would be very premature stuff.

It is true there are hundreds of young men and young women who never did and probably never would have owned a horse that now own bicycles, or will as soon as they finish making their weekly payments, by which time many of the machines will sadly need repairing. This being so largely a popular fad, it is liable to suddenly subside, though it is scarcely probable that it will go out of fashion as suddenly as did the roller skating, for there is in the bicycle an element of utility. While the same causes that brought roller skating into disrepute are to some extent noticeable with bicycle riding, there is very little doubt that the bicycle has come to stay, and will constantly in future have its legitimate place, but there is plenty of room in America, and probably in all other parts of the world, for both the horses and bicycles, and neither one could possibly crowd the other out of existence were there a disposition to do so, which evidently there is not. For speed contests the two are likely to be used more and more together from this time on.

In Europe and in a few of the larger cities of America horseless carriages, propelled by electricity, steam or some similar motive power, have already been introduced and used to a limited extent. In those few isolated cases the imaginative newspaper man finds material for an air castle in which the horse has no place. While it may be that for heavy traction steam will become more or less common in the future, we cannot imagine a time when for pleasure riding those who have ever had any experience with horses can take to riding solely by machines. There is a thrill and a real pleasure afforded by driving or horseback riding which no such inanimate object as a bicycle or steam carriage could possibly excite.

Some years ago the writer visited the musical department of one of the great expositions, and heard, as he for the moment supposed, some skilled musician playing the piano in such perfect time that it could hardly fail to attract attention. Upon closer observation the fact quickly became evident that this music, which at first seemed so exquisite, was being produced by machinery, and instantly the fascination, and even the pleasure, were all gone. Aside from curiosity, we can hardly conceive of an audience listening attentively to music ground out by machinery. To some extent there is a close parallel in the steam pleasure carriage as compared with one drawn by living, prancing steeds.

One of the greatest elements of popularity of almost every famous general the world has ever known has been his superior horsemanship. Not only the horsemanship, but the horse, has in most instances played a very important part. Many a general is always thought of by those who knew him along with the spirited horse he invariably rode. Recently in some of the standing armies bicycles have been introduced in place of horses, and they answer admirably as a sort of recreation in times of peace, but in actual war no bicycle or steam carriage could possibly take the place the horse always has and for many years to come is destined to occupy. Picture for a moment Sheridan's stirring ride and for a moment imagine him on a bicycle. Would he have infused any courage into the retreating column if he had suddenly ridden up, bent over in the most approved bicycle style?

Many will claim, however, that in future there will be few and practically no wars, as differences will be settled by arbitration. Should that be the case, the population of the whole world will steadily and rapidly increase, as it is doing at the present time more rapidly than ever before, and this of itself will furnish many important uses for horses, as the world over, the horse is the greatest aid in every department of agriculture. Though the world seems large there is a limit to the amount of hay, grain and pasturage to be furnished, and the more thickly it becomes settled the less will there be, consequently there is far more probability of the supply of horses in time, and that too in the near future, falling below the actual demand than there is of the demand falling off.

The trotting, pacing and running contests will undoubtedly continue to the end of time, and they are sure to increase in prominence as long as there is a notable increase in the general interest in such contests.

So numerous and varied are the uses of horses that great changes can take place with very little actual effect on the number needed. There is no possibility of any future change that will so suddenly affect the demand for the use of horses as the changing from stage coaches to railroads, and more recently from the horse to the electric and cable cars. The last change was brought about very suddenly, and it came in a time when the general business depression was such as to make far less than the usual demand for horses; still, those thousands of horses that only a few months ago were hauling the street cars are already practically disposed of, as they are now dead or put to other uses.

There is at present very little surplus of any grade of horses in America as a whole, and with the export trade that has rapidly grown up, together with the very great diminution in breeding, a scarcity, at least in certain grades of horses, is sure to be felt.

Quite a parallel case to the changes as regards the use of horses is that of the use of wood. In our youthful days houses, furniture, ships, bridges and even roads were very largely built of wood, and in many sections it was practically the only article of fuel. These have recently all been replaced by iron or stone. Iron is used now almost wholly for ships, bridges and to quite an extent as the material for building our houses. Stone is used for building purposes, for bridges, and the macadamized roads have taken the place of those old corduroys and more modern plank roads, while coal is now largely used for fuel. Quite recently in the cities the wooden pavement was tried, but quickly discarded. Notwithstanding wood has been replaced for all these purposes, there are still plenty of uses for it, as there are sure to be to the end of time, so that forests are more highly prized and more carefully protected at the present time than in any previous stage of the world. As the population of the world increases, there is, of course, a limit to the possible forest area, just as there is a limit to the number of horses that can be kept, but no one need worry about there ever coming a time when either will not be highly prized and valued.

Our Light Harness Horse in Europe.

Just as the English wisely discarded the use of Arab blood after uniting the foundation crosses, the American breeder united the blood of Hambletonians with other native families, and by following the laws of selection and affinity he reduced the record from 2:30 to 2:03½, or within 3½ seconds of the supposed limits of trotting speed. Having from the rough marble created the perfect statue, the question arises, Will the rich owners of the quarry wish to buy some specimens of the perfect work?

That question can be most emphatically answered in the affirmative. The time is not far distant when England will return to us a thousand fold each year the cost of the foundation sires of the trotting breed.

The returns will be quicker from the continent of Europe from the fact that trotting sport has in France, Germany, Russia and Italy an assured position and is growing rapidly under the beneficent smiles of the respective governments, and what is still stronger, the active support and patronage of the best element of society.

Emperor William of Germany presents a shield, to be added to the principal prizes at the Berlin meeting, while princess act as judges and dukes as starters. The American trotter, being the fastest in the world, is bought to win the international purses, and American drivers and sulkies are equally in demand.

At Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Moscow, American trainers will be found, and in all these countries the superiority of the American trotter is so completely conceded that they are either only allowed to compete in what might be called "free-for-alls" or are handicapped so heavily that they have small chances to win.

In England, where the thoroughbred is still "king," trotting sport is growing in importance, and the demand for the trotter is increasing, but the big market there for many years to come will be for high-class trotting roadsters. Mr. Winans and other wealthy Americans who particularly make England their home have proved valuable missionaries in behalf of the trotter, and are teaching slow-going John Bull the glorious exhilaration of the poetry of motion behind a fast roadster who can do a mile on a good track at a 2:20 gait more smoothly and with greater safety than with any other horse in the world.

It must not be supposed, however, that trotting as a distinct sport has not a bright future even in England. London, Liverpool, Manchester and other big centers have their meetings, and the demand for fast trotters is steadily increasing. When the English get rid of the idea that the trotter must be a pony not over 13½ hands high, the market in England will be much enlarged. This, of course, is not the invariable rule, but a real fast one of this size is, for racing purposes, the best money maker.

The English sportsman has to learn that when the trotter, as a race horse, has lost his usefulness, he will still be an admirable roadster. He may not be able to win races, but he will still be able to take his owner to the Derby, and if there is a spare stretch of road, shoot by a dozen or a score of his friends. He will be able to enjoy that keen but selfish pleasure of giving his friends "his dust" while yet in life.

Although the American thoroughbred has won notable victories on the English and French turf, there has been comparatively no demand for the American blood on the other side of the Atlantic.

It is possible that there is a certain amount of prejudice in this matter, and it is difficult to believe that, with a perfect breed, the strap descendants could produce superior individuals to the race from which they sprang, although Foxhall and Iroquois were lords of their race, but there can be no question of that kind with the American trotter.

Europe cannot produce his equal for at least a quarter of decades. He is good for carriage coupe or park hack purposes. He is a race horse, game to the end of the route, and at no stage of the game, as long as he has four feet, does he cease to have a marketable value.

The regular export of these horses at all prices, according to the value, from $500 to $5,000, attests to the fact of a healthy reciprocity, and the further triumphant fact that the American trotter will be a permanent factor in binding together the sporting elements of the Old World and the New. —Colman's Rural World.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

J. H. Van Sicklen killed a fine deer on Sunday last in Marin County.

The Olympic Gun Club will shoot at Oakland Race Track on Sunday next.

The Walsrode company are now loading a smokeless rifle powder in the 44 and 45 calibers.

Frank Harden was at Alviso Bridges on Sunday last and brought home a fine bag of Curlew.

Andrus and Webb found a great abundance of doves while on their outing in Santa Clara county last week.

Wm. Carnduff broke the record for deer slaughter last week by killing seven bucks in one day in Sonoma county.

There will be a live bird shoot at Oakland Race Track tomorrow. All who wish to practice at live birds are invited.

H. L. Willard made a perfect score, 200 yards, rest; or 120 out of a possible 120 at the Walnut Hill, Mass., rifle range on June 22.

The 100 bird blue rock match that was to have been held on Sunday last was postponed. It will positively be held on Sunday, Sept. 1st, the entrance will be $10.

Curlew and willet have come to stay. The shooting at Ellis' landing and along the bay shore has been very good the past week. The curlew are feeding on the grasshoppers on the hills and if one can locate their line of flight a very good bag can be made.

Deer hunters who have not used the new smokeless cartridges do not know the pleasure that they have lost. They can be purchased now of any of our advertisers in the following calibers: 22 short, 236 U. S. Navy, 25-20, 25-35, 30 W., 30 U. S. A., 32 short, 32 long, 38 S & W, 38 W, 38-55, 41 long, 44 W, 45-70 and 45-90.

The Du Pont Smokeless Rifle Powder is on the Eastern market and will soon be here. Jas. Duane writes to Shooting and Fishing regarding this powder as follows: In testing the DuPont smokeless rifle powder to-day I made a target that so much exceeded my expectations that I send it to Shooting and Fishing. As they are mowing the field in which I usually do my experimental shooting, I had to change the location of target, placing it as far as possible from the firing point—82 yards, as determined by subsequent measurement. The target, which contains eleven shots, was made with a .25-20 Winchester single shot, mounted with a low power Cummins' scope, shot from a muzzle rest. Shells were primed with the new No. 6 U. M. C. nitro primers, and charged with 8 grains by weight of DuPont smokeless rifle powder, 86 grains Winchester bullet, seated about one-half of bearing surface in shell, and one-half in the grooves. This load gives practically the same elevation as 19 grains of FFG Hazard, and is about the same in bulk. Previous trials with the nitro powder had given nearly as good accuracy, but had left decided traces of lead in the bore, which is now believed to have been due to improper lubricated bullets. The absence of smoke and the cleanliness were all that could be wished for, while the report was decidedly less than that made by the black powder charge. The group of shots shows 11 shots, which are on and in a circle 1.5-16 inches in diameter.

W. J. Golcher, Merton C. Allen, Ed. Bosqui, Phil Bekart, H. H. White and G. H. T. Jackson left on Tuesday last for a three week's outing in Humboldt County.

There will be a match at Oakland Race Track on Sunday that should draw a good crowd. The match will be at 15 single blue rocks, known traps, known angles, squad shooting. The principle prize will be a $130 bicycle.

Ed Richards of the Stockton Gun Club, a seventeen year old boy broke 98 out of 100 blue rocks on Sunday last. Richards missed his thirty-seventh and ninety-ninth bird, the latter miss was at a piece. This beats Otto Feudners record by one bird and, we think, is the Coast record.

The proprietors of the Sweetbriar ranch and Sullivan's, on Wild Cat Creek have posted their lands and will strictly prohibit all shooting and fishing. Some foolish boy killed one of the Sweetbriar watch dogs and others have been shooting Sullivan's geese and the owners consequently decided to stop all shooting.

The standing of the members of the Electric Gun Club to date is as follows: The number following the name indicates the number of shoots that the members have attended. Those who wish to compete for the money prizes at the next shoot must shoot up their back scores.

The California Wing Club.

The regular monthly shoot of the California Wing Shooting Club at Oakland Race Track on Sunday last, was one of the best shoots of the season. The attendance was very good and the scores excellent. The wind was light but most of the birds were good flyers.

Webb and Golcher divided $15, and took the first and second class medals. Robinson killed his first ten birds, making 90 straight in the three shoots. His eleventh bird was but slightly hurt though an easy one; his twelfth was a fast driver, as fast a bird as was ever trapped. He killed seven out of the next eight making his total score 97 out of 100.

Morrison's fifth was knocked down with the first barrel and he left the score supposing it to be dead. The dog had not got within a yard of it when it got up and flew off, like a wounded curlew.

Slades twelfth, Melville's twelfth, Wagner's eighth, Fanning's eleventh and Fay's eleventh fell dead out of bounds. During the day Webb made the excellent score of 28 out of 30. A. Russell Crowell referee. The score:

The Empire Gun Club.

The Empire Gun Club held their regular event at their grounds at Alameda Point on Sunday morning. The scores were as follows: Varney 23, Debenham 23, Andrus 22, Burghans 22, Newton 22, Baker 21, Schreiber 21, Olsen 21, Fischer 21, Billington 21, Goodwin 20, Stewart 20, Hall 18, Williams 18, Feiling 18.

The Stockton Gun Club.

The regular semi-monthly shoot of the Stockton Gun Club was well attended and some excellent shooting resulted. C. J. Haas and E. S. Richards both broke 25 straight in the regular club match.

Richards broke 98 out of 100 and 109 out of 112, 10 of them being at unknown angles, the balance at known angles, known traps. The score was as follows:

ROD.

Fly-Fishing by Night.

The recent inquiry of a correspondent as to the possibility of taking trout with a fly at night suggests an experience of my own last May. I had been invited by a friend who is a member of a club controlling one of the finest preserved streams in Michigan, to join him in a few days' fishing, and on our arrival at the club headquarters, found a number of the wonted devotees with the usual assortment of stories as to the "luck," etc.

Our first day's fishing in a still air under a bright sun was not especially productive of results, although the stream itself, almost as clear as the air, was swarming with large trout of the fontinalis and rainbow varieties. The stream, moreover, was full of food, and the fish were apparently graduates in a school which had left them little to learn of the wiles of the angler. Finding at supper time that we were not likely to deplete the supply of trout during our stay, he proposed that we try fishing in the evening, and accordingly, after we had finished our pipes, my friend put on each leader a single large fly (queen of the waters, if I remember correctly) and we took our way again to the stream. The night was cloudy and without a moon, and to an unaccustomed eye, it was difficult to do much more than distinguish between land and water. But my friend, as soon as he had reached the bank, began whipping in the middle of the stream, knowing from his long familiarity with it, just where he would find a clear surface for his fly, and passing a short distance below him, I followed his example. In a very few casts he hooked a fair fish and almost immediately after I was fast to another, both of which we landed. For the next hour we had varying success, a rise coming every few minutes, but I soon discovered that even with my friend, who is an expert of the first rank, more fish were lost than were brought to creel. But such fish as were actually secured were of good size, running from half a pound upward, and were of both brook and rainbow varieties. No attempt whatever was made at concealment; we simply got as close to the water as we could and cast out into the centre, gauging the length of line as best we might, and calculating the force and delicacy of the cast in the same manner. It occurred to me afterward that it was slightly inconsistent in us to expect the trout to see the fly on the surface of the water under these conditions, and yet to be unable to discover our ungainly bulk upon the shore.

It should be noted here that this fly-fishing by night was by no means an original idea with us. On the contrary, it is a common practice on the stream in question at certain seasons, and especially when the day-time fishing for any reason is poor. Only a night or two before our arrival some enormous catches had been made by one or two of the members, in one case up to the twelve-pound limit. But the average fisherman who attempts it is very apt to come to grief, and get himself and his tackle into hopeless confusion. Yet there are two or three members of this club who are adepts at evening fishing, and who hardly ever fail to take a full basket in the hours between eight P. M. and midnight.

Is it possible that these fish hear or feel the impact of the fly as it strikes the water, and that they do not see it at all, or only vaguely? The fact that so many of them that strike are only lightly hooked would seem to support this conclusion; and yet if that were true, why should a red and white fly prove, under such circumstances, more killing than any other?—Hugh Howard in Forest and Stream.

Snakes That Kill Trout.

Emeluth Clark of Woodbridge thinks that he has discovered a new foe of the trout in the Wepawang River. It is not catfish, minnows, coons, muskrats or even pot-fishing seiners from Derby, but snakes. Clark had an opportunity yesterday of indulging in his favorite pastime of prowling along the river and noting the size and condition of the trout fry with which he stocked the brook last spring. He has observed a marked decrease in the shoals of little speckled babies, and as his ducks and those of the neighbors, which destroyed last year's plant of fry have been kept confined, he knew that some other enemy was at work.

Reaching a shallow pool, well screened by a thick clump of alders, he crept near the margin and looked over. A curious sight was presented to his eyes. Four large diamond-backed water moccasins lay coiled among the washed-out roots of the trees, at slight distances apart. They were so intent on something in the water, and he was so stealthy, that they took no notice of his presence. With very good judgment they had selected a pool where a small rill emptied into the main stream, in which a great shoal of young trout had congregated. The snakes waited until the restless regiment of baby fish gradually swept around close to the shore where they lay, and then very quietly, very slowly they extended their ugly necks, dipping their heads just below the surface. Against the background of river mud their dull-colored, flattened heads hardly showed at all, and in fact it was with great difficulty that Mr. Clark could keep his eyes on them. Then he saw them run out their slender red tongues and allow them to hang loose in the slight current, away and curling. The whole subtle artifice flashed upon him in an instant. The tongues showed distinctly like four wriggling, struggling earth-worms, turning themselves around four brown roots. That the guillible fry were deceived was made evident by their swimming towards the snakes and crowding to get the first bite at the prizes. The cunning serpents even permitted the little fish to take hold, to nibble their tongues, and then quicker than thought the head drew back, and in each mouth a tiny red-starred trout struggled for a second and then was gulped down out of sight.

For a moment Mr. Clark could not believe his senses. He looked again and saw that the snakes were busy decoying the surviving trout a second time. It was too much for an enthusiastic lover of trout to endure. Interesting as the trick of the moccasins might be to naturalists, it was simply a massacre to him, and he took a speedy revenge. He hurried back to the house, got a shotgun, and killed the four epicures. Had they been content to dine on dace or field mice or anything except trout they might yet be living.

Following down stream he kept coming upon snakes, singly, in pairs, and in parties of five or six, busily cleaning out the two-inch trout. During the forenoon he killed thirty-eight before his supply of ammunition ran out, and after dinner he again tackled the job. Before dark he had added to his morning's record fifty-four more water moccasins, big and small. Some of his victims were among the largest snakes ever seen in this neighborhood, ten measuring more than five feet apiece in length, and one being seven feet three inches long and as thick at the highest part of its body as the calf of a man's leg. In the stomach of this monster was found more than a solid two-quart measureful of undigested young trout.

Mr. Clark declares that he will continue the war until he has exterminated the water snakes. More than that, he has offered a bounty of five cents apiece for every dead moccasin delivered at his farm, and the schoolboys are organizing snake hunts.—Rod, Gun and Kennel.

E. T. Allen Co. have for sale a new line of adjustable landing nets that are cheap and very convenient. The idea is a novel one and well worth looking. Call and examine them.

Arthur Webb and W. F. Andrews were fishing at Coyote Creek, Santa Clara County, last week. Trout were very plentiful from 7 to 12 inches in length.

The deep sea pompano which was on exhibition recently at Clay St. Market is now the property of the Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago.

In Indiana the bucktail is the favorite fly for small mouth black bass. Have any of the anglers tried this fly in our local waters?

J. B. Grimwood and F. B. Finley started for Baird. They will fish the McCloud and Pit rivers for a week or two.

Frank Dolliver and a few friends were at Lake San Andreas Sunday. They had indifferent luck.

The salmon at Santa Cruz and Monterey are providing good sport for those who are fond of sport.

Trout fishing at Lake San Andreas is a little better but not as good as on the opening of the season.

John Gallagher and Louis Prenot started for Boca on Monday for a week's fishing.

The reports of great numbers of salmon at Santa Cruz have not been verified.

Lloyd Easton fished the Prissima on Sunday with very little success.

Fishing in the Truckee is improving rapidly as the river gets lower.

Bass fishing in Flood's Lake is reported to be something fine.

Geo. Deitz and Robert Bayer are fishing at Santa Paula.

The fishing on the McCloud is excellent.

Fishing at Lake Webber is very poor.

The keeper of Crystal Spring Lake, the property of the Spring Valley Water Company, placed under arrest eighteen boys who were detected in the act of catching black bass in Crystal Spring Lake on Sunday last. The lads ranged in age from ten years to twenty years, and as they marched in single file into San Mateo on Sunday evening the citizens of the town wondered what had happened. The crowd of anglers were charged with having trespassed on forbidden ground, and when they appeared for trial on the following day before the Justice a large crowd was present to hear the case. The boys stated that they had been fishing in one of the Spring Valley Company's lakes, and that they were ignorant of the law. The Judge gave the boys a lecture on trespassing on lands that were posted with notices to trespassers and then let them go. The youngsters were residents of San Mateo County.

Bart and Joe Giglio, two Italian fishermen, had quite an adventure on Tuesday off the Farallone islands with an octopus while fishing for rock cod. The big devil fish took the bait and they drew him to the top of the water, when he immediately showed fight. It was eventually captured. It measured 13 feet at its greatest spread.

The entire angling population is either fishing the Truckee or going to in a day or two. On the 15th there will be an excursion to Boca, Verdi and Truckee. Fare for the round trip including sleeper $11.50 allowing three days for fishing. Quite a number of local anglers will take advantage of these rates.

Dr. Horning, of Marysville, was at the headwaters of the Feather River recently. He used the pneumatic boot and thinks them a huge success for trout fishing. He caught several fine creels of fish from two to nine pounds each.

Clabrough, Golcher & Co. have just received a new lot of English flies, leaders and novelties. Among the latter are some artificial worms that are the nearest approach to the natural worm we have ever seen.

H. E. Skinner of E. T. Allen Co., left for the Truckee on Saturday last and on Tuesday morning a fine four pound trout arrived at E. T. Allens with Skinner's mark on it. It was caught near Boca.

Bay fishing continues good. Rock cod fishing at Tiburon, Sausalito, California City and Angel Island is in its prime. Smelt fishing continues good at Powell Street Wharf and the Oakland Mole.

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

A brother to Franz Frev's Hector of Hauenstein won first prize at the National Dog Show at Basle in June last.

The black pointer will be in evidence again at the next field trial. M. D. Walters has two of Mr. Northam's in training for this event.

E. Louenburg's St. Bernard Barry of Hauenstein II, by Barry of Hauenstein, out of Lady Bute III, is doing splendidly. He is now taller than Hector and weighs 164 pounds at eleven and a half months old.

We note by the American Field that Dr. Skaife gave a good account of the California dogs to the editor, while en route to Montreal. The Field cannot go far wrong in quoting our specialist in canine diseases. The doctor keeps his eyes open.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pacific Kennel Club was again postponed for lack of a quorum. A short while ago there was a great hue and cry for a club room and now when the question is to be brought up no one attends the meetings. Why this stagnation?

Mrs. Smythe of the Swiss Mountain Kennels has purchased of Messrs. Smith & Baker of Leeds, England, the St. Bernard dog, Leeds Barry, by County Member. Stockkeeper says he is a big dog and can gallop and move almost like a terrier. He contains all the most fashionable blood of the day.

A lady lost her dog last week,
And this week, when she went
To interview the butcher on
The style of meat he'd sent,
He pointed to a sausage link,
The lady turned to look,
And when she said she'd take it home
It wagged right off the hook.

An Irish setter is credited with saving one hundred and twenty thousand dollars' worth of property in Cincinnati from destruction on the morning of July 11th. At 4 A. M. a woman was awakened by the frantic barking of her dog, and looking out of the window saw flames blazing out of the fourth story windows of an electric street car line's power house. She gave the alarm, and the fire was extinguished with a loss of about $7,000. Score another tally for the dog as a defender of life and property.—American Field.

Rene Whaithe of this city has a pair of bitches that are a novelty on this Coast—Dandie Dinmonts. Maud Cook, the oldest one, is by Harraby Lad (Charlie II E. 61,935—Newton Lass E. 19,329) out of Carrie Cook E. 29,918 (Dundee King—Harrington Lass). The other, Jessie Cook, is by General Cook E. 43,877 (Harraby Lad—Carrie Cook E. 29,918) out of Maggie Cook (Dundee King—Eva Cook E. 29,922). This pedigree can be extended eleven more generations. They are hardy little dogs; game, intelligent and companionable. There are quite a number of them in the East, but if there are any others on the Coast we are not aware of it. If any of our readers know of a dog of this breed here Mr. Whaithe would be pleased to learn of his whereabouts.

There are several applications for membership to the P. K. C. that have been pending for several weeks. Why not call a special meeting, elect these men and with the new blood get some life in the club; raise the dues to $1; open a club room and put some life into the club.

H. L. Miller's English setter dog Hopes Hill, that he purchased last month died last week of a combination of dysentery and distemper. Hopes Hill was grandly bred and would have proven a valuable addition to our stud dogs. He was by Gath's Hope out of Lulu Hill (Ben Hill—Nora), Ben Hill, by Druid—Ruby. Nora, by Count Noble—Lit.

The judges at the Rhode Island State Fair Association's Bench show will be: James Mortimer, Hempstead, L. I., Mastiffs, Bloodhounds, Great Danes, Russian Wolfhounds, Chesapeake Bay Dogs, Dachshunds, Poodles, Bull, Scottish, Bedlington, Skye, Dandie Dinmont and Yorkshire Terriers, Pugs and Miscellaneous. H. W. Lacy, Chicago, Ill.: St. Bernards, Deerhounds, Greyhounds, Newfoundland, Foxhounds, Beagles, Collies, Bull-dogs, Black and Tan and Irish Terriers and Italian Greyhounds. Louis Contoit, Spring Valley, L. I.: English, Irish and Gordon Setters. E. M. Oldham, New York: all Spaniels. German Hopkins, Hempstead, L. I.: Foxterriers. The judge of Boston Terriers will be announced later, the B. T. C. having the selection of a judge under consideration.

Mrs. Addis in Our Dogs says: I have never heard Japanese Spaniels called "sleeve" dogs to my knowledge in Japan, but a resident told me, who had lived there for years, and studied native customs that the small specimens used to be carried in the sleeve, both by ladies and gentlemen, long ago, and still were; although now that the Court and officers in the army and navy have adopted European dress, the custom must of course be dying out. I understood that several different breeds were so carried in the sleeve, and I know there are several varieties so called in China, for my brother-in-law lived for years in Pekin (I have only been at Coast towns) and told me he owned two varieties of "sleeve" dogs there, totally different in points, and he called them "lion dogs," "Pugs," and "sleeve" dogs alternately, the latter being the general term used as we say "Toy dog," and I think you may take that as the true use of the word. I should add, my brother-in-law, who called Chinese Toy dogs "sleeve" dogs, speaks also of the "sleeve" dogs of Japan, and he has travelled there.

A Chicago family moved across the lake and took with them a fox terrier. Says the Chicago Record. The other day the family concluded to spend the afternoon at Lake Michigan Park, where Mushegonites are wont to tramp in the sand and get the fresh breezes.

Just as the car was going to start, Miss Laura noticed Sport scoot under the front gate. The motor-man happened to have his eye in the same direction, and quickly divining the dog's intention to follow his young mistress, he loosened the brake and turned on four notches. The car fairly leaped forward, and so did Sport. The distance to the park is seven miles, and everybody expected that the terrier would have to take the back track.

But he didn't. In the race the dog developed the fact that he had more lives to his credit than any cat in the Wolverine State. Sport distended his little red tongue, straightened his tapering tail, and though the motorman pitted all his electric force against those slender legs, the dog ran alongside the car so close that Miss Laura could almost pat him on the head. If at times he got behind he would catch up when the car stopped at crossings.

Everybody was enjoying the spectacle, though the girl threatened to go into hysterics because of her pet's repeated narrow escape from destruction. During the first four miles Sport had been run over by a milk wagon, kicked by a cow and knocked off the track by the cars running in the opposite direction, until one would think there was not an inch of him left, nor did his troubles end with these mishaps. A big brindled bull pup, probably jealous of the attention the sleek little terrier was receiving, ruthlessly pounced upon him while the latter was displaying an extra spurt.

In the melee the little fellow was thrown under the rear truck. Everybody expected a lamentable finale, but it didn't turn out that way. The terrier rolled out from under the platform and immediately took a hold on the bull pup. He lingered long enough to thrash his adversary, and then took after the car. Then the elated passengers insisted on taking him aboard. The conductor did not dare to object, and Miss Laura jumped off, caught her pet in her arms, and held him on her lap, while every passenger offered to pay his fare.

Poisoning Dogs.

J. Enright, of 309 Seventeenth Street, swore out a warrant in Judge Conlan's court Tuesday morning for the arrest of Mrs. Callihan, his landlady, on the charge of attempting to poison his dog by strychnine. The dog was a pet he had bought for his children and was kept on a chain in the yard. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is pushing the case, as they assert that Enright's is not the only canine in the neighborhood that Mrs. Callihan has poisoned. Mrs. Callihan was arrested Tuesday night and locked up at the Seventeenth Street police station.

VISITS.

John R. Kelly's, San Francisco, Bonnie Lee No. 27,442 R. C. St. Bernard (Mascot Bernard 17,643—Mascot Vine 23,018) to J. G. Barker's California Bernardo 26,803 (Duke of Wellington—Fomah) Aug. 6-8, 1895.

Dr. Martin Regensberger's S C St. Bernard bitch Loris (Marno—Gertie R) to Regensberger & McCracken's Lord Hualpa (Alton—Keepsake) on August 7th and 9th.

SALES.

Adolf Thommen has sold the R. C. St. Bernard bitch Erica by Barry (a brother to Champ. Angelo) out of Gemma of Hauenstein to a party in Los Angeles. This was one of the very best of the Midwinter Fair bitches, a litter sister to Hector of Hauenstein.

Dr. E. B. Hoenning and Ed Fay were at Oakland Race Track Wednesday, practicing at live birds. Fay killed 28 straight and Dr. Hoenning 37 out of 46, using his second barrel but twice. The birds were good flyers. Dr. Hoenning was trying a new Clabrough.

The Board of Directors declared that Races No. 2, 2:25 Class District Pace; No. 12, Running, Mile Dash; No. 15, Free-for-all Trot; No. 16, Running, Three-quarter Mile Dash, and No. 19, 2:13 Class Trot, not filled for want of sufficient entries.

The Board also decided to declare Free-for-all Pace with entries as above named filled, for a purse of Six Hundred (600) Dollars, and the 2:17 Class Pace, with the entries therein named, filled for a purse of Five Hundred (500) Dollars, conditioned that the owners of the horses named in each of said races, respectively, would consent to their entries remaining in these races as made and would compete for the amounts of the purses as reduced in these two races respectively.

The owners of horses entered in said two last named races have been notified of the changes made in the amounts of these purses and solicited to continue their entries and compete for the purses as reduced.

All the other above-named races were declared filled by the Board of Directors.

The above entries show a grand list of horses and promises to make one of the best race meetings ever held at Fresno, and the association is receiving on every hand assurances from the people of Fresno that they will assist in making the meeting a success in every respect.

As all our purses are guaranteed, the owners of horses entered here cannot help but appreciate the liberal purses given by our association, and no doubt will do their best to help make this a successful meeting. G. L. WARLOW,

Secretary of the Fresno Trotting Association.

WALTER CUMMINGS, driver of Sulphide, the phenomenal two-year-old pacer, by Superior and owned by DuBois Bros. says: Bovett's Specific for Cracked Heels and Scratches is the only remedy I have used that will do the business. For sale by Bovett & Bonnsen, 52 Jacobson Building, Denver, Colo.

JOHN UTON, Morrisville, Vt. (Trainer and Driver) writes: Send me a half dozen Absorbine at once. I am pleased with results derived from its use.

C. R. HARTON, Cooperstown, N. Y., says: I like Absorbine very much.

Santa Clara Fair Entries.

SAN JOSE, August 8.—The annual fair of the Santa Clara Agricultural Society will be held from September 24th to 29th inclusive. The entries for the different events are large and some good racing is expected. All the entries have been filled with the exception of the 2:15 class, trotting. In all there are 135 entries of the best horses in the State. In addition to the regular races there have been seven entries for a two and three-year-old trot, futurity stakes, making fourteen races in all. Following is the list of events and entries:

THREE-YEAR-OLD 2:27 CLASS TROT—Sidney, Howard, Jasper Ayres, Dr. Puff, Juana Treat, Lottie.

In the free-for-all 2:13 pace, the four entries under each class will be held under the usual conditions.

Death of Eros.

Eros, 2:29½, the son of Electioneer, that was bought by the Henderson Bros., of Kewanna, Ind., at one of the New York sales last winter, and later sold to Bagnel Bros., of St. Louis, along with several other valuable animals, was burned to death at the Colt Hill Stock Farm, Marshall, Mo., on the morning of July 28. The fire was caused by lightning striking the barn, and the loss entailed reached about $20,000. A strange coincidence is that about the same time of this fire Henderson Bros., who sold Eros, lost by fire their main barn and several valuable animals. The destruction of Eros is a severe blow to the trotting horse interests of Missouri and a great financial loss to his owners.

Eros was a beautiful seal brown horse a little over fifteen hands in height, and was foaled April 10th, 1879. He was bred by Hon. Leland Stanford and sold to F. H. Burke of La Siesta Fair. He was a likeness of his sire Electioneer and his dam was that famous broodmare Sontag Mobawk (dam of seven in the list) by Mobawk Chief; second dam Sontag Nellie by Toronto Sontag 307; third dam Nellie Grav a famous trotter that had a record for five miles of 13:45. Although Eros was not a large horse it was a remarkable fact that most of his progeny were tall and rangy and had plenty of substance. He and his progeny won the first prize in the show ring at Sacramento in 1889, 1890 and 1891. His offspring were also noted prize winners wherever exhibited. He sired eleven 2:30 trotters and one pacer, the fastest of his progeny being the game trotting mare Wanda, 2:14½. His son Iris is the sire of Visalia, 2:17, and is destined to become a wonderful sire of speed.

Eros left a number of sons and daughters in California but the majority of his colts and fillies were sold at auction in the east and are either on the track or in the breeding ranks on our leading stock farms. Eros was not bred to many mares while at Palo Alto and none of his progeny are there at present. Every horseman will be sorry to hear of his untimely death for he was one of Electioneer's best sons and a worthy son of such a sire.

Death of Truman, 2:12.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 7.—The stock barn on R. T. McDonald's noted Riverside farm was burned last night. Loss, $12,000. The $10,000 California stallion Truman, with a record of 2:12, and five fast colts of Electric King perished in the flames.

Truman was a bay horse and stood nearly 16.2 hands; he was foaled March 12, 1888. He was by Electioneer out of Telie (dam of Tiny, 2:28½), by Gen. Benton; second dam Texana by Foreigner; third dam Mary Woods by imp. Yorkshire; fourth dam Margaret Wood by imp. Priam; fifth dam Maria West (dam of Wagner) by Marion, etc.

In appearance Truman was considered one of the handsomest horses bred at Palo Alto. He was a pure-gaited, line trotter, and was one of the easiest moving horses ever hitched to a bike. As a three-year-old on the Salinas track, July 4, 1891, he made his first appearance getting a mark of 2:22; in a hard race September 28, 1892 at the San Jose track he lowered this record to 2:17; in 1893 at Petaluma he trotted in 2:15½. His record of 2:12 was made against time on the Stockton track in 1892, when he was a four-year-old. He was a game and consistent race horse, and the few colts and fillies by him are trotters that are very promising. His loss to the breeding interests can hardly be estimated and the sympathies of all horsemen are extended to Mr. McDonald in his misfortune.

JOHN H. SHIELDS, the well-known horse owner, arrived from Lexington and Oakley Wednesday with a number of horses. Among them were Schnitz, Jennie W., Maritt and an unnamed two-year-old, all the property of D. Sanders. Shields also had in his care some horses belonging to Garnet Ferguson. These comprised Orion, St. Lee and two yearlings. Orion is by Fonso—Irene, and is a brother to Whitney. The whole of the horses are to be quartered at Bay District.

We would like to know the pedigrees of Solano, a brown gelding that got a pacing record of 2:25 at Vacaville and Nellie B. that got a pacing record of 2:26 at San Bernardino, Cal.

Preparations for the State Fair.

The Forty-second Annual State Fair will commence in this city on Monday, September 2d and end Saturday, September 14th. As the date of opening is less than four weeks distant, the directors are busily engaged in preparing for the great event. The fact that Admission Day will be celebrated by the Native Sons, and the grand Electric Carnival take place during the holding of the State Fair, there is no doubt but the largest number of people that ever assembled in the Capital City will be attracted here at that time, and the accommodations of hotels, restaurants and lodging houses will be severely taxed.

Yesterday a dozen carpenters were set to work making repairs and improvements at Agricultural Park. The old Judge's stand will be torn down and a new one built on the west side of the track, in the place now occupied by the press stand. The balcony used by the reporters will be moved twenty feet farther north.

The Judge's stand will be 12x12 at the base, 6x6 at the top, and there will be no room for any one outside the three Judges and the Clerk of the Course. It will be sufficiently high to give a full view of the track at all points. As the stand is opposite the finish, the wire that has been suspended over the track for years will be dispensed with. The lower part of the judges' stand will be excavated some three feet, so as to make a room large enough to be used as a "weighing-out" room.

A new music stand will be erected in the field about 100 feet north of the old judges' stand, just opposite the center of the grand stand. It will be sufficiently large to accommodate forty musicians, will be of the pagoda style of architecture, and will not obstruct the view from any portion of the grand or special stands. It is claimed that the music can be heard to better advantage by the multitude on the stands, in the quarter-stretch and the paddock. On the first floor of the music stand will be the "weighing in" room.

Superintendent Terry has outlined lots of work to be done at the park during the next four weeks, and he says when it is done there will be such an air of newness, freshness and cleanliness that the old place will hardly be recognizable.

The carpenters are putting in some fifty new box stalls, and all of the old ones are being overhauled and made as good as new.

The old fences that have done service in front of the grand stand for many years will be removed and light and modern style structures—something neat, serviceable and that will not obstruct the view—will take their place. The fence near the paddock will be of light pickets, that next the quarter stretch will be of tongued and grooved lumber. The track is being cut up to a depth of four inches, to make it springy, and the Superintendent says it is the intention to make it the fastest track in the State.

Yesterday the county chaingang was put to work cutting weeds, cleaning up rubbish and whitewashing stables and fences. They are cleaning up all along Twentieth and H. streets, on the outside of the Park also, and the outside walls will be given a good coat of whitewash.

The same activity noted at the Park is observed at the Pavilion. The sound of the hammer and saw and the swish of the painter's brush are to be heard on every hand. The general plan of arrangement of exhibits will be very similar to that of last year. The band will occupy the big shell in the western end of the western wing. The Society has engaged for afternoons at the Park and evenings at the Pavilion the celebrated Ronconvieris' American Concert Band, of San Francisco, which consists of forty members. Alfred Ronconvieris is the Director, and David M. Ransey, Secretary and Treasurer.

They will give grand promenade concerts with magnificent illustrations, on 1300 square feet of canvas, of all the scenes and events immortalized in music. The electrical effects will be produced by means of a triple, electric dissolving stereopticon of 15,000 candle power, a special feature.

Applications for stalls at the Park and space for exhibits in the Pavilion are coming in every day, and Secretary Ed. F. Smith is overwhelmed with correspondence. The decorators who are to beautify the Pavilion will commence their work next week.

There will be a meeting of the Directors August 10th, next Saturday, at which time the final preparations for the conduct of the Fair will be made.—Sacramento Bee.

State Fair Entries.

The following is a list of entries to the State Fair, Sacramento, which closed August 1st. It will be noticed that there never was a better class of horses entered for the running events, while the light harness horses do not suffer by comparison. There will be twelve days' racing instead of nine, and in that twelve days there will be the annual gathering of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Great preparations are being made for their reception, and the Capital City will be decorated as it has never been before. At night the great electric light exhibition will be given, and in every way to make the State Fair of 1895 memorable, nothing will be spared by the people of the city as well as the State Fair directors.

Pacing, 2:25 class—Dictatus, Don Fallis, Dan N., Little Alph, Pansy, Birdroe, Prince C., Babe Marion, Alco, Welcome, Chief Moore, Ruby M., Trifle, Jay, Senator, Lynette.

Trotting, 2:25 class—Mojave, Palermo, Letter B, Doctor Puff, Native State, Ethel Downs, Rex Gifford, Oliver C., Lady Thornhill.

Trotting, 2:40 class—Charivari, Fannie C., Our Lucky, Anita, Mariposa, Bonnie Ben, Dion, Stamboulette, Theresa, Leakewood, Coal Dust.

Trotting, 2:27 class—Charivari, Potrero, Dr. Puff, Silver Bee, Our Lucky, Anita, Jasper Paulson, Bonnie Ben, Lady Vestal, Maria P., Edwin, Columbus S.

Trotting, two mile heats—Letter B., Peter W., Bonnie Ben, Gilpatrick, Ethel Downs, Flora G.

2:19 pace—Dictatus, Hal Corbett, Birdroe, Ella W., Prince Nutwood, Gertrude G., Rego, Ruby M., Flora B., Falrose, Loupe.

Occidental stake—Final payments made on the following: Palo Alto Stock Farm, Nordica and Cressida; Vendome Stock Farm, Iran Alto; Williams & Morehouse, Silver Ring; H. T. and A. D. Porter, Our Setb; M. S. Severance, La Belle.

The Sunny Slope Stake—Lily R., Sweet Rose, imp. Santa Bella, Miss Cunningham, Lucille, Pique, Carnation. Mercedes filly, Torsina, Heartsease, Easel, Clara Johnson, Treacher, Princess.

The California Annual Stake—Rose II., Salisbury, Santa Bella, Rebellion, Walter J., Rummel, Carnation, Lucille, Mercedes filly, Snow Dawn, Don Pio Pico, Graity, Instigator, Fireman, Clara Johnson, Claude Hill and Treachery.

The Autumn Handicap—Cocos, Elsie, El Primero, imp. Miss Brummell, Rebellion, Billie McCloskey, Sir Collier, Ravelston, Rummel, Lucille, Mercedes filly, Don Pio Pico, Bloomsbury, Joe K., Heartsease, Lucrezia Borgia, Tiberius, Instigator.

Selling sweepstakes, six furlongs—Lilly R., Salisbury, El Primero, Black Peggy, Cavarra, Endymion, Little Flush filly, Miss Cunningham, bay filly, Pique, Lucille, Ravelston, Mercedes filly, Long Ban, Chirrup, Rheata, Castanette.

The Capital City Stake, one mile and a sixteenth—Ferrier, Bright, Phoebus, Romulus, Gilead, Shirdy, Norblieh, Amarino, Cadmus, imp. Candid, Piquante, Foremost, Captain Skedance, Malo Diablo, McLight, Nephew, Rear Guard, Adam, Articus, Arnette, Thornhill, Gussie, Del Norte, Installer, Victor, Peter II, Roza, Volt, Mr. Jingle, Monitor, Libertine.

The Del Mar Stake, one mile—Bright Phoebus, Ferrier, Gilead, Norblieh, Gallant, Piquante, Cadmus, Foremost, Captain Skedance, Wheel of Fortune, McLight, Libertine, Tiger, Adam, Articus, Arnette, Thornhill, Installer, Victor, Peter the Second, Volt, Mr. Jingle.

The Fall Stake—Ferrier, Bright Phoebus, Romulus, Gilead, Cadmus, Candid, Piquante, Foremost, Cadmus, Candid, Piquante, Foremost, Captain Skedance, Wheel of Fortune, Uncle Giles, McLight, Mulberry, Fred Gardner, Articus, Arnette, Thornhill, Gussie, Del Norte, Installer, Peter the Second, Claudius, Volt, Mr. Jingle, Libertine.

California Cup Race—Bright Phoebus, Gilead, Cadmus, imp. Candid, Foremost, Mulberry, Fred Gardner, Articus, Del Norte, Claudius, Don Cesar, Monitor, Flirtilla.

In connection with the above list of entries the following communication from Secretary E. F. Smith will be beneficial to horsemen who have intended to take their "short horses" to the State Fair this year.

"It is well to call attention to the fact that except for two-year-olds, no races less than three-quarters of a mile are or will be given, as the society's rules prohibit any race for aged horses under three-quarters of a mile. This will be notice enough to the owners of five-eighths all-age sprinters that we have no room for them. Any good horse that cannot go three-quarters and over will not be furnished stabling."

Los Angeles Race Meeting.

M. F. BROWN, Sec.

Noonday 10,000, Dead.

The well-known trotting stallion Noonday, owned by the Witch Hazel Stock Farm, was destroyed last Sunday. For some time this horse has been ailing, and gradually running down, and for no cause that anyone could see, and finally got so low that there was no hope of his recovery, and it was thought best to have him killed. He was bred by Chase & Brown of Providence, R. I., and was foaled in 1883. So well was he thought of at that time, on account of his rich breeding, that he was sort after by more than one horseman, who was anxious to have the son of Wedgewood, 2:19, and Noonday, 2:20. It was at about this time that Jay Eye See was at his zenith, and as Midnight was the dam of Jay Eye See, and also the dam of Noonday, the dam of Noonday, and he by Wedgewood, the great son of Belmont, Noonday was considered a bright prospect and was secured by the late W. H. Wilson, who then owned Adallah Park, Cynthiana, Ky. He did not keep him long, as he leased him for a term of years to Samuel Gamble, of California, where he stood for three years, and was then leased for two years by Van B. DeLashmutt, of this city. On the death of Mr. Wilson, Noonday passed to the Witch Hazel Stock Farm, where he has since been until his death. He was a horse of some speed, and at a special meeting two years ago at Irvington Park he was given a record of 2:30. As a sire he has not proven to be what would have been expected from a horse of such rich breeding, as only one of his get so far has entered the list, but as he has had access to the best mares on the Pacific Coast the second generation will doubtless be better than the first.—Rural Spirit.

Napa's Great Fair.

NAPA, Cal., August 5.—The District Fair, which will be held here next week beginning August 12th, will be the grandest event of the kind that this district has ever known and one of the largest country meetings the horsemen of the State have had.

President Lee La Rue and Directors E. H. Winship and John Even, of the Agricultural Association, are devoting all their time to preparing for the event. The purses offered aggregate $14,000, and over 300 horses have been entered.

The directors met yesterday and prepared the programme of events, which is as follows:

MONDAY, AUGUST 12.

No. 4—2:40 trot, all ages, twenty-eight entries; purse $800.

No. 10—2:25 class, pacing, three-year-olds, eleven entries; purse $600.

No. 9—2:40 district trot, three-year-olds, thirteen entries; purse $400.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 13.

No. 13—2:20 nomination trot, sixteen entries; purse $900.

No. 12—2:20 pacing, sixteen entries; purse $900.

No. 12—2:21 pacing, sixteen entries; purse $900.

No. 19—Gentlemen's road race, four entries; first prize $50 harness; entrance money divided 60 and 40 per cent. between second and their horses.

WEDNESDAY.

No. 7—2:24 trot, sixteen entries; purse $800.

No. 2—2:27 trot, three-year-olds, twenty-two entries; purse $700.

No. 20—Half-mile handicap, bicycle.

No. 21—Mile, handicap, bicycle.

No. 22—Quarter of a mile, scratch, bicycle.

No. 23—Five-mile, St. Helena invitation, bicycle.

THURSDAY.

No. 1—Two-year-old, 2:40 trot, thirteen entries; purse $500.

No. 3—2:25 trot, four-year-olds, twenty-two entries; purse $700.

No. 24—Mile, champion, bicycle.

No. 25—Twenty-five mile relay, bicycle.

FRIDAY.

No. 11—2:25 pacing, twenty-nine entries; purse $800.

No. 6—2:27 trot, nineteen entries; purse $800.

SATURDAY.

No. 18—2:13 nomination pace, nine entries; purse $1,000.

No. 14—2:17 nomination trot, twelve entries; purse $900.

No. 5—2:30 trot, twenty-one entries; purse $800.

As seen by the programme there will be six bicycle events. They will be open to riders in the counties north of the bay and west of the Sacramento River. The first prize in each of the bicycle events will be of the value of $30, and the second prize $20.

All of the fast horses on the Coast have been entered in the races, and they are already beginning to arrive at the track. Ed Lafferty has his swift namesake and a string of other speedy horses here. William Murray, after the Sacramento races closed, gave the Vallejo meeting the go-by, and brought Diablo and the balance of his stable here to work them.

Fifty additional box stalls have been built this year, and the water works at the Agricultural Park have been enlarged and improved.

The Reporters Stand at the State Fair.

Several improvements are to be made at the Park, says the Sacramento Record-Union, among them being the erection of a new judges' stand in front of the grand stand. The present judges' stand will be moved some yards to the south of its present site and fitted up for the use of the musicians. This is an excellent idea, for persons in the grand stand have heretofore found it unpleasant to be crowded up close to the band. Besides, the music will sound much better coming from across the track, and the new location will enable those in the directors' and special stands to hear it.

It is also proposed to remove the reporters' stand a few feet to the north. In doing this it is to be hoped that the directors will see that the reporters are given sufficient room in which to do their work and where they will be protected against the encroachments of persons who are not reporters, nor judges, nor timers.

Heretofore it has been almost impossible for the newspaper men to do their writing of the races as the later progress, because of outsiders crowding in among and practically on top of them. It is a nuisance that is really intolerable, but to all complaints there has come no relief.

If the officials of the society, or the judges, or timers, have personal friends whom they wish to favor with places under the wire—since they are not content to occupy the Director's stand near the entrance—they should provide a box for them near the wire, and not force them, or allow them to force themselves, on the newspaper men.

The board should bear in mind the fact that the success or non-success of a racing meeting depends chiefly on the character of reports sent out. If the columns of the newspapers in other cities are made lurid every day with articles "burning up" the management, the result in dollars and cents at the end of the meeting will be plainly manifest.

It is a very easy thing to do to protect the reporters and correspondents, but it is something that has never been done, though spasmodic attempts have been made. Superintendent Terry has a fine opportunity to immortalize himself this year.

An Offer for a Big Match Race.

RED OAK (Ia., August 5.—The following message was sent to-day to C. J. Hamlin, of Buffalo, N. Y., owner of Robert J.; John G. Taylor, of Buffalo, owner of Joe Patchen, and M. E. McHenry, of Freeport, Ill., driver of John R. Gentry: "Will give a purse of $6,000 for a race between Robert J., John R. Gentry and Joe Patchen at Pactolus Park on Thursday, August 15th, American rules to govern, the money to be divided into 60, 25 and 15 per cent. Please wire answer. PALMER L. CLARK, Secretary.

The answers are awaited with great interest.

Thos. Williams Successful.

Thomas H. Williams, President of the California Jockey Club, returned from the East yesterday, enthusiastic over the brilliant prospects of the Bay District track for the winter season.

The main purpose of his mission beyond the Rockies was to secure sufficient support from wealthy men of the East interested in racing to insure the purchase of the local race track from the Southern Pacific company, and its intention for the purposes of the great sport. Mr. Williams has been successful in his undertaking. He has received assurances of support from five of the most prominent horsemen of the country, and he says there is no doubt that the title to the Bay District track will be vested in himself and his associates by September 1st next.

Mr. Williams took an option on the property at the price of $650,000 some months ago. At that time it was said that the railroad company intended to subdivide the track into building lots and place it on the market at the end of the present racing season. About this time Messrs. Corrigan, Spreckels and others secured the lands near the Ingleside, upon which it is proposed to build the new race track. For the purpose of maintaining the supremacy of the California Jockey Club, its President determined to buy the Bay District track outright so that horse racing might be continued there for all time. He forfeited his first deposit of $10,000 on the option, but that misadventure only gave zest to his undertaking, and he went East to obtain necessary support from the owners of the great stables of the country.

"I have not the slightest doubt," he said last night, "that by September 1st, and which time we have an option, the Bay District track will be in our hands. The price is $650,000. I received assurances of support in the East. Pierre Lorillard, J. B. Haggin, Phil Dwyer, Dave Gideon and ex-Mayor Nolan, of Albany, will co-operate with me, and the local men who have joined in the proposition. Among them are W. O'B. Macdonough, Louis Lissak, Major Frank McLaughlin, and Magnee Burke. Three of the Eastern men mentioned are multi-millionaires and the other two are also very wealthy. We will have the greatest race track in the country. The final negotiations for the purchase of the ground will be completed in a short time."

Dave Gideon was the partner of John Daly. The quality of their stable may be judged from the fact that at the recent sale of their horses the prices averaged $7,000 a head. Pierre Lorillard, who has a national reputation, is the owner of the Rancocas stud at Johnstown, N. Y. Phil Dwyer is one of the famous Dwyer brothers and is President of the Brooklyn Jockey Club. J. B. Haggin is well known in two continents. He has retired from the track and is now engaged in breeding. Ex Mayor Nolan of Albany, N. Y., is the owner of Beverwyck Brewery of that city and is a very wealthy man.

"Carloads of the best horses in the East will be sent here," Mr. Williams continued, "and we will get a lot of new boys. The feeling is very enthusiastic, and every person I met was eager to go to California. Besides the stables and those directly connected with them a large number of men who follow the races because they like the sport will come out. The prospects are, therefore, excellent. All the best stables in the country will be represented at the Bay District."

"The affairs of the people at the other track do not interest me. I did not see Mr. Corrigan in the East, but I met Mr. Ullmar and had a friendly chat with him. We have always been friendly, and there is no reason why business rivalry should affect our pleasant relations. I have paid no attention to their affairs, having been very busy with my own. The interesting point is that by September 1st we will be fully established at the Bay District Track with the support of the strongest men and the greatest stables of the country."—Examiner.

O'Connell and His Kin.

Capt. B. J. Treacy bred the great sprinter O'Connell, and still owns his dam May Kennedy. Mr. Treacy sold O'Connell to Col. Jack Chinn and the latter sold him as a three-year-old for $5,000 to his present owner, Mr. W. J. Spiers, who has beaten with him most of the crack sprinters of this period, including Dr. Hasbrouck.

May Kennedy is a sprinter herself, having run three-quarters at Sheepshead Bay on the grass in 1:15½. Mr. Treacy now has a magnificent yearling colt by Ponso, out of Mav Kennedy, as well as a suckling colt out of the same dam, by Prince Royal. She is now in foal to Harry O'Fallon, and, as she has never produced anything but colts, the foal of next year will probably be a full brother to O'Connell.

When O'Connell reduced the circular track record for three-quarters in the Brewers' Stake at Oakley last week he carried 121 pounds. He ran the distance in 1:12½. The previous record had been 1:12½, made by Diggs with 83 pounds up at Harlem, September 29th last.

The straightaway record, it is claimed, is not honestly Kingston's 1:08 at Sheepshead, but Domino's 1:09, made as a two-year-old September 29, 1893, with 125 pounds up, on the Morris Park track. Before Kingston and Domino, August Belmont's great mare, Fides, held the mark, 1:10½, made on the Morris Park straight May 31, 1890, with 116 pounds up. From 1883 to Fides' record the American three-quarter of a mile was held as follows:

1883, Force, 5, 122, Louisville, September 24, 1883, 1:13.
*1887, Oregon, 2, 110, Salem, Ore., Sept. 4, 1887, 1:12½.
1888, Tom Hood, 4, 115, Louisville, September 19, 1888, 1:13.

1889, El Rio Rey, 2, 126, New York Jockey Club, August 31, 1889, 1:11.

1889, Tipstaff, 3, 107, New York Jockey Club, Oct. 4, 1889, 1:11.

*Doubtful.

Of O'Connell W. J. Spiers says: "Mr. Walbaum was half owner of O'Connell when I bought him from Jack Chinn. I bought Walbaum out. O'Connell is a good honest horse, and is always ready. There is no telling how far he will go. The popular impression that he is a short-distance horse is erroneous. He has always done everything that was asked of him. No, I don't want to say what he could do with Henry of Navarre. He is not a sprinter. He is a great race horse and can race along so fast that it will take a wonder to beat him."

Don Carillo is All Right.

Californians will be glad to learn that Don Carillo, the colt purchased by Barney Schreiber in this city, has turned out a good bread-winner. A St. Louis paper contains the following:

In Don Carillo, the son of Mariner and Sunlit, Barney Schreiber thinks he has the greatest two-year-old in the West, over a distance of ground. In his race Tuesday Carillo got off first, but the others soon outran him and he fell back last. In the stretch, however, Schreiber's crack came along the rail with space-eating strides, and in a desperate finish he won by a nose from Utopia, with Miss Maxim third, the same narrow margin behind. The result was especially pleasing to Schreiber, and he wants the St. Louis Fair Association to get up a special race in which he can try the Don against the best of them.

"I am willing to go in with the Don for a sweepstakes to be run next Saturday, or whenever it suits the association and the other owners," said Barney. "It is late enough now to race high classed two year-olds six furlongs, and my idea is that the event should be made that distance. The association should add $1,000, and with each starter paying either $250 or $500, the race would be worth a whole lot of money to the winner. The scale of weights would give every one an even chance, and if the matter is handled right I believe a field which would include Sallie Cliquot, Tilsey, Don Carillo, La Salle, Ben Elder and other two-year-old cracks could be brought to the post."

Pool-Selling Must Cease.

Chief of Police Crowley yesterday issued the following order to Captains Wittman, Spillane and Dunleavy:

Your attention is called to Order 1661 of the Board of Supervisors prohibiting pool selling, etc., on a horse race outside of the inclosure of a race track in the City and County of San Francisco, and the manner in which it is being violated. The parties conducting the pool-rooms claim that they are only the agents and that any money received by them is sent to the track, there to be placed on certain horses, hence they are not violators of the order.

I have the written opinion of the City and County Attorney (copy inclosed) that said order could not be made more complete; that it prohibits every species of gambling on a horse race in this city and county outside the inclosure of a race track.

The Chief of Police directs that you take such measures as will put a stop to this form of gambling and report in writing to this office the action taken on this order. H. S. HEALEY, Clerk.

Yesterday Policeman George W. Russell was promoted to the rank of corporal of police, vice John W. Moffitt, promoted.

City and County Attorney Creswell holds that the order lately passed by the Board of Supervisors, prohibiting pool-selling on horse races outside out a race track is regular in every way. In a communication to Chief of Police Crowley, he says:

I have finished a consultation with J. T. Dare on the subject matter of your communication of July 18, 1895. We have carefully examined order No. 2361 of the Board of Supervisors, prohibiting pool selling on a horse race, outside of the inclosure of a race track, in the City and County of San Francisco, approved March 23, 1891. Mr. Dare is of the opinion that the said order could not be made more complete; that it prohibits every species of gambling on a horse race in this city outside the inclosure of a race track. My examination of the order convinces me that he is correct.

Capt. Callundan Denies the Charge.

In the statement published in the daily papers last week that Captain Julius Callundan, who has charge of the police regulations on the Bay District track, had a spite against Jockey Harris who was arrested for embezzling $40 from a lady some time ago, is an erroneous one, for everyone who understands the facts of the case knows that Capt. Callundan never had any spite against Harris and that such a charge is false. Capt. Callundan is one of the most careful and efficient of officers, and while it is a well known fact that he has kept a watchful eye upon such men as Harris, he has always acted in a courteous manner, and when he ordered him from the track he tendered the admission fee back to him. This charge of Harris that he was humiliated by Capt. Callundan will have very little weight when placed before the proper authorities. Capt. Callundan deserves great praise for the good work he has done in the difficult task of keeping the race track clear of pickpockets, petty larceny thieves and defaulting touts. No track in the United States has been kept as free from these characters as the Bay District has under his charge. It is safe to say that any one ejected from the track by Capt. Callundan or his officers has been ejected with good cause.

THE following is being told by a turf "tale bearer": "Monroe Salisbury, as a rule, does not take the public into his confidence regarding the promise and condition of his horses and last week at Detroit he played a little game on the rail birds, who, as usual, all pulled out their watches when McDowell was seen to come on the track with Alix. Under Salisbury's orders, however, the great mare was driven a slow mile, and as she reached the wire of course the watches were stopped. Not so with Alix, however, for she proceeded to go on, and go a fast mile. Just how fast it was probably no one but Salisbury and McDowell knows. The last half was trotted in 1:00½, and the third quarter in 23½ seconds. After the daughter of Patronage had been taken to the stable a horseman remarked to Salisbury that the mare's fast quarter was the fastest he had ever seen accomplished by a trotter, and the veteran California breeder said, with a satisfied smile: 'She is very fast, and there is only one living horse that can give her a race,' and as he spoke he pointed to Azote, the other great trotter in his stable. Those who have been counting Alix out of the swim for this year may yet realize that they have been hasty in their judgment of the little mare, for that she will trot some very fast miles before the season ends is a certainty."

THE Terre Haute summer meeting opened on Monday. The first race was for two-year-old trotters, which was won by Wiggins, a rank outsider in the betting, in straight easy heats. It was the first time he ever started, and in the first heat he took a record of 2:24½ easily. Jimmie Hague, was a slight favorite in the 2:35 trot and captured the race in straight heats, reducing his record in the first to 2:15. Dentine was the only horse against him that could give him anything like a race. The 2:24 pace went to Ithuriel in the usual straight heat manner, but it was evident to those who had seen harness races before that Zabud could have won with a little more urging from the driver. Ithuriel reduced his record in the first heat to 2:11½ from 2:15½.

Elsie, One of the Great Broodmares at Palo Alto.

Chestnut mare, 16 hands, foaled April 10, 1882; bred at Palo Alto. By General Benton 1755, dam Elaine, 2:20, by Messenger Duroc 106; grandam Green Mountain Maid, by Harry Clay (Sayres').

Elsie showed a great deal of speed early, but went amiss, and as a four-year-old in 1886 was stunted to Piedmont, 2:17½, the produce in 1887 being a chestnut filly, which died the same year.

In 1888, Elsie produced by Piedmont the chestnut colt Salvini, in the yearling form he showed eighths in 0:21, was sent to New York when two years old and brought $1,450 at auction.

In 1889, she produced the bay filly Novelist (2), 2:27, by Norval, 2:14½.

In 1890 Elsie was barren.

In 1891 Elsie produced the bay colt Rio Alto, 2:16½, by Palo Alto, 2:08½. This colt promises to become a very fast horse though up to the present time he has been unfortunate, meeting with several accidents.

In 1893 he won the State Fair Futurity $2,500 for two-year-olds, trotting the third heat in 2:22½. Last year as a three-year-old he won the State Fair Futurity, $5,000, for three-year-olds, reducing his record in the third heat to 2:20½, he also won the Stanford Stake for three-year-olds, and during the season, lowered his record to 2:16½, sharing with the Gossiper filly Gazelle the race record of California for three-year-olds.

In 1892 Elsie produced the bay filly Mary Osborne, by Azmoor, 2:20½. This filly got a record of 2:37 as a yearling and this year as a three-year-old has reduced her record to 2:28½, a mark that she will reduce several seconds before the races are over this season.

Elsie's foal of 1892, is the two-year-old filly Palita, by Palo Alto, 2:08½. Palita won her maiden start last month at Sacramento in the two-year-old 2:40 class, in straight heats, 2:21½, 2:23½. The manner in which she won this race shows that high honors are within her grasp before the close of 1895.

The produce of Elsie in 1894 is a bay filly by Truman (4), 2:12, not yet broken, her foal of 1895 is a bay filly by Azmoor, 2:20½, a full sister to Mary Osborne.

Every foal of Elsie's old enough to be trained has shown speed. Four developed at Palo Alto have records better than 2:30, and show an average of 2:23, all getting their records at three years old and under. Elsie gives promise of being in the future one of the great broodmares, and she rightfully inherits that claim. Her sire, Gen. Benton, is one of the great broodmare sires, her dam, Elaine, was the world's champion three and four-year-old performer.

Though unfortunate as a broodmare, Elaine has produced a yearling champion in Norlaine, 2:31½, by Norval, Anselma, 2:29½, by Ansel, Palatine (3), 2:18, by Palo Alto, Iran Alto (3), by Palo Alto, has shown a mile in 2:23, Norlaine (1), by Norris, has shown eighths in 18½ seconds.

Elaine produces speed from all sources, her daughter Elsie is following in her footsteps, and both daughter and granddaughter are emulating the example set by their progenitress, Green Mountain Maid, the greatest broodmare of all. RIO ALTO.

Altao's Win at Cleveland.

The first race on the card was the 2:15 trot, in which twelve of the twenty-two nominated horses came down for the word. Of these, Baron Rogers, that but lately reduced his record to 2:13½, was an even favorite with Newcastle, each selling for $25, with the field bringing $50. Everybody from up the line and from Lexington was talking about how Baron Rogers could beat Miss Lexington through the stretch, and the local touts were telling of the mile in 2:10 done by Newcastle in the early dawn of a few days ago. Altao, the Salisbury entry, was overlooked by the talent, who forgot the good race he trotted at Detroit only last week. Oakland Baron drew the pole, with Fred B. in second position, with Newcastle in eighth place and Baron Rogers on the outside. In the getaway for the first heat, Oakland Baron upheld his reputation of being the fastest horse in the country to the quarter, and led at that point by a length. Maud C. scored very fast, and looked as if she had a chance for the heat, but the clip was a little too fast for her around the turn and she left her feet. Down the back stretch Altao, Newcastle and Baron Rogers were the nearest to Oakland Baron, who gave it up at the eighth pole and Altao came on and won. Baron Rogers, that had made a break at the half, trotted fast through the stretch and finished fifth. In the second heat Altao brought $10 against $25 for the field, and the books laid the liberal odds of 3 to 2 against his chances. Oakland Baron took the pole again before reaching the first turn, followed closely by Altao, who got home a neck in front of James L., and the latter was but a neck to the good of Gretchen. McCarthy could not use a whip on the latter erratic mare, but gave her a resounding slap on the quarter with his open hand as she went under the wire, without avail. The third heat found Altao still an 8 to 5 favorite, and though James L. made him trot a mile in 2:10—a considerable cut from his Detroit record—to win, still it was an easy win.—Horseman.

COL. JOHN G. TAYLOR, St. Louis, Mo., has, it is said, sold all his trotters and pacers to his brother, Dr. J. B. Taylor, San Antonio, Texas. Among them are Joe Patchen, 2:04, by Patchen Wilkes; Adelaide Simmons, 2:14, by Simmons; Adelaide McGregor, 2:15½, by Robert McGregor; Nina T., 2:15, by Domineer; Domineer, 2:1½, by Red Wilkes, and other young ones. The stable will continue its campaign under the charge of Jack Curry.

ARRANGEMENTS have been completed whereby four of Mr. E. H. Harriman's horses, now at the Gosben Driving Park, will be taken to Poughkeepsie this week to be trained on the mile track at that place. The list will consist of the stallion Stamboul, Cienega, a two-year-old by Alcantara, Wera, five-year-old by Stamboul, and Rival, two-year-old by Kremlin. Mr. Ira Ryerson will accompany the trotters and train them at Poughkeepsie.

FRED L. CLARK, the driver of the black colt Seba, that has entered the list this season, and trotted in 2:27½ the first day of the Hill's Grove meeting, has been located at that track this season, and has in his string some particularly good individuals, all of which are well bred. Seba is by Sable Wilkes, 2:18, dam Annie G. (dam of the noted two-year-old trotter, Buffington, 2:20½, and Chris. Lang, 2:26½, to both of which Seba is a full brother); second dam Hannah Price (dam of Lesa Wilkes, 2:11½, Last Chance, 2:26½, and Anita, 2:25½), by Arthurton—Horse Breeder.

ALMONT ARCHY (brother to Le Grande, the San Mateo Stock Farm stallion that died there some years ago) has had one of his daughters, Susie Lee enter the 2:30 list. She got a record of 2:24½ at Forest Park, Missouri, a few days ago.

SPECIFIC FOR

Cracked Heels and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Boot Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a CALLOUS, and will always remove a Callosus when caused from a wound.

It removes all Woreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callosus remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KLAMATH, 2:08½, says: "Have been trying to cure Klamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are uneasy and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:--

FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
SECOND It will not cause headache.
THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton.
FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")

TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE

UNITED STATES SMOKELESS POWDER CO.
No. 13 Pine Street, San Francisco, Cal.

For sale by all dealers in Powder and Sporting Goods.

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

First--It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
Second--It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
Third--It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
Fourth--It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
Fifth--Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
Sixth--Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
Seventh--This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.
Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

Training

The Trotting Horse.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page volume, bound in cloth, elegantly printed and superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm. Mailed postpaid for $5.50. Address

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

Aggravator, Corrine Buckingham, Johnny Capron, Rose Clark and Ali Baba Capture Friday's Races—Wheel of Fortune Breaks the Mile and a Furlong Record for the Coast.

TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY-NINTH DAY—THURSDAY, AUGUST 8.

HE figurers fared fairly well this pleasant, sunshiny afternoon; three favorites, a second choice and one outsider capturing the big end of the purses. A goodly crowd saw some good racing, two of the finishes being quite exciting. May Day was the surprise of the afternoon. He took the last race by a neck with odds of 10 to 1 against him right at post time, being superbly ridden by Coady. Had Ricardo been out of the race Lady Jane would almost assuredly have won. This horse carried the little daughter of Midlothian so fast for more than half a mile that she had nothing left to finish on, Abi P. and May Day easily catching her in the last sixteenth and beating her out. Chevalier rode two winners yesterday in good shape, Piggott, E. Jones and Coady piloting the remainder of the successful ones.

Model, favorite in the first race, won easily by two lengths from De Groat, who got away poorly. Detective finished a fair third. Miss May set the pace, leading until nearing the three-quarter pole.

Gondola, favorite in the second, off first, set the pace, led by two lengths into the homestretch, but quitting in the last sixteenth, was beaten a head for place by Steadfast. Monarch won easily by one and a half lengths.

Nebuchadnezzar, a 3 to 10 shot, experienced no trouble in winning the six and a half furlong race by a length, Ike L., off about last, beating Frondeur a head for the place.

Miss Ruth led nearly every step of the way in the seven-furlong race on the hill, winning by two lengths from the well-played Carmel. Nellie G., who had beaten these horses handily, ran a poor fourth. Her run looked exceedingly strange. There were rumors of a "shoo-in" in this race.

May Day came from behind and won the mile race, last on the programme, by a neck from Abi P. Lady Jane set too lively a pace, carried by Ricardo, otherwise she would have won the big end of the purse.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, five furlongs, selling, had seven starters and Model for a red hot favorite, opening at even money and closing at 4 to 5. De Groat was at 3½ to 1, Detective 4, Wild Rose 15, Gold Dust and San Lucas 20, Miss May 50 to 1. Gold Dust ran off three or four times in the break-aways, delaying matters considerably. Finally the flag fell to a rather ragged start, Miss May, San Lucas, Gold Dust, Model being the order. Miss May and De Groat ran heads apart past the half, three lengths before Model. The latter ran up like a streak and led by a length as they turned for home, De Groat and Miss May heads apart as named. Model, hugging the inner rails, drew away in the straight and won with great ease by two lengths, De Groat second, a length before Detective. Time, 1:02½.

The second race was at five furlongs, selling. Gondola was at 8 to 5, Monarch 11 to 5, Bob Tucker 4 to 1, Wallace 7, Steadfast 8 (backed down from 25), Mary Foster filly and Elair 30 to 1. They got away to a good start, Gondola first, Steadfast second, Monarch next. Gondola led by a trifle over a length at the half, Monarch second, two lengths from Wallace. Into the homestretch Gondola was first by two lengths, Monarch second, three lengths from Bob Tucker, on whom Wallace was lapped. Gondola began quitting badly over a sixteenth from home, Monarch coming on to an easy victory, finishing first by one and a half lengths, Steadfast beating Gondola a head for the place. Time, 1:02½.

Nebuchadnezzar was a 3 to 10 favorite for the third race, six and a half furlongs, selling. Ike L. was at 5 to 1, Frondeur 8, Quarterstaff and Harry Lewis 20, King Sam 100 to 1. They went away to an excellent start, Harry Lewis first, Quarterstaff second, Nebuchadnezzar third. Passing the quarter it was Harry Lewis first by two lengths, Nebuchadnezzar next, one and a half lengths from Quarterstaff. At the half Frondeur had run up third, lapped by Ike L., Quarterstaff having fallen back fifth. Three furlongs from home Nebuchadnezzar had passed to the front, and led by three lengths at the final turn, Frondeur and Ike L. half a length apart, Quarterstaff coming again, close against the inner rails. Nebuchadnezzar was not thereafter headed, winning handily by a length from Ike L., who, driving, beat Frondeur a head for place. Quarterstaff was cut off about a sixteenth from home when he tried to get through. Time, 1:22½.

A seven-furlong race on the hill came next. Miss Ruth closed an even-money favorite, backed down from 2½ to 1. Carmel was at 2 to 1, Nellie G. 3½ (receded from 2 to 1), Ledalia 5 and Alexis 20 to 1. They were delayed a long time by the mulish actions of Carmel. Finally the bunting went down to a good start, Ledalia, Nellie G., Alexis being the order. Miss Ruth led by one and one-half lengths at the quarter, Ledalia and Nellie G. heads apart, two lengths from Carmel. At the half it was Miss Ruth by one and one-half lengths, Nellie G. next, a length before Ledalia, she a head from Carmel, coming fast. At the three quarter pole in the hollow Miss Ruth was leading fully two lengths, Nellie G. and Carmel heads apart, second and third. Miss Ruth struck the top of the hill two lengths to the good, Nellie G. second, a length before Carmel. Nellie G. fell back in the most approved dog fashion, Miss Ruth winning driven out by two lengths, Carmel second, four lengths before Ledalia, who beat Nellie G. a length. Time, 1:33. Nellie G. has run the distance in 1:31½ with the same weight she had up to-day—99 pounds.

The last race was at a mile, selling. Lady Jane was a roaring favorite, closing at 9 to 5. Abi P. was at 2½ to 1. Bobolink was at 8, Bellringer 10, Ricardo 12 (backed from 20), Vernon 15 (60 at one time), Addie M. 20 to 1. They went away to a bad start, for both Bellringer and Addie M. were left standing dead still at the post. Lady Jane was away first, Ricardo second, Abi P. third. At the quarter Lady Jane and Ricardo were head and head, six lengths before Abi P. At the half Lady Jane, being ridden, was a length before Ricardo, he four from Abi P. Lady Jane led by two lengths into the homestretch, Abi P. (having made up a lot of ground) being second, a length before the tiring Ricardo. Lady Jane was beaten a sixteenth from home and May Day was just booming along, coming close to the inner rails. In a fierce drive he got up and won by a neck, Abi P. second, two and a half lengths before Lady Jane, third. Time, 1:42½.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTIETH DAY—FRIDAY, AUGUST 9.

A pretty fair day for the form artists, three favorites, a strongly-played second and third choice getting their noses past the finishing-point first in fine style. A fair crowd came out to see the races, and as there were two hair-raising finishes they went home satisfied that they had secured the worth of their money. The weather appeared to be made to order, a delightful breeze tempering the sun's rays that glinted from an azure sky. The best horse did not win one or two of the races, notably where Johnny Capron beat Addie M. out a short head through the poor finish of Riley on the filly, while it is in no wise certain that Nervoso wouldn't have won had he been on his stride when the flag went down. Piggott carried off the riding honors for the day with a whoop, with three wins and a second to his credit. Chevalier and Hinrichs rode one winner apiece.

Aggravator, hot favorite in the first race, got away none too well, was apparently out of the hunt at the head of the homestretch, but won off easily by three lengths, his homestretch run being truly phenomenal.

Corinne Buckingham, the second race's 2 to 5 favorite, got off last to a flying start, went through her field as if they had gigantic rocks tied to their feet, opened up a gap of five or six lengths, and coming back in the last sixteenth won, out to the last ounce, by a length, Claire second, four lengths from Ichi Ban.

Johnny Capron won the third event by a head through Piggott's good jockeyship and Riley's bad work with Addie M., who should have won by a comfortable margin. Warrago was a bang-up third.

Rose Clark was backed down from 2 to 1 to 6 to 5, but just why she should be made a favorite over Crawford is a profound mystery, in view of the fact that the latter has recently beaten the mare on two occasions. The last time they met in the light welter weight race Crawford (119 pounds) beat Rose Clark (117 pounds) six and a half lengths going five and a half furlongs. These were the weights carried by the pair to-day. Then why the plunge on Clark? She had quite an easy thing of it, as it turned out, winning by two lengths, Crawford just beating Mamie Scott a head for place. This race had an ugly look about it.

Ali Baba, backed from 3 to 1 to 13 to 5, led all the way in the last race and won after a long drawn-out drive by a nose from the favorite, McFarlane, Charmion, who was cut off, a good third.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was for two-year-old maidens, five and a half furlongs. Aggravator went to the post an even-money favorite, after opening at 6 to 5. Irene E. was at 18 to 5, Little Flush filly 5 to 1, Lady Leinster filly 6, Billy McCloskey 7, Don Pio Pico, Benham, Sir Collier and May Jones 50 to 1. They went away to a straggling start, Irene E., Lady Leinster filly and Little Flush filly being the order. Lady Leinster filly led by two lengths past the half, with Don Pio Pico second, lapped by Irene E. Into the homestretch the Lady Leinster filly and Don Pio Pico ran as a team, two lengths before Irene E. The favorite was apparently out of it. Though swerving considerably Don Pio Pico looked a certain winner up to the final seventy yards, where Aggravator was coming like a ghost. He passed his field in a twinkling and won off by three lengths easily, Don Pio Pico second, half a length before Irene E. Time, 1:09½.

The second race, also at five and a half furlongs, had Corinne Buckingham for a sizzling favorite, opening at 1 to 2 and closing at 2 to 5. Imp. Green was at 6 to 1, Claire 7, Ichi Ban 12, Leonatus and Soon Enough 15 to 1. They were sent away to an excellent start, Green, Leonatus, Claire being the order. Corinne Buckingham, who broke from the rear running, was in front in a twinkling. Past the half she led by five lengths, Claire second, a length before Green. The latter began falling out of it nearing the homestretch, into which Buckingham led by four lengths, Claire being second, as far from Ichi Ban. The favorite tired badly in the last sixteenth, Piggott having to ride her out to the last ounce in order to win by a scant length, Claire second, four lengths before Ichi Ban, who beat Green a length. Time, 1:08½—a fairly good run.

The third race, five and one-half furlongs, selling, had eight starters. Addie M. was a well-played favorite, opening at 11 to 5 and closing at 9 to 5. Johnny Capron was at 12 to 5, Sir Walter 3½ to 1, Warrago 9, Auteuil and Josie G. 15, Barcaldine 30 and Cadere 60 to 1. They went away well bunched, Barcaldine first, Josie G. second, Addie M. next. Barcaldine led by a length past the half, Josie G. second, two and a half lengths before Addie M. The latter fell back a trifle three furlongs from home, but came again on the last turn. Here Barcaldine was leading by a head, Josie G. second, two lengths before Johnny Capron. Addie M. came very fast in the homestretch, with Johnny Capron alongside. Addie M. would have won handily with a boy that could finish a bit, but Johnny Capron beat her by a head, Addie M. a neck before Warrago. Time, 1:08½.

Rose Clark was a red-hot favorite, opening at 2 to 1, closing at 6 to 5. Crawford closed at 2 to 1 (backed down from 2½), Nabopolasser 13 to 5, Quarterstaff 6 (backed from 12), Mamie Scott 15 and Hanford 40 to 1. They broke to an excellent send-off, though Rose Clark had a flying start from the rear. She shot to the front and opened up a gap of a couple of lengths, but Piggott took her back, Mamie Scott leading by a head past the half, Nabopolasser second, lapped by Rose Clark, Crawford one and a half lengths further away. Mamie Scott led into the homestretch by a length, Rose Clark second under a pull, three lengths before Nabopolasser, Crawford fourth. Rose Clark passed Mamie Scott about eighty yards of the finish and won with ease by two lengths, Crawford coming like a shot and snatching the place in the last stride by a head from Mamie Scott. Time, 1:13.

The last race was a six-furlong handicap. McFarlane was a red-hot favorite, opening at 2½ to 1, closing in most books at 9 to 5. Nervoso was at 11 to 5, Ali Baba 13 to 5 (backed from 3 to 1), Charming 5½ to 1, imp. Ivy 40. They broke to a good start for all but Nervoso, who was not on his stride and was soon out of the hunt. Ali Baba was first away, Charming second, Ivy third. Past the half it was a bunch of horseflesh, with Nervoso about three lengths away. Ali Baba was first by his head, Charming, McFarlane and Ivy following, heads apart. Into the homestretch Ali Baba led by a head, McFarlane second, two lengths from Nervoso. There was a great drive all the way down the homestretch, shouts going up for McFarlane. He could never get and keep his head in front of Ali Baba's, however, the latter winning by the scantest of noses, McFarlane a length from Charming, third, she two lengths from Nervoso, who would have been very close to the money with an even break. Time, 1:14.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-FIRST DAY—SATURDAY, AUGUST 3.

A Coast record of long standing was crushed this afternoon. It was at a mile and an eighth, and Wheel of Fortune, daughter of Gano and Jennie B., by Glenelg, owned by Joe Harvey, was the crusher. The former record was 1:54, made by the old gray John Treat on the 31st of August, 1891, with 110 pounds up. Treat was eight years old at the time. Wheel of Fortune is a chestnut filly three years of age. Ridden by Eddie Jones, and carrying ninety-eight pounds, she led throughout, winning rather handily by one and one-half lengths from the game little favorite, Flirtilla. The performance shows that California thoroughbreds are not lacking in endurance as well as speed. Taken all in all, it was a great day's sport, there being two thrilling finishes and several races that were exciting. Not a long shot won during the afternoon, the big end of the purses going to four favorites and two second choices. The talent therefore fared exceedingly well. The successful riders were Chevalier, L. Lloyd, Hinrichs, Eddie Jones, Charley Weber and Hennessy. All rode well, the showing of C. Weber and Hennessy being especially noteworthy.

Gonzalez Maid, favorite in the first race, champion "dog" affair of a long season, led from flag-fall to finish, winning with quite a bit to spare, Suro, in a tropical drive, beating Ladameo out a neck for the place.

The second race was the first right over again, in that Tim Murphy, the first choice, got away first, led at all points and won galloping by two lengths. Road Runner came up in the gamest fashion at the finish, beating Gold Bug out two lengths for the place.

Grady led in the two-year-old race until within a few yards of the finish, where Jack came up with a great flourish and won on the post by a nose, Grady second, a head before the favorite, Heartsease, who probably needed a race, or she would have won. It was a good handicap.

Wheel of Fortune led all the way in the mile and a furlong handicap, and won by one and a half lengths in new record time, 1:53½, Claudius finishing a fair third.

Little Pete commanded the fourth brigade of runners to the last sixteenth, where Hello, the favorite, got up and won handily by two lengths, Bob Tucker being beaten but a neck for place.

Gold Dust set a hot pace in the two mile hurdle race and was not caught until within sixty yards of the finish by Mestor, who won by three parts of a length, J. O. C. a poor third. Gold Dust carried nine pounds over, otherwise he would have won.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, five furlongs, selling, had eight starters. Gonzalez Maid was a well-played favorite, backed down from 2½ to 2 to 1. Ontario was at 3½, Orondo heavily played at 5, Suro and Ladameo 7, Deadhead 12, Tyrena 20 and Dr. Gardner 40 to 1. They went away to a good send-off, Gonzalez Maid, Ladameo, Tyrena the order. Gonzalez Maid led by two lengths past the half, Tyrena next, a head before Suro. The order was the same clear into the homestretch. The leader was not headed, winning easily by two and a half lengths, Suro in a hard drive beating Ladameo a neck for the place. Ontario was fourth, three lengths further away. Time, 1:03.

In the second race, five furlongs, selling, Tim Murphy was a lukewarm favorite, opening at 3 to 5, closing at 4 to 5. Seraphin was at 4½ to 1, Gold Bug 5 and well played, Joe Cotton 8 (opened at 10), Royal Spirit 15 and Road Runner 50 to 1. They got away well bunched, Tim Murphy, Seraphin, Road Runner the order. Murphy, Kathleen and Seraphin ran half lengths apart as named past the half-pole, three lengths before Gold Bug. The old roan made his lead two lengths by the time the three-quarter pole was reached, Seraphin, Gold Bug and Kathleen running heads apart, Road Runner well up. Tim was not headed, winning with great ease by two lengths from Road Runner, who came through like a true race horse and got the place, two lengths before Gold Bug, who beat Seraphin a head for the show. Time, 1:01.

A two-year-old handicap, about six furlongs, brought six to the post. Heartsease opened at 7 to 5 and closed at 4 to 5. Grady and Joe K. were at 3 to 1, Catherine the First 5, Veragua 15 and Lady Melbourne 60 to 1. Lady Melbourne threw little Jack Ward and hurt his foot a little. They were sent away without her to a fair start, Joe K., Heartsease and Veragua being the first three. Grady led by a neck past the half, Veragua second, a length before Heartsease, who was leading Joe K. a head. Grady turned into the homestretch two lengths to the good, Heartsease second, a like distance before Joe K. Catherine the First was making up ground fast, after falling out of it. Grady looked a winner up to the final sixteenth, where Joe K. was coming like a shot, as was Heartsease. The trio bunched up fifty yards of the finish, Joe K. winning in the last stride by a scant nose, with Heartsease third, a head further away. Time, 1:13½.

A mile and an eighth handicap had four starters. Flirtilla was a 9 to 10 favorite, Wheel of Fortune at 3 to 1, Charmer 4½ and Claudius 5 to 1. They went away well aligned, Charmer showing first, Claudius next, Wheel of Fortune third. The Wheel led by a neck past the stand, and by two lengths at the quarter-pole, Charmer second, a length before Flirtilla. At the half Wheel of Fortune was two lengths to the good, Flirtilla second, a head before Charmer, who quit badly in the next eighth. The Gano mare increased her lead to three lengths going to the homestretch, Flirtilla being second, two lengths before Claudius. Flirtilla came up very fast in the homestretch, but a little less than a sixteenth from home she swerved toward the inner rails, losing some ground, Wheel of Fortune coming on and winning rather handily by one and a half lengths, Flirtilla second, two lengths before Claudius. The time, 1:53½, was a cut of a quarter of a second in the Coast record at the distance, held for several years by the gray horse, John Treat.

A five furlong race for maidens brought eight to face the starter. Hello opened at 2 to 1 and closed at even money, being played very hard. Uncle Giles was at 4 to 1, Bob Tucker and Yreka 5, Sinbad 12, Little Pete 20, Miss May 30 and Spendthrift 200 to 1. They went away to a fair start, Hello first, Little Pete second, Bob Tucker third—the way they finished. At the half-mile mark Little Pete was leading by half a length, Hello, Bob Tucker and Yreka close together. Little Pete led into the homestretch by a length, Yreka being second, lapped by Hello. Little Pete held his own away down the straight, and it looked dubious for a few moments, but Charley Weber sent Hello along, and catching the Colusa-county gelding about a sixteenth from home, Hello came away and won handily at the finish by two lengths, Little Pete beating Bob Tucker a neck for the place. Time, 1:02½. The books were hit pretty hard on this race.

The last event was a handicap hurdle race at two miles, over eight obstacles. Mestor went to the post a red-hot first choice, backed from 2 to 1 down to 6 to 5. J. O. C. was at 2, The Lark 3, Gold Dust 5 and Yangedine 6 to 1. Jasper Madison, a superb rider on the flat, had the mount on J. O. C., and was applauded as he came out on the track on the gelding's back. Going away to a good start, Gold Dust went right to the front, opening up a gap of six lengths in the first quarter, J. O. C. and Yangedine running a length apart as named behind him, Mestor and The Lark together, several lengths away. Gold Dust dwelt a little at the third fence, losing about three lengths. He went away again, however, switching his tail, and taking gigantic strides. J. O. C. made his move when a mile and a quarter had been traversed, but could not reach Gold Dust, whom it looked impossible to head. Mestor just galloped along in a listless sort of style until half a mile of home, where Hennessy called on him. Gold Dust led into the homestretch by three lengths, Mestor second now, half a length before J. O. C. At the last fence Gold Dust's advantage had not simmered down a bit, but tiring in the last sixteenth, Mestor caught him in the last sixty yards and beat him home three parts of a length very cleverly, Gold Dust second, four lengths before J. O. C. Time, 3:49½.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-SECOND DAY—TUESDAY, AUGUST 13.

This was one of those days where the talent laugh a loud "ha-ha" at the expense of ye generous bookie. This was owing to the fact that horses ran to form almost from beginning to end, three decided favorites capturing races, one that divided favoritism and one long shot that should not have been a long shot. Charming at last won a race for her popular owner, Dan Miller, and this met with favor from nearly everyone that knew how chary Dame Fortune has been of late about bestowing her smiles on the plucky little turfman. Model is improving with every race, and the way she ran rings around her field from the rear denotes that the little filly is going to be pretty dangerous in any company from this time out. Little Bob's victory hurt the pencilers considerably. The son of Surinam and Daisy S. had about all he could attend to, however, Charmer, Frondur and Bellringer being right at his heels at the finish and during the progress of the race. Piggott rode two winners and a second out of four mounts he had, Peoples, Chevalier and E. Jones piloting the others to victory.

Soon Enough, at 12 and even 15 to 1 in the betting, made a runaway race of the first, leading by six lengths turning for home and finishing first by that distance, Red Will coming strong at the finish and beating Tom Clarke out a scant length for the place. Lee Stanly got away poorly, and ran rings around everything but Soon Enough, but in the homestretch the effort told on him, and he was not one-two-three at the finish.

Belle Boyd, favorite, led from "end to end" in the second race, winning after a hard drive by two lengths, Josephine nipping the place by a scant neck from Aggravator. Cheripe ran prominently until well in the homestretch.

Model, a 4 to 5 favorite in the third event, came from behind, and well ridden by Chevalier, won easily by one and a half lengths, Monarch, Gondola and Detective finishing in a close bunch as named.

Charmion, away about fourth, got to the front in the first fifty yards, led into the homestretch by two lengths and won by four, Ali Baba, driving, beating Fred Gardner out a short head for the place.

Little Bob, equal favorite with Charmer in the last race, ran second most of the way to the homestretch to Bellringer, then came on and won ridden out by one and a half lengths, Charmer beating Frondur a scant head for the place, with Tillie S. close up.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, selling, five furlongs, had nine starters. Tom Clarke was the favorite at 3 to 2. Lee Stanly was at 4½ to 1, Gonzales Maid and Auteuil 7, Red Will 10, Soon Enough 12, Connaught 30, Maggie R. Smith 40 and Cadeau 75 to 1. Cadeau ran away several times, once over five furlongs. They were delayed at the post for about fifteen minutes and finally the flag fell to a ragged start, Auteuil, Soon Enough, Connaught being the order. Soon Enough at once sailed to the fore, leading by three lengths at the half, Auteuil second, two lengths in front of Red Will. Into the homestretch Soon Enough was six lengths to the good, Lee Stanly second, a head before Auteuil. Soon Enough was not headed, winning off with ease by six lengths, Red Will second, a length before Tom Clarke. Red Will came strong at the finish. Time, 1:02½.

A two-year-old five and a half furlong selling race came next. Belle Boyd was a favorite, but not a hot one, opening at 8 to 5 and closing at 2 to 1. Aggravator was at 3 and 3½ to 1, City Girl 4, Josephine 5½, Jack Atkins 10 (backed down from 15), Suffrage 40 to 1. They got away quickly to a fine start, Belle Boyd first, Cheripe second, Jack Atkins third at the fall of the flag. Belle Boyd, Cheripe and Josephine ran lengths apart as named passing the half. Belle Boyd held her home to the homestretch, notwithstanding Cheripe's efforts to get up. Aggravator and Josephine were coming up fast. The latter tried to get through against the inner rails and pass the favorite about eighty yards of home, but Piggott kept Belle Boyd going, and she won driving by two lengths, Josephine beating Aggravator out a short neck for place in a fierce drive, Cheripe fourth, two lengths further away. Time, 1:09.

Model was a well played favorite, opening at 6 to 5, closing at 4 to 5. Warrago was at 3½ to 1, Monarch and Rogation 9, Detective, Josie G. and Gondola 25, Tamalpais 150 to 1. They broke to a good start, Warrago first, Detective next, Gondola third. Model was about the last to get moving. At the half Monarch led by a length, Josie G. second, a head before Rogation. Into the homestretch it was Monarch first by a length, Josie G., Warrago, Detective and Model heads apart as named. Model came through on the outside in the straight and won with ease by one and one-half lengths, Monarch second, a head before Gondola, she a nose before Detective. Warrago was cut off coming down, or she would have been close up to the front. Time, 1:02½.

The fourth race was a seven-furlong handicap with six starters. Charming was a hot favorite, opening at even money, closing at 4 to 5. Fred Gardner was next in demand at 2½ to 1 (opened at 4), Ali Baba 5, Howard 12, Sir Walter 25 and Haymarket 150. They got away to a fair start, Howard, Ali Baba, Sir Walter, Charming being the order. Charming, well on her stride, sailed past her opponents and led past the quarter by two lengths, Howard second, lapped by Ali Baba. The order was the same at the half-mile ground, though Howard was leading Ali Baba a length. Turning for home Charming was still two lengths to the good, Howard still second, as far from Ali Baba. Charming increased her lead to four lengths, winning easily by that distance, Ali Baba just beating Fred Gardner a scant head for the place in a drive. Time, 1:27½. Gardner showed himself a pretty good sort of horse, for the first time out in weeks, running the seven furlongs fully as good as a 1:23.

The last race was at a mile, a selling event with seven starters. Charmer and Little Bob closed equal favorites at 2 to 1, the last named being played very heavily along toward post-time. Tillie S. was at 4 to 1, Frondur 8, Bellringer 10, Adelante 40 and Bobolink 50 to 1. There was a great deal of kicking and general bad acting at the post. Finally the flag was lowered to a fair start for all but Bobolink, one of the chief aggravators. Charmer showed first, Little Bob second and Bellringer third. Bellringer went out into the lead on the first turn, showing two and one-half lengths to the good at the quarter, Tillie S. and Little Bob lapped. Bob went up second in the next furlong, Bellringer leading past the half by one and one-half lengths. Turning for home it was Bellringer first by a length, Little Bob second and steadily creeping up on the leader, Charmer third, another length away. A furlong from home Little Bob passed Bellringer, and, ridden out, won by one and one-half lengths from Charmer, who poked her nose out just in time to beat Frondur for the place, Bellringer but a scant half length further away. Time, 1:42½.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-THIRD DAY—WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 14.

Some interesting racing was had at the old Bay District track this afternoon, and a fairly good crowd was out to see it. The fields were of fair size, the betting lively. The talent fared excellently, two second choices and three favorites winning in fine style. The bookies probably did well on just about one race, that being the second. A "good thing" was cut loose in the first in the Flambeau-Gerhardine colt, Benham, who opened at 12 to 1 and was speedily cut down to 3½ to 1. Bloomsbury was another fairly well-played article, and he won driving by his head from the top-weight, Heartsease, favorite in the race. The weather was pleasant in the early part of the afternoon, but it got too chilly for comfort as time wore on. The successful jockeys were Hennessy, Sloane, Hinrichs, L. Lloyd and E. Jones, all doing good work in the saddle. The finishes in the first two races were most exciting.

A hot article was sprung in the first race—Benham, a good-looking Flambeau colt that opened at 12 to 1 and closed at 3½ to 1 in most boxes. Bell Oak led until near the finish, when Benham, game as a pebble, passed her and won by a scant length, Don Pio Pico but a head behind Bell Oak.

Bloomshury, also well-played, won from Heartsease by a head quite cleverly, Gratify (a new 'un from the Westchester Stable) third, two lengths off. Riot led for part of the journey. Virgie A. did not show her usual speed, and it was reported that she was worked out five furlongs in the morning in 1:00½. If this be so, no wonder she had no foot this afternoon.

Red Bird, made a 4 to 5 favorite in the third race, led all the way and won with ease by two and a half lengths, Durango just heating Johnny Capron a nose for place. It was rumored that Red Dick had his speed "in soak." He didn't show any of it to-day.

Tim Murphy, as good as 2 to 1 in the hetting for all you wanted, ran rings around his field and won galloping by nearly two lengths, Gold Bug heating McFarlane half a length for place. There was considerable humping done coming down the homestretch.

Wheel of Fortune, away last to a poor start and apparently beaten at the half-pole, won under the whip in gamest fashion by two lengths, Arnette heating the pacemaker, Ivy, three parts of a length.

How the Races Were Run.

Ten maiden two-year-olds came out in the opening race, four and a half furlongs. Cheripe closed a favorite at 16 to 5. Benham was at 3½ and 4 to 1 (opened at 12), Bell Oak 5, Don Pio Pico, Lady Leinster filly and Irene E. 6, Ollie M. 10, Suwarrow—Jonglouse filly 15, May Jones 60 and Sir Collier 80 to 1. They broke to a good start, Irene E. first, Benham second, Bell Oak next and well on her stride. Bell Oak and Benham ran almost as one animal clear into the homestretch, the former's head just in front, Don Pio Pico at their heels. Shaw went to the bat on Bell Oak over a sixteenth of a mile from home, but Benham was not to be denied, winning in a fierce drive by a scant length, Bell Oak lasting long enough to heat Don Pio Pico a head for the place. Time, 0:56½.

Heartsease went to the post a favorite at 7 to 5. Bloomshury was at 3 to 1, Virgie A. 5, Tiberius 6, Riot 8, Gratify 40 and Clara Johnson 100 to 1. Bloomshury, Virgie A., Heartsease was the order to a good start. Riot led by a head past the half-pole, Heartsease second, one and one-half lengths before Virgie, who was not showing her great speed. Heartsease, Riot and Bloomshury ran heads apart into the homestretch, Virgie A. half a length further away. Bloomshury and Heartsease drew away in the final eighth and fought it out to the finish, the former winning rather cleverly by a head. Heartsease second, two lengths before Gratify, who made a good stretch run. Tiberius was a head behind Gratify. Time, 1:02.

The third race was at five furlongs, selling. Red Bird was a hot favorite, opening at 6 to 5, closing at 4 to 5. Red Dick and Durango were at 5 to 1, Ledalia 7, O'Bee 20, Johnny Capron 50, Regal and Lodi 100 to 1. They got away well hunched, O'Bee first, Red Bird second, Red Dick third. Red Bird went to the front without any ceremony, leading past the half by one and a half lengths, Durango second, half a length before O'Bee. Red Dick, going easy, led into the homestretch by a length, Durango second now, a length before O'Bee. Red Dick showed none of his well-known speed. Red Bird drew away steadily in the homestretch, winning with great ease by two and a half lengths, Durango being awarded the place, though Johnny Capron seemed to get it in the last stride. Time, 1:01½.

Tim Murphy was a favorite in the fourth race, five furlongs, but not a hot one, opening at 6 to 5 and closing at 2 to 1. McFarlane was at 13 to 5, Nervoso 5 to 1, Gold Bug 5½, Silver State 6½, Seraphin 20 to 1. They went away to an excellent send-off, Gold Bug showing first, Seraphin second, Nervoso third. At the half Seraphin, Gold Bug and McFarlane ran heads apart as named. Tim Murphy ran rings around his field going to the homestretch. Turning for home the old roan fellow was two lengths to the good, Nervoso second, half a length before McFarlane. Murphy took things easy the rest of the journey, winning by not quite two lengths, Gold Bug coming with a hot rush at the finish, getting the place by half a length from McFarlane. Time, 1:01½. There was a long delay over deciding this race, Hinrichs and Tod Sloane claiming foul against Piggott, who rode McFarlane.

The last race was at seven furlongs, a handicap. Wheel of Fortune opened at 3 to 5 and closed at 7 to 10. Arnette was at 11 to 5, Tillie S. 6 to 1 (hacked down from 8), imp. Ivy 15 and Malo Diablo 50 to 1. After quite a long delay at the post, the flag fell to a poor start, Ivy first, Tillie S. second and Arnette third. Wheel of Fortune, the favorite, was away last. Ivy led by a length at the quarter, Arnette second, two lengths before the Wheel, who had made a rapid run. Past the half it was Ivy first by half a length, Arnette second, two lengths from Wheel of Fortune. Shouts went up that the favorite was beaten, but she moved up again like a true racer, and when the turn for home was made Ivy was still half a length to the good, Arnette second, a length from Wheel of Fortune, coming close to the inner rail. The latter drew past Arnette and Ivy, but Jones was at the hat over a sixteenth from home. Gamely the Wheel responded, winning a gallantly-run race by two lengths, Arnette second, three parts of a length before Ivy. Time, 1:27½.

Something New.

A new feature in the Souther Farm sale will be several good sets of clothing, including light sweat blankets, linseys, hoods, fly-nets, surcingles; also two sets of McKerron harness. A good opportunity to get such outfits at auction prices.

NATHAN COOMBS, the well-known Napa farmer and horse-breeder, died last Wednesday and was buried from the home of his brother, Hon. Frank L. Coombs, on Friday, August 9th. Nathan Coombs was a son of the famous owner of Lodi and was well-known and much liked in this State, which had always been his home. He was a member of Napa Parlor, N. S. G. W., under whose auspices he was buried. An immense concourse of people followed his remains to the cemetery.

THE NAPA FAIR RACES.

Jasper Ayres Wins After Six Good Heats Had, Been Trotted—Roan Wilkes and Sir Derby Victorious—Good Racing and Excellent Attendance.

FIRST DAY—MONDAY, AUGUST 12.

This was the opening day of the Napa race meeting, and the directors decided to have a free gate. The attendance, therefore, was excellent, every seat in the grand stand being occupied, while along the fences hundreds of people were seen waiting for the races to begin. Carriages, huggies, huckboards, and, in fact, vehicles of every kind were as thickly wedged in along the fences on the outside of the track and in the infield opposite the grand stand, the occupants vieing with their light-colored dresses their fair sisters who were in the stand where the sun's rays could not penetrate. A splendid band or music—the Hungarian band—discoursed all the familiar airs of the day, and the music was delightful.

President C. L. La Rue acted as presiding judge, his associates being W. H. Graham and W. Finlaw. The timers were F. W. Corey, J. Phippen and F. Frazier.

The opening race of the meeting was for the 2:40 class trot. There were eight contestants. Senora, Robin, Lady Grace, Lady Thornhill, Maria P. Prince Ira, Jasper Ayres and Bonnie Ben. Jasper Ayres, ably driven by Jack Perkins, captured the two first heats in impressive style, Lady Grace being the contending trotter. Time, 2:18½ and 2:19.

In the third heat Jasper made a disastrous break and fell back. Bonnie Ben won this heat in 2:18, with Jasper, who had regained his gait, a close second. Bonnie Ben had to trot in 2:17½ to win the next heat from him, with Maria P. a dangerous contestant, only a length behind.

Prince Ira won the next heat in 2:19½, Bonnie B. second, Lady Thornhill third, Maria P. fourth and the favorite last.

There were only three horses to appear for the next heat—Jasper Ayres, Bonnie Ben and Prince Ira. Prince Ira was leading, but at the head of the homestretch he broke badly, and Alviso, his driver, had to run him down past the flag in order to get in. Jasper Ayres won the heat and race in 2:26, Bonnie Ben second and Prince Ira third. On making an examination it was ascertained that Prince Ira, when he broke, severed one of the arteries in his foreleg, and this injury will prevent him from being trained for some time.

The 2:25 pace, the second event carded, was the medium of some heavy plunging, the talent trying to play even for their losses on the first race. The field was installed favorite before the first heat, selling for $30 against $16 for Hal Corbett, who was driven by that master reinsman, Tom Keating. Roan Wilkes took the race in straight heats with little trouble, as Corbett acted badly throughout the race and had to be contented with second money.

There was little hetting on the 2:40 district trot for three-year-olds, it being considered a "pipe" for Sir Derby, who justified the good opinion of his backers by winning in straight heats.

SECOND DAY—TUESDAY, AUGUST 13TH.

The second day's racing saw a large crowd in attendance. Mr. Frank Covey, of the Palo Alto Stock Farm, acted as presiding judge, Mr. Corrigan, the well-known Montana horseman, taking his place in the timers' stand. The talent had a hard day of it, as both favorites in the betting races were downed in straight heats, the only favorite to get first money being the winner of the gentlemen's road race in which Vida shut out her field in the second heat. The first race on the programme was the 2:20 class nomination trot, in which Boodle was a consistent favorite throughout. Visalia, who was ably driven by J. Perkins, furnished the surprise by winning in three straight heats. She took the first two heats in an easy manner, but looked to be hopelessly beaten in the third, as fifth position was the best she could get entering the stretch. She came very fast, however, in the last quarter and threading her way through the field, won in a terrific drive by a head from Boodle, who was straining every nerve to win the heat and save his backers' money.

The 2:20 pace furnished another surprise to the talent as Golden West, who sold for $25 against $6 for the field, did not get a heat, although the judges substituted Lafferty for Nelson in the third heat. Dictatus set a very fast pace in the first heat, carrying the favorite to the half in 1:05½, then Prince Nutwood took command, and never headed, won the heat in fast time. The second and third heats were repetitions except that Dictatus, who was driven by Bunch, broke his harness in the third and came under the wire third, driving with one hand and holding the broken harness with the other.

The was no hetting on the gentlemen's road race. Vida winning in two straight and flagging her field in the second heat.

THIRD DAY—WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 14.

The attendance was excellent, and an array of bicycle riders proved a drawing card, for hundreds of enthusiasts, male and female, passed within the gates of the race course. At 1:30 the band played an overture and the judges—F. W. Covey, M. S. Severance and Jas. Rea—called up the horses for the first race. The track was better than it has been since the meeting commenced, and as the weather was delightful everyone anticipated a good afternoon's enjoyment, and they were not disappointed for the sport was remarkable, and I doubt if there was ever such closely contested races as the two that were decided. The gameness of the money-winners was wonderful, and great praise should be given the drivers and conditioners for the splendid exhibitions they gave to-day. Marchand, Keating, Hodges, Durfee, Delano and Carrigan excelled all their former efforts, and the following account of the races will show that while the Eastern horses may be accomplishing wonders the Californians do not suffer by comparison.

The horses to appear in the first race which was for the 2:24 class trotters were: Charivari, Lady O, Ethel Downes, Los Angeles and Bishop Hero. Pools sold Ethel Downes $20, field $6.

The start was an excellent one, Lady O. and Ethel Downes taking the lead. The former was half a length in front at the quarter. Going down the backstretch Ethel passed up and like a team the two mares trotted to the middle of the back turn. Then Ethel fell back and Lady O. won the heat easily by two lengths. Bishop Hero was third, four lengths behind Los Angeles, Charivari last. Time, 2:18.

Poo's shifted before the next heat, Ethel Downes selling for $8 against the field at $15. Ethel Downes took the pole away from Lady O. at the eighth pole, but Marchand brought Lady O. around Ethel and passed to the front, the favorite breaking at the quarter and falling back to last position. Los Angeles tried to get up on even terms with Lady O., but the latter was too speedy, for she jogged under the wire in 2:21 two lengths ahead of her, Bishop Hero third, Ethel Downes fourth and Charivari last. Ethel Downes took the lead and opened a gap of seven lengths. Lady O. got in a pocket behind Bishop Hero and Charivari, and had to go on the outside of them to get through. She struggled gamely for the lead, but the advantage Ethel Downes had was too much, for she could not get nearer than three lengths of her as the black daughter of Boodle passed under the wire in 2:21½, Los Angeles third, Bishop Hero fourth and Charivari last.

Pools sold: Ethel Downes $12, field $10. Ethel Downes captured the next heat in 2:18½. Lady O. was half a length behind her all the way. Los Angeles broke at the quarter-pole and was distanced. Bishop Hero came in third, Charivari fourth.

Ethel Downes proved herself to be a game daughter of a game sire, for she trotted the next heat as if she had not been out before this afternoon. Lady O. could not catch her from start to finish, so she came in a winner by two lengths in 2:20, Los Angeles third and Charivari last.

The winner of this race is a beautiful five-year-old black mare, and was the second foal sired by the great Boodle, 2:17. Her dam was by Nutwood, 2:18½, and her second dam was by Williamson's Belmont. She is owned by two San Jose gentlemen, G. K. Hostetter and T. S. Montgomery, and has been leased to Messrs. Winship & Keating. She is a remarkable mare, for she has only started in three races. She won the first last fall; was second in her race at Vallejo last week, and to-day got a mark of 2:18½ in the fourth heat. She met with an accident in the spring of this year, and cut her hock to the bone on a wire fence. This incapacitated her from being trained. On the 19th of July, not quite a month ago, she was hitched to a bike sulky for the first time, and her driver, Thos. Keating, has a right to feel proud of the excellent way in which she has shown her ability to fight every heat of every race from wire to wire. Under his careful tuition there is no doubt she will be one of the most dangerous aspirants for first money in the two-mile race for which she is entered at the coming State Fair at Sacramento. Mr. Keating drove her with good judgment in her race to-day, and demonstrated his ability to make a good finish when deemed necessary to win.

The second event on the programme was the 2:24 trot. There were twelve entries, but Miss Jessie, the handsome daughter of Gossiper, met with an accident while being given a work-out, and was scratched. The following came for the word: Carrie C., Sidney Howard, Stamboulette, Our Seth, Stella, Auditor, Silver King, Lottie, Stam B. Zombro and Dr. Puff. Pools sold Zombro $25, Stam B. $14, field $8. Judge Covey sent the big field away in excellent style, Zombro and Lottie leading, Dr. Puff third and the rest soon spread out over the track. Stam B. was seen to be moving up from sixth position, and as Zombro broke and fell back Dr. Puff, with Lottie second, led the way, but Stam B. passed them in the homestretch and won by two lengths from Dr. Puff in 2:19½, Zombro third, Lottie fourth, Stamboulette fifth, Sidney How-

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

OTTINGER, 2:11½, trotting, has a pacing mark of 2:22½.

THE Petaluma race meeting next week will be a good one.

ALL of the McKinnys that are in training are in the 2:20 list.

JOHN A. GOLDSMITH is looking better and is improving rapidly.

MONROE SALISBURY has been working Directly and Arthur J. to pole.

WORK on the new buildings at the Oakland track will commence at once.

EL RAMI, 2:14, is a very high-class four-year-old. He is one of the hobbled brigade.

TILTON THORNE, by Hawthorne, got a record of 2:27½ at Coldwater, Mich., August 2d.

CONDUCTOR, by Electioneer, lowered his record to 2:14½ at Galesburg, Ill., August 7th.

NORVADINE, by Norval, won his race at Terre Haute August 5th. Time, 2:21½, 2:19½, 2:18½.

BE SURE won the 2:14 pace at Terre Haute last Saturday in three heats—2:06½, 2:09½ and 2:08½.

WALDO J., 2:10, Chehalis, 2:12½, and Seymour Wilkes, 2:12, are getting close to Diablo's 2:09½ mark.

KEELER, 2:13½, now ten years of age, sire of Onoqua, 4, 2:09, is the youngest living sire of a 2:10 trotter.

H. & I. PIERCE will send a number of very choice trotters to the auction sale next Wednesday, August 21st.

ALDEN GOLDSMITH is in Poughkeepsie with Elph, 2:24½, by Steinway, and Thelma and Mountain Maid, 2:22½.

BAY RUM, a bay mare by Steinway, out of May, by Anteeo, 2:16½, got a record of 2:25½ at Vallejo, last Thursday.

ELECTROPHIL, a two-year-old by Electrite (son of Electioneer), lowered his record to 2:25½ at Joliet, Ill., August 2d.

COLERIDGE and Fido are the fastest of the pacers that have this season reduced their records, both being tagged 2:05½.

LOGAN, a bay colt by McDonald Chief, out of a mare of unknown breeding, got a record of 2:30 at Vallejo on Thursday last.

If two blankets are put on a wet horse the moisture will soon collect in the outer one, which may be removed, leaving the horse dry.

DUDLEY, by Anteros got third money in the race won by Bight Regent at Cleveland, Ohio, July 30th. He was only beaten a neck in 2:11½.

KATRINA BELL, by St. Bel, lowered her record to 2:16½ at Galesburg, Ill., August 7th. The second generation of the Electioneer family is hard to excel.

THE Richard's Elector gelding, Joslyn, alias J. R. is in the stable of Frank Jackson, at Belmont course, Philadelphia, and it is said can beat his record away off.

FOUR new standard performers that have beaten 2:20 are out of Nutwood mares, viz., Red Nutting, 2:13; Fred Kohl, 3, 2:15; Leonatus, 2:17½, and Queen Lil, p., 4, 2:18.

PRINCE IRA, 2:19½, by Dexter Prince, was badly injured at Napa, Monday, one of the arteries being severed in his hind leg. It will be some time before he will be fit to work.

FIDOL is a wonder. He won the 2:10 pace last Saturday at the Terre Haute track in three heats. Time, 2:04½, 2:07½ and 2:05½. Knocking, knocking at the two-minute door!

LAURA M., the fast daughter of Almont Patchen, threw out her stifle at Vallejo last Monday and will not be able to start in races for weeks. C. H. Corey, her owner, is in hard luck.

BUDD DOBLE is said to have entered into a long time contract to train the winners in the stable of Lucky Baldwin. He will enter upon his new duties at the close of the trotting season.

ARENA, 2:11½, b.s., by Alcantara, dam by General Knox, was sold at Morris, Ill., August 7, by J. W. Knox, of Trenton, N. J., to George Brown, of the Kalamazoo Stock Farm, for $6,000.

THE Chicago Horsemen gives Jimmie Hague's breeding as follows: By Antevolo, dam by Daniel Lambert. His time in the race he won in straight heats at Terre Haute is 2:15, 2:15½, 2:15½.

J. PERKINS of Visalia is accomplishing wonders with his little string of trotters this season. With Jasper Ayres and Visalia he seems to be able to get money in every race he starts them.

ANGIE D., 2:07, the fastest pacing mare of the year, and holder of the pacing record for mares as well, was sired by Mikagan, 2:19½, son of Onward, and out of a mare by a horse called Tom Belair.

ARRANGEMENTS are being perfected by means of which Robert J., 2:01½, and Alix, 2:03½, will be exhibited on the track at the New York State Fair, which takes place at Syracuse, August 26th to 31st.

J. J. BOWEN, who drove Tomah to his record, 2:10½, is the first man that ever drove a trotter a mile in 2:15½. The trotter was Joe Elliott, then owned by Robert Bonner, and the mile was over Mystic Park track.

THE nine-year-old stallion Hummer, by Electioneer, dam Edith, by George Wilkes, is now represented by two four-year-olds in the 2:12 class—Stately, 2:11½, and Bouncer, 2:12. The latter won a great race at Detroit, defeating such horses as Altao, 2:11; Geneva, 2:11½, and other fast ones, and proved her gameness by trotting the fourth, seventh and eighth heats in 2:12, 2:13½, 2:14½.

DIRECTLY, 3, by Direct, 2:05½, record reduced from 2:07½ to 2:07½, and Coleridge, by C. F. Clay, 2:18, record reduced from 2:09½ to 2:09½, are the only previous 2:10 pacers that have taken new marks this season.

In the printed report of the Vallejo races of last Thursday an injustice was done. J. Perkins, driver of Jasper Ayres, did not foul Stam B. in the third heat. Stam B. fouled Jasper Ayres and was set back to last position. The decision of the judges gave satisfaction.

WILTON, 2:29½, and Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, both sons of Geo. Wilkes, gained places in the list of sires of 2:10 performers last week. Wilton's representatives are Moquette, 2:10, and Vera Capel, n., 2:07½ (new), and Guy Wilkes' Hulda, 2:08½, and Lesa Wilkes, 2:09 (new).

THE news of the serious accident to that prince of drivers, Walter Mahen, will be read with regret by everyone who has ever seen or heard of him. The surgeons say the dislocation of the shoulder is a serious one and will prevent him from driving horses for several months.

COUNSELLOR CRAWFORD and Orrin A. Hickok lost a sack of money betting that Hulda would defeat Azote at Cleveland, July 31st. Although she trotted a wonderful race for a mare as badly injured as she was last year the great son of Whips was a little too much for her.

OUR LUCKY, the bay stallion by Rajah, out of a mare by Gibraltar, that Walter Mahen won the 2:40 trotting race with at Vallejo last Wednesday, and gave him a record of 2:22, is owned by J. Starr, of Los Angeles. He lowered this record to 2:21½ two days after at the same meeting.

IRA RYERSON is at the Poughkeepsie track with Stamboul, 2:07½, Cienega, a two-year-old by Alcantara, Wera, five-year-old by Stamboul, that can show you a 2:20 shot now, and is expected to do 2:15 this season, and Nival, a two-year-old by Kremlin, 2:07½, that has lots of stuff that is good.

SECRETARIES say that Monroe Salisbury is the most satisfactory man to do business with now on the trotting turf. He asks no favors, trots his horses to win and never makes a kick without just cause. He makes prompt settlements of all indebtedness and expects similar treatment in return.

HULDA's defeat by Azote at Cleveland last week enhanced her reputation rather than otherwise. That the beautiful Guy Wilkes mare, after her accident and forced retirement since 1893, could carry Azote to the three quarters at a 2:04 gait twice in succession argues a great performance by her when she is thoroughly fit.—Horse Review.

KLAMATH won the fastest five-heat race ever trotted at Cleveland last Thursday, the time being 2:09, 2:09½, 2:09½, 2:11½ and 2:11, an average of 2:10 15-100. Lesa Wilkes won the first two heats. The previous best on record was won by Directum, at Fleetwood Park, New York City, in 1893, in 2:11, 2:12½, 2:10½, 2:10 and 2:09½, average 2:10½. Walter E. won the first two heats.

WHEN Joe Patchen defeated Robert J. at Cleveland last Thursday, he won the fastest four-heat race on record. The four heats in 2:05½, 2:04½, 2:05, 2:05½, averaged 2:04 94-100, while the best previous four-mile heats, won by John R. Gentry at Terre Haute last year, averaged 2:06½. The fourth heat also replaces Rubinstein's 2:06½ at Detroit week before last, as the best ever paced.

VILLAGE Farm enjoys the unique distinction of being the only nursery of harness speed in which have been bred five performers that have taken records better than 2:10. Palo Alto follows with four. The Hamlin lot are Fantasy, 2:06; Merry Chimes, 2:08½; Moonstone, 2:09½; Ed Easton, 2:09½, and Bright Regent. The Palo Alto representatives are Azote, 2:06½; Arion, 2:07½; Sunol, 2:08½, and Palo Alto, 2:08½.

ALTAO, 2:10½, is a race horse of the very first order. In his race at Cleveland, James L., by Dexter Prince, was second. On that day, July 30th, the progeny of Pacific Coast horses won money in every race at Cleveland. Dudley, by Anteros, was bred here; he got third money in the 2:14 class pace. El Rami, by Woodnut, got first money; Spinaway, by Clay, got second money, and the California mare, Red Nutting, won third money in the 2:30 class trot.

ROBERT BONNER is 71 years old. He spends much of his time at his farm at Tarrytown, N. Y., superintending the breeding, shoeing and driving of his horses, and doing no little track driving himself. Mr. Bonner has owned all or nearly all of the record breakers to high wheel sulky, from Dexter to Sunol, and has distributed hundreds of thousands of dollars among the breeders and trainers. He has paid enormous prices for the best, and never permitted one of his horses to trot for a wager or to engage in a hippodrome.

GOLDSMITH MAID for some three years was queen of the turf, back in the seventies, and her fastest mile was 2:14. In just this time did a three-year-old trot at Detroit last week. Nine young trotting wonders faced the starter, and in the five heats necessary to decide the winner the slowest mile was 2:17, while Larabie, son of Jay Bird, out in his winning heats in 2:14, 2:16½ and the fifth in 2:17. Red Budd, that last year was quite a conqueror in the three year-old class, took a mark of 2:14½, but here it is July! The 2:10 pace! Whew! Five heats; slowest, 2:07; fastest, 2:06½. Think of it.

At a well-attended meeting of those interested in trotting in Melbourne held last month, they decided to form an association under the name of the Australian trotting association, under whose auspices clubs in Victoria could race. The annual subscription to the association was fixed at two guineas ($10) per member. Percy Chirnside, M. L. A., was elected president; T. Fisk secretary, and John Robertson treasurer. A trophy valued at thirty-five guineas was promised for competition at the first meeting held under the auspices of the association.

L. H. MCINTOSH, of Chico, sold the dark bay stallion, Welcome, 2:27½, to H. W. Meek, of San Lorenzo, last week. Welcome has been put to pacing and needs neither hoots nor hobbles. He will get a low record at this gait. Welcome is a brother to Wayland W., 2:12½, being by Arthur Wilkes, 2:28, out of Letty (dam of three in 2:30), by Wayland Forrest (son of Edwin Forrest 49), second dam Mary (dam of Apex, 2:26, Sterling, sire of three, and the dams of Creole, 2:15, Eagle, 2:13½, Maud Singleton, 2:28½, Wayland W., 2:12½, and Welcome, 2:21½), by Flaxtail; third dam by Brighteyes, son of Boanerges, thoroughbred.

THE great pacing stallion John R. Gentry did at Freeport what no other trotting or pacing horse has ever been known to do before. He paced the first three-quarters in 1:30, a 2:00 clip. It needed but to have kept up this rate for another quarter to have accomplished what a good many gentlemen have written many pages to prove is an impossibility. A big enough prize would now bring to the public gaze what has been so long and so earnestly sought for—the 2:00 performer—and a little bigger prize would probably develop a horse that could go a little faster than two minutes. Mr. Williams' offer may cause the wonder to make his appearance.

THE summer sale of trotters at Allen Farm, Pittsfield, Mass., has commenced, with the following transfers reported for last week, viz.: Hearth, b g, 4, by Lancelot, 2:23, dam Cloister, by Chichester, 2:25½; to L. Livingston, Catskill Station, N. Y. Cary, b f, 3, by Pistachio, 2:29, dam Lucetta, by General Knox, 2:31½; to W. H. Marrett, Boston, Mass. Mimosa, b m, 5, by Sable Wilkes, 2:18, dam Minnie Wilkes, by Sultan, 2:24; to George W. Clark, Pittsfield, Mass. Heliopsis, b m, 9, by Belmont 64, dam Heliotrope, by Princeps 536; to Dr. E. P. Rowles, Wolfeville, Nova Scotia. Kraken 25,017, b c, yearling, by Kremlin, 2:07½, dam Rubia, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½; to James D. Parsons, Colebrook, N. H.

W. C. FRANCE closed the largest sale of trotting horses that has been made privately for several years last Tuesday at Lexington, when he sold to J. D. Creighton all his crop of weanlings for this year. They are richly bred young trotters, all out of producing dams and by such sires as Red Wilkes, Wilton, Allie Wilkes and Clay King. France also sold W. R. Brasfield a number of broodmares and trotters. Prices are private. France intended to close out his stud of trotters at auction this fall during the trotting meeting, but as he has had such a demand for them privately he will sell the remainder of his stock in the same manner. He has received a large offer for the noted stallion, Red Wilkes, sire of 11½ standard trotters and pacers. This offer comes from Germany by cable, the intentions being to ship him to Europe.

OUTSIDE of Altamont, the sensational Oregon stallion, Altao, is of commonplace breeding. His dam, Sally M., is by Oregon Pathfinder 10,981, dam Sally Come Up, untraced, and there the maternal line ends. But Sally M., short-bred as she is, figures as a good producer, considering her opportunities, as she is also the dam of Minnie, who produced Fremont, 2:21½. Oregon Pathfinder was of unknown origin up to 1889, when the writer secured his pedigree. He was foaled about 1860 at Danville, Vt., and was sired by Morrill 850, dam the Johnson mare, breeding unknown. As a four-year-old he was sent to Hiram Woodruff by Fry Tillson, of Orford, N. H., and while in Hiram's hands broke his ankle and was taken back to Orford in slugs. On recovery he was sold to J. Put Smith, of Orford, who took him to Oregon in 1868. Two years after he drew a top buggy weighing 450 pounds, in 2:44½. He made four seasons in the State and had his knee-joint broken by a kick. He was then sold and taken to Eastern Oregon, where he made light seasons, and was finally sold to C. P. Bacon, whose property he died. As a sire of performers Oregon Pathfinder has but two fast representatives, and three producing daughters. The stout old Morgan blood is then a factor in Altao; not fashionable in its line, but full of enduring quality.

A LEXINGTON contemporary has the following interesting item with regard to some promising two and three-year-olds: "Last week J. H. Thayer worked his three-year-old colt San Mateo, by Simmons, dam Moonstone, 2:28, by Sultan; second dam Montana Maid, by George Wilkes, a mile in 2:18½. This colt's full brother, Ashbrook, is also owned by Mr. Thayer, he having recently purchased him from A. S. Ashbrook of Cynthiaana. He is a chestnut, one year old, and very promising. San Mateo was entered in the Kentucky Futurity, but for some cause or other the payments were not kept up on him and he will not be eligible to start. Another one of Mr. Thayer's lot that is showing up nicely is the black two-year-old colt Courier-Journal, by Wilkes Boy, out of Josie King, by The King. In the early part of the season this fellow was trained to trot, but as he showed an inclination to pace Mr. Thayer concluded that he should go that way. He had never been given a full mile until recently, when Mr. Thayer sent him around the Lexington track in 2:29½. One year ago Brook Curry purchased this colt from T. C. Anglin for $1,000, and Mr. Thayer bought him from Mr. Curry's consignment to Woodard & Shanklin's sale last spring for $1,200. This youngster will be a great one some day."

I AM beginning to think that this is not a very great year for two-year-olds. Last year we had seventy-five two-year-old trotters and forty pacers with records of 2:30 or better. This year we have as yet but ten trotters and thirteen pacers. The fastest trotting two-year-old record of 1894 belonging to Oakland Baron, 2:14½. The fastest thus far of 1895 belongs to Hattie R., 2:20½. The fastest two-year-old pacing record of last year was that of Directly, 2:07½. The fastest of this is that of Sulphide, 2:14½. Of course I do not suppose that these figures will remain unchanged at the end of the year. Hattie R. is thought to be capable of great things, and the California filly Palita is said to be a wonder. Adbell is expected to be a great two-year-old, and from the promise he gave as a yearling should go considerably faster than any two-year-old has trotted this year. He will surprise me if he does not. And then there are a good many two-year-olds that have just missed the 2:30 mark. A considerable proportion of these will get in the list. There are doubtless others that have not been heard from who will come along later. The year 1894 was the greatest of all years for this class of performers. We had then such youngsters as Oakland Baron, 2:14½; Impetuous, 2:15½; Pansy McGregor, 2:17½; Larabie (public trial), 2:15½; La Belle, 2:16½; Boreal, 2:17½; Lady Alcy, 2:19; Killona, 2:20; Buffington, 2:20½; Bermuda Girl, 2:21½, and a host of other good ones among the trotters. In the pacing division we had Directly, 2:07½; Carbonate, 2:09; Symboleer, 2:11; Judge Hurt, 2:14½; W. W. Foote, 2:15½, etc. As a consequence, where these performers did not have too much work last year, they should make excellent three-year-olds this year. Of these Impetuous, Larabie, Scouring, Killona, Directly and probably others have already distinguished themselves as three-year-olds, and many of the others will be heard from during the progress of this season's trotting. But first-rate yearling trotters were by no means plentiful last year, and as a consequence there was no very good reason to expect a very considerable number of the best two-year-olds this year.—Stock Farm.

THE SADDLE.

REEDER (the Darehin—Mura colt) won at St. Louis on Saturday.

BOB STIPE is at Anaconda, Mont., with Lottie D., Nell Flaherty and two others.

RED PAT won a steeplechase at Saratoga last Saturday, beating Cicero and others.

ANISETTE heat Rey del Carreras and Lissak Aug. 8th in a seven-furlong dash at Saratoga.

JOHNNY COLEMAN is credited with making a goodly winning on Monarch for place in the race won by Model.

DICK LEDGETT's charges, Gonzalez Maid and Ontario, were first and second choices in the first race Saturday.

LITTLE JACK WARD was thrown from Lady Melbourne's back last Saturday, and the filly stepped on the boy's foot.

"DAGGIE" SMITH has purchased Last Chance and will ship Oakland to Sacramento in the course of a day or two.

"FATHER BILL" DALY's horses won two races at Brighton Beach Aug. 9th, while Keefe, his jockey, won three times.

ZALDIVAR won again Aug. 8th. It was in a mile race at Windsor. The old fellow seems to have gotten some of his old form back.

CHARMION's win was a popular one, and the hope was expressed that her owner had won several thousands of dollars by the victory.

HELLO's victory cost the hookmakers dearly on Saturday. The gelding was played down from 2 to 1 to even money all over the ring.

LUCANIA, by imp. Sir Modred—School Girl, won a seven-furlong race at Saratoga on the 6th inst., heating a field of six in 1:29 very easily.

It seems that McFarlane ran into Nervoso at the start in the handicap last Friday, thus accounting for the little Brutus colt falling out of the hunt also.

EL RIO REYS were much in evidence Tuesday, a son winning the first race by a hock, and a daughter capturing the second in the gamest fashion.

ADDIE M. was several pounds the best animal in the third race yesterday, and only failed to win by a comfortable margin through the weakness of her pilot.

RAMIRO, of Baldwin's string, ran second to Pennbrook in the Congress Hall Stakes at Saratoga Tuesday. Merry Prince, by Prince Royal, finished third.

"MOOSE" TAYLOR put up a good ride on his colt, Red Will, getting the place. This is the first time Taylor has been seen in the saddle here in several weeks.

WILLIAM DIXON is now at Anaconda with Quirt. She starts to-day in a five-furlong dash. Some of the best sprinters of the West are there. Paget rides Quirt.

M. A. GUNST, Hinrichs and "Little Pete" are reported to have made big clean-ups on Rose Clark yesterday. The mare was hacked from 2 to 1 to even money, closing at 6 to 5.

It is pretty well settled that the crack young jockey, Joe Piggott, will ride for A. B. Spreckels instead of for Charles Boots. He will, however, be allowed to take outside mounts.

MODEL steadily improves, and the way she came from the rear on Tuesday would lead one to believe that the filly is fast getting into the good form she exhibited as a two-year-old.

"OVERCOAT JACK" ATKIN heat the first race last Friday heavily, and has done so well the last few days that he talks of taking a trip to the home of his father in Hull, England.

BOB DAVENPORT had his friends down on Little Boh in great shape on Tuesday, and the books lost pretty heavily. Toward post-time the little son of Surinam was heavily played.

JOCKEY "DOC" TUBERVILLE, spoken of as "the crack jockey" in the dispatches, was suspended at St. Louis yesterday. He was up on three losing favorites and it didn't look all right.

JOHNNY COLEMAN, one of the Stuyvesant Club, has expressed himself as willing to match Rose Clark against Crawford under the same conditions which they met last Friday for any part of $10,000.

It is now said that "Lucky" Baldwin is willing to give Phil Dwyer $75,000 for Handspring. To those knowing how hard Baldwin is hustling for ready cash this is calculated to cause a hearty "ha-ha."

LORD LONSDALE, winner of the first race at Harlem (Chicago) on the 9th, is a chestnut colt by Glen Dudley, out of Ophir Maid, and was bred in Oregon. Feeney, a well-known Colorado jockey, rode him.

RICHARD J. HAVEY has been appointed starter at the State Fair meeting, Sacramento. He did excellent work at Bay District track recently, getting his fields off remarkably quick and generally well hunched.

GEORGE COVINGTON's horses won two races at St. Louis Tuesday. Find Out won at six and a half furlongs and Hessen at the same distance. The latter went the route in 1:22½, or a second faster than Find Out.

MIGHELS & McDONOUGH have bought the running horse Proxy from E. Robinson and will take him below. Proxy is more than an average horse and with good care should prove a head winner.—Inyo Independent.

SINCE the law regarding selling or giving away liquor to Indians has gone into force Monroe Johnson finds it hard to get acquainted with the Barleycorn family. It is difficult to convince them that he is not a Piute.

GEORGE MILLER Aug. 8th broke the half-mile track record of the world at Kansas City by running a mile in 1:42½. Joe Courtney, and old California-bred horse, captured a six-furlong race at the same place in 1:18.

KANSAS CITY, August 13.—Charles McCafferty, a race horse owner, and R. M. Brown, assistant starter at the Exposition Park race meeting, were arraigned to day for engaging in a fight at the track yesterday. The charge against them was dismissed.

MR. SISSENVINE, of the Palace Hotel, has a champion hard-luck story. He sent out a combination of five winners Tuesday, but the young gentleman with whom was entrusted the bet substituted Tom Clarke for Soon Enough, as he did not like the jockey on the latter.

AGGRAVATOR's homestretch run last Friday will not soon be forgotten. He was apparently out of it a quarter of a mile from home so far that he could not even show. As he won the race by three lengths easily, it can be imagined what sort of a finish he must have made.

HINRICH'S ride on Ali Baha last Friday was one of the most desperate ever seen at the local course. He was riding to beat his enemy's horse, McFarlane, and while Ali Baha appeared beaten sixty yards of the finish, he was fairly showed in winner by the scantest of noses.

THE winners of the first two races Tuesday were bred by Theodore Winters, the winners in the second and third events by J. B. Haggin, while the last race was taken by a colt raised on the San Simeon Rancho of the late George Hearst. These were for years California's leading thoroughbred breeders.

BYRON MCCLELLAND is hot after Ben Brush and has made several offers to Eugene Leigh for him. One of the offers made was $25,000. This price Leigh would not entertain. McClelland, however, is very anxious to secure the colt, and it would not be surprising if he came to some agreement with Leigh in the course of a few days.

Two of the four races at Detroit yesterday were won by California horses. Midstar, by Midlothian, captured a mile event, while Zaldivar, who has won half a dozen or more races in succession, put a mile and a sixteenth run to his credit in 1:49. Zaldivar seems to have returned to the form he exhibited as a two and three-year-old.

PIGGOTT rode three winners in succession Aug. 9th and a close second with McFarlane. The clever young jockey started in this week with his new employers, the Messrs. Boots, who have, we understand, made a contract with Mrs. Henry Walsh for the boy's services for a year. He is to receive $1,200 and pay for winning and losing mounts.

THE following conversation took place Tuesday morning between Trainer Jim Brown and a stable boy mounted on a chestnut filly: Brown—Let her whistle along for three-quarters of a mile. Boy—Where shall I work from? Brown—Oh, you know—from Dorsey's to Hallinan's. Tomorrow morning I'll have you work her from Bottle Koenig's to Ned Foster's.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—At the Hurst Park hank holiday meeting to-day the Bank Holiday Handicap of 300 sovereigns was won by Foxhall Keene's Bohemond. Lord Hindlip's Powick was second and Mrs. Eyre's Barsac third. Mr. Foxhall Keene's Dimity ran second in the race for the Hounslow two-year-old plate of 100 sovereigns. T. Phillips' McAlpine won and April Fool was third.

ALEJANDRO ORELLANO, of Suchito, El Salvador, C. A., has purchased of Mrs. H. C. Judson, Santa Clara, Cal., the well-bred horse, Vanquish, by Vanguard, dam Fanny Mac, by Revolver; second dam Nuisance, by Planet; third dam Ultima, by Lexington, etc. The consideration was private. Vanquish's oldest colts are two-year-olds and slashing big fellows.

D. J. LYNCH asked the writer to announce in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN his willingness to match Rose Clark against Crawford at the same distance they ran last Friday, viz., about six furlongs, for from $500 to $1,000 a side, the weights to be as they were then—117 pounds on Clark, 119 on Crawford. While it is pleasing to see such confidence in the ability of the mare, the fact remains that Crawford had recently beaten her a hock both at five and one-half furlongs and at a mile. Was she not in condition to race when Crawford defeated her so easily at the distances mentioned, or what was the matter?

SINALOA III., by Emperor of Norfolk—Aloha, therefore half sister to Rey El Santa Anita, won a four and a half furlong race at Saratoga, N. Y., August 5th, by three lengths, over a muddy track against a field of ten. Argentina also of the Santa Anita Stable, won at five furlongs on the same day. Manager Sink made one of his clever plays in the race won by Sinaloa III., by asking permission of the judges to scratch the filly when he knew the request would not be granted. He stated she could not run in the mud. That Sink knew there would be some one around listening is reasonably certain, and he also knew that this would affect the odds.

THE order has been given to complete the new mile track at Morris Park, which was begun by the Messrs. Morris last autumn, but abandoned when the constitutional amendment passed. There has always been a hue and cry on the part of professional owners against the hill at Morris Park, and it was to meet this objection that the new track was started. It begins on the hackstretch and cuts across the field, thus avoiding the hill, and enters the main track a quarter of a mile or more from the fishing post. It was nearly completed when the work was abandoned last fall, hence the work of completion will be an easy one. Races will be run over the new track, but it will be used more for exercising, as all the important events will be run over the old or main track.

BANQUET was one of the best stake horses in the United States. He beat Ramapo and other good horses last year. And Stonell was one of the greatest sprinters we had, in fact Dr. Hasbrouck was about the only horse that could get the best of him, and he generally carried over 120 pounds. Harry Reed was also looked upon as a good two-year-old—was fast and a stake horse, and most people expected them to win good races for Messrs. Dwyer & Croker in England. But Stonell, with small weight like 108 pounds, has been beaten out of sight. Banquet has not been able to do anything better than win a selling plate, and Harry Reed and Don Alonzo are mere yellow dogs. The time test, that on which we Americans rate our horses, is a very poor one—for on it Banquet, Stonell, Don Alonzo and Reed should have beaten everything in England. But the fact is, their tracks are a great deal slower than ours, and their horses are somewhat faster.—Denver Field and Farm.

JOHN COOPER, the colt which in 1894 played so prominent a part in the three-year-old division, has broken down completely, and his owner, Mr. Headley, tells me he has turned him over to Dr. Sheppard on the off chance of his coming round, although he has no hope of his doing so this year, and little of his ever being able to race much. Cooper has always ranked high as a performer, especially at anything under a mile and a quarter.

MRS. CORA E. ECKERT, wife of Frank R. Eckert, the hookmaker, who is being sued for divorce by her husband, filed a petition for alimony in Judge Horton's court yesterday. Eckert began his divorce suit some time ago, alleging cruelty, and the wife now claims that she is entitled to alimony, in order that she may not only exist during the pendency of her suit, but that she may be able to make preparations for her defense. She says in her petition that Eckert is worth at least $50,000, half of which is invested in a stable of eight race horses in California.—Chicago Inter Ocean, Aug. 10th.

A. G. P. McNALTY, manager of the Langtry Stock Farm, near Middletown, accompanied by Attorney H. C. McPike, of San Francisco, was a visitor at Lakeport this week. Mr. McNalty made the Press a very pleasant call while in town. He reports good crops and a flourishing condition generally at the Langtry ranch. Some fine stock has been lately added to that already there. A lot of Red Tamworth hogs have been recently imported from England, the first in California, which are being crossed with Berkshire and Poland China with very satisfactory results. Among the other stock added is the Black Aberdeen Polled Angus breed of cattle, two bulls of this breed having been imported from England.—Clear Lake Press.

In a letter from an owner at the Saratoga race track he says: "It is doubtful if any track here can ever be made to pay expenses, and if the Jockey Club does not buy the present plant and use it with the idea of resting the horses, running a short meeting in the meantime, the future of the sport at this place does not look brilliant. Under the Gray hill, race tracks have to rely for their revenue entirely upon the gate receipts, and where is no large population to draw from the attendance is necessarily small. It is said that negotiations are now under way with the Jockey Club and that the sale of the property is probable. The management has decided to admit women, when accompanied by men, free of charge for the remainder of the meeting. The meeting thus far has been a singularly good one for the layers, while the backers have been correspondingly unfortunate. "Pittsburg Phil" is reported to be $12,000 loser. Byron McClelland says he has hardly won a bet. J. E. McDonald and David Gideon probably head the list of winners."

SARATOGA (N. Y.), August 13.—It is reported that August Belmont paid $25,000 for Henry of Navarre and $7,500 for Dorian. He does not intend, he says, to race them in England. He proposes to confine his racing operations to America. Though the interested parties were not inclined to state the prices paid it is believed that not less than $35,000 was paid for the pair. Mr. Belmont has been negotiating for the purchase of Henry of Navarre for some time, but the news that he had purchased Dorian also was a complete surprise. Dorian will be turned over to Byron McClelland at once, and the latter will retain Henry of Navarre. He will train both horses until the fall. It was whispered that Belmont intended to take his stable to England next year and race there. This, however, has been denied. Mr. Belmont was at the track here to day, but did not care to be quoted as to his intentions, further than the statements given above. It may be stated, however, that Mr. Belmont intends racing in England next year, as he has made extensive entries in the two-year-old stakes in that country. Just how extensively he intends to engage is a question.

ONE of the most revolting sights ever seen on a race course was witnessed by hundreds of people after the steeplechase had been decided. In taking the last jump, a stone wall, Bucephalus hit it hard and, stumbling, broke his off foreleg. His rider, White, was unhorsed, and Bucephalus galloped the rest of the way, three sixteenths of a mile, on three legs before he was stopped. After a hasty examination it was decided that he was beyond all aid, and orders were given to shoot him. Instead of removing the horse and putting him out of his misery the shooting took place on the track in sight of all. Three bullets were fired into the horse's head without the least effect by a man who knew as much about shooting a horse as a babe. Bucephalus wandered around with the bullets in his head and blood gushing from his wounds and nostrils. He was a pitiable object, and a great many turned away sick at heart. For several minutes he wandered around aimlessly, with none offering to put him out of his misery. Finally Johnny Hyland stepped forward, and, taking the revolver from the man who had failed so ignominiously, placed it at the horse's temple and fired. Without a moan Bucephalus dropped and expired without a kick.—Saratoga Cor. N. Y. Mercury, August 7.

ON several occasions the wail has gone up from the East that we have only one or two good jockeys and that they are all in the West. After seeing for a week the hanging work of several of the jockeys who came out of the West, I am ready to defend our worst jockeys against the so-called quality that came out of the "Wild and Woolly." "Soup" Perkins and A. Clayton, two of the best youngsters that ever sat in a saddle last year, have retrograded to such an extent that no one, to see them now, would ever suspect that they were once first-class artists in their line. "Soup" Perkins' finishes are weak and pitiable to behold and John McCafferty's mysterious evolutions of like kind are "Sandowian" in character in comparison. A. Clayton gets the "creeps" at the slightest jostle and it is just possible that if he ever sees his own shadow keeping pace with him he will quit riding; being fearful of the baleful influence of a "hoodoo." The riding of Henry Griffin is in strong contrast to that of his one-time rivals, and it is a treat to see the difference in the trio. On head work Griffin was always Perkins' and Clayton's peer, but he lacked the necessary physical power to finish with them last year. His sojourn in California benefitted him wonderfully in this respect, and he now holds Perkins and Clayton safe at any of the points that go to make up the successful jockey. Of course, Griffin makes mistakes, like all mortals, but on an average he does much better work than any of his rivals. If he goes on improving as he has done the past year he will soon be so far above his rivals that he will stand alone.—W. C. Vreeland in New York Mercury.

GEORGE ROSE, the well-known and justly popular turfman-bookmaker, has secured the betting privileges for the State Fair this year, his bid, $15,600, being by far the highest made. Durkee & Fitzgerald bid $10,200, while Whitehead & Co. offered 65 per cent. of commissions on pools, as usual. D. J. Simmons of Sacramento increased this by ten per cent. The last two bids were not accompanied by a certified check. For years Whitehead & Co. have had this privilege, and it is rather in the nature of a surprise that another should secure the plum. Doubtless Mr. Rose will have two styles of betting, auction-pools, and book-betting, the latter, on trotting races, being an innovation in California. The new official pool-seller also gives $500 for a handicap for three-year-olds, to be known as the Native Sons' Handicap, in honor of the Native Sons' celebration to be held during the progress of the State Fair. He also offered to give a bond for $10,000 for the faithful carrying out of his contract. Rose was warmly congratulated over securing the privileges. "I know," said he, "that I bid very high. I was anxious for the privilege, not so much for the money there might be in it, but more for the name of being the official pool-seller and bookmaker at a California State Fair. I have fourteen runners in my stable, and I will enter all of them in the races. I know of a number of owners of stables who will also enter now." Mr. Rose made a proposition to Whitehead & Co. to do the pool-selling, and it is understood that they accepted. That everything will be done in an honorable and business-like way is certain, for Mr. Rose understands the needs of bettors thoroughly.

PETALUMA is going to have a grand fair this year, the reports in circulation to the effect that it would not be held being untrue. Petaluma has always taken great pride in her fairs, and as she has a genial climate, a good race track and excellent hotels, those that "go on the circuit" every year look forward to the Petaluma meeting with pleasure.

The Prospects.

The race meeting at Napa was one of the best-conducted on the circuit. The track for the first two days was not as good as it might have been, but on Wednesday and the rest of the week it could not be surpassed. The races have been well contested, as the descriptions and summaries published elsewhere in this journal attest. The excellence of the California-bred horses needs no further praise than the simple stories which these facts and figures show. "From wire to wire every heat's a race" has been the remark of every one who attended.

There were many lessons taught at Napa as well as at the Breeders' and the Vallejo meetings, the most important of which is, that a horse to win money in his class must be a GOOD one, and that owners who had horses last year which just managed to get inside the list and showed no signs of having any more speed, have been compelled to acknowledge their horses are outclassed this year. In training horses, there are some animals that have a limit, that is, they go quarters in a certain time and can go no faster. Urging, coaxing or the liberal use of the whip does not give them that nerve force which all great horses must have to be campaigners. When going at the height of their speed, if called upon, they should get a little lower and try to go faster. If colts or fillies have this quality "born in 'em" they will train on, provided they are constitutionally strong, but the animal that will go just so fast and when called upon for a drive does not make the attempt or sits down in the breeching, will not do to pay entrance on. He lacks that essential quality called "grit" or "sand." There are a number of owners this year that made entries on such, and after making two or three payments have learned to their sorrow they had no show to win any money, consequently they failed to pay any more entrance fees and are placed on the suspension list. Some of these owners have been made to believe by the trainers that their horses are wonderfully fast, but just when the bell rings the trainer is "sick," the horse is "off," or a dozen different excuses are made to cover the deceit of the unscrupulous one who knew inside of a month from the time the entry was made that the horse would have no show. This is radically wrong, and if the trainer thinks that the owner is so blind that he cannot see through those false statements he is mistaken. Such work does not help the trainer, but if an owner takes the advice of some one else and enters the horse throughout the circuit he should not blame the trainer, because, in nine cases out of ten, the latter's advice has never been solicited. The blame should always be placed where it belongs, and owners and drivers are learning a little every year which will help them hereafter.

The meetings which are to take place on the California circuit this season will afford ample opportunities for every horse having speed and stamina to make money. The sick trainers and the horses that are "off" will go no further down the line, and much expense will be saved the owners.

At Woodland, Sacramento, Stockton, San Jose, Fresno, Salinas, Hollister Santa Ana and Los Angeles the directors are making great preparations for their race meetings, and if they meet with the success which has attended the meetings of the P. C. T. H. B. A., the Vallejo and the Napa associations, then owners of light harness horses are to be congratulated. For at the beginning of the year the year the prospects were far from being bright, and clouds of fear and doubt seemed to settle heavily on the industry.

SECRETARY EDWARD F. SMITH, of the State Board of Agriculture, writes us that 2:13 pace has been changed to a free-for-all, and the purse has been increased to $1,500. He believes that the class of pacing horses developed here warrants a purse of this character, and expects to see the grandest lot of pacing horses come together in the event ever seen on a California race course. Among the probable starters are Diablo, W. Wood, Waldo J., Silkwood, Chehalis, Seymour Wilkes, Pathmont, Del Norte, Hanford Medium and Baywood. A change has been made from a 2:16 to a 2:15 pacing class, this letting in the horses eligible to the 2:13 class, except those that should go in the free-for-all. Owners of fast pacers on this Coast will please pay particular attention to the above changes.

ALL the races except the 2:19 class and the free-for-all filled at the Petaluma Fair. The races will commence next Tuesday, and a splendid lot of horses will be there to compete for the purses offered. Do not forget to attend the races at Petaluma next Tuesday.

Incorrect Rumors Regarding Bay District.

We are assured by President Williams that the story published in last Wednesday's Chronicle, and reprinted in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, regarding the "doom of the Bay District track," is wrong in almost every particular. "If I denied every incorrect rumor and allowed myself to worry about them I wouldn't have much of a chance to sleep at night," said Mr. Williams on Thursday afternoon. "I got over the idea of reading these rumors long ago, let alone allowing them to disturb my peace of mind. Matters stand just as they did, I assure you. The gentlemen mentioned as being willing to take an interest with me in the purchase of Bay District track—Messrs. Lorrillard, Nolan, Haggin and others—are still with me, and all I have to do is wire them that the time has arrived to go into the purchase of the place, and they will keep their word, never fear. The contract for filling in the enclosure and grading it has not been let, that I positively know. The firm mentioned was about to get the contract when I secured the option on the property, and of course that stopped negotiations for grading, etc. I shall go on about my business and let nothing in the shape of idle rumors bother me in the least." Asked as to when racing would be resumed, after the State Fair is over, President Williams said that it had not been determined upon, but probably one week would be allowed to elapse. They might, however, begin the following Tuesday.

Polo Racing at Del Monte.

The revised programme of the races to be given at the new Hotel del Monte race track Thursday and Saturday, August 29th and 31st, by the Pacific Coast Pony and Steeplechase Racing Association, has been issued, and includes a number of events which will excite great interest among horsemen and their friends.

On Thursday there will be five races, viz., a quarter-mile dash, a race of six furlongs, one of five furlongs, one of a mile and a steeplechase of two miles. The weights announced are very heavy, but then, while this will be a detriment to great speed, nevertheless it will afford riders an opportunity for showing their skill and ability without forcing them to train down too much.

On Saturday there will be six races; a half-mile dash, one of a mile and a sixteenth, a handicap event of one mile, a steeplechase of one mile and a half, a half-mile race on the flat, and a handicap steeplechase of two miles, open to all. Entries will close to-day.

The polo matches will be decided Tuesday and Wednesday.

From present indications this meeting promises to be the event of the season, and with such prominent gentlemen for stewards as the following, success is already assured: Major J. L. Rathbone, Frederick R. Webster, Joseph S. Tobin, H. R. Simpkins and Jerome B. Lincoln.

Hueneme Again to the Front.

That Governor Budd's veto of the appropriation for the District Fairs has not abated the racing zeal and enthusiasm of the directors of the Hueneme Association is evidenced by the fact that they are going to have as big a fair and races this year as they ever did. The entries to the running races of the Hueneme meeting have all filled satisfactorily and they all go. The trotting and pacing races have not filled so well, and the directors were reluctantly forced to declare some of them off, but others will be substituted in their stead.

The District meeting at Hueneme closes on September 28th and the Ventura meeting does not begin until October 8th, thus leaving one week unoccupied, which was intended for the Santa Barbara meeting; but as they are not to have one, the Driving Park Association of Hueneme, Leon Lehmann, President, in order that the horses and men may not remain idle that week at a large expense, will give five days of racing, beginning October 1st. We hope that horsemen will appreciate this effort in their behalf and patronize the meeting liberally.

The Hueneme track is in fine condition, and trainers will find there all the accommodations they need free of charge. Feed is cheap—best hay $8 per ton—grain too cheap.

THE new 2:10 performers of last week were: Trotters—Lessa Wilkes, 2:09, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, dam Hannah Price, by Arthurton. Pacers—Vera Capel, 2:07½, by Wilton, 2:19½, dam Cricket, by Mambrino Abdallah; Queen McGregor, 2:08½, by Don McGregor, 2:25, dam Queen, by Bonnie Scotland Jr.; Henry F., 2:09½, dam Sharlie, by Roger Hanson; Wesley R., 2:10, by Strathroy, dam by Ensign. Those previous 2:10 performers reducing their records were: Azote, trotter, by Whips, from 2:07½ to 2:06½, and the pacers Coleridge, by C. F. Clay, from 2:06½ to 2:05½, and Paul, by Bald Hornet, from 2:09½ to 2:07½.

THE NAPA FAIR RACES.

ard sixth, Silver Ring seventh, Stella eighth, Carrie C. ninth, Our Seth and Auditor distanced.

Pools sold Stam B. $20, Zombro $10, field $5, before the next heat. Dr. Puff and Stam B. led like a team, Zombro third and the balance were spread all along the backstretch. The half was made in 1:08½, and the leaders were six lengths in front of Zombro, who was leading the field by five open lengths. The race was a good one all the way to the three-quarter pole, where Dr. Puff fell back and Zombro took his place, and Durfee, his driver, made a vigorous drive for the lead, but Stam B. had the most speed and came under the wire a winner by two lengths in 2:16, the fastest mile made by a three-year-old trotting stallion in California. Dr. Puff was third, Stamboulette fourth, Lottie fifth, Stella sixth, Silver Ring seventh, Sidney Howard eighth and Carrie C. distanced.

In the next heat Zombro took the lead, Stam B. second, Dr. Puff third. These three outclassed their fields, and as they opened a gap of ten lengths in front of the rest, the contest centered in them. Zombro broke and fell back, Stam B. taking the lead to the half; then he broke and Zombro led. It was a hard battle between the two leaders, Delano, behind Stam B. making a splendid drive, while Durfee, with Zombro, was driving as only this veteran can. Inch by inch Stam B. gained on Zombro, but the latter won by half a length in the splendid time of 2:16½, the fastest third heat ever trotted by a three-year-old stallion on the Pacific Coast. Dr. Puff was third, Stamboulette fourth, Silver Ring fifth and Lottie sixth, Sidney Howard being withdrawn before this heat.

The leaders now took the lead, with Stam B. at his wheel, and these two led all the way. It was a battle between them both, drivers doing their best. The colts were evenly matched and the excitement became intense as down the homestretch they came. "The record will be broken!" was heard on every side, as, steady as two old campaigners, these faultless-gaited stallions trotted. Nearer and nearer the wire, Zombro a half length in advance. Stam B. could not gain an inch on his strong competitor, and as the latter came under the wire in the wonderful time of 2:15½, loud cheering greeted the winner. Dr. Puff was third, Stamboulette fourth and Silver Ring fifth. Again was the Pacific Coast record lowered and the son of McKinney crowned king of three-year-olds. This is the fastest fourth heat ever trotted by a three-year-old.

When the horses were called out for the final heat the two gladiators appeared to be none the worse for their fast work in the preceding heats. Judge Covey sent them away on even terms, Zombro getting his usual advantage a few yards from the wire and retaining it while the bull dog, Stam B., kept right at his flanks and forcing the son of McKinney to go to the half in 1:07½, and even then did not lose an inch nor gain one. To the three-quarter pole in 1:41 the two came, both drivers holding their horses well in hand. At the seven-eighths pole Stam B. broke and fell back, Zombro shot to the front, and after Durfee saw he had the race won he pulled Zombro up, and raising his cap waved it in response to the loud cheering which greeted him from the thousands assembled, and let the great king of three-year-olds jog under the wire in 2:15½. Another great heat and record broken. The consensus of opinion was that a better fought race between three-year-olds or even aged horses was never seen on a race track. The horses Stam B. and Zombro were so evenly matched that it was as the tossing of a copper which was the better, while the bay stallion Dr. Puff was not far out of any of the heats, and he never made a break from start to finish. The summary tells the tale and demonstrates clearly that the Napa track has lost none of its reputation for safety as well as fastness.

FOURTH DAY, THURSDAY, AUGUST 15.

The Napa people have reason to be proud of their glorious climate, for if yesterday was a lovely day this one was "lovelier," and the crowded grand stand was the best proof that the people were glad to be out to enjoy the races, the music and the company of their friends and neighbors. The judges were H. M. La Rue, F. W. Loeber and Dr. R. F. Taylor; the timers, C. Durfee, C. H. Corey and B. O. Van Bokkelen. The first race on the programme was for the 2:40 class two-year olds, the entries being Palita, Claudius, Eureka Don Roberto, Napa Prince and Desdemona. In the pools the great Palita sold as favorite at $20 against the field at $5. When the word was given Claudius cut out the pace and led to the quarter in thirty-four seconds, but Palita passed him and opened a gap of ten lengths at the half. Then Phippen eased up his good filly and jogged her around to the wire in 2:25½, Claudius second, Eureka, who broke several times, being third, Desdemona fourth, Napa Prince fifth and Don Roberto last.

When the word was given Phippen sent Palita to the front, and the eighth was passed in fifteen seconds. Then the mare broke, and Claudius and Eureka passed her. Phippen got her straightened out and she closed up the gap made by the leaders and passed them just beyond the half, and came to the wire in 1:09, with Claudius second, Eureka third, Desdemona fourth, Napa Prince fifth and Don Roberto last. Time, 2:22½.

The second race was the 2:25 trot. Only four horses appeared, viz., McZeus, Lady Thornhill, Little Mac and Jasper Paulsen. Very few pools were sold, as McZeus was conceded to be superior to his competitors. The pool-selling in both the races to-day was of the poorest kind because the superiority of Palita and McZeus was known to all. When the word was given McZeus hardly got fairly under way until he broke, and Hodges had to bring him to a walk before he settled in the meantime. Jasper Paulsen and Lady Thornhill led by a hundred yards. Then McZeus started after them, and at the head of the homestretch was on even terms with Jasper and Lady Thornhill. He passed them and won easily in 2:22½, Jasper Paulsen being three lengths behind and three lengths in front of Lady Thornhill, Little Mac fourth.

McZeus captured the second heat in 2:18, Jasper Paulsen two lengths behind, Lady Thornhill seven lengths further away and one length in front of Little Mac. The ease with which this grandly-bred son of McKinney won this heat proves conclusively that his mark will be at least 2:14 before he returns to his Los Angeles home.

McZeus and Jasper Paulsen led in the next heat as if they were hitched to one bike until the homestretch was reached, then McZeus left his good, steady-going companion and trotted under the wire in 2:19½, Lady Thornhill third and Little Mac fourth.

The winner of this race has been often described in these columns. He belongs to Clark Conant, of Los Angeles, and is one of the purest gaited and gamest four-year-olds ever seen in this State.

There were two bicycle races, a mile dash and a twenty-five mile relay race. These consumed over an hour and a half, and from a racing point of view the afternoon was not as exciting as any of the others this week.

The Beginning of a Tribe of Race Horses.

Nellie Benton is one of the most highly-prized broodmares at Palo Alto. She showed a mile in 2:18 as a four-year-old and took a record of 2:30 in a race after having run out as a broodmare for several years. This year her son El Rami took a four-year-old record of 2:14 and has been one of the most consistent and successful trotters in his class on the grand circuit, winning among other races a very hard-fought one of five heats at Cleveland. Another of Nellie Benton's foals—and the only living one older than El Rami—is the Oakwood Park Stock Farm's fine-looking horse El Benton, who took a record of 2:23½ at Sacramento and was only beaten a head in 2:18½. A mare that could trot in 2:18, whose first two foals that lived show equally good and better miles in races, has a pretty good chance to found a great family, especially when as well bred as Nellie Benton. El Benton has been bred this year to many of the Oakwood Park Farm's best mares, and if a crop of race horses doesn't follow it will be more than strange.

Easy Riding Sulkies.

The Upington sulkies are built so that the jar felt in most sulkies is completely taken up by the arrangement of the seat, which is on a spring. This can be fastened with a catch when it is desirable to have the sulky rigid for racing. No high wheel sulky made is so easy riding and such a comfortable vehicle for the driver. There are three of these sulkies in the closing-out sale of the Souther Farm at the salesyards next Wednesday.

WHILE Walter Maben was jogging Dan N. on the Napa race track last Monday, the horse shied and ran into the inside fence, throwing this well-known horseman violently against it. When help arrived it was ascertained he was severely injured. A surgeon was called and at once diagnosed the case as a shoulder dislocation and a very serious one. He set the injured member in its place and attended to the muscles which were badly lacerated, and in a few days Mr. Maben was able to be at the track. He will not be seen in the sulky again this year and will be very fortunate if he regains his former strength in that arm. Every one who knows the genial little reinsman will regret to hear of his misfortune, and will hope that he may be seen for many years in the sulky piloting winners to the wire. No driver in California is more highly respected than "Our Walter."

NOTWITHSTANDING all the flurry, the pool-rooms are still in full blast, and are hurting the attendance greatly. It seems as if there should be some law to reach this matter, and it is a pity that they should be allowed to run during the progress of a local race meeting.

THE race meeting at Vallejo was a success financially, and all horsemen who attended declare that the Vallejo Association can always rely on their return.

STILL TRIUMPHANT.—"Our horses are still marching on. Not only those which are members of "our stables," but those which are now owned in the East are taking a good place in history making. El Rami, probably the most conspicuous, though others are doing their part towards keeping up the prestige of the Pacific Slope.

It does appear that Azote will carry the championship honors of 1895, the only one that can dispute his title being in the same stable. I made up my mind, after witnessing the trotting on the Oakland track last winter, that Azote could beat Alix, and nothing has transpired since to change the estimate. It would seem that 2:03½ was a stubborn thing to overcome, and it may be doubtful if he should make the attempt whether the big son of Whips could accomplish the job. Still there is nothing to show that even these high figures would be beyond his reach, and with the advantages of as speedy a track as that at Galesburg or Terre Haute, and everything else being favorable, the record would be his. Without that there is little cause to question his supremacy. He heats all that come against him with so much ease that it is hard to form an estimate of his actual capacity, and that is the supreme test. One thing to go "against time" with everything favorable; another to view a succession of victories, not a heat lost from start to finish.

VALLEJO, NAPA.—Very lively the proceedings at these two places.

So many fast demonstrations that it would appear invidious to make comparisons. The old copy books pronounced "comparisons odious," and it was a good thing to instill that into the juvenile minds.

Very easy to draw conclusions, and with apparent good grounds for the prediction. But the best laid schemes "gang aft agley," and horses are no exceptions. Well, we can point to our home results as well as those which are transpiring on the far away side of the Continent as evidence that California is keeping up the clip.

The following is a list of the horses named for the Nomination Purses for the Fall meeting of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, which will be held in Los Angeles. Other purses advertised for the fall classes for this meeting failed to fill, but it is expected that the Association will have no difficulty in filling races for the free-for-all trot, free-for-all pace and other fast classes when the time comes as not only will all the best horses on the Coast be congregated there, but at that time many of them that have gone East will have returned:

THE VALLEJO RACES.

Fastest Three Heats Paced in California to the Credit of this Meeting—Splendid Contests and Close Finishes—The Meeting a Success from Every Point of View.

FOURTH DAY—FRIDAY, AUGUST 9.

The attendance to-day was not as large as that of yesterday, a high Vallejo wind was blowing, and the enthusiasts who ventured to the track saw some excellent racing. The judges in the stand were B. C. Holly, John F. Boyd and Farmer Sanford.

Promptly at two o'clock the following horses were called for the 2:27 trot: Native State, Columbus S., Knight, Letter B. and Bradtmoor. Pool-selling was very light, Native State selling for $10, against the field for $5.

Native State had no trouble in winning this race, Columbus S. being his principal competitor in each of the heats, Knight led in the two first heats to the half-mile pole, but Native State and Columbus passed him and came on ahead of him. In the third heat Tryon made a good drive down the homestretch, and passed Columbus S. ten yards from the wire. Time for the three heats, 2:23, 2:19½ and 2:22. Bradtmoor got away on a break in the first heat, and did not get settled, finishing behind the flag.

The next event was for the 2:25 class trotters, four year-olds. The starters were McZeus, Our Lucky, Clay S., Little Mac, Director, Prince and Lucerne. In the pools McZeus sold as a favorite at $10 to $4 on the field. When the bell tapped McZeus took the lead and was never headed, Our Lucky lying right at his wheel all the way. Clay S. was two lengths behind. Little Mac was fourth, and unsteady, Director Prince also acted as if his lame knee was hurting him and just managed to get inside the flag, Lucerne being distanced. Time, 2:21.

No pools were sold previous to the second heat. McZeus and Our Lucky trotted like a team to the half, then Our Lucky dropped back. Maben deciding to make a fighting finish with his bay stallion. Clay S. was four lengths behind and when he was at the three-quarter pole the other two trotters were "out of it." McZeus never lost an inch but kept the lead he gained at the half-mile pole and won by a length from Our Lucky in 2:20, Clay S. third; Little Mac and Director Prince distanced.

In the third heat the start was an excellent one at the half pole, McZeus broke and Our Lucky passed him. Hodges, behind McZeus, drove his pure-gaited stallion well, but he was unable to pilot him in a winner in this heat for Our Lucky won by a neck in 2:21½, Clay S. four lengths further away. McZeus again took the lead after leaving the wire, and although Our Lucky kept at his shoulder all the way around he never for a second lost the advantage he had, but won by a neck from the son of Rajah in 2:19½. Clay S. third. McZeus is a splendid-looking four-year-old by the great McKinney, out of Grace Kaiser, by Kaiser, and is as game as his sire and as pure-gaited as any horse we have seen on the circuit.

In the one mile bicycle race which followed there were three entries: S. J. McKnight, George McKay and William Klotz. Klotz wheeled away from his two competitors and won easily in 2:48, the high wind preventing faster time being made.

FIFTH AND LAST DAY, SATURDAY, AUGUST 10.

This is the last day of the Vallejo meeting. To-morrow the horsemen with their horses and bikes will leave for Napa. The attendance during the week has not been as large as the directors expected. The races were all well contested, and were in many respects superior to any heretofore given in this county. The weather was very unfavorable, and to this more than any other the decrease in attendance may be attributed. A high wind blowing and the sun obscured by heavy banks of clouds kept hundreds who live in the rich country surrounding Vallejo, as well as those residing in adjacent towns, from attending. It was very unfortunate that this was so, but the President and Board of Directors are not undaunted but believe that next season the excellence of the racing given this year will induce a much larger number to attend. A large amount of money has been expended by them in erecting new stables and buildings for the accommodation of the trotters, and if the financial returns balance this outlay, after paying all purses, they will be satisfied. President McCauley and Secretary Whitaker have in the board of directors the best corps of workers we have seen, and if success does not crown their efforts it is not because they do not strive in every way possible to merit it.

The presiding judge, B. C. Holly, is without doubt one of the best ever seen in California, thoroughly understanding the laws and firm in their enforcement. He knows exactly when to give the word "Go!" and if the drivers are inclined to "wear each other out" his quiet eye does not let such acts go unnoticed, and his loud clear voice at once brings the scheming knights of the sulky to a realization of the fact that they have a superior officer watching them and they must not "try any funny business in Vallejo."

The meeting passed away pleasantly and no complaints of injustice have been heard. Every winner has received his cash and those who were not so fortunate as to have the fastest are determined that in 1896 they will be at Vallejo with horses that will win.

Three races were on the programme, a 2:13 nomination pacing race, a 2:24 trot and a district race for three-year-olds, 2:40 class. The judges were B. C. Holly, J. Even and F. W. Loeber.

In the 2:13 pace there were five entries, Baywood, Ketchum, Waldo J., Belle and Hanford Medium. Waldo J. was installed favorite at $10 to $6 on the rest in the field.

When Judge Holly shouted "Go!" Baywood took the lead and opened up a gap of a length before Waldo J., Hanford Medium third, Belle fourth.

Waldo J. gradually closed up and at the half was a head in advance in 1:05. Baywood was lying at his shoulder and Waldo J. paced the next quarter in 30 seconds, but around into the homestretch Waldo gradually drew away from the handsome son of Woodnut and paced under the wire in 2:10 flat, Baywood, two lengths behind Hanford Medium, third, Belle fourth and Ketchum last. This was the fastest mile ever made on the Vallejo track and demonstrated to all horsemen that Waldo J. is himself again, and that Baywood, when fully recovered from his illness, will be one of the best pacers in California.

In the next heat, Ward, behind Baywood, sent his horse to the front just as he did in the preceding heat. Waldo J. made an effort to pass him after turning toward the three-quarter pole, and in so doing broke and fell back. He did not stay there long for Mack, his driver, got him settled, and after Baywood, the little gray gelding, almost flew. He passed him at the head of the homestretch and came in a winner by a length and a half in 2:12. Ketchum on the outside of the track being at Baywood's neck as the latter paced under the wire. Hanford Medium fourth and Belle distanced. Waldo J. won the next heat and race in 2:12½, Baywood two lengths behind and Ketchum at his bike, Hanford Medium fourth. These were the fastest three heats ever made on the Vallejo track and the fastest in California in 1895. It was a pretty race from start to finish, for Waldo J. did not have things all his own way.

The next event on the programme was a race between the 2:24 class trotters for a purse of $800. The entries were: Zombro, Ethel Downes, Lady O., Maria P., Los Angeles, Flora G., Miss Jessie and Julia G. Zombro was made favorite at $15, Ethel Downes $6, field $8.

When the horses got away Ethel Downes took the lead, Zombro half a length behind, Lady O. third and Miss Jessie fourth, the rest were in a single line procession from the eighth to the quarter pole as Ethel Downes and Zombro gradually increased their lead. Ethel broke after passing the half and Zombro passed her, and although Keating's little filly did very well in the homestretch Lady O. passed her and got the second place from her by half a length. Maria P. fourth, Miss Jessie fifth, Flora G. sixth, Julia G. seventh and Los Angeles last. Time, 2:20.

Zombro now took the lead, but Ethel Downes was alongside, and like a team these two trotters moved to the half. Ethel Downes then shot to the front, and was increasing her lead when she broke, and Zombro passed her and led to the wire. The battle for place between Ethel Downes and Lady O. was exciting, but the former won it by a length in 2:20, Maria P. fourth, Los Angeles fifth, Flora G. sixth, Julia G. seventh and Miss Jessie eighth. Time, 2:20.

The next heat was a good one. Zombro and Ethel Downes contested every inch of the mile, and the latter made the gallant son of McKinney trot in 2:17½ to win the heat and race, only won by a length. Lady O. was third, Los Angeles fourth, Flora G. fifth, Maria P. sixth, Miss Jessie seventh and Julia G. distanced. This was one of the most exciting races of the week, and in this heat the sixth horse was separately timed in 2:21, so a fair idea of how well they were all trotting may be learned.

The district race for three-year-olds which concluded the week's sport was won easily by Sir Derby, a good looking son of Chas. Derby, in 2:42½, 2:39½ and 2:40, Wonder being second. The other individual that was entered was called Spotless. He was never closer to the winner than a quarter of a mile, and, therefore, could not be considered a dangerous competitor.

Great Racing at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, August 9—To-day's card at the grand circuit meeting was made up of pacing races. The chief event was the match race between Cicero, J. Hamlin's Hal Pointer (2:04½) and W. P. Taylor's Mascot (2:04). Mascot won three of the five heats, capturing the last two easily. Geers drove Pointer and Andrews Mascot. Pointer was the favorite at 1 to 2 and Mascot was even money.

Pointer drew the pole, and went through the quarter in his old-time speed. Mascot stuck close to him, never letting the advantage grow to more than half a length. They came to the stretch neck and neck, and Andrews began to drive Mascot, slowly pushing him forward until he was half a length in the lead as they passed under the wire. It was a good heat, the time being 2:06 and the followers of Pointer were not discouraged.

The second heat was gamely contested, Pointer winning by a neck through a magnificent spurt in the stretch. This brought his stock up again, and when he won the third heat by a nose he was an odds on favorite. The time was 2:10½, which looked slow in comparison with yesterday's record.

It remained for Mascot to win the fourth and fifth heats in splendid fashion, convincing the crowd that he was certainly the better horse. He took the fourth heat in 2:10 by over half a length, and apparently without being driven to his limit, and he marched in a winner in the fifth heat by two lengths. The time in each heat was 2:06, 2:08½, 2:10½, 2:10, 2:09½.

The 2:33 class, pacing event for two-year-olds, was won easily by Sulphide, the favorite, in straight heats. The Denver colt finished each heat in a jog and could easily have knocked a second from his time had he tried. Ananias and Patsy Brooks divided second money.

The 2:13 trot went to Beuzette, a strong second choice, whose time in the fourth heat, 2:06½, lowers the track trotting record. Klamath pulled in the first heat, but the pace afterwards was too hot for him. In the third Monette passed Beuzette in the stretch, but broke and landed second.

Pacing, 2:35 class, for two-year-olds, purse $1,000—Sulphide won in straight heats. Time, 2:13½, 2:12½. Patsy Brooks and Ananias divided second money. No others.

Trotting, 2:13 class, purse $2,000—Beuzette won the second, third and fourth heats. Time, 2:07½, 2:11½, 2:06½. Klamath won the first heat and was second. Time, 2:10½. Aunt Delilah, Miss Nelson, Thomas, Early Bird and Monette also started.

Match race, purse $3,000—Mascot won the first, fourth, and fifth heats. Time, 2:06, 2:08½, 2:10½, 2:10, 2:09½. Hal Pointer won the second and third heats.

Pacing, 2:11 class, purse $2,000—Star Pointer won the second, third and fourth heats. Time, 2:09½, 2:11½, 2:08½. W. W. P. won the first heat and was second. Time, 2:16½. Guinette was third. Henry F., Peerless, Ella T., Gilcurry, Sterling, Hyannis and Ethel also started.

What Constitutes a Coach Horse.

Mr. R. P. Stericker, of Springfield, Ill., recently in an address on the "Road and Coach Horse," before the Wisconsin Farmers Institute, said: "You all know it is that class of horse we all admire and turn to look at, and which we usually see drawing the vehicles of the wealthier classes; and as appearances count for much with 'society people' it is most essential that the horses used by them should look attractive. In order to do this a coach horse must have a clean-cut, intelligent head, a nice, slim, arched neck (the longer the better), oblique shoulders, deep, well rounded body, stout back with well sprung ribs and quarters full and rather long; tail to be well carried (and this is a very important point) should be set rather high, the nearer on a level with the backbone the better. He should be well muscled and be possessed of good, clean, cordy legs and sound, open feet with the ability to use them to the best possible advantage. Some men think the main constituent of a coach horse is a 'banged' or 'docked' tail, but we know that we must have a great many other points far more essential in a high class horse. We must have good color, smooth form, size, style, and above everything, bold, free action both before and behind, if we mean to command anything like a big price. Then if we have all these desirable qualities, coupled with absolute soundness and good manners, we can not only ask, but come pretty near getting our own price, because as a rule when a man wants a pair of coach horses it is more a question of horse than price. For this reason it pays to raise coach horses, and the better the horse the better the price."

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

The Recreation Gun Club will shoot to-morrow at Oakland Race Track.

The San Francisco Gun Club will shoot to-day at Oakland Race Track.

The Nimrod Gun Club will shoot at Bird's Point, Alameda, hereafter, beginning to-morrow.

The Lincoln Gun Club will wind up its blue rock season at the Lincoln grounds at Alameda Point to-morrow.

At the Empire shoot on Sunday last Webb broke 73 out of 75, and Billington 48 out of 50. Good shooting, that.

Jos. Watzer, H. Cookson and Robert Hooper of Tiburon, hunted in the northern portion of Marin County from Friday to Monday and returned with six deer.

Dupont's smokeless powder is rapidly becoming more popular. By the way, Crittenden Robinson's recent record of 97 out of 100 live birds was made with this powder.

Doves have been very plentiful in Southern California this season, doubtless owing to the abundance of water. It is reported that the quail crop will be the best that it has been for several years.

Some of the members of the Empire Gun Club are greatly in favor of the club's building an ark for use on the marshes this coming winter. The question will doubtless be brought before the club shortly.

P. George, of Marysville, passed away in this city on Saturday last after a very brief illness. Mr. George was one of the oldest gun dealers in this State. He was buried at Marysville on Wednesday last.

Geo. Morris, Justice of the Peace Oscar Rodgers, Chief of Police Patrolman Kamp and R. B. Tappen, Attorney, all of Alameda, started on Tuesday morning for Potter Valley, Mendocino county, in quest of deer and big game.

The State Sportsmen's Club's shoot will be held in Sacramento during the State Fair. The live bird shooting will be on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 4, 5 and 6, and the target shooting on Saturday, September 8th. On solicitation of Messrs. Morrison and Eckhardt the Board have donated $250, toward the prize fund. The traps will be placed in the centre field of the park. The programme will be out shortly.

During the travels of an English officer, Captain White, in Cochin China, the then Viceroy gave him a magnificent tigress, five feet long and two feet high, says Rod, Gun and Kennel. On reaching Saigon, where he could buy dogs for almost nothing, he used to give his pet one of these animals every day. The dog was thrown alive into her cage. She would play with it for a while, as a cat plays with a mouse, then her eyes would begin to glisten and her tail quiver; she seized her prey by the scruff of the neck, and in a minute or two it was all up with the poor animal, says the British Fancier. One day, however, a puppy, seemingly little different from the common herd of puppies, instead of tamely submitting to its fate, showed fight. It snapped at the tigress' nose and bit it till the blood came. The tigress, far from resenting the attack, seemed to treat it as a joke, and when the spirited little dog grew tired of the fun the tigress patted it as if it had been a cub of her own. Then the two lay down side by side and had a comfortable nap. Thenceforth they were the best of friends, and, to humor this queer friendship, Captain White had a small hole cut in the tigress' cage that the puppy might go and come as it pleased. It often took a trot abroad, but it always returned to its dog-devouring friend. To test the tigress' affection a strange dog was offered it one day at dinner time, and was then hastily snatched from its hungry jaws and the puppy friend thrown into the cage. But, strange to say, friendship triumphed over the pangs of hunger, and that not on this occasion only, but whenever the Captain thought fit to repeat the experiment.

Geo. Ditz, of the Stockton Gun Club, was in town the first of the week. He is quite positive that the team shoot between the Stockton Gun Club and the Empire Gun Club will take place as scheduled. The first shoot will be held at the Empire grounds and the second at Stockton. This is well planned. The second shoot will be in September when the weather at Stockton will not be quite as hot as during the present month.

Hazard's Blue Ribbon brand of Smokeless powder is now on the market. This powder is said to be very clean, quick and strong, and with little recoil. We have not sampled any yet, but will say more about it as soon as we have a chance to try it.

N. D. Nichols, the San Diego gunsmith, has been visiting the gun stores in this city during the past week.

Mr. Chick will attend the State shoot and will unquestionably carry off his share of the prize money.

Live Birds at Oakland Track.

The open to all live bird shoot at Oakland Race track on Sunday last was a huge success. Fifty dozen birds were shot. The principle scores will be found below. There were three twelve-bird matches. Robinson won the first with 12 straight Fanning 11, Fay, Nauman and Lee 10 each. The second and third matches were squad shooting. Melville won the second with 12 straight, Haight, Bruns, Robinson and Slade divided second and third with 11 each. The third event was won by Webb with 12 straight, Fanning 11, Nauman, Haight, Bruns and Baker 10 each. The scores:

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Marcus Gerstle is said to have refused $300 for his sixteen months old St. Bernard dog by Reglov—Cleopatra.

Forty-eight entries still remain in the Chicken Derby of the Continental Field Trial Club, after paying the second forfeit.

Whippet racing continues to boom in the East. The New England Kennel Club will conduct a race at the Country Club in Brookline, Mass., in October.

H. A. Barkelew has sold a R. C. St. Bernard bitch pup by Lord Hualpa (Alton—Keepsake) out of Lola (Calif. Alton—Tomah) to Col. Forsyth, of Fresno.

Leeds Barry, the recent importation of the Swiss Mountain Kennels is by County Member (Lord Bute—Thrya II) out of Court Beauty (Scottish Prince—Forget-Me-Not).

Burglar trials are the latest in the way of sporting events in Chicago. The term must be read in the same sense that the expression "chicken trials" is incorrectly used by many dogmen. Of course, burglar trials are common enough really—they try doors, windows, etc., and frequently are brought to trial themselves—but a trial between two dogs with burglars for game is something not to be had every day, and must be all the more acceptable at this season of the year, when field sports are off color, and the nights are pleasantly warm. The incident occurred in a portion of the western metropolis known as Aldine Place, where a St. Bernard and a fox terrier have vied with each other in gaining reputations (on paper) as house dogs of exquisite responsibility; and what other breeds could supply more suitable candidates for honors in "burglar trials"? The account of a close trial might naturally be expected, but the St. Bernard showed superior pace, range, nose, "burglar-sense," stanchness, and everything else. The fox terrier was simply not in it, both figuratively and literally. For why? Likely enough because its supper had been too bountiful and its cushion was too soft.—American Field.

There is a big black and white Newfoundland dog strutting around Columbia Street, which is being fed with cookies by all the children in the neighborhood. He became a hero Monday by jumping into the Atlantic basin, at the foot of Sackett Street, and hauling little eight-year-old John McGuinnis from the water. The dog's name is Grover. Grover was taken to the basin by his master for his daily bath. After the dog had his swim and was trotting up the street behind his master there was a cry from the boys on the dock. The McGuinnis lad had been pushed overboard by one of his playmates. Hammersadt, followed by the dog, rushed back to the dock. The boy was struggling in the water, far from the pier. Grover plunged into the basin and swam to the boy. Not being able to grab the lad at first the dog pushed him under the water. When the boy came up again Grover caught hold of his jacket and started to tow him ashore. Young McGuinnis reached over and put his arms about the animal's neck. Although a swift current was running at the time the dog continued steadily to the dock and landed his burden safely. Grover has never before acted as a life saver. He is an intelligent looking dog and has a noble head.—Union and Advertiser.

It seems that what is sauce for the goose is not always sauce for the gander. In China dogs are eaten, and the joints are to be purchased in the butchers' shops in Hong Kong and elsewhere just as sirloins of beef, legs of mutton, etc., are to be bought in this country. The Parisians, however, do not appreciate dog steaks and chops, although latterly many of them have, as a fact, partaken of cooked terriers, mongrels and Dalmatians; but, unfortunately—or, perhaps, fortunately—they did not know what they were eating. In one quarter of Paris pet dogs, watch dogs, and even sporting dogs were continuously being stolen, and the thief could not be caught. But a day of retribution was at hand. Detectives were laid on the track, and in due course a clew was obtained; this, followed up, led to an apprehension. Certain premises were searched, dog collars were found to be numerous, and half cooked and wholly butchered dogs were discovered. The culprit, brought before the court, was found guilty of selling the flesh of dogs as mutton, and lamb, and veal, so he was fined £25 and sent to prison for three years. Perhaps he may consider the sentence severe, especially when he argued that the flesh of dogs is quite as good and wholesome as that of horses and frogs, which are publicly sold. During the seize of Paris, dogs flesh realized high prices and we have it on the authority of Mr. Rawdon Lee in "Modern Dogs" that the celebrated British bulldog, Michael, the Archangel, was eaten during the memorable year of 1871.—American Field.

The following may pass as a bit of interesting fiction or distorted fact: "A rat, a terrier and a small boy," says the Chicago News, "caused thousands of people to congregate on West Madison street, and it was not a real rat either. The rat, which was a most natural looking rubber affair, was connected with a long thin pipe and a hulk. Every time the boy squeezed the bulb the rat would leap forward in a most life-like manner and the ladies on the street would shriek with terror and gather up their skirts. Suddenly a sleek-looking rat-terrier sprang through the crowd and made for his mortal enemy. Down he pounced. The boy gave the hulk a jah and the rat leaped about six feet. Again the dog made a spring. This time he caught the rat in his teeth and the pressure caused it to give out a most life-like squeak, which delighted the dog and audience alike. By this time the street was packed. Time after time the dog would shake the rat and put it down, only to see it leap again, to the wild delight of the crowd. For the first half hour it was mere play to the plucky little terrier, but after a while things began to grow monotonous. The dog lay down for a rest and the rat jumped over him. This was too much for canine flesh and blood to stand. He leaped up again, and now the contest kept up until the dog fell to the pavement from sheer exhaustion. Panting, and with eyes protruding, he made a few more ineffectual snaps at the rubber rat, then turned over on his side and laid his head on the pavement. His owner worked his way through the crowd, picked up his pet in his arms, uttered a few remarks and offered to lick the man who had killed his dog."

Treatment of New-Born Puppies.

Puppies may be bred at all seasons of the year, but undoubtedly the Spring is the time when the most robust puppies are produced. It is the natural time when all life gains strength and re-asserts itself. Puppies whelped at this time, in February, March or April, are able to get out into the sun and air almost as soon as weaned, and, providing that they are allowed free opportunity, will play and romp for a considerable time, and thus unconsciously acquire health, strength and vigor. Fresh air, exercise and sunshine are the greatest aids to development, and old breeders recognize this by their preference for Spring puppies, and therefore, brood bitches that are likely to be productive at this time of the year are often looked upon as of more value than those which come in use later or earlier. Another point to be taken into consideration in this matter is that puppies born early in the year become strong and better able to withstand the variations of climate the following winter, and are far less susceptible to disease. Whilst thus showing a decided preference for Spring and early Summer puppies, it by no means follows that we should not breed later in the year. Oftentimes the selected sire is stronger and better able to beget strong litters in the Autumn or Winter, because of the fewer demands upon his services. Young puppies suffer very much from cold, and if affected by it in the early days after birth, seldom thoroughly recover from it, but remain always more or less weakly.

The natural food of puppies is the mother's milk, and as soon after birth as she has cleaned them they will generally find their way to her breasts and begin pulling away like "old hands." There is always a greater or less quantity of milk in the udder before the birth of the puppies, and as the youngsters are easily satisfied there will probably be sufficient; but if the puppies after trial do not appear to be able to get enough, the bitch should be encouraged to take as much liquid food, in the form of gruel, milk, or broth, as possible, to increase the flow. There are times when a bitch has little or no milk, and if the flow cannot be induced by the above means, then recourse must be had to a foster-mother as speedily as possible. I remember breeding from Quinine when she was twelve years old. She had but little milk and her teats were so large that the puppies could not well get hold of them. I managed to keep a couple of the puppies alive, until I could get a "foster," by dropping very small portions of sweetened milk, water and cold-liver oil into their mouths, and successfully reared one to win a prize. If no foster-mother can be obtained, puppies may be reared artificially by means of a rubber teat and child's feeding-bottle, but the hole in the teat should be enlarged, and if the milk flows too quickly a small piece of sponge should be inserted. They should be fed very frequently, at least every two hours, and must be kept warm.—Fox-Terrier Chronicle.

The Fox Terrier Club.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pacific Fox Terrier Club was held on Tuesday evening last at 313 Bush street. Messrs. Gonzales, Debenham, Carlton, Dickson, Lowden and Dr. D'Evelyn were present. In the absence of President Fores, Vice-President Debenham officiated as Chairman. As J. B. Martin had refused to meet the committee appointed at the last meeting to wait upon him, his resignation as Secretary was accepted with many regrets. H. H. Carlton was unanimously elected Secretary, and now holds the combined offices of Secretary-Treasurer.

The Treasurer reported a balance on hand of $30. Dominick Shannon and Thos. Howard were elected to membership. A very pleasant evening was passed in dog chat. The meeting adjourned at a late hour.

Mr. Debenham reports that Mr. Hildebrand's bitch whelped 10 puppies last week to his Frisco Joker. This is a large litter for a fox terrier.

The following is an extract from the letter of an Anglized Japanese, whose innate love for field sports struggled with inadequate language to express it. We are indebted for it to Forest and Stream. "The English setter are of spiritedly much workers which are largest in broadness of the fields which they in eminence search for the 'Boh White,' which is the name called the really quail. The sportsman who is much knowledge of the setter makes of rejection to the pointer which has many friends. Setters and pointers which in difference of hair only, and then of much alike all the same. The fun of much catching the quail are grand excitement. He is a very fly fast, and the man which shoot quick without catching the brown study, and the quail he in a heap of feathers is died in the atmosphere. The dog he is then said, 'Fetch,' and he arriving with the bird tenderly. The sportsman which in his retrieval of the dog makes sometimes of fifty and one hundred larger of quails in a best day. The man though of shoot for nice sport, of sell his game sometimes which his friends call had inconsiderate, yet when he gives it away it is then appellation the refinement. The gun and dog give much walk, and nobility of health beyond eyes brightness and glowing color. It is what of also the American exclaim nature's beautiful."

The St. Bernard Club.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Bernard Club of California was held at the office of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, 313 Bush St., on Wednesday evening last, President Barker in the chair. Messrs. McGinley, Frey, Kelly, Travers and McCracken were present. Mr. McCracken officiated as secretary pro-tem.

It was decided to put a motion before the club at the next meeting, to create a Stud Dog and Produce Stake for competition at the next show of the Pacific Kennel Club. This was the only business of importance transacted.

Some miserable excuse for a man—or woman, threw a piece of poisoned meat over the fence into R. M. Barry's yard one day last week and poisoned his St. Bernard bitch Cloister III.

The special meeting of the Pacific Kennel Club called for Thursday evening last occurred too late for us to chronicle this week. A full report will be found in our next issue.

WHELPS.

A. J. Cartwright's (San Francisco) English Setter bitch Minnie Noble whelped August 1st 7—3 dogs, to T. J. Wattson's Starlight W. (Dan Gladstone—Miss Alice).

NAMES CLAIMED.

Andrew Gonzales (San Francisco) claims the name Trilby Fox Terrier Kennels for his kennel of fox terriers.

SALES.

H. H. Carlton (San Francisco) has sold the fox terrier dog Lonsdowne Desperado, by Rosadoc—Desperate, to Steve Pieper, South San Francisco.

The Irish Setter Club claim the dates Dec. 2, 3 and 4 for the club's fourth annual trials. The trials will be held at High Point, N. C. Two stakes will be run, an All-Age and a Derby. The Derby entries will probably close on Oct. 1st and the All-Age Nov. 15. This trial will be for Irish Setters only.

Andrew Gonzales' kennels of fox terriers will be known hereafter as the Trilby Fox Terrier Kennels.

ROD.

Lake Pilarcitos is said to be providing good sport.

Rockcod fishing in the bay was never better than at present.

H. F. Emeric is at White Rock lake building a large cabin.

Stanley T. Allen sent down a nice basket of trout from the McCloud last week.

San Andreas fishing is not just up to date. The most expert angler cannot catch more than 7.

W. F. Bogart and wife were at Boca Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Bogart caught 40 nice trout Sunday.

The Sisson hatchery have sent out 1,125,000 trout fry this season, and will ship 700,000 more before the season closes.

John McLaughlin, the genial proprietor of the Boca hotel, sent John Butler a fine four-pound trout on Monday last.

The evening fishing from 7 to 9 P. M. is said to be the best on the Truckee now. The fishing is still improving, especially fly fishing.

Striped bass and grilse are running in the lagoon at Pescadero and many have been caught already with rod and line, with both spoon and bait.

Deputy Fish Commissioner Davis arrested F. Kluepper of Boca last week for killing grouse out of season. He pleaded guilty before a Justice of the Peace and was fined $20.

J. H. Sammi started for Boca on Thursday evening. Robert Hewson left on Wednesday for the same place, and M. J. Geary, Dr. Stanton and Donald McCrae went up on Tuesday.

Mr. Cooley of Dunsmiur says that the salmon are running up the Sacramento to spawn and trout fishing is at an end for the time being. Good fly fishing should commence again the latter part of September.

The Fish Commissioners caused the arrest of F. A. Bardshar, a mill owner near Sissons, the 1st of last week, for dumping sawdust into the Sacramento river. This is the third time this same party has been convicted of this same offense.

Capt. Cummins returned from the Williamson on Monday. He had a glorious time and caught many very large fish. He says that the only way to catch the big fellows is to cast at least 80 feet. One can catch plenty of little ones near shore but it wants a long distance fly caster to inveigle the big ones. It is needless to add that the veteran Captain is well able to cast the necessary distance.

John Siehe and Al Wieland write H. E. Skinner of the E. T. Allen Co. as follows:

DACHENFELS ON RHINE, July 27, 1895.

Dear Henry:—Fished a branch of the Rhine called the "Aggie" and caught quite a mess of trout with some of Benn's Coachman. The streams flowing into the Rhine contain some very fine trout, pike (and bass; carp are quite plentiful, but think the Truckee trout knock spots out of all the other varieties. Yours truly,

JOHN & AL.

Trout Fishing on the Williamson.

Mr. J. R. Moore, a New York sportsman who has fished the principle rivers of the world, sent the following letter to the California State Board of Fish Commissioners on Monday last.

Considering the time spent in fishing—four hours per day. The record is a remarkably good one. Capt. Cummins, the well-known local angler, took Mr. Moore to his favorite resorts and caught more fish than Mr. Moore, but the Captain fished the entire day and did not count or weigh his fish.

WILLIAMSON RIVER, July 29, 1895.

GENTLEMEN:—We arrived here the afternoon of the 26th inst. without meeting the gentleman who entertains travelers on the Topsy Grade. I put a rod together and caught seven small fish for supper. Misjudging from them that my 7½ oz. rod would answer for the fishing, I went out next morning with it and the first thing I struck was a ten-pound trout, which I managed with careful handling to bring to gaff, a five-pounder followed, afterwards a three and a half pounder which with four small ones about one pound each I finished my morning's fish and hung up my 7½ oz. rod. Rigging up my 10½ oz. rod I went off about sundown, and caught a four pound, a three pound and small fish. Our blankets did not arrive, and I passed an uncomfortable night. I started pretty late in the morning, too late to fish to do any good, notwithstanding which I had the most remarkable day's fishing that I ever had in my life. I give you below the score, the weights are by scale, not with the eye, so customary with the ordinary angler. It will be seen by this score that I caught twelve trout that weighed 49½ lbs., and I know of no river in the world where this can be equaled with the fly. Twenty-five fish weighed 62½ lbs. The eighteen fish caught in the afternoon were taken between 5:30 and 7:30, and weighed after being brought home 45½ pounds. They would probably have weighed somewhat more if weighed upon landing. The trout are all of the rainbow variety, but of a peculiar color, owing to the water from the big Klamath marsh, from which the Williamson finds its source. They are in remarkably fine condition. I only found one with any fungus on it, even in the gills. Of their fighting qualities I cannot speak too highly. I had a four-pound fish jump eight times and a five-pounder jump five times. They jump more for their size than any Salmo that I ever caught. Even more than the good Salmo Salar, the true Atlantic salmon. The fish are not as handsome in color as the McCloud variety (Salmo Iradeus Shasti), but much better filled out in form and a stronger fish on the rod.

The Williamson is indeed a revelation to an angler of even the widest experience, and I look with wonder upon its marvelous show of fish life and with grateful pride upon the catch that I laid upon the green bank as the sun fell over the hills last evening. I am too old in the gentle craft to wish to deceive either myself or others with fish tales, and this little tale deals only with cold facts.

Respectfully,

J. A. MOORE.

Mr. Moore sends also under date of August 11th his record for twelve days fishing. He fished two hours each evening entirely with the fly. The first score spoken of is included in this.

The American Angler.

An American angler, in many respects a remarkable fish, takes its name from three curious growths projecting from the top of its head with which it angles for prey. These growths are something like flexible, proportionately slender quills from which the feathery web upon the sides has been entirely stripped except for a little tuft upon the end. Each quill-like projection is made to serve as a rod and line, with a bait upon the end of it. When not in use they lie together flat upon the angler's head, extending back in a line between the eyes, and are scarcely distinguished except upon close inspection, says the Sun. They do not start from the same point in the fish's head, but are all in line, the first one not far back from the point of the upper jaw, and the last one on a line between the eyes. The middle one is a little the longest of the three. It is about three feet in length. Upon this fish the first of these growths starts from a point about two and a half inches back from the point of the jaw, the next is about two inches back of the first, and the third, which is between the eyes of the fish, is about two inches back of the second. The middle one is about seven inches in length to the tip of the tassel, the others about six inches in length.

The angler is a bottom feeding fish and it lives mostly up or the bottom. Like all fish it can in some degree change its colors to match its surroundings. The angler lies upon the bottom, perhaps partly covered with mud or sand, or partly imbedded in seaweed. Big as it may be its make up is such that it is practically invisible. It opens its capacious mouth and erects the quill-like growths, or flexible spines, upon its back. It curves these spines over forward, bow-like, in front of and over its mouth, and there it dangles the tassels in the water as bait. As the spines are set at different points and are of somewhat different lengths the baits are not all together, and the attractions is multiplied. It is like a man putting three hooks on his line a little apart. The angler does not intend that the fishes shall take the bait, but only that they shall be attracted, and when it has drawn them near enough it snaps its big jaws together upon such as are within reach.

The angler is variously known as the goosefish, allmouth, bellowsfish and devilfish, though it is difficult to see why it should be called devilfish, for in appearance it is rather comic than devilish. At its full growth the American angler is generally about four feet long, and sometimes grows a little longer.

The American angler is ordinarily chocolate-colored or drab, and its back is mottled all over. It has a fringe of hards all around the under side of its body. Its mouth extends almost entirely across its body, its under jaw projects greatly. Its side fins look something like elephant's ears; it uses them mainly to balance itself with and to facilitate its movement up or down in the water, making but very small use of them as an aid in swimming. It propels itself mainly with its tail, which is very powerful. The angler uses its tail as one might use a single oar in sculling, and as it moves forward its body weaves with something the motion that sculling might impart to a square-bowed skiff. It is rather slow and sluggish in movement, and yet it is a fair swimmer, and it moves with an appearance of momentum and power.

The angler lives on fish and crustacea; a full-grown angler will eat a codfish weighing five or six pounds, or a good-sized lobster. It has two sets of teeth, the first set, which are from one-quarter to seven-eighths of an inch in length, being just within the lips; with these it rends and tears its food. Further back in its mouth it has another set of shorter, flat teeth for crushing; with these it cracks the shells of crustacea. Suppose it catches a lobster; the angler might bite and kill it with its first rows of teeth, and it would then pass it back to the crushing teeth, where the shell would be taken off. The angler can clean a lobster of its shell pretty well; sometimes it rejects the big claws, meat and all. At the same time it may swallow some fragments of shell; and often there are found in the angler small lobsters and crabs, with the shells complete, which it may have swallowed intentionally or inadvertently. Sometimes a codfish caught on a hook on a trawl line set on the bottom makes a live bait for an angler.

The American angler is found along the Atlantic Coast as far south as the Capes of Delaware. They most abound in the spring and fall. They like cool water, and they stay in water under 60 degrees; when it gets above that they make for the north or out to sea. Powerful as the angler is and rugged, too, in its native home, it is rather delicate in captivity; it wants sea room. The anglers at the aquarium, which have now been kept in good condition for about four months, are as well provided for in this respect as they could be, being in the great central pool which is thirty-eight feet in diameter. They are fed on crabs and small fishes.

The angler, as is well known, is a bottom-feeding fish, and at the aquarium, as in his native home, he spends most of his time on the bottom. After two attempts on as many days to sketch him, which were unsuccessful, because he remained on the bottom in six feet of water, the angler, on the third day, as the artist and the reporter, stood by the side of the pool looking down upon him through the deep water, came to the top, close up the rim of the pool and exactly at the point at which the artist and the reporter stood. Thence he started slowly on a circuit of the pool, with the artist walking just ahead, looking back at him and sketching steadily. Round went the angler; round went the artist; and round and round. The sketch was done, and at the end of the circuit the angler went to the bottom.

Subsequently, upon another day, when the reporter had learned of the wonderful spines with which the angler angles and desired to see them, he went again to the great pool. The angler was on the bottom. In the interests of exact statement it may be said that upon this occasion the angler did not rise to the top until he had been very gently stirred with a pole in the hands of a member of the aquarium staff, whose knowledge and care warranted him in using it; but once there, he did what the reporter had never seen him do before; he slowly raised the back of his head above the surface of the water, not once only, but three or four times, so that full and definite note might be taken of the extraordinary spines. For these courtesies the reporter begs to extend to the American angler the compliments of the season.

Otto Feudner, the well-known trap shot, spent the day on Monday last at Selby, looking over the new machinery for loading shells at the Selby Smelting and Lead Co.'s works. He expresses himself as both surprised and pleased at the accuracy of the measures, the fine work of the wad sorter and the marvellous mechanism of the loading machinery.

The new Giant smokeless will be on the market in a couple of weeks.

Horses at Auction.

At the auction sale next Wednesday there will be a consignment of fine draft and general purpose horses, besides trotters and pacers, from the Santa Rosa and Yerba Buena Stock Farm. The draft horses are by Tams, the finest sire ever imported from Australia, while the trotters are all young, fine-looking, well-bred and very promising, including Princess Ebony, by Dexter Prince, out of a mare by Black Boy; Grisette, a six-year-old mare by Steinway, out of Clementine, by Yosemite; second dam Carrie Clay, by Coaster, etc. She was bred at the Oakwood Park Stock Farm, and before being sold to Messrs. Pierce Bros. was considered one of the most promising fillies ever bred on the farm. She had a foal by Prince Red that is now in training and is very promising. A Bay Rose filly, out of a mare by Nutwood, will also be sold.

An iron gray three-year-old by Soudan out of Lucy, by A. W. Richmond; second dam by Ben Wade, son of Woodburn. Helen Mc, a daughter of Director, out of Trix, will be sold. She has never been worked for speed but shows as much speed as any Director ever bred. She has raised a filly by Diablo that Mr. H. Pierce says "Money cannot buy." Jno. McCord of Napa bred Helen Mc.

There will be a crackerjack by Danger sold that will make a first-class race horse. Danger was by Director, and the dam of this colt is Juanita, F. H. Burke's great mare. These will be as fine-looking as any in the sale, and are just as promising. The draft horses are also of the very best.

Answers to Correspondents.

Answers to this department MUST be accompanied by the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, but as proof of good faith. Write the questions distinctly, on one side of the paper only. Positively no questions will be answered by mail or telephone.

J. J. D., Bakersfield, Cal., asks: "Can you give a constant reader of your valuable paper the name and breeding of a thoroughbred horse that Billie Nickles once owned (some ten or twelve years ago) in Nevada. I have heard that he bought the horse of T. Winters. Please answer in BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN." Some one knowing of this particular horse will please answer.

A Fine Pole Cart.

At the closing out sale of the Souther Farm stock on next Wednesday will be sold several good sulkies and carts, all by first-class makers. Among the carts is a particularly good pole cart which was made to order for the late W. W. Stow, at the celebrated Frazier works in Aurora, Illinois. This cart cost $175 and has had but little use; it is in fine shape, and will be a bargain for any one having any use for a first-class double cart.

Death of William Barrow, M. R. C. V. S.

Mr. Barrow died on Monday 15th inst., at Cynthia House, Newmarket. For many years he was the leading veterinary surgeon at Newmarket. He was over eighty years of age, and had for some time been failing in health. He was elected Vice-President R. C. V. S. in 1858, and had also served as member of Council.

DR. E. W. BOVETT'S

Cracked Heels and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Boot Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a CALLOUS, and will always remove a Callosus when caused from a wound.

It removes all Soreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callosus remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KLAMATH, 2:08½, says: "Have been trying to cure Klamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are unsteady and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

The Closing-Out Sale of the Souther Farm.

At Killip & Co.'s salesyards, on the corner of Van Ness avenue and Market street, at 11 A. M. on Wednesday, August 21, 1895, will be held the closing-out sale of the Souther Farm horses, and there will also be sold consignments from T. W. Barstow of San Jose, L. Hewlett of Oakland and H. A. Mayhew of Niles. The stock offered is in many respects very desirable, and any and all interested should examine it carefully. The Souther Farm consignment will be at the salesyards from Saturday, August 17th (to-day) till next Wednesday, the date of the sale, where they will cheerfully be shown to those interested. Catalogues of all the horses can be obtained of Killip & Co. at 30 Montgomery street, this city.

Many useful animals have been sold at former Souther Farm sales, and by-bidding or misrepresentations have been unknown, as those who have purchased will willingly testify. This offering is in some respects superior to any lot previously sold by this farm owing to the number of fine-looking young horses by El Benton, 2:23½, a grandly-bred son of Electioneer and a dead game race horse; he is now the property of the Oakwood Park Stock Farm, where he will have an opportunity to prove his great merits as a sire. Many fine mares were bred to him this past spring, and the time is not far away when he will be recognized as one of the best sires of the State.

There are eight fillies and geldings by El Benton in this sale, and they really have never had any developing work worth the mentioning. All have been broken, and the two and three-year-olds are ready for easy road work now, but as for any attempt to bring out the speed lurking in the natural and promising gaits shown, there simply hasn't been any such attempt.

Edna Souther, No. 1 in the catalogue, has had a fair amount of road work, and shows good speed. She is bred in California lines of blood, and her grandam, Western Girl, produced Honesty, 2:25½, the founder of one of the best of the Australian trotting families. No. 2, Sandy, is small, but a great lot trotter and very kind for the limited amount of handling he has had. Marquis, No. 3, is a large and fine-looking three-year-old. He has a splendid way of going, and should make a fast horse. The Diver, No. 4, while broken single and double, is not an easy mare to handle. She has about as much speed for the chance she has had as anything I ever saw, and a tougher mare never walked, but I doubt if she ever had a regular day's training in her life. She has a great set of feet and legs, and is at an age to stand lots of work. The writer has known her since her two-year-old form, and while she has passed through several hands, she has never yet been given half a chance to show what she can do. If some good, careful man took hold of her and gave her plenty of the right kind of work, she would, in the opinion of the writer, be a really great race mare.

No. 5, Benighted, is one of the best-bred of the El Bentons in this sale. His breeding is very strong, having several crosses of thoroughbred back of the two trotting crosses. His third dam, Esperanza, was the grandam of one of the best race horses ever on the coast, Beauty Mac. No. 6, Irene Souther, is one of the most stylish road mares in the sale and can be driven almost anywhere. Is very up-headed and enduring. Engadine Prince, No. 7, is a sturdy, well-baited son of El Benton and Jeannie Deans by Whipple's Hambletonian mare is bred in much the same lines as Azote, 2:06½. He inherits about as much sense as a horse could and will make a horse that can be driven anywhere and by anybody. Starts off at a pace but knows nothing but trot when under way; was fairly promising as a yearling and has not been driven since up to the last few weeks. No. 8, Topknot, is well broken for a two-year-old and will be tough and useful.

No. 9, Florence Folger, is perhaps the prettiest of the lot and is as gentle as she is good looking. She promises to trot well and will make an ideal horse in any place where a combination of good looks, good sense and go may be desired. Marzo, No. 10, was used on the road and proved to be good gaited and a free driver; he has a hunch on one hind pastern but travels perfectly sound. He is by a producing son of Nutwood and from a mare that had any quantity of four-mile blood, and with work would perhaps go fast. Nellie Emmett, No. 11, is very highly-formed and perhaps the most promising of the El Bentons. When anything gets injured it is almost always the best of the lot, which is possibly the reason she ran a small piece of fence rail into her left front leg not long ago; however, it will never hurt her in the least and will hardly be noticeable by the time of the sale. She is by El Benton and from a mare by Whipple's Hambletonian; another case of the Azote combination. Nellie Emmett is the best evidence of the broodmare qualities of her dam Lady Emmett, No. 12, a mare of great constitution. She should produce well; has not been bred since Nellie Emmett was foaled.

Those familiar with the horses worked at Sacramento some years ago will remember a chestnut mare by Reavis' Blackbird called Lucy H., that could work miles in about 2:28. She is the dam of a rapid-gaited gelding named Lucian, No. 13, and the grandam of a bay filly No. 14, called Pomella, both by El Benton. Lucian is very hardy and shows speed; he was some white on both right front and right hind pasterns in addition to the marks mentioned in catalogue. Pomella is large and of a rangy type; she has fine legs and feet and lots of substance with a good gait. Signa, No. 15, is a good all-round mare, strong enough to do lots of traveling and Florentine, No. 16, resembles in appearance his sire, El Benton, very closely. He is powerfully built, sturdy, and will make a great carriage or trap-horse. He has a little white on the right front and left hind coronet, another catalogue error. Nellie, No. 17, is very useful in harness or under saddle and is very gentle, as is Maud, No. 18, a fine large mare that will fit in well anywhere.

Don't overlook the El Bentons; they will be a great family of fine-looking, kind, pure-gaited and fast trotters.

Mr. T. W. Barstow, of San Jose, consigns a baker's dozen of well bred animals headed by a well-bred son of Eros and Abbie S., by Abbottsford; second dam Sweetbriar, 2:26½.

Mr. L. Hewlett, of East Oakland, sends nine young horses by Secretary, Antevolo Jr., etc.

Mr. H. A. Mayhew, of Niles, sends several useful horses, including a mare by Flaherty's Fearnought from Pusa, the dam of Niles Beauty, 2:19½, Haverly (p), 2:25, and Mojeska (p), 2:32½. This mare is consequently a half-sister to these three and as she was stunted to Direct last spring she certainly should prove a valuable purchase.

Catalogues and any further information desired may be obtained of the consignors and of Klamath and Lesa Wilkes.

The first regular event on the day's programme was the 2:11 trot, and quite a contest it proved. Judge Austin was scratched, and of the nine remaining the fast William Penn was made a hot favorite, with Klamath second choice. A sample pool before the race was Penn $50, Klamath $40, field $12, and in the books it was 7 to 10 William Penn, 8 to 5 Klamath, the rest 10 and 15 to 1. Lesa Wilkes drew the pole with Penn in second position, and Klamath in seventh place. Lesa Wilkes acted well, scored fast, and when they were sent away to a good start she held her place in spite of William Penn's rush. Going past the quarter Lesa led by half a length from William Penn, with Nightingale and Nightmare head and head for third place. At the three-eighths William Penn went to the front and led at the half by two lengths from Lesa Wilkes, with Nightingale third and Klamath trotting fast in fourth place. Coming into the stretch William Penn had increased his lead to five lengths, and was winning with the greatest of ease when Dickerson, hard at work on Lesa Wilkes, came with a rush at the distance stand, and, catching Kline napping, headed William Penn. Kline went to the whip but could not get the Santa Claus colt going again, and Lesa Wilkes won by a neck in 2:09, cutting her record 2½ seconds. The victory of the Guy Wilkes mare was so unexpected that the talent was somewhat unsettled, but they finally decided to throw William Penn overboard, and pin their faith to Klamath, that had finished a strong third in the first heat. The pooling was heavy, with Klamath selling at even money against the field. The field got away on even terms in this heat, but Klamath made a break after leaving the wire, losing his position. It was again a battle between William Penn and Lesa Wilkes, and they trotted to the middle of the last turn like a double team. Here Penn fell back a space, and Klamath joined the pair. Turning into the stretch, it was Lesa Wilkes, William Penn and Klamath half lengths apart. At the draw gate Lesa Wilkes and Penn were both getting the whip, and Klamath, on the outside, was trotting true and strong, with Raymond imploring him to "eat 'em up Cookie." Lesa Wilkes held the advantage to the end, however, and won by a good neck, while Klamath beat the tired William Penn a nose for the place. Klamath still sold favorite in the pools, and the judges thought it well to interview his rider, Raymond. He assured them that it was all right, and that he would "eat 'em up" the next heat. It was a perfect start, and Klamath at once set sail for the pole, and down the back stretch was in the lead, with Lesa Wilkes second and William Penn third. The result was never in doubt, although Dickerson made a terrific drive in the stretch, but Klamath with a tap or two of the whip, won easily by half a length. The race was now conceded to Klamath, and there was no further pooling. In the books he was held at 3 to 10. The fourth heat was easy for the favorite. Dickerson trailed to the stretch, and made another attempt to win in the last eighth, but could not reach the Oregon wonder. In the fifth heat Lesa Wilkes, William Penn and Nightingale, all had a try at the Western gelding, and it looked at the first quarter as if the Village farm mare was going to trot one of her old-time beats. She made a bad break before reaching the half, however, and fell back next to last. Lesa Wilkes was a length back of Klamath as they turned into the stretch, with William Penn trotting a 2:00 clip in third place. He came very fast through the stretch, and the crowd had just begun to cry, "Look at William Penn come," when he went all to pieces, figuratively, and had hardly settled again when he came under the wire in fifth place. William Penn trotted a poor race; Lesa Wilkes a good one, and Klamath showed that, for what he can do, he is one of the best race horses that ever started down the Grand Circuit.—Horseman.

How Azote Won at Cleveland.

The cool weather of yesterday was still in evidence to-day, accompanied by a stiff wind, which made the day hardly a pleasant one for racing. However, notwithstanding the high wind and cool weather, Azote lowered his own and the world's gelding record three-quarters of a second, and cleverly beat his competitors in the free-for-all in straight heats. Eight thousand people were out to witness this race, as well as the two remaining class races, one of which went over unfinished.

Only three horses came to the post in the free-for-all, namely, Azote, Hulda and Ryland T. The big gelding's race at La Crosse, when he wrested the champion honors for geldings from Ryland T., by trotting a heat in 2:07½, at the same time defeating Fantasy and Phoebe Wilkes, and again, his defeat a week later at Saginaw in fast time of Directum, Muta Wilkes and Ryland T., proved beyond a doubt that the son of Whips is in great form and possesses speed and stamina enough to compete with any living trotter. Ryland T. as yet has not this season shown fast, but a rapid half in his race at Saginaw foreshadowed that the gelding was rounding to his form of a year ago. Hulda made her first start to-day since she broke down in the memorable Columbian free-for-all at Washington Park. The public had no line on this mare, but knew well that the Talleyrand of the Turf certainly had her in great form. She trotted a grand race to-day, her official time as the second horse being 2:07½ in the opening heat. She is also going good, sound and strong.

The betting, when the horses came to the post, was Azote $100, the field $50. At the start Ryland T. drew the pole, Azote second and Hulda third. The horses were sent away on the fourth score, going good and strong. Around the first turn and to the quarter Azote and Ryland T. fairly flew as a pair in 31½ seconds, with Hulda trailing close by the leaders. In going down to the half, Azote opened a gap of an open length from Hulda, who was about a length in advance of Ryland T. The watches showed they were at the half in 1:02½. The three-quarters was reached in 1:33½ and the mile was covered in 2:06½, Azote maintaining his lead of an open length from the half to the finish, while Ryland T. dropped out of the chase at the head of the stretch. The second heat Hickok set out with Hulda in earnest and kept his great mare at the big gelding's wheel until the half was reached. The first quarter was in 31½ seconds, the half in 1:02½. At this point Azote drew away from the mare and reached the three-quarters two lengths in advance of Hulda in 1:33½, with Ryland T. three open lengths back of her. When the horses came around the turn into the stretch, it was evident that Hickok could not overtake the gelding, and quit driving at the distance. This mile was in 2:08½. Azote cleverly won the final heat, while Hulda and Ryland T. had a bruising race for place through the stretch, the gelding being an eyelash to the good at the wire. The time of this heat was 0:32½, 1:04½, 1:36½ and 2:10.—Horse Review.

Pat Dunne's Flying Dutchman.

The largest winning owner at Oakley is Pat Dunne, who came to Oakley from Hawthorne when he saw racing at Chicago was a dead letter. His stable, consisting of eleven horses, has been a very useful one, and, with the exception of one stake event (the Telegraph, won by Flying Dutchman) his $12,000 consists of money won in purses. His eleven horses captured twenty-three races up to date, showing excellent management on the part of the shrewd trainer and owner. Close attention to his business is responsible for this, and the plungers at Saratoga would better keep an eye on his horses when he starts them at that point.

Of the twenty-three races won, Flying Dutchman, his crack three-year-old, won five; Frontier, the two-year-old Fonso colt, won five (every race he started in); his two-year-old Blue Eyes colt Marsian, three (also unbeaten at this meeting); Saint Ilario, three; Enthusiast and Oakley two each. His horses have also run into second and third places twenty times, and on different occasions were beaten by very narrow margins, this being particularly the case with Enthusiast, who is a sluggish mover.

Flying Dutchman has been Mr. Dunne's largest winning horse, and his defeat of Lissak in the Telegraph Stakes on last Saturday and his easy victory over St. Maxim since that time shows the colt to be all that his owner thought him to be last fall and this spring. He has a wonderful turn of speed, and, unlike the other few Wagners we have seen, can carry the speed over a distance of ground and stand a drive when called on. He carried Lissak so fast for the first mile in the Telegraph Stakes that the game black was actually dizzy when it came to the pinch and wobbled home through the final sixteenth a beaten horse. He was giving The Dutchman ten pounds and ran a wonderfully good race himself. In the Liberty Stakes, run on the first day of the meeting, he was pocketed the greater part of the journey, but responded very gamely when his jockey got an opening.

Flying Dutchman is a chestnut colt of almost faultless conformation; the only complaint the critic can make of him is, perhaps, his being a little leggy. The high-headed action has also been criticised, but now that he has shown that he can go a distance at a stiffling pace, this fault is not objectionable. He was bred by Col. W. L. Simmons, the trotting horse breeder of George Wilkes fame, who raced him successfully part of last season and then sold him to Pat Dunne, his present owner, for $15,000. Owing to his being a half-brother to the notorious quitter, Dockstader, who was a very fast horse in private, though he showed remarkable form when being broke as a yearling, Col. Simmons offered to sell him at that age for $1,000, but could find nobody willing to take a chance with him.

As a two-year-old he started twelve times, winning eight races, running second twice and unplaced twice, his earning on the season footing up $7,025. At Oakley in several starts he has won his last five races straight, being beat in the Liberty Stakes, on the opening day, by Lissak and Simon W., finishing third, and being defeated a few days later by O'Connell, he running into the place. Unfortunately for his clever owner, he has no engagement East, where he goes with his stable companions at the conclusion of the present meeting here. His earnings, however, at Oakley, now foot up $4,582.

Imp. Wagner, his sire, a son of imp. Prince Charlie, raced once successfully as a two-year-old, but then met with an accident and never started again, thus winning his only start.

He was imported by F. S. Walton, and purchased at auction by his present owner, L. B. Fields, of Harry O'Fallon distinction, for the insignificant sum of a trifle over $300, the latter's brother, W. M. Fields, Jr., and Mr. Engleman, of Danville, Ky., also being interested in the horse. Outside of Flying Dutchman, imp. Wagner's best get are Minnehaha, who sold for $12,000 as a yearling, and Shield Bearer, his chances in the stud being decidedly limited. The chief reason he sold so cheap was his coarse appearance, but in his breeding he has improved on himself.

Glen Mercy, Flying Dutchman's dam, is by imp. Glenslg, whose daughters have proven great broodmares, Santiago, Santa Anna, Troubadour, Lizzie Krepps, Kaloolab, La Sylphide, Kinsem, Bermuda, Dagonet, Livonia, Jennie June, Volante, Estrella, Chaos, Protection, Suricoma, Mohican, Verano and Nomad being some of the many good race horses out of stud matrons by the famous old English-bred horse, who led the American winning stallions in 1884, 1886, 1887 and 1888, and was fourth in 1889, a record equaled by no horse since the days of Lexington. She in turn was out of imp. Mercy, by Trumpeter, who comes from a winning family on the English turf.—N. Y. Mercury.

F. J. LEARY, Trainer Park Farm, Cranston, R. I., writes: I have given your Absorbine a thorough trial and think it a good thing to keep in training stables.

JNO. MATHEWS, Tuxedo Park, N. Y., writes: The effect on puffy hock is very satisfactory. The great advantage of the Absorbine is that the animal can be kept at work.

GREAT preparations are being made for the Horse Show that is to take place in this city next December. The managers will be sure of receiving a splendid entry list of famous rotters and pacers. It will be a success beyond measure.

HAS WILLIAMS FAILED?

The Chronicle Declares That He Could Not Raise the Money to Buy Bay District Track.

The Bay District race track is doomed.

It is positively asserted that Thomas H. Williams has failed to raise the $650,000 required to purchase the property. Aside from this fact, it is understood that the streets are to be opened through the track, no matter what the owners may be inclined to do.

It is not necessary for the Supervisors to take further action in the premises. The streets were laid out and declared open long ago, and the high fence must come down whenever a property-holder demands it. The track has existed by the tolerance of the property-owners and not by any right in law.

The members of the Street Committee have practically agreed to demand the opening of the streets through the tract occupied by the association, in accordance with the demands of the property-owners in the Twelfth Ward.

The uncertain tenure of the place for racing purposes is what led to Williams' failure to raise the money needed for its purchase. As a gambling proposition the tract would be well worth $650,000, but as a business proposition real estate men think the price much too high. That section of the city is building up rapidly and residences are beginning to crowd it on every side. In the nature of things it will have to go soon, too soon for the purchasers to make up the difference between the gambling and the business or real value of the place.

Then there arose the uncertainty as to what the rival track would do. The company has already built an excellent track, has inclosed it and is ready to let its contracts for the club-house, grandstand, stables and other necessary buildings. The directors of the company are well known, and their money has been paid in. Their grounds are paid for and they have money enough in bank to go ahead.

All these things militated against Williams. Capitalists are not anxious to buy into a fight. It is said that J. B. Haggin first fell away, then the Lorillards and then others. Williams never lost his nerve, however, though he was decidedly weakened by the list of stakes that the new track people recently made public. He will not yet admit that he is beaten, but people on the inside know it to be a fact. Even if he got the money, the ground could not be utilized for racing purposes and the purchasers would have nothing but town lots on their hands.

"The Bay District track will soon be a thing of the past, no matter what may be said to the contrary," said a well-posted racing man yesterday. "The streets will soon be put through the property. Any property-holder can demand that and may have demanded it already. Besides that, Williams has not succeeded in raising the large sum of money required to buy the property, and little wonder. Money is scarce just now, even for legitimate purposes. Still, if Williams could have given guarantees that the courts would not break up his track and that the next Legislature would not pass laws inimical to racing, he would have succeeded. He could not do that. Then, too, Corrigan and his associates have played a very steady, careful hand and have stolen several marches on the Bay District people. Horsemen realize that San Francisco is a good town for one race track, but they doubt that it will support two. There is a feeling that continuous racing is not a good thing for owners and patrons. Anyway, the money has not been raised and it is well understood that it will not be raised, and this is certainly the last season of racing in the Point Lobos region."

In racing circles and among the bookmakers there are whispers that a definite understanding has already been reached between Williams and the Pacific Racing Association. The story runs to the effect that Williams will own quite a block of stock in the new association, variously stated at from 10 to 20 per cent, and that he will have a voice in its management and in the distribution of its patronage. In the meantime, when there are no races in this city, he will run horses at his Oakland track.

In confirmation of this rumor is the fact that Williams is now spending a large sum of money—put at $50,000—on the Oakland track, which he holds under a lease. He would hardly do this if he expected to continue racing at the Bay District track.

Another fact was developed yesterday, and that was that the new association's intentions is to have races only from November to March. Henry J. Crocker, honorary secretary of the new association, admitted this yesterday. "Such is our present intention," he said. "I cannot tell you anything about our plans just yet, and you must excuse me from discussing the Bay District track affairs. Though I am in the new association I am a warm personal friend of Mr. Williams. I did not believe he would succeed in raising the money required to buy the track, simply because of the uncertainty as to how long the property can be kept intact. The price demanded would be pretty stiff for town lots. There might be races there this year, perhaps next, but certainly not beyond that; the city growing in that direction too rapidly."

"Does Mr. Williams own stock in the association?" was asked.

"I cannot say. He might own stock and have it stand in the name of someone else. I think it would be a good thing for us all to get together, and I feel very kindly towards Mr. Williams. I would be willing to step aside in his interest. He is evidently expecting to use the Oakland track. We are going right ahead with our work, and have the greatest encouragement from horsemen in every direction."

That the owners of the Bay District site have had little confidence in the sale of the site is shown by the fact that they have already made a contract with Warren & Malley, the contractors, for the filling in and grading of the entire property. The same firm has contracts with more than forty other property-owners about the track to fill in or grade blocks or lots. They are ready to go on with this work, and confidently expect to do so soon. "We cannot do so, of course," said Contractor Warren last evening, "until the pending negotiations are settled, and we understand Mr. Williams' hand has not expired as yet."

Among horsemen and bookmakers the belief is expressed that the purchase of the track has fallen through, and that the end of racing at the Bay District is in sight.

Mr. Williams, seen last night, said he was not a holder of stock in the Pacific Jockey Club. The Bay District would shut down, he stated, during the State Fair, but would reopen afterward.

A stockholder in both associations said yesterday: "It may be that Mr. Williams will be foolish enough to go into this Bay District scheme, but if he does it will be plain financial suicide. His friends who understand the proposition are trying to persuade him to drop it quick."—Chronicle.

The Woodland Fair.

The directors of the Agricultural Association held an important meeting Saturday evening in Secretary Barney's office. There were present L. B. Adams, Benj. Griffin, M. Diggs, T. S. Spaulding, C. F. Thomas, Wm. Gibson and Sam Mowder. The meeting opened and closed with a discussion of the fruit exhibit, and convention of growers. It was finally decided that all the money necessary should be appropriated to guarantee the success of this feature of the fair. The directors thought it would be worth the while to find out in what the various sections of Yolo county excel. For instance, they want to know which is the best section for peaches which for tokay grapes, which for prunes, which for almonds, etc. They propose to district the county and assign to each a certain space in the pavilion. Competent judges will pass upon the display and award premiums.

They are especially anxious to call out a good showing of dried fruits, and to distinguish the product of the most successful packer of sun cured fruits. A special committee, consisting of T. S. Spaulding, M. Diggs and C. M. Barney, was charged with putting this machinery of the fruit display in motion. They will act immediately and vigorously.

They propose that their efforts in this direction shall be a success, and that the association will thus demonstrate the need of a pavilion so forcibly that it will follow in the near future as a consequence.

As public-spirited citizens and as property-owners personally interested in the prosperity of Yolo county they are ambitious to contribute to the progressive tendencies of the times. They are all believers in the "little farm well tilled" idea. And they want to see our fruit-growers, dairymen and fine stock raisers wake up and put more brains and ambition in their business.

The balance of the meeting was devoted to consideration of bids. The following were the accepted contractors:

Pool selling, George Rose of New York.

Bar and cigars, C. L. Nelson of San Francisco.

Official programme, Lee & Daniels, of Woodland.

Ice cream, George Hennigan, of Woodland.

Music, Woodland Cornet Band.

I. P. Diggs was awarded the contract to furnish straw.

Lunch counter bids were rejected.

The restaurant contract is still open.

Editor Ravlin, of the Pacific Cyclist, was permitted to distribute circulars on the day of the bicycle races.

The directors are well satisfied with the bids, and the prospect brightens for the best and most complete agricultural fair ever held in the county.

Woodland has the fastest track in the State, and a fair management that is popular with the best and wealthiest breeding farms and racing stables in the West. Great interest will center this year in the Woodland meeting.

The fact that Hon. H. M. LaRue will preside in the judges stand, gives every assurance that the races will be run on the dead square, at the peril of the infliction of the severest punishment, for all crooked business.—Mail.

M. F. Dwyer Returns to America.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Michael Dwyer, the turfman who has been in England with Richard Croker since last March, engaged in racing a string of horses in English events, returned to this country on the North German Lloyd steamer Fulda.

Mr. Dwyer returned the owner of but one of the string of horses that he took over—Harry Reed.

"I cannot say I am pleased with the treatment accorded me in England," said Mr. Dwyer. "In the first place, my horses were almost invariably overweighted by the handicappers, so that it was any odds against my being able to win the races in which I had entries."

"In the next place the Englishmen made it a business to claim any horse of mine entered in a selling race which was so unfortunate as to run second. The only one I saved out of the string was Harry Reed. They might have got him away from me only that they were afraid I would win the race in which he was entered."

"Up to that time the haddicappers had always made Harry Reed carry 120 pounds, but in the race I speak of he was to carry but 108 pounds. Harry Reed had an excellent chance to win the race, and they knew it. That would not have suited their purposes, however, so they left him standing at the post."

"I am firmly convinced from the way it was done that it was a deliberate action and a put-up job to leave him at the post. Then I quit in disgust and came back."

"I want to deny the story that there has been any trouble between Mr. Croker and myself. That is absolutely not true."

THE Terre Haute Express says: There is an interesting story attaching to Jimmie Hague, the winner of the 2:35 trot yesterday. He is set down in the books as of untraced breeding. It is generally believed, however, that he was sired by Antevolo. At a big horse sale a few years ago a lot of finely bred horses was sold to Woolner, Greenhut, and other whisky trust magnates. Among the lot was one or more by Antevolo. Woolner lost one of a match pacing team and traded off one of his youngsters for another pacer. Woolner valued the youngster at about the gold value of a trade dollar, and so figured it in the trade. Jimmy Hague finally passed into the hands of D. K. Beath, of Bloomington, Ill., who liked the gelding's way of moving. After winning three races this season he was started at Joliet last Friday and lowered his mark to 2:16½. The next day he was shipped to Terre Haute, but did not arrive here until Sunday night. Without any preparation he was started in the 2:35 trot yesterday and moved down the field of fast ones, lowering his record to 2:14. This was no indication of what the supposed son of Antevolo is capable of doing, for at no time was there anything in the party that could give him an argument.

Pacific Jockey Club Stake Events.

Horsemen all over the country have been on the qui vive for the announcement of the stake events for the newly organized Pacific Coast Jockey Club that is to hold its initial meeting at the Ingleside track, which is now in the course of construction.

Fourteen stake events have been prepared, aggregating in value $32,000. The richest event is the Spreckels stake worth $6000 in all. The distance for this stake is four miles. The next most valuable stake is the Ormonde stake, over three miles of territory, the guarantee value of which is $3,200. The most money is offered for long distance racing in every instance, which fact will certainly be appreciated by all admirers of stamina in a racehorse.

The two-year-olds have been well provided for and every owner will doubtless find some distance to his liking. There is a hurdle race and a steeplechase among the stake events. The stakes and conditions for the Pacific Jockey Club meeting are as follows:

The Spreckels stake—A handicap for three-year-olds and upwards. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $5000 to the first, $500 to the second, $300 to the third and $200 to the fourth horse. Entrance $15 each, to accompany the nomination; $100 additional to start. Four miles.

The Ormonde stakes—For three-year-olds and upwards. The association to guarantee the valuation of the race, $2500 to the first, $500 to the second and $200 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $50 additional to start. Weights fifteen pounds below the scale. Non-winners this year of $1500 allowed four pounds; of $1000, eight pounds; of $500, fourteen pounds. Three miles.

The Crocker stakes—A selling sweepstakes for three-year-olds and upwards. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $2000 to the first, $250 to the second and $100 to the third. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start. Selling conditions. Two and a half miles.

The Ullman steeplechase—A handicap steeplechase for three-year-olds and upwards. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $1500 to the first, $250 to the second and $150 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination, $25 additional to start. The full course.

The Hobart Stakes—For two-year-olds. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $1,500 to the first, $250 to the second and $100 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start. Penalty and allowances. Six furlongs.

The Ingleside Stakes—For two-year-old fillies. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $1,500 to the first, $250 to the second and $100 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start. A winner of two stake races of the value of $1,500, or one of the value of $2,500, to carry five pounds penalty; non-winners of a race of the value of $700 allowed five pounds; maidens allowed ten pounds; if beaten two or more times, fifteen pounds. Five and one-half furlongs.

The Horse Show Association Stakes—A handicap for two-year-olds. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $1,500 to the first, $300 to the second and $200 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 to start. Weights to appear five days before the race. Seven furlongs.

The Haggin Stakes—For two-year-olds. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $1,500 to the first, $250 to the second and $100 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start. Penalties and allowances. Seven furlongs.

The Palace Hotel Stakes—For three-year-olds. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $1,500 to the first, $300 to the second and $100 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start. A winner this year of three or more stakes of any value, or of one of the value of $3,000 to carry three pounds penalty; non-winners this year of a stake, or of two races of any value allowed five pounds; of three races, ten pounds; non-winners in 1895 allowed seventeen pounds. One and one-eighth miles.

The Baldwin Hotel Stakes—For all ages. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $1,500 to the first, $300 to the second and $100 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start. Two-year-olds to carry five pounds penalty; non-winners in 1895, if three-year-olds or upward, of a race of the value of $1,000, allowed four pounds; of $700, seven pounds; of $400 twelve pounds. Six furlongs.

The Palo Alto Stakes—A selling sweepstakes for three-year-olds and upward. The association to guarantee the value of the race, $1,500 to the first, $250 to the second and $100 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start.—Selling conditions. One mile.

The General Arthur Cigar Stakes—A handicap for three-year-olds and upward. The association to guarantee the valuation of the race, $1,500 to the first, $250 to the second and $100 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start. One and one-sixteenth miles.

The Governor Budd Stakes—A selling sweepstakes for all ages. The association to guarantee the valuation of the race, $1,500 to the first, $350 to the second and $150 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start. The winner to be sold at auction for $3,000; if entered to be sold for less, one pound allowed for each $200 up to $2,000, and three pounds for each $200 less to $1,000. One and a half miles.

The California Stake—A handicap hurdle race for three-year-olds and upward. The association to guarantee the valuation of the race, $1,200 to the first, $200 to the second and $100 to the third horse. Entrance $10 each, to accompany the nomination; $25 additional to start. Two miles, over eight hurdles.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:--

FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.

SECOND It will not cause headache.

THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.

FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.

FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.

SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.

SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.

EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.

NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")

TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE

UNITED STATES SMOKELESS POWDER CO.

No. 13 Pine Street, San Francisco, Cal.

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

First--It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.

Second--It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.

Third--It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.

Fourth--It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.

Fifth--Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.

Sixth--Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.

Seventh--This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.

Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, galting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm. Mailed postpaid for $3.50. Address

THE RAYMOND Leverage :- Chin :- Check.

There is no opposing force in the mouth. It works independent of the driving bit and keeps the mouth closed, thus dispensing with a nose band. It has a powerful impact leverage that resists the most stubborn effort to put the head down and choke. It is the only Chin Check that a W overdraw can be used on to advantage.

THE PETALUMA RACES.

Good Racing—Close Finishes in Every Heat—
Many Records Lowered.

FIRST DAY—TUESDAY, AUGUST 20.

The attendance for this, the opening day of the Petaluma Fair, was not as large as on former occasions. The short notice the people had that a fair was to be held and the general depression in agricultural and dairy pursuits had much to do with the lack of attendance. Money is scarce, and here in this great valley it is as noticeable as in the great business centers of the United States.

The weather was cool; a good stiff breeze was blowing as the people took their seats in the big grand stand and listened to the music of the First Infantry Band from Angel Island. At two o'clock Judge Macley called up the horses for the first race; it was for the 2:24 class, trotting, purse $500. There were only four entries: Lady O., Palermo, Letter B. and Bijou. In the betting Lady O. sold for $20, field $10.

After scoring five times they got an even start for the first heat. Lady O. showed the most speed from the start and opened a couple of lengths in front of Bijou, with Palermo about the same distance behind her and Letter B four lengths back. In this way they went to the three-quarter mark. From there home Palermo closed up on Bijou and passed her in front of the distance stand, coming second and less than two lengths behind Lady O., Bijou a good third and Letter B. fourth, Lady O. winning the heat with comparative ease. Time, 2:22½.

Off the second time to a good start, Palermo took the lead and held it to the three-quarter pole, when Lady O. came with a rush and beat him down the last quarter as she pleased, the other two strung out. The announcement was Lady O. first, Palermo second, Letter B third and Bijou fourth. Time, 2:18½.

The next heat was better, as the horses were closer together. Palermo led past the half, closely followed by Lady O. In the stretch Palermo tired badly and came in last. Lady O. first, Letter B second, Bijou third and Palermo last. Time, 2:19½.

The following pacers answered roll call in the 2:25 class: Ruby M., h m, by Almont Patchen, driven by J. Sullivan; Senator, br s, by Secretary—by Gen. Taylor, Dan Misner behind him; Birdroe, h m, by Mark Monroe—Birdie, J. Baker driving; Bahe Marian, h m, by Steinway—Ida Wood, Ben Chahoya driving; Alco, b s, by Alconeer—Jessie Elliott, with J. Berryman as pilot.

This was a race from start to finish between Ruby M and Senator, who went like a double team for three-quarters of a mile, when Ruby broke and lost two lengths, but made it up in the last quarter and won by half a length from Birdroe, who led the Senator by half a length, Bahe Marian a neck only back of the Senator, Alco pulling up and coming in at ease. The secretary called out Ruby first, Birdroe second, Senator third, Bahe fourth and Alco fifth. Time, 2:19½.

This was a magnificent heat and was in doubt, with the horses close together all the way around. It looked like the heat belonged to Birdroe till the last moment, when Ruby beat her out by head, the others all in a bunch. The result was Ruby first, Birdroe second, Bahe third, Senator fourth, Alco fifth. Time, 2:18½.

It was an easy thing for Ruby who seemed to be the only one that was not tired. They were strung out all the way in the next heat and came home in the following order: Ruby first, Senator second, Birdroe third, Bahe fourth, Alco fifth. Time, 2:21.

Ruby M., 2:18½, is a bay mare by Almont Patchen, out of a mare by Tilton Almont, and it is confidently believed she will be one of the best mares ever sired by this speedy stallion.

T. O., the sire of Lady O., 2:18½, is a son of Anteo, and was bred to only a few mares, but all of his progeny are fast.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 21.

The stock parade was the center of attraction this morning, and although the number of fine bred cattle and horses was not as long as formerly seen at this fair, the superiority of those exhibited over those shown at previous meetings was remarked. The Holsteins, owned by J. H. White, of Lakeville, the Durhams belonging to J. Lynch, and P. Ward's herd of Jerseys followed quite a number of thoroughbreds, standard trotters, roadsters, general purpose and draft horses. Sonoma county has achieved a world-wide reputation for the excellence of the stock bred there, and when one has an opportunity of inspecting the "foundation" families from whence these great ones were bred, it is no wonder their fame is world-wide.

The weather was pleasant and the attendance a vast improvement on that of yesterday, the pavilion being thronged last evening by crowds of delighted visitors for the exhibit of agricultural, viticultural and horticultural products, besides manufactured articles and exhibits of fine art and needlework was only put in plan a few days ago. It is astonishing how well the exhibitors performed their part of the labors to make this portion of the fair a success. The people who attended last evening heard about the good race meeting, and consequently they came to-day.

The judges were: Robt. Brown, Asa Higgins and R. Crane. The first race on the programme was for the 2:40 class trotters. The entries were Lady Thornhill, Robin, Nina L., Charivari and Leonora. In the pools Lady Thornhill was made favorite, selling at $20 to $10 on the field. Lady Thornhill drew the outside position and shortly after leaving the wire she broke and fell back to last position. Robin and Charivari then took the lead, the former a little in advance. The race lay entirely between these two. When within ten yards of the wire Robin broke, but he managed to catch the judges' eye first, a head in front of Charivari, in 2:22½; the latter trotting a very pretty heat. Lady Thornhill was third, Leonora fourth and Nina L. last.

In the next heat Lady Thornhill set the pace. Directly behind her in a bunch followed Robin, Charivari and Leonora. Their positions remained unchanged until the home stretch was reached. Robin left his companions and was alongside of Lady Thornhill at the seven-eighths pole. It was a pretty race to the wire between these two, but Lady Thornhill nipped the victory by a nose in 2:22½ from his game companion, Charivari third. Leonora was fourth and Nina L. last. Time, 2:22½.

After the word was given Lady Thornhill broke and fell back. Sullivan, her driver, thought it was not a start, and when he discovered his mistake he sent his mare after those ahead of him and passed them one by one until he reached Charivari. Thos. Snider, the driver of the latter, landed his mare in front of Lady Thornhill at least a head as they went under the wire, but the judges gave the heat to Lady Thornhill, Leonora third, Robin fourth and Nina L. last. Time, 2:23. The decision caused much comment among the audience.

The favorite, Lady Thornhill, took the lead again in this heat, and was never headed to the wire. Leonora came up to within half a length of her at the three-quarter pole, but Lady Thornhill had some speed in reserve, for she shot away from her as if the latter was standing still. Charivari came up at the last few yards and trotted in second, one length behind Lady Thornhill and half a length in front of Leonora, Nina L. fourth and Robin L. fifth. Time, 2:22½.

The second event was the 2:20 class trot between Chico, Jennie June, Thompson and Myrtle Thorne. Pools sold, Myrtle Thorne and Chico in the field at $10, Thompson $7 and Jennie June $3. When Judge Brown sent them away to a beautiful start Chico and Myrtle Thorne took the lead, Jennie June broke and fell back to the last place. The leaders trotted like a team to the wire, Myrtle winning by a head from Chico, Thompson third and Jennie June last. Time, 2:18½. The race between the leaders was a very pretty one, neither of the horses making a skip, but keeping as near head and head as possible all the way.

Myrtle Thorne won the next heat easily in 2:19. Thompson made a vigorous attempt to get to the front, but his speed was not as great as his zeal, for he broke badly and was set back to last position for breaking. Chico came in second, Jennie June third and Thompson last. Time, 2:19.

In the next heat Thompson passed Myrtle Thorne at the eighth pole, and, with Jennie June at his side, he led the favorite to the three-quarter pole. Jennie fell back at this point, and Myrtle trotted up and took her place. Coming down the straight Myrtle faltered and Chico came up and took the second position as Thompson trotted under the wire first in the excellent time of 2:18½. Jennie June was fourth.

There was no betting previous to this heat. Thompson and Myrtle Thorne started out like a team, and as Chico broke at the first turn and fell back to keep Jennie June company, the two leaders moved on. The half was made in 1:10½, and then Loehner behind Myrtle and Van Bokkelen began to drive, but Thompson had the most speed, for he landed the heat a winner by a length in front of the mare. Chico was third and Jennie June last. Time, 2:17½. The winner of this race is a chestnut stallion by Boodle, 2:15, out of a mare by Jim Mulvanna, and like all the progeny of his sire he is game to the core. That he will lower his record before the circuit ends is a foregone conclusion. He was driven in a masterly manner by B. Van Bokkelen.

The special trotting race brought out two contestants—Olga, by Sable Wilkes, and Josephine, by Secretary. In the first heat Olga made several breaks and came in under the wire a length in front of Josephine in 2:36.

In the second heat Josephine trotted to the front and never lost her advantage, winning the heat in 2:27½. She is a large, well-formed black filly four years old, and belongs to W. H. Lumsden, of Santa Rosa. She is by Secretary (son of Director, 2:17), out of Gypsy, by Echo; second dam by McCracken's Black Hawk; third dam by old Ethan Allen, the king of the Morgan family. Josephine is in foal to Gossiper, 2:14½, and ought to produce a great foal from this union.

Olga won the concluding heat in 2:29½. Olga is by Sable Wilkes, dam Hannah, by Le Grande; second dam Hannah Prince, by Artherton. She belongs to the San Mateo Stock Farm, and was well-driven by T. Kenney.

THIRD DAY—THURSDAY, AUGUST 22.

The attendance was better to-day. A large number of people came from San Francisco, and the betting in consequence would have been much better had there been any reasonable doubt as to the outcome of the two races that were to take place. The 2:17 class trot had but three entries—Boodle, Stranger and Electra—and any novice could join the talent and certify which would be the winner long before the judges assumed control of the trio. Pools sold: Boodle $10, field $3, and to get that $2 less the commission hundreds of dollars were ready.

The judges were F. W. Loehner, Asa Higgins and R. Crane. At two o'clock the bell rang and the three horses appeared, Electra passed Boodle and Stranger at the first eighth and went to the half in 1:10. Van Bokkelen began to urge Boodle to close up the gap of ten lengths in front of him and the fast-moving daughter of Richards Elector. He gained on her in every stride and at the distance flag was on even terms with her. Rodgers was driving Electra for all she was worth when she made a "jintown," and before she got settled Boodle passed her and won under the wire by a head. Time, 2:19.

FIFTH DAY—FRIDAY, AUGUST 16TH.

This was Children's Day at the track, and from early dawn until late in the afternoon hundreds of well-dressed, healthy little boys and girls, accompanied by their parents and teachers, passed through the gates and wandered all over the extensive grounds. The grand stand was packed, and down by the quarter-stretch the excited little ones were crowding each other to get a view of the races which were arranged by that genial director and friend to everyone, John Even, assisted by Lee La Rue, President of the Association, and Col. John Dinue. Pony and donkey racing, beside a number of foot races, afforded amusement to young and old until the dinner-bell rang, when the little ones hurried home, and in the afternoon again enlivened the track by their presence.

There were four races on the programme, and Judges H. M. La Rue, M. S. Severance and F. W. Loeber had no difficulty in dispatching the races on time. Hulda W., by Albert W., 2:20, out of a mare by Nutwood, entered the 2:30 list. She is a large, handsome bay mare belonging to the Santa Rosa Stock Farm. Robin, a very well-made grandson of Director, also entered the charmed circle. Robin belongs to W. H. Lumsden, of Santa Rosa. Chehalis, the wonderful pacer from the North, won his race handily, but there were several green ones among his competitors that will be dangerous in the next race they start in, notably the chestnut gelding Algoror.

In the 2:27 trotting race a great improvement was noticeable in the speed of several of the contestants. Whether it is the climate of Napa or the superiority of the track it is hard to say; no doubt they contributed much toward this great change for the better so noticeable in the races here.

Boodle, in the last race, fulfilled all the predictions made for him two years ago in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. He is a game race horse, and his mark, 2:15, in the second heat was earned honestly and he deserves it, but we believe he is capable of lowering this splendid record before the season ends. Much credit is due his able trainer and driver, R. Van Bokkelen, for the admirable manner in which he brings this horse to the post and also drives him to the wire. Mr. Van Bokkelen is a well-known Eastern driver, and his work in the sulky is being recognized by all lovers of good racing on this Coast.

The sport commenced with a special trotting race, purse $300. There were only two entries, a bay mare called Hulda W., driven by John Rodgers, formerly of the San Mateo Stock Farm, and a bay stallion called Robin, driven by M. Delano.

Robin won the first heat after making a bad break at the seven-eighths pole in 2:25½, three lengths in front of Hulda W.

Hulda W. won the second heat in 2:28½. She made a disastrous break at the first quarter, being too anxious to go fast. Rodgers pulled her to a walk and then drove her to the wire without letting her make a mistake.

Robin, lame, but dead game, won the next heat and race in 2:23½.

Hulda W. was bred at Rancho del Paso. She is by Albert W., 2:20, out of one of the Nutwood mares there. She was sold to the Santa Rosa Stock Farm, and last spring while Jas. Dustin was there he worked her awhile and then gave her up. J. Rodgers only drove her a few times until he saw she would do to handle, and after three weeks' work she shows that it will be no effort for her to get close to 2:20.

Robin is a bay stallion by Live Oak Hero, out of Bessie, by Nephew. Live Oak Hero, formerly called Lodi Hero, was by Director, 2:17, out of a mare by Santa Claus, 2:17½; second dam by Bull Pup, sire of the dam of Hulda, 2:08½. Robin is exceedingly well bred, and he shows it in his appearance, speed and gameness.

The second event called was the 2:25 pace. There were nine entries: Chehalis, Algoror, Javelin, Phenol, Senator, Ruby M., Birdroe, Pathmont and Resort. Chehalis was harried in the betting. Pools sold: Phenol $20, Pathmont $16, field $10. The start was a good one for such a large field. Chehalis being in the fourth position. Before the first eighth pole was reached he passed those in front of him, the order at the quarter was: Chehalis, Ruby M., Phenol, Pathmont, Javelin, Senator, Algoror, Birdroe and Resort, all about a length apart. There was a general closing of ranks when the procession neared the three-quarter pole. Algoror passing Phenol and Senator, and coming up with the leaders. To the wire these four made a game struggle, Chehalis seemingly playing with them and jogging under the wire in 2:15; Pathmont half a length behind; Ruby M. a like distance away; Algoror fourth, at her hike, and Javelin at his neck. Birdroe was sixth and Phenol, the favorite, breaking badly, was seventh, Senator eighth and Resort distanced.

The start was a pretty one. Chehalis had the pole, and as he stepped away from his companions, Frazier, his driver, looked around and seeing that he had the race won kept his horse playing with the field as a cat would with a mouse. Going down the back turn he let the horses come up near him, and they were Pathmont, Ruby M., Algoror, Javelin, Phenol and Senator. At the half Chehalis was closely trailed by Pathmont and Algoror, the rest scattered. Phenol now came up fast and getting the pole on entering the homestretch her driver, Welden, made a hard drive to get place, but broke as he neared Pathmont, and ran under the wire while steady-going Algoror came in third in 2:13½, Phenol was fourth, Ruby M. fifth, Birdroe sixth, Javelin seventh and Senator eighth. The finish was an exciting one for all the horses it seemed, except the level-headed Chehalis.

Phenol took the lead in the next heat, Chehalis second and Algoror third. The half was passed in 1:04½, then Chehalis took the lead; Algoror came up alongside of him and was at his saddle until within twenty yards of the wire, where Birdroe came with a great burst of speed and nipped the place by a head. The mile was made in 2:14½. Ruby M. was fourth, Javelin fifth, Pathmont sixth, Phenol seventh and Senator last. The greatest surprise of this race was the remarkable speed and gameness shown by the Steinway gelding Algoror. He has only been in training six weeks and has not quite recovered from the effects of an injury received in a railroad accident. He is large and well made and this was his first appearance in a race. He paced the three heats in 2:15½ or better, and when a little stronger will be as great a horse as any Steinway ever foaled. He was bred at the Oakwood Park Stock Farm and is owned by T. J. Crowley, of San Francisco. Algoror is a brother to the great two-year-old, W. W. Foote, 2:15½, his dam being Maggie McGregor by Robert McGregor, 2:17½, second dam Maggie Davis (dam of Matt Kirkwood, 2:30, and Sam Kirkwood, sire of Centella, 2:21; Kitty Clyde, 2:27, and of the dam of Surprise, 2:23½).

The third race was for the 2:27 class trotters. The starters were Columbus S., Briarhill, Montana, Kent, Columbus S., Maria P. and Silver Bee. Pools sold: Briarhill and Columbus S. $10, field $15. Columbus S. and Maria P. took the lead. Kent was sent off on a run and fell back to last position. His hobbles broke and Kinney, his driver, wisely concluded to let his horse come easily, as there was no show in the world for him to win. Columbus S. was in fine form; he went to the half in 1:03, and accompanied by Maria P. he led to the wire, the mare breaking just before reaching the goal. Billy Thornhill third, Silver Bee fourth, Montana fifth and Kent distanced. Time, 2:19½.

In the second heat Maria P. kept alongside of Columbus S., and the two passed the half-mile pole in 1:07½; the rest of the horses not being able to keep near them. At the head of the homestretch Millard Sanders lifted his game little Dexter Prince mare, and at the seven-eighths pole as Columbus S. broke, she passed him, and came in under the wire easily in 2:17½, Silver B. third, Briarhill fourth, Montana fifth and Kent distanced. Time, 2:19½.

The next heat was a repetition of the former: Silver Bee getting the worst of the send-off by three lengths. Maria P. won in the excellent time of 2:15½, Columbus S. breaking at the hundred-yard pole. Silver Bee was third, Montana fourth and Briarhill last.

Columbus S. took the lead from Maria P. half-way down the backstretch when she made a bad break. Before she recovered Silver Bee passed her and set sail for the courageous-moving leader, Columbus S., but he could not get nearer than three lengths of him as he came under the wire in 2:21½, Maria P. third and Montana last.

Thos. Smith drove Columbus S. to the half neck and neck with Maria P. The latter broke, and the big son of McDonald Chief passed her and came in under the wire closely pushed by Silver Bee (who trotted past Maria P. in the homestretch) in 2:20½, Montana fourth. Thos. Smith's victory was a popular one, for it has been his misfortune to have most of his horses outclassed, so everyone was delighted to see him win.

Maria P., the Dexter Prince mare that trotted so gamely and got such a low record, has only been in Millard F. Sanders' string two weeks, and if she keeps on improving will be a very fast and reliable mare before the season ends. Mr. Sanders drove her with rare skill.

The special purse for named horses brought out Irene Crocker, Hamrock, Hillsdale and Boodle. Boodle was favorite at $20, field $10. Boodle broke at the eighth pole, and before Van Bokkelen could get him settled Connolly drove Irene Crocker past him. At the quarter the mare was a length in advance, but Boodle, true to his breeding, was game and tireless, for he trotted up on even terms with her, and accompanied her all the way to the homestretch, where he "gave her the shake" and landed the heat a winner by two lengths in 2:20. Hillsdale was third and Hamrock fourth.

Boodle had another competitor in Hamrock in this heat, and he was forced to trot in 2:15 to win. Hillsdale was third, and Irene Crocker, who acted rank, was last. It was a pretty race from start to finish, but Van Bokkelen made one of the best drives seen at the meeting, and landed Boodle a winner by a neck.

The next heat was an exciting one from start to finish. Hamrock started right after Boodle and carried him to a break at the half. The game son of Stranger caught quickly, and Van Bokkelen, his driver, and Keating, the driver of Hamrock, contested for every inch of the way to the wire, where Boodle made a spurt and plunged ahead, winning by a head in 2:15½. The exciting finish was applauded by the thousands assembled, and Van Bokkelen came in for a share of applause. He made a splendid drive and showed that he classes among the best horsemen in this State. Hillsdale was third and Irene Crocker was declared distanced for running.

SIXTH DAY—SATURDAY, AUGUST 17TH.

This was the last day of the greatest race meeting ever held in Napa. From Monday noon until to-night the meeting has been a great success. The residents of Napa county turned out in large numbers, and the excellence of the Hungarian band which played the latest music was a feature that everyone recognized, and the President and Board of Directors were complimented for securing such a band of artists. In the evenings crowds were seen standing on the lawn surrounding the court house listening to the excellent music rendered by this band. The citizens had moved the music stand to a convenient place on the grounds and had it fixed up in gorgeous style. Incandescent lights were placed over the front, and their reflection on the hundreds assembled beneath the pines and evergreen trees made the scene one never to be forgotten by those who witnessed it.

The management of the race-meeting could not be excelled. The officers, President La Rue and Secretary Theo. A. Bell, showing every courtesy to horsemen possible. There were no complaints in regard to stall room, feed, etc., and the restaurant at the track, under the management of that jolly caterer, Charley Scott, could not be better. If there is anyone who knows how to suit the horsemen at feeding time it is this gentleman. There were no stock parades; in fact, it is a question whether stalls could be procured for any more stock. The track was fast and kept in splendid condition. The wonderful records shown, and the fact that not a horse broke down during the entire week, was proof of this. While not caring to suggest any improvements, we believe the officers of the association would not be offended if we suggest that the place where the judges officiate be lowered. The stand as it is now is too high. The turns on the track should be thrown up a little higher. Horses will not be thrown off their stride so easily if this is attended to. They lose their equilibrium in trotting or pacing rapidly around in a small circle if that circle is perfectly flat.

The programme to day was a lengthy one. Fifteen heats were trotted and paced, and at 5:15 the judges decided that as this was the last day of the meeting it was not advisable to start the 2:30 trotting race. Considerable grumbling was indulged in, but the decision was a correct one, and under the circumstances the judges had no other alternative.

The first race was a special trot, purse $200. There were two starters, the Oakwood Park Stock Farm's El Benton and the San Mateo Stock Farm's Kent. Kent won the first heat beat in 2:25½, then El Benton won the other two heats in 2:23.

Kent is by Sable Wilkes, 2:18, out of a mare by Le Grande, and is a large, strongly-built colt with plenty of action. El Benton is a cripple, and trotted gamely, lowering his record one-quarter of a second.

The second race was also a special trot for three-year-olds, purse $300. The Vendome Stock Farm's young stallion, Iran Alto, by Palo Alto, and the Palo Alto Stock Farm's black filly, Cressida, were the only two contestants.

Iran Alto did not act very well. He trotted to the half-pole very fast, and then broke. He came in a winner by a length in 2:33½. Cressida won the next two heats easily in 2:27½ and 2:27½, thus placing another to the credit of the ill-fated stallion, Palo Alto. Cressida is out of Clarabelle, by Abdallah Star, and will get a 2:20 record this season.

The next race on the programme was the 2:13 nomination pace. The entries were: Baywood, Fred Mason, Hanford Medium, Waldo J., Del Norte, Ketchum and Plunkett. Pools sold Waldo J. $25, field $10. Judge La Rue sent them away very evenly, but before the horse got into the first turn Waldo J. made a disastrous break and fell back at least one hundred yards behind the rest of the pacers that were moving in a bunch to the first quarter, which was made in 0:30½, Baywood slightly in the lead. Going to the half, Fred Mason moved up to the leader, and at the half which was made in 1:02½, these two were head and head. Waldo J., coming fast, was eating up space, but his driver wisely concluded not to try to get in the way of those in front, but kept his horse moving. Baywood passed the three-quarter pole in 1:37, and from this point to the wire, his driver, Ward, drove him easily and landed him a winner by a length in 2:10½ from Del Norte, the fastest time ever made in a pacing race on the Napa track. The battle for place was between Hanford Medium, Plunkett and Del Norte, but the latter, capitally handled by W. Stimson, won it by a neck, Hanford Medium third, Plunkett fourth, Ketchum fifth, Fred Mason sixth and Waldo J. last.

The second heat saw the defeat of the favorite Waldo J.; he broke twice during the mile. Baywood took the lead and passed the quarter pole in thirty-one seconds. Del Norte was only a length behind, Plunkett third. The half was made in 1:02, and down to the three-quarters the pacers, with the exception of Del Norte and Baywood were well bunched. Waldo J., who broke so badly, came up on entering the homestretch, and as he began to loom up dangerously close to the leaders, he broke and did not get steadied until the wire was passed. Baywood won the first place in the splendid time of 2:10½, Plunkett second, Waldo J. was given third over Del Norte, who really won it, Hanford Medium fifth, Ketchum sixth and Fred Mason last. A wonderful heat, well contested, and setting the track record.

In the third heat Waldo J. got away better and steadier, and trailed Baywood until near the half, where he passed him, and at the three-quarter pole was in front by three lengths. Coming to the wire, Mack, the driver of this gray son of Bob Mason, let him come to the wire in 2:11½, Baywood second, Plunkett, the game little gelding, was third, Hanford Medium fourth, Del Norte fifth, Fred Mason sixth and Ketchum distanced. Waldo J. seemed to be recovering from his awkward breaking and his backers felt more confident. Ketchum was distanced by the judge before he got the word; he was seven lengths behind the bunch when they started away.

Waldo J. was himself again, for he led the rest of the horses to the wire in 2:13, Plunkett getting the second place five lengths behind him, Hanford Medium third, Del Norte fourth, Fred Mason fifth and Baywood last. Waldo's superiority over the field made the race so far as he was concerned a procession. When settled to his gait he seemed to have no trouble in pacing quarters in 0:31.

Plunkett and Waldo J. led. Baywood had left his hobbles in the stable and fell back to last position. Waldo made several skips but landed the race in 2:15½. Hanford Medium had to be whipped to beat Plunkett. Del Norte was fourth, Fred Mason fifth and Baywood last. Baywood struck his knee badly in the second heat. At the conclusion of the race the joint was considerably swollen. He is a very smooth-gaited pacer, and if this injury does not affect him too seriously, he will be a candidate for free-for-all honors before the circuit ends.

The fourth race was the 2:17 Nomination trot. The starters were Electra, Palatine, Palermo Prince, Thompson, Nellie W., Margaret Worth, Stranger. Pools sold, Stranger $20, Thompson $16, field $16. The start was a good one, but Margaret Worth broke and fell back. Thompson led with Electra and Stranger not half a length behind. At the half Thompson broke. Electra then led, with Stranger a length behind. Palermo Prince, who got away last, was third as they entered the stretch, and Sanders brought him to the inside and outfooted Stranger, winning the heat by a head, while Stranger broke and ran for twenty yards, and was unable to get nearer the front, as Prince came under the wire in 2:16½. The judges awarded the heat to Stranger, a very rank decision. The driver of Stranger was more surprised than any one else. Electra was third. Thompson fourth, Nellie W. fifth, Palatine sixth and Margaret Worth last.

In the next heat Electra, Stranger, Palermo Prince and Thompson led, not half a length between them all the way to the three-quarter pole. Palermo Prince then broke and Stranger then passed Electra and led to the wire, Thompson coming second, heating Electra a head for the place, Margaret Worth fourth, Palatine fifth, Palermo Prince sixth and Nellie W. last. Time, 2:16½, the drive made by Oregon Jimmy Sullivan, who handled the ribbons over Stranger, being loudly applauded. Thompson did exceedingly well, while Electra, who did not have three weeks' work prior to this race, showed that when seasoned she will get a record below 2:15.

Stranger led in the next heat, but Palermo Prince was right at his shoulder and never got further away than a length, and to the wire it was a battle. The former came in a winner by a nose, but the judge gave the heat to Palermo Prince, thus pouring oil on the troubled waters. Nellie W. was third, two lengths further away, Margaret Worth fourth, Electra fifth, Thompson sixth and Palatine seventh. Time, 2:17. This decision of the judges astonished everyone as much as the one rendered in the first heat. Palermo Prince was ably driven by Millard F. Sanders, and his astonishment at hearing the decision was as great as when Judge La Rue gave him second place in the other heat.

Nellie W. cut out the pace in the next heat, Palermo Prince trailing, Stranger and Thompson going like a double team behind. At the half-mile post these two were three lengths away, but on nearing the three-quarter pole Jimmy Sullivan made one of his masterly drives, and as they entered the homestretch he was in the lead and never was headed, landing his splendid horse a winner in 2:17½, Nellie W. second, Thompson third, Electra fourth, Palermo Prince fifth, Palatine sixth and Margaret Worth last.

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY AUGUST 15.

HE races were well attended this afternoon, and some good sport was had. Favorites were beaten in the first three races, but first choice won the last two, so that it was not by any means a bad day for the form-figures. Besides, the winner of the second race was a heavily-played second choice. Good time was made in two of the races, the last on the programme, Sir Richard doing the short six furlongs in 1:12½, Miss Ruth a mile in 1:42½ very easily. Sir Richard beat Road Runner by the shortest of noses in a desperate drive, while Uncle Giles captured the first race from the favorite, Wild Rose, by his neck. Ike L., at 15 to 1, was the surprise of the day, as he won the third race by two lengths quite easily. Nebuchadnezzar ran an unaccountably bad race, for which he was a 3 to 5 favorite. Eddie Jones carried off the pigskin honors with two wins to his credit. Other successful jockeys were Peoples, Chevalier and Shaw.

Imp. Thunderstorm, backed from 20 down to 10 to 1, led to the homestretch in the first race. Here Uncle Giles came through, passing about five of his friends, and won cleverly by a neck from the favorite, Wild Rose, with Sheridan third. The latter was disqualified for bumping Mendocino and the show given to the latter.

De Groat, favorite in the second race, led by three lengths into the homestretch, but shutting up like the proverbial jack-knife in the final eighth, Vernon came on to an easy three-length victory, Gold Dust getting the place.

Ike L., at 15 to 1, for all you wanted, led from start to finish in the third event, winning easily by two lengths from Ahi P., who beat Ricardo three lengths. Nebuchadnezzar, the favorite, ran a most disappointing race.

Realization opened up a big gap on his field in the fourth race, but tired in the stretch, Sir Richard and Road Runner driving it out to the end, the former getting the verdict by a nose, with Realization third, four lengths away.

Miss Ruth, the 3 to 1 favorite in the last race, led all the way and won with ease by two lengths, Bellringer and Sir Walter having an interesting fight for the place, the former winning it by a neck. Sir Walter would have been close to the money but for his sulking.

How the Races Were Run.

Wild Rose was played for a killing in the first race, opening at 8 to 5 and closing at 9 to 10. Uncle Giles and Bronco were at 6 (latter backed down from 8), Mendocino 7, imp. Thunderstorm 10 (hacked from 20), Suro 12, Sheridan 12, Sinbad 25 and Mollie Rogers 40 to 1. Thunderstorm and Sheridan acted badly at the post, delaying the start for quite a time. Finally the flag was lowered to a good start, Uncle Giles being first to show, Suro second and Bronco third. Thunderstorm hurt through his field at a great pace, leading by two lengths at the half, Mendocino second, lapped by Wild Rose. Nearing the homestretch Sheridan ran up very fast. Turning for the last time, Thunderstorm was first by a head only, Mendocino second, half a length before Sheridan, who bumped Mendocino badly several times coming down, knocking him back badly. Uncle Giles came like a shot in the straight, passing one after another, and winning cleverly by a neck from Wild Rose, who beat Sheridan three lengths. The latter was disqualified and third place given to Mendocino. Time, 1:09½.

De Groat went to the post a 7 to 5 favorite in the second race, after opening at 6 to 5 and going to 2 to 1, Vernon at 2½ to 1 (opened at 4), De La Guerra 13 to 5, Steadfast 10 and San Lucas 30 to 1. Steadfast, apparently having just become a member of the Dope Club, ran away for about six furlongs with Coady, but the start, a rather ragged one, was made with him. De La Guerra was first away, Vernon next, Gold Dust third. At the half De Groat, under a pull, was first by a head, De La Guerra second, two and a half lengths from Gold Dust. De Groat drew away at a great rate soon thereafter, leading by three lengths turning for home, Gold Dust second, a head before De La Guerra, Vernon another head away. De Groat began quitting over a sixteenth from home, and Vernon shot by him, winning easily by three lengths, Gold Dust even finishing a length in front of the favorite, De Groat. Time, 1:09.

The third race was at six and a half furlongs, selling. Nebuchadnezzar was a 3 to 5 favorite, Ahi P. 3½ to 1, Ricardo, Frondeur, Hyman and Ike L. 15 to 1, Quarterstaff 30 to 1. They broke to a fair start for all but Quarterstaff, who was left at the post. Ike L. was first away, Frondeur second, Ahi P. next, Nebuchadnezzar fourth. Ike L. led past the half by one and a half lengths, Nebuchadnezzar second, a length from Frondeur. Ike still held his own as they turned for home, Nebuchadnezzar second, a head before Ahi P. Ike L. even increased his lead coming down the homestretch, winning rather easily by two lengths, Ahi P. second, three lengths from Ricardo, Nebuchadnezzar badly beaten, his hoy at the bat over a sixteenth from home. Time, 1:22½.

The fourth race was at about six furlongs, selling. Sir Richard went to the post at even money and 11 to 10. Road Runner was well supported at 11 to 5. Lady Jane was hacked down from 7 to 1 to 3 to 1. Realization was at 5 to 1 at all times. They got away to a good send-off, Lady Jane first, Realization next, Road Runner third. Realization drew away at a great rate, leading by nearly four lengths past the half, Road Runner and Lady Jane heads apart, a length before Sir Richard. Realization came back a trifle nearing the final turn, Road Runner being second, half a length before Sir Richard, who was coming fast. Realization was beaten a furlong from home, Sir Richard being perhaps a neck to the good. He and Road Runner had a hot fight near the finish, Sir Richard, under the whip, just winning by a nose, Road Runner second, four lengths before Realization. Time, 1:12½.

The last race was at a mile, selling. Miss Ruth was a 3 to 5 shot, Bellringer 4 to 1, Sir Walter 6, Nellie G. 8 and Soon Enough 12 to 1. They broke to a fair start, Miss Ruth first, Bellringer second, Nellie G. next. Miss Ruth at once opened up a gap, leading Bellringer three lengths at the quarter and half, Soon Enough a couple of lengths further away, Sir Walter last, having gone to sulking almost as the flag dropped. As they neared the homestretch he began moving up, Miss Ruth being four lengths in front of Bellringer, the second horse, however. Miss Ruth won with plenty to spare by two lengths, while in a terrific drive Bellringer managed to beat Sir Walter a neck for the place. Time, 1:42½. But for sulking Sir Walter would undoubtedly have given Miss Ruth a hot race for that first money.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-FIFTH DAY—FRIDAY, AUGUST 16.

A rather lukewarm favorite won the first race of the day, and thereafter the first choices were not in it to an extent worth mentioning. It was a truly awful day for the students of form. The sensation of a sensational day was Charmer's win over Boreas, Peter the Second and Fred Gardner in the last race. The Wildidle mare was at 40 to 1 in the betting, and the race being run at a slow pace, she out-gamed and out-ran them in the homestretch, winning cleverly by a length in the slow time of 1:42½. The track had been harrowed very deeply—too deeply for long striders and big horses—and this may account for the defeat of Peter the Second and others. The downfall of Roh Roy and Rose Clark was a severe blow to the bank-accounts of those thinking they had a line on how the gallopers should finish, and the money lost on Peter the Second and Boreas would have bought a tidy business block. Shaw, Hinrichs, E. Jones, Chevalier and Piggott were the successful jockeys, all doing superb work in the pigskin.

Bell Oak, favorite in the opening event at 3 and 3½ to 1, led most of the way, and won, out to the last ounce and well ridden by Shaw, by a scant head from Don Pio Pico, who beat Carrara one and a half lengths. Piloted equally as well as Bell Oak, Don Pio Pico would have won by a comfortable margin, in all likelihood.

Warrago, second choice at 5 to 1 in the second race, came from behind and won like a race horse by three parts of a length, Olivia second, a nose from Tom Clarke, who looked a winner up to the last few yards, when he swerved. Roh Roy, the sizzling favorite, was made too much use of by Piggott at the post, the hoy trying Carr's tactics in breaking from the rear, but not pulling up nearly as quickly as Felix when it was no go.

Belle Boyd, the big two-year-old daughter of El Rio Rey, led all the way in the light welter-weight race, just lasting long enough to win by a nose from the hot favorite, Rose

Clark, who was three lengths from Ahi P. Eddie Jones put up a great ride on the game youngster.

Vincitor, said to be the best horse in the big Boots stable of Brutuses, came from third place in the homestretch, and by nearly a length handily, Road Runner getting the place by a length from Charmion, who set the pace and quit badly in the homestretch, when looking all over a winner.

Charmer third into the homestretch in the last race, won by a length, to the astonishment of nearly every man, woman and child on the track, it being close all around for the place.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, five furlongs, for two-year-olds, had eight starters. Bell Oak was the favorite, closing at 3 and 3½ to 1, Don Pio Pico, Cyrene, Irene E. and Carrara 4 to 1, Easel 5, Vickshurg 40 and Billy McCloskey 50 to 1. They broke to a rather straggling start, Irene E. first, Easel second, Bell Oak next. The last-named fairly flew to the fore, leading past the half by a length, Easel second, two and a half lengths before Carrara and Don Pio Pico, heads apart. Bell Oak led into the homestretch by a length, Easel still second, as far from Carrara, on whom Don Pio Pico was lapped. Pico came up fast in the homestretch, and in a drive that lasted for about sixty yards Bell Oak won by a short head, Don Pio Pico second, one and a half lengths from Carrara. Time, 1:02½.

The second race, about six furlongs, selling, had Roh Roy for a rip-roaring favorite, he opening at 8 to 5 and being hacked down to 9 to 10, closing at 6 to 5. Warrago was next in demand at 5 to 1, Tom Clarke, C. M. C., Addie M. and Olivia 8 to 1, San Luis Rey 30, Conchita 60, Cadeau 100 to 1. They got away to a good start, Piggott breaking from the rear with Rob Roy. The starting order was Olivia, Addie M., San Luis Rey. Rob Roy, Tom Clarke and Addie M. ran heads apart as named past the half, over two lengths in front of a bunch. There were many changes going to the homestretch, coming into which Olivia was first by half a length, Rob Roy second, one and a half lengths before Tom Clarke. The latter was leading seventy yards of the finish and appeared to be going easy, but swerved toward the inner rails, Warrago coming with a rush on the inside and winning by three parts of a length, Olivia second, a nose before Tom Clarke. Time, 1:13½.

The third race, six furlongs, light welter weights, had Rose Clark for a red-hot favorite. She opened at 6 to 5 and closed at 9 to 10, Crawford at 13 to 6, Belle Boyd 5 to 1, Ahi P. 10, Nabapolassar 15 and Perhaps 50 to 1. They broke to a fair start, with Nabapolassar first, Belle Boyd second, Rose Clark next. Belle Boyd led past the half by a length, Nabapolassar second, a head before Perhaps, Rose Clark next, under a pull. Belle Boyd led by two lengths turning for home, Perhaps second, two and a half lengths before Rose Clark, Crawford another length away. Rose Clark just bounded along in the homestretch, setting within half a length of Boyd forty yards of the finish. The two-year old had a hit up her sleeve, a world of gameness and a clever boy in the saddle, and so, coming again with Belle Boyd, Rose Clark was just a nose shy of victory. Three lengths further away came Ahi P., third. Time, 1:15.

The fourth race was a handicap, about six furlongs. Charmion opened at even money and closed at 7 to 5 in most boxes. Road Runner was at 2 to 1, Vincitor 4½, Howard 8 and Silver State 15 to 1. Road Runner acted badly at the post, spoiling several breakaways. Finally the flag was lowered to a good start, Road Runner first, Vincitor second, Howard third. Charmion went right to the fore, leading by a length at the half, Silver State second, as far from Vincitor. The order was the same turning for home, though Vincitor was creeping up steadily. Charmion seemed to go to pieces a little less than a furlong from home, Vincitor coming close against the rails and winning in fine style by three parts of a length, Road Runner second, a length before Charmion. Time, 1:13½.

The last race, one mile, selling, had four starters. Peter the Second was a favorite, opening at 7 to 5 and closing at even money. Boreas opened at 4 to 5 and closed at 11 to 10. Fred Gardner was at 8 to 1 and Charmer 40 to 1. They got away to a fair start, Boreas first, Peter the Second second, Charmer next. Boreas led by one and one-half lengths past the quarter, Peter the Second next, a head before Fred Gardner. The order was the same passing the half pole, Peter the Second being but half a length away, however. Boreas and Peter the Second ran heads apart into the homestretch, one and one-half lengths before Charmer. The race appeared to be between Boreas and Peter the Second, but Charmer came with a startling rush at the finish, winning by a length, to the astonishment of everyone, Peter the Second second, a short head before Fred Gardner, who beat Boreas a head. Time, 1:42½.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-SIXTH DAY—SATURDAY, AUGUST 11.

Another disastrous day for all but the wizards. The defeat of Detective, Gold Bug and Tim Murphy made the talent have "that tired feeling" so ably described in the patent medicine advertisements. While these public favorites were beaten, they were not disgraced, as the time made by Realization and Bloomsbury was little short of phenomenal, the deep track considered. Yangedine's was the most sensational win, she being as good as 9 to 1 in the betting and getting the verdict by a short head. Bloomsbury, by heating Tim Murphy and Installator, proved himself a crack colt. We hardly think the latter was himself though, as he looked too high in flesh for a hard race. Chevalier did the most successful riding, putting two winners over the plate and a second that was beaten by a short breath only. Piggott, Hinrichs, Reidy and Madison were up on the remaining victors. Five of the six events were taken by animals of the male persuasion.

Yangedine won the first race by a short head after a hot fight with Detective, Piggott, on the former, riding a beautiful race and a strong finish. Green set the pace, and led to the homestretch, but quit like a steer and finished third.

Realization, a strong second choice at 2 to 1, led all the way in the second race, winning driving by one and a half lengths, Gold Bug second, two and a half lengths before Ricardo. The time, 1:01, with 112 pounds, tells of a good race.

Gratify, favorite in the two-year-old race, made all the running, winning with ease by one and a half lengths, Grady, driven out, second, two and a half lengths from Josephine. The rest were not in the hunt.

Bloomshury, the good-looking two-year-old son of Three Cheers, got away first and stayed there all the way, notwithstanding Lloyd's efforts on Tim Murphy, the favorite. Installer was not in anything like his best form, and ran most disappointingly.

Wild Rose, favorite, took the fifth race into camp quite handily, though Boh Tucker, the pace-maker, looked very dangerous up to the final sixteenth. Jim Corbett finished a fair third.

J. O. C., driven out, won the mile and a half hurdle race by three lengths. Gold Dust led for over a mile, closely followed by Carmel, and got the place, a length separating him from Mestor, who was just galloping half a mile from home.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, five and a half furlongs, selling, had eight starters and Detective for a 6 to 5 favorite. Suro was at 3½ to 1, imp. Green 5, Yangedine 8 (opened at 9), Suro 12, Tyrena 30, Dr. Gardner 50 and Druscilla 100 to 1. Druscilla, Yangedine, Detective was the order to a good start. Green shot out of the bunch at once and led by a length past the half, Yangedine, Detective and Druscilla heads apart as named. Green increased his lead to two lengths going to the homestretch, Detective second, a head before Yangedine, who was three lengths before Suro. Green quit badly in the final eighth of a mile, Detective and Yangedine drawing away near the finish and fighting it out, Yangedine winning by a short head through Piggott's good riding, Detective two lengths before imp. Green, Suro lapped on the latter. Time, 1:09½.

The second race, five furlongs, selling, had five starters and no particular favorite. Gold Bug opened at even money and closed at 8 to 5. Realization opened at 2 to 1 and closed at 8 to 5 in most boxes. Cardwell was at 3 to 1 and heavily played, Ricardo 8 and Joe Cotton 10 to 1. After several breakaways the flag was lowered to a good start, Realization being first, Gold Bug second, Ricardo next. At the half Realization led by one and a half lengths, Cardwell second, a head before Gold Bug, Ricardo another length away. Realization went away from his field at a great pace on the far turn, and led by four lengths as they reached the homestretch, Gold Bug second, two and a half lengths before Ricardo. Realization tired a little near the finish, and Gold Bug was catching him at every jump as he passed in a winner by one and a half lengths, Gold Bug second, two and a half lengths before Ricardo, the others far, far away. Time, 2:01—a fine run with 112 pounds up.

Seven two-year-olds came out for a race of about six furlongs, a handicap. Gratify was a hot 7 to 5 favorite. Grady was at 3 to 1, Tiberius 5, Don Gara 7, Josephine 10, Joe K. 15 (hacked from 30), Virgie A. 40 to 1. They broke to an excellent start, Gratify first, Josephine second, Grady third. Gratify led by a length past the half, Josephine and Grady heads apart, Virgie A. fourth close up. Gratify increased, his lead to two lengths going to the homestretch, Grady and Virgie being heads apart, Josephine half a length further away. Gratify, not headed, won easily by one and a half lengths, Grady, under the whip, second, two and a half lengths before Josephine, who beat Tiberius six lengths. Time, 1:13.

The fourth race was a handicap at five furlongs. Tim Murphy was a red-hot favorite, opening at even money and closing at 3 to 5. Installer was hacked down from 3 to 1 to 9 to 5. Bloomshury was at 5 to 1. They went away to a good start, and the lightly-weighted Bloomshury at once assumed the lead, being half a length to the good as they passed the half-pole, Murphy second, as far from Installer. Bloomshury steadily drew away going to the homestretch, which he entered first by two lengths, Murphy still second, two and a half lengths before Installer. The old roan was sent along for all he was worth in the homestretch, but Bloomshury was not to be caught, winning handily by a length, Murphy second, three lengths before the dethroned idol, Installer. Time, 1:01—a wonderful run over such a deep track.

The fifth race was at five and a half furlongs, selling, with nine starters. Wild Rose was a heavily backed favorite, opening at 2½ to 1 and closing at even money. Considerable coin went in on Boh Tucker at 2½ and 3 to 1. Selkirk was at 4 and plunged on, Jim Corbett, Swiftsure and Esperance 8 to 1, Mendocino and Steadfast 10 and Rayo 50 to 1. Wild Rose cut up badly at the post, delaying matters for several minutes. Finally a good send-off was effected, Swiftsure, Boh Tucker, Jim Corbett and Wild Rose being the order at the fall of the flag. Boh Tucker was half a length in front at the half-mile ground, Swiftsure second, a length from the favorite. There was no change worth mentioning in the run to the homestretch, though Selkirk, after being squeezed, ran against the outside fence with Lloyd. Boh Tucker led by a length a furlong from home, Swiftsure and Wild Rose head and head. From this out Wild Rose steadily gained, winning handily by two lengths at the finish, Boh Tucker second, a length from Jim Corbett. Time, 1:09½. Wildidles ran first and third in this race.

The last event on the card was a mile and a half hurdle race with seven starters. Mestor and Carmel divided favoritism at 3 to 1. Gold Dust was at 16 to 5, The Lark 4 to 1, J. O. C. 4½, Alexis 15 and Guadalupe 20 to 1. Gold Dust set the pace, followed closely by Carmel, J. O. C. running third, about three lengths away, most of the time. Carmel dropped out of it when not quite a mile had been covered, Mestor moving up and looking like a winner. J. O. C. had run up second, lapped on Gold Dust. Into the homestretch J. O. C., hugging the inner rails, was first by a length, Gold Dust second, as far from Mestor. The latter was driven hard, but could not gain an inch on those in front of him, J. O. C. winning driven out by three lengths, beautifully ridden by Jasper Madis n, Gold Dust, driven hard, second, a length before Mestor. Time, 2:47½—a good run for a three-year-old.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-SEVENTH DAY—TUESDAY, AUGUST 20.

This was another astonishing day of racing. One lone favorite was all that managed to get home in front this pleasant afternoon—pleasant, as regards weather, but unpleasant as to results. For the past three days the book-makers have kept most of the money that has gone into their strong boxes, while the public look around and exclaim: "Where are we at?" Why, even 1 to 4 favorites get howled over. Such a one was Heartsease this afternoon. And Crawford, who ran a miserable race the last time out previously, finishing nowhere, was the winner over Heartsease. That was the worst of it. It made many a pang in the hearts of the gentlemen who play these 1 to 4 shots with gusto, saying: "Here's a little ham and eggs and condensed milk for the baby." The story of woe is best told by the fact that the four winners besides the favorite were at odds of 15 to 1, 8 to 1, 3½ to 1 and 5 to 1. Tod Sloan did the best riding, with two winners and a second to his credit. The other successful jockeys were Riley, Piggott and Coady.

Corinne Buckingham, the favorite, led into the homestretch in the first race, then Mary S. flew from the rear and won cleverly by a neck from Conde, with Red Will a head behind the big son of Duke of Norfolk. Addie M., ridden with little judgment by Piggott, looked a winner a sixteenth of a mile from home, but got cut off.

Belle Boyd is a mighty game filly. Cardwell looked a certain winner eighty yards from home, but the filly persevered, and won like a race horse by a length, Josephine a poor third, a head before City Girl, who was as dry as a bone before the race and clearly not quite herself.

Crawford, at 8 to 1, came from the rear in the homestretch and won the third race rather handily by a neck. Mt. Air appeared to have finished second, from the press stand, but the judges gave Heartsease the place.

Royal Flush, a 3½ to 1 shot, ran second until nearing the homestretch, then came to the front and won handily by two lengths, Warrago beating Fred Gardner a head for the place. Charmion led for nearly five furlongs.

Adelante, a good thing just purchased by Billy Stewart, backed down from 5 to 3½ to 1, won the last race, one mile, by a nose, after a terrific drive with Little Bob, the 3 to 5 favorite, San Luis Rey a distant third.

How the Races Were Run.

Corinne Buckingham was a lukewarm sort of favorite in the first race, opening at 3 to 1, going down to 2, closing at 2½ to 1. Addie M. was at 3½, Red Will 4 (hacked from 6), Conde 6 (opened at 4), Uncle Giles 12, Gondola and Mary S. 15, Monarch and Mt. Carlos 25, Josie G. 40 and Mutineer 100 to 1. Conde kicked the rider of Uncle Giles, Peoples, in the left leg, breaking it, and a wait was had until another jockey was substituted. The flag fell to a good start, Conde, Mary S., Addie M. being the order. The last-named fell back gradually, Conde leading by half a length past the half-pole, Corinne Buckingham second, two lengths from Mary S., at whose saddle was Addie M. Corinne Buckingham led by a head into the homestretch, Conde second, half a length from Mary S. Addie M. came up strong in the homestretch, looking all over a winner a sixteenth from home, but Piggott got her cut off soon thereafter, Mary S. winning cleverly by a neck from Conde, Red Will third, but a head further away. Time, 1:02½. The latter ran the best race.

The second race was at five and a half furlongs, selling, for two-year-olds. Belle Boyd was a 6 to 5 favorite, Josephine 3½ to 1, City Girl 4½, Cardwell 7, Walter J. 12, Jack Atkins 20, Cyrene 25 and Suffrage 60 to 1. They were sent away to a fair start, Cyrene first, Belle Boyd next, Josephine third. Cardwell ran up very fast and led by a length passing the half, Belle Boyd second, with Cyrene at her saddle, two lengths before City Girl. Cardwell increased her lead to two lengths turning for home, Belle Boyd second, three from Cyrene. Cardwell looked a certain winner up to the final sixty yards, where he tired, and Belle Boyd, sticking gamely to her work, came on and won by a length amid shouts of joy, Cardwell second, three lengths from Josephine, who beat City Girl a head. Time, 1:08¾—a good run with 108 pounds up.

The third race was at five and a half furlongs, selling. Heartsease was made a 1 to 4 favorite. Crawford was at 7 to 1, Mt. Air 8 (hacked down from 12), Perhaps 15 to 1. Heartsease was led to the post, and after hacking for some distance the boy got down and she was again led up. Finally the flag fell to a good start, Crawford, Perhaps, Mt. Air being the order. Heartsease went through her field and led by half a length past the half, Perhaps second, one and a half lengths from Crawford and Mt. Air, head and head. Heartsease led into the homestretch by a head, Perhaps and Mt. Air heads apart, one and a half lengths before Crawford. The latter seemed to get his speed back again, for he steadily gained on the leader, whose boy went to the hat about eighty yards of the finish. Crawford got up to Heartsease about sixty yards of the finish and beat her out a neck cleverly, Mt. Air finishing second, according to the belief of everyone in the press stand, by a nose. However, the judges placed Heartsease second and Mt. Air third. Time, 1:08¾.

The fourth event was a six and a half furlong dash with six starters. Fred Gardner was a favorite, opening at 9 to 5, being hacked down to even money, closing at 11 to 10. Charmion was at 2 (opened at 2½), Royal Flush 3½, Warrago and Articus 15, Quarterstaff 50 to 1. They got off to a poor start, Articus being all but left at the post. The order as the flag fell was Quarterstaff, Royal Flush, Warrago. Charmion, fifth away and on the fly, led past the half by two and a half lengths, Royal Flush second, half a length from Fred Gardner. Royal Flush now made his run, turning into the homestretch half a length to the good, Charmion second, as far from Fred Gardner. Royal Flush increased his lead steadily, winning by two lengths handily. Warrago in a drive beating Fred Gardner a good head for the place. Charmion was ten lengths further away, she having quit badly. Time, 1:21½.

The last race was at a mile, selling. Little Bob was a hot favorite, opening at 3 to 5, going to 7 to 10, closing at 3 to 5. Adelante was backed from 5 to 3½ to 1. Nabapolassar and San Luis Rey were at 10, Alexis 15 and Fin Slaughter 50 to 1. There was quite a delay at the post, the flag finally flopping to a fair start. Adelante, Alexis, Fin Slaughter was the order. Nabapolassar cut several off on the first turn, Adelante and Little Bob faring the worst. Nabapolassar led by two lengths past the quarter, San Luis Rey second, three lengths from Fin Slaughter. At the half Nabapolassar and San Luis Rey were heads apart as named, four lengths from Little Bob and Adelante, close together. San Luis soon thereafter disposed of Nabapolassar and Adelante, under the whip, ran up strong, followed by Little Bob. San Luis led by two lengths into the homestretch, Adelante second, lapped by Little Bob. There was a terrific drive between Adelante and Little Bob coming down the homestretch, Adelante winning by a nose. Little Bob four lengths from San Luis Rey, third. Time, 1:43¾. Coady rode a fine race on the winner.

HOLLISTER, August 21, 1895.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the San Benito Agricultural Association held last Tuesday, the following races were declared closed. The meeting will commence on Monday, October 9, and continue for six days until Saturday, October 14th. From the list of entries it is evident to suppose that this meeting will be second to none in the State. Liberal purses have been offered for each race, and while a few of the races have not filled those that have attracted the attention of the horsemen have brought forth horses to contest for the purses well and favorably throughout the State.

On the first day the usual District Colt Stakes will be contested for, the first being the yearling trot, one mile dash, for which there are seven entries. Also on the same day the two-year-old colt stakes will be decided between five colts and fillies of this age.

The above events will include horses from San Luis Obispo, Monterey and San Benito counties.

The 2:27 trotting race, which was to take place on that day, was declared off for the reason that there were not sufficient entries. This race was left open until September 1st.

The District Colt Stakes for pacers was declared off, as there were not sufficient entries to fill the race.

In the one-half mile and repeat race, purse $200, the following entries were received and the race declared closed:

Geo. Childs' Valledore, Geo. Bairs' Red Dick, W. P. Fine's Gondola, Orville Appleby's Durango, Chas. Cockrill's Monarch, Baley Bros.' Myrtle G., Jack Johnson's Saturday.

The three-quarter mile dash, purse $200, from the following entries, seemed to catch the owner's fancy. They are: Gaston Ashe's St. Carlo—Fanny D. filly, St. Carlo—Mother Hubbard gelding and St. Carlo—Sinfire filly, A. G. Wilson's Umma, W. P. Fine's Red Idle, O. Appleby's Flirtilla, G. Pacheco's Abi P., Bailey Bros.' Academy, E. A. Mizner's Ru-mart.

The three-eighths and repeat will be contested for by the following horses for a purse of $200: J. G. Smith's Eva S., Geo. Childs' Valledore, G. E. Smith's Charley W., Billy Williams' Chap B. Rackety, Baley Bros.' Gracies S.

Sufficient entries in the one-quarter mile and repeat race not having been received, the same was left open until Sept. 1st. The purse in this race was $200.

The same order was made in the 2:20 class trot, which was for a purse of $400.

In the 2:40 trotting class, purse $400, entries as follows were made: Eugene T. Breen's Anita, T. J. Ceil's Peter Jackson, H. G. Cox's Reatinous, Jesse D. Carr's Sea Breeze, Jas. H. Harris's Woodbine, J. M. Nelsen's Addison, G. E. Smith's Steinbridge, C. E. Clark's Athavis, T. J. McKinney's Leonora, C. Sherman's Leader, H. O. Hellman's Jack W., H. M. Weathers' Rambler, F. Farrow's Lottie G.

The 2:20 pace not filling, it was ordered left open until September 1st. The purse in this race is $400.

The same order was made in regard to the Merchant's purse of $1,000. If this race does not fill to the satisfaction of the directors, it is their intention to cut the money into four parts and give the short-distance horses an opportunity to defray their expenses.

The half-mile and repeat has some very hot contestants, as a glance at the following will show: John G. Smith's Eva S., Geo. Childs' Valledore, Chas. Cockrill's Monarch, G. E. Smith's Charlie W., P. L. Nash's unnamed, Sam'l Duncan's hlk mare by Ironclad, J. H. Bailey's Comet, Bailey Bros.' Gracie S., Jack Johnson's Saturday.

Valledore is considered invincible in this community. The five-eighths and repeat which was to take place on that day was declared off and a five-eighths dash was substituted in its place. The purse for this race is $300 and the entries in the same will close September 1st.

The 2:24 trot has the following entries, and the purse for which he will contest will be $500: W. O. Bowers' Silver Bee, E. T. Breen's Maud H., Matura & Coons' Palermo, T. J. McKinney's Kent, F. Smith's Tilton B., L. H. Warburton's Nubia, H. M. Weathers' Letter B.

The entries in the 2:30 trot, for a purse of $500, were: Eugene T. Breen's Anita, Thos. Clark's Billy Oaks, P. McCarter's May B., C. Z. Hebert's Laura D., Jas. H. Harris' Woodbine, H. G. Carrillo's Lady Vestal, T. J. McKinney's Leonora, C. Sherman's Leader, C. Clark's Toggles, H. H. Helman's Minnie B., H. O. Hillman's Joals W., Chas. Dosten's Dexter.

Race No. 17, 2:25 pace, purse $500, was not overlooked, as the following entries would indicate: P. L. Nash's Col. Benton, E. T. Breen's Little Alph, H. G. Agnew's Lynette, T. K. Burgess' Don Fallis, H. G. Cox's Gypsy, C. Z. Hebert's Altonita, D. Bell's Trife, F. Treanor's San Luista, C. E. Curry's Estelle Wilkes, Mrs. D. Liegmer's Johnny Skelton, A. Harvey's Kate H., D. R. Misner's Senator, Fred Post's Topsy P.

The free for all pace and the free for all trot were declared off for the reason that there were not enough entries. The purse in each of these events was $600. They were left open until September 1st.

The last race of the programme, a three quarter mile dash, was not forgotten and from the list of entries this promises to close the meeting with the best race of the California circuit.

J. G. Smith's Eva S., A. G. Wilson's Umma, G. M. Ashe's hlk m, unnamed, by St. Carlo—Sinfire, s g by St. Carlo—Mother Hubbard and s f by St. Carlo—Fannie D., Geo. Bairs' Bell Oak, L. Heilhorn's Norblieb, W. P. Fine's Red Idle, O. Appleby's Flirtilla, W. Short's h c by Peel—by Duke Montrose, H. H. Hunn's Tigress, Bailey Bros.' Academy, E. A. Mizner's Ruinart.

This promises to be the best meeting ever held under the auspices of the San Benito Agricultural Association, and the directors intend to leave nothing undone that will in any way mar the pleasure of local and visiting horsemen. An equal deal will be given to all.

In connection with the above races there will be several over night races which will give an opportunity to anyone who has a horse to enter it in an event that may result to his benefit.

The meeting at Hollister will close the grand circuit of California, and the horses that will enjoy our climate for one week commencing October 9th, and the owners who will accept of our hospitality will never regret it.

R. VAN BRUNT, the popular New York club man, attended the races Tuesday, landing some goodly bets on Mary S. and Belle Boyd.

THE PETALUMA RACES.

No pools were sold prior to the next heat. Boodle broke on entering the first turn, Electra taking the lead, Stranger second and Boodle last. They were about three lengths apart as they passed the three-quarter pole. Coming to the wire they got closer and Boodle in an attempt to come to the front broke and lost all chances of winning the heat. Stranger passed Electra and won by half a length in 2:17½.

In the next heat Boodle started away as if this was to be his, and he had no trouble in getting under the wire a length in front of Stranger, who was half a head in advance of Electra. Time, 2:19½.

Boodle won the last heat and race by a length in 2:18½, Stranger second and Electra last.

SUMMARY.

2:17 class, trotting, purse $500.

Time, 2:19, 2:17½, 2:19½, 2:18½.

The second event was a free-for-all pacing race. There were three sidewheelers entered—Plunkett, Del Norte and Belle. In the pools Plunkett was favorite, selling for $10 against $4 on the others in the field. After Judge Loeber sent them away to a beautiful start Del Norte took the lead, but Plunkett was only half a length behind him and Belle a like distance away. At the quarter Plunkett was head and head with Del Norte. Going down the backstretch he gained on the Oregon horse, and at the half was a length in advance, Belle four lengths behind. These positions remained unchanged until the distance pole was reached. Del Norte moved up and his finish with Plunkett was exciting, but the latter had a little too much speed, for he came under the wire a winner by a neck in 2:16½. Belle five lengths behind the leaders. The victory of the Petaluma horse was quite a popular one.

Plunkett and Del Norte were about a length apart to the three-quarter pole, but coming into the homestretch Plunkett moved away from his black competitor and won the heat easily by two lengths in 2:14½. Belle broke badly near the three-quarter pole, and was twenty yards behind the distance flag as Plunkett jogged in. The time, 2:14½, was the fastest time made at this meeting. Del Norte trailed Plunkett all the way to the wire. The latter won the heat and race in 2:14½.

HOOF-BEATS.

EVERYBODY should go to Woodland next week.

A NUMBER of teams are at work at the Stockton race track getting it in order for the coming race meeting.

FALLING WATER, the bay filly that won at Saratoga Aug. 14th, is Emperor of Norfolk from Janova, by Grinstead.

B. C. HOLLY and his friends are credited with making a neat clean-up Thursday over the victory of May McCarthy.

DAVE GIDEON has wagered $3,500 even that Hazlet would beat Applegate in the Futurity. Bob Aikens took the Applegate end.

OUT of the last twenty-one races run, just seventeen favorites have been beaten—an awful thing for the talent to contemplate.

TWO of Wednesday's winners were bred at Rancho del Paso, one in Fresno county, another in Lake county and a fifth at Palo Alto.

THE San Mateo Stock Farm horses will be well represented this year among the winners as well as those who are in the 2:20 list.

DICK HAVEY is to do the starting at Woodland, commencing Monday next. After that Mr. Havey will wield the red flag at the State Fair.

HAD Chevalier just urged Installator half a second before he did the Brutus colt would surely have beaten the speedy youngster, Bloomsbury.

CHEVALIER rode two winners and a second Wednesday Piggott two winners and a third. Sloan was up on the remaining victor, Grady.

W. P. MAGRANE's fine three-year-old, Frank K., met with an accident in his stall the other day, and will hardly be trained again this year.

BELLE BOYD is one of the gamest of the game. It was only her unflinching courage Tuesday that caused her to land the money in the second race yesterday.

ROBT. RATHBON, trainer of R. E. deB. Lopez's horses, resigned his position last week, and is now ready to take charge of horses and prepare them for racing.

INSTALLATOR can beat any horse at the local track going five and one-half furlongs, in our opinion. He showed ability Thursday to run the distance in about 1:06½.

ARTICUS, almost left at the post, was about twenty lengths behind the leader three furlongs from home, yet at the finish he was not more than half that distance away.

MATT STORN's filly, Easel, rather made her field look yellow, so easy was her win. Yet Ollie M. had worked out half a mile in 0:48 4 5 a morning or so before.

THE timers caught the Bloomsbury six furlongs at 1:00½, but a half-dozen different watchholders on the outside made it 1:00½. Bloomsbury ran the first half in 0:47 flat.

W. S. BARNES, Lexington, Ky., has purchased of D. Blanchard, Boston, Mass., Piquante, chestnut mare, foaled 1887, by Iroquois, dam Halloween, by imp. Mortemer.

ADELANTE was purchased by Billy Stewart Tuesday morning and was more than won out in the afternoon. At one time the El Rio Rey colt was at 6 to 1 in the betting.

W. H. LUMSDEN, of Santa Rosa, deserves great credit for the manner in which he trained Robin, 2:22½, and Josephine, 2:27½. Both of these got their records at Petaluma Wednesday.

L. C. FERGUSON, formerly of Palo Alto, is one of the assistants to Edwin F. Smith, of the State Agricultural Society. A more competent or obliging official would be difficult to find.

CHARLEY QUINN tried to play Gondola for big money, but could only get a tithe of his roll on, so tight have several of the pencilers become of late. Quinn's disgust was great thereat.

If the uncertainty about holding the Petaluma race meeting had been removed four weeks ago, the people of this prosperous place would have enjoyed the best race meeting ever given there.

FLIRTILLA's win was an easy one, notwithstanding she only beat Wheel of Fortune by a small margin at the finish. The Wheel may be ten pounds better than Flirtilla, but we doubt if she is even that.

THE stalls at the Woodland race track are being occupied by the horses that are to appear in the races there next week. From present indications this race meeting will eclipse all heretofore held in this place.

WHEN most of the books had Bloomsbury posted at 4 to 5, Coleman quoted him at 11 to 10. "I'll bet you $500 on that top horse," shouted George Ross across the ring. But Coleman shook his head knowingly and then made his board read like the rest.

PIGGOTT's ride on Benham Wednesday was anything but artistic. He got the Flambeau youngster away third and when the colt rushed up and joined the others Joe took him back like a shot. The result was that the colt was never more in the hunt.

MATT STORN has all along said that when Easel got used to colors and breaking away she would heat some of the good two-year-olds. Wednesday the daughter of Ben Ali and Ezza ran the first three furlongs in 0:35, and was then eased up finishing the half mile out in 0:50.

JOHNNY COLEMAN bet $1,000 on Grady, some of it at 4 to 5, most of it at 7 to 10. Against this sum he got $770. Had Grady made a hot pace, as he did the other day, Grady might have been beaten, but as the latter is a dead game colt, he beat Grady when it came to a drive.

HORSES well-known to San Franciscans won at Anaconda, Mont., Thursday. Quirt beat Montana and St. Croix six furlongs in 1:16½. Finy, of Sam Bowley's string, defeated La France and Miss Pollard at four and a half furlongs, while Emma Mac was first in a mile race, run in 1:45.

EL RIO REYS won two races Tuesday in the gamest fashion imaginable—Belle Boyd and Adelante. We predict that El Rio's daughters will be phenomenal racers. Few with Belle Boyd's gameness are to be found anywhere, while Adelante stood a flogging and a drive for over a quarter of a mile.

F. W. COVEY, Superintendent of the Palo Alto Stock Farm, acted as presiding judge at the Napa race meeting, and proved to be the best we have seen in this State. "His light has been hid under a bushel" too long. We need not send East for a judge if Mr. Covey's services can be secured.

BOOKMAKER BILLY BEVERLY hoisted Sport McAllister $300 Wednesday, out of spite entirely, it is presumed, and as he has now cost Dow Williams, in run-ups and a fine, something like $860, it is wondered if he has not secured enough revenge. To go further would look like the worst sort of persecution.

HAYDEN EDWARDS, sire of Potentate, Genette Edwards, Orenda, Campania and many other winners, died recently in Kentucky. He was a bay horse, foaled in 1885 at D. Swiger's Elmendorf Stud, by Prince Charlie (sire of Salvatore), dam Nannie Bay, by imp. Glenelg; second dam Nannie Butler, by Lexington.

THE Los Angeles Association has just issued a running programme for their annual fair meeting. There are nine events from four and one-half furlongs to one and one-eighth miles. The richest event is the Citrus Belt handicap at five and one-half furlongs for a purse of $500. Entries for these events close on September 14th.

THE way the coin poured in on Model Wednesday, forcing her price from 2½ to 1 to even money, caused it to be noised about that a "shoo-in" of the little mare was imminent. If such a thing were contemplated Red Dick, a 10 to 1 shot, rather spoiled the little game, as Model could never get her head past that of the old sprinter from the North.

HEARTSEASE acted badly Tuesday, hacking for about eighty yards. The boy dismounted and the filly was led up to the post. This should not have been allowed, as it was not right to the others. It caused considerable comment. If ever a favorite received careful attention it was Heartsease yesterday, she being led to the post in the first place.

AMONG the winners at the Acquaduct, L. I., track on August 14th were Unity and Hermanita. The former is by imp. Rossington (more than half-brother to Ormonde), out of Unite, sister to Freeland (by Longfellow—Belle Knight). Hermanita is by Fresno, from Sister of Jim Douglas (dam of Hotspur, holder of the mile and three-quarter record).

W. K. ROBINSON of Montana Meadow Stock Farm, Santa Ana, has a number of very choice trotters, and among them being a son of Hamlin's Almont Jr. He is called Lisbon. His dam was by Woods' Hambletonian. Lisbon is a fine trotter and is being bred to mares by Echo, Oddfellow and Othello. He reports great progress being made for the Santa Ana fair. "Tell the boys we will be glad to see them and we will treat them well," he writes.

WHEN G. Valensin wished to entertain his friends the year before his death, he loved to have Millard J. Sanders drive Oddfellow, a white-legged, white-faced Sidney yearling colt, fast quarters, and the time made was remarkable. The colt was sold after this breeder's death and his name changed to Oddity, and in a race at Galesburg, Ill., August 9th, he won his first race in 2:13½, 2:14 and 2:14½. Oddity's dam was by Valensin, 2:23, he by Crown Point.

THE next issue of the S. F. Turf Guide will be out August 24th, and will be for sale at the track and on the streets by those that sell the over-night entries. The last issue containing all the races from January 1st to August 3d of this year can be had at 313 Bush street. Price, 50 cents.

THE two race horses leased by Charley Fair of his father's estate, Yo El Rey and Gibson, have arrived at Bay District track. The first-named is a bay four-year-old brother to Yo Tambien, being by Joe Hooker from the great Marion (by Malcolm), dam of El Rio Rey, Emperor of Norfolk, Duke, Prince and Duchess of Norfolk, The Czar and Rey del Reyes, all winners. Gibson, an aged chestnut gelding by Joe Hooker—Miss Gibson, holds the Coast record for five and a half furlongs, 1:06½. Both have been turned out for a long time.

BOUNCER, the bay mare that won the 2:14 trot at Detroit, $2,000, is by Hummer, dam Murette, by Manbrino Patchen. Hummer is by Electioneer, dam Edith, by George Wilkes; second dam Edith Carr (dam of Campbell's Electioneer, 2:17½), by Clark Chief. Electioneer was by Hambletonian 10, and Campbell's Electioneer is a grandson of Hambletonian 10. The race was an eight-heat affair and Bouncer won the fourth, seventh and eighth in 2:12, 2:13½ and 2:14½. Her record last year was 2:18½.

Now that reform has laid hold of most subjects that appertain to sport, it would be rather entertaining to find out exactly how the law reads in regards to apprentices' contracts. In the case of Harry Griffin his employer, Mr. Shields, practically offers the lad at auction every season. Now, as Mr. Shields has very few horses, and those not of a particularly high class, it must be as good a business owning a first-class lightweight as a first-class race horse. The owner of the lightweight has the privilege of knowing which way the money is going. Now that we are living in an age of transition and the new woman, it might be as well if the Solons of the turf took a hand at inspecting the aforesaid contract and render unto Caesar everything he earns. Jockeys do not last forever, and therefore it is only fair that they should get all that is due them. If rumor is true Mr. Belmont will be a bidder at the Griffin auction next season, and no doubt will have to raise the ante to get the first call on this clever young jockey.—N. Y. Mercury, August 15.

IT transpires that Bloomsbury, the crack two-year-old colt that has twice defeated Installator and Tim Murphy within ten days, belongs to a belle of Williams, Colusa County—Miss Norah Gibson—although on the programme the name of the owner appears as Joe Gibson. Miss Gibson, who is only 16, secured Bloomsbury as a suckling, and about six months ago turned the Three Cheers colt over to George Howson to be trained, not dreaming that he would turn out such a fast colt. Howson was the oldest jockey in California, and up to about two years ago, when past fifty years of age, was frequently seen in the saddle. He has reared an interesting family and one of his sons is attending the State University. Howson rarely bets more than $2 on any horse from his stable, and then only when he thinks he has a gilt-edged chance. Thursday, however, he thought Bloomsbury so invincible that he surprised his friends by betting $10 on the colt. This is the biggest bet made by Howson in many years.

LIBERTINE, the celebrated mile record-breaker, has arrived in California. He reached Agricultural Park, Sacramento, last night, in good shape after his long trip. Libertine came here with the Galen Brown and Billy Arkenburg stable, which includes such well-known performers as Claude Hill, Princess Rose, Uncertainty and Treachery. These horses will race at the State Fair meeting, after which they will race in this city for the following six months. On the 24th day of October, in 1894, Libertine, then a three-year-old, with ninety pounds in the saddle, ran from wire to wire over the Harlem track in 1:38½. Cash Day started against Libertine, but the latter colt won easily. It is thought that Libertine will be able to cover a mile at the Bay District track in 1:38 or faster. He has been a frequent winner this year. He captured the Inaugural stakes at St. Louis beating such well-known race horses as Yo Tambien, Simmons, Urania and O'Connell. Libertine is a bay colt by Leonatus from Falaize, by King Alfonso, four years old. Claude Hill is a bay gelding by imp. Deceiver. He beat Scimitar, Dare Dollar and several others in a half-mile dash at Hawthorne, but has beaten many times since. Uncertainty is a bay horse by Emperor, but has only been a mediocre performer this year. Princess Rose is a black filly by the Duke of Montrose. She has been a frequent starter this season, and although getting part of the money in many of her starts, has only won one race. This is Galen Brown's first visit to California, but Billy Arkenburg was here two seasons ago. It will be remembered that he owned Princess Lorraine, the good two-year-old filly that hooked up with Princess on the opening day of the Blood Horse meeting.

THE conditions of the Realization Stakes, the richest three-year-old stake event of America, are as follows: For three-year-olds, foals of 1895; a sweepstakes by the following respective subscriptions: For horses entered as foals by Aug. 15, 1895, $50 each, and only $10 if struck out by July 15, 1896, or $25 if struck out by July 15, 1897; for horses entered as yearlings by July 15, 1896, when the stakes shall be closed, $100 each, or $50 if struck out by July 15, 1897. All starters to pay $250 additional, all of which shall go the second and third horses as further provided; the Coney Island Jockey Club to add $5,000; the second to receive $1,000 of the added money and two thirds of the starting money; the third $500 of the added money and one third of the starting money; colts to carry 122 pounds, fillies and geldings 119 pounds; non-winners at any time of $3,000 allowed four pounds; of $2,000, seven pounds; of $800, ten pounds; handicap and selling races not reckoned as races; the produce of mares or stallions which have not produced a winner prior to Jan. 1, 1895, to be allowed three pounds; of both, five pounds; by filly on or before July 15, 1896, with the Coney Island Jockey Club an accepted transfer of the foal's entry, the original subscriber will be released from any liability as to the engagement of said entry except as to the first forfeit of $10, leaving the purchaser liable for the same unless duly struck out; should a subscriber or transferee die before the race the entry shall not be void, provided it be assumed by the then owner of the horse; notice in writing to that effect, accompanied by the payment of all accrued liabilities for such horses in the stake, being given within three months after such demise; in such a case the entry shall be independent of all other racing obligations or entries of the original subscriber or transferee; one mile and five furlongs.

THE SULKY.

DIABLO, 2:09½, never was as good a horse as he is this year.

The most inferior-looking foals sometimes makes the fastest trotters.

WYSEMARK, the Orlof trotter, got a record of 2:21½ at Milwaukee August 16th.

EL BENTON, 2:23, is quite lame and may not be well enough to lower his record this season.

TOM SETTLE is campaigning Kelly, a three-year-old brother of Expressive, in New England.

SAVILLE, a chestnut horse by Hambletonian Wilkes, got a record of 2:19½ at Lincoln, Ill., August 7th.

STAM B., 2:16, is the gamest and best Stamboul ever foaled. He is a race horse of the "bull dog variety."

A. L. KEMPLAND, 2:16½, was second to Franklin in Chicago, Ill., last Saturday. He got a mark of 2:18½.

WALTER S. HOBART shipped sixteen polo ponies to Monterey to take part in the polo games next week.

NEREUS, a gray gelding by Conductor, 2:14½, won a race at Galesburg, Illinois, August 6th, in 2:30 and 2:29½.

THREE of the descendants of Onward has already beaten 2:10 this year, and many more are to be heard from.

CHEHALIS paced a quarter in 28½ seconds at Napa Tuesday. He was timed by a large number of competent men.

DIRECTION was separately timed the third heat in the 2:10 pace at Terre Haute, in which he finished third in 2:06½.

THE pacer, W. W. Foote, two-year-old record 2:15½, is being trained by James McGregor at Glens Falls, N. Y.

UPLAND, a brown horse by Simmicolon, got a record of 2:30 as a three-year-old at Glen Falls, New York, August 3d.

JOHN GOLDSMITH is now able to attend the races. His nephew, Alden Goldsmith, is doing the driving for his stable.

EL BENTON, 2:23½, who seems to have but one good leg, won a race at Napa last Saturday and lowered his record to 2:23.

REPORT says that Symboleer (two-year-old race record 2:11), by Campbell's Electioneer (2:17½), has been thrown out of training.

ANTIDOTE, 2:10½, Lucy Pan, 2:10½, and Vitello, 2:10, three pacers that have taken new records this season, are all out of Blue Bull mares.

HULDA recently stepped a half in 1:01, and she will soon be in shape to make Azote beat the race record in order to finish ahead of her.

THE track at Napa was fast, but the three-year-olds that struck it made a reputation for the course that will always be bright and enduring.

THE horse show in December promises to eclipse the one held last season. The exhibit of trotters and pacers will be worth going miles to see.

JOHN MACKAY, Superintendent of the Rancho del Paso Stock Farm, is delighted with the way the trotters and thoroughbreds are looking on the farm.

It is expected that Burlingame, the four-year-old brother to Sable Wilkes, will have a record close to 2:10 when the San Mateo stable returns to California.

A NUMBER of surveyors have been busy for the past few days at the Oakland race track making preparations for the changes to be made in the track and buildings.

HENRY PIERCE, of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm, has a filly by Diablo, 2:09½, out of a mare by Director, 2:17, which he will not put a price on. It must be like its sire.

THE American Sportsman says: A bad decision in the judges' stand does more to injure the reputation and popularity of an association than the poorest of programmes.

MYRTLE THORNE, by Grandissimo, was only beaten a neck in 2:16½ at Napa last Tuesday, and shows that in F. W. Loeber's hands she is a race mare of the highest class.

GEORGE STARR once drove little Direct to a high wheel sulky a quarter over the Cambridge City track in 0:27½, a 1:50 gait. This still marks the high tide of harness speed flights.

MONTANA, by Sidney, has been retired for the season. P. J. Williams, his owner, has decided to have him gelded and thinks he will make a steadier and a better race horse next season.

GENERAL, by Sidmoor, one of the horses brought East and sold by M. F. Sanders, got a record of 2:19½ at Galesburg, August 13th. Sidmoor was by Sidney, 2:19½, out of a mare by the Grand Moor.

WHO says the McKinnys are not game? Zombro's third, fourth and fifth heats in his race at Napa stamps him as a race horse of the first class; 2:16½, 2:15½ and 2:15½ are good records in any country.

DIRECTUM will be shipped to Chicago for treatment. He has a ruptured tendon, and it will be some time before he appears again on the turf; horsemen generally believe that his racing career is at an end.

A NUMBER of State Fair entries close to-day: Pacing purse, 2:25 class; trotting, 2:22 class; trotting, 2:25 class; trotting, 2:40 class; trotting, free-for-all four-year-olds; trotting, 2:14 class; trotting, 2:20 class.

ED CONNOLLEY appears to have mesmerized the Silver Bow stallion, Silver Bee, for the horse is getting as steady in his hands as an old campaigner, and will get a mark this season when it is least expected that will make W. O. Bowers, of Sacramento, owner of Silver Bee, smile as he receives the congratulations of his countless friends.

L. L. D., 2:24½ trotting, brother to Jennie Wilkes and Knight, has been pacing but a short time, but has already gone a mile in 2:16½, half in 1:06, quarter in 31½ seconds, and should get a record below 2:12 this fall.

J. PERKINS, the young man who drove Visalia on Tuesday at Napa when she won in 2:17, 2:16½ and 2:16, is a self-made trainer and driver, and is one of the most promising young knights of the sulky in California.

CONDUCTOR's winning race record of 2:14½ at Galesburg last Wednesday indicates that the gray son of Electioneer and Sontag Mohawk is at last back in the form which made him one of the sensational three-year-olds of 1890.

DIRECTUM will remain in the East this year. Mr. Green his owner, may stand him for a season there next spring. The colts by this great horse that are here in California are of the finest and fastest; in fact, they are fac-similes of their sire.

THE fastest trotting yearling that has shown so far this year is Fanny Foley, a bay filly, by Redwood, 2:21½ (son of Anteeo 2:16½), dam by Princeer, winner of half-mile heats at Chillicothe, O., August 7 in 1:22 and 1:18. She is inbred to Electioneer.

HART BOSWELL, K. O'Grady's splendid stallion at San Mateo, is destined to be a great sire. All of his progeny are fine looking and pure-gaited trotters. Hart Boswell is by the great Onward, out of Nancy Lee (dam of Nancy Hanks, 2:04), by Dictator.

PRINCE NUTWOOD, the black son of Dexter Prince and Luella, by Nutwood, that won the pacing race at Napa on Tuesday last in 2:15½, 2:18 and 2:17, belongs to Senator Ben Langford of San Joaquin and was splendidly driven by Millard F. Sanders.

LA BELLE, 2:16, as a two-year-old, driven by Thos. Keating, stepped a mile at the Napa track in 2:16 very handsily last Thursday. There were no races for this fast filly this year. She will appear at Sacramento in the contest for the Occident Stakes and will win easily.

THE first representative of Electioneer for 1895 is a pacer, Solano, his son, out of Isma, by Gen. Benton, having paced to a record of 2:25 at Vacaville, July 4th. Solano was a trotter, but being injured he took to pacing and may get a lower record before being retired from the turf.

DIRECTION's heat in 2:08½ at Cleveland, places Director in the list of sires of three 2:10 performers. Directum, 2:05½, and Direct, 2:05½, being previously credited to him. Electioneer, with Arion 2:07½, Sunol 2:08½, and Palo Alto 2:08½, still remains the only sire of three 2:10 trotters.

DIRECTION, winner of the great eight-heat 2:10 pacing race at Cleveland on the 5th inst., is an eight-year-old standard-bred trotter. His sire is Director (record 2:17), and his dam, Lulu Wilkes, is by George Wilkes, out of Lucy Sherman, by Sherman Black Hawk, son of Vermont Black Hawk.

EL RAMI by Wildnut, Valley Queen by Sphinx, Athanio by Junio, Azote by Whips, Fantasy by Chimes, Tommy Britton by Liberty Bell, Fred S. Moody by Guy Wilkes, and Arguro by Milroy by Guy Wilkes, won money at Buffalo August 14th. The California-bred sires were well represented by these horses.

THE kindness shown Walter Maben by his brother drivers must be comforting to him. Every one sympathizes with him, and whenever one of his horses are entered to start in a race the very best drivers on the course volunteer their services. Walter is a great favorite either in or out of the sulky, and his speedy recovery is anxiously anticipated.

BAYWOOD, 2:13½, the handsome bay stallion that lowered his record to 2:10½ at Napa Saturday, was bred by J. Mini, of Vallejo. This fast pacer is by B. C. Holly's stallion Woodnut, 2:16½, out of the Graves Mare by Echo, second dam full sister to Henrietta (dam of La Grande, 2:28½) by Bell Alta; third dam by Peacock, s t b, by Kentucky Grey Eagle.

LANIER, 2:20, by St. Just, is proving to be quite a race horse. Out of six starts to date he has never been behind the money. He was fourth once, second four times and first once. He and Fred Wilkes have been having some lively finishes, but he defeated him, with eleven others, in three straights, at Champaign, Ill., stepping the third heat in 2:22½.

W. O. BOWERS, of Sacramento, claims the following names: King Silver, h c, foaled April 16, 1885, by Silver Bee, out of Lady Beth, by Gold Nut, by Nutwood. Silver Crest, b f, foaled April 15, 1895, by Silver Bee, 2:27½ (as a two-year-old), out of Etta Benton (by Benton Prince, son of Tom Benton), second dam Jennie Benton (sister to Shylock, 2:15½, etc.), by Tom Benton.

CLARABEL by Abdallah Star had another one of her daughters to enter the 2:30 list. At Napa last Saturday Cresida, a very handsome three-year-old black filly by Palo Alto, 2:08½, won a race against Iran Alto, another Palo Alto bred colt, in 2:27½ and 2:27½. Clarabel is the dam of Clifton Bell, 2:24½; Idealia, 2:30; Rebecca (dam of five), and Cora (dam of Don Marvin, 2:22½).

THE bay stallion Daylight, foaled in 1885, by General Benton, dam Ameriquita, crippled in a smash-up and run-away in a race at the Point Breeze track last June, will be preserved for stud purposes. The tendons in his rear hind foot were wrenched from the bone, but S. Harger of the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary Hospital, into whose hands he fell, states that the horse can now walk.

THE great Kentucky stallion Onward was made quite prominent among the new 2:10 performers during the past fortnight, when his daughter, Beuzetta, trotted to a record of 2:09½ at Tiffin; Aileen, by his son, Gazette, paced in 2:07½ at Freeport, and Frank Agan, by his son, Mikeagan, paced in 2:09½ at Janesville, and Angie D, by Mikeagan, paced to a mark of 2:07 at Detroit. The average of the four performers is 2:08½.

WALTER S. HOBART, of San Mateo, purchased the game trotting beauty She, 2:14½, from Chris Smith of this city last week to mate with his little mare Tuna, 2:17½. They are driven together and a better-mated team was never driven down the shaded lanes of San Mateo. They are alike in size, color, gait, disposition, style and speed. In order to get She, Mr. Hobart purchased her full sister also. She is a very promising filly.

MESSRS. MILLER & SIBLEY, owners of Prospect Hill Farm, Franklin, Pa., regard the present unfavorable condition of the horse market as only temporary, and due to the general business depression. It is the firm's aim to raise fast trotters, and the demand for them is not lessened by the use of steam and electricity, as in the case of work horses. Throughout the country during the last year few colts have been raised, and this fact will tend to increase the demand before any great length of time.

THE erratic pacing gelding Fred Mason has been taught a lesson by Ed Lafferty and his assistants which he will not forget in a hurry. This horse had a habit of bolting across the track and dashing through the entrance gate. A committee of four armed with laths, whips and boards met him while he was making his usual side step, and they gave him the best whipping he ever received in his life. He has never shown any inclination to turn his head toward the gate since. The lesson impressed him favorably.

THERE are over 1,500 entries in the fifty-six races for Galesburg's big meeting, August 26th to September 7th. The amount of purses to be trotted and paced for is $85,000, and with favorable weather we look for the meeting to be the greatest ever given. About fifty horses with records of 2:10 or better will be among the starters, and there will be five races every day. In the 2:12 class for trotters, purse $2,000, at Galesburg, the following cracks will meet: B. B. P., William Penn, Maud C., Miss Nelson, Klamath, Beuzetta, Aunt Dellah and Ben B.

SIX trotters by St. Bel entered the 2:30 list at Meadville Pa., July 23d, viz: Dellabel, 4, 2:28½; Brilliance, 3, 2:29½; Train Bel, 3, 2:29½; Belfield, 4, 2:28; Alice Bel, 3, 2:29½; Rumpus, 6, 2:28. Brilliance and Rumpus are both out of thoroughbred mares. These, together with the performances of Lynn Bel, 2:11½, and Katrina Bel, 8, 2:16½, give the dead son of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells a very high place among the year's sires to date, and once more emphasizes the immense loss that the death of St. Bel entailed upon not only Miller & Sibley, but the entire trotting world.

PROBABLY no daughters of Mambrino Patchen and very few of George Wilkes were mated with Electioneer. We can now recall but two of the latter. One produced Advertiser (2:15½). The other, bred to Electioneer, produced Hummer. This Hummer, by the way, is rightly named. One of the best four-year-olds out this season, viz., Bouncer (2:12), and winner of one of the greatest eight-heat races ever trotted, is by him. Hummer is also sire of Stately (4) (2:11½). The Wilkes-Electioneer combination is first-class. Wilkes, Electioneer and Nutwood is sure to prove gilt edge.

A LETTER from Buffalo, N. Y., dated August 17th, says: "To-day's trotting races were declared off on account of the heavy track, and the 2,500 people who were at the grounds were told they might get their money back if they desired, or stay and see the Fitzsimmons exhibition. All but about 300 remained. Fitzsimmons boxed four rounds and punched the bag. He said this was his last exhibition before the fight with Corbett. He will go into training at Surf Haven. Fitzsimmons is in prime condition, looking much better than Corbett did yesterday. The Buffalo Park Association lost between $12,000 and $15,000 on this meeting."

THE following horses entered the 2:10 list last week: Trotters—Dandy Jim 2:10, by Young Jim, dam Caprara, by Daniel Lambert. Pacers—W. W. P. 2:08½, by Ben Lombard Jr., dam Bonner Maid, by Martinet; Steele Prince 2:07½, by Steel Nail, p, 2:25; Direction, 2:08½, by Director, 2:17, dam Lulu Wilkes, by George Wilkes, 2:22; Star Pointer 2:08½, by Brown Hal, p, 2:12½, dam Sweepstakes, by Knight's Snowheels; Whisper 2:08½, by Alexander 2:22, dam by Holabird's Ethan Allen; Bumps, 2:09½, by Baron Wilkes 2:18, dam Queen Ethel, by Strathmore; Blizzard 2:09½, by Sandy Short, dam by Robert McGregor 2:17½; Vitello, 2:10, by Legal Tender Jr., dam Rushville Maid, by Blue Bull. Those reducing their records were: Trotter—Beuzetta, 4, by Onward, 2:25½, from 2:09½ to 2:06½. Pacers—Fidol, by Idol, from 2:05½ to 2:04½; Be Sure, 4, by Beesmer, p, 2:13½, from 2:09½ to 2:06½; Waldo J., 2:13½ to 2:10.

At the beginning of the week a rumor was circulated to the effect that W. C. France & Son were about to sell Red Wilkes to some German buyers who had wired an offer for the famous sire. The horse will not, however, leave the United States, Mr. Moore having purchased him for $9,800, and he will now join Director at Cloverdell. Messrs. France have sold his entire stock—yearlings, colts, fillies and broodmares. The mares averaged something over $1,000 apiece and good prices were realized for the other stallions, Allie Wilkes, it is said, realizing nearly $10,000. J. D. Creighton bought the entire crop of yearlings and the Bowermans bought the select lot of mares, several of which are by Mambrino Patchen and almost all are producers of speed. It is a matter of much congratulation that Red Wilkes was not expatriated, for he is in his twenty-second year, and if sent to Germany would in all likelihood have proved somewhat of a failure in the stud. Horses rarely do well the first or second year after having been shipped across the seas.

THE George Wilkes branch of the Hambletonian family is getting more than its share of honors this season in the way of new 2:30 class performers. At the close of last week Red Wilkes was credited with six new ones in the 2:30 list; Brown Wilkes, Jay Bird, Guy Wilkes and Baron Wilkes five each; Alcantara, King Wilkes, Onward, Wilkes Boy and Wilton four each. Damas, a son of Onward, was credited with five new 2:30 performers. Chimes led in the Electioneer family as a sire of new performers with four to his credit, three of which were pacers. St. Bel, however, outranks him, and equals Red Wilkes in point of numbers with six to his credit, but the records were all made over the Meadville (Pa.) track, several of them against time, and not a semblance of a genuine contest among those which trotted against each other in matches, and got into the list in that way. It must not be inferred from this, however, that the get of St. Bel are not first-class race winners. Lynn Bell, which Ed Bither is campaigning in New England, is as good a race horse as any man can wish, and it is not improbable that a large proportion of those that went into the list at Meadville may make successful campaigners if given an opportunity. The cup records, as they are termed, are very unpopular, yet so good a campaigner as Dandy Jim, 2:10½, got a tin-cup record of 2:30 when he first appeared upon the turf.

THE SADDLE.

JOCKEY HUGH PENNY was set down for the balance of the meeting at Detroit Aug. 16th.

WALTZER, the Darebin-Sly Dance colt, won a five-furlong race in 1:01½ at Saratoga Aug. 15th.

CHEVALIER rode two winners on Saturday and was beaten a short breath on a third—Detective.

"MOOSE" TAYLOR has traded Red Will for The Judge with D. J. Lynch, of the Arizona Stable.

BILL HOWARD won a half-mile heat race at Anaconda, Mont., last Saturday, going one of the heats in 0:48½.

REALIZATION's five furlongs in 1:01 with 112 pounds up over a track deeply narrowed was a truly grand performance.

By the terms of a contract signed Aug. 14th A. B. Spreckels secured the services of Joe Piggott, as lightweight jockey for his big string.

WILD ROSE shows steady improvement, and the old son of Wildidle and Rosetland is likely to beat somebody's good horse before long.

E. H. ROLLINS now controls the running qualities of imp. Ivy, he having secured a lease of the mare from her owner, W. C. de B. Lopez.

THE exact value to the winner of the Eclipse Stakes (won by Le Justicier) was $46,425. Whittier, the second horse, received $2,500 out of the stakes.

MR. MILTON YOUNG sold last week a yearling colt by imp. Woodlands, out of Enid, by imp. Sir Modred, to Thomas Baxter, of Florida. Price, $500.

GALEN BROWN, owner of the fast sprinter Libertine and other good horses, is expected to arrive at Sacramento to-day. The string of Burns & Waterhouse is also daily expected.

ELEVEN horses were recently killed by mountain lions in Tuolumne County, this State, among the number being a suckling sister to Emma D., by Jack Brady—Dolly Varden.

REQUITAL, the great colt by imp. Eothen, out of Retribution (dam of Arab and Contribution), defeated Crescendo last week at Saratoga in a five and a half furlong race, run in 1:08½.

THE broodmare Serenade, the property of Hinde & Baker, died July 2d at Millbrook Farm, leaving a suckling by Patron. Serenade was by Luke Blackburn, dam Miss Harding, by Great Tom.

COL. JACK CHINN will act as starter at the Louisville meeting. Starter Pettengill having no engagements until after the Louisville fall meeting has gone East for a rest at the seaside resorts.

SAYS a Chicago dispatch of August 14: "Edward Corrigan announced to-day that he had appointed 'Otherwise' Joe Murphy, of Chicago, as one of the judges for his new race track at San Francisco this winter."

WE were mistaken in saying that Tricksey, by Joe Hooker, was the dam of De la Guerra and Olive, and should have said De la Guerra and Mohalaska. The latter is one of the best two-year-old fillies out this season.

BARNEY SCHREIBER purchased Miss Hall, by Rogers, dam of Kamsin, from Mr. Parish, of Nashville, for $300. Miss Hall has a suckling full sister to Kamsin by her side. The mare and foal have been shipped to St. Louis.

GEORGE ROSE has secured the betting privileges at the Woodland Fair meeting. It is understood that $1,500 was the genial turfman's bid. Woodland always has one of the star meetings of the California "grand circuit."

It is said that Willie Flynn, ruled off here last spring for a suspicious ride on Realization, is thoroughly penitent, and has been taught a lesson that he will never forget. The local racing stewards are likely to give the boy another chance.

DR. J. D. NEET, of Woodford Co., Ky., recently sold to Ed Brown ("Brown Dick") a chestnut colt, by Escher, out of Austin (dam of Fannie Hunt), by Reform, and a brown filly by Fordham, out of Lena, by Leonatus. Both are yearlings.

THERE are now quartered at the Sacramento track over 100 runners. George Rose will have eleven books on, including three books for the field. Ab Stemler, who returned from the Capital City last week, predicts a great meeting during the State Fair.

WM. STEWART, the well-known steeplechase rider, has purchased of A. P. Miller the bay four-year-old colt Adelante, by El Rio Rey, dam Ogaleña, by Joe Hooker. Consideration private. The good-looking colt may be put over the jumps.

C. H. GILLOCK, of Nashville, Tenn., has shipped to Col. J. Ruppert, Jr., New York, the following yearlings: Colt by Linden—Chartreuse; filly by Iroquois—Victress; filly by Linden—Ballona; filly by Linden—Carolina, and filly by Hindoo—Delilah.

IMP. BROADMEADE, a bay four-year-old colt bred in Australia, by Marvellous (sire of Marvel), dam Beryl, died of pneumonia at Bay District track last Saturday. He belonged to R. P. Ribbet, of Victoria, B. C., and was a fair performer, besides being nicely bred.

TOM FLYNN, father of Joe and Willie Flynn, the jockeys, is here from the East, and is very favorably impressed with California. Mr. Flynn is very well known among horsemen visiting the country's metropolis, as he has been foreman of big stables of race horses for many years past.

SANTA MARIA, b f, 4, by Bishop, dam Amerique, ran six and a half furlongs at Oakley, on Saturday, August 3, in 1:20. This is a new track record at Oakley and is within two-fifths of a second of the record at the distance, which is 1:19 3/5, made by Geraldine at San Francisco in 1891.

G. B. MORRIS has sold Sallie Woodford, brown filly, 3, by Salvator, dam Miss Woodford; Salso, bay gelding, 2, by Salvator, dam Sozodont; and Senciene, chestnut filly, 2, by Sensation, dam Dauphine, getting $1,000 for the three. If we remember aright Sallie Woodford brought over $5,000 as a yearling.

ARAPAHOE, Baldwin's good filly, won the Hurricana Stud Stakes easily yesterday in 1:42, leading all the way. Candellahra, another Californian, was also successful at Saratoga.

D. W. HIGGINS ("Rataplán") and Henry Weldt arrived last Sunday morning from St. Louis in good health. Mr. Higgins reports that most of the big bettors will be in San Francisco next winter. Racing is carried on night and day at St. Louis, and the betting public there is very wise.

THE much-admired young jockey, Joe Piggott, should quit trying to break from the rear all the time, a la Felix Carr. Piggott is not as big or as strong as Carr, and the result is that when the flag is not lowered in token of a go his mounts run about an eighth of a mile before he can stop them.

PRIMROSE KNIGHT actually cost Mr. M. F. Dwyer $1,500. He was bid up to 500 guineas, 400 guineas beyond the conditional selling price. As Mr. Dwyer ran second in the race with Don Alonzo, he was entitled to half the surplus, 200 guineas, which, of course, reduced the cost price of Primrose Knight to 300 guineas.

TRICKSEY, by Joe Hooker (dam of the very fast mare Olive, and De la Guerra), foaled on May 7th a bay colt by imp. Midlothian. The mare died at Rancho del Paso July 22d of spinal meningitis. Her foal is being raised by hand, and is doing well. She was the property of the estate of Col. Harry I. Thornton, and highly prized.

VINCITOR, winner over Road Runner, Charmion and others Aug. 16th, was the best two-year-old in the big Boots string, and this year has time and again shown himself even a better colt than Installator in his work. He is credited with taking up 126 pounds as a two-year-old and running four and one-half furlongs in 0:54½ in his work.

GEORGE COCHRANE, the well-known steeplechase rider, was ruled off at Detroit, Michigan, Aug. 15th, for pulling. Scamp. All bets were declared off. Cochrane was ruled off here last winter, but the associations on the other side of the Rockies seem not to have recognized the ruling. Miles Standish ran into a tree while leading, half a mile of the finish, badly injuring Jockey M. Lynch.

THE grand-looking bay mare Lady Emily, sister to Cheerful, is safely in foal to imp. True Briton. She is by Three Cheers from Queen Emma (dam of Cheerful, Mainstay, King Daniels and Samson), by Woodburn. Queen Emma is an own sister to Cousin Peggy (dam of Geraldine), Fannie D. (dam of The Drummer) and Ironclad (sire of Inkerman and Sam Mount).

AT Brighton Beach August 8th three California-bred horses won and one ran second. Salonica, by Grinstead—Jennie D., won at a mile; Lady Richmond, by imp. Kyrle Daly—Mottle captured a five-furlong race in 1:02, while Connoisseur, by Sir Modred—Dixianne, was first in a mile and a quarter event run in 2:09 with 115 pounds up. Silver II., by Salvator, ran a bang up second to Annot Lyle.

THE jockeys who came in one, two, three in the races at St. Louis recently donated their winnings toward a fund for the benefit of Jockey Mayberry, who was so badly injured recently in his race on Boh Taylor. Jockey Turberville led off with $50, his two winning mounts on Jim Head and Dare Dollar. Mayberry is pretty badly off physically and financially, and this act on the part of his comrades is of very gracious and highly commendatory character.

THE big, good-looking bay four-year-old colt, Ali Baba, by Joe Daniels, dam Test, by Ten Broeck, Aug. 16th, passed from the hands of Frank Trainor into the possession of the young millionaire, W. S. Hobart. The consideration is understood to have been $2,500. Ali Baba will be used at the timber-topping game. He was worked five furlongs in 1:01 for Mr. H.'s benefit on Wednesday afternoon, and did it easily.

J. J. ("VIRGINIA") CARROLL created considerable amusement among the layers of odds by paying off his markers on Captain T. with the money inclosed in black bordered envelopes. When questioned Carroll would give no explanation further than to say that he was following a custom which prevails in good society. Carroll was one of the many heavy supporters of Daly's horse, and is credited with having lost a large sum on him.—New York Mercury.

NEW YORK, August 16.—The World to-morrow will say: "It's just beginning to dawn on race-goers that Rey el Santa Anita, like many other of the Baldwin horses, has been handled in a most curious, peculiar, erratic and utterly inexplicable fashion. A thorough, searching, wholesome investigation of Mr. 'Lucky' Baldwin's entire establishment by the Jockey Club might be of value to the turf. Rey el Santa Anita's performance at Sheephead Bay will be watched with profound interest by the public."

WHEN it is known how Gratify is bred, it is little wonder that he is a rare good 'un. His sire is Farandole (son of Enquirer and Waltz, dam of Gludeia, Hop, Racquet and Kermesse, by Lexington). His dam is Satisfaction, a good race mare, by Sensation; second dam Gullnare, by imp. Glen Athol (son of Blair Athol, by Stockwell); third dam Light-some (dam of Salina, Salvator's sire; Sprightly, dam of Volturbo and Elias Lawrence; Nevada, dam of Luke Blackburn), by Glencoe; fourth dam Levity (the Pocahontas of America), by imp. Trustee. From the two greatest families of America (the Levity and Dance) it would be indeed odd if he was not a fine performer.

"CURLEY" BROWN's starting at Kansas City is more picturesque than the racing, says a Western exchange. The Westerner's methods are peculiar. Brown started in California a year ago. He is all life and hustle, starts when and where he can, and is seldom in the box when his field gets away. Brown's assistant has a sinecure. The starter himself is always among his horses making alignment, disciplining boys and getting the wrong ones in the right place. Perhaps he is among the horses when the word or wave of dispatch is given, perhaps in front of and perhaps behind them. In 24 Western starts he never had a bad one. He uses little or no time and is a terror to the average band of Western boys who are learning to ride, with the idea that every starter is a creature to be avoided, abused and got the best of. Barney Schreiber thinks that Brown is one of the best starters in America, and considers his work on the track as attractive as the racing itself.

THE old gelding Chesapeake, after a rest of two years at Applegate & McMeekin's Oakwood Farm, near this city, was shipped East to his owner, Jack McDonald, several weeks ago and started for the first time last Monday at Saratoga. A special gives the following account of his performance: "Chesapeake's appearance in the last race yesterday was the first since 1893. The gelding broke down two years ago, and Jack McDonald, who had a fondness for the brother to Potomac, decided to give him a year's rest. He ran well for a short distance and pulled up sound. Bodily he looks well."

A NEW YORK dispatch of August 17th says: "Dan Burns arrived in this city from Saratoga to-night. Colonel Burns and his partner, Waterhouse, have had much trouble over the registration of their horses and other matters since their arrival from California. E. Blum is no longer associated with the stable in any capacity. A misunderstanding as to the management of the stable resulted in the dismissal of Blum by Burns. James H. McCormick will train Burns & Waterhouse's stable next year. The registration rule promulgated by the Jockey Club has proved a stumbling block to many owners from the Pacific Slope. Neglect to register their horses properly last winter will cost the firm of Burns & Waterhouse not less than $1,600, not to mention the chances lost by being unable to start their horses in stakes in which they were entered in Saratoga."

A LOOK was had yesterday at some of the youngsters brought out from Kentucky by J. H. Shields. There were two bay fillies belonging to J. B. Ferguson that would be hard to equal, let alone excel, in any country. The conformation of each is much alike, they having clean-cut heads, beautifully arched necks, most powerful shoulders, short backs, great width of loin, immensely muscular quarters, legs without blemishes, are well-ribbed up, deep through the heart, and are a trifle higher behind than at the withers. One is by Alarm (perhaps the last of his get), out of Maria Jansen, by Kingfisher; second dam Clara (dam of Clarendon), by imp. The Ill-Used; the other by imp. St. George (sire of Josephine), dam Fraulein (dam of Zoolain and Schiller), by Wanderer. Mr. Shields has a brown colt by imp. Whistle Jacket (now dead), by Hermit, dam Zuhlan, by Jimp. Uhlan; second dam imp. Zuleika, by Scottish Chief. If this brown fellow isn't a stake colt there is nothing in breeding. He has a sensible-looking head, a handsome neck, tremendous shoulders, great depth through the heart, a long, trim body, is very wide across the loins, has powerful quarters and sturdy limbs. He is a jewel, if appearances go for anything.

ANOTHER race track idol was broken at Saratoga track last week. Clifford, who was looked upon as the only rival of the peerless Henry of Navarre, was beaten for the Merchants' Stakes by Baldwin's Rey el Santa Anita. Only the two horses named started, Song and Dance, Sir Excess and Lissak being withdrawn. In the betting Clifford opened at 1 to 2, but so much money was placed on him by Robert Rose, his friends and plungers that Clifford's price was cut to 2 to 5. Rey el Santa Anita did not lack admirers, and his stable supported him very heavily. Both horses got away together, Clifford leading around the first turn by open daylight. Nearing the haskstretch Rey el Santa Anita moved up to Clifford's head, and from there on they ran lapped to the finish. Both were under restraint. Rounding the turn Griffin gave Clifford his head. This did not hurt the California's chances any, as he kept at Clifford's side easily. When straightened out for home Griffin went to the whip. Clifford responded some, but he could never make Santa Anita do his best, and "Lucky" Baldwin's champion won very easily by half a length. The time, 1:55½, was good, but nothing extra for a track which was very fast. Lucky Baldwin had two other winners besides Rey el Santa Anita, Lady Diamond and Argentina winning the first and third races, respectively.

THE following is the list of American entries in the Epsom Derby for 1897. The Derby closed July 23, 1895, with 301 subscriptions, of which number thirty are entered by American owners: Mr. A. Belmont's ch c Don de Oro, by imp. Rayon d'Or, out of imp. Belladonna; ch c Octagon II, by imp. Rayon d'Or, out of imp. Ortegai, b c Taranto, by imp. St. Blaise, out of imp. Tarantula; Mr. O. Belmont's ch c, by St. Blaise, out of Sur-quehonna; Mr. Richard Croker's ch c, by Hanover, out of Margarine, ch c, by Hanover, out of Golden Rod, ch c, by Hanover, out of Extra, ch c, by Hanover, out of Chimera, ch c, by Hanover, out of Cyrilla, ch c, by Hanover, out of Bettie M., ch c, by Hanover, out of Burletta, b c, by Hanover, out of Lizzie D; Mr. Chas. Littlefield's br c, by Himyar, out of Bravoura, b c, by Tenny, out of Quesal; hr c, by Tyrant, out of Cresset, b c, by Teuton, out of Alta Blue; Mr. P. Lorillard's ch c, by Sensation, out of Quandary; h c, by Sensation, out of Alcina, ch c, by Sensation, out of Belphebe, br c, by Sensation, out of Breeze; h c, by Sensation, out of Lizzie Cox; Mr. J. E. Madden's hr c, by Longfellow, out of Annette, b c, by Strathmore—Hypocrite; Mr. Marcus Daly's Scottish Chieftain, Loch Ness, Fort Augustus, Scotch Pirate, Mistral II; Mr. J. R. Keene's h c, by Candlemas, out of Maywood, h f, by Galliard, out of Cushat.

THE St. Louis Globe-Democrat, in commenting upon the racing in that section, says: "There has been altogether too much consideration shown every man who wears a badge marked 'owner.' It would seem from the amount of consideration shown owners and bookmakers by turf officials that the sport owed its very existence to these worthy gentlemen. "While the honest owners and bookmakers are desirable adjuncts of a racing meeting, they by no means support it. Track owners are short-sighted enough to be persuaded that because the bookmakers pay for the privilege of hanging out their dates that they alone support a meeting. Who makes it possible for the bookmaker to live? The horse owner or the public? Races are made for the benefit of disgruntled owners, and they are permitted to trade races as they see fit. If rebuked they threaten to remove their horses, thus bringing the average judge to his knees. If a jockey is 'set down,' fined or ruled off, some big owner declines to start his horses unless the thriving youngster is reinstated. And the bluff is generally successful. The triumvirate owner, bookmaker and jockey owe their livelihood to the patronizing patience of the public, which receives absolutely no consideration and is deprived of every means of defense against the protected rapacity of a wolfish combination. It is about time that the mewish sentiment about 'absolute proof' was buried. Desperate diseases justify the use of desperate remedies. Turf crookedness is a desperate disease. Ruling off on mere suspicion may be a desperate remedy, but it is the only one which will prove efficacious."

THE State Fair of 1895 promises to eclipse any ever held—when good racing is the desideratum. Never were such a host of high-class race horses entered in the stakes as this year. Such names as Cadmus, Bright Phoebe, Libertine (holder of the mile circular track record), Candid, Gilead, Del Norte, Lovdal, Ferrier, Mulberry, Fred Gardner, Vinctor, Installator, Contribution, Rebellion, Grady and Bloomsbury should arouse enthusiasm in the breast of anyone knowing anything about racing, while in the harness brigade such stars as Chelalis, Diablo, W. Wood, Silkwood, Waldo J., Baywood, Zombro, Boodle, Palita, LaBelle, Stam B., McZeus and others are booked to appear in races. The first three days will be given up to the gallopers, the next three to the trotters and pacers, then the runners again, the light harness horses having the last inning. Bookmaking on all the events will be an innovation, but it will doubtless become popular. Those preferring to put their money in auction pools will be given amply opportunity. George Rose, who secured the betting privileges, will see to it that bettors have a chance to get their money down on the horses of their choice.

SELLING races in this part of the world amount to the same thing as an owners' handicap, and as few horses are run up, notwithstanding they are worth four and five times the sum at which they are entered, would it not be well to make them claiming races, as they do now on Western Turf Congress tracks? There any horse in a selling race can be claimed for the sum he is entered to be sold at, plus the winner's end of the purse. This would make owners put their horses in at their true value and keep good handicap and stake horses where they belong—away from the selling-plate division. Races would be more hotly contested, the public would be quick to see the merits of the change, and thus benefit would be worked all around. When all is said and done, it is the public that support racing more than all else combined, and exciting racing and close finishes please those that pay their dollars at the gate every time.

Lesson to be Taught.

The meeting at Petaluma this week, from a racing point of view, was a success; although the fields were small every heat was well contested and was not decided until the wire was reached. In other respects it was not the splendid success for which the fairs at this place in the past have been noted. The directors had a bitter experience last season and were unable to collect a number of entrance fees that were due them. This year, in their advertisements for entries, the conditions were such that the majority of horsemen refused to make entries, for the idea of paying money with the entry did not find favor with them.

At a meeting of the directors held after the date selected for the closing of entries, it was resolved to declare all entries off, and there was some talk about there not being a Petaluma fair this year. Many horsemen who generally considered the circuit incomplete without Petaluma then made arrangements to remain at Napa or applied for stalls and accommodations at Woodland.

The directors of the Petaluma Association held another meeting and decided to reopen the classes and advertised for entries, but it was too late to get a large entry list. Undismayed by the prospects, they set to work and had the pavilion prepared for the horticultural and agricultural exposition, advertised for bids for privileges, secured one of the finest bands of musicians west of Chicago, and on Tuesday opened the gates to a small crowd.

There can be no complaint of the fair grounds, the management or the men who brought their horses there to race; the lack of appreciation on the part of the people who, in former years, thronged the grand stand, can only be ascribed to two things—the "scarcity of money" and the lack of enthusiasm, and without money there can be little enthusiasm anyway. But if the same conditions were in force as those of 1894, there is little doubt but a more substantial support would be given this association. The President and Board of Directors did not view the method of making entries the same as they did last season for their looks showed that they lost thousands, of dollars, and in their endeavors, single-handed, to apply the remedy, failed. Their efforts in this matter will, however, be beneficial to the trotting-horse industry of this Coast, for something must be done to keep owners and trainers from making entries to races for which they have no horses fit to race nor fit to train. The associations that pay their bills must be protected as much as the horsemen who are honestly striving to make a livelihood by breeding and developing their horses. A black list should be printed and all who lead associations to believe their "word is as good as their bond," and then refuse to acknowledge their indebtedness or strive to pay what they owe, should be published with their addresses. Business methods should be followed in the management of the light harness industry, and if the confidence operators whose names fill the list requisite to have the purses fill are exposed, some good will be accomplished.

The Petaluma Association was the first to try and break the chains which held it in 1896. It will have many supporters. The fair at Petaluma may not be a great financial success, the directors do not expect it, but the lesson their directors have been trying to teach, although a costly one to them, have a most beneficial effect upon the management of all race meetings in the future.

The Horse Show.

The demand for prize lists of the coming horse show is remarkable. Letters are received from all parts of the Pacific Coast and the Eastern States making inquiries about it. The enviable reputation the last show achieved has been the means of enlisting thousands of admirers to the causes where only a few were to be found last year. The benefits of such an exhibition were manifold, and were at once recognized by every thoughtful breeder and admirer of the light harness horse.

The great bicycle craze has taught people the benefit of good roads and the pleasure of riding fast over them. To ride fast when the bicycle is laid away on the shelf will always be a pleasure, and the class of horses that can go fast and go a distance will always be in demand. The poor hippety-hoppety-go-along-slowly-horse has had his day; he must move aside and let faster, larger and more stylish-going horses that have life and ambition take his place. The cross-roads stallion that in olden times were rightfully termed "weeds" and "daisy-toppers" must be destroyed, and the only way these useless animals can be annihilated is by having no demand for them. Buyers are being educated as well as those who sell, and are not as easily drawn into a bargain as they were a few years ago. The horse show will have horses of every breed, and the difference between the good and the bad will be so plainly shown that the novice will at once be perceived.

The prizes offered are sufficient inducements to attract a large number of competitors, and from all the expressions heard at the last show there is reason to expect that stall-room at the Mechanics' Pavilion will be at a premium.

Then there is another phase of the horse show which from an educational point of view must not be overlooked, and that is the styles of the vehicles and the harnesses used for different purposes. There is a great diversity of opinion as to what the latest style in this department really is, and a true exemplification will be appreciated by the thousands of our wealthiest and most prominent citizens who, with their wives and families, will occupy the boxes around the immense oval in which these equipages will be shown to the best advantages. There will be famous thoroughbreds, the creme de la creme of the racing world, champion trotters and pacers, world-renowned stallions and broodmares with their families. Horses of every size from the massive Clydes to diminutive Shetlands, carriage, coach and hackney horses with style and without style. Saddle horses that have all the fashionable Kentucky gaits, and polo ponies that need no gates, but are good at jumping fences and carrying men in that most exciting and dangerous of all sports, polo racing.

The president and board of directors are anxious to have a large representation from our light-harness horse breeders, and will send blanks to all who inquire for them. Those who desire to enter should not delay until it is too late. In order to be prepared they should write at once to Secretary Newhall for further particulars.

THE Woodland Fair, which begins next week, will be a grand affair this season, as usual, and some first-class racing will take place over its superb track. Outside of the State Fair, the crowds attracted to Woodland are larger than at any place on the Grand Circuit of California, and it is questionable if more enthusiasm is evoked anywhere in the Far West than here or more interest taken in a fair by the inhabitants of the little city and surrounding country. Hon. H. M. La Rue has accepted the position of presiding judge tendered him. George Rose secured the betting privileges, and will give patrons of the fair three styles of betting—auction pools, Paris mutuels and book-betting. There is sufficient cash in the treasury now to pay all the purses, and horsemen can get their money as soon as the judges announce the horse a winner. On Wednesday, August 28th, there will be bicycle racing from 9:30 A. M. to 12 M., during which time no horses will be allowed upon the track. This is all the time that will be given up to the bicyclists. There will probably be one or more running races per day, and the management state that without doubt the Woodland Fair meeting of 1895 will be the best and most successful of many successful fairs held there.

WE would suggest that the local racing organizations adopt measures for the relief of worthy sick and disabled jockeys and aged horsemen. This can easily be done as it is in Australia, and the money thus secured would never be missed by the jockey clubs and at the same time do a world of good to those in need of assistance. In the Colonies all the fines put upon jockeys for misbehavior at the post or foul riding in races go into a fund such as we spoke of above—for the benefit of jockeys either ill or disabled by some accident occurring on a race track. The fund there more than meets the demands upon it, and the remainder is put in bank to draw a fair rate of interest. The best medical attention is given the unfortunate jockeys, and they are kept up from this fund until able to resume work again. When a rider gets fined there he generally remarks: "Well, some poor fellow will get the benefit of this, and so I don't much care." The object is certainly a most worthy one, and we hope to see the institution of such a fund at an early date.

IN this issue we print the revised programme of races of the Pacific Coast Pony and Steeplechase Racing Association. These interesting events, which will attract the flower of California's fashionables, take place on Thursday and Saturday of next week, and should be but the forerunner of other meetings, wherein are entered ponies from all over the county owned by members of pony and steeplechase clubs. The success of next week's meeting is assured, for the gentlemen having the affair in charge have marked ability.

To be Named September 1st.

The following is a list of the subscribers to the nomination purses offered by the California Jockey Club.

The horses in these purses must be named and must be eligible on September 1st. Those who made subscriptions, and whose horses have trotted or paced out of the classes in which they intended to name them, should make an immediate effort to sell their nominations or secure other horses that are eligible and name them in time to comply with the conditions.

Those who failed to make an entry at the time these subscriptions closed, and who wish to secure a nomination, can do so by making application and naming their horses before the 1st of September. All communications regarding the matter should be sent to F. W. Kelley, Assistant Secretary, 313 Bush street, San Francisco.

Notes From Salisbury's String.

The following is a condensed report of the horses in Salisbury's string, furnished by Superintendent Joe Neal of Pleasanton:

Had no racing at Buffalo, but Directly had worked him some halves, slowest, 1:02, fastest, 1:00, and Andy says he could have beaten a minute. Red Nutling has been lame since Detroit; is nearly over it now. Marin Jr. had a very bad off fore heel, apparently a gravel; cut it down thoroughly and put on a bar shoe and the horse went sound immediately. Had a bad corn another fore foot. Alix goes on exhibition at Rochester this week, and at Toledo (half-mile track) next week, and as she stepped a half in 1:00, last quarter in 0:26, at Detroit, she should crowd the record, and if she doesn't she will go fast enough to make some of these "has been" fellows scratch their figuring apparatus. Azote goes a race against Beuzetta (2:06), fourth heat at Buffalo) the first week in September at Philadelphia. With good day and track and horses both on edge there ought to be some miles in this race. The odds on Altan when he won at Cleveland in 2:12, 2:11 and 2:10, were from $8 in $100, to $10 in $180, and the boys in Salisbury's stable all had plenty of the long green to burn after the race (hall).

Mr. Salisbury has two of J. H. Schultz's horses in his string that are about ready to drop, a three-year-old trotting filly by Advertiser out of Rowena, named Emir, and a four-year-old pacer named Ferndale, by Simmoclon. The latter recently worked a half in 1:03.

R. N. FITZGERALD, Hartford, Conn., writes: I have had occasion several times to use Absorbine, and it works like a charm in removing soreness and puffs on horses. I cheerfully recommend it.

C. H. MAGOON, Chicago, Ill., writes: I consider the Absorbine rightly named, as it completely absorbs all bunches where applied.

Speedy Reminders of the Past.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—In your issue of August 17th on top of third column, page 140, you have as follows, no doubt, it is a telegraphic dispatch:

"The great pacing stallion John R. Gentry did at Freeport what no other trotting or pacing horse has ever been known to do before. He paced the first three quarters in 1:30 a 2:00 clip."

In the Breeder and Turfman, a paper published at Nashville, Tenn., and edited by J. W. Russwurm, then the secretary of the Cumberland Racing Association, issue of November 12, 1892, appears the following in describing the racing and time records of the proceeding week under head of Nov. 8th.

"Direct, the little black whirlwind from beyond the Rockies and vanquisher of our once-thought invincible, Hal Pointer, did something at the track to-day that shows beyond a doubt that the much-talked-of 2:00 horse is no longer a theory, but a certainty, and although he faltered the last quarter and only finished the mile in 2:06, the speed he showed the first three-quarters of a mile was phenomenal, as he went the first quarter in thirty seconds, the second in 29½ seconds, and the third in 30 seconds. A half mile in 59½ seconds is the fastest performance ever shown by a harness horse, the next quarter in 30 seconds, thus making the three-quarters in 1:29½ is such an exhibition of speed never before sustained for a like distance, and it is little wonder that a horse capable of such speed has vanquished our Hal.

I will say further that I was present that day and saw this mile, and in explanation will say that Mr. Salisbury got a young man who had a runner hitched to a sulky to act as pace-maker for Direct. He sent this party around to about the eighth pole to lay there until Direct got to him, then to lay back about three lengths along the backstretch, to close up on him and lay on his wheel around the upper turn and lay right even with him through the homestretch. This young man was looking for Direct to come and instead of being under way when he did come he only had his runner jogging along at a trot as Direct shot by him. He immediately got his horse a-going and was about twenty lengths behind and commenced to whip him, and he went up on Direct who, seeing him coming and heaving the whip, just kept going faster and faster; this accounts for that fast second quarter. When he got to the three quarter pole better than 1:30, some said too fast and many said the record is gone now sure, but Direct couldn't carry the clip. He wavered and staggered a little and went under the wire with his little ears laid back on his head and shaking or grabbing at the bit.

John Kelly was driving Direct that day. I have often called attention to this terrific, long-carried burst of speed, and parties have thought it incredible; still it is the fact and of record, and to show that even this was not the height of Direct's speed I will say that the year previous, in 1891, at Cambridge City, Indiana, Direct pulled a high-wheeled sulky an exhibition quarter one afternoon before an audience of over 5,000 people in 27½ seconds, the time being officially announced out of the judge's stand.

Sam Hildreth May Go.

SARATOGA, August 22.—The poor showing made by Rey el Santa Anita in the Spencer Handicap at the Saratoga track yesterday will undoubtedly cause a shake-up in the personnel of "Lucky" Baldwin's stable. The California millionaire was greatly wrought up over having his pet run such a bad race, and he immediately set on foot an inquiry into the causes which led up to the horse running last to Sir Excess and Saratoga.

Early in the morning he was informed by his trainer, Sam Hildreth, that the horse had never been in better condition, and, as he had beaten Clifford so easily, this statement of the trainer led Mr. Baldwin to believe Rey el Santa Anita would beat Sir Excess, a much inferior animal than Clifford, very easily. Greatly to his disappointment, this did not prove to be the case, and many incidents which were subsequently told to Mr. Baldwin caused him to decide to-night to change trainers, if not for his entire stable, at least for this one horse.

Mr. Baldwin discovered all the "clever" people had backed Sir Excess heavily, and that his colt's price receded in the betting, notwithstanding a heavy commission of his own and of his friends which had been placed on the horse. This fact, along with the statement of Isaac Murphy, the jockey, to the effect that the horse was beaten before he had gone a quarter of a mile, led Baldwin believe he had been unfairly dealt with; in other words, he had been given the double cross.

Mr. Baldwin said he had been informed that Murphy was under the influence of liquor when he bestrode the horse. In order to prove this assertion he did a little "Sherlock Holmes" work of his own, and, drawing Murphy into conversation, could form no other deductions from the state of Murphy's breath but that the jockey was perfectly sober.

It is currently reported that the Jockey Club will investigate the action of the Saratoga Association in permitting pencilers to accept money handed them for betting purposes. When this scheme was first adopted here there was some little semblance of secrecy about the matter, but as the meeting progresses the pencilers are getting holder and in many instances refuse to accept any wages without the accompanying cash. This fact has been communicated to the Executive Committee, but thus far no step has been taken to stop it. The argument is advanced by the pencilers that unless they accept money they would be heavy losers, as there are so many strangers here that it would be impossible to identify them. The bookies immediately ceased receiving money as soon as the rumor of investigation by the Jockey Club became current.—New York Advertiser.

C. H. GILLOCK, Nashville, has sold to Mr. Rickabaugh, who is racing his horses at St. Louis, the chestnut filly Waldine, 2 by imp. Silvermine—Sylvia Spring (dam of Caroline Hamilton), by imp. Buckden, for $800. W. J. Speirs, the owner of O'Connell, has had the filly until recently in his stable, and says she is a good one.

MARIETTA, who won at 100 to 1 here one day, was victorious in a mile and a quarter dash at Anaconda, Mont., Wednesday, going the distance in 2:10. Lark, the fast sprinter, won a three-furlong race at the same place in 0:36.

Entries to Monterey Races.

FIRST DAY, AUGUST 29TH.

First race, one-quarter mile—Del Monte Stables' Brandy and Conejo, R. L. Bettner's Lady Green Sleeves, J. S. Tobin's Buckskin and Alladin, W. H. Howard's Chiquita, C. A. Baldwin's Walla Walla, Mr. Neave's Maud, Mr. Hobson's Choice.

Second race, six furlongs—Del Monte Stables' Sally M., Rickshaw Stables' Pasha, D. J. McCarthy's Bernardo, C. A. Baldwin's Frondeur, E. C. Sachs' Red Bird, F. Van Ness' Silver, Peter Weber's Hello, W. O. B. Macdonough's Veragua.

Third race, five furlongs—R. L. Bettner's Lady Green Sleeves, H. Dimond's Gaiety Girl, W. H. Dudley's Geraldine, W. R. Whittier's Finesse, M. J. Burnester's Geronimo, Del Monte Stables' Gold Coin and Dr. Tevis, Rudolph Spreckel's Molihini.

Fourth race, one mile—Del Monte Stables' Romulus and Tigress, Rickshaw Stables' Pasha and Lady Leinster filly, P. J. Donahue's Raindrop, M. Taylor's Red Will.

Fifth race, steeplechase—Andrew Jackson's Mestor, Del Monte Stables' Ali Baba and Tornado, Harry Simpkins' The Lark, D. J. McCarthy's Guadalupe, F. Van Ness' J. O. C., W. O. B. Macdonough's Barcalaine.

SECOND DAY, AUGUST 31ST.

First race, one-half mile—Del Monte Stables' Brandy, and Conejo, R. L. Bettner's Lady Green Sleeves, Capt. A. F. Wainwright's Audrey, Beylard's Peacock.

Second—Del Monte Stables' Romulus and Tigress, Rickshaw Stables' Pasha, D. J. McCarthy's Bernardo, P. J. Donahue's Raindrop, Peter Weber's Hello.

Third race, Del Monte Cnp—C. A. Baldwin's Fusillade, Harry Dimond's Gaiety Girl, Del Monte Stables' Dr. Tevis, Escapo and Gold Coin, J. H. Dudley's Geraldine, W. R. Whittier's Finesse, M. G. Burmester's Geronimo, Rudolph Spreckels' Molihini.

Fourth race, two miles—Andrew Jackson's Mestor, Del Monte Stables' Ali Baha and Tornado, H. R. Simpkins' The Lark, D. J. McCarthy's Guadalupe, F. Van Ness' J. O. C., W. O. B. Macdonough's Barcalaine.

Fifth race, mile, on flat—J. James' Anita, Del Monte Stables' Comanche.

Sixth race, one and a half miles—W. R. Whittier's Finesse, H. Dimond's Gaiety Girl, Dr. R. A. Ferguson's John-Day-Zin, H. R. Simpkins' Li Hung Chang, Del Monte Stables' Dr. Tevis, M. G. Burmester's Geronimo, Mr. Neave's Maud.

Work of the Futurity Candidates.

NEW YORK, August 22.—The greatest two-year-old race ever run in this country will be seen at Sheephead Bay Saturday. It will be the eighth renewal of the Futurity, a stake which will be worth about $70,000, the exact value depending upon the number of starters.

On paper the race has developed into a contest between the six cracks, Hastings, Requit, Axiom, Handspring, Applegate and Hazlet. The rest of the field will, no doubt, have a fine view of the race.

Matt Byrnes will withdraw Hamilton II, as the colt did not please him to-day in his winding-up gallop, so that the colors of the Copper King will only be represented by Silver II.

Applegate, with his owner up, was worked to-day six furlongs in 1:19½, and looked to be all out. There is some trouble in this stable, as Thorpe is to ride Jefferson, who, from all accounts will be the pick of the McCafferty bunch. Reiff's absence is causing comment, for Wishard will be started to help his stable companions, and there has been no jockey provided for him as yet.

Palmerston worked the course in 1:16½, but in very indifferent style. Mormon, another of the outsiders, negotiated it in 1:17. Requit, Hazlet, Refugee, Merry Prince, Hastings, Intermision and Formal only did light exercise. The whole lot look fit to run the best race of their lives.

At Gravesend the two Dwyer cracks, Handspring and Axiom, rattled along six furlongs in 1:17, both finishing well in hand. So far these two have given their true running in private, and as they will have two of the best jockeys on them, their chances look stronger as the day grows nearer.

The following is a probable list of starters, with their weights and jockeys:

J. J. McCafferty's Applegate, 122, McCafferty; P. J. Dwyer's Handspring, 120, Simms; Blemton Stables' Hastings, 118, Perkins; D. Gideon's Hazlet, 118, Williams; A. Walcott's Palmerston, 118, Overton; D. Gideon's Requit, 115, Griffin; J. J. McCafferty's Jefferson, 115, Thorpe; Pueblo Stables' Crescendo, 113, A. H. and D. H. Morris' Intermision, 112, Littlefield; P. J. Dwyer's Axiom, 10 or 112, Doggett; Marcus Daly's Silver II, 108, Ballard; O. H. Perry's Mormon, 108; J. R. and F. P. Keene's Peep o' Day, 108, Talar; J. J. McCafferty's Wishard, 105; A. H. and D. H. Morris' Formal, 113, Penn; C. Littlefield's Bonaparte, 109; Blemton Stables' Merry Prince, 113, Clayton, may be the starters.

THE "Californian Woman" is the name given to a new piece of music, and is the joint production of two of California's bright young women, Kate Clark Brown being the librettist, and the score being by Miss Ada Dougherty. The arrangement of the music is brilliant and pleasing, and evinces a thorough knowledge of the technique of music. The words of the song not being subordinated to the instrumentality, one being made to fit the other. Miss Dougherty is well known to many of our local lovers of music as the author of the "Land of Nod." We bespeak a brilliant future for her in both an artistic and social sphere.

JULIUS HAYMAN, formerly manager for Colonel Ruppert, has purchased from the stable the three-year-old Nicolini, the four-year-old Longdale, Chattanooga and three maiden two-year-olds. Last fall Mr. Hayman purchased the horse Nero from J. J. McCafferty, and raced him successfully at the New Orleans winter meeting. In a large establishment it is invariably the case that some of the horses do not do as well as they would do if they could have individual attention, and so Mr. Hayman's purchases are not unlikely to turn out profitable bread-winners.

TOMMY MURPHY, the well-known plater, had $100 on Sport McAllister Wednesday at odds of 4 to 1.

The San Jose Fair.

The race meeting of the Santa Clara County Agricultural Association, which opens on Monday, September 23, promises to be one of the most interesting and largely attended of the annual events of the association. The unusually large numbers of entries of very fast horses gives assurance of exciting events.

The track at Agricultural Park is in fine condition and has been kept so all summer. A number of horses are at present in training upon it, but most of the fast ones are away on the summer racing circuit.

"All the great horses that have won in events this year are to be in the races in San Jose," said Secretary F. J. Brandon, yesterday to a Mercury representative. "Among the most notable of the horses that have been entered is Chehalis, known as the Pacing Wonder. The owner of this horse, Frank Frazer of Oregon, has just refused $5000 for him. This horse never raced till this year, and he has won every heat in every race in which he has been entered. Chehalis, it is believed, can pace a mile in 2:05.

"Boodle, the great San Jose horse, will appear here in his round of the circuit. His career this year has been a brilliant one. He left San Jose last month with a record of 2:19½, and last Friday he won a race in three straight heats at Napa in 2:15, 2:15½ and 2:20. Boodle has won every race in which he started this year, and in the single heat that he lost first place he was second. Every race that this great horse has won up to date this season he has cut under his former record, and it is believed that he will make his mile in 2:10 by the time he reaches San Jose. The horse is owned by G. K. Hostetter. He is a grandson of Goldsmith Maid. His sire is Stranger, a son of Goldsmith Maid, dam by Bride of Jay Gould. He is one of the best-bred horses in the State and is on all sides conceded to be the coming stallion of California.

"The free for all pace will undoubtedly be one of the fastest and most exciting racing events ever witnessed on the Coast. The four great horses, W. Wood, Waldo J., Our Dick and Prince Almont are entered for this race. All of them have records under 2:12. W. Wood has a record of 2:07. In a race with Ziegler he went a half mile in a minute flat. Waldo J. is known as the 'Gray Cyclone,' and Our Dick and Almont are both very fast.

"Many other races will be much faster than is expected. Horses that have been entered for the 2:30 and 2:40 pacing events will all go better than 2:20, judging from their showing in events recently.

"The fact that no appropriation is to be received from the State this year will not cut so much of a figure as some may suppose. It has been required to give two-thirds of the appropriations for premiums for live stock and agricultural products. This year no such premiums will be given, but any one wishing to will be given an opportunity to make an exhibit. Already a number of applications for space for an exhibit have been received.

"The fair in this city will follow that at Stockton. During the week following the San Jose events there will be races at Fresno and Salinas, both being upon the same dates. The fair here will open on Monday, September 23d, with a bicycle meet for the benefit of the association, under the auspices of the Garden City Cyclers. Besides the bicycle races and horse racing there will be balloon ascensions upon two days of the fair, and negotiations are in progress for other popular attractions."—Mercury.

Great Sale of Trotting Stock.

LEXINGTON, August 9.—W. C. France, of New York, today closed out his remaining trotting stock at private sale, it being the largest transaction of the kind that ever took place in Kentucky. The famous stallion, Red Wilkes, was secured by A. H. Moore, of Philadelphia, for $9,800. A few years ago Mr. France paid $30,000 for a half interest in the Wilkes horse, and since then has realized from his investment upward of $100,000. Edward De Cernae, of New York, got the other two stallions, Allie Wilkes, 2:15, and Clay King, 2:26½, for a private price, while Mike Bowerman, Lexington, secured seventeen of the finest broodmares that the trotting horse world can boast. It is reported that De Cernae gave $10,000 for Allie Wilkes and that the mares cost Bowerman some $15,000. The list of the mares involved in the latter transaction are Jennie Clay (dam of Silent Brook 2:16½), Alaska 2:27½, Maggie H. (dam of Lelah 2:24½), Anglia, Martha Wilkes 2:08, Oweenee, by Alcantara, Miss Lane (dam of Miss Wilton 2:25), Emma G. (dam of Billy Bird 2:26½), Belle Red 2:28½, Molly Bird 2:25, Louise N. 2:20½, Valissa 2:19, Minnie Patchen (dam of Island Wilkes 2:13½), Abbot Wilkes 2:22½, Red Pointer 2:18½, Armilda, by Baron Wilkes, Queen Amy (sister to Clay King), Red Princess (sister to Prince Wilkes 2:14½), Sister Nutwood, by Nutwood, Madame Herr (dam of London 2:20½), Red Cherry, 3, 2:29½, Fin Fan 2:24½). The entire crop of foals of 1895 from Mr. France's establishment were purchased by Mr. John D. Creighton at a fancy price. Mr. Creighton also secured seven of the broodmares. E. D. Pendleton, of Baltimore, also came in for a share and went away with Reddie Clay (that can trot in 2:15) by Red Wilkes, Durado (trial 2:19½) by Clay King, and a good two-year-old colt by Allie Wilkes, dam by Mansfield. Mr. France has now disposed of his entire establishment, and Frank C. McVey will open a private stable at the Lexington track, headed by that good Eastern horse Futurity 2:19, which will be sent down by Jeremiah Murphy at the close of Fleetwood's meeting.

Talk of the Futurity.

The Futurity promises to be a sensational race this year. There are so many colts of high class engaged, and the value of the stake is so great, that it cannot fail to arouse more interest in the turf world than any other event that will be decided during 1895. Several heavy wagers have already been made between the rival colts, Handspring and Hastings. While many persons believe that this pair will have the race to themselves, there are others who know of some dark material that should take a lot of beating should no accident keep them away from the post.—New York Exchange.

You are right, there is some dark material that will be brought to light in the Futurity. There may be an equine star from the West who may totally eclipse the cracks of the East. Don't let the Eastern turf followers run away with the idea that there is nothing in the West besides Ben Brush. There is another colt and he is a stable companion of Brown Dick's star that many people think has a chance for the big race. Penury will carry the stable colors in that race, and he will carry many a Western dollar. Bob Campbell who is to help train for Burns & Waterhouse, and other trainers, believe that Penury is a better colt than Ben Brush.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Horsemen's Choice.

NAPA, Cal., August 18, 1895.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—Herewith find copy of a petition the horsemen have just sent to Woodland. Will you kindly publish it, together with all the signatures in full in your next issue? Such decisions as were rendered by Mr. La Rue at the Napa meeting have forced owners and drivers to make some attempt to protect themselves in the future. Mr. Cowsy has clearly demonstrated that he is a starter of unusual capacity, keen-sighted, clear-headed, firm and just, yet, withal, deeply imbued with kindly feelings toward fellow-horsemen. I earnestly hope he will respond to this evidence of confidence and regard by accepting the important, though oftentimes thankless, position of starting judge at any or all meetings of which he may be invited.

Very truly yours, CHAS. A. WINSHIP.

NAPA, California, August 18, 1895.

L. B. ADAMS ESQ., President Agricultural Ass'n No. 40 Woodland, Cal.
DEAR SIR:—We, the undersigned horse owners and drivers, representing a large majority of the horses to participate in the trotting and pacing events at your meeting, respectfully but urgently request that Frank W. Cowsy, of Palo Alto, be appointed starting judge, instead of H. M. Larue. It is far from our purpose to be officious, or to make any improper suggestions, but, in view of recent experiences at Napa, we cannot but feel that by this change our interests will be greatly subserved and harmonious relations between your association and the horsemen insured.

A Turf Question.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—Judge Young's court contained a number of gentlemen Wednesday who were greatly interested in a turf question that has never been settled in the courts. Indeed it is probable that no judge was ever called upon to pass on such.

The interrogative grew out of the lease of the horse General Miles, made by M. P. and J. W. Tibbott on July of last year to George Maben. According to the terms of the lease Maben was to train, drive and pay all the expenses incurred by reason thereof of the horse, and to retain two-thirds of the gross earnings of the animal.

The horse won $1810, and made payment of the sum of $436.65 to the Tibbotts, leaving a balance of $166.60 due to the owners of General Miles, according to their books. Maben refuses to pay them a greater sum on the ground that the money he has already paid to them, after deducting the expenses of keep, etc., represents the one-third the Tibbotts are entitled to.

The question therefore arose on what constitutes a horse's gross earnings. Is it the whole amount of the purses won, including entrance money, or do the fees for entries belong to the expense account? Judge Young decided for the plaintiff.—Santa Ana Evening Blade.

The Sire of Ryland T.

Mr. H. Foster writes to Horse Review as follows from Olex, Ore., concerning the claims made in relation to the breeding of Ryland T., 2:07½: "I notice a sketch in your issue of June 19, in regard to the reports from Dayton, Wash., as to the breeding of Ryland T. I am acquainted with those who claim that Ryland T. was foaled on Tukan ranch and that his sire was Roadster. I believe them to be honorable gentlemen, and if you could hear them give their proof to their claim, I think you would conclude it no 'cock and bull' story, but that Ryland T. was foaled on Tukan ranch and that his sire was Roadster. I am well acquainted with Mose Wright and believe him to be as truthful a man as I ever met. Mr. Wright bought Roadster in St. Louis; he gave $1,700 for him untrained, and brought him to Washington the same time Lemont came to this State, the owners of both horses keeping one another company as far as Grande Ronde valley, where Lemont stopped, Roadster going to his future home near Waitsburg and Dayton. Both of these stallions, although they have had limited opportunities, would be a credit to any State. I know Roadster and many of his get perfectly well, and have been shown his breeding as given to Mr. Wright. He is by Col. Wilbur's Hambletonian, of Stony Ford, Orange County, N. Y., by Hambletonian 10, making him a grandson instead of a son of the old horse. As to beauty and substance Roadster equaled any horse I ever met, and I have seen many of the best. He is an impressive sire and it is the opinion of many that had his get been properly trained, like those of Pilot Medium, for instance, he would have shown his ability to sire trotters out of all classes of mares, and when properly mated to have gotten extreme speed. The fastest natural trotter I ever saw was a mare sired by him, who would lead the hand at a trot while they were being urged to a fast run. Trusting the truth will be proven beyond a doubt and that the credit will go where it belongs, I remain yours faithfully."

JOCKEY "WILLIE" SIMMS, who went to England last winter to ride the Croker and Dwyer horses, arrived on the White Star steamship Majestic yesterday. He spoke in glowing terms of his brother "jocks" on the other side, and the only reason, he said, that the American horses were unsuccessful was that they had not sufficient speed for the English cracks.—N. Y. Times, Aug. 15.

Eastern Horses Arrive.

A carload of race horses arrived at the Bay District track Monday morning directly from Oakley. They are the property of Frank Phillips, who intends to race in California for six or eight months. William Hummel is the trainer of the new string.

The star of the stable is Flash, who has shown to be quite a fair three-year-old. He is by Faustus, the sire of many sprinters, and resembles Rev el Santa Anita. At Oakley, Flash, with Perkins up, beat Medley, Grannan and several others. In his last race before leaving for California, Flash, carrying within a pound of the winner, ran second to Pop Gray, and beat Mary Keene, Domingo, Clara Bauer and others in a three-quarter mile dash.

The only two-year-old in the string is Marjorie, a bay filly by Iroquois, the American horse that captured the English Derby. When ready to race, it is doubtful if any two-year-old at the Bay District track can defeat the speedy daughter of Iroquois. At Oakley, August 2d, Marjorie heat a field of ten (five furlongs) in 1:02½.

Shield Bearer has been a frequent winner and managed to get part of the money four times out of his last five starts.

Candor is well known to California turfmen. She raced at the Bay District track under the name of the Miss Clay filly. She was either first or second in her last five starts in the East. Phillips bought Candor and Oakley from Pat Dunne on the eve of starting for California. Oakley won his last three starts in the East. He beat Aimee Goodwin, Evanatus and others a mile at Oakley in 1:41½. The Phillips stable consists of the following horses:

Flash, h c, 3, by Faustus—Tara Blackburn.
Marjorie, b f, 2, by Iroquois—Tsantula.
Shield Bearer, ch c, 3, by imp. Vsgner—Mamie Cole.
W. L. Munson, ch h, 6, by Springbok—Astoria.
Elmer F., blk g, 4, by Portland—Fantasia.
Portugal, h g, 4, by Troubadour—Sunbeam.
Oakley, hr c, 3, by Sir Dixon—Miss Annie.
Candor, hr f, 3, by imp. Dsrehin—Miss Clay.

Names Claimed.

I wish to claim the following names for foals at the Adair Stock Farm, Dublin, Alameda Co., Cal.:
May 6, '95—Diadem, black filly, by Diahlo—Stemwinder, by Venture.
May 20, '95—Dialect, chestnut colt, three white fetlocks and star, by Diablo—Electrina by Elector.
March 26, '95—Dictum, bay filly, by Directum—Belle, by Bell Alta.
May 31, '94—Elite, bay filly, by Elactor—Mellie Murphy, by Whipple's Hambletonian.
March 25, '95—Bertina, chestnut filly, by Directum—Bertie, by Piedmont.
April 25, '95—Electrode, dark brown colt star, tip on nose white on right hind leg, by Electrical—Alma M., by Antelope.

JOHN GREEN.

THE Pacific Coast Jockey Club Aug. 15th let a contract for the carpenter work and iron work not provided for in the contract with the Pacific Rolling Mills, galvanized iron and tin work, except skylights; all glazing, except skylights; hardware, all brick work and chimneys for one frame grand stand and one frame paddock on concrete foundations. The successful bidder was Alexander L. Campbell. His figures were $26,064. The architect, T. J. Welsh, furnished the plans and specifications. The work must be finished by October 12, 1895, with a penalty of $300 a day for every day beyond that date.

A FASHIONABLE crowd of breeders and owners of thoroughbred stock gathered on the Kentucky Association's race course August 10th to witness a match race between Matt Simpson's bay colt by Prince Royal, dam Antelope, and Thomas C. Barnes' brown colt by imp. Pirate of Penzance, dam Rayhelle. Both are yearlings, and carried 107 pounds each. The distance was one-quarter of a mile. The match was easily won by the Prince Royal colt. He led all the way, going to the eighth pole in 0:11 and covering the distance in clever style in 0:24½, which marks a good performance for this time of the year. The winner was bred by Starter James B. Ferguson.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Briggs has a great faculty for getting things cheap. The other day he had a beautiful set of teeth inserted for next to nothing. He kicked a dog.—Ex.

T. J. Watson's (San Francisco) English setter bitch Loya (Gath's Mark—Gem) whelped on August 12th, six—two dogs to same owner's Starlight W. (Dan Gladstone—Miss Alice.

A judicial decision in Belgium declares that a dog is as much entitled to a seat in a railway carriage as its owner, provided the latter has bought a ticket for the animal.—Our Dogs.

Turf, Field and Farm says that Baron Von Schroeder's recent purchase, the pointer Ridgeview Panic, by Tribulation—Bloomo II is thoroughly broken and is a good dog to shoot over.

J. G. Barker has issued a very neat stud card of the R. C. St. Bernard dog Challenge California Bernardo. The half tone of Bernardo is very clear, and harring the ears which do not do justice to him, is a very good likeness.

At Clabrough, Gölcher & Co.'s blue rock tournament on September 29th the shooters will not only have a chance to shoot over two sets of traps but the much talked of Eastern style of shooting, known traps, unknown angles, will be tried for the first time.

A stranger from Oregon was in town Tuesday exhibiting a new gun. The gun opens by pressing a third trigger. The entire gun, including all of the parts of the mechanism, can be removed and replaced with no other tools than a common screw driver and one's fingers.

DOWNTON—Here comes Binkers. He's got a new baby, and he'll talk us to death.

UPTON—Well, here comes a neighbor of mine who has got a new setter dog. Let's introduce them to each other and leave them to their fate.—British Fancier.

The Chicago Field says that our Wm. Schriber is "something of a pointer man." Doubtless a slip of the pen and not an intentional slur, but surely a man who would not take the best setter in the world as a gift; the man who sends his bitch from California to Massachusetts to be bred to Stride-away and also on another occasion to Rip Rap; the man who owned field trial winning pointers in 1885, and has run them occasionally ever since, is entitled to be called a full-fledged pointer man.

One hears so much talk of rabies and "mad dogs" it is only natural to suppose that it is quite a common occurrence for people to die of hydrophobia, yet the contrary is the fact. Rabies is much more prevalent in the British Isles than in America, but according to the Registrar-General's returns we find that the death rate in the United Kingdom to have been as follows: 1890, 8; 1891, 7; 1892, 6; 1893, 4, and in 1894 still less. This means one death to about 7,000,000 of population. A case of rabies has never been recorded on the Pacific Coast.

A reader of Our Dogs sends the following (culled from the Newcastle Evening Chronicle) interesting account of a reconciliation between Reynard and his traditional foe, the dog, and mutual alliance in the pursuit of their natural propensities. Such vulpine and canine co-partnerships are not unknown, but of rare occurrence. It is as follows: A Scotch hill shepherd in destroying a litter of foxes, took it into his head to rear one as a pet. He did so, and the animal has not only become very tame, but is a most useful ally. It and a collie, hunting together, kill rabbits to a miracle. They work very much in the same way as two Lurchers. The collie goes out and hunts the rabbits among the fern and heather of the braes, or the rushes and long grasses of the stacks, while Reynard all the time sneaks about the holes and picks them up as they come in. They understand their respective parts perfectly. The collie seems to know that it is not his business to kill, and the fox is never under the slightest temptation to bolt out and give chase.

In the current issue of Kennel News the editor comments very favorably on the proposed amendment to the A. K. C. rules, waiving the 500 entry clause for shows west of 110 degrees west longitude, and adds that while the club was about it they might have included the nullification of the $500 rule. He is right in both cases, especially the latter. This rule prevents existing clubs from holding shows and prohibits the formation of new clubs. Those that do hold shows here, with the single exception of the Pacific Kennel Club, offer $500 in such a manner that it cannot possibly be won. They must either do this or not hold any shows. Consequently, the doggy interests are positively injured by the parent club, that is organized for no other purpose than to foster shows and favor the interests of dog owners. The same paper states that occasional mutterings are heard to the effect that the Pacific Clubs favor dismemberment from the parent. The mutterings referred to are only the mutterings of an idiot in his dotage, voicing the wishes of no club and no single individual but his own insignificant self. The clubs of this Coast have too much sense not to know that the field is much too small for an independent club. What we want is for the A. K. C. to recognize our existence. The delegates to the investigating committee will be elected in course of time. The P. C. K. have been unable to secure a quorum for two months past, and the Alameda County Sportsman's Association is about three-fourths dead. When the St. Bernard Club of California is elected to membership a delegate will be appointed from that club in short order and the three could then act.

Pacific Kennel Club.

There is an old saying that the third time never fails. The third attempt of the Pacific Kennel Club to secure a quorum was successful. The special meeting called for the purpose of electing new members on Thursday evening of last week brought out eleven members. President H. Bier occupied the chair for the first time since his election. Secretaries Haight and Orear and Messrs. W. H. Collins, S. F. Hughes, F. Kline, T. H. Williams, E. W. Briggs, Wm. Schriber, Capt. Knocker and J. R. Dickson were present. The following members were elected: F. H. Bushnell, Franz Frey, J. H. Debborn, Louis Hagan, Dr. F. W. D'Evelyn and L. H. Waldmann.

Breeding St. Bernards.

Having noted a recent article regarding the failure to breed the St. Bernard to his highest perfection in this country, I am moved to pen a few observations on the subject, both from my own experience, extending over a number of years, and in a general survey of the breed as a whole in this country. To get a proper idea of the progress of the breed in America, we may fairly compare its advancement with that of the other leading non-sporting breeds here.

The point is raised that we have so far been unable to breed specimens to beat the best that money could buy in England or in Switzerland, but the same condition exists among the other prominent breeds as well. Take collies for instance. I think that there are five or six dogs now before the public, all foreign-bred, that can beat the best we have yet bred; but this fact should not dismay the intelligent breeder. It is only in the nature of human experience that those countries that have had the breed for long years before we took it up, and have had a body of earnest, intelligent and experienced breeders directing their best endeavors to its improvement, should still somewhat excel us in the general average, as well as the individual quality of their stock.

The question is not so much can they still beat us, but are we producing more good specimens than we did a number of years ago? I think anyone who has watched the breed closely for a period of years will admit that we are. Indeed, it is to be wondered that we have done as well as we have when the desultory way in which the breeding of St. Bernards has been carried on in this country is considered; and a careful survey of the field does not show that we are so lamentably lacking in good dogs of our own breeding after all. True, we have been unable to breed one to beat Sir Bedivere, but so, too, has England, and I believe that with his exception every dog that has come over with a "world-beating reputation of late years has, at one time or another, been beaten by an American-bred dog. Marvel, Le Prince, Scottish Leader, Duke of Lincoln, Aristocrat, Eboracum, St. Augustine, and many others, have all been heralded as Britain's best, and all are grand dogs; but all have met defeat by dogs bred on this side. In bitches a similar showing could be made, though the imported Rustic Beauty and her daughter are yet to meet defeat by bitches of our breeding. But the "lady" that is to lower their colors in the future may at this moment be munching her bone in some American breeder's kennel, unconscious of her coming fame.

We have in the peerless Alton—Judith litter several dogs and bitches that have been able to hold their own against the best that could be brought against them; and in the fine family of bitches that has been given to us by Judith, I am sure are a number quite equal to those of other lands, and if rightly mated they will give us more of the quality and kind we are all breeding after.

One fact is plainly patent, and the greatest advancement best results of our breeding are to be found in the smooths. And I am of the opinion that from some of our smooths with rough blood will come our best families of roughs in the future. Our imported rough bitches have not bred with the success that the smooths have, which is to be regretted.

The immense distance over which our good dogs are scattered in this country strongly militates against the most judicious mating by our fanciers. Any breeder of experience and judgment knows that it is impossible for him to always have in his own kennel just the dog that his judgment dictates should be bred to a certain bitch. He perhaps knows of one that would just suit him, but the distance and uncertainties and enormous express charges drive him to do that which his better judgment tells him is wrong. Both Sir Bedivere and the Alton—Judith litter, the two most successful breeding results that we have had, resulted from the fact that several good dogs were easily available; had it not been so, their dams would probably have been bred to some inferior dog as a last resort, or else not at all.

We are too prone to base our opinions as to the success, or failure, of the breeding problem upon our own individual experience, instead of upon the broader survey of the breed as a whole. I well remember stating confidentially to a well known kennel writer that English setters were practically exempt from distemper in the climate here where I have lived for fifteen years, and I had so found it in my experience up to that time; yet in the year following I lost fully 80 per cent. of my setter puppies from distemper. I had not based my opinion upon sufficient data.

There has been too little intelligent and careful breeding in this country, and too much mating without any practical knowledge, or experience extending over a term of years sufficient to give the breeder a comprehensive idea of what he might rightly expect, for us to make a marked advancement as yet in the science of breeding. Too many have gone in for dogs as a fad, or for promised profit, without an understanding of the possibilities and chances for failure, and so the breed has had to depend for intelligent effort upon the well directed efforts of a few. What we need are more bitches like Judith and some more that I might name. A half-dozen producers like her would put us upon the pinnacle of success as breeders of average high-class St. Bernard stock, and that is the true criterion of the successful breeder. The earnest, experienced breeder may breed a lifetime and never produce a "world-beater" himself; but if his stock, as a rule, are of high quality and with fewer weeds to cull out, as the years slip by he is meeting with success. We must learn that figs do not grow on thistles, and that the mating of dogs themselves good as individuals, but not suited to each other in characteristics, will not always produce what we want; also, when we get a bitch that produces really good stock and is a good mother, to stick to her, and sooner or later we will breed stock in America equal to the best.

We have bought the best dogs that England could breed, but they have been largely failures as breeders, either from poor management or poor judgment in their care and use; and we have not bred from them with the same judgment, and to as good dams, as did their breeders. It will be noted that when we have had a really good bitch that was also a breeder and was well mated, she has produced good stock; but too many of our noted show St. Bernards are only of use as prize-winners, and so far as helping to improve the breed here is concerned they are useless. And for that reason I, myself, look for the greatest improvement to come chiefly from American bred stock, as both the dogs and bitches being "to the manner born" are more certain breeders, so if we get a good one we may hope that it will more surely reproduce itself.

It is only by having a large number to select from, by breeding only from the best specimens, and having years of experience to base the selection and breeding upon and to put our ideas into results, that the breeder can hope to make much of an impress upon the breed as a whole. There is too much "hit and miss" breeding as yet; but a few of the ardent lovers of the breed are making steady improvement in the breed in this country, in spite of the immense number that are bred simply because someone has a bitch and someone else has a dog.

At another time I may, perhaps, say something upon the development of the puppy after it is born, as I think, from my experience, that it is as essential with big dogs that they be well reared as that they be well bred, if we wish to some day lead in a winner of our own breeding. After spending years trying to breed a winner, we sometimes undo it all in rearing him. I have found that disappointment comes oftener than success, and that we are always expecting something a little better than we get; but if it were not so there would be no pleasure in it.

I think that the impartial verdict must be that the American-bred St. Bernard ranks as high in his breed as does the American-bred collie, bulldog, poodle or other non-sporting dog does in his.—A. C. Shallenberger in American Field.

English Field Trials.

At the International Shooting Dog Clubs' trials, held in Wales on July 30-31 and August 1st, the following were the winners:

Pointer Puppy Stakes—1st, Lanarth Bolton (Deacon—Bess); 2d, Totnes Rattler (Totnes Vril—Totnes Zoe); 3d, Dawn O'Gymru (Woolton Druid—Bertha of Drayton).

Setter Puppy Stakes—1st, Madeyer Earl (Aldon Tom—Madeyer Fan); 2d, Madeyer Flash (Col. Platts Spot—May of Arvon); 3d, Luna (Royalty of Arvon—Deutzia).

The All-Age Stake, for pointers and setters, was won by the pointer Ben of Kippen (Robert K.—Laura of Kippen); 2d, Dolly of Budhill (pointer), by Brog—Devon; 3d, Tap (pointer), by Rapp VI.—Sella Price. Poll o' Gymru (Plum—Sybil) and Polly Pedro (both pointers), by Senor Don Pedro—Jeannette, divided fourth.

The prize for best dog of opposite breed to the winner was won by the setter Nigger Joe.

A son of Mr. Crocker's Soapy Sponge called Swift was among the competitors, but was not placed.

De Vag of His Tail.

A gentleman was walking with his little boy at the close of day, and in passing a cottage of a German laborer the boy's attention was attracted to a dog. It was not a King Charles, nor a black-and-tan, only a common cur. Still, the boy took a fancy to him, and wanted "pa" to buy him. Just then the owner of the dog came home from his labors, and was met by the dog with every demonstration of dog joy. The gentleman said to the owner: "My boy has taken a fancy to your dog, and I will buy him. What do you ask for him?" "I can't sell dat dog!" said the German. "Look here," said the gentleman, "that is a poor dog, but as my son wants him I will give you a sovereign for him." "Yaas," says the German, "I know he is a werry poor dog, and he ain't wort almost nottin', only dere ish one little ding mit dat dog vot I can't sell—I can't sell de vag of his tail ven I comes home at night."—American Stock-keeper.

A Good Shot or a Good Story.

William, perhaps better known as "Bill," Brown is a professional gunner, living in a small hamlet bordering upon the shore of the Great South Bay, Long Island, N. Y.

Bill, like all men of his class, is a good shot, and not by any means a poor liar. The following story will show his skill in both capacities:

On a recent ducking expedition with him the ducks' visits to the stool were rare and far between. Bill sought to speed the tedious hours by relating jokes which Noah's grandfather was imprisoned for stealing from a humorist of a previous age. "Why not relate some experience of your own," I lazily remarked, hoping something original, no matter how insipid, would arouse an interest in life, made well nigh unbearable by his antediluvian stories. Bill, not in the least abashed by my want of interest, evinced by the interruption of his narratives, answered: "I will not blame you for failing to believe this, but it's as true as gospel. Most of the sportsmen to whom I relate it ask me if I am not a lineal descendant of a fellow named Ananias (who is he, anyway?). You see, last fall, while waiting in poor luck, just as we are now, I looked to the eastward and saw flying directly toward me a single black duck. Turning in my punt to secure an easier position, I noticed a teal duck coming from an opposite direction. The latter was the farthest away, but the velocity of its flight greater. Which would reach me first? Teal were scarce last fall, so I resolved to give my attention and charge of shot to the lonely representative of that variety, keeping, however, a weather eye open for the other, should Mr. Teal veer off in some other direction. I grew just a little bit anxious as I watched their approach, wondering if it would be possible for me to get a shot at each. Nearer and nearer they came. Well, sir, you can believe this or not, just as you choose—as the two ducks passed each other, at that instant I fired one harrel, and down dropped both birds dead. An accident? Not on your life! I was waiting for and expected just such a shot. Thanks! I'll take a drink just for good luck."—Gameland.

J. H. Sammi made a bag of 15 grouse one day last week near Boca.

Chas. Pearch killed a 145 pound buck in the redwoods near Napa last week.

Doves are reported very plentiful in the vicinity of Dixon, Solano county.

J. M. McAvoy killed two fine bucks on the Shattuck ranche San Mateo county, last Sunday week.

The Olympic Gun Club have subscribed quite a sum towards the new ark and the project is now an assured fact.

Vandal hunters are killing great numbers of young ducks in the vicinity of Clarksburg in Yolo and Solano counties.

The open season on mountain quail opens much too early for the Truckee river country. This year's crop are not half grown yet.

The 100 bird race to be held at the Empire Gun Club grounds on the 1st of September promises to be one of the most interesting events of the season.

J. Downey Harvey killed a spike buck at the Country Club the first of last week, and Miss Mullin, a daughter of C. F. Mullin, killed a 100-pound forked horn.

J. Rogney, Dan Ostrander, Legal & Swan are building a fine ark at Bolanders Mill. It will be landed September 8th and will probably be moored near Birdells this winter.

C. A. Haight and Otto Feudner have made applications to the Olympic Club. This will materially strengthen the Olympic Gun Club's team at the Association tournament.

Annie Oakley continues to make new friends and opens the eyes of the spectators at the Wild West show with her wonderful shooting. At last accounts she was with the company at Syracuse, N. Y.

In a team shoot of six men to a team at the Maryland and District of Columbia Trap Shooters League Tournament on August 7th the Baltimore Shooting Associations Team broke 142 out of 150 targets, known traps, known angles.

Duck shooting will soon commence and when you are fitting out for the winter's shooting, call at Clabrough, Golcher & Co. and examine their new revolving seat and shell case combined. It should be very convenient in a sneak boat or blind.

J. S. Fanning broke 38 blue rocks straight on Sunday last, and 96 out of 105 shot at. He has received his new barrels and that may account in a measure for his getting back to his old form, though Fanning lays it all to the new "Gold Dust."

According to the Alameda Telegram, Oscar Rodgers, Chief of Police, and Geo. Morris, a Justice of the Peace of Alameda, killed a young Jersey bull last week in Mendocino county, mistaking it for a deer. How the does would suffer from such hunter's mistakes.

S. A. Sharpe, a well known Lincoln Club member, returned from a three weeks camping trip near Cazadero on Friday of last week with the fattest forked horn that we have seen this season. It weighed 122 lbs. dressed. He killed five during his outing. Mr. Sharpe will kindly accept our thanks for a generous slice of the same.

The initial annual tournament of the Washington State Sportsmen's Association for the protection of game and fish will be held in Seattle on October 25th and 26th under the auspices of the Seattle Rod and Gun Club. Both live birds and targets will be shot. For further particulars address C. F. Graff, Sec.-Treas., Box 977, Seattle, Wash.

An interesting opinion to sportsmen was rendered by the Attorney-General and sent recently to M. S. Sayre, the District Attorney of Lake County. The Supervisors passed an ordinance prohibiting the killing of deer any time in Lake County prior to August 1, and Mr. Sayre wanted to know if it was annulled or in any way affected by the game and fish law of the State as amended by the last Legislature. Mr. Fitzgerald says:

I am of the opinion that as the Boards of Supervisors of the various counties have the power under section 11 of article XI of the constitution to enact any law in regard to the regulation of fish and game which are not in conflict with the general law, and that as the ordinance in question is not in conflict, but is in consonance with it, it was not affected by the fish and game law of the State as amended in 1895.

J. M. Morrison, the Fish Commissioner at Sacramento, sent a similar inquiry to Mr. Fitzgerald, asking whether or not the Boards of Supervisors have power to extend the closed season for deer beyond the limits prescribed by the last Legislature. As in the foregoing opinion Mr. Fitzgerald stated that the ordinances extending the limit of the closed season are not in conflict with the general fish and game law, and the Supervisors have this power.

On July 27th about fifty sportsmen representing gun clubs located at Whatcom, Tacoma, Port Townsend, Auburn, Seattle and Aberdeen, gathered at the Hotel Auburn, Seattle, and organized the Washington State Sportsmen's Association for the Protection of Fish and Game. The following officers were elected: President, Josiah Collins Jr., Seattle; First Vice President, E. E. Ellis, Tacoma; Second Vice President, T. B. Ware, Spokane; Secretary and Treasurer, C. F. Graff, Seattle; Board of Directors, H. A. Griffin, E. A. Kimball, W. J. Pratt, L. B. Faulkner, C. F. Treat, F. H. Mason, Wellington Clark, W. A. Hardy, W. E. McKee, B. Jensen, Chas. Draper and A. Williams.

The Recreation Gun Club shoot on Sunday last brought out but three members, Messrs. Haight, Sland and Roos. Haight killed 10 birds out of his dozen and won the prize for the month. Slade grassed 9 and Roos withdrew without shooting out his score.

The Lincoln Gun Club.

The last regular monthly shoot of the Lincoln Gun Club was held on Sunday last at the club's grounds at Alameda Mole. As usual the match was at 25 singles, known traps, known angles, squad shooting. Fischer won the first class prize, $18; Franzen second, $12. Bruns won the second class, $15; Forster second, $10. Whitney won the third class money, $12. Wenzel second, $8. The score:

The State Tournament.

The fourteenth annual tournament of the California State Sportsmen's Association promises to excel all previous tournaments of this popular organization. As stated last week it will be held at Sacramento during the State Fair, on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th. The Sacramento sportsmen are noted for their hospitality to visiting sportsmen and those attending will be royally entertained. We received the programme too late for insertion this week. The Sacramento shooters and their friends have added $250 to the $250 donated by the Board of Directors of the Fair, making $500 added money. The prizes are both numerous and valuable. Wednesday will be devoted to blue rock shooting and among the many events will be an inter club match, consisting of three men teams from the different clubs attending. Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be for live bird shooting exclusively.

The Fay Diamond Medal will be shot for again. This match always fills well and this year a very large entry is expected. It is quite possible that Chick will receive a challenge this week for the Gold Dust Championship Medal, though this is as yet only a conjecture. There will be an abundance of pigeons. We will give the full programme next week.

The Gun Club.

The San Francisco Gun Club held its regular monthly shoot on Saturday last at the Oakland Race Track. Only three members attended. Messrs. Butler and Tubbs tied for the first place with 10 each. Butler won the tie. During the afternoon Moore killed 32 out of 39, Butler 40 out of 49 and Tubbs 34 out of 44. Richard Carroll, referee. The score:

F. S. Butler.....211122020111-10
 A. C. Tubbs.....222022111120-10
 P. P. Moore.....020112111100-8

Four six bird sweepstakes, $2.50 entrance, followed the main event. Tubbs won the first and Moore the third. The second, a tie between Tubbs and Butler, was decided in the fourth pool, Butler winning. The fourth was a tie between Moore and Butler. In shooting off the tie they each killed five straight, and then had to draw down their money, as they were out of shells. The score:

Another Blue Rock Tournament.

On September 29th Clabrough, Golcher & Co. will give an open to all blue rock tournament at Oakland Race Track. Two sets of traps will be used. The shooting will commence promptly at 10 A. M. The programme will be as follows:

Event No. 1.—Prize shoot at 15 singles, 75 cents entrance, known traps, unknown angles.—First prize, 200 cartridges; second prize, pair rubber roots; third prize, gun case; fourth prize, 100 cartridges; fifth prize, sweater; sixth prize, 100 cartridges; seventh prize, cleaning rod.

Event No. 2.—15 singles, known traps, known angles, entrance 75 cents.—First prize, 200 cartridges; second prize, one-half dozen decoys; third prize, sweater; fourth prize, corduroy pants; fifth prize, 100 cartridges; sixth prize, Tomlinson Gun Cleaner; seventh prize, hand protector.

Event No. 3.—15 singles, entrance $1.50. 40, 30, 20 and 10 per cent. High guns to win.

Event No. 4.—15 singles, entrance $1.50. 40, 30, 20 and 10 per cent. Class shooting.

Event No. 5.—6 pair, entrance $1.24. 40, 30, 20 and 10 per cent. High guns to win.

Event No. 6.—25 singles, entrance $2. 40, 30, 20 and 10 per cent. Class shooting.

Event No. 7.—10 singles, entrance $1. 40, 30, 20 and 10 per cent. High guns to win.

Event No. 8.—10 singles, entrance $1. 50, 30 and 20 per cent. Class shooting.

At the Empires.

To-morrow will be the banner day of the year at the Empire grounds at Alameda Mole. The Club will hold its regular monthly event at 10 A. M. At 1 P. M. the final shoot between 10 men teams from the Electrics, Lincolns and Empires will take place, and immediately following the team race will be a 100 bird race, $7 entrance, or $2 entrance for those who wish to shoot for birds only. Some of the boys are counting on as many as 20 entries to this event. Quite a number want to make a record. Others do not expect to make any record but desire to know how they will hold out in a long race.

The first match between the Empires and the Stockton teams of 9 men each will take place on September 1st at the Empire grounds. The return match on September 29th at Stockton.

The Country Club.

The annual outing of the Country Club will take place at Del Monte next week. The shooting will take place on Friday, August 30th.

As usual there will be but one match—a 25-bird event. The shooters will be divided in two teams, the Reds and Blues. The losing team to pay the expenses of the day. The first twelve birds of the twenty-five will constitute the last score of the season, and will decide the season's prizes.

The highest score in the 25-bird match will take the $500 Shreve cup, now held by R. B. Woodward.

W. B. and A. C. Tubbs now lead on the season's average, and the contest for honors will be very interesting. Richard Carroll will referee.

ROD.

Grilse are running up the Eel river.

Division Superintendent Wilder, of Sacramento, is at Lake Independence with a party of friends.

Horace Orear and wife and Wm. Dörmer started for Plumas county on Wednesday last for a three week's fishing and hunting trip.

Robert Hewson, Louis Henry, Col. Greenleaf, Michael Geary and Donald McCrae, have been at Boca for the past ten days and have enjoyed very fair luck, mostly with the spoon.

Lake Chabot has been fished with very fair success the past week or two. Robert Liddle and wife and Joe Deives were there on Wednesday and Thursday and had very fair luck.

Mrs. Wm. R. Farrington, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., holds the ladies record for muscalodge. Her catch weighed forty-one pounds, and was four feet three inches long. It was caught in the St. Lawrence river.

J. H. Follis and N. N. Wilson, of San Francisco, W. F. Fairbanks, of Petaluma, and A. Phelps, of New York, left this city on Tuesday for a three weeks' outing in Trinity county. They aim to fish the maiden streams of that county.

The Horse Show.

"Nothing succeeds like success" is a saying that is verified every day. When the prospectus of the first horse show ever given in California was issued a large number of people predicted that it would be a failure, but they did not consider the executive ability of those having it in charge. The opening of the massive doors of the pavilion let in a vast concourse of people, and many of the doubters were there also, but the scene before them was as the realization of a fairy dream. Their doubts were driven away and the pavilion never appeared to have such a charm for them before. The splendid music, magnificent equipages, grand looking horses, interesting performances, all managed with a skill that was marvelous considering the obstacles to be overcome, and the fact that this was the initial meeting on this coast. Society flocked to the show, and all the wealthy, beautiful and accomplished daughters of our leading citizens were there, dressed magnificently. The managers were delighted with the support their efforts received, and every exhibitor who brought his choicest horses there and succeeded in winning a prize was well satisfied.

The President and directors have been encouraged and this year they anticipate holding a meeting that will in every way surpass the memorable one of '94. They have issued the prize list and in it will be seen that valuable cash and trophy prizes, amounting to over $15,000, will be offered as awards by the Association for best exhibits in the following classes: Thoroughbreds, trotters (breeding and driving classes), roadsters, hackneys, coaching stallions, horses in harness, carriages and appointments, tandems, four-in-hands, ponies in harness, saddle horses, ponies under saddle, jumpers, draught horses, Normans and Percherons, Suffolk Punch, Clydesdale and English shires.

In the introductory page the directors state that in asking for the hearty co-operation of every breeder in this and adjoining States they wish to impress upon all the mutual advantages to be derived, if, besides entering their own horses, breeders will furnish the Association with the names and addresses of such other horsemen as in their opinion will be likely to exhibit or interest themselves in the successes of the approaching show.

The association does not conduct this horse show as a money-making scheme; it is for the purpose of helping the breeders and trainers of horses and educating the public as to what constitutes a perfect horse, create an interest in them and induce the thousands to take a different view of, and at the same time realize how beautiful as well as serviceable a horse can be made.

We consider that the horse show of New York has done more to increase the prices of light harness horses and to teach breeders and trainers what constitutes a saleable horse than all the literature on the subject ever published. The same beneficial results will be noticeable here. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that farmers and horse breeders should take an interest in this exhibition and begin at once to prepare their horses for it. After the show there will be a special sale of those that have been entered at the show and advertised to be sold. Buyers will be there from all parts of the Pacific Coast, and the opportunity for some of our horse breeders to dispose of their choice roadsters and double teams should be grasped at once.

Send to George A. Newhall, Mills Building, for a copy of the prize list. Fill out the blank accompanying it and forward it to him in time. Entries will close November 9th.

The Fair Horses.

Charles L. Fair has obtained a lease of the two race horses Yo el Rey and Gibson, belonging to the Fair estate. The lease is to January 1, 1896, for $25 per month each. Judge Slack signed the order yesterday by request of the special administrators.

Other orders signed yesterday are for the purchase of a $1,200 barge to be loaded with stone and sunk at the North Beach tidal-water property, as requested by the engineer of the estate; for the sale of fifty cows on the Petaluma ranch, and steers and hogs on the Petaluma, Adams and Knights Landing ranches, and for the increase of the salary of Edwin Owens, superintendent of the street department of the estate, from $40 per week to $200 a month.

The auction sale of horses on August 1st is confirmed. Twenty-five horses were sold for $1,797.50, the expenses of the sale and transportation of the horses being $480.80.

Morse Men at the State Fair.

The State Agricultural Society has engaged twenty men from Harry Morse's Detective Agency for the State Fair. These men will be in charge of Captain Jules Callundan, whose experience and ability in managing the working force at a race track makes him a most valuable man for the place. The positions of gate-keepers, fence patrol, etc., at the State Fair will all be filled by Morse men, and the society can rest assured that there will be no leaks in these important places, and that every dollar received for admission will be turned in. Capt. Callundan has had charge of the men at Bay District track during the long meeting now in progress. Other associations that can secure the Morse men will do well to do so, as they furnish only men who have had experience in the positions they are required to fill.

JOCKEY PEOPLES, of the Nevada Stable, quite a promising rider, met with an accident Tuesday while at the post in the first race that will keep him in bed for many weeks. The boy had the mount on Uncle Giles, and while lining up was kicked by Conde in the left leg, about two inches above the ankle bone, breaking the bone and making a bad wound in addition. The unfortunate was removed to the jockeys' room and a surgeon at once summoned who attended to his injuries. E. Hill was substituted as Uncle Giles' rider,

The Daniel Lamberts.

The dams of Pamlico and Dandy Jim were both by Daniel Lambert, while that of Rubinstein, 2:08, was by a son and out of a daughter of Daniel Lambert. One of the most promising young trotters ever raised in this vicinity is the five-year-old bay mare Alcida, with which her owner, Waldo T. Pierce, beat El Rami, 2:16½, at Franklin Park, Saugus, a few weeks since, giving a record of 2:20½ in the third heat, and jogged her home in 2:21½ in the fourth heat, winning the race. It is doubtful if any other trotter in this vicinity ever won so good a race with so little handling and fitting. She is by Sir Walter Jr., 2:18½, and her dam is full sister to Comee, 2:19½, by Daniel Lambert. Alcida bids fair to prove faster than either Dandy Jim, 2:20½, or Pamlico, 2:10, and it is not improbable that she may some day hold the world's record. It will be hard to find a better-gaited or more level-headed trotter than she, or one more perfect in conformation.

It is not surprising that mares by Daniel Lambert, when mated with the right kind of stallions, should produce the fastest of trotters and best of campaigners, for Lambert's sire, Ethan Allen, 2:25½, was not only one of the best-gaited and most level-headed trotters that ever wore harness, but he at one time held the champion trotting stallion record of the world. The dam of Daniel Lambert was by Abdallah, sire of Rysdyk's Hambletonian, by far the greatest trotting progenitor of his day. Lambert's second dam was by Stockholm's American Star, and he was by Duroc, sire of the renowned four-mile race winner American Eclipse. Stockholm's American Star was quite a successful race horse. Opportunities considered, it must be conceded that Daniel Lambert was one of the greatest trotting broodmare sires that has ever lived, if not the greatest.—Horse Breeder.

It is said that Monroe Salisbury is very much taken with the young Kentucky driver, Richard Curtis, and is very desirous of having him as his trainer next year. Mr. Salisbury is quoted in one of the big dailies as saying: "I'll have that boy next year if I have to pay him a salary as large as that of the President of the United States. He is the best material I know of anywhere. He knows his business at any stage of the game, and you don't have to tell him twice about the one thing you want done." Of course the offer of such a fabulous salary is mere talk. But we have not the least doubt that Mr. Salisbury would like to have Richard, and will be willing to pay him big money. Curtis has always had a pretty good thing in Kentucky, and it may be that he would prefer to remain at home.

Cracked Heels
and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Boot Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a callous, and will always remove a Callous when caused from a wound.

It removes all soreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness in the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callous remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KIAMATH, 2:08½, says: "I have been trying to cure Kiamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are uneasy and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—

- FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
SECOND It will not cause headache.
THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE

UNITED STATES SMOKELESS POWDER CO.
No. 13 Pine Street, San Francisco, Cal.

For sale by all dealers in Powder and Sporting Goods.

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER
Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

- First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
 Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
 Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
 Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
 Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
 Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
 Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.
 Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

The Trotting Horse.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed, superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the biggest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm. Mailed postpaid for $3.50. Address

JOE PATCHEN WINS.

How the Great Pacer Defeated John R. Gentry in Straight Heats.

Joe Patchen won the great match race against John R. Gentry in straight heats last Thursday. The race took place on the famous Washington track, but as the wind, that amounted to almost a gale, blew all the afternoon, a sensational time performance was out of the question. The three heats were covered in 2:05½, 2:07½ and 2:07½. Nevertheless the contest is regarded as one of the most important that has taken place on the trotting or pacing turf. Patchen's victory was decisive, and seems to put his claim to the first place among harness racers beyond dispute.

Twelve thousand people saw the race, and the fact that betting was prohibited did not deter the crowd from showing a degree of enthusiasm that is seldom equaled at a horse race. Gentry was undoubtedly a slight favorite with the public, but Patchen was cheered just the same. In what little betting there was outside of the track Gentry ruled a favorite at about 10 to 9.

were so decidedly the better that it caused misgivings in the minds of Gentry's supporters. Patchen appeared full of life and spirit, while Gentry looked tired, and when they scored for the first time Patchen clearly showed more speed.

Gentry broke on the second attempt and acted ugly. They were sent away on the first score together. Patchen moved slightly away and for over a quarter of a mile led by nearly a length, the first quarter being in 0:32. On the second quarter they had the wind at their backs and raced the distance in 0:30½. Nearing the half-pole Gentry began to crawl up, and his friends tore sections out of the grand stand when he went past Patchen at the far turn as if it were no trouble at all. The third quarter was covered in 0:30 flat—the fastest of the race.

On turning into the stretch Gentry still led by a length or more and his supporters were buoyant, but on the way to the wire the crowd was surprised to see Patchen, without being touched by the whip, come up on the outside and on his own gameness heat Gentry out by a good length. Neither horse was touched by the whip in this heat, and it looked to be a fair test of their speed.

In the next heat McHenry let Patchen go out and set the Cleveland after the Freeport race. The other horse was on edge; ours was not."

Colonel Taylor, owner of Patchen, said: "I knew that my horse could heat him any part of it, from 100 yards to a mile. Had the track to-day been on the Terre Haute track with no wind, the first heat, would have been in less than 2:00."

The following table shows the relative positions of the two pacers in the above described race at Washington Park:

At the end of the second heat old-time horse men were pronouncing it the greatest race in history. In the first two miles Gentry was a close contestant, but the third heat went to the big black so easily that the veterans were disposed to qualify their opinion as to the pre-eminence of the race.

The start was advertised to be at 2:30, but it was delayed in the hope that the wind might die down. It was blowing strong from the Western prairies which had robbed it of its invigorating qualities so that the conditions were in every way against a good time performance. But at 3:15 the two giants of speed were called upon the track, although there had been no decrease in the gale.

Curry and McHenry, the drivers, stood in the center of the track and tossed the coin for the advantage of position. Curry won and thus got the pole. While appearances do not count for a great deal in the case of horses, Patchen's looks pace all the way around to the stretch. Then ensued a long and furious drive, McHenry using the whip savagely on Gentry, who overcame all but three feet of the two lengths' difference that had separated them at the head of the stretch, but Patchen had both speed and endurance and won. Time by quarters, 0:33½, 0:32, 0:31½, 0:30½.

Never did a horse show greater gameness than Gentry displayed in the last quarter. For a quarter of a mile he stood the lash, straining every nerve and being apparently in distress all the way, yet never once did he show the slightest inclination to break.

The third heat was easy all the way for Patchen, who led and won by two lengths. Time by quarters, 0:31½, 0:32½, 0:31½, 0:31½. The only explanation offered by Driver McHenry and Owner Scott was that their horse was not in condition.

"We made a mistake," they said, "in not sending him to

Good Racing Keeps Up the Interest—The Attendance is Increasing—A Number of New Arrivals From the East.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-EIGHTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 21.

FIVE little favorites right in a row were bowled over like so much tissue-paper to-day. There had been three "had days" for the dear public, but to-day's racing threw the talent into paroxysms of grief. Four days more disastrous to form-figures were never seen in San Francisco, it is our belief. The most sensational win was that of Grady in the second race. He was beaten one and a half lengths very easily by Gratify the other day, Grady carrying 105 pounds to the Westchester Stable colt's 103. To-day Gratify carried five pounds more. Grady one pound less, making a difference of four pounds in Grady's favor. It told with a vengeance, for Gratify, whipped out, was easily defeated at the end by the Three Cheers youngster. Gratify seemed to have so much up his sleeve when he beat the victor of to-day that he looked almost a "lead pipe" this afternoon. But often colts appear to be winning easily when they're not doing so. It takes a mighty close observer to judge this matter. Sport McAllister proved himself a crack sprinter by easily defeating a fine field of speedy ones over a short distance. Chevalier had slightly the best of all the other boys, riding two winners and a second. Piggott put two winners and a third over the plate, Sloane riding the remaining winner.

Easel, off about third in the initial race, went right to the front, opening up a gap of about five lengths and winning by two easily, the Lady Leinster filly second, a length before Ollie M.

Gratify, the favorite, and Grady, a 6 to 1 shot, ran head and head to the homestretch, where Gratify seemed for a moment to be winning. Grady was just fooling, however, forcing the choice's jockey to the bat in the final sixteenth and beating Gratify out a length, handily, Perhaps third, six lengths further away.

Sport McAllister, at the good price of 18 to 5, led from start to finish in the five furlong selling race, winning with ease by two lengths after Chevalier taking him back near the three-quarter pole. Red Dick beat Model, the favorite, out a head, after a drive.

Road Runner, 5 to 1 at one time, made that great stretch run of his, catching the quitting favorite near the finish and beating him out a length, Silver State third, but a neck behind Realization. Road Runner and Silver State got away in the rear.

Wheel of Fortune, the favorite, and Miss Ruth ran head and head for about half a mile in the last race, then Flirtilla made her run, and gradually cutting down space, won handily at the end by a neck from the hard-driven Wheel, Carmel a distant third. Thus wound up a day's sport that will not soon be forgotten by the educated player of races.

How the Races Were Run.

The Lady Leinster filly was made a favorite in the opening race, her closing price being 3 to 1. Easel was at 4, Little Flush filly 4½, Isabelle 8, imp. Endymion 10, Cheripe 15 (opened at 8), Capitan 30 and St. Saviour-Diana filly 60 to 1. They broke to a good start, Ollie M. first to show, Little Flush next, Easel third. The last-named went to the front with a rush, opening up a gap of about five lengths in the first eighth of a mile. She led by three lengths at the final turn, Ollie M. being second, a length from the Lady Leinster filly. Easel held her advantage, winning with comparative ease by two lengths, the Lady Leinster filly beating Ollie M. a length for the place. Time, 0:50. There were only three really in the hunt.

The second race was a handicap for two-year-olds, five and a half furlongs. Gratify was a red-hot favorite, opening at 3 to 5, going to 4 to 5, closing at 3 to 5. Benham was backed from 3 to 1 to 9 to 5, closing at 2 to 1 in most boxes. Grady was at 6 to 1, Miss Brummel 30 and Perhaps 100 to 1. They got away to a good start, Gratify first, Grady, Benham the order. Gratify and Grady ran like a team past the half, a length before Miss Brummel, who led Benham half a length. The latter had rushed up and was taken back quickly by Piggott. Gratify, seeming to be going easy, led Grady a head into the homestretch, Grady second, two lengths before Perhaps. It looked Gratify's money to the last ninety yards. Here the favorite began to tire, and Hinrichs went to the bat on him. Grady came past him and won fairly easily by a length. Gratify, second, was six lengths before Perhaps, third.

The third race was at five furlongs, selling. Model was a sizzling favorite, closing at 6 to 5 in a few hooks, even money in most, being backed down from 2½ to 1 in short order. Sport McAllister was at 3½ to 1, Toano 4, Red Dick 10, Rob Roy and Selkirk 20, Johnny Capron 25, Harry Lewis 40, Lodi 50 and The Drummer 100 to 1. They broke to a rather ragged start, a couple being out of the hunt when the flag dropped. Sport McAllister was off first, Red Dick second, Model next. Sport led by three lengths past the half, Red Dick second, a length before Model. Chevalier took a wrap on Sport nearing the homestretch, which he entered only half a length in front of Red Dick, Model third, another length away. Sport McAllister, Red Dick and Model ran on nearly even terms up to the final forty yards, where Chevalier gave McAllister his head, and he came away and won easily by two lengths, Red Dick beating Model out a head in a surprisingly game manner. Time, 1:01½. Toano, the record-breaker from the East, was never in the hunt. The winner was run up $300 by Bookmaker Beverly, Dow Williams retaining the colt, however.

Realization was a red-hot favorite, opening at 8 to 5 and closing at 6 to 5. Road Runner was 4 to 1, imp. Ivy 5½, Red Bird and Silver State 7, Rico 15 and Howard 20 to 1. They were sent away to a poor start, Rico first, Ivy second, Red Bird third. Red Bird drew away when they had gone about a furlong and led past the half by two lengths, Ivy second, a head before the fast-coming Realization. Red Bird, plainly done for, was but half a length to the good turning into the homestretch, Realization and Ivy heads apart as named. Realization assumed command when they were well straightened away and looked a certain winner. Meanwhile Road Runner was just booming along. He caught Realization about sixty yards of the finish, and, driving, beat him out a length, Realization just beating the fast-coming Silver State a neck, Ivy another half length away. Time, 1:08.

The last race was a handicap, seven furlongs. Wheel of Fortune was a 6 to 5 favorite at the close, Flirtilla 9 to 5, Miss Ruth 4 and Carmel 12 to 1. After quite a delay they went away to a fair start, Wheel of Fortune first, Miss Ruth second, Flirtilla next. Miss Ruth and Wheel of Fortune ran heads apart as named past the quarter, Flirtilla one and one-half lengths away. At the half Wheel of Fortune was first by a head, Miss Ruth second, one and one-half lengths before little Flirtilla. Into the homestretch it was Wheel of Fortune first by one and one-half lengths, Flirtilla second, lapped by Miss Ruth. Flirtilla gradually crawled up on the Wheel and really had her beaten 100 yards from home, though at the finish Flirtilla won by just a neck, handily, Wheel of Fortune driving, five lengths before Carmel. Time, 1:27½.

TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-NINTH DAY—THURSDAY, AUGUST 22.

There was a vast improvement in the racing this afternoon, as in nearly every instance horses ran to form, while three favorites and two strong second choices were successful. A goodly crowd was out, the five furlong race between Bloomsbury, Tim Murphy and Installator serving as a powerful magnet. Bloomsbury again won, but Installator about back into his old form, was but a nose away at the finish and going about two jumps to the two-year-old's one. In fact, Installator would have won had Chevalier just made his run with the Brutus colt half a second quicker. There was a close finish also in the first race and an exciting one in the third, and so, taken altogether, it was the best racing seen at old Bay District in many a day. Such exciting sport will make the game popular and give it new life, but the four day's racing previous had a tendency to hurt it in San Francisco immensely. The successful jockeys to-day were Hinrichs, Piggott, Coady, Reidy and E. Jones.

Gondola, 4 to 1 at one time in the betting, led nearly every step of the way in the first race and lasted just long enough to beat the favorite fast-coming Mendocino a head, Detective being another length away. The last-named was the favorite and heavily played.

May McCarthy ran third to Ike L. and Ricardo until well in the homestretch, then came on and won easily by two lengths, Ricardo lasting long enough to beat Soon Enough a length. Ike L. quit badly in the last eighth, and it was reported that he was a trifle short of work. Had Ricardo stayed out, however, Ike L. would have won, in all likelihood.

Mt. Air, the favorite at 2 to 1 in the third race, one mile, went to the front when a little over an eighth of a mile had been run, and not thereafter headed, won driving by three parts of a length, Bellringer in the place and gaining fast, two lengths before Ahi P.

Bloomsbury, favorite in the three-cornered race at five furlongs, led all the way, winning by a nose from Installator, whose rush, a resistless one, was made just a fraction of a second too late. Tim Murphy was two lengths away, and the time, 1:00½, over a deeply harrowed track and in the face of a heavy wind, was truly remarkable.

Mamie Scott, a hot first choice, off second to a very poor start, shot to the fore and won galloping by five lengths in 1:42½, Ledalia second, three lengths before Vernon, who was cut off at the first turn and lost several lengths.

How the Races Were Run.

Detective was made a red-hot favorite in the first race, five and a half furlongs, selling, opening at 2 to 1 and closing at 3 to 2. Gondola opened at 4 to 1, was backed down to 3, closed at 3½. Imp. Green was backed from 6 to 5 to 1. De la Guerra was at 5, Mendocino 8, Red Rose 15, Suro and Huguenot 20, Mollie Rogers 100 to 1. They were sent on their journey to a grand start, Green being first as the flag fell, Red Rose second, Gondola third. The last-named, well under way, assumed command in the first forty yards and led by a length past the half, Red Rose second, lapped by Detective. Gondola held her own clear into the homestretch, Detective running up second, a head before the dangerous-looking Mendocino. The last-named gained somewhat on Gondola, but Hinrichs reserved enough in that mare to win by a good head, Mendocino second, a length before Detective, Time, 1:09.

The second race was at six furlongs, selling. Ike L. was a favorite at the close, going at 8 to 5. May McCarthy was backed from 11 to 5 to 9 to 5. Don Cesar was at 6 to 1, Ricardo 8, Sligo 12, Quarterstaff 10 (backed from 15), Charles A. 15 to 1. They made several breakaways, in which Ike L. and Charles A. were always prominent. Finally the flag fell to a good start, Ricardo first, Quarterstaff second, Ike L. next, May McCarthy fourth. Ricardo and Ike L. raced off head and head in front. At the half it was Ricardo first by a head, Ike L. second, two lengths before May McCarthy. The order was the same clear into the homestretch, except that May McCarthy and several others had come up close to the leaders. Ike L. was plainly beaten when a sixteenth from home, and May McCarthy, just bounding along, won easily by two lengths, Ricardo second, one length from Soon Enough. Time, 1:14½.

The third race was at a mile, selling. Mt. Air was a lukewarm sort of favorite, opening at 5 to 1, going to 2½ to 1, closing at 2 to 1 and 11 to 5. Warrago was at 4½ to 1, Hyman 6, Abi P. 6, Bellringer 7, Bobolink 10, Nellie G. 20 and Model 50 to 1. They were sent away to a poor start Bellringer first, Nellie G. second, Mt. Air third. Mt. Air went to the front when they had gone a little over a furlong, and led by a length past the quarter, Bellringer second, as far from Warrago, Hyman fourth. At the half Mt. Air, going easy, was about three parts of a length to the good, Warrago second, lapped by Bellringer. The order was practically unchanged going to the homestretch, though Mt. Air had drawn clear of his field. In the stretch Coady kept him going, and it was lucky he did, for Bellringer came with a tigerish rush, and gaining fast on Mt. Air, was beaten out but three parts of a length by the favorite, Abi P. third, two lengths further away. Time, 1:43.

The fourth race, five furlongs, ten pounds under the scale, brought Tim Murphy, Installator and Bloomsbury to the post. The closing odds were: 9 to 10 Bloomsbury, 2 to 1 Murphy, 3 to 1 Installator. They got away to a perfect start. Bloomsbury at once went to the front, leading at the half-mile ground by a length, with his head in the air, Tim Murphy second, half a length before Installator. Bloomsbury led Tim Murphy a trifle over a length into the homestretch, Installator one and a half lengths further away. Murphy was plainly beaten a furlong from home, and Installator was cut loose. He came like the wind, and at the finish, going two strides to Bloomsbury's one, just failed to get up, Bloomsbury winning by perhaps three inches, Tim Murphy two lengths further away. Time, 1:00½. Had Installator been sent along a little earlier he could not have lost. The time is marvellous, depth of the track and foggy weather being taken into consideration.

The last race was at a mile, selling. There was a mighty plunge on Mamie Scott, she being backed from 2½ to 1 to 3 to 2 in quick order, closing at 9 to 5. Vernon was played some, backed from 4 to 1 to 16 to 5. Ledalia was at 3 to 1, Gold Dust 5½, Yangedine and Kitty L. 10 (latter 40 at one time), Cadeau 40 to 1. They broke to a very poor start, Ledalia, Mamie Scott and Gold Dust off in front, most of the others practically out of it. Mamie Scott, the good thing, on the rail, at once took a commanding lead, swinging by the quarter pole three lengths to the good, Ledalia and Gold Dust next, heads apart. Vernon had been cut off on the first turn and was last in a jiffy, fully a dozen lengths behind the leader. At the half Mamie Scott was five lengths in front of Ledalia and Gold Dust, still head and head. Vernon passed three horses going from the half to the three-quarters, and was third turning for home, Mamie Scott leading by seven lengths, Ledalia second, three from the Westchester Stable gelding. Mamie Scott simply won in a great big gallop by five lengths, Ledalia second, three from Vernon third. Had the latter gotten away on anything like even terms with the winner he would undoubtedly finished as good as second. The time was 1:42½. Reidy is utterly useless in a race of a mile or upwards, apparently.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTIETH DAY—FRIDAY, AUGUST 23.

There were six races on the card this afternoon, and out of this number favorites met defeat on four occasions. It is time that some of the jockeys were disciplined at the local course, as in many cases the best horses are not winning these days. Whether Rob Roy could have won the second race or not cannot be determined, but, if Coady didn't pull this colt he gave an imitation that was taken for the genuine article by scores of pretty close observers. In the fifth race the favorite, Peter the Second, was hemmed in a pocket and held there for about five furlongs. Had he not been held as in a vice this colt could not have lost, for when he got out he made up fully half a dozen lengths on those in front of him. If this business of getting a favorite in a pocket and keeping him there is allowable and considered all right, the offenders getting off scot free, why a conspiracy can be formed by jockeys to beat any heavily-played horse in any race, and the bookmakers could just coin money, but only for a time, as our race-going public know fair racing from foul, and would refuse to patronize a game where they were not protected. It is high time that a halt were called on some of these pigskin artists. They are running things with too high a hand, and some of the freshness should be taken out of them by a good fine or suspension, or both.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, four and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds, had eleven starters. Don Pio Pico was a steady favorite at 2½ to 1. Carrara and Lady Leinster filly were at 5 to 1, Little Flush filly 6, Irene E. 7, Cheripe and Ollie M. 10, May Jones 12, Phyllis 40, Vicksburg 50 and Isabelle 60 to 1. They made several breaks and at length the flag was lowered to an excellent start. Ollie M. was off first, Phyllis second, Lady Leinster filly third, Don Pio Pico next. The latter, slow to get going, was cut off, stumbled, and fell back last, all chances of winning going glimmering. Ollie M. at once opened up a gap of three lengths, Lady Leinster filly being second past the half, three lengths before Carrara. The Lady Leinster filly closed up fast on Ollie M. as they neared the homestretch, entering which but a head separated them. Lady Leinster soon thereafter assumed command and had enough left to stall off Carrara's challenge and win by a head, Ollie M. a length further away. Time, 0:56.

The second race was at seven furlongs, selling. Uncle Giles was a red-hot favorite, closing at 8 to 5 opening at 9 to 5. Rob Roy was at 3 to 1, Hello and Favory 5, Wild Rose 10, Ichi Ban and Sheridan 30 to 1. They got away to a good start for all but Sheridan, Ichi Ban being first, Road Runner next, Hello third. At the quarter Favory was leading by half a length, Rob Roy second, a length before Uncle Giles. Then Coady, on Rob Roy, gave one of the strongest imitations of pulling a horse ever seen on the local track, keeping up his tactics from the quarter pole away past the half. At the half-mile ground Favory was leading by two lengths, Rob Roy second, lapped by Uncle Giles. Rob Roy, choked almost to death, kept dropping out of it. Favory led by a length into the homestretch, Uncle Giles second, three lengths before Rob Roy. Uncle Giles joined Favory at the draw-gate, and a terrific drive ensued to the finish, Uncle Giles winning by a short breath, Favory second, ten lengths from Rob Roy. Time, 1:28.

The third race was at six furlongs, selling, light welter weights, Rose Clark went to the post a 7 to 10 favorite. Crawford was at 4 to 1, Tiberius 6, Josephine 10, Walter J. 100 and Silver 200 to 1. They went away quickly to a good start, Walter J. at once jumping into the lead. He was first past the half by two and a half lengths, Rose Clark second, under a pull, about a length before Crawford. Rose Clark was given her head as the homestretch was neared, and Walter J.'s lead was cut to less than a length at the final turn, Rose Clark second, with Crawford at her heels. Walter J. was soon done for, Rose Clark assuming a command which she easily held. Tiberius came strong in the homestretch and was second, a length behind Rose Clark at the finish, Crawford three lengths further away, third. Time, 1:15½.

A six-furlong handicap brought six to the post. Royal Flush was at 2 to 1, Vincter 2½, Road Runner 5, Silver State 5½, imp. Ivy 12, McLight 15 to 1. They went away to an excellent start, Silver State first, McLight second, Ivy third. Vincter stumbled soon after the start was made, falling back absolutely last, losing perhaps three lengths. Silver State, Ivy and Royal Flush ran lengths apart past the half, Vincter fourth, one and a half lengths further away. Silver State increased her lead to two lengths going to the homestretch, Flush and Ivy heads apart as named, one and a half lengths before Vincter. Silver State was not to be caught, winning handsly by a length, Royal Flush second, handsly, one and a half lengths before Vincter, who had fallen back in the homestretch. Time, 1:14.

The fifth race was at a mile, selling. Peter the Second, at 7 to 5, was a favorite, his closing price being 7 to 5. Fred Gardner was backed from 6 to 3 to 1. Mary S. was at 5 to 1, May Day and Charmer 12, Ike L. and Carmel 15 to 1. Carmel delayed the start by his tactics, and finally the flag fell to a poor start, Ike L. first, Fred Gardner second, Charmer third being the order. Ike L. led at the quarter by half a length, Fred Gardner second, two lengths before Charmer. At the half Ike L. was first by a head, Fred Gardner second, four lengths from May Day. Peter the Second had been in pocket right along, and was still held there. Ike L. appeared to have Gardner beaten as he turned into the homestretch a length to the good, May Day third, five lengths away. Ike L. tired badly seventy yards from home, and under the whip Fred Gardner won by half a length, Ike L. second, two and a half lengths before Peter the Second, who made up a world of ground and could not have lost had he not been held in a pocket. Time, 1:42½.

The last race was at seven furlongs, selling. Olivia went to the post a slight favorite, her price being 3 to 1. Sir Walter was at 16 to 5, Tom Clark 2½ to 1, San Luis Rey 7, Ryland and Red Will 10, Vernon 25 and Tuxedo 150 to 1. They broke to a fine start eventually, Sir Walter first, Vernon second, Olivia third, San Luis Rey led by half a length at the quarter, Red Will second, two and a half lengths before Sir Walter, who in turn was a head from Vernon. San Luis Rey was still half a length in front as they passed the half, Olivia second, a head before Red Will. Sir Walter was given his head soon after passing the half, and going away from his field as if they had been anchored, led into the homestretch by three lengths, Olivia and San Luis heads apart, Red Will close against the rails, another length away. Olivia and San Luis Rey dropped out in the straight, and Sir Walter won with ease by two lengths, Red Will coming again and beating Tom Clark three parts of a length for the place. Time, 1:29½.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIRST DAY—SATURDAY, AUGUST 24.

Five favorites got home in front this fine Saturday afternoon, and the talent went home happy; the bookmakers the reverse. The lone first choice to meet defeat was the heaviest favorite of the entire day—Installator, a 1 to 2 shot. This colt lunged and plunged about at the post as we had never seen him do in all his races, and doubtless this so tired Chevalier that he could not finish as vigorously as we have seen him do in the past. Sir Richard, ridden as well as Shaw has piloted him on several occasions, would, in our opinion, have won this race, but this youth got away from the post with the gray on the inside, was cut off a furlong from the start, losing perhaps two lengths, and in the homestretch, when the big fellow was coming far faster than anything in the race, took him to the inner rails, when all was clear in front, losing a couple or three lengths by the operation. Taking the way Shaw rode Sir Richard into consideration and the fact that the gray receded from 3 to 6 to 1 in the betting, the race has an unwholesome appearance. In the fifth race, won by the heavily-played favorite, Detective, Yreka looked by odds the best horse, and, ridden with good judgment, should have won by many lengths. As it was, Yreka was allowed to fall eleven or twelve lengths behind the leader in the first three-sixteenths of a mile, did not gain an inch going to the three-quarter pole, and then, coming with a great burst of speed, was beaten a scant length at the finish by Detective, who just staggered in. It is understood that Yreka's rider had orders to make a waiting race of it, and he certainly did make one, with a vengeance. It is very doubtful, though, if the owner expected the boy would allow Yreka to drop out of it a city block going the first three-sixteenths of a mile.

There were three very close and exciting finishes, these being in the second, third and fourth events, won by a nose, head and head respectively. Grady and Tim Murphy could have won by greater margins, in all probability, but their pilots saw fit to draw it fine. Two jockeys, Swift and Cairns, were injured in the last race, the latter having his collarbone fractured when he was thrown from Gold Dust's back. Swift's face was lacerated. The successful riders were Chevalier, L. Lloyd, Sloane, Reidy, Piggott and Madison. The latter is now a full-fledged rider of timber-toppers, and a crackerjack at that.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, five and one-half furlongs, selling, had six starters and Suro for a warm favorite. He opened at 6 to 5 and was backed down to 7 to 10, closing at 4 to 5. Ontario and Ladameo were at 5 to 1, Dr. Gardner 6 and well played, Sea Breeze 15 and Drucilla 20 to 1. After a considerable delay, caused by Sea Breeze acting badly, the flag fell to a fine start, Suro first to show, Ladameo second, Dr. Gardner third. Dr. Gardner led past the half-pole by three parts of a length, Suro second, one length from Drucilla. Suro went to the front at a great rate in the next 100 yards, turning into the homestretch about two lengths in front of Dr. Gardner, on whom Ladameo was lapped. Suro galloped down the homestretch with Chevalier looking back at his rivals, winning by three and one-half lengths, Dr. Gardner, whipped out, second, one and one-half lengths from Ladameo. Time, 1:09½.

The second race, five furlongs, selling, with eight starters, had Tim Murphy for a hot favorite, his opening price being 8 to 5, closing 6 to 5. Realization was at 3 to 1, Gold Bug 4, Cardwell 10, Rico 20, Perhaps and Venus 30, Greenback Jr. 100 to 1. They got away to a rather ragged start, Realization in front, Venus second and Greenback Jr. third. At the half Realization was leading by one and a half lengths, Venus second, three parts of a length from old Tim. The latter got up close to Realization nearing the homestretch, which Realization entered a length in advance of Murphy, who was two and a half lengths from Venus, and Greenback Jr., close together. Tim gradually crawled up on Realization, and the pair raced in close order up to the final fifteen feet of the journey, when Tim was given his head and shot in the winner of a grand race by a nose. Realization, second, was three lengths before Greenback Jr., who just beat Venus a short head. Time, 1:01.

Five two-year-olds contested in the third race, a handicap, about six furlongs. Grady was an even-money favorite, Lucretia Borgia 3 to 1, Joe K. 4, Virgie A. 8, Clara Johnson 60 to 1. The order to a fair start was Grady, Lucretia Borgia, Joe K. Joe K. led by a head past the half, Grady second, a length before Lucretia. Grady and Joe K. ran almost as one horse to the homestretch, where Grady showed a head in front, Joe K. two and a half lengths from Lucretia Borgia. The leading pair ran head and head down the stretch, Hinrichs driving Joe K. hard. Grady was given rein in the last few yards and shot in a winner by a good head, Joe K. second, a length before Lucretia Borgia, who made a strong finish. Time, 1:13½.

The fourth race was at six furlongs. Installator was a 2 to 5 favorite (1 to 2 in a few books) Gratify 16 to 5, Sir Richard 6 to 1 (receded from 3). They were about twenty minutes at the post, Chevalier seeming to be unable to manage Installator, and the others heing anything but angelic. Finally the flag fell to a fine send-off, Sir Richard being a head in front, Installator as far from the two-year-old. Sir Richard, used to breaking from the outside, was cut off when he had gone about a furlong, and Gratify took a lead of one and a half lengths, Installator being second, about three from Sir Richard. Gratify turned into the homestretch two lengths to the good, Installator second, a length from Sir Richard, who was coming up fast. Gratify was not headed, and nearly all of Chevalier's strength seemed to have been taken from him by Installator's lunges at the post, for he made a weak finish, Installator going on to a head defeat by Gratify, Sir Richard last, two lengths further away. Time, 1:13½. The ride put up by Shaw on Sir Richard was open to the strongest suspicion that he was trying to lose. In the first place, he broke from the inside with the gray horse, who almost invariably starts on the outside, and when he had gone about a furlong was cut off by Gratify, about which he made no complaint. Then in the homestretch, when Sir Richard was gaining at a wonderful rate and looked most likely to win, Shaw took his mount from the middle of the track toward the inner rails when all was clear sailing in front. As the horse did not swerve, it would be interesting to know what the boy did this for, unless it was to lose any interest in the purse. The betting, too, looked very bad, as the odds against the gallant gray receded from 3 to 6 to 1. Sir Richard has run the short six furlongs in 1:12 or better, equal to 1:13½ anyhow, and was beaten the full six furlongs in 1:13½ flat by two lengths.

The fifth race was at five and a half furlongs, and in our opinion the best horse did not win it. Detective, a "skate" of purest ray, was made a red-hot favorite, the money going in as if it were all over but the whooping. From even money he was backed down to 3 to 5 in quick order, his owner and friends plunging. Yreka receded from 3 to 4 to 1. Jefferson (brother to Ahi P.) was at 7 imp. Thunderstorm 8, Jim Corbett 9, Rayo and Triumph 25 to 1. They broke to an excellent start, Rayo first, Yreka second, Detective third. At every stride Yreka fell back, Rayo leading past the half by two lengths, Detective second, three from imp. Thunderstorm, who was in turn half a dozen lengths in front of Yreka. Thus in a run of three-sixteenths of a mile Yreka had lost eleven lengths or more. Turning for home it was Rayo still first by two lengths, Detective second, eight lengths from Thunderstorm, who in turn was one length from Yreka. The latter, it will be observed, was still eleven lengths behind. Rayo's jockey went to the bat when well straightened away in the homestretch, and Detective, driven hard, passed him and staggered in a winner by a scant length from Yreka, who went by Rayo about twenty-five yards of the finish, and was going two jumps to Detective's one at the wind-up. Had the race been fifteen yards further, Yreka could not have lost it very well. His run down the homestretch was certainly phenomenal, and the question naturally arises, how is it that a horse of his speed was allowed to lose eleven lengths in the first three sixteenths of a mile? The time was 1:09½.

The last race of the day was a handicap at a mile and a half, over six hurdles. J. O. C. was a torrid favorite, opening at 2 to 1 and closing at 6 to 5. Carmel was backed from 4 to 3 to 1. Gold Dust went back from 3 to 6 to 1, Mestor from 3 to 7. Mendocino was at 10, Alexis 15, Esperance and Guadalupe 20 to 1. After quite a long delay they broke to a fair start, Gold Dust first, J. O. C. second, Alexis third, Carmel next. Gold Dust set a hot pace, closely followed by Carmel and J. O. C. The first two jumps were negotiated all right, but at the third Mestor fell and Swift was thrown heavily, being carried away insensibly. At the fourth Gold Dust, the leader, fell, and Bob Cairns' collarbone was broken. J. O. C. then went to the front like a flash, leading at the fifth fence by four lengths, Carmel second, fifteen from Alexis. J. O. C. turned into the homestretch first by four lengths, Carmel second and gaining fast. After making the last jump, however, Carmel went to sulking, and J. O. C. won easily by three lengths, Carmel second, seven from Alexis. Time, 2:48½.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SECOND DAY—MONDAY, AUGUST 26.

This was another joyful day for the talent, four favorites and a heavily played second choice winning the five events. All one had to do, in order to make money, was to watch which one the bookmakers made a favorite, and play that one. The day was a trifle chilly and the track pretty deeply harrowed, the making of fast time being rather out of the question. The judges unearthed what looked like an intended shoo-in in the second race, and if such was intended, nipped it in the bud by reading a lecture to some of the riders in the event. The favorite, Belle Boyd, for some reason unknown to the general public, receded in the betting from 3 to 5 to 8 to 5, and as one time was even at 2 to 1. Cardwell's odds came down from 2½ to 1 to 7 to 5 at about this juncture, and then the judges set about to cause a slip betwixt the cup and the slip. After their firm little talk to the boys most interested, Belle Boyd experienced little trouble in winning. If a shoo-in was the game the biters were badly bitten, and a few such lessons will do more good than columns of sound editorials on "how to punish turf schemers." Eddie Jones carried off the riding honors, with two wins to his credit. Shaw, Chevalier and Riley were also successful.

Conde, a red-hot favorite, played from 6 to 5 down to 7 to 10, led all the way in the first race and won easily by two lengths from Gondola, who was an easy second, one and a half lengths from Red Will.

Cardwell, the "good thing" that went wrong in the second race, led until nearing the homestretch in the second race, then Belle Boyd came to the front, and after something of a drive in the homestretch, won handsly by half a length, Cardwell second, four lengths from Miss Brummel.

Schnitz, a new-comer from Latonia, laid second to Bob Tucker to the homestretch, a length behind and both against the inner rails. Had Bob Tucker been kept going straight and hugged the rail, forcing Schnitz to run around him, the latter could not have won to-day. However, Bob Tucker gradually veered toward the outside, letting Schnitz, going straight ahead, though, to come along and win a race that he should never have captured. Willie Gibson did fairly well for the first time out.

Royal Flush and Warrago raced in close order to the homestretch, where Flush drew away and won easily by two lengths, Warrago beating McLight a length for the place. The latter was cut off soon after passing the half, or he might have been a contender at the finish.

San Luis Rey, 30 to 1 at one time, set the pace in the last event to the homestretch, then Little Bob, the favorite, came on and won, eased up at the end, by one and a half lengths, San Luis Rey second, lapped by Fred Gardner.

How the Races Were Run.

Conde was the most torrid of favorites in the first race, five furlongs, selling, opening at 6 to 5 and closing at 7 to 10 under a terrific play. Red Will was at 3 to 1 (receded from 11 to 5), Corinne Buckingham 6, Addie M. 12, Gondola 15, De La Guerra and Monarch 50, Mt. Carlos 100 to 1. They broke quickly to a fair start, Conde, well under way, opening up a gap at once and leading by three lengths past the half, Corinne Buckingham second, two from Red Will. The order was the same clear into the homestretch, Gondola moved up strong in the last eighth, Conde winning in a gallop by two lengths, Gondola an easy second, one and a half lengths before Red Will. Time, 1:02½. Conde pulled up a very lame horse, and there was no running up.

The second race, five and a half furlongs, selling, for two-year-olds, had five starters. Belle Boyd opened at 3 to 5 and went back to 3 to 2 and even 8 to 5, it having a bad look about it. Cardwell was backed down from 2½ to 1 to 7 to 5 in a jiffy. Miss Brummel was played down from 10 to 6 to 1. Perhaps was at 15 and Encino 20 to 1. After several break-aways the flag fell to a fine start, Belle Boyd first, Cardwell second, Encino next. Cardwell led past the half by half a length, Encino second, as far from Belle Boyd, the latter coming up fast. Boyd passed Cardwell near the three-quarter pole and led by half a length turning for home, Cardwell second by three lengths, Encino and Miss Brummel close together. Belle Boyd and Cardwell, head and head, drove it out until near the finish, when Belle came away and won by half a length, Cardwell second, four lengths from Miss Brummel. Time, 1:09½.

Bob Tucker was a favorite in the third race, five furlongs, selling, opening at even money and closing at 11 to 10. Schnitz was backed down from 2½ to 1 to 8 to 5. Orondo was at 6 to 1, Willie Gibson 8, Sinbad 10, Ladameo 12, Dr. Gardner 60 to 1. They got away after several break-aways had been made to a fair start, Schnitz first, Orondo second, Bob Tucker next. Schnitz led Bob Tucker half a length past the half, Orondo another length away, as far from Willie Gibson. Bob Tucker drew away nearing the homestretch, into which he was first by a length, close to the inner rails, Schnitz second, two lengths from Willie Gibson. Bob Tucker veered out from the rail at a great rate, and was soon in the middle of the track, Schnitz getting through and winning handsly by a length in the slow time of 1:03, Willie Gibson third, three lengths behind Bob Tucker.

The fourth race, six and a half furlongs, seven pounds below the scale, had five starters. Royal Flush was a 7 to 10 favorite, Rico 3½ to 1, Warrago 9, McLight 10 and Articus 12 to 1. Articus spoiled start after start by his refusal to break, and finally, after a wait of about twenty minutes, the flag fell to a fair send-off, Articus first, Rico second, Royal Flush next. Royal Flush and Warrago at once drew clear and ran head and head past the quarter and half poles, Rico third, five lengths away, Articus a couple of lengths further back and leading McLight nearly a length. The latter ran up fast nearing the half, but cut off by Rico, fell back last again soon thereafter, Royal Flush leading by half a length turning for home, Warrago second, four lengths from Rico. Flush easily drew rway in the homestretch, winning by two lengths easily, Warrago heating the fast-coming McLight a length for the place, Rico another head away. Time, 1:21½—a good run.

The last race was at a mile, selling. Little Bob was a favorite at 6 to 5, Fred Gardner 13 to 10, Bellringer 5 to 1 and San Luis Rey 15 (backed from 30). Bellringer cut up badly, as usual, at the post. Finally the flag was lowered to a ragged start, with San Luis Rey off in front, Little Bob second and Fred Gardner third. San Luis was first to the quarter by three lengths, Little Bob second, as far from Bellringer, on whom Fred Gardner was lapped. At the half San Luis' lead had been cut to two lengths, Little Bob second, five lengths before Fred Gardner. Steadily Little Bob and Fred Gardner closed up on the long shot, until, turning for home, San Luis Rey was but a head before Little Bob, while Fred Gardner was but three lengths further away. Little Bob passed San Luis soon after they were straightened away and won easily up to the finish by one and a half lengths, San Luis Rey lasting long enough to beat Fred Gardner out half a length for the place. Time, 1:43.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY-THIRD DAY—TUESDAY, AUGUST 27.

The races were captured this afternoon by three decided favorites and two strongly-played second choices, hence the talent had a pretty good time with the bookmakers' coin. The Elmwood Stock Farm's representatives were successful in the only two races they started in, both Installator and Peter the Second winning in grand style and in good time, considering that the course was a trifle deep. A good crowd was in attendance and the betting was as spirited as it could well be, with several scared-to-death-at-a-$2-bet bookmakers in the ring. Why, one bookmaker actually took in $2 on a horse yesterday—the first bet registered on the animal—and immediately cut the odds against him a point, there being no frantic rush to get on at the top figure either. The odds in the lone combination book these days are low enough to put to shame the meanest miser in the land. Of course, people are not "forced" to make combinations, and the argument would perhaps end at that, but heavens! how the betting public grows at the odds on this board. Honors were easy in the riding line, Eddie Jones and Chevalier riding two winners apiece, Pig-gott the remaining victor. The ride put up by little Jones on Olivia was the best we have every seen him make, as he had to drive the little mare every inch of the mile in order to win by a head.

Rayo, the favorite, led all the way in the first race, five furlongs, and won easily by three lengths, Bob Tucker a handy second, one length from Mendocino, who was coming very fast and would have won had the race been a sixteenth further, in all probability.

In the second event Installator, the 2 to 5 favorite, got away last, romped to the front when they had gone about a quarter of a mile, led into the homestretch by three lengths and won easily by one length from Joe K., Grady a distant third through the poor riding of Cole, a stable lad. Mt. Air's showing was not very creditable, and Coady did not enhance his reputation by the ride he put up—or rather the ride he did not make.

Peter the Second, first choice, last at the half-pole, came on strong from this point, was a close third into the homestretch, and won cleverly by a head on the post from Ike L. who gave the Brutus colt quite an argument. Mamie Scott the pace-maker, was a poor third.

Detective, 10 to 1 at the close, flew to the front and opened up a big gap, but Olivia, last away, ran up second at the quarter, stuck to her knitting, and joining Detective in the homestretch, won a grandly contested and very pretty race by a head in a fearfully hot drive, Tom Clarke, the favorite, a distant third.

Crawford, after doing considerable fretting at the post, came from the rear and won the light welter weight race last on the programme, by a length, driving. Abi P., the favorite, was second, one and a half lengths before Walter J.

How the Races Were Run.

Rayo was made a favorite in the first race, five furlongs, opening at 2 to 1 and closing at 2½. Bob Tucker was at 3½, Mendocino 4, Yreka 5, Steadfast 9, Huguenot 10 (backed from 30), Jefferson 50, Drucilla and Tyrena 100, Ontario 200 to 1 (500 in one box). They got away to an excellent start, Rayo first, Bob Tucker second, Drucilla third. Rayo led past the half by a length, Bob Tucker second, two from Drucilla. In the run to the homestretch Rayo increased his lead to three lengths, Bob Tucker being second as far from Drucilla. Rayo, not headed, came down the homestretch going easily, and won by three lengths, Bob Tucker being a handy second, one length from Mendocino, who made a fast run down the homestretch and would probably have won had the race been a sixteenth of a mile further. Time, 1:02½.

The second race, seven furlongs, weights ten pounds below the scale, had but four starters. Installator was a 2 to 5 favorite, Joe K. at 4½ to 1 (opened at 5), Mt. Air and Grady 12 to 1. They got away to a fair start, Joe K. first, Grady second, Mt. Air third. Joe K. led Grady a head past the quarter-pole, Grady second, half a length before Mt. Air, Installator another length away. Installator went to the front in the next furlong and led passing the half by one and a half lengths, Grady second, lapped by Mt. Air, who was under a wonderfully stout pull. Installator led into the homestretch by three lengths, Joe K. second, half a length before Grady, Mt. Air now last. Joe K. made a fast run down the stretch, and was but a scant length behind as Installator passed the finishing post, Grady, off his stride in the homestretch through Cole's poor riding, third, a neck before Mt. Air, who was ridden desperately by Coady—I don't think. Time, 1:28.

The third race, six and one half furlongs, selling, had four starters and Peter the Second for a favorite. He opened in the betting at 2 to 5 and went back to 9 to 10, closing at 4 to 5. Ike L. was at 11 to 5, Mamie Scott 4½ to 1, The Drummer 50 to 1. They got away on excellent terms, Mamie Scott first, Ike L. next, Peter the Second third. The latter at once fell back last, Ike L. and Mamie Scott running heads apart as named past the quarter, two lengths before The Drummer. At the half Mamie Scott was half a length to the good, Ike L. still two lengths before The Drummer. Peter the Second was now cut loose, and gained at a great rate, Mamie Scott leading into the homestretch by but half a length, Ike L. second, a head before Peter. Ike L. and Peter the Second soon passed Mamie Scott, and a pretty race ensued to the finish, Peter the Second winning cleverly by a head, Ike L., driven hard, four lengths before Mamie Scott, third. Time, 1:22.

The fourth race was at a mile, selling. Tom Clark was a red-hot favorite, his closing price being 4 to 5 in most boxes, even money in a few. Olivia was at 2 to 1 and 11 to 5, Alex is 6 (backed from 10), Detective 10 (receded from 6), Ryland, Suro and Sheridan 60 to 1. They broke to a fair start, Detective being first and Olivia last. Little Jones sent the latter along very fast on the outside. Passing the quarter it was Detective first by three lengths, Olivia second, a length before Ryland. At the half Detective still led by about the same distance, Olivia now three lengths before Ryland. Olivia kept pegging away, gaining inch by inch on Detective, who entered the homestretch first by a length, Olivia being eight lengths before Ryland. There was a terrific drive to the finish, Detective swerving slightly toward the inner rails and Olivia, beautifully ridden by Eddie Jones, winning all out by a head amid great excitement, Tom Clarke third, six lengths away. Time, 1:43.

The last race was a light welter-weight event, with six starters. Abi P. was a 6 to 5 favorite, Crawford 2 to 1 (backed down from 3½), Margaret M. 16 to 5, Encino 5 (backed from 15), Walter J. 20 and Lee Stanley 150 to 1. For thirty-eight minutes they cavorted around at the post, Crawford being the worst actor. Finally the flag fell to a fair start, Walter J. being off first, Margaret M. second, Encino next. Encino led by a head past the half, Margaret M. second, two lengths from Walter J., Crawford (off none too well) next. Into the homestretch Encino led by one and a half lengths, Margaret M. second, a length before Walter J., Crawford coming fast against the inner rails and Abi P. on the outside. Four or five were abreast ninety yards of the finish, but here Crawford and Abi P. came out of the hunch, Crawford winning, driven hard, by a length, Abi P. second, one and a half lengths from Walter S. Time, 1:03. The wait at the post seemed to affect the two-year-olds most.

HOOF-BEATS.

LYNNE BEL, by St. Bel. won a good race at Fleetwood on Thursday. Time, 2:12½, 2:13, 2:12.

GEORGE COVINGTON's imported colt, Vigor, won a six-furlong race in the mud at St. Louis Thursday.

LADY DIAMOND, of the Baldwin string, won a mile race on the turf Thursday at Sheepshead Bay in 1:44.

REY DEL CARRERA beat a fine field over the Futurity course at Sheepshead Bay Wednesday in 1:11 2-5.

EDDIE JONES was set down for the balance of the meeting (two days) for disobeying Starter Ferguson at the post Thursday.

B. C. HOLLY thought Charley Boots a good thing, and went down the line betting $100 in every book that would take it.

GRATIFY's five-furlong race, Wednesday in 1:00½ with 112 pounds up is perhaps the best race ever run by a two-year-old on the Coast.

LINDA beat O'Connell at St. Louis Wednesday, running fifteen sixteenths of a mile in 1:34½ over a slow track—a phenomenal performance.

BARNEY SCHREIBER's good Tremont filly, Laura F., won another race at St. Louis yesterday, going five and a half furlongs in the mud in 1:14½.

FLYING DUTCHMAN, Pat Dunne's great colt, won a mile race at Sheepshead in 1:39 1-5 Wednesday, Patrician finishing second and Beldemere third.

FRANK BEARD paid $10,500 at the recent Fairview sale for St. Nicholas, a yearling by imp. St. Blaise out of the great Thora (dam of Dobbins and Yorkville Belle), by Longfellow.

GEORGE ROSE and Tod Sloan must be very popular in Woodland. Thursday night a ball in their honor was given at Woodland under the auspices of the Fortieth Agricultural District Association.

SAN LUCAS was purchased by Billy Stewart of Frank Van Ness Wednesday, and starts to day in the colors of his new owner. San Lucas is a bay four-year-old gelding by imp. Cheviot from Genora.

PRESIDENT WILLIAMS announced Wednesday that racing will be resumed at the Bay District on Tuesday, September 17th. This will allow horsemen two days to transfer their horses from the Sacramento track.

THERE will be excitement galore at the local track from this out, as B. C. Holly has declared his intention of running up every winner of a selling race that strikes him as being worth more than the sum it is entered to be sold for.

CHAS. BOOTS has secured the services of the crack jockey, Billy Houston, and the rider is daily expected here. He will surely be seen in the saddle at the State Fair meeting. Houston formerly rode for Fred Foster, owner of Dr. Rice and others, it is understood.

RILEY GRANNAN bobbed up as a big winner Thursday at Coney Island. He backed Henry Young very heavily at odds of 10 to 1 in the Ocean Handicap, and Young won by a head from Bellicoso, with Rey del Carrera a nose only behind the other Californian.

WERNBERG, Jimmy McLaughlin's erratic flyer, lowered the record for six and a half furlongs to 1:19 2-5 yesterday at Sheepshead Bay. The former record at the distance, 1:19 3-5, was made at Bay District track in 1891, but as it was run in a fog and a horn blowing at the starting point, it was always a little doubtful to our minds.

COL. BURNS was the guest of the judges between races Wednesday, and entertained the officials with encouraging reports from the East. Among other things, the Colonel said that jockeys Fred Taral, Lonnie Clayton and Harry Griffin would surely be seen at the Bay District by November 1st. Nglee Burke, with the great Crescendo, will arrive about the same time.

CHARLEY BOOTS is clearly going to make a big bid for that California Cup at the State Fair meeting. Friday morning Claudius was worked the distance in great shape, being accompanied by Boholink for a mile and three furlongs. If anyone thinks that Claudius won't be a factor in that event they had better get the wheels in his head oiled.

CRESCENDO is himself again. Thursday the great son of Flambeau and imp. Janet N., won the Dash Stakes at Sheepshead Bay, $2,000 to the winner, five furlongs, leading all the way. Refugee was second and Peep o' Day third, and the time 1:02. Bellicoso, also of the Pueblo Stable, was a close second to Henry Young in the Ocean Handicap.

THE WOODLAND MEETING.

Splendid Racing, Wonderful Time Made, Attendance Large and Betting Lively.

The opening day of the Fourth Annual Fair of the Fortieth District Agricultural Association was as beautiful as the heart of anyone could desire. The streets were rife with people all day long. People of every kind and character. The city is metropolitan in nature now if ever it was.

The opening event of the fall meeting of the Fortieth Agricultural District was called at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The attendance was not as large as expected, but promises to increase materially with each day's events. The track is in excellent condition and fast. Col. Wm. Hawkins occupied the judges' stand, and he it said, to the satisfaction of horsemen, pool-sellers, bookmakers and the public generally.

Chas. Hoppin, C. H. Corey and J. H. Butler acted as timers.

The opening event was an over-night running race, five and a half furlongs, with five entries. The bookmakers had the runners slated as follows: Lady Jane, 7 to 10; Nellie G. 3 to 1; Quarterstaff, 8 to 1; Hyman, 5 to 1; Rob Roy, 6 to 1. The horses got away on the third attempt. Nellie G. jumped into the lead and held it to the first quarter. Lady Jane then led the procession a length ahead of Nellie G. into the stretch. Here the gap was increased slightly, the filly falling back to fourth place. Down the stretch the favorite was closely pressed by Rob Roy and Hyman. These positions were unchanged, Lady Jane winning by an open length from Rob Roy in 1:09½.

Nellie G. and Quarterstaff also ran.

The second event was the 2:30 class trot, for a purse of $500, with four entries. It required seven heats to decide this event which went to Bonnie Ben, why sold in the third heat with odds of 20 to 1, and even went begging at these liberal terms. Native State was slated at 3 to 5, and Lady Thornhill 3 to 2. Rex Gifford was withdrawn on account of lameness. One hundred yards from the wire, Lady Thornhill broke, and a second later Bonnie Ben was up. Native State led the procession by four lengths, and could have easily won the heat had he been driven. Coming into the stretch Lady Thornhill covered the gap. Both horses broke, but the mare caught quickly enough to win the heat by half a length in 2:20½. In the second heat the start was made with Lady Thornhill and Bonnie Ben close up. Native State was a length behind. The half was reached in 1:05½. Ben went to pieces here and was driven only to save his distance. Thornhill and Native State came into the stretch like a double team, but slowly the mare gradually pulled away and won by a length in 2:17, Native State second and Bonnie Ben a poor third. Before the third heat Bonnie Ben was slated at 20 to 1, Thornhill 1 to 3 and Native State 3 to 2. The trio were sent away on an even start, and like the former heats, Lady Thornhill went away in the lead. Native State broke at the half and Lady Thornhill led around to the stretch four lengths ahead of Bonnie Ben second and Native State closing up and coming fast. It looked like the mare's race and should have been but the unexpected happened. Just as her admirers were cheering her on to victory a bad break spoiled her chance and she was beaten by Native State nearly three lengths. Time, 2:18. The fourth heat was a repetition of the third, Native State winning in 2:19½, Bonnie Ben second, and Lady Thornhill third. It was the fifth heat that afforded the surprise, and showed the staying qualities of Bonnie Ben, who had barely saved his distance in the third heat. He trotted both Thornhill and Native State off their feet, winning in 2:19, Native State second and Thornhill third. Bonnie Ben took the next two heats and the race. Time, 2:19, and 2:20½.

The fastest time made on any track in this State this year is 2:09½, accomplished by Pathmont in the second heat of the 2:16 pacing race. Every inch of ground was stubbornly contested, and no one could wish for a prettier or more even race. Everyone thought it was a cinch for Chehalis, the Oregon wonder, and the little black was barred in the pools. Keating, the veteran driver, was behind Pathmont, and his piloting could not have been improved.

In this race there were seven entries: Vidette, Ketchum, Our Boy, Brilliantine, Chehalis, Pathmont and Edna R. In the pools Chehalis was barred. Brilliantine was slated 3 to 2, Vidette 4 to 1, Ketchum 3 to 1, Our Boy 10 to 1, Pathmont 1 to 1, Edna R. 3 to 1. After scoring twenty-five times the pacers were sent off pretty well hunched. Pathmont led to the quarter, where he was lapped by Edna R., Vidette a close third. The half was reached in 1:04½. Coming into the stretch the Oregon wonder moved up to second place and the race to the wire was close and exciting, Pathmont winning by half a length in 2:11, Chehalis second, Vidette third, Edna R. fourth, Ketchum fifth, Our Boy sixth and Brilliantine last.

In the second heat Chehalis was still barred in the pools. Vidette led to the quarter by two lengths, Pathmont second, Chehalis third. At the half the three leaders were hunched, but coming into the stretch Pathmont pulled away, winning the heat in 2:09½, Chehalis second, Edna R. third, Our Boy fourth, Brilliantine fifth and Vidette sixth. Ketchum was distanced.

In the third heat the sextette got away in a hunch. The race was strictly between Pathmont and Chehalis. The former led up to the half in 1:02½. From the stretch in the two horses never paced more evenly. To many it appeared that it was a dead heat, but it went to Chehalis by a very small margin in 2:11. The race will be finished to-day.

TUESDAY, SECOND DAY.

The day opened delightfully cool and pleasant, the principal conversation in the hotels and on the track being the possible defeat of the once considered invincible Chehalis. The postponed pace was called at one o'clock sharp. The judges for the day were Col. Hawkins of Chico, President Adams and H. Forsland; timers, C. R. Hoppin, R. J. Havey and Loeber. Pools sold $10 on Chehalis to $5 for the whole field. The horses got off after several scores, Chehalis and Pathmont nose and nose to the eighth. The quarter was reached in 0:31½, the half was made in 1:03½, Chehalis a length in the lead. They reached the three-quarter in 1:36 in the same order. Chehalis opened the gap through the stretch and won the heat pulling up to a jog in 2:09½. Pathmont second, Our Boy third, Vidette fourth, the balance distanced. No pools.

Fifth heat—They got off to a good start the fourth score, Chehalis and Pathmont on even terms, at the quarter in 0:32½, unchanged at half in 1:04½, three-quarters Chehalis gained a length in 1:37½, and gradually opened the gap and jogged home in 2:13½. Mr. Fraser looking over his shoulder with that same tantalizing smile for which he has become famous. Pathmont second, Our Boy third, Vidette fourth.

Brilliantine was well up in the bunch and pacing fast in the fourth heat when suddenly she got very lame on the backstretch, and was driven to the stable with difficulty.

The first regular race, a three-quarters dash for a purse of $150 was then called. There were five starters: Alliance, Onti Ora, Carroll Cook, Deadhead and John M. Palmer. The pools before the start were: Palmer 10, Field 6, Onti Ora 6. At the post they sold Palmer 15, Field 4, Onti Ora 6. R. H. Havey got them off with little delay to a good start at the third attempt, Palmer slightly in the lead. At the half Onti Ora gained the lead and held it home, winning by a half length from Palmer second, Alliance a close third. Time, 1:16 3-6. While at the post Carroll Cook got kicked on the off foreleg and cut an artery and had to be drawn.

The next race was the 2:25 class pace with ten starters, Dan N., Birdroe, Ruby M., May Nutford, Pansy, Welcome, Dictatus, Javelin, Don Falice, Lynette. In the auction pools Ruby M. sold for $10, field $10, Birdroe $4. In the books for the heat Ruby M. sold 6 to 5, Birdroe 3 to 1, Dictatus 2 to 1, May Nutford 3 to 1, Dan N. 15 to 1, Welcome 10 to 5, Javelin 4 to 1. On the race Ruby M. 1 to 1, Birdroe 3 to 1, Dictatus 4 to 1, May Nutford 3 to 1, Javelin 6 to 1, the balance about 30 to 1. Fair start, Ruby M. in the lead on turn, then Dan N. and Dictatus went out ahead and at the quarter in 0:34½ were two lengths in the lead. At the half in 1:08½ Dictatus, Dan N., Javelin and Ruby M. were bunched. Ruby M. made a break after passing the half and Dictatus forged ahead with Javelin following closely. At the three-quarter pole Dictatus still led in 1:41½, Javelin gradually but surely diminishing the distance between them. At the seven-eighths pole they were on even terms. From there to the wire both drivers were exerting every nerve, and Javelin seemed to have the most left and fifty yards from the wire forged ahead of the son of Red Wilkes and won by half a length in 2:14½. Ruby M. was third, Dan N. fourth. There was considerably money played on Dictatus for the heat.

For the second heat the auction pools sold Ruby M. $10, field $6, Birdroe $4. In the books on heats the odds were Ruby M. 6 to 5, Birdroe 6 to 1, Dictatus 4 to 1, Dan N. 8 to 1, Javelin 3 to 2, the others about 10 to 1. On the race Ruby M. 4 to 5, Birdroe 5 to 1, Dictatus 5 to 1, Javelin 2 to 1, the balance from 10 to 20 to 1. When the word was given Dictatus was leading, Javelin second and Ruby M. was sent away on a break and pulling up; it was the worst start witnessed on the circuit this season, the favorite twenty yards behind on a break, and the rest of the horses ahead fifty yards. Dictatus led to the quarter in 0:36, Javelin second, Dan N. third. At the half in 1:09 the positions were unchanged; at the three-quarter pole Dictatus still led by a length in 1:41½. Through the stretch it was a neck and neck contest, Javelin beating Dictatus by a head, Birdroe third, Welcome fourth.

The third heat in the pace was called; in the pools Javelin 10, Ruby 2, field 6; in the books on the heat Ruby M. was even money, Birdroe 5-1, Javelin even money, Dictatus 6-1, the rest from 15 to 40-1; on the race Ruby M. even money, Javelin even money and the balance 10 to 50-1. After nearly an hour's scoring they got off to a fairly good start, Dictatus leading, Javelin second, Birdroe third, at quarter 34 seconds, same at the half in 1:07½, the rest strung out for a hundred yards. They reached the three-quarters in the same order in 1:41. Birdroe made a double break on the upper turn, when it looked as though the heat was hers, and lost all chances. Rounding into the stretch Javelin forged ahead and came in an easy winner in 2:15½, Dictatus second, Pansy third, Dan L. fourth.

The first heat of the 2:27 trot was called. The starters were Silver Bee, Columbus S., Zombro, McZeus, Letter B. In the auction pools Zombro 10, field 7. In the books on the heats Zombro 3-5, McZeus 1-1, Columbus S. 4-1, Silver Bee 25-1, Letter B. 25-1, on the race Zombro 3-5, McZeus 2-1, Columbus S. 8-1, Letter B. and Silver Bee 25-1. After a half-hour's ineffectual scoring they got the word, with Zom-bro and Columbus S. slightly leading. At the eighth pole Columbus S. broke, and Letter B. was second at the quarter in 0:35. Zombro maintained the lead to the half in 1:09½. Columbus S. trotted fast up the backstretch, but made another break around the upper turn and lost all chances. Zombro was two lengths in the lead at the three-quarter pole in 1:42. At the drawgate Zombro and Letter B. were on even terms, but when it came to the final struggle Letter B. broke and Zombro won by a length in 2:16½, McZeus third, Columbus S. fourth, Silver Bee fifth.

The second heat in the trot was called. Pools, Zombro 10, Field 4. Books on heat—Zombro 1 to 3, McZeus 2 to 1, the balance from 10 to 25 to 1. On the race—Zombro 1 to 4, McZeus 3 to 1, the balance 25 to 40 to 1. Zombro led to the quarter, Columbus S. second in 0:35. The half was reached in the same order in 1:08½, Letter B. third. They went to the three-quarters in the same order in 1:40. In the stretch Smith drove Columbus hard to beat Zombro, but Columbus S. left his feet at the hundred-yard pole, and fell back to third place. Zombro won in 2:16½, Letter B. second, Columbus S. third, McZeus fourth, Silver Bee distanced.

Third heat—No pools. Books—Zombro 1 to 12. Got off second score. Zombro led to quarter in 0:35, Columbus S. second to the half in 1:07, Zombro leading Letter B. second, McZeus third. From here on McZeus made a drive and came into second place. Zombro led at three-quarters in 1:40. McZeus was driven hard, but could not get by Zombro's wheel, who was coming easy through the stretch, winning the heat and race in the fast time of 2:14½, the coast record for three-year olds.

WEDNESDAY, THIRD DAY, AUGUST 28.

The day was cloudy and had every appearance of rain. The forenoon was devoted to bicycle racing; the school children had a free day and attended in large numbers; the attendance was larger than on any previous day; the large grand stands were well filled, and there were several hundred carriages in the center field. The fast time made in all the races of the two first days has had a tendency to enthuse the people of Woodland and surrounding country, and they will all attend the remainder of the week.

The first event of the day was an attempt against time by the handsome son of the great Palo Alto, Iran Alto against his previous record of 2:33. He trotted the mile in 2:29½, thus putting another Palo Alto in the list.

The first race was a three quarter mile run for a purse of $150. The starters sold in the books: Nellie G. 3 to 1, Hyman 6 to 1, Rob Roy 2 to 1, Faro 5 to 1, Alliance 12 to 1, Lady Jane 3 to 2. In the pools Lady Jane $9, field $10. After an hour at the post they got off well together. Lady Jane took the lead and won as she pleased in 1:16, Alliance second.

The 2:17 trot was called next. The starters were Paloma Prince, Nellie W., Thompson, Geo. Dexter, Margaret Worth, Hamrock and Hillsdale. In the pools: Field $15, Paloma Prince $9, Hillsdale $7. In the books on heats: Paloma Prince 2 to 1, Nellie W. 8 to 1, Thompson 2 to 1, Margaret Worth 5 to 1, Hamrock 2 to 1, Hillsdale 3 to 1, Geo. Dexter 8 to 1. For the race: Paloma Prince 2 to 1, Thompson 2 to 1, Hamrock 2 to 1, Hillsdale 3 to 1, Margaret Worth 8 to 1, Nellie W. 10 to 1, Geo. Dexter 12 to 1.

After many attempts they got off to a splendid start, except Paloma Prince, who was behind fifty yards and could or would not come up. Hillsdale, Geo. Dexter and Nellie W. kept close together around the turn, Thompson coming fast from sixth position. At the quarter in 0:35 Hillsdale led, Nellie W. a half length behind. When the half was reached in 1:08½ Hillsdale led by a nose, Nellie W. second, Geo. Dexter third, Thompson gradually diminishing the gap. Nellie W. made a break on upper turn and fell back. Thompson got on even terms at the three-quarter in 1:40½. Durfee made a hard drive to maintain the lead with Hillsdale, but broke at the distance stand and Thompson won in 2:15½, Hillsdale second, Geo. Dexter third, Margaret Worth fourth. Hamrock was laid up this heat.

The first heat of the 2:13 pace was called. The starters were Waldo J., who was barred in the books and pools, Hanford Medium, on heat, 2-1, Belle 5-1, Del Norte 4-5, Ottinger 3-1, Fred Mason 5-1; on race, Hanford Medium 2-1, Belle 6-1, Del Norte 1-1, Ottinger 4-1, Fred Mason 4-1. In the pools field 10, Medium 8, Del Norte 7. After several scores they got off to the finest start of the meeting. On the first turn Waldo J. made a break, Hanford Medium and Del Norte went to the front and led to the quarter in 0:32½. Del Norte opened the gap to the half in 1:03½, Medium second and Fred Mason third. In this position they reached the head of the stretch in 1:35½, Waldo J. coming fast for the lead. At the seven-eighths pole Del Norte gave up the fight, Waldo J. took the lead and jogged in in 2:10½. Ed Lafferty behind Mason made a great drive and landed him second, coming down the stretch in 31 seconds. Ottinger was third, Medium fourth, Del Norte fifth, Belle 6th.

For the second heat in the 2:17 trot the pools sold Thompson 10, Field $6.

In the books for heat—Thompson 1 to 2, Pal. Prince 4 to 1, Nellie W. 8 to 1, Geo. Dexter 6 to 1; Margaret Worth 5 to 1, Hamrock 3 to 1, Hillsdale 3 to 1. For the race—Thompson 2 to 5, Paloma Prince 6 to 1, Hamrock 4 to 1, Hillsdale 5 to 1, the others 12 to 1.

After four scores they got off to a good start. Paloma Prince broke on the first turn and fell back. Hillsdale again assumed the lead at the eighth, Thompson following closely, and they reached the quarter in 35 seconds, with Hillsdale three lengths ahead. At the half in 1:07½ Hillsdale maintained the same position, Nellie W. was coming fast and was a close third, but made a break before reaching the three-quarters and lost all chances. The drive through the stretch was a hard one, both Van Bokkelen and Durfee using whip and voice, and it looked like Hillsdale's heat, but he made a break twenty yards from the wire, and Thompson beat him a nose in 2:15, Hamrock third, Geo. Dexter fourth, Margaret Worth fifth, Paloma Prince distanced.

The second heat of the race called: Pools, Mason favorite, the balance ranging about in the same order as the previous heat. Books, heat, Fred Mason, 3 to 2; Hanford Medium, 4 to 1, Belle, 6 to 1; Del Norte 5 to 1; Ottinger, 3 to 2. Race—Fred Mason, 4 to 5; Medium, 4 to 1; Belle, 8 to 1; Del Norte, 3 to 1; Ottinger, 3 to 2.

They got off bunched, scoring fast. Waldo J. made a break before reaching the eighth, and again around the turn, and fell back fifty yards. Del Norte led to the quarter in 32 seconds, with Belle and Fred Mason close up. They reached the half in 1:05 in this order. It remained unchanged around the turn. At the head of the stretch in 1:37½, Belle had gained several lengths, and it looked like her heat, but through the stretch Waldo came fast and finished on such even terms that the result was in doubt until the judges announced Waldo the winner in 2:11½, Fred Mason third, Ottinger fourth, Medium fifth, Del Norte sixth.

Third heat in trotting. Pools—Thompson, $20; field, $5. Books, heat—Thompson, 1 to 3; Hamrock, 2 to 1; Hillsdale, 3 to 1; the balance 20 to 1. Race—Thompson, 1 to 7; Hamrock, 8 to 1; Hillsdale, 8 to 1; the balance, 50 to 1.

They got off on second score. Geo. Dexter and Margaret Worth led to the quarter in 0:35. At the half in 1:08½ Margaret Worth broke and fell back. Thompson came up side of Dexter and they trotted on even terms by the three-quarter in 1:42½. In the stretch they all came up in a bunch. Hillsdale, on the outside, looked dangerous at the drawgate, but broke and fell back, Thompson winning easy in 2:19. Thompson, one of Boodle's first colts, now enjoys the distinction of holding a record the same as his sire, 2:15. Mr. Van Bokkelen, the trainer and driver of Boodle and Thompson, deserves great credit for what he has done with these two stallions this season.

They got off third score. Waldo made a break on the first turn, Fred Mason went to the quarter in the lead in 0:32½. Waldo came up the backstretch fast, and at the half was nose and nose in 1:05½. Belle came fast around the turn and at the three-quarters in 1:38, was on even terms with Waldo J. Sullivan made a splendid drive with Belle through the stretch, but Waldo was too much for her, and won the heat in 2:12½—this is the first time Sullivan has driven Belle this season, and her performance speaks well for his ability.

Azote Lowers His Great Record.

FLEETWOOD PARK RACE TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Azote, Beuzetta and Klamath came together to-day in the $500 free-for-all at the Grand Circuit trotting meeting, and one of the most notable and important races in the history of harness racing ensued. Azote opened at even money in the betting, but the play was so heavy that he was backed down to 4 to 5 before the start.

The first heat was a "fluke," Azote winning in 2:09½. To another good start Azote went off in front as before. Coming up the hill Azote lengthened his lead until he had five lengths to spare at the head of the homestretch. McDowell eased him in the last furlong, and he finished with speed in reserve in 2:04½. Beuzetta, driven out in hopeless chase, trotted the mile in 2:06½, and Klamath dropped just inside the distance post.

The announcement of the time was greeted with enthusiastic cheering, as it was the best time ever made by a harness horse on the Fleetwood track, and beat the record by more than a second. Prior to Azote's fast mile the mark stood at 2:06½, made by Nancy Hanks in 1893. The third heat was conceded to Azote, who won again without a sign of effort, trotting the mile in 2:07.

Not Discouraged by Loss.

CHICAGO, August 29.—"The Northwestern Breeders' Association will hold another meeting next year," said R. L. Allen, the secretary, this morning. "Chicago may not get it, probably will not, but we are going to give our meet somewhere. This association is not dead yet by a long shot, and we are looking to get back that $6,000 we dropped last week."

"Until there is a new racing law in Illinois trotting, or even a running meet can't be made to pay. They are bound to prove a failure from the point of attendance and money must necessarily be lost."

Despite the great days of special races, the Breeders' Association lost over $6,000 on its meeting this year. Horsemen as a rule regard the association as being fortunate to have got off with so light a loss, but the officers do not look at it in this light. They argue that they provided the highest kind of sport and the public failed to appreciate their efforts.

Losing Money at Galesburg.

GALESBURG, Ill., August 29.—Thus far this week circumstances have been unfavorable to the financial success of the trotting meet at Williams' race track. The rain last night and to-day made it necessary to declare the races for to-day off. Mr. Williams is inclined to be gloomy about the outcome of the meet. He says this far he has expended $20,500 in purses, while the gate receipts have been but a few hundred dollars.

NEW YORK, August 28—Judge Bischoff, in the Court of Common Pleas to-day, decided that the provisions of the Gray racing law are against an authorization of any kind of gambling and are, therefore, unconstitutional. The decision was rendered in the suit of John C. Dudley against the Flushing Jockey Club. Dudley sued to recover the amount of a stake.

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

GEERS is said to own a half interest in Athanio, 3, 2:11½.

The track at Petaluma was in first-class condition and fast.

SALONE, 2:30½, by Anteo reduced her record to 2:28½ at Tuscola, Ill.

PATHMONT, 2:09½, is the fastest representative of the Altamont family.

CHEHALIS is five years old. His new record, 2:09½, is no mark of his speed.

THERE are not many Palo Alto horses out this year, but they are all good ones.

ANDY McDOWELL says that he will not train for Salisbury next year. Too much hard work.

RED WILKES has nine new 2:30 performers to his credit, and is the leading sire of 1895 to date.

THE statement, "Electioneers are race horses," is not denied by thoughtful horsemen this year.

KATRINA BEL, the three-year-old by St. Bel, stepped the third beat at Galesburg on Wednesday in 2:16½.

BE SURE, 2:06½, by Bessemer, has supplanted Afrite, 2:08½, as the fastest four-year-old pacing colt of the year.

FOUR of Electioneer's list trotters have died since January 1st: Truman, 2:12, Adair, 2:17½, Elwina, 2:21½, and Eros, 2:29½.

RACHEL, the fast pacing mare who took a record of 2:08½ in the 2:27 class at Buffalo, is owned by Marcus Daly, of Montana.

JOE PATCHEN and John R. Gentry have been matched to meet at Belmont next Wednesday, September 4th, for a $4,000 purse.

ANTECARLO, by Anteo, won his first race at Versailles, Kentucky, August 16th, getting a record of 2:26½ in the second heat.

THE four-year-old gelding El Rami has won five races and three second moneys out of nine starts and has earned $5,600 this season.

THOMPSON, by Boodle, 2:15, is quite a race horse. He got his record of 2:17½ in the fourth heat of his race at Petaluma last Wednesday.

THE five-year-old bay horse Supremacy, who took a record of 2:29 at Glens Falls, is by Bell Boy, out of Susan, a sister to Allen Lowe, 2:12.

C. W. WILLIAMS has decided that no pool-selling will be allowed on the grounds during the big Galesburg meeting, August 26 to September 7.

"ANDY" WELCH says that while $900,000 passed through the pool-sellers' hands in Buffalo last season, only $50,000 had been handled this year.

THOSE who saw the two-year-old Tommy Britton finish his record beat at Buffalo in 2:18½, say that he could have stepped in 2:15, if driven out.

A. L. KEMPLAND, by Guy Wilkes, out of Manon, by Nutwood, has a record of 2:18½, made in the second heat of his race at Chicago August 17th.

A LETTER from Jas. A. Dustin, Windsor, Maine, conveys the information that he has been quite ill, but as soon as he is able, will return to California.

THE Napa race meeting was a financial success, and the people in that wide-awake city declare that the meeting in 1896 will be just as good, if not better.

BELLE ORR, who made a 2:11½ record in Cleveland last Wednesday, is by a son of Guy Wilkes, Guy Faucett, dam by St. Elmo. She is owned by Col. J. B. Wathen.

JOE YOUNG, the sire of the dam of the great Joe Patchen, 2:04, was out of a mare whose dam was by Simpson's Blackbird, sire of A. W. Richmond and Reavis' Blackbird.

OLGA, by Sable Wilkes, out of Hannah, by Le Grande, second dam Hannah Price (dam of Lea Wilkes, 2:09), by Artburton, got a record of 2:29½ at Petaluma, Friday, August 23d.

OUT of sixty-seven heats trotted and paced at the Napa race meeting fifty seven were in 2:20 or better. The other ten were made in specials and eight of them were inside of 2:30.

DB. HAILE, 2:13½, by Guy K. (son of Guy Wilkes), won a good race at Muncie, Indiana, and lowered the Indiana record over a half mile track. The heats were won in 2:13½, 2:13½, 2:14½.

REDWOOD, sire of the fast yearling filly Fanny Foley, is owned by ex-Mayor Burnett, of Springfield, O. He is by Anteo, out of a mare by Milton Medium, and was bred at Santa Rosa.

SPHINXETTA, by Sphinx, is rounding into form and will bear watching in the future. At Waukesha, Wis., last week, she defeated Vera Capel, 2:07½, and others, pacing the fourth heat in 2:15.

BRUNO, 2:19, has not started in any races yet. When he does a large delegation of Salinas people will be present. Jimmy Dwain, his driver, is confident this horse will lower his record this season.

A RECORD of 2:15½ was made at Mystic Park, Mass., Aug. 15th, by Miss Albert, a bay mare by Albert W., 2:20, out of Young Woodbine, by Electioneer; second dam Woodbine (sister to Monarch, 2:28½), by Woodburn; third dam Victress, by Belmont. Miss Albert was bred at Rancho del Paso.

THERE will be a splendid opportunity to get some grandly-bred broodmares in foal to Red Nuttle (brother to Red Nutting, 2:13) at the auction sale to take place at Sacramento Wednesday morning, September 11th. These animals belong to the estate of the late Mr. Heilbron and must be sold.

It appears that Beuzetta was a starter in the 2:11 class won by Klamath at Buffalo. After the famous filly warmed up she suddenly became so lame that the judges consented to her withdrawal from the race.

MUTA WILKES, 2:11, and Linwood Wilkes, two of Mr Corbitt's best horses, were injured in being unloaded from a car and were sent to Dr. McKillop, the famous veterinarian of Chicago, for treatment.

NULA BONA is the name of a new performer. She got a record of 2:29½ at Regina, N. W. T., August 1st. Nula Bona is by Wildmont, 2:27½, son of Piedmont, 2:17½, and Wildflower, 2:21, by Electioneer.

No bicycles are allowed on the seventeen-mile drive around Hotel del Monte, Monterey county. This magnificent roadway was built exclusively for the use of those who prefer to ride with safety and comfort.

BROWN HAL, 2:12½, is the only sire of four 2:10 performers, his representatives being Hal Dillard, of 2:04½, Hal Braden, 2:07½, Storm, 2:08½ and Star Pointer, 2:08½. All records quoted are pacing records.

THERE will be no legislation adopted in Illinois for sometime regulating racing, the special session of the general assembly having adjourned without taking action on the bill presented for its consideration.

THERE is talk of a race meeting being held at Bakersfield this year. When the new railroad is built to this prosperous place the race meetings to be given there will make it famous, for climate, soil and many good horses are there.

J. G. HAMILTON has engaged to train for R. Hoe, the printing press manufacturer of New York. His string includes Cleopatra by Dexter Prince, Stellena by Epaullet, and Silverboul, son of Stamboul and Silverone, 2:19½.

ONE of the handsomest teams ever seen is made up of Directly and Arthur D. Monroe Salisbury drives this pair of black beauties to a skeleton wagon rigged up with gold-plated harness, and they make certainly a beautiful team.

AT Rigby Park, August 8th, Lynne Bel, by St. Bel, added fresh laurels to his already ample supply by winning in 2:13½, 2:12, 2:11½. He is owned by W. N. Burgess, Flemington, N. J., who bred him, and is the fastest horse ever bred in New Jersey.

DICTATUS, F. M. Day's grandly-bred stallion, will soon be ready for that fast mark we predicted. He was second to Javelin at Woodland on Tuesday last in 2:14½, 2:16 and 2:15½. He is gradually improving in every way under Det Bigelow's management.

IN publishing the list of those who named horses for the Nomination Purse for the Fall Meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. A., through a typographical error, the nomination of the b g Steve in the 2:20 class Trotting Purse by Winship & Keating was omitted.

THERE are a number of colts and fillies by Boodle, 2:15, in Santa Clara and Monterey counties, and their owners consider that they are more valuable now than ever. Boodle would be a great sire to cross on Electioneer mares that are out of half thoroughbred matrons.

THREE mares have been bred this season to Eclipse, the handsome two-year-old chestnut colt by Lancelot, 2:23, dam a sister to Expressive, 3, 2:12½. One of these is a half-thoroughbred by Electioneer, another is by Re-election, a richly-bred son of Electioneer, and the third by Pistachio, brother to Nutwood.

THE bay mare Lulu F., by Christmas, in the Salisbury western stable, who has been racing at Galesburg, and was a starter in the 2:25 class at Washington Park last Saturday, is suckling a colt by Direct, foaled July 6. The youngster, a black mite and the image of his sire, was left at Galesburg and the mare is being milked between acts.

ONE of the most promising young horses in Sonoma county is a black two-year-old colt by Contention (son of Director, 2:17, and Helen Benton by Gen. Benton) out of Kitty Almont, 2:22½. This fellow is a pure-gaited, rapid-moving trotter, and if no accident happens him will make a 2:10 performer. He belongs to J. H. White of Lakeville.

A LETTER received from Messrs. Fothergill & Lewis, of Quezaltenango, C. A., states that "they lost two out of the thirty horses they brought from California, and they were buried at sea. The balance of the stock was sold at fair prices. The four-in-hands, tandems and tally-ho coaches created quite a sensation in the city of Guatemala; nothing like them having been seen before by the natives."

J. W. PAULIN, the well-known horse breeder, has moved his horses from the Laurel Creek Stock Farm, near Belmont, to Ten Broeck's old place near San Mateo. He has some very choicely-bred youngsters by Panjahi out of well-bred mares, among them being a filly out of Athalie (dam of Athanio, 2:11½). This is the finest looking foal this great mare has had.

WEDNESDAY, August 14th, was "Electioneer day" at Buffalo, the four races decided all being won by descendants of the son of Green Mountain Maid. El Rami, winner of the 2:28 class, is by Wildnut, whose dam is Wildflower, 2:21, by Electioneer; Athanio and Azote, winners of the 2:20 and special classes, are by Junio and Whips, sons of Electioneer; lastly, Tommy Britton, winner of the two-year-old purse, is by Liberty Bell, son of Bell Boy, by Electioneer. In addition it remains to be said that Valley Queen and Fantasy, second in the 2:28 and special events, are by Sphinx and Chimes, both sons of Electioneer.

FEATURES of the first and second weeks at Galesburg, Ill., were the race paced by Oddity in the 2:20 classes, he winning the second and third heat, and first race in 2:14 and 2:14 and 2:14½, and the second race in 2:14 and 2:13½. Oddity is a four-year-old by Sidney, 2:19½, p., out of Miss V., by Valensin, granddam Lightfoot (sister of Fernleaf, dam of Gold Leaf, 2:11; Sidmont, 2:10½, etc.), by Flaxtail, and was bred by the late Count Valensin. As a yearling he was considered a phenomenal trotter, as he showed quarters in 35 seconds, but always evinced a strong pacing inclination. He was purchased at auction by his present owners, Jacobs Bros., of Hubbard, O., in 1893, for $2,000, and was driven to his record by Berne Jacobs. He showed a half in 1:04 and quarter in 31 seconds in his races.

THE chestnut gelding, El Rami, by Wildnut, son of Woodnut, 2:16½, by Nutwood, dam Nelly Benton, by Gen. Benton, is proving a wonderful four-year-old. So far this season he has started eight times, and been five times first and twice second, winning $5,100 and reducing his record from 2:29½ to 2:14. He was bred at Palo Alto, and sold at auction as a two-year-old, in New York for $550.

AT Cleveland, Henry Sanders worked the three-year-old black filly Derby Princess a mile in 2:12½ Saturday and afterwards stepped her to the half in 1:04½ with Angie D. John D. Rockefeller offered $5,000 for her if he could turn the track in 2:12, and as she missed this mark Gus Wagner purchased Sanders' interest and will hold her over for an active campaign next season.—American Sportsman.

ON the maternal side of Azote's pedigree the following is noticeable. Josie, his dam is by Hambletonian 725, be by Guy Miller (son of Hambletonian 10) out of Martha Washington, by Washington, second dam by Speculation, be by Hambletonian 10, out of Martha Washington, by Washington 332. This horse Washington was by Burr's Napoleon; he was by Young Mambrino out of the Willis mare, by Mambrino.

HAVE you carefully read the advertisement of the Los Angeles meeting? If so, you have noticed that over $17,500 will be given in purses. Then there's another item not to be overlooked, and especially by horsemen who have made entries in the fall meeting of the Breeders Association; by making your entries for the Los Angeles meeting also you will have two weeks of excellent races. In fact you will be right "in the swim."

AYRES P., 2:03½, the wonderful fast gelding, would be a splendid exhibition horse for the race meetings here if he had a running mate that could pull a sulky with him a mile in two minutes. He belongs to Walter S. Hobart, who, no doubt, if the right kind of a bangtail was secured, would have no objections to having him lower his record. The horse is in finer condition than he ever was in his life and is sound as a new dollar.

TOMMY BRITTON, a brown colt by Liberty Bell, 2:24, son of Bell Boy, 2:19½, by Electioneer, dam Keepsake, by Pancoast, 2:21½, granddam Dainty, by Contractor; third dam Nora Norman, by Blackwood; fourth dam Norma, by Alexander's Norman, is now the fastest two-year-old of 1895, he having taken a record of 2:18½ at Buffalo last Wednesday. He had a previous half-mile track record of 2:31½, while he last year obtained a yearling mark of 2:34½.

SOME years ago when Palo Alto was surpassing all before him on the turf and much discussion was going on about thoroughbred blood in the trotter, the editor of the Kentucky Stock Farm said that Palo Alto was an accident and that he would not be a successful sire because of the thoroughbred blood. Well, the time has slipped along since then and Palo Alto has a few colts, and so has Whips that are doing pretty well, we believe, and the Kentucky Stock Farm has quit making predictions.

THE only stallions credited with two or more 2:10 trotters are Electioneer, sire of Arion, 2:07½, Sunol, 2:08½, and Palo Alto, 2:08½; Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, sire of Hulda, 2:08½, and Lea Wilkes, 2:09; Alcione, sire of Martha Wilkes, 2:08, and Harrietta, 2:09½; Young Jim, sire of Trevillian, 2:08½, and Dandy Jim, 2:10, and Jay Bird, sire of Allerton, 2:09½, and Early Bird, 2:10. Four of the above five sires are sons of George Wilkes. The 2:10 trotters by Guy Wilkes, and also those by Alcione got their records in races.

THE pacer, Old Hutch, 2:11½, who acquired sudden notoriety at Indianapolis last week, got his name rather peculiarly. He was originally named after Al Hutchings, the well-known Kentucky driver, but in his first race was put down Old Hutch in the secretary's book, the latter so misreading his cognomen. And accordingly it was allowed to stand so, and he will go down to turf history as a namesake of the most famous "plunger" who ever played for high stakes on the Chicago Board of Trade.

JAMES STINSON, the millionaire owner of trotting horses, gave a very pretty exhibition at Washington Park one day last week with his double team, Maud B. and Damiana, trotting the full mile in 2:18½. The heat was an object lesson for trotting horse owners and drivers and is the result of Mr. Stinson's theory that weights, hoots, blinds and extra appliances of every nature are unnecessary to the well-bred and well-gaited trotter. The gentleman received more applause for his feat than all the rest of the races of the day.

JAVELIN, by Creole, 2:15, is out of Flash (dam of Walker, 2:23½), second dam Lightfoot (sister of Fernleaf, the great broodmare), by Flaxtail. Javelin lowers her record in every race she starts in. In Petaluma she lowered her record of 2:20 to 2:16½ in the third heat of a race, and at Woodland on Tuesday last she won in straight heats against a splendid field in 2:14½, 2:15 and 2:15½. She belongs to the Oakwood Park Stock Farm, and is one of the best three-year-olds out this year. Her sire, Creole, 2:15, is in Honolulu, where he holds the champion record.

IT is unofficially announced that the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association will hereafter incorporate in the conditions to all their races three distinct clauses as follows: 1. A horse distancing the field will take the entire purse. 2. In no case will distance be waived, no matter by whom the request be made, nor when all request. 3. After a horse has once scored, he shall then be considered a starter and all bets made shall stand, except in cases where the judges shall deem there is fraud. The fairness of these conditions show for themselves, and will be accepted with alacrity by all nominators.

THERE is no secret about the decline and fall of Robert J. The same thing has happened ever since horses were first used for racing, and the natural law that the fittest will survive still obtains. His recent conquerors, Joe Patchen and John R. Gentry, who can doubtless have a similar revenge whenever the opportunity occurs, are six years old, and therefore at the height of their powers. The sinewy little gelding, on the other hand, is a year the senior of the stallions, and having been in active service since the spring of 1892, has become what the fashionable human world would call passe. Until some other pacer eclipses his feat of a mile in 2:01½, Robert J. will be of value for exhibition purposes, but to all appearances his earning capacity in the open class has been materially affected.

THE SADDLE.

EUGENE LEIGH sold My Luck to Lucky Baldwin for $1,000.

OTTYANNA, of the Corrigan string, won a six-furlong race at St. Louis Tuesday in the heavy going.

COL. W. S. BARNES has sold to H. B. Durham a yearling filly by Onondaga, out of Bamboo, by Pat Malloy.

BOB PAGET, the jockey, has been set down at Anaconda, Mont., but will be allowed to ride for Wm. Dixon, owner of Quirt.

OLD REVOLVER finished second to Say On in a seven-furlong race at Windsor Tuesday. Arab was third and the time 1.28.

SCHNITZ, the first of the Sander's string to start here, and not by any means the best horse in the string, won in fine style Monday.

"OVERCOAT JACK" ATKINS went on the block for Johnny Humphrey Tuesday. It is said that the latter is a little out of luck lately.

MAID OF HONOR, a daughter of the dead New Zealand turf hero, Maxim, won a five-furlong race at Windsor Tuesday in 1:02.

THE race meeting at Detroit, Mich., has been so successful that instead of closing next Saturday it will be prolonged thirty days longer.

GUARD, P. Hopper's old gelding that was out here the winter of 1893 and spring of 1894, won a six furlong race at St. Louis August 23d.

ROYAL ROVER, a two-year-old by Prince Royal—Gypsy, won a five-furlong race at the Queens County Jockey Club meeting August 17th.

JOHN COLEMAN and Hugh Jones both made big winnings over the victories of Gratify and Detective. Coleman won something like $5,000.

By the Anaconda Standard of August 21st we see that Billy Dingley had ridden six winners out of eight mounts that he had at Anaconda.

DETECTIVE's good run in the mile race Tuesday fairly electrified the crowd and no one in it, perhaps, more than Owners Coleman and Jones.

SOME ten or a dozen horses went to Sacramento by boat Wednesday. In the lot were Wheel of Fortune, Little Bob, Little Flush filly and Clara Johnson.

JOHNNY COLEMAN and Hugh Jones bet $700 between them on Fred Gardner in the last race Monday. The latter was particularly sweet on the tall chestnut.

CONSIDERING the condition of the track, Gratify won a fast race. Outside watches caught the time a shade slower than did the official timers, some in 1:14 flat.

THE two-year-old sister to Dorian and several other fillies in "Doc" Streett's string have been shipped to California. The sister to Dorian is a good looker and very fast.—N. Y. Mercury.

THE meeting at Exposition Park, Kansas City, Mo., closed on Saturday. It has been very successful. Starter H. D. Brown goes to wield the flag at Council Bluffs and later to Indianapolis.

CONDE pulled up a very lame horse in the first race Monday. Frank Taylor is a good hand with cripples, however, and will doubtless get several races out of the big son of Duke of Norfolk and May D.

JIMMY McCORMICK is improving in health slowly at Saratoga, but there is a fair prospect that he will be able to fulfill his engagement with the California firm of Burns & Waterhouse.—N. Y. Mercury.

MATT STORN shipped Del Norte and Easel to Sacramento last Saturday. The former horse was worked a mile and a half before leaving in 2:46, and will be given an especial preparation for the 2½ mile race.

It is given out on the best of authority that racing will recommence at Bay District track immediately on the heels of the State Fair. There is also a likelihood, too, that Monday will be a race day hereafter.

THE Rochester (N. Y.) Driving Park Association quit $7,000 loser on its meeting this year, and President Archer announces that there will be no more grand circuit races unless the betting laws are modified.

SILVER II., the Salvator-Fleurette colt that ran third in the Futurity last Saturday, won the Autumn Maiden Stakes at Sheepshead Bay yesterday in 1:01 4/5 for the five furlongs, Hamilton II. second, Run Over third.

RIGHT ROYAL, a son of Prince Royal, J. B. Ferguson's great horse, beat the supposed invincible Ben Brush Tuesday at Sheepshead Bay, running the six furlongs in 1:13 1-5. Brush finished third, Floretta I. V. second.

CLARENCE WATERHOUSE was a visitor at the races Monday. He reports that the firm of Burns & Waterhouse has secured Jim Donnelly as a jockey. The boy, who can ride at ninety pounds, will make his debut at the State Fair meeting.

GALILEE is one of the most improved horses in training. He is now 15 3/4 hands high and has spread and furnished almost beyond recognition. He is in the pink of condition and it would take a good horse to beat him at the present time.

QUIRT took up 112 pounds and ran half a mile in 0:48 flat at Anaconda August 20th, beating Quicksilver, Emma D., Mamie S. and Nell Flaherty. The last-named was second and Emma D. third. Emma had 120 pounds on, and was close up.

DAVID GIDEON's Iroquois—Carlotta yearling colt, for which he paid $5,500 at the Belle Meade sale, is a very promising sort. On Thursday morning he went three furlongs in 0:37 1/2, running away from One I Love in the first furlong. As he is a big fellow and has only been cantering twenty days he looks to be worth all that was paid for him.

THE wonderful showing made by Crescendo is quite an honor to the Palo Alto bred stallion.

J. H. McCORMICK, who has been very sick for the past month, is now improving, and his physician expects to have him in pretty fair shape in the course of another ten days. Walbaum's string is expected at Sheepshead Bay about the 25th inst.

BILLY SHORT has succeeded Frank Farrar as trainer of Rey Alfonso. The speedy colt has been fired and blistered three times, and still has one sorry-looking underpin. It is thought that it will take about three months to get Rey in good shape again.

THE dailies printed the well-known Irish expression 'Faugh-a-Ballagh, thusly yesterday: "Faugh A. Ballagh." This makes one think of the way they once got in their work on Hyder Abad: "Thing Um Bob first, So and So second, Hyder a bad third."

COL. JACK CHINN's horses were victorious twice at Saratoga Aug. 23d, the closing day. Jim Flood beat Manchester, Kandor and others six furlongs in 1:14 1/2, while Ingomar's win was at a mile, Ajax finishing second and Kilkenny third. The time in this was 1:42.

A SPECIAL from New York states that Riley Grannan, the sensational plunger, is penniless at Saratoga. Grannan began his losing streak last winter and went to Saratoga in the hope of getting back his lost fortune, but he dropped his last $20,000, losing the greater part of it at faro.

JOCKEY JOHNNY SULLIVAN has made a big hit at Anaconda, and his services are in great demand there. He brought Montana in a winner on the 21st inst., the old horse going begging in the auction pools at $70, St. Croix bringing $40 and Sleeping Child $17.

DR. COX attended to Cairns, the boy whom Mestor rolled over with him, while Swift was taken to the French Hospital. He was thought to be seriously hurt, but an hour after the accident Dr. Voissard reported the boy out of danger, with nothing worse than a badly cut face.

SEVENTEEN head of yearlings from the Kingston Stud of J. B. Ferguson, near Lexington, Ky., were sold yesterday in New York. Nine were by Prince Royal and eight by imp. S. George, and the general average was about $400, which is considered very fair in these days of low prices.

A CHICAGO dispatch says that George Hankins has given up all idea of racing over his Harlem track, and it is rumored that he will come out here and become a racing magnate. A couple of years ago his brother Al was shown Oakland track, and he was much taken with the place. It is just possible that he might join forces with Thomas H. Williams.

SINCE "Snapper" Garrison has set the stamp of approval upon the bicycle and may now be seen scorching the Brooklyn Boulevard daily, there can no longer be room for doubt but that the bicycle has come to stay. Garrison is using it in order to reduce and at present weighs about 133 pounds. He expects to ride in welter-weight races at Sheepshead Bay.

AT Anaconda, Mont., last Saturday, Carrie Crooks won a half-mile race in 0:47 1/2, Lark second and Emma D. third. Montana captured a mile and an eighth race in 1:57. Marietta finishing second and Minnie Beach third; Nell Flaherty won at five and a half furlongs in 1:09 1/2, while Wag beat Lonnie B. and Misty Morn a mile and an eighth over five hurdles in 2:10 1/2.

AUGUST BELMONT's present intention is to send a stable of horses to England this fall. He would like to have Byron McClelland go over to manage and train them and is willing to pay the clever Kentuckian a princely salary if he will accept the position. Mr. Belmont will also have a string in training in this country, but he intends to be in England the greater part of next season.

PIERRE LORILLARD, who has leased Lower Moor Park, about three miles from Newmarket, England, will ship his horses there in the fall. J. Pincus, who now resides at Newmarket, has been deputized by Mr. Lorillard to get everything in readiness, and, as he is thoroughly posted, he will be able to give Mr. Huggins some useful information on the latter's arrival at the world's turf metropolis.

A DISPATCH from St. Louis says: "St. Louis may have continuous racing. Fred Foster's half-mile track is now ready to be used in the morning, the Fair Association track will be employed in the afternoon and the South Side track at night. A large number of horses are arriving from various points." Clearly they want to kill racing quick in the old French-American city.

MR. GEORGE CLAY has a yearling filly at the Lexington track of which he has great hopes. She is a splendid individual and is by Onondaga, out of Ballet, the dam of Modesty, Busteed, etc. Her owner has entered her in the Great American Stakes. Mr. Clay also has other fillies at the track. One is a half sister to Hypocrite, by imp. Candlemas, and the other is by Deceiver, dam Lady Longfellow.

STARTER JAMES F. CALDWELL got in a fight with Owner Frank Ireland at the Windsor track Tuesday, and the result was that the old flag-wielder was discharged at once and Ireland fined $500. The latter was remonstrating with Delany, Caldwell's assistant, for whipping the boy on Han Ban. Caldwell took up the quarrel and stepped out of the stand. The men clinched and exchanged several blows. The starter is a man over sixty years of age.

STATISTICS of the Australian Jockey Club show that during the last quarter of a century (commencing in 1870 and ending July 31, 1895) the sum of £289,000 was distributed in prizes. In 1870 the prizes totalled £3,260, and gradually increased until 1885, when they ran into five figures, £10,950, and that sum has been more than doubled during the last decade. The prizes reached high-water mark in 1891, when the sum of £25,100 was distributed, and receded again to £22,400, that amount having been paid out for this season, and a similar sum is available for the coming season. Up to 1876 entrance fees and acceptances for all races used to go to the funds of the club, but since that date all incomes from that source go to swell the prize money. Since 1873 the expenditure on improvements on the Randwick race course has exceeded £100,000.

R. B. MILROY expected Requit to win the Futurity Joe McCarty, Dan Lynch, Frank Kaverne, Moose Taylor and Jim Neil also called the turn on the big race.

JUST after the start in the first race at the South Side Park, St. Louis, Thursday night, Grand View, the leader, fell and broke his back. Agnes H. and Frebach also fell. The first two horses had to be shot. Jockey John Davis had his left leg broken and Jockeys John Raymond and Frank Hueston were badly injured internally.

FANDANGO, this year's Tennessee Derby winner, at one time considered the most promising three-year-old colt on the western circuit, is laid up in his stall at the St. Louis fair grounds suffering from kidney troubles. He was in no condition to race Saturday, as his owner started him against the advice of the veterinarian who has been attending the gelding. As a result the once promising three-year-old is stretched on his side in a dying condition, apparently.—St. Louis Republic.

WILLIAM MURPHY, a horse trainer at the race track, who has charge of Thomas Tobin's Esperance, is lying at the Receiving Hospital with a stab wound two inches deep in his left shoulder. Murphy, Sunday evening, had a quarrel with Dan Reeves, another trainer. Reeves called to his aid a negro named Brown, who a year ago severely cut a white man called Saul. The pair found Murphy at Carter's saloon, near the race track, and tried to pick a quarrel. Murphy and a friend who was with him left the saloon, but were followed to the "Shannon" by Reeves and his negro friend. There a fight was started, during which the negro stabbed Murphy. The wound is not considered dangerous.

THE Burns & Waterhouse string of fourteen horses arrived from the East late Friday night, and are now quartered at the Sacramento track, where half a dozen will be raced at the coming State Fair meeting. The horses all arrived in good condition. They will have to be given a rest of several days, but every effort will be made to have them ready for the stake events. Lovdal is entered for the California Cup, but he will have to be given a hurried preparation, as the race is to be decided inside of three weeks. Lucky Dog, Fanny Louise, Midlo and Torsion are the best-known performers outside of Lovdal. The yearlings purchased at the recent Rancho del Paso sale have also arrived.

THE New York Herald condemns the Futurity distance as a mere sprinter's test, and urges a longer course, which would bring out the staying qualities of the thoroughbreds. In this connection, it says: "The Pacific Jockey Club, of which A. B. Spreckels is President, has taken up the idea of long distances, and in a much more vigorous fashion than have any of the Eastern associations. Out of a list of fourteen stakes, with an aggregate value of $32,000, offered by the Pacific Jockey Club for its coming fall and winter meeting, three are at long distances and have a total value of over $11,000. One of these long-distance events, Spreckels' stakes, is at four miles, and has a guaranteed value of $6,000. This may be carrying long distances to an extreme, but in any event it is a step in the right direction."

THE Eastern press is seldom fair in treating of the merits of Western horses and never generous. The following, therefore, which the New York Herald will print to-morrow, is a concession out of the ordinary: Among turfmen Sunday opinion was general that the Futurity was won by a good horse, although not necessarily by the best horse in the race. Position has much to do in an event like the Futurity, which is little more than a mere spurt of speed. In this respect Requit had all the best of it, for he was next inside the rail almost from the start, while Crescendo was out in the middle of the track all the way down, and must have traveled at least two or three lengths further than Requit, who only won by about a length and a half. Had the positions been reversed, the California horse might have won, and Requit might have been compelled to be content with the second place.

AN adjourned meeting of the Yreka Jockey Club was held on Wednesday evening, August 21st, for the purpose of organization and election of officers. The meeting on being called to order elected Jacob Martin as President, J. H. Wadsworth Treasurer and R. S. Taylor Secretary. On motion J. H. Wadsworth, Charles Herzog and G. H. Peters were made a committee to collect subscriptions donated by citizens. It was mutually agreed upon to have the race meeting take place on October 16, 17 and 18, 1895. Jacob Martin, Henry Koester, J. H. Wadsworth, Chas. Herzog, Jr., G. H. Peters and R. S. Taylor entered into an agreement to put up the purses and to be mutually responsible to carry out the published programme. It was unanimously ordered to be the sense of the meeting to put up as large purses as possible, to the end that the races should be a success. Also that no jobbing in the racing would be permitted, the penalty for any such conduct to be the forfeiture of the purse contended for, inasmuch as this meeting is to be for the amusement of the public and not for the owners of horses only, except as the merits of the respective horses entitle them upon a fair race. Meeting adjourned to August 22d, at 8:30 p. m.—Yreka Journal.

THE first race yesterday revived memories of some twelve years ago, when the late Fred Archer, C. Wood and G. Barrett were in the heyday of their glory. Not that the fine (!) professional horsemen who rode yesterday would ever dream of being guilty of such an act as was put down to the above-named artists. The younger jockeys of those halcyon days had got into the habit of watching Archer at the post, and when they saw he had made up his mind, the rest of them generally tried to anticipate the starter's "Go along." In a race at a meeting in the Midlands, there was a horse called Duke of Albany entered. On paper he had not a ghost of a chance. The triumvirate evidently knew more than the ring and the talent put together, so they organized a comedy for the benefit of the spectators, and in place of taking the money at the box-office, they gave it to some of the magnates of the ring to take care of for them until the race was run, with the stipulation that they should be allowed to collect interest on their deposit. To cut a long story short, Archer dashed away at a false break, carrying the field with him, barring the Duke of Albany, ridden by George Barrett, and another that Wood was on. They all raced home and had to go back. Needless to say that Archer & Co. collected the interest on their deposit with the ring. This may be taken "cum grano salis," but there are certainly still regions unexplored that might yield pelf galore.—N. Y. Mercury, Aug. 17th.

The first three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, of the State Fair will be devoted to trotting and pacing races; then the gallopers will have Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The light harness horses will have the next three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and the gallopers will have the closing three.

FOLLOWING its usual custom, Palo Alto Stock Farm will offer at public auction about November 1st, its entire crop of thoroughbred yearlings, foals of 1894. There are twenty-four to be sold, and a finer-bred or better-looking lot would be hard to find. These youngsters have had the benefit of good care, plenty of feed, and are in good condition to go to work on. They are all registered with the Jockey Club and certificates of registration will be handed purchasers by the auctioneers, Killip & Co., on the day of sale. The consignment consists of the progeny of Flambeau, Imp. Cyrus, Racine and Bramble, out of the great matrons that have made the thoroughbreds from this farm famous as stake winners. Further particulars will appear hereafter.

HAVE you read about the splendid premiums we are offering our subscribers? Glance over our advertising columns if you want to get a magnificent large picture, one that is a perfect likeness and fit for any drawing room in the land. These are pronounced by horsemen and art critics to be the best and most perfect likenesses of the animals ever made, and no great horseman's library is furnished without them. If you get one you will surely desire to get the rest, for they are just what every true horse lover wants.

ENTRIES to the Huene races will close next Monday, September 2nd. Owners of thoroughbreds should make a note of this and forward entries at once. See advertisement.

THE free-for-all trotting race at the Salinas races which is for $1,000 has been reopened, and will close Monday, September 2nd.

The State Fair.

The meeting to be opened at the Agricultural Park, Sacramento, next Monday, promises to be the best ever held in California. There are certain reasons why this is so. The Native Sons of the Golden West will hold their annual meeting in that city and be present at the and electric carnival which will be the opening of a new era in Sacramento.

The great electrical power system will be in full operation, the source from whence this power comes being over twenty-two miles away. The city will be illuminated as no other in the world has ever been, and thousands of people will assemble on the streets and public squares to see the great electrical display. Bands of music will be heard everywhere; and the booming of cannons and waving of flags will leave such an impression upon the minds of all that the 9th of September will never be forgotten in the history of our Capital City.

At the Pavilion there will be a "milky way" of incandescent lights, and a constellation of such magnitude that to those who have not heard of the preparations made for it, a great surprise is in store.

At the Agricultural Park a number of important and long-needed alterations and improvements have been made, and this year there seems to be a consolidation of sporting interests on the grounds which will be enjoyable from early morn till the shades of evening fall. The State Sportsman's Association will hold its annual tournament, and crack shots from all parts of the Pacific Coast will be present to smash blue rocks and bring pigeons to earth for valuable prizes. The committee having this part of the programme in hand is working hard to make it attractive and draw the best gathering of sporting men ever seen in California; the various dealers in sporting goods are also vying with each other in seeing which will contribute the most.

The great polo games will be exemplified for the first time before a large Sacramento audience, and the teams which have been busily contesting for honors at Del Monte this week will be there to show how skillfully they can play this exciting and exceedingly dangerous game.

The ladies' tournaments are to be great features of the meeting. Daring equestriennes from the foothills and valleys of California have been practising assiduously for weeks for these great exhibitions.

The light harness events will be well contested, for a better class of horses have shown their ability in the California circuit this year than ever before, and we know that at the State Fair these horses will eclipse all former efforts. Every heat will be a race and many records will be lowered.

The programme for the running races suits us, in fact, will please every lover of good racing. It is the longest and best ever given by this association, and as we have the grandest collection of stake horses on this coast at present that we have ever had, there is no reason why we should not see the best races ever run. Everything in this part of the programme will be conducted in a style on a par with that given at the Bay District track; and over the splendid Sacramento track in that warm and salubrious climate we are confident the horses will do better than they have ever done at any place they have heretofore started.

The change in the betting privileges will also be appreciated by the thousands who attend.

Everyone who can spare the time should attend the State Fair from the day of opening, next Monday, until its close, for a more enjoyable fortnight cannot be had in the year. Special railroad rates have been made and hotel accommodations will be ample.

The New Race Track.

Work is being rapidly pushed at the race track, Ingleside. The foundation of the track is laid and the iron frame of the club house is in place. A large number of teams are hauling lumber for fencing and for the buildings, and everything is being done to push the work ahead as fast as possible. The road from Golden Gate Park via Ingleside is being straightened and macadamized, and put in splendid condition for travel. An immense amount of work has been accomplished on this roadway during the past two weeks, and when it is finished it will be one of the finest drives on the peninsula. The boulevard from the Ocean House to the Cliff House is also receiving attention, and when completed a most picturesque and healthful driveway which will be creditable to the city and as fine as any in California will be ours. It will become as famous as the old Cliff House Road, and for a straight, level drive will be incomparably the longest and best in San Francisco.

Mr. La Rue as a Starting Judge.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The notice published in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of last week over the signature of Chas. A. Winship, wherein he denounced Hon. H. M. La Rue as a judge in trotting races, seems unwarranted and uncalled for. Mr. La Rue has acted as starting judge for a number of the associations for years past, and has given his time and talents gratuitously; he always has and now enjoys the distinction of being one of the best informed and fairest minded judges we have ever had in California. He has done much in the past to elevate the business, and has always enjoyed the respect of the trainers and owners, as well as the general public. When most of the drivers who gave their consent to use their names to a petition asking the Woodland Association to have Mr. Covey act as starter instead of Mr. La Rue, they did it because Mr. Covey had done well as starting judge at Napa, and not out of any disrespect to Mr. La Rue. The majority of them are men interested in the business and recognize the value Mr. La Rue has been to the business in the past. If Mr. La Rue has made any mistakes or errors in his decisions, the horsemen know that his intentions have been honest and honorable. "FAIRPLAY."

We think that "Fair Play's" opinion of Mr. La Rue as a starting judge will meet the approbation of all the horsemen and associations. Mr. La Rue is one of the best-known judges on the Pacific Coast, and has always given satisfaction to both the horsemen and associations, and while exceptions were taken to some of his decisions at Napa, still no one doubted the honesty of his intentions. Drivers used to think that he was rather severe, but the public always felt safe that no job would be perpetrated when Mr. La Rue presided. The communication referred to and which was published last week was signed by a number of horsemen who would doubtless as quickly subscribe to this communication written by "Fair Play."

The Los Angeles Meeting.

There is little time to be lost by horsemen who intend to make entries for the great meeting to be given by the Los Angeles Fair Association, which is to be held from October 21st to 26th inclusive, for they will close on September 14th. It is almost needless to impress upon every horseman in this State the advantages to be gained by making entries at this meeting. It precedes the meeting to be given by the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, and will be conducted in such a manner that every one who goes there will be thoroughly satisfied. The management of the Los Angeles Fair cannot be excelled, while the enthusiasm of the people in this section of California is worth going one thousand miles to see.

The programme of races is to be found in our business columns; it will be noticed that splendid purses are offered and the terms of entrance are only five per cent, with five per cent from winners. The track is the fastest in California, and the accommodations are most ample; the climate is unsurpassed, and everything to make visiting horsemen and their friends happy will be done by the officers of this association. Send in your entries on or before September 14th.

The Del Monte Meeting.

The great society event of the midsummer season was signalized this week at Hotel del Monte. The annual meeting of the Country Club has heretofore been the absorbing topic, but this year this splendidly-managed club, in conjunction with our leading polo clubs, have given at the new track a week of enjoyment that eclipses all previous ones. The polo games were well contested and very exciting, and the thousands who came in gay coaches, drags and vehicles of all kinds became very enthusiastic while the participants played with unusual skill and daring. There could not be a more beautiful spot for this sport than the inclosure within the new race track. The grand stand, commanding an elevated position, afforded a splendid view of the entire games. The race track is only half a mile from the hotel, and is built in the center of a grove of cypress. To-day a great pony race is listed on the programme. Our representative will send us a full account of the events, and in our next issue it will appear.

THE victory of Azote, 2:05½, is one that will be received with pleasure by every Californian. He is justly entitled to be the king of trotters and will carry back to this slope the crown. On the day he achieved this wonderful feat Fred Moody, a two-year-old belonging to Wm. Corbitt, won his race easily, and then Bouncer, by a son of Electioneer, won his race, best time 2:1¾. Surely owners and breeders on this coast have just cause for rejoicing that the standard bearers from the leading stock farms of the world trace to the great trotting sires that have brought this State into such prominence during the past five years.

ENTRIES for the running races at Santa Ana will close next Monday, September 2nd. See our business columns.

Auction Sale of Trotters.

At the State Fair grounds, Sacramento, Wednesday, September 11th, Messrs. Killip & Co. will sell at auction a collection of fifteen choice broodmares by our most fashionable sires and colts and fillies. The broodmares are stunted to that royally-bred stallion Red Nuttle (brother to Red Nutting, 2:13), and as a number of them trace to the great fountain-head of early and extreme speed, Fanny Fern, owners of stock farms should attend and get a few to bring their stallions into prominence. The formerly much-despised Flaxtail cross is now eagerly sought after in the East, and here on this coast it is manifesting its superiority every year, especially when used as an outcross for descendants of Hambletonian 10. All that are offered have been carefully selected on account of their individuality as well as breeding, and are to be sold to close up the affairs of an estate. Besides these, the handsome stallion Eyraud, by Eros, out of Whisp, by Whippleton, will be sold. Send for catalogue at once.

THE attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of the stakes of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club inaugural meeting entries for which will close September 16th. Great preparations are being made for this meeting. The force of men at the track at Ingle-side has been increased and on November 1st, the gates of the finest race track in the United States will be thrown open to the public.

The Pacific Coast Jockey Club.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club was held last night in their office at the Palace Hotel. The object of the meeting was to finish letting contracts for the completion of the buildings and other work at the track. This was accomplished most satisfactorily, and work will continue to be pushed as rapidly as possible upon them, and no efforts nor expense spared in getting the track completed in time to open their meeting on November 1st, which will probably be the date set. The Board also took steps toward a thorough distribution of the programmes of their Stake Events, a list of which will be found in this issue. The list is one of the most liberal propositions ever offered to horsemen in this country, and is sure to secure a large number of entries of the best horses in the United States. President Henry J. Crocker reports that they have already received many applications for stalls and that it is a certainty that some of the greatest races that the world has ever witnessed will be given over their track. He also states that the better class of horsemen from all over the United States will flock to California this winter and that a vast amount of money will be brought here and this will result in stimulating all branches of business.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

THE STATE FAIR.—Monday next the California State Fair of this year will commence. Grand as the exhibition has been in the past, the very foremost of all the purely State expositions of the country, there are the best of reasons for predicting a decided superiority. To those who have seen the pavilion displays of the last few years, it may appear preposterous to predict that in these hard times that part of the show will be better than ever, though from what I hear that is assured. The stock exhibition, too, gives promise of not being far behind those of previous years, though the "nipping and eager air" of the financial crisis will, doubtless, chill the enthusiasm of many, who would fain be on hand with their favorites, is likely to have a greater effect on that department than any other. However potent that may be in reducing the number of animals on exhibition, there is little question that stalls, pens and coops will be well filled, and the occupants the very choicest representatives of the famous stock of the Pacific Coast.

The speed department, however, cannot fail to come up to the most sanguine expectations, and, if I am not greatly mistaken, the veriest optimist, were he to prophesy what the twelve days of racing, trotting and pacing will present would be likely to come short of describing the finished picture. As has been stated in another article there is a glorious prospect for harness racing, while the "legitimate" is so modeled, and the stake entries of so high a class, that devotees of the turf can anticipate the very best sport. With no danger of disappointment, as will be readily granted when the programme and nominations in the stakes are given due consideration. One of these stakes may be taken as an example viz.: The California Cup 2½ miles, in which Bright Phoebus, Gilead, Cadmus, imp. Candid, Foremost, Mulberry, Fred Gardner, Articus, Del Norte, Claudius, Don Caesar, Monitor, Flirtilla, Lovdal. With the other stakes "in keeping" with the one quoted the outlook could scarcely be better.

There is a feature incorporated in the State Fair for the first time which will undoubtedly be welcomed by a majority of "racing folks," and while it may add to the attendance and swell the receipts is unquestionably a dangerous innovation. That is book-betting, and now that it has been adopted I have no desire to repeat what I wrote before it was adopted or follow the line of arguments that were pertinent when written. But it will not be out of place to call attention to one particular phase of the question, and offer suggestions in regard to that. I understand that harness racing will come under the new regulation and that heat-betting will be permitted.

Nearly all of the Eastern "horse papers" denounce heat betting, and turf writers for the "daily press" join in the outcry. In another article I have commented upon some of these charges, though to give greater emphasis repeat the argument. Betting on heats is no worse than wagering on the "result." In either case there is a temptation placed before drivers, and that temptation must be guarded against. The chest which contains the coveted treasure must be locked; if that is forced the thieves must be caught and punished. Under the laxity which prevails in the government of harness races, especially in regard to laying-up heats, it is an easy thing to swindle heat bettors by "dropping heats." Made to cut both ways, as granted the right to lay up a part of the race it is much easier to lay up the whole.

The quotation from so able a judge as Judge Halsey (Iconoclast) that closer scrutiny will prevail when there is heat betting, in place of being an argument for the abolition of that kind of betting is one of the strongest pleas in favor of it, and further than that takes away some of the objections to book-betting on trotting races. If the rules are enforced, and every heat made a race, the insight which the betting on heats would afford, will be of manifest advantage to the judges in thwarting the designs of intending swindlers.

Contrary to the prevailing belief the rules do not sanction laying up heats. The weak spot is that the judges are allowed to condone the offense, though it is clear that they are empowered to forbid such an attempt and punish violations of their mandate. A good practice of the older time was a charge of riders and drivers before the race commenced, and though in the large fields of the present it would occupy too much time to range them before the stand to receive instructions, an announcement from the judges that laying up would not be tolerated would be sufficient.

Then, as proposed elsewhere, with messengers to acquaint the judges every few minutes with the "state of the odds" they would have a premonition of intended "management" and "forewarned is forearmed."

At the Bay District track last Monday there was an illustration of the benefit which follows that racing practice. One of the contestants had shown such "form" as to make her favorite, the opening betting being 1 to 1. It was not long until the rates were 2 to 1, and another, which first stood at 2 to 1 appreciated to "even money." The presiding judge left the stand, went to the saddling paddock, gave the jockey a warning, and the result of the interview she won with comparative ease.

With the knowledge that the judges are closely scrutinizing the betting barometer, there will be a hesitancy in "putting up jobs," and with the wholesome fear of punishment before them, temptation overcome partially at least.

"Horses not winning a heat in four, or making a dead heat, shall not start again in the race," is one of the published conditions. That takes precedence of the rule, and no matter how many starters, will govern. That will aid in preventing very many lay-ups, but is not sufficient. The plain duty of the judges is to construe the trotting rule as it reads, and if laying-up a heat does not "perpetrate or aid a fraud," when there is betting on the heat, it will be troublesome to classify it. It is not honest racing; it is not fair racing, and in place of barring betting on heats to give a better opportunity for that kind of trickery, bar the reprehensible practice.

IGNORANT.—The Australians are a good deal more troubled over the horse question than even the breeders of this country. Lately a Mr. Rouse lectured in Sidney on the prospects of a market for the surplus horses. The audience contained a number of the most prominent people of the colony and due attention was paid to the words spoken. The main point was a recommendation of the Yorkshire Coach horse and the Cleveland Bay, and depreciation of the American trotter. The last named he said were "the worst class of horse, in his opinion, for stud purposes. He did not know how he was bred, but as a stud horse he produced a very nondescript animal, incapable of any sustained effort, and he was, therefore, unfit to produce stock suitable for hard work."

Even in the city in which the lecturer held forth there are quite a number of people who have a good deal of knowledge of the type he denounced, who must have been surprised at the dense ignorance of a man who posed as a teacher. It is very unlikely that he had any personal knowledge of the race when he admitted that he did not know how they were bred, and was led away by his desire to extol other breeds to depreciate them.

While the race is more widely extended than any other, there are few members of it which can be termed nondescript, though a wide range for choice. There is not a family of coach horses which can excel selections from the trotting tribes for their special uses, and were stallions and mares chosen from the trotting ranks for that specific purpose the produce would be of the highest class. Far in the lead of all others for harness animals fitted for lighter use, carriage and road. In fact, with the exception of very heavy draft, there are no class of harness horses which could not be recruited from the trotting ranks, however high the standard fixed for admission. As to their endurance and capacity for hard work, that is so fully established that there is no necessity for presenting proofs.

The people of Australia did not take so kindly to trotting sports as was expected, and this, in a good measure was owing to those who took the first trotters from here some years ago. Their actions brought it into disrepute, an obstacle which has not yet been overcome. Still I am informed that the union of American trotting stallions and Australian mares has resulted satisfactorily, so much so that it is not at all surprising that Mr. Rouse's remark on that point of his address elicited laughter.

"BETTING ON HEATS."—"Grattan," in his first article, justified laying up heats with the plea that those who betted on heats were "Catfish" and the layer up had a clear title to skin them. Iconoclast's reply to that, which I copied two weeks ago, was so overwhelming that while still adhering in a measure to his first proposition, the writer amended by taking a vigorous stand against betting on heats. This elicited commendations from Iconoclast, and I shall heartily join in them so long as judges permit heats being laid up, and yet that will not correct the evil. Were every heat an honest race wagers would be just as legitimate on each game of the rubber as on the final result, and bring "knowledge of form" into a more prominent position than it would retain with that excluded. As it now stands, and with heat-betting eliminated, laying up would be indulged in for two purposes. One of these to obtain an unfair advantage by letting competitors battle while the sluggard rested; the other—mislead bettors as far as it was possible to accomplish by instilling the belief that they were "out of the race" until it suited them to play their best trumps. In either case it so closely approaches a "skin-game" that it would be a skilful pleader who could show that there was no relationship. Before heat betting on trotting races was thought of, or rather before it was made a part of pool-selling, I have seen so many instances of the "perpetration" of that kind of fraud that it would be tiresome to enumerate them, and while those who benefited by that that species of swindling might not see any harm in the game, I am quite sure that Iconoclast would not agree in their estimate.

My Kentucky friend writes: "I believe, as Grattan says, that nearly or quite all the scandals I have ever known have grown out of heat-betting." It may appear singular, but all the scandals I have known, outside of those which were learned from printed or oral intelligence, were when heat betting was limited to "out-of-hand" wagers, and that on a small scale.

Still more singular it may be thought when I "solemnly affirm" that were the duty placed upon me of freeing the "trotting turf," as nearly as possible, from the charge of dishonesty, one of the auxiliaries I should depend upon would be betting on heats. The first step would be to secure competent and fearless judges, who would "instruct" the drivers that every heat must be a race. That if that mandate was not obeyed punishment would surely follow, and that so severe that there would be no chance for repeating the crime.

Then a corp of messengers to bring the "rates" every few minutes, and if the "odds" were suspicious acquaint the drivers of horses which had awakened doubts that they would be closely watched and if their actions corroborated the testimony obtained from the betting it would be considered proof of guilt. This is one of the practices of "running folk" which could be followed with advantage, and though applicable without heat-betting, will be a better guide to detect intended fraud when every heat is brought to a direct bearing on the question.

I feel quite confident that Iconoclast will coincide in those views when he gives this phase of the subject full consideration. He writes: "I am aware that it is sometimes very advantageous to a horse to lay him up a heat, and that his chances for winning the race may thereby be very greatly improved. With heat betting out of the way there might be no objection to this, but as long as it is permitted the practice of 'laying-up' will necessarily be subjected to very rigid scrutiny wherever there are competent judges."

If the plea is admitted that improving the chances to win is sufficient defense for laying-up, then the greater number of slow heats the driver obtains the benefit of, the greater the justification. So long as the race cannot be finished in that heat he can respond to charges of intended fraud; "I am bettering my chances to win," and with starters enough there may be never so many heats and the long distance to get all the good out of them possible. What a chance for "connubators!" the California name for those who are looking for just such "lay-outs." What a "fair-field" for those who will not connubate!!

GRATIFYING.—The fast classes, trotting and pacing, for the State Fair, which closed last Saturday, filled so well that there is an absolute certainty of capital races. It must be kept in mind that when entries close so short a time before the races come off, that the starters will not be much less, if any, than the nominations. Especially when the horses named have been participating in races for the past month or longer, and that their condition was so satisfactory on the date of closing as to warrant the engagements being made. Never before in the history of harness racing has there been a year so prolific in fast horses as Anno Domino 1895, and this side of the continent has furnished more than its quota of celebrities. Gaining high renown at home as well as abroad, and the home division plentifully supplied with champions to keep up the prestige which the crusaders have secured. And the glory constantly increasing. Fast work at the opening meeting, every succeeding battle ground the fighting faster and more furious, which shows that there is steady improvement, and the culmination still a good way off. However, near or far the retrogression may be, it is reasonable to anticipate that at the State Fair the brilliant performances of the past will be exceeded. Therefore, with the large number of horses engaged, and their quality, it is well within bounds to state that the harness racing at the State Fair of this year will be of the highest class.

"JOIN THE GANG."—There is a prevailing feeling among quite a number of owners of harness horses that if they refuse to join in schemes, which they are far from approving, their chances to win will be very slender. Small show even to get "inside of the money" as with the combination working against them, "place" or "show" is troublesome to obtain. Were the judges determined to punish even slight transgressions of the rules, rigid in their rulings when there were proofs of combinations, the task of carrying out the schemes of the gang would be much harder. There would be small chance then for "working" those who would not join their confederacy, everyone securing an even chance in the contest, and non-members of the gang obtain a fair show.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

BIDS for privileges at the Salinas Fair are advertised in this issue, and the attention of all interested is called to them. The Salinas Fair promises to be the best ever held in that rich agricultural section of California.

THELMA, a black mare by Sidney, 2:19½, out of a mare by Norwood, won a trotting race at Rome, N. Y., August 14th, time, 2:24. She was ably driven by Alden Goldsmith (son of the late James Goldsmith).

TOMMY BRITTON, 2:18½, by Liberty Bell, a grandson of Electioneer, is the fastest two-year-old colt of 1895, and Palita, 2:19½, by Palo Alto, son of Electioneer, is the fastest two-year-old filly to date.

REQUITAL WINS THE FUTURITY.

California Colts Finish Second and Third—Something About the First Three in the Great Race.

NEW YORK, August 24.—The eighth Futurity was won at the Coney Island Track to-day by David Gideon's bay colt Requitall, ridden by Griffin. The Pueblo Stables' Crescendo, was second, and Marcus Daly Silver II (by Salvator—Fulerette) was third. The stake was worth $69,250, of which the winner received $53,750; the second horse, $5,333; the third horse, $2,667; the breeder of the winner, $4,000; the breeder of the second horse, $2,500, and the breeder of the third horse, $1,000. The time of race was 1:11 2-5. It was Mr. Gideon's third successful Futurity.

Never in all history of the race, since that September day seven years ago, when the white-faced Proctor Knott defeated Salvator, was there such a gathering of famous thoroughbreds. The stake itself was the richest ever given by any racing association in America, while the crowd which sweltered during the hot afternoon in the big grand stand, in the clubhouse, on the lawn and in the paddocks, was a memorable one both in numbers and character.

They got away at the sixth break to one of the best starts ever seen in a stake race in America. Handspring had been badly kicked in the stifle by his stable companion, Axiom. Requitall led all the way, and won handily by one and a half lengths, Crescendo second, five lengths from Silver II.

"That's the best start I ever saw in my life," exclaimed A. H. Morris, who stood beside the starter. Andrew Miller, of the Driving Club, and a half dozen experienced horsemen agreed with Mr. Morris, and Rowe was congratulated all around.

Peep o' Day, Crescendo, Axiom, Handspring, Requitall, Silver II, Hazlet, Hastings and Applegate were scarcely noses apart when the flag fell, and it did not appear that a single horse of the remaining eleven was a length to the head as they galloped past the stand.

A roar went up from the grand stand and the race for the richest turf prize in America has been run for a furlong. The field sweeps on in unbroken order. From the inner rail straight across the broad track they stretch, hardly a length between the first horse and the last. Right in the heart of the line is little Griffin on Requitall, and before the field has disappeared in the dip of Bohemia, and the Californian, Crescendo, show to the front.

As the field sweeps up into view again and through the next two furlongs it is anybody's race. Requitall is a half-length to the good, but half a dozen are within striking distance. The pace is terrific. Suddenly King of Bohemia drops back beaten, and there is a new alignment.

Simms comes swinging through on Handspring, and a great shout goes up for the favorite. They are 100 yards from where the Futurity course bends into the main track, the critical point where most of the two-year-old races are won and lost. Requitall is still going smoothly and easily, while Simms is urging Handspring.

"Requitall wins! Requitall wins!" shouts the crowd a moment later, as the all-blue jacket suddenly shoots out from the hunch and the Gideon colt turns into the main track and faces the judges, a good length before his field. David Gideon, his owner, watching the race on the open stand, holds up his hand protestingly, but even while he is crying that it is too soon to name the winner the big bay colt is every moment increasing his lead. Crescendo is the nearest to him in the chase down the stretch, but there is daylight between Crescendo and the leader as they pass the grand stand, where hats are tossing and men are cheering.

Past the thousands on the lawn and other thousands in the field flies Requitall until, without a touch of the whip or spur, he passes the judges a length and a half before Crescendo, who is five lengths in front of Silver II. Two lengths away is the favorite, while the tattered field lines away for half a furlong behind. The time, 1:11 2-5, is only two-fifths of a second slower than the fastest time ever made.

While it was David Gideon's first Futurity, the firm of Gideon & Daly won the race twice before, with His Highness in 1891 and with Butterflies in 1894. No other owner has ever won but one. The summary:

The Futurity Stakes, a sweepstake for two-year-old foals, by subscription of $20 each, $50 each unless struck out by July 15, 1894, or $100 unless struck out by July 15, 1895, all starters to pay $250 additional, the association to add $17,500; the second to receive $2,000 of the added money and two-thirds of the starting money, the third $1,000 of the added money and one-third of the starting money; the breeders of the first, second and third horses to receive $4,000, $2,500 and $1,000 of the added money respectively; Futurity course—David Gideon's ch c Requitall, 2, by Eother—Retribution; 114 pounds (Griffin), won; Pueblo stable's ch c Crescendo, 2, by Flambeau—Janet N., 114½ pounds (F. Williams); Fisher & Tarr's ch c Nimrod, 2, by Springbok—Edith, 118 (Cassin); J. R. and F. P. b c Peep o' Day, 2, by Ayrshire—Sundown, 111 (Taral); P. J. Dwyer's b f Axiom, 2, by Maxim—Touche Pas, 110 (Doggett)—finished as named.

Handspring, heavily backed by Phil Dwyer and the general public, was the favorite at 9 to 5 and 2 to 1, Hastings at 3 to 1 at the opening, 5 to 1 at the close, Requitall steadily at 4. Outside these three there was comparatively little betting. Hazlet was 8 to 1, Axiom was 10 to 1, Scoggan 30 to 1, Applegate 12 to 1, Crescendo 20 to 1, Intermission 20 to 1, and in the 30 to 1 were Formal, Refugee, King of Bohemia, Peep o' Day, Scoggan and Cassette. Silver II was a 40-to-1 shot, and after him came Nimrod, Roundman, Mormon and Whippany, at 50 to 1 each and Palmerston at 60 to 1. Riley Grannan won $12,000 on Requitall, while Dave Gideon made a fortune on his colt.

THE FIRST THREE.

While California did not annex this, the greatest of all American stakes, to her long list of glorious victories, she showed marked improvement, for a youngster from this State never finished one-two-three before. The winner, Requitall, whose breeding is given below, is half-brother to the Arizona Stable's sprinter, Contribution, a famous cripple, to Arab, for a time holder of the mile circular track record, 1:39, and to the frequent winner, Nick.

Requitall has started five times, winning four and running second on one occasion. He was bred by W. P. Thompson at the Brookdale stud in New Jersey, the old home of the late D. D. Withers, who was one of the foremost racing men of his day. The colt was purchased as a yearling by Gideon & Daly, and later at dissolution sale of the firm was knocked down to Dave Gideon for $7,000.

Crescendo, the pride of the Naglee Burk stable and of all Californians, who ran second, is well-known to the racegoers of this city. He started four times at the Bay District track and easily captured first money in each race. Perhaps his best race, and surely the one that endeared him to all the lovers of the thoroughbred, was in the Bitter Root Handicap. In that event he carried 127 pounds and was ridden by W. Clancy, a steeplechase jockey. There was a long delay at the post, and when the flag fell Crescendo was sixth and in a bad pocket. The game colt fought his way through the field, and when straightened away in the stretch, came on like a true racehorse and won easily by a length from the pick of the two-year-olds at Bay District.

The colt was bred by Naglee Burk of San Jose. Burk is a multi-millionaire and a great lover of horse racing. He began breeding race horses three years ago, and has met with fair success.

He has a system of naming his colts which is both unique and original. His first crop of yearling had the letter A to begin their names. Of this lot Agitato yet remains in his stable. The names of the second crop commenced with the letter B. (Brioso, Bellicoso, etc.), and the third crop began with C, in which were Crescendo and Coda.

Crescendo left this city early last spring to fill his Eastern engagements, in which he was largely entered. The colt was taken sick en route to Chicago, and in the latter city something like lung fever developed, and for a time the life of the great colt was in danger. After many days of careful watching his faithful trainer brought him through, but even then it was a matter of grave doubt whether he could be trained sufficiently to bring him to a race.

At Saratoga the colt thrived, and from slow work he was gradually brought to a race. He started one day last week in a five and a half furlong race at the Saratoga track, and after making all the running to the last sixteenth pole he was defeated for the first time in his career by Requitall in 1:08½. His next start since leaving home was in Saturday's Futurity.

Silver II, who ran third, is also a California-bred colt. He is by Salvator, and is owned by the Montana Copper King, Marcus Daly.

It would be almost impossible to find a better illustration of the uncertainties of horseracing than can be found in the history of this year's Futurity. Requitall, the winner, made his debut on the Eastern turf in a selling race, in which he was entered to be sold for $1,700. Crescendo, who ran second, contracted lung fever en route from this city to Chicago, and for some time his life was despaired of. Silver II, third in the big stake, faced the starter for the first time at Brighton Beach two weeks ago, and acted so green at the post that many shrewd turfmen shook their heads and by acclamation voted him out of the Futurity. Yet these three colts easily defeated the supposed crack two-year-olds of the year.

AN experiment in the growing of flax which has proved to be an unbounded success, was made on the "Dougberty Ranch" at Dougberty's Station, Alameda County, this season, the stock being 22 inches in length, of good, strong fibre, whilst the seeds are full and plump. Mr. C. M. Dougberty is highly pleased at the result of this initial attempt to successfully grow flax in the locality he selected; however, as he was told the same regarding apples and afterwards produced the best in California, he is now less disposed than ever to give credence to croakers and disaster predictors. Mr. Dougberty is one of our most progressive land owners, and believes that California leads the world for agricultural, horticultural and viticultural pursuits just as it has for the excellence of the horses, cattle and sheep raised here.

SEVENTY FIVE heats were paced in races at the Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo grand circuit meetings during the three weeks ended last Saturday, and the average time of these heats was exactly 2:10. It was not quite five years ago that Hal Pointer beat B. B. at Terre Haute in 2:09½, then the fastest time on record in a race, and it is little less than twelve years since Johnston, at the old Chicago Driving Park, paced the first mile that was ever made in harness in 2:10.

THE PETALUMA RACE MEETING.

The Judges Detect Jobbery, in a Race and Declare All Bets and Pools Off.

This was the last day of the races, and the programme offered contained but three events. A very large crowd was in attendance from ten o'clock until the third heat of the last race was paced. In the morning there was a parade of the fine horses and cattle, the band meanwhile playing a number of fine marches. During the afternoon's racing the judges uncovered a most flagrant case of jobbery and the holders of pool tickets were dumbfounded when they realized that crooked work did not gain much headway at Petaluma, for after allowing the race to be finished as started, the judges declared all bets and pools off. The verdict was received with cheers by the fair-minded horsemen, who were indignant at the barefaced manner in which the race was being contested.

What made the job look "raw" was the fact that Javelin was touted to win, and the pool sellers could not get $2 against $10 on her, even after she lost two heats; these gentlemen then packed their books, tickets and Paris mutual boxes and closed up shop for the meeting. This jobbing race was a stunner to these shouters and pencilers.

The first event on the programme was a race for the 2:27 class trotters, purse $500. The entries were Columbus S., Mojave, Little B., Lottie and Kent. Pools sold: Columbus S. $10, field $4. After seven scores Judge Brown sent them away on even terms. Kent broke before he had gone fifty feet and fell back to last place. Columbus S. took the lead, with Letter B. a close second, Mojave third, a length further away, and Lottie fourth. These positions remained unchanged. Columbus S. had no trouble in keeping ahead, and won in 2:21½, a length in front of Letter B. Mojave broke on nearing the wire and Lottie passed him, securing third place by a neck, Kent last.

In the second heat Columbus took the lead, trailed by Letter B., Lottie and Mojave, who were in a bunch close behind him. Kent broke at the first turn and was unable to gain the distance lost. Going to the half Mojave broke and fell back ten lengths, leaving Letter B. and Lottie to drive the easy-going Columbus S. in, the latter winning by a length in 2:21½, a length in front of Letter B., Lottie third, Mojave fourth and Kent last.

The third heat was a repetition of the preceding ones with this exception. Kent, the Sable Wilkes stallion, who wore hobbles, got badly tangled up, and before Kenney, his driver, could get him straightened, the danger signal flashed in his face and the judges were compelled to declare him distanced. Time, 2:21.

The second race was for the 2:19 class pacers. The starters were: Welcome, Javelin, Ella W. and Senator. Javelin sold as favorite in the pools at $10 against $4 on the field, but when Judge Loeber sent the quartette away Ella W. took the lead and kept it to the wire, winning the greatest of ease from Javelin in 2:17½. Welcome was third and Senator just got his head inside the distance flag through the forbearance of the distance judge.

In the second heat the "good thing" Javelin broke at the first turn, and before she got settled, her three-sided wheeling competitors passed her, Ella W. in the lead, Welcome second and Senator third. The heat was poorly contested, for the time 2:28½ shows that the horses were pulled to their full limit. Ella W. won, Welcome second, Senator third and Javelin. A miserable fiasco and a disgrace to the Petaluma track.

Judge Loeber called all the drivers to a standstill in front of the stand and lectured them for their actions, and threatened them with the severest penalty should they pursue the same tactics in the next heat. When he gave the word "Go!" Ella W. seemed unsteady and broke after wobbling one hundred yards. Javelin paced very fast, and went to the half in 1:06, pursued by Welcome. Ella W. got settled and drove Javelin to the wire, the latter winning by a nose in 2:16½, Welcome two lengths behind, Senator also close up.

Holders of Javelin tickets rushed over to get some more, but in the parlance of the track, the public was "on," and the pool sellers knew there was no use selling any more tickets for that race, and so they quickly packed their paraphernalia away.

Javelin won the succeeding heats and race in 2:22½ and 2:22½. Then the judges consulted and to the discomfiture of the "fraternity" declared all bets and pools off. The decision was a wise one, only it was not quite severe enough. An investigation should have been made after the second heat and the race declared off. Besides, a heavy penalty should have been levied upon every driver and known participant in the job.

The third race was a special trotting race between Nina L. and Carrie C. Fred Vail drove the former and F. Snider the latter. Nina S. won in straight heats in 2:25 and 2:22, Carrie C. a close second. The winner is a large, handsome bay mare sired by Echo Royal (son of Echo), out of Genevieve, by Reed's McClellan, he by Gen. McClellan, out of a mare said to be thoroughbred. She is owned by J. Luce, of Healdsburg, and has been handled and driven by one of our old time trotting horse trainers and drivers, Fred Vail.

THE bicycle fraternity should not think that friends among horsemen are made by "scorching" close to every horse they meet. Many a good horse is ruined and many accidents occur through such malicious work.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

John Lemmon killed a fine 140 pound buck at San Pedro on Sunday last.

The open season for deer shooting in Marin county closes to-morrow, Sunday, September 1st.

It is singular that no one cares to risk his reputation as shooter by entering a 100-hird match.

The Electric Gun Club will shoot its last shoot of the season at Oakland Race Track on Sunday next.

At the Empire Gun Club on Sunday last Fanning broke 99 out of 110, Feudner 97 out of 110 and Webb 97 out of 110.

The Country Club have ordered a lot of English grouse and blackcock from Scotland. Japanese woodcock are also talked of.

E. W. Briggs is enjoying a hunting and fishing outing some forty miles south of Monterey. He will be gone another week.

Curlew and willet are very plentiful all along the bay shore. Good hags have been made at Ellis's Landing, Mt. Eden and Alviso marshes.

The California Wing Shooting Club will finish its regular season on Sunday next at Oakland Race Track. A full attendance is expected.

The shooting between the Electric, Lincoln and Empire club teams has been remarkably close this season. Note the totals in another column.

It is stated on good authority that quail are being killed and brought into this city and sold every week. If this is a fact it does not speak very well for the vigilance of the Game Warden.

The Tamapais Club have ordered several thousand Lower California quail for their preserve in Marin County. These quail are very similar if not exactly the same, as our valley quail, and should do well here.

The win of the Electric Club on Sunday last was somewhat unexpected, but one would have to go a long way to find a team that could beat that one. It is now in order for the Electrics to challenge the winner of the Empire—Stockton match.

C. Robinson, "Slade" and Ed Fay were at Oakland Race Track on Sunday, practicing for the State shot. Robinson and Slade killed 24 straight each. The birds were a very good lot, but Robinson used his second barrel but three times, Slade but six times.

R. M. Dodge, the well-known trainer, has leased the shooting privilege of a tract of 2,500 acres at Kenwood, Sonoma County. He reports that the quail of that section are now running with their third brood of little ones. Quail should be plentiful at that rate.

J. S. Fanning's score of 99 out of 110 blue rocks at the Empire grounds on Sunday last, was made with the new "Gold Dust" powder, manufactured by the United States Powder Co. He broke forty straight in making this score, and fairly pulverized them all. He won first money in the club match and first in the fifty bird match. This powder has been greatly improved. It has greater velocity with much less breech pressure, much less smoke and less recoil. The grain is harder and more even. This company intended to offer a goodly sum of money at the California State shoot at Sacramento, but owing to a misprint the matter was not arranged in time to be printed in the programme.

At the Empires.

The shooting at the Empire Gun Club's grounds at Alameda Mole on Sunday last was the main attraction among the local sportsmen on Sunday last. From 70 to 80 shooters were in attendance with their friends. No less than 4,000 targets were trapped during the day, and the shooting seemed very slow in the afternoon, during the fifty-bird match. Promptly at 10 o'clock the club match of the Empires was commenced. Many visitors shot with the club by invitation. The match was at 30 singles, known traps and known angles, squad shooting. Fanning was high man with 30 straight, Daniels second with 29, Webb and Nauman third with 28. The score:

The team shoot followed, the Electrics winning with a lead of 12 birds. The score was not a remarkably good one, but the fact should be considered that a very strong wind was blowing across the traps, making the shooting quite difficult. Webb of the Empires and Nauman of the Electrics were high men with nineteen each. M. C. Allen and C. Cate officiated as judges; J. K. Orr, referee. The score:

A fifty bird match followed. Fanning won with 44, Feudner second with 43, Webb third with 42. The score was as follows:

Fanning 44, Feudner 42, Nauman 41, Bruns 41, Stewart 40, Cate 40, Golcher 39, Ingalls 39, Baker 38, Lake 38, Andrews 38, Newton 36, Forster 34, Baum 34, Eugene Forster 32, Williams 30, Burgans 30, Young 30, Grubb 29, Fischer 29, Allen 27, Trombone 20, Klevesahl 19.

Blue Rocks at Stockton.

George P. Shaefer, the Secretary of the Gun Club annex to the Stockton Athletic Association, and L. Paine, tied for "The Examiner" prize in the first shoot given under the auspices of that club on Sunday last at Goodwater Grove, Stockton. The range is new and so are the traps, and in consequence the blue-rocks were thrown hard and the scores were not so high as might be expected on older grounds and older traps.

The club was organized only a short time ago, and at its first shoot the people were very kind, all the prizes being donated. The first prize was offered by The Examiner, and consisted of a complete set of the Encyclopedia Britannica. The rest of the prizes—and there were twenty-six of them, beside several special prizes for special scores—were offered by the citizens of Stockton. The contest was a handicap, blue-rock shoot at fifty targets, the handicaps being carefully made by a competent committee and ranging from three to twenty birds. There were thirty entries, the shoot being open to any sportsman in San Joaquin county. Most of the contestants are members of one of both of the local gun clubs.

Charles Merrill (scratch) score, 43; David Winders (scratch), 41; George Ellis (scratch) score, 40; G. Blain (scratch) score, 38; H. Ralph (3) score, 30; Will Ditz (3) score, 37; H. G. Bakewell (5) score, 38; A. Lang (5) score, 41; Henry Longers (5) score, 39; W. Jensen (10) score, 38; A. J. Comfort (10) score, 32; P. Umlauf (10) score, 37; George Brownfield (10) score, 43; L. Paine (10) score, 46; George Ditz (10) score, 41; D. T. Creaner (15) score, 31; F. M. Barnett (15) score, 32; Al Musto (15) score, 41; George Schaefer (15) score, 46; A. L. Britton (15) score, 40; Carl Salback (15) score, 36; D. Galbraith (15) score, 25; Lee Salback (20) score, 39; N. Brown (20) score, 39; J. Claussen (20) score, 27.

The other contestants were D. Henderson, Al Wilbur, Fred P. Clark, H. R. McNoble and W. G. Wallace, who withdrew before the contest was finished.

The prizes consisted of almost everything that could be given by the merchants of Stockton, and are to be awarded by choice, the highest taking the first choice, the second next, and so on to the twenty-sixth. There are many ties, and as darkness prevented shooting them off to-night there will probably be found some other way of settling which shall choose first. "The Examiner" prize, being by far the most valuable, was considered the first, and will become the property of either Mr. Schaefer or Mr. Paine. Beside being tied for the first two prizes, the gentlemen named are tied for the silver loving-cup given for the highest score, and for a barrel of flour, given for the highest score made by a married man.

The Sacramento Tournament.

The fourteenth annual tournament of the California State Sportsmen's Association will be held at Sacramento next week and the signs of the times are that there will be a very large attendance. The tournament will be held at Agricultural Park, and as the State Fair will be in full swing the attendance will unquestionably be large. The programme is as follows:

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 4.

- No. 1—10 blue rocks, entrance $1.50.
- No. 2—20 blue rocks, entrance $2; $20 added to purse.
- No. 3—10 single blue rocks and 5 pairs double, entrance $2.50; $20 added to purse.
- No. 4—Teams of 3 men each 20 blue rocks, entrance $1 a man; $10 added, $7.50 for best team score and $5 for best individual score.
- No. 5—25 blue rocks, entrance $3; $20 added.
- No. 6—10 blue rocks, entrance $1.50.
- No. 7—15 blue rocks, entrance $15 added.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5.

- No. 1—10 live birds, entrance $5.
- No. 2—15 live birds, entrance $10; $75 added.
- No. 3—Fay Diamond Medal, 20 live birds, entrance $5.
- All entrance money goes to the present holder.
- No. 4—12 live birds, entrance $7.50; $50 added.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6TH.

- No. 1. 10 live birds, entrance $5.
- No. 2. 12 live birds, entrance $7.50, $50 added.
- No. 3. 15 live birds, entrance $10; 4th prize, fine W. Powell & Son shot gun, donated by W. H. Eckhardt; 5th prize, fine split bamboo rod, donated by Mtange City Rod Co.; 6th prize, 10-lb. drum of Dupont Smokeless powder, donated by Baker & Hamilton.
- No. 4. 12 live birds, entrance $5; 4th prize, fine split bamboo rod, donated by E. T. Allen Co.; 5th prize, fine Smith & Wesson revolver, value $12.50, donated by Schan, Ingram, Batcher & Co.; 6th prize, fine hunting coat, value $5, donated by W. H. Eckhardt.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7TH.

- No. 1. 10 live birds, entrance $5, $50 added.
- No. 2. 25 live birds, entrance $10, $100 added.
- No. 3. 12 live birds, entrance $7.50, $75 added.
- No. 4. 10 live birds, entrance $5, $25 added.
- All purses divided 50, 30 and 20 per cent. in all events with 15 or less entries. In events with over 15 entries, 40, 30, 20 and 10 per cent. Shooting will commence at 9 A. M. sharp, each day.

A cordial invitation is extended to all sportsmen. For further information, address S. E. Knowles, Secretary C. S. S. Association, 139 Post street, San Francisco, or W. H. Eckhardt, 523 K street, Sacramento.

Patents Relating to the Sporting Interests.

The following list of United States Patents, relating to the sporting interests, granted July 30th and August 6th, 1895, is reported for the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN by James Sangster, Patent Attorney, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Means for automatically removing unconsumed products from gun barrels, John M. Browning, Ogden, Utah.

Loading machine, Patrick H. Hagney, Ashtabula, Ohio, assignor of one-half to Union Iron Works Company, same place.

Bow-facing oar, Thomas J. Murphy, Cincinnati.

Device for handling heavy projectiles and ammunition, Theodore Forsell, Vallejo, Cal.

Breech-loading gun, Paul B. Latrige, St. Etienne, France.

Recoil pad for guns, Jacob R. Winters, Clinton, Mo.

Granted August 13th, 1895:

Process of and apparatus for making gunpowder, William C. Peyton, Santa Cruz, assignor to the California Powder Works, San Francisco, Cal.

Tripod stand for guns, Hiram S. Maxim, Bexley, and Louis Silverman, Crayford, England.

Cushions for billiard or pool tables, Chas. Passow & Sons, Chicago, Ill. Essential feature, the word "Champion." Used since May 1, 1894. (Trade mark).

The Pelican Gun Club.

J. M. Morrison won the club trophy for the season at the regular monthly shoot of the Pelican Gun Club at their grounds near the American River at Sacramento on Sunday last, with a score of 19 out of a possible 20, live birds. The score was as follows: J. M. Morrison 19, E. A. Nicholas 18, R. Flint 18, F. Ruhstaller Jr. 18, F. Gotobed 16, J. B. Giffin 16, F. Ruhstaller Sr. 18, L. S. Upson 16, H. Gerber 14.

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Fred Moody, of Burlingame, has sent a commission East for a champion collie bitch.

Mrs. W. G. Brittan has purchased of Mrs. M. A. Foster, of England, the English pug Champion Bradford Marvel.

The Continental Field Trial Club has received 47 entries to their inaugural All-age Stake, 20 English setters, 26 pointers and 1 Irish setter.

Miller & Prather's well-known cocker spaniel, Woodland Robbie, has been very sick with inflammation of the bowels. At last accounts we are pleased to say that he was on the fair road to recovery.

Some idea of the great interest taken in dog breeding in England may be gathered from the fact that in the English Stock Keeper of August 9th there are just 590 advertisements of dogs for sale and at stud.

T. J. Wattson, the well-known English setter breeder, paid his respects to Jas. Mortimer at Hempstead Farm last week. We have not heard the particulars, but we will guarantee that Jas. Mortimer gave him a royal welcome.

Hugh McCracken, of the Presidio Kennels, has had very hard luck with the Lady Comstock litter. She whelped eight, six dogs on the 26th to Lord Hualpa (Alton—Keep-sake) but they have all since died. They were all nearly perfectly marked.

Geo. T. Allender, the well-known trainer, was in town on Wednesday. He reports his string in the finest possible condition. Mr. Allender's kennels are admirably located, near this city, and he has room for several more dogs, either for training or boarding.

The coursing at Casserly's Park on September 8th and 9th promises to bring out a very large entry. The nomination fee is $3. Open to all. T. J. Cronin, the manager, offers $100, added money, in the name of the proprietors of the Park. Jas. Wren will slip and John Grace will judge.

W. E. Bowen, the lessee of the Petaluma race track, had his beautiful collie dog poisoned by some miscreant last month. Mr. Bowen had offered a reward of $100 for any information regarding the perpetrator. The dog was by Countess Valensin's Jeannot, out of J. A. McKerron's Lady Thornton.

We learn from New Zealand that a deerhound bitch, the property of Mr. Stuckey, near Wodonga (Tasmania), has had in one litter the unusual and very astonishing number of 23 puppies, all alive. Six months previously she contributed 16 to the State; 39 in twelve months is a fair record for the average rabbit.

Kennel News says that "The far Western exhibitors are still in that condition of novitiate, when prize money cuts no figure with the glory of winning and the possession of a ribbon; at least so we are led to suppose." Kennel News is right in a measure, but we notice the exhibitors, as a class, show the most dogs when the most money is offered, and call around very promptly for their cash.

Chow Chow Standard.

The latest addition to the list of specialist clubs in the British Isles is one formed to look after the interests of the Chow Chow, a native of the Celestial Empire, and a dog whose popularity has increased very much of late across the water. The following description has been adopted by the club:

Head.—Skull flat and broad, with little stop, well filled out under the eyes.

Muzzle.—Moderate in length, and broad from the eyes to the point (not pointed at the end like a fox).

Nose.—Black, large and wide (In cream or light-colored specimens a light nose is allowable).

Tongue.—Black.

Eyes.—Dark and small. (In a blue dog light color is permissible).

Ears.—Small, pointed and carried stiffly erect. They should be placed well forward over the eyes, which gives the dog the peculiar characteristic expression of the breed, viz., a sort of scowl.

Teeth.—Strong and level.

Neck.—Strong, full, set well on the shoulders, and slightly arched.

Shoulders.—Muscular and sloping.

Chest.—Broad and deep.

Back.—Short, straight and strong.

Loins.—Powerful.

Tail.—Curled tightly over the back.

Forelegs.—Perfectly straight, of moderate length, and with great bone.

Hindlegs.—Same as forelegs, muscular and with hocks well let down.

Feet.—Small, round and cat-like, standing well on the toes.

Coat.—Abundant, dense, straight, and rather coarse in texture, with a soft, woolly undercoat.

Color.—Whole-colored black, red, yellow, blue, white, etc., not in patches (the under part of tail and back of thighs frequently of a lighter color).

General Appearance.—A lively, compact, short coupled dog, well-knit in frame, with tail curled well over the back.

Disqualifying Points.—Drop ears, red tongue, tail not curled over the back, white spots on coat and red nose, except in yellow or white specimens.

Smooth Chows are governed by the same scale of points, except that the coat is smooth.—Field.

The Cocker Spaniel Reah.

OAKLAND, August 27, 1895.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—Mr. W. L. Prather, Jr., of the Pastime Cocker Kennels, found my cocker spaniel bitch Reah, S. last evening on the street. She was following a gentleman and his wife. The lady said her father got Reah somewhere in the city. Mr. Prather telephoned me and I went down with him to the address which these parties gave, and after satisfactory proof they gave up the dog. They had had her about four weeks, and when she followed the old gentleman home she was poor, and looked as though she had been abused and starved. These people had taken the best of care of her, so she looked like herself. It is needless to say that I feel thankful to Mr. Prather.

Yours sincerely, C. M. SELFRIDGE.

The Work of the Commission.

All records were completely overshadowed by the State Fish Commission in the matter of hatching and planting cutthroat or Tahoe trout (Salmo Mykiss) this season. The work of distribution is not completed, and will not be until about the 10th of September, although it was begun June 18, says the Call.

Since the work of planting the streams of California began in 1871 up to and including 1894 there have been distributed 6,141,000 fry of the rainbow trout, 5,250,950 of the cutthroat variety and 1,228,000 of what are known as Eastern brook trout.

This season there have been hatched at the Tahoe and Sisson hatcheries, both of which have only been in operation seven years, the enormous number of 4,275,000 cutthroat trout, and of this number all but 200,000 have been or will be planted in the streams of California.

The 200,000 that have left the State were presented to the United States Fish Commission as a compliment to that body, and were used to stock the streams of Wyoming and South Dakota.

Of the 4,075,000 fry remaining for distribution in this State there were planted in Mendocino County, in the streams tributary to Russian River, 125,000; in Sonoma County, both forks of Austin Creek, Sonoma Creek, Dry Creek, Russian River, 100,000; Marin County, Paper-mill and Lagunitas creeks, 25,000, and 25,000 more are to be planted in the streams of this county; Lake County, Clear and Blue lakes, 25,000, and 25,000 more to be planted; Napa county, Recter and Napa rivers, 50,000; San Mateo, San Gregorio Creek, 25,000; Santa Clara, Uvas, Llagas and other creeks, 50,000, and 50,000 more to be planted; Fresno, San Joaquin and Kings rivers and their tributaries, 150,000; Tulare, Tule and Kings rivers, 50,000; Kern, Kern River, 50,000; Los Angeles, Santa Ana and San Gabriel rivers, 100,000; San Bernardino, Santa Ana River, 50,000; San Diego, San Ysabel River, 50,000; Riverside, Elsinore River, 25,000; Nevada, Donner Lake and Truckee River, 350,000; Sierra, Independence and Webber Lake, 250,000, the last 25,000 having been planted yesterday; Placer, American River and tributaries, 100,000; Tehama, Antelope Creek, 25,000; Colusa, Stoney Creek, 25,000; Siskiyou, McCloud River and Butte Creek, 25,000, and 25,000 more to be planted; Lake Tahoe, 1,500,000; Sacramento River and tributaries, 150,000, and 150,000 more to be planted; Yosemite National Park, Merced River and tributaries, 500,000.

In the matter of replenishing the streams with a most desirable game and food fish science comes to the aid of nature from the time that the fish are ripe until the fry have reached a size of from 1½ to 2 inches. A description of how these 4,000,000 odd trout were obtained and cared for until distributed will give a comprehensive idea of the general process of artificial piscatorial propagation.

All the eggs from which these fish were hatched were obtained from Lake Tahoe. The parent fish were caught at the mouths of Taylor and Blackwood creeks, seines being used at the former and traps at the latter. The work of capturing them began on the 15th of April and continued until the 20th of June, the period during which the trout leave the lake to run up the creeks to spawn.

As the fish are caught the males and females are separated and placed in different tanks, which are fastened alongside the spawning scow. The ripe females are stripped of their eggs by a light pressure along their sides, and the males are similarly operated upon for the expulsion of their milts. The fertilization of the eggs is then accomplished by mixing the eggs and milts in a pan containing no water. While in the ordinary course of nature but 5 per cent of the eggs are fertilized, by the artificial method the remarkable result is obtained of 98 per cent of the eggs being made productive.

Should a fish prove to be unripe it is put into a special tank and operated upon until the desired result is obtained. Despite the handling that the parent fish are thus made to undergo the loss is but one-half per cent of the total capture.

All the eggs as rapidly as they are fertilized are removed to the hatchery at Tahoe City, where they are placed in wire baskets, the meshes of which are just too small to allow the eggs to drop through into the troughs of running water in which the baskets are submerged. But as soon as the outer shell of the egg breaks, which occurs in from fifty to sixty days, according to the temperature of the water, the embryo fish, which are now known as alveus, drop into the trough. Before the eggs break at all two small black specks—which ultimately become the eyes—appear, and the eggs are then said to be "eyed."

They remain alveus from ten to fifteen days, according to the temperature and then begin to swim. At this stage the term fry is properly applied to them. The fry do not begin to feed until they are eight days old. They are at first given sweet curds and later this food is alternated with raw liver and meat finely ground. At first they show great timidity when the food is placed in the water, but they soon get to learn that any foreign substance placed in their home is for them to feed upon, and they then display a voracious appetite. Distribution begins after the fry are about fifteen days old.

Of the 4,275,000 eggs originally placed in the Tahoe hatchery 2,500,000 were shipped to the Sisson hatchery after they had become eyed. The greatest care is exercised in the transportation of the partly developed eggs, especially designed cases, measuring two feet each way, being used. In these eggs have been successfully shipped to France and to Australia. Each case holds about 120,000 eggs.

The fry are transported in twenty-gallon cans, each holding from 5,000 to 7,000 fish, and during transportation require the constant care of an attendant, whose duty it is to aerate the water by raising a dipperful from each can every seven minutes and allowing it to flow back into the can. In making the trip from Sissons to Fosters, in San Diego county, R. W. Requa, the shipper, was forced to go without sleep for sixty hours in order to properly perform his duties and ensure the arrival of his fish in good condition. On one occasion W. H. Shelby (now superintendent of the Sisson hatchery), in taking a consignment of fry to San Bernardino county was forced to remain awake and active for seventy consecutive hours.

A World's Fly Casting Record.

The Chicago Fly Casting Club held its regular fortnightly medal contests last Saturday afternoon in North Garfield Park, Chicago, and a genuine surprise was sprung on its members by Mr. B. W. Goodsell, who made a world's long-distance fly casting record for an 8½ ounce; 10½ foot rod, 9 foot leader, one fly, of 101 feet. As Mr. Goodsell left last Tuesday night for the triennial conclave of Knights Templar at Boston, he was allowed three re-entries, scoring respectively 95, 100 and 95 feet. The casting was remarkable, in that Mr. Goodsell was standing on the shore, a lawn stretching back of him in the grass of which his fly would have certainly caught had it touched the ground on the back cast. The world's long distance by casting record, for any weight rod, is 1302½ feet, which was made by R. C. Leonard at Central Park, New York, several years ago, but he used a heavier and longer rod, and the casting was done from a raised platform.

The Chicago Fly Casting Club now holds two world's records, viz., single-handed long distance fly casting, 8½ ounce, 10½ foot rod, 9 foot leader, one fly, standing on shore, 101 feet, made by Mr. B. W. Goodsell, Saturday, August 17, 1895, at Garfield Park; and single handed distance and accuracy bait casting, half ounce weight, court 30x200 feet, 167 15 feet, average of five casts, made by Secretary F. B. Davidson, Saturday, August 23, 1894, at Garfield Park.

The attendance of members and visitors was large, among the interested spectators being several from St. Louis, Mo., Lafayette, Ind., Cincinnati, O., and Milwaukee, Wis. Dr. E.—of Lafayette was on his way to Colorado, where he is going for trout, and he stopped over purposely to see and learn how to cast a fly. He was kindly taken in hand by the members, who loaned him a rod, and, after watching the contests for a while, he went to one end of the lagoon and was soon putting his fly where he wanted it and in approved manner, and when he left he was profuse in his thanks for the attention shown him and he declared that the experience of that afternoon would make his trouting trip enjoyable, he not knowing beforehand how to cast a fly properly; and thus the good work of the Chicago Fly Casting Club goes on. Applications were received for four new members, and the club is stronger and more enthusiastic than ever. President Strell has devised a floating target for bait casting in the water, and during October, after the regular season's contests are over, it will be put to practical use, and bait casting on the lawn will be dispensed with.

Following are the scores in the different events:

Distance and Accuracy Fly Casting: C. T. Essig, 96 2-3 per cent, winning medal; J. M. Clark 94 1-3 per cent, B. W. Goodsell 94 1-3 per cent, C. A. Lippincott 94 2-3 per cent, G. W. Strell 83 2-3 per cent, F. B. Davidson 87 1-3 per cent, F. N. Peet 88 per cent.

Dry Fly Casting: F. B. Davidson 97 2-3 per cent, winning medal; C. T. Essig 95 per cent, B. W. Goodsell 92 1-3 per cent, G. W. Strell 90 2-2 per cent, J. M. Clark, 86 1-3 per cent, F. N. Peet, 88 per cent, C. A. Lippincott 83 2-3 per cent.

Long Distance Fly Casting: B. W. Goodsell 101 feet, re-entries 95, 100 and 95 feet; C. T. Essig 85 feet, F. N. Peet 72 feet, F. B. Davidson 71 feet, J. M. Clark 67 feet, G. W. Strell 65 feet, C. A. Lippincott 65 feet.

Bait casting, distance and accuracy medal was won by F. N. Peet with an average of 99 feet, five casts.—American Field.

Mr. La Forg caught an 8-pound rainbow trout at Boca on Wednesday last. This is said to be the largest trout ever caught in the Truckee at that point. H. E. Skinner, of E. T. Allen Co., received a trout of nearly that weight on Thursday from Jas. McDonald, the hotelkeeper at Boca, and we imagine that this was the same fish. It was a beauty and arrived in fine condition. J. H. Sammi also received a nice box of trout from the same source by the same train.

W. J. Golcher, Ed Bosqui, M. C. Allen and H. H. White returned from the Van Dusen on Monday. They report most excellent sport. They caught great numbers of trout of medium size, but the big fellows took flies, leaders and line, and left for parts unknown. Bosqui and Golcher took a two days' tramp by themselves and killed four deer, two five-point bucks and two small ones.

M. J. Geary and Donald McCrae returned from Boca on Monday. They caught their share of trout, but report but fair success with the fly. The spoon accounted for most of the big fish.

Clabrough, Golcher & Co. have issued a new catalogue of their guns, ammunition and sporting goods. It is very neatly printed and contains descriptions and prices of about every thing that the sportsman ever conceived of.

E. T. Allen received a nice box of trout from E. Hoyt the first of the week. They were caught at Lake Tahoe.

The run of salmon in the Sacramento river this season is unusually heavy.

Grilse and striped bass are being caught in great numbers at Pescadero.

The New Track In Mexico.

Mr. S. B. Whitehead has just returned from a trip to the City of Mexico and reports that the outlook for a first-class race meeting in the Mexican capital is excellent. Colonel R. C. Pate, who is well known in California and among the racing fraternity throughout the United States, has nearly completed his new track and expects to have it open about October 1st. It is located within twenty minutes' ride from the center of the city, and is accessible by street car lines which pass the gates. The buildings erected are modern, substantial and handsome, and the track is first-class in every respect.

The reason the Colonel was not more fortunate in his other venture was on account of his track being located so far from the city, it taking too long to drive to it or to reach it by the car lines. That his new venture will be a success is assured, as he has the hearty support and co-operation of the best citizens and those interested in racing; much enthusiasm being expressed over the prospects of having a first-class race meeting in Mexico. The Colonel has been promised high-class horses from all over the United States, and the prospects are excellent that many good stables of race horses will spend the winter in that salubrious climate. In case the attendance warrants it, it is his intention to light the track with electricity and have racing in the evening; the nights in that country being warm and the weather delightful throughout the year. Col. Pate, during his stay in Mexico, has made himself very popular and will have the support of the influential citizens and officials, all of whom will aid him in making his meeting a success in every particular. He is a liberal-minded man and it is his intention to give generous purses, and run his meeting on the "broad-gauge" principle. The residents of the City of Mexico are a sport-loving people, and its vast floating population is composed of wealthy visitors from all parts of the world, and the Colonel's race track is sure to receive the support in the way of attendance that it deserves.

Mr. Whitehead says that business appears to be good in Mexico, that the people have plenty of money and plenty of leisure in which to spend it. He is very much pleased with his trip, and thinks that the City of Mexico may become a great market for our thoroughbred horses and one of the racing centers of the world. He is negotiating with Col. Pate to secure the betting privilege for the meeting.

The Buffalo Meeting.

The races are over and the army of campaigners have folded their tents and moved onward. The entertainment from a racing standpoint was up to the blue, but the attendance was far below expectations. It was argued in legislative halls all winter: "Do away with the pool-box element and society will turn out at the races—people who are church inclined but love outdoor sport." Where were they the past two weeks? Hunting for passes or waiting for ladies' day! This is the truth. While there was speculation, it was meagre and the association reaped no benefits from privileges. The betting ring and quarterstretch were practically vacant. People flocked into the grand-stand and sat there. They would not come down to buy a winner or a drink of lemonade! There was no enthusiasm over the finishes, grand as were many. The special attractions were varied and good. We had Corbett and Fitzsimmons the last two days and they captured the folks. Nobody will claim either to be any better, morally, than a pool-seller, still people loudest in their condemnation of the latter last winter occupied front seats to see the former spar with their partners for fun and punch the sandbags. Consistency, thou art a jewel! The Messrs. Hamlin did not declare the meeting off because their locker was not satisfactorily filled, but carried out the entertainment to the letter to satisfy the public. Did the public appreciate it? The experiment has been tried faithfully and the handwriting on the wall reads: "Impossible to conduct a meeting successfully without pool-selling." It cannot be done. The mayor of a city who comes out boldly for an association in this State and says, in the language of the Dallas, Tex., king-pin: "Everything goes within bounds of reason," will strike the sympathetic cord of public opinion and stand a rattling good chance for being the next President of the so-called Laud of the Free.—Horse Review.

Name Your Horse in Time.

Horses must be named in the nomination purses for the trotting meeting of the California Jockey Club not later than Monday, September 2d—the 1st falls on Sunday. Those who made entries should bear in mind the fact that they are liable whether they name a horse or not, and in case the horse they intended to name is not eligible through having made a faster record, they should either dispose of their entry to some one who has a horse that is eligible or secure another horse. Those who failed to make entries should put in an application to purchase one and name their horses with application within the time specified.

IRAN ALTO, a bay colt by Palo Alto out of Elaine, 2:20, by Messenger Duroc, got a record of 2:29½ at Woodland on Tuesday last. Iran Alto is a brother to Palatine, 2:18, and is owned by the Vendome Stock Farm, San Jose, Cal.

ENTRIES to the Hollister races close next Monday, September 2d. See advertisement.

JAMES L., a winner at the Blue Ribbon meeting at Detroit, is by that sire of extreme speed, Dexter Prince. Two or three years ago it was 100 to 1 that he would never contest on the grand circuit. He was bred by Senator Langford, near Stockton, and in some respects is a record breaker. At a meeting held at Lodi one day James L. won a quarter of a mile running race in 0:27, and later in the day captured a trotting race, taking a record of 2:36. Tom Keating purchased James L. for a mere song, and afterward presented him to Al Smith, his foreman. Smith tried to start him a butcher's race at the Bay District track, but the judges threw out his entry, and James L. was afterward called "the butcher" horse. He was taken on the Montana circuit, but became sick and was sent back to Holly's to recuperate. He was quiet and gentle, and was frequently driven to Vallejo and back by Miss Lena Holly. The following year James L. was again taken to Montana, and won no less than nine straight races, and was then sold to an Eastern owner for $1,000. He is one of the stars on the grand circuit this year.

FRANK B. FOGG, of Nashville, Tenn., owner of the Melrose Stock Farm, which adjoins Belle Meade, is sojourning in this city. He is the owner of Thors, one of the choicest horses bred by L. J. Rose, being by Alcazar, out of Lady Mackey, by Silverthreads.

GUY KOHL JR., by Guy Kohl, he by Guy Wilkes, out of Mamie Kohl, by Steinway, took a record of 2:23 at Glens Falls, N. Y. As the other heats were about nine seconds slower, the 2:23 looks queer in the summary.

SPECIFIC FOR

Cracked Heels and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Root Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a CALLUS, and will always remove a Callus when caused from a wound.

It removes all Sores with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable. The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callous remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KIAMATH, 2:08 1/4, says: "I have been trying to cure Kiamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and I am the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are uneasy and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

A splendid pair of roadsters, one of the finest buggy teams in the city, is offered for sale. They are well-bred, fast, stylish, and perfectly gentle—safe for a lady to drive. In breeding they cannot be excelled, being of the most fashionable strains. Any gentleman wanting a fast team will find a bargain in this pair of trotting mares. They are only four years old, and, being untrained, will continue to develop speed by careful handling. They are slightly below medium size, but of strong conformation and perfectly sound. This team may be seen at the Dexter Prince Stable, 1509 Grove street, near Baker. They will be sold at a low price.

ALSO FOR SALE

Fast Roadsters, Race and Business Horses

BRED AT THE
NAPA STOCK FARM,

Napa, Cal. By purchasing directly from the breeder one ensures getting sound and serviceable animals at lowest prices. Colts and fillies are offered for sale by that great young sire, PILOT PRINCE; also by Dexter Prince, Sidney, Victor, 2:22, Grandissimo, 2:23 1/2, George Washington, 2:16, El Beuton, 2:23; Dou Mervin, 2:22, etc. These have all been bred at the Napa Stock Farm and are out of first-class mares.

Promising colts of tried speed lines will be supplied to trainers at very low prices. A large number now ready for track work are offered for sale.

Broodmares are also offered for sale by Woodnut, 2:16, Dawn, 2:18 1/2, Grandissimo, 2:23 1/2, Dexter Prince, Hawthorne, Arthurton, Nanbuc, etc.

A feature is also made of supplying good heavy and business horses for city use.

All stock guaranteed sound and as represented. Having been raised on the upland pastures of the Napa Stock Farm they have the best of feet and legs and will therefore stand hard work. All stock sold from this farm has given the best of satisfaction. Bargains are offered to all desiring to purchase good stock of any kind.

If you wish to purchase horses of any kind, write for information. Full particulars may be had regarding the above by calling at Heald's Business College, or by addressing

R. P. HEALD,

24 Post Street, San Francisco.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—

FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.

SECOND It will not cause headache.

THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton.

FOURTH It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.

FIFTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.

SIXTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.

SEVENTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.

EIGHTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.

NINTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.

TENTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

First--It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.

Second--It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.

Third--It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.

Fourth--It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.

Fifth--Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.

Sixth--Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.

Seventh--This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.

Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

Training The Trotting Horse.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed, superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm. Mailed postpaid for $3.50. Address

SUBSCRIPTION

THE STATE FAIR.

Opened Under the Most Auspicious Circumstances—Birdroe Wins in Fast Time—La Belle Captures the Occident Stake—John Bury Victorious—All the Events Closely Detailed.

FIRST DAY—MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 2D.

The magic wand of progress has touched the city of Sacramento, and the awakening from the long sleep which this city has enjoyed, has been such a pronounced one that the idea of ever seeing it lapse into a doze is absurd. The agitation about moving the capital to San Jose a few years ago has acted with as much efficacy on the people here as a dose of that famous oxygen gas has on the tired horses in the East; with this difference, however—the effects of its influence will last longer. On every street, improvements are noticeable, buildings are being erected to accommodate the people, and here is not a desirable residence in town vacant. Miles upon miles of electric wires are being placed in position along the principal thoroughfares, and railroads are branching out in every direction. Merchants and business men are vying with each other in adorning their places of business, and the general report of "business is improving" is more than satisfactory to visitors.

The long-talked of annual meeting of the State Agricultural Society commenced to day, and the expressions of pleasurable surprise heard on all sides from those who visited the race track to-day must have been most gratifying to the president and board of directors of this association. The hideous pagoda-like structure called the judges' stand, which has been so often referred to in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN for the past four years, has been taken away, cut down and placed close to the first turn, where it is now used as a music stand for an excellent band of musicians which has been specially engaged for this meeting. In place of this old-time joss-house a neat little stand just built for three persons occupy its site. Directly opposite it and in front of the grand stand is a neat judges' stand modeled somewhat after the style of the one at the Bay District track, but on a smaller scale.

The betting ring has been increased in size and a neat iron railing encloses it. All these improvements have been painted in gaudy carnal colors, yellow, red and green. The fences surrounding the track have all been whitened, and the old fence which was directly opposite the grand stand has been removed and a neat and substantial one substituted for it. Every place one goes changes and improvements are noticeable. The saddling paddock is also an innovation which meets the approval of the horsemen, and Director Terry deserves great credit for the way he has everything arranged.

The stock exhibit is superior to any ever seen at this place, not only in the line of cattle, sheep and swine, but in the excellence of the horses of every breed.

The track itself was never better, and all the horsemen say it is fast.

The attendance for an opening day was fair. The day was delightfully pleasant, the air is clear with a cool breeze from the South, just strong enough to cause the leaves to rustle and keep the flags clear of the staffs which were in position on the tops of all the buildings.

The bookmakers in charge of Geo. Rose were not kept very busy to-day. They were getting in practice for the work before them during the last three days of the week. The introduction of this system of betting had a fascination for the people of Sacramento, and very few auction pools were sold.

The races this afternoon were one-sided, and very little money changed hands on the result. The starts in the large fields were poor, and were not as good as those seen at any previous meeting on the circuit. They will be better when the judges get used to their change of base of operations. The judges were: Directors Wilson, Chase and DeLong. Timers: Messrs. Lowell, Falk and Agnew.

The opening event of the meeting was the trotting race for the Occident Stake, value $2,400. There were five starters—Iran Alto, Nordica, Silver Ring, Our Seth and La Belle. Very few pools were sold at $20 on La Belle against $4 on the field, as it was conceded that La Belle was an air-tight cinch. When the judges sent off the field Iran Alto took the lead. Nordica was tip-toeing and went off her stride. La Belle passed Iran Alto at the eighth and then led with the greatest of ease to the wire in 2:20½, three lengths in front of Iran Alto, Silver Ring was third, Nordica fourth, Our Seth last. Distance was waived.

Before the second heat La Belle was harried in the betting. The books posted up 7 to 10 on Iran Alto, Silver Ring 4 to 5. La Belle took the lead and had no trouble in keeping it to the wire. It was a procession for all of them. Iran Alto made a break in the homestretch but Silver Ring could not gain anything by it, for Iran Alto recovered his stride and was six lengths behind La Belle, who jogged under the wire in 2:19½. Silver Ring was third, Nordica fourth and Our Seth last.

Nordica was withdrawn in the next heat. La Belle won in the hollowest kind of style in 2:20½, Iran Alto was second, Silver Ring third and Our Seth last.

The winner is a beautiful chestnut filly, sired by Sidney, 2:19½, out of Anna Belle, by Dawn. She is owned by M. S. Severance, of Los Angeles, and in 1894 (as a two-year-old) earned the Pacific Coast record as a trotter of that age. This is her first appearance this year, and if compelled to would have got a record of 2:12. Thos. Keating, who drove her in this race, says: "She has gone much faster in her work-outs." She is one of the smoothest gaited and finest-finished fillies in California, and as a four-year-old, if nothing happens, will be one of the fastest mares ever bred in California. Her share of the purse she won for her owner is $1,440, and the cup is worth $400 more.

The second race was for the 2:25 class pacers. A field of fourteen faced Judge Wilson and the following were the names and the prices against them for the race in the heats: Ruby M. 7 to 10, Dictatus 3 to 1, Little Alph 20, Dan N. 75, Prince C. 25, Trifle 25, Pansy 25, Birdroe 8, Babe Marion 25, Alco 20, Welcome 20, Lynette 20, Senator 20. The start was a very straggling one, Dictatus being ten lengths behind the leaders. The horses scattered all over the first turn. Out of the stragglers there were three that took the lead, Dan N., Birdroe and Ruby M. These opened a gap of five lengths behind them and kept together down the backstretch. Pansy was seen to pass by those in front of her, and from the ninth position passed up to the fourth place. As they entered the stretch Ruby M. broke and Birdroe paced to the front, Dan N. was second and the game little Pansy came up third on the inside. Birdroe jogged in under the wire in a walk in 2:14½, Dan N. was second; the rest jogged in in one, two, three order.

In the second heat Birdroe and Dan N. took the lead, Dictatus was third, Ruby M. fourth, the rest were straggled along the backstretch. Interest in the heat centered in the leaders. Dictatus passed Dan N. going to the half and was a good second as the homestretch was reached. Ruby M. came up fast and was at his side as they turned for the wire. The race home was exciting for all but the leader, Birdroe, who jogged in an easy winner in 2:12½. Dictatus was third, behind Ruby M., who broke at the distance pole and almost ran in. Pansy was fourth, Babe Marion fifth, the balance getting inside the wire with the exception of Welcome and Trifle, who were shut out.

In the books: Dictatus 4, Dan N. 20, Babe Marion 20, Alco 50, Ruby M. 2, Lynette 50. Birdroe, Ruby M. and Dictatus led and the rest were in a procession behind them. The result of this heat was never in doubt, for the game little mare paced in an easy winner in 2:15, Ruby M. second with Dictatus striving hard for place, but the former was steady and had a little the advantage, so she came in second.

Birdroe was bred in Illinois. She is by Mark Monroe, and when jogging appears lame, but when going she is the fastest one with that gait ever seen in California. She belongs in Santa Ana, near the home of Silkwood, Klamath, Ketchum and Orinda Richmond.

In the third race, a trotting event for the 2:22 class, there were five entries: John Bury, Maud H., Hera, Bijou and Stella. In the betting John Bury sold for $20, field $11. When the horses were sent off John Bury played the part of drum major and led from start to finish. The struggle for place between Bijou and Stella was interesting, but the former got in second, a head in front of Stella, Hera fourth, Maud H. last. Time, 2:21½.

John Bury came out lame, and odds in the bookies' quarters dropped from 15 to 1 to 3 to 1. His lameness disappeared as he started away in front and the battle for place rested entirely between the three. Maud H. broke repeatedly all the way round. Bijou also made several skips, so the judges after deliberation awarded the positions as follows: John Bury first, Hera second, Bijou third, Maud H. fourth and Stella fifth. Time, 2:18½.

John Bury won the last heat in 2:21½. Stella was second, Bijou third, Hera fourth and Maud H. last.

John Bury is a large, handsome bay gelding belonging to the Vendome Stock Farm. He was sired by Antinous out of Muldoon, dam of J. Gordon's C. W. S., 2:19, and in this race lowered his record.

SECOND DAY—TUESDAY, SEPT. 3.

The city is rapidly filling with visitors and the great fair is gradually running along more smoothly. Secretary Edwin F. Smith and his assistant, L. C. Ferguson, thoroughly understand the requirements of this office and are busily engaged for twenty out of twenty-four hours attending to all its little details. The cattle and stock of all kinds are filling the vacant stalls at the track, while the display in the pavilion is as fine as any ever seen in this city. Everyone, however, is anxiously looking forward to the great display to be seen here on Admission Day and the signs "Rooms to Let" have been removed from many a dwelling during the past two days. Great preparations are being made for the christening of New Sacramento, and thousands will welcome with pleasure the position this city will assume as the foremost electrical city of the world. If Edison could only be here his cup of joy would overflow and the splendor of the scenes prepared would dazzle even this wizard of the nineteenth century.

The attendance to-day was a little improvement on that of yesterday. The extra charge of fifty cents to enter the betting is the cause of much complaint among horsemen and their friends. Bookmaker Geo. Rose is not doing a land office business; he and his clerks are busy getting a line on the trotters without having many people purchase tickets on the contestants. Everyone is waiting for the running events and in the down-town pool rooms where books are made on the Eastern races, large crowds of people are backing their opinions with as much zeal as they do at the Bay District track.

The programme this afternoon was a light one. The stake for two year-olds, 2:40 class only, had two contestants, A. C. Severance's Don Roberto and Palo Alto Stock Farm's Palita. The latter won the first heat after making a break near the first quarter. Time, 2:21. The second heat was made in 2:20½. The first half was made in 1:08½.

The second event was for the 2:25 class trotters. There were eight entries: Rex Gifford, Letter B., Mojave, Dr. Puff, Oliver C., Lady Thornhill, Ethel Downes and Native State.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FOURTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 28.

HERE was some excellent racing at the old track to-day, and neither the pencilers nor the talent had much to crow over at the end of day's play, for three favorites, a second choice and two long shots took the races into camp. The surprises came in the two last events, won by 12 and 10 to 1 shots respectively. One of them, Mt. Air, was played from 12 down to 7 and 8 to 1, hundreds of dollars going in at these figures. We stated in yesterday's edition that we did not think any desperate effort was made to win any part of the money with this fellow on Tuesday in the race won by Installer, and his easy victory over an excellent field this afternoon proves the correctness of our stand on the proposition.

Cheripe, another one that has been running very poorly, was played down from 2½ to 1 to 8 to 5 this afternoon, and won rather easily.

Gratify beat a good field of youngsters, in which Charley Boots was a warm favorite. The latter got away last, and hemmed in completely, could not get through in time to secure any part of the money. As Gratify ran the distance in the phenomenal time (for a two-year-old) of 1:00½ for five furlongs, it cannot be determined whether Charley Boots could have beaten this or not. Benham was a good second with his light weight up.

Red Dick, a sizzling first choice, off first to a ragged start, won rather easily by two lengths in the second race. Soon Enough and Warrago fared badly at the post, and considering the amount of ground they made up, it is fair to assume that both might have beaten the favorite with an even break.

Sport McAllister beat Fly half a length driving in 1:00½, after the latter had opened up a four-length gap going to the homestretch. As the last-named has been sick and was not up to a bruising race, it is no wise certain that he cannot run close to 1:00 flat, strong and well.

Mt. Air led all the way in the fifth, winning easily by three lengths from McFarlane, who just beat Roma. Mt. Air's race to-day was in marked contrast to the one of yesterday. They go faster sometimes when the odds are juicy and the money's on.

Monarch, a 10 to 1 shot, led all the way in the last race and won by a head from Normandie who just best O'Bee. Chevalier and Hinrichs rode two winners apiece, Coady and E. Jones one.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was at half a mile, for maiden two-year-olds. Cheripe went to the post a favorite, being played down from 2½ to 1 to 9 to 5. Ollie M. opened at 3 to 2 and closed at 2 to 1. Von Dunk, Isabelle, Lady Gray and Cyrene were at 10 to 1 (latter backed from 15), Phyllis 12, imp. Endymion 30 and Suwarrow-Jonglouse filly 100 to 1. They broke to an excellent start, Ollie M. first, Cheripe second, Endymion third, Lady Gray fourth, Von Dunk fifth, Cyrene sixth, Phyllis seventh, Suwarrow-Jonglouse eighth. Cheripe gained steadily coming down the homestretch, and headed Ollie M. about a sixteenth from home. The latter came again under the whip, but Hinrichs let Cheripe have his head and he won by that member, Isabelle third, three lengths away. Time, 0:49½.

The second race was at five furlongs, selling. Red Dick was a red hot favorite, opening at even money and closing at 4 to 5. Rey Alta opened at 5, was backed to 13 to 5, closed at 4½ to 1. Warrago was at 7, Model 8 (opened at 5), Durango and Arno 20. Soon Enough 25 to 1. They were off to a poor start, Red Dick first, Model second, Rey Alta third. Red Dick led past the half by three lengths, Model second, one from Rey Alta. Into the homestretch it was Red Dick first by four lengths, Rey Alta second by a length, Model third, two from Soon Enough, who had come from the extreme rear. He gained fast in the homestretch, but Red Dick won easily by two lengths, Warrago making a strong finish and beating Soon Enough a neck for the place. Time, 1:01½. With a good start the chances are that either Warrago or Soon Enough would have won the race.

A handicap for two-year-olds came next. Charley Boots was a pretty well-played favorite, opening at 6 to 5, going back to 2 to 1, closing at 8 to 5. Gratify was at 2 to 1, Benham 3 (backed down from 6), Tiberius 6, Cardwell 40 and Miss Brummel 50 to 1. They got away to a fair start for all but the favorite, who was last and hemmed so that he could not get through Benham, Gratify, Cardwell was the starting order. Benham led by a head past the half, Gratify second, a length from Miss Brummel. Gratify pulled away from Benham in the next furlong and led turning for home by two lengths, Benham second, three from Miss Brummel. Gratify was not headed, and won handily by one and a half lengths from Benham in the remarkable time of 1:00½, Miss Brummel, who beat Tiberius a neck for the show.

Sport McAllister was a red-hot favorite, being backed from 7 to 5 down to 9 to 10, a little even money being securable at the close. Realization was at 3 (backed from 3½), Fly 5, Silver State 8, Gold Bug and Howard 30, Greuback Jr. 40 to 1. They were sent away to a superb start, Fly showing first, Sport McAllister second, Realization third. At the half Fly was two and a half lengths in front of Sport McAllister, Realization one and a half lengths further away. Fly led into the homestretch by over three lengths, Sport four from Realization. McAllister steadily gained on Fly, who, tiring near the finish, was beaten half a length driving, Fly second, three lengths before Realization. Time, 1:00½.

The fifth race was at seven furlongs, a handicap. McLight went to the post an 8 to 5 favorite, Flirtilla at 3 to 1, McFarlane and Roma 6 to 1, Mt. Air 8 (backed from 12), Tillie 8, 20 to 1. They got away to a good start, and Mt. Air at once took the lead, followed by McFarlane and Flirtilla. At the quarter and half Mt. Air was first by a length, McFarlane second, over a length before Flirtilla. On the far turn Coady sent Mt. Air along, and he increased his lead to two lengths, by which distance he led turning for home, McFarlane second, over a length from Roma, who was now moving up fast. The pair crawled up on Mt. Air, who drew away when given his head in the last sixteenth and won easily by three lengths, McFarlane just beating Roma a head for the place. Time, 1:27½.

The last race was at five furlongs, selling. Duchess of Milpitas was a red-hot favorite, for some unknown reason, her best closing price being 3 to 2. Normandie and Schnitz were at 4 to 1, Johnny Capron 6 (8 at one time), O'Bee 8, Monarch 10, Mt. Carlos 30, Lodi 40 and Fin Slaughter 160 to 1. They broke to a good start, Monarch at once dashing into the lead, followed by Mt. Carlos. At the half Monarch was leading by a scant length, Mt. Carlos second, one and a half lengths before a bunch. It was about the same into the homestretch, O'Bee coming fast on the outside. Monarch kept pegging away, Mt. Carlos dropping out about a sixteenth from home, Normandie and O'Bee moving up. Monarch lasted long enough to win by a good head from Normandie, with O'Bee another neck away, third. Time, 1:02½.

TWO-HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIFTH DAY—THURSDAY, AUGUST 29.

There was excitement galore this afternoon at the old race course, and it was not altogether over the finishes of the various races. It was after the finish that the principal thrill came. Another selling race war was inaugurated. Ollie Johnson, owner of Mendocino, started "de wah," and General B. C. Holly followed up the preliminary skirmish with a heavy cannonading that had the effect of flattening the pocket books of three owners of selling platers and causing a bad scare in the ranks of horse-owners, for be it known that the Flosden turfman declares he will run up every winner of a selling race that he thinks is worth more than the sum at which it is entered. Mr. Holly had his old cripple, El Rayo, entered at $100, and after he won in a gallop Ollie Johnson ran him up to $500, and secured the horse at that figure. There were three more selling races on the programme, and Mr. Holly ran up Mainstay $300 and Ivy $300, the owners keeping them for an additional $5 bid. The concluding race was captured by the Flosden horseman's mare, M. v McCarthy, and a big crowd gathered around to see her run up. This was done to the extent of $350, Mr. Holly retaining her. As half the run-up money went to the California Jockey Club, those folks benefited to the extent of $680. Doubtless the gentlemen interested in the jockey club look upon the war as a merry one—for them.

El Rayo, backed from even money to 2 to 5, led all the way in the first race, and won easily by two lengths from Bob Tucker, who finished about three parts of a length before Mendocino. Chevalier made no sort of a showing on the latter at the finish, otherwise Mendocino would have secured the place.

Mainstay, who went back in the betting from 2½ to 5 to 1, got away third in the second race, went right to the front, and leading by four lengths into the homestretch, tired somewhat at the finish and won by two and a half lengths in 1:14½, Sligo (the real good thing) second, one and a half lengths before Ledalia. Frank Van Ness had the sympathy of nearly everyone when the colt was run up, as the Elkton Stables man's luck has been anything but good of late.

Bloomsbury ran head and head with Installer for about a quarter of a mile, then drew away and easily beat him out a length, with Sir Richard at the heels of the beaten favorite.

Imp. Ivy, a 4 to 1 shot, who led nearly all of the way in the fourth event, fell back about a sixteenth from home, then came again with a rush and won cleverly by a neck from Venus, the favorite, who stumbled at the head of the homestretch. Rose Clark is capable of running a better race than she did this afternoon, for she has shown it on several previous occasions.

May McCarthy, favorite in the last race, raced head and head with Silver for over half a mile, then came away and won easily by two lengths from Sir Walter, who beat Uncle Giles about a length for place.

Hinrichs rode three of the five winners this afternoon in fine shape, E. Jones and Reidy piloting the other two.

How the Races Were Run.

El Rayo was made a red-hot favorite in the first, opening at even money and closing at 1 to 3. Mendocino and Bob Tucker were at 8 to 1 each, the latter played by far the heaviest for place. Lady Splendor was at 20 to 1, San Lucas, De la Guerra and Dr. Gardner at 50 to 1, Huguenot 100, Drucilla 200 and Triumph 300 to 1. They broke to a good start, El Rayo, on the rail, at once going to the front, with Bob Tucker second. At the half El Rayo led by half a length, Bob Tucker second, three lengths from Dr. Gardner. The order was the same going to the homestretch, except that the favorite was leading by a length. Mendocino gained steadily in the homestretch, but Chevalier quit riding the horse forty yards of the finish. El Rayo won easily by two lengths, Bob Tucker staggering in second, three parts of a length before Mendocino, who could, with urging, have gotten the place a length or more. Time, 1:08½. The winner was run up to $500 by Ollie Johnson, who secured the horse.

The second race was at six furlongs, selling. Sligo was a rip-roaring favorite, opening at 4 to 1 and closing at 8 to 5 under a heavy play. Ricardo was at 4 to 1, Ike L. and Mainstay 4½, Normandie 7, Ledalia 12, Rayo and Kathleen 100 to 1. They broke to a fair start, Sligo first, Ledalia second, Mainstay third. Mainstay led past the half by four lengths, Sligo second, three from Ledalia. The order was the same clear into the homestretch, Sligo being under the whip. Mainstay won, though none too easily, by two and a half lengths, Sligo second, one and a half lengths before Ledalia. Time, 1:14½. The winner was run up $300 over his entered selling price by B. C. Holly, Mr. Van Ness retaining him.

The third event was at five and a half furlongs, weights ten pounds below the scale. Installer was the favorite at 1 to 2, Bloomsbury 2½ (backed from 16 to 5), Sir Richard 5 to 1. They broke to a good start, Installer, Bloomsbury and Sir Richard necks apart as named. Bloomsbury led by a short head past the half, Installer two and a half lengths before Sir Richard. The pair in front ran head and head for nearly another furlong, then Bloomsbury drew away at a great pace, leading by two lengths as they turned for home, Installer as far from Sir Richard. Chevalier went to the bat on Installer an eighth of a mile from home, and Bloomsbury went on to an easy length victory, Installer, second, driving hard, a length before Sir Richard. Time, 1:07½. Chevalier claimed a foul, in that he was cut off by Bloomsbury, but the judges dismissed the ridiculous claim in a hurry.

The fourth was a selling race, six furlongs. Venus was made a sizzling favorite, opening at 4 to 1 and closing at 8 to 5. Rose Clark was at 11 to 5 (opened at 3), imp. Ivy 4, Jennie W. 6, Olivia 15, Carmel 20, Greenback Jr. 30, Charmer 60 and Harry Lewis 80 to 1. They broke to a good start, Ivy rushing to the front and leading past the half by a scant length, Venus second, a small margin before Rose Clark, who was on the outside, under a pull. Ivy was first by a neck turning for home, Rose Clark second, half a length before a bunch headed by Venus, who stumbled to her knees when she tried to get through. Rose Clark appeared to have the race won at the seventy-yard pole, but Ivy came again with a rush, accompanied by Venus, and won cleverly by a neck, Venus second, about three parts of a length before Carmel, a head before Rose Clark. Time, 1:15. Johnson, on the latter, was simply out ridden, or the race would have gone to Clark.

A mile selling race wound up the day's sport. May McCarthy was an even-money favorite and well-played. Sir Walter was at 13 to 5, Uncle Giles 3½ to 1, Vernon and Silver 20, Centurion 30 to 1. They got away to a good start, May McCarthy, Silver, Sir Walter the order. Silver led past the quarter by half a length, May McCarthy second, a length from Sir Walter. Silver was a head in front at the half pole, May McCarthy second, Centurion next, a length away. May McCarthy was now sent along, and turning for home showed two lengths in the lead, Silver second, one length from Uncle Giles. McCarthy galloped down the homestretch, and when Uncle Giles got up a little close drew away and won easily by two lengths, Sir Walter coming like a shot at the finish and getting the place, beating Uncle Giles, three parts of a length for it. Time, 1:43. The winner was run up $300 by Ed Rawlins, Mr. Holly retaining her for an extra $500.

TWO-HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SIXTH DAY—FRIDAY, AUGUST 30.

Not even one lonely favorite scrambled home in front this lovely afternoon, and the talent had a weird where-are-we-at look at the conclusion of the day's festivities. First they went down the line one Carrara, then on Red Will and Examiner, then they reasoned that Belle Boyd was a pipe, and played accordingly. Royal Flush was the next "cinch" to go wrong, and finally Fred Gardner was hit upon as a can't-lose-unless-he-falls down. Pockets were flattened with dispatch, and the dull thud of bookmakers's sledges falling on them made the average man's hair stand on end and a shudder to pass over his frame. The selling race battle was not as fierce as on the previous day, but one horse being run up—Gold Bug, the property of a poor man that could ill afford to stand it. A stranger did the "boosting" this time, Mr. Holly refusing to run the old gelding up. Peoples, Coady, L. Lloyd, McIntyre and Chevalier were the successful jockeys this afternoon. Doubtless McIntyre's being up on Rico had much to do with the price laid about the old gelding, 20 and even 25 to 1 for some.

Isabelle led to the homestretch in the first race, then Don Rio Pico came from the rear like a true race horse and won in a hot finish with Cyrene, who made a great rush in the final sixteenth of a mile. Isabelle was third.

Tamalpais, a 150 to 1 shot, set the pace to the homestretch in the second event, then Favory, who had been running second, passed him and won handily by a length from the heavily-played "good thing," Examiner, who had perhaps been working by lantern-light over the Oakland track Johnny Payne was a fair third. Red Will, the favorite, was bumped and jostled in between a couple of horses, or he might have been close to the money.

Gold Bug laid third to Abi P. and Olivia to the homestretch, and then came through to an easy two-length victory. Olivia surprised the natives by beating Abi P. for the place. Gold Bug was played down from 8 to 3½ to 1.

Silver State led in the fourth up to the last sixteenth of a mile, when Royal Flush came through and looked every inch a winner. Old Rico, however, coming with a marvellous burst of speed on the outside, won in the cleverest fashion by half a length, Flush a neck before Vincter, who got away absolutely last and ran the best race of the lot. Rico was as good as 25 to 1 in the betting.

Peter the Second, at 8 to 5, had an easy time of it in the last, running second until three furlongs from home, then coming on without any trouble. Gardner got the place and Malo Diablo the show.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, five furlongs, for maiden two-year-olds, had eight starters. Carrara was made a red-hot favorite, opening at 8 to 5 and closing at 6 to 5. Don Pio Pico was at 11 to 5, Cyrene 4½ to 1, Isabelle 10, Valiente 12, Von Dunk 40, May Jones 80 and Phyllis 150 to 1. They got away to a fair start, Carrara first, Cyrene second, Von Dunk third. Isabelle led past the half-pole by half a length, Valiente second, a head before Von Dunk. Don Pio Pico was about sixth, fully half a dozen lengths behind the leader. He ran on the outside, and mowed down space at a great rate. Isabelle turned into the homestretch two lengths to the good, Carrara second, a length before Von Dunk. Don Pio Pico got on even terms with the leader over a sixteenth from home, and looked an easy winner, but Cyrene came with a rush, and Don Pio Pico, driving hard, just managed to land a winner by the shortest of noses, with Isabelle third, two lengths away. Time, 1:03.

Red Will was a red hot favorite, opening at 3 to 1 and closing at 11 to 5. Favory was at 2½ to 1, Examiner 3 (opened at 4), Detective 5½, Johnny Payne 30, Red Idle 40, Claire 60, Gonzalez Maid and Dela Guerra 100, Tamalpais 300 to 1. They broke to a good start, Tamalpais showing first, Red Will second and Favory third. Tamalpais at once shot to the fore, and led past the half by a length, Red Will second, lapped by Favory. Favory and Tamalpais entered the homestretch on almost even terms, with Examiner a length away, a neck before Red Will, who was in a pocket. Favory came away at the finish and won cleverly by a length, Examiner, coming strong, second, one and a half lengths before Johnny Payne, third. Time, 1:22½.

Belle Boyd was a 6 to 5 favorite in the third race, five and a half furlongs, selling, light welter weights. Gold Bug and Abi P. were at 3½ to 1 (former backed down from 8), Walter J. 8, Josephine 12, Olivia 40, Nabopolassar 60 and Johnny Capron 150 to 1. They broke in two divisions, Josephine, Olivia, Abi P. and Gold Bug in the first. Abi P. led past the half-pole by a head, Olivia second, a neck before Gold Bug. The latter fell back at the three eighths pole, but came again, Abi P. leading into the homestretch by a head, Olivia second, half a length before Gold Bug. Gold Bug drew away when a furlong from the finish, and had Abi P. and Olivia at the hat over a sixteenth of a mile from home. He came on and won with all ease by two lengths, Olivia, in a drive, beating Abi P. three parts of a length for place. Time, 1:08½. The winner was run up $300 by a man named Benson.

In the fourth race, six furlongs, Royal Flush was a warm favorite, closing at 7 to 5. The Elmwood Stock Farm pair (Vincitor and Nebuchadnezzar) were at 3 to 2, Realization 8, Rey Alta 10, Silver State 12 and Rico 20 to 1. They broke to a fair start, Silver State first and Vincitor last. Silver State at once took a lead of a length, and was this to the good passing the half, Nebuchadnezzar and Rey Alta close together following. There was no particular change going to the homestretch, except that Vincitor had passed several of his leaders. Royal Flush passed Silver State in the last sixteenth and appeared to be winning, but old Rico, coming with a rare burst of speed on the outside, fairly flew by the favorite and won by half a length, Royal Flush beating Vincitor for place by a neck. The latter would undoubtedly have won had he gotten away well. Time, 1:14½.

The last race of the day was at a mile, selling. Fred Gardner opened at 3 to 2 and closed at 7 to 5. Peter the Second opened at evens, went back to 2 to 1, closed at 8 to 5. Malo Diablo was at 4 to 1, Jennie W. 6 and Charmer 15 to 1. They broke to a fair start, Jennie W. first, Charmer second and Peter the Second third. Jennie W. set the pace, leading past the quarter by three lengths, Peter the Second next, a head before Charmer. Jennie W.'s lead was cut to one and a half lengths at the half, Peter now leading Charmer a length. Peter the Second headed Jennie W. about three furlongs from home and led by a length turning for home, Jennie W. two lengths before Fred Gardner, who was moving up strongly. Peter the Second took it easy coming down the straight and won by one and a half lengths, Fred Gardner second, about as far from Malo Diablo, who made a strong finish. Time, 1:42½.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY SEVENTH DAY—SATURDAY AUGUST 31.

This, the closing day of the longest race meeting ever held in the country (in all likelihood) will long live in the memory of our race-goers. Seven races were carded, and surprises galore were in store for the talent. The first event was taken by a 50 to 1 shot (75 to 1 for a little), then two favorites won, then a 6 to 1 shot, then a very slight favorite, a third choice and a 15 to 1'er. The last event, seven furlongs, over the inside course, resulted in two sorts of upsets, one being in the finish and the other during the progress of the race, when Monroe Johnson, rider of Alexis, got a nasty fall from the back of the colt, being picked up insensible and bleeding at nose and mouth. Johnson was reported dead and the crowd was horror-stricken. It turned out that he was merely shaken up severely and had a slightly sprained ankle.

Sinbad, a 50 to 1 shot, landed the first race quite cleverly. Yreka set the pace, leading up to the last few yards, when Sinbad, who had taken second place, passed him and won by a neck, Yreka three lengths before Bob Tucker, the favorite. Time, 1:16½.

Fly, off flying to a very poor start, beat Tim Murphy a length, but the last-named would surely have won with anything like an even break. Sligo was a poor third.

Grady won the two-year-old handicap easily, coming from the rear. At the finish he was three lengths to the good, while Tiberius just managed to beat Miss Brummel a head for the place.

Mt. Air, 6 to 1 for all anyone wanted, led from "eend to eend" in the mile and seventy-yard handicap, winning handily by two lengths from Arnette, who beat Fred Gardner three. McLight, the hot favorite, sulked all the way.

Mainstay won the fifth race driving by half a length from Sport McAllister, who should have captured all the money. Lucretia Borgia was third, two lengths away.

Bellringer led all the way in the jump, and won romping by two lengths, J. O. C. second, as far from Carmel.

Johnny Payne, a 15 to 1 shot, won the Colored Derby by two lengths easily, Gold Bug (the warmest favorite seen here in some time), second, a neck before Vernon.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was at six furlongs, selling. Bob Tucker was at 7 to 5, Yreka 13 to 5, Conchita 4½ to 1, Willie Gibson 6, Druscilla 30, Sinbad 50, others 100 to 150 to 1. They broke to a fair start, Yreka first, Druscilla second, Dr. Gardner next. Yreka led by half a length past the half, Bob Tucker next, the others fairly well bunched. Yreka was first by about a length into the homestretch, Sinbad and Bob Tucker close together. Sinbad caught Yreka in the last fifty yards and cleverly beat him out a neck, Yreka three lengths before Bob Tucker. Time, 1:16½.

The second race was at five furlongs, selling. Fly was made a 4 to 5 favorite, backed down from 2 to 1, closed at 9 to 10. Tim Murphy was at 6 to 5, Sligo 12 (backed from 20), Greenback Jr. 40, Gondola 100 and De Groat 200 to 1. They were half an hour at the post, Fly refusing to break and doing a lot of waltzing. Finally the flag fell to a poor start, Fly in front and well under way, Sligo second, Greenback Jr. third. Fly led by three lengths past the half, Sligo second, one and a half from Greenback Jr., who had cut Tim Murphy off. Fly was four lengths to the good turning for home, Tim Murphy and Sligo close together. Tim gained fast in the stretch, but could not catch Fly, who won handily by a length, Murphy second, three lengths before Sligo. Time, 1:01½.

A handicap, about six furlongs, for two-year-olds, had but three starters. The closing prices were: Grady 4 to 5, Tiberius 9 to 5, Miss Brummel 5 to 1. They got away to a fine start, Tiberius and Miss Brummel racing off in front, head and head, past the half, one and one-half lengths before Grady, who was simply galloping. At the final turn Tiberius was a head in front of Miss Brummel, both turning a little wide, Grady coming through against the inner rails like a shot. He had the race won over a sixteenth from home, and coming on strong, won easily by two lengths, Tiberius just heating Miss Brummel a head for the place. Time, 1:13½.

A mile and seventy-yard race, a handicap, came next. McLight was made a tremendous favorite, opening at 8 to 5 and being backed down to 4 to 5. Roma was at 4 to 1, Arnette 5, Mt. Air 6 and Fred Gardner 15 to 1. They broke to a fair start, Mt. Air and Arnette rushing for the lead and the rail. Mt. Air secured it on the first turn and led the little filly one and a half lengths past the quarter, Roma third, two lengths further away. Arnette held her own for the next furlong, then Mt. Air drew away until at the half he was three lengths to the good, Arnette two from Fred Gardner and Roma, head and head. McLight had gone to sulking early in the action. At the three quarter pole Mt. Air was going easy two lengths before the hard-driven Arnette, who in turn was as far from Fred Gardner. Arnette and the others were driven hard, but could not catch Mt. Air, who won handily by two lengths, Arnette being second, three from Fred Gardner. Time, 1:46½—a good run.

A six-furlong race now interested the spectators. There were but three in it, and every one was heavily backed. Mainstay was at 7 to 10, Lucretia Borgia 9 to 5 and Sport McAllister 2 to 1, there being little difference in the odds offered against any of them, it will be noticed. They broke to an excellent start, Lucretia Borgia showing perhaps a neck in front. The trio ran together for about eighty yards, then Mainstay took a slight lead, attended very closely to Sport McAllister. Nearing the half Chevalier took a very stout pull on Sport, whose head was high in the air. He was under restraint until the three-quarter pole was reached, where Mainstay was leading him a length, with Borgia three lengths further away. In the homestretch Sport was given his head, and although he gained somewhat, Mainstay won driving by half a length, Sport McAllister about two lengths before Lucretia Borgia. Time, 1:14—a clever run. It looked as if Sport would have won had he been allowed to run in front, or at least with Mainstay.

The sixth race was at a mile and a quarter over five hurdles, a handicap. Bellringer and Carmel, trained by Frank Taylor, were coupled in the betting, the closing price being 7 to 5. J. O. C. opened at 8 to 5 and closed at 7 to 5, being well played. Gold Dust was at 13 to 5, Haymarket 12 to 1 and Ontario 30 to 1. The order to a good start was Bellringer, J. O. C., Gold Dust. The race is easily described. Bellringer led from flag-fall to finish and won romping by one and a half lengths from J. O. C., who was cut loose in the last half and ridden hard, but to no purpose, he losing a little at each jump, Bellringer racing at them and going cleanly. Carmel, who finished third, gave his backers quite a thrill by running up from the rear very fast when he had gone about three furlongs. He fell back again at the half-mile jump, however, and gave his friends no more encouragement. The time was 2:18½.

The last race, seven furlongs over the hill course, was termed the "Colored Derby," but just why is not apparent, as a Derby distance is one and a half miles the world over, and for three-year-old colts and fillies. The band played "A New Coon in Town" at the point where the horses enter the track, and there was heaps of prancing by the fiery, untamed, unused to such demonstrations. Then the musicians marched down the track and halted in front of the judges' stand, where they discoursed a medley of "coon" airs and wound up with "Dixie." Gold Bug waltzed and Huguenot was well-nigh frightened to death. Gold Bug was backed down from 7 to 1 to even money, it being hinted that the riders of the other horses had no idea of beating the solid little chestnut. Abi P. was at 3½ to 1, Charmer 4, Alexis 8, Johnny Payne and Vernon 10 (former 15 at one time), San Lucas 15 and Relampago 20 to 1. They got away to a good start, Alexis first, Vernon second, Gold Bug third. Vernon ran into the lead on the first turn, Alexis and Gold Bug being close together. Near the half-mile mark Gold Bug got cut off, falling back fourth. Johnny Payne, eighth away, had steadily improved his position, and was first by a length at this point, Vernon second, lapped by Abi P., who was under a terrific pull. Gold Bug regained some of the lost ground going up the first hill and into the hollow, Johnny Payne leading by a length easily, however. On the crest of the hill, just before going into the hollow, Monroe Johnson, on Alexis, riding close to the inner rail, was cut off suddenly, the horse stumbled, his rider being thrown a considerable distance and lying motionless in the enclosure. Johnny Payne was not headed, and won easily by one and a half lengths, Gold Bug beating Vernon a neck for place and Abi P. finishing fourth, another half length away. Time, 1:35½. The association's hack went on a dead run to pick up the unfortunate Johnson, who was found insensible and bleeding at nose and mouth. Someone in the hack reported that "Mon" was undoubtedly dead, and it immediately became noised about. It proved to be incorrect, happily, for Johnson was "brought to" in about five minutes and outside of a slightly sprained ankle was little the worse for wear.

The Coming Sale of Palo Alto Thoroughbreds.

Palo Alto Stock Farm will offer at public auction about November 1st its entire crop of thoroughbred yearlings, foals of 1894. They will be sold by Killip & Co. at their salesyard on Market street, near Van Ness avenue.

There are twenty four yearlings to be sold, and a finer bred or a better looking lot would be hard to find. These colts and fillies have had the benefit of good care, plenty of feed, and are in good condition to go to work on.

The first on the list is the handsome chestnut filly Crescenda, by Flambeau, dam imp. Amelia, dam of Rinfax, Nomad and Picton, and grandam of Bellicoso, Wandering Nun and that great colt, Crescendo. Imp. Amelia has produced race horses from all sources, and her daughter, imp. Janet N., is a queen among broodmares. Crescenda should not only be valuable for racing, but for a broodmare as well.

The second on the list is the bay filly Racina, by imp. Cyrus, dam the great Fairy Rose, the dam of Shannon Rose, Racine, Fairy, Charm, Flint and Sweet Rose. Fairy Rose has produced winners from five different stallions, why should she not produce from the sixth, imp. Cyrus.

The third is a chestnut filly, Brerewood, by Bramble, who was a great race horse, and sired that grand, Clifford. Brerewood's dam was Pottery, by Faustus, son of Enquirer and Lizzie G., by War Dance. Here is a grand combination of successful racing blood: imp. Bonnie Scotland, imp. Australian, imp. Leamington, with four crosses of the immortal Lexington through sire and dam.

The fourth on the list is the grandly-bred colt Gladiolus, by Racine, dam imp. Gorgo, by Isonomy, grand dam imp. Flirt, by Hermit. This colt carries the blood lines of great race horses that have produced and are producing money winners all the time.

The fifth is the chestnut filly Flambeauette, by Flambeau, dam Fannie Lewis (dam of Rico and William Pinkerton), by imp. Buckden.

The sixth is a chestnut colt, Orville, by Racine, dam imp. Ouida, by Foxhall, grandam imp. Amalia, by Salvador. From this family has come Ohyesa, Outright, Straight Tip and Carnation.

The seventh is a fine looking dark bay colt by imp. Cyrus, dam imp. Getaway (dam of Parasang and Capt. Skedance), by Balfe.

The eighth is Princess Flirt, a handsome and speedy looking bay filly by Racine, dam Flirt, by Hermit. Flirt's fillies all race; Gorgo, Faustine, Fidelia and Flirtation have demonstrated that.

The ninth is the bay colt Cavalry, by Flambeau, dam imp. Cornelia, by Carnation. The only two foals Cornelia has had have both won, Melanita and Carisade.

The tenth on the list is Rosorus, bay colt by imp. Cyrus, dam Rosebud, by Wildidle, grandam imp. Rosette, by Struan. Rosorus is Rosebud's first foal. She was a very fast performer; her dam Rosetta has given the turf such good performers as Rhono, Rover, Romair and Floodgate, all winners.

Eleven on the list is the bay filly Honowrine, by Racine, dam Bessie Hooker, by Joe Hooker, grandam imp. Queen Bess (dam of Nero), by Strathconan.

Twelve is the bay filly Queen Flambeau, by Flambeau, dam imp. Queen Bess, by Strathconan; she is the dam of Nero and Foremost.

Thirteen is the bay filly Gardine, by imp. Cyrus, dam Gerhardine (dam of Gordius and Benham), by Flood.

Fourteen on the list is the bay filly Fausterine, by Racine, dam Faustine (dam of Flirtilla), by Flood, grandam Flirt, by Hermit.

Fifteen is the bay filly Flamerette, by Flambeau, dam Playmate, by Monday, grandam Plaything (dam of Tournament), by Alarm.

Sixteen on the list is the chestnut filly Bezonnia, by imp. Cyrus, dam imp. Bridget, by Foxhall, grandam imp. Queen Bess, by Strathconan.

Seventeen is the rare-bred filly, Auracine, by Racine, dam Aurelia (dam of Aerolite), by Wildidle, grandam imp. Amelia (dam of Nomad, Picton, Rinfax and imp. Janet N., dam of Crescendo).

Eighteen on the list is Mike Murphy, by Flambeau, dam Maggie R. (dam of Tim and Pat Murphy), by Billy Newell, son of Norfolk.

Nineteen is the brown colt, Rasor, by imp. Oyrus, dam Rignin (dam of Reta, Rita and Rowland) by imp. Glengarry.

Twenty is the chestnut colt, Attacus, by Flambeau, dam imp. Amalia, by Salvador. Amalia is the dam of Lavoir, Ohyesa, Outright and Carnation.

Twenty-one is the chestnut colt Glenlight, by Flambeau, dam Glenduea (dam of Cleudair, Guenn, Geoffrey, etc.), by imp. Glengarry.

Twenty-two is the chestnut filly Precineau, by Flambeau, dam Precious (dam of Peel, Pliny, Mero and Philander), by Lever.

Twenty-three is the bay filly Cressa, by Flambeau, dam imp. Cornelia (dam of Cadmus), by Isonomy.

Twenty-four and last on the list of yearlings is the chestnut colt Rosalbra, by Flambeau, dam imp. Rosetta (dam of Rhono, Romair, Rover and Floodgate), by Struan, son of Blair Athol.

These colts and fillies are all registered with the Jockey Club, and certificates of registration will be handed purchasers by the auctioneers.

Stock will be ready for inspection at the thoroughbred department, Palo Alto Stock Farm, from now until three days before the sale, when they will be removed to Killip & Co.'s salesyards, Market street and Van Ness avenue, San Francisco.

It is a good year for the Empire City Stud, and Mr. Wm. Simpson's long and patient study of the breeding problem is yielding him rich returns. On the big tracks of the country, Bouncer and Stately are winning races galore and showing speed that is provoking universal comment. On the smaller circuits another string from the same farm is doing equally well. A notable performance was that of the three year-old bay gelding Sufficient, in the 2:34 class at Rome last week, where he won three of the five heats and put his record at 2:21½. Sufficient is by the farm's great young sire, Hummer, and out of Ella Allen, by Ethan Allen 473, son of Ethan Allen, 2:25½, second dam Metella, by Almont, and next dam grand old Jessie Pepper. Metella is a sister to Le Grande, who died young in California, but not before he had sired some very fast performers. Sufficient is a rapid-gaited, level-headed and game pacer, and will be heard from below 2:20 later on.

CLOSING DAYS OF WOODLAND FAIR.

Brother John and J. M. Palmer Win the Running Events and Agitato the Pace on Thursday—All the Events Described—A Most Successful Meeting.

FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY, AUGUST 29TH.

The day opened cloudy and has the appearance of rain; the atmosphere is warm and sultry. The interest in the races seems to be increasing, the attendance is unabated and the directors can feel proud of the success of their meeting thus far. The track is in splendid condition and lightning fast. The slowest heat trotted or paced the past three days was 2:20½, the fastest three days' racing up to date on the Pacific Coast.

The first race was a running event, Red Iron stakes, for district two-year-olds, four and a half furlongs. The starters were Lucy, Brother John, Bud G. and Red Shield. Pools: Brother John favorite against field. Books: Brother John 1 to 3, Bud G. 6 to 1, Red Shield 10 to 11, Lucy 3 to 1. They got off the first attempt, Brother John in the lead, which he held to the finish in 0:57½, Lucy second.

The second race was a run, three-quarter mile dash, purse $150. Starters: Morton, Amigo, Esperance, J. M. Palmer and Regal. Auctions: Amigo $11, field $10. Books: Amigo 4 to 5, Regal 3 to 1, Palmer 6 to 5, Morton 15 to 1, Esperance 8 to 1. After a few breaks they got off to a good start. Amigo was in the lead to the half. From there on Palmer came fast and assumed the lead into the stretch. Palmer and Amigo raced head and head to the hundred-yard pole, where Amigo gave up the fight, Palmer winning in 1:17½, Amigo second, Esperance third.

The 2:40 class two-year-old pace was then called. Pools: Agitato $15, field $9. Books for the heat: Jennie Mc 2½ to 1, Agitato 2 to 5, King Cadenza 15 to 1, Prince Bismark 4 to 1. On the race: Agitato 1 to 2, Jennie Mc 3 to 1, King Cadenza 10 to 1, Prince Bismark 3 to 1. They got off to a splendid start, Agitato leading at the quarter in 0:37, Jennie Mc second. At the half Agitato led by a length in 1:12½. At the three quarter Agitato and Jennie Mc were on even terms in 1:47. At the seven eighths it looked like Jennie Mc's heat, but Agitato had reserve speed and pulled ahead near the wire and won easily in 2:21½. Jennie Mc second, Prince Bismark a close third, having closed about five lengths through the stretch.

The two-year old trot was next called. The starters were: Palita, Eureka, Claudius, Don Roberta. In the pools Palita brought $10 against $5 for the field. Books, for heat, Palita barred: Eureka, 2 to 1; Claudius, 12 to 1; Don Roberta, 10 to 1. On the race, Palita barred: Eureka, 2 to 1; Claudius, 12 to 1; Don Roberta, 10 to 1. Before the start Eureka sold even for the race and heat with Palita barred. They got off to a good start, Palita scoring very fast. Eureka made a bad break after leaving the wire and fell back ten lengths. Palita reached the quarter in 3¼ seconds, Claudius five lengths behind, Eureka and Don Roberta as much further in the rear. These positions were maintained to the half in 1:10. Upon reaching the three-quarters, in 1:40½, Palita led by four lengths. Claudius and Eureka, on even terms, were making a hard drive for place. At the hundred-yard pole Claudius broke, and Eureka took the second place, Palita winning in 2:22½.

For the second heat in the pace there were no pools sold. In the books for the heat: Agitato, 1 to 4; Jennie Mc, 3 to 1; Prince Bismark, 5 to 1; King Cadenza, 30 to 1. On race: Agitato, 1 to 5; Jennie Mc, 5 to 1; Bismark 8 to 1; Cadenza, 50 to 1. They got off to a magnificent start, all even and going fast, Agitato leading to the quarter with Jennie Mc at his shoulder in 0:34½. Up the backstretch George Gray came up fast with Prince Bismark, and at the half in 1:09½ led the other two by a length. It was the grandest colt race ever witnessed from there home. Bismark opened three lengths around the upper turn, but the clip was a hot one, and when they reached the three quarters the three were again on even terms. From there home the drive was terrific, all three drivers whipping every stride. They were so close together that it created great excitement, as either one was considered a winner in turns until, in the last fifty yards, Sanders lifted Agitato to the lead in 2:18½, Jennie Mc second, Prince Bismark third, King Cadenza fourth.

In the second heat of the colt race there were no pools. Books, Palita barred: Eureka, 2 to 5; Claudius 3 to 2. They got off on the third score. Eureka made a disastrous break after leaving the wire, and lost all chances. Phippen sent Palita along to the quarter in 0:33½. She reached the half in 1:08½, the three-quarters in 1:43½ and the mile in 2:19½. This is the fastest heat by a two-year-old up to date in California this year. Palita is by the great Palo Alto, out of a daughter of Gen. Benton, and should she remain right, she has enough speed to beat the world's two-year-old record.

SUMMARY.

Fourth race—Trotting, 2:40 class, two-year-olds, purse $100. Palita, ch f, by Palo Alto—by Gen. Benton..... Phippen 1 1 Eureka, ch f..... 2 3 Claudius, b c..... 3 2 Don Roberta, bl c..... 4 4 Time, 2:22½, 2:19½.

The last race on the programme was the 2:24 trot. The starters were Lady Thornhill, Lady O., Maria P., Flora G., Palermo, Ravenscroft, Letter B. In the pools the field brought $10, Letter B $7, Maria P. $6. Books on heats: Lady Thornhill 3 to 1, Lady O. 2 to 1, Letter B. 2 to 1, the others 10 to 1. On the race: Thornhill 4 to 1, Lady O. 3 to 1, Letter B. 3 to 2, Maria P. 2 to 1, the others 10 to 20 to 1. Before the start the pools stood: Field $15, Letter B. $15, Maria P. $8. They got off to a good start. Letter B. and Lady Thornhill made a bad break after leaving the wire. Maria P., at the pole, assumed the lead, closely followed by Ravenscroft and Palermo at the quarter in 35 seconds. Lady O. made a drive for second place, but broke after leaving the quarter and lost four lengths; they reached the half in 1:08½. Rounding the upper turn Ravenscroft made a break, fell back and appeared out of the struggle. Lady O. came fast and looked dangerous for Maria P. through the stretch, but she made another break in the middle of the homestretch and lost all her chances. Ravenscroft came fast out of the ruck, but could only get third position, Maria P. winning in 2:17½, Lady O. second.

For the second heat in the 2:24 trot the pools sold: Maria P. $10, field $5, Letter B. $4. In the books for the heat: Lady Thornhill 3 to 1, Lady 2 to 1, Letter B. 2½ to 1, Maria P. 4 to 5, Ravenscroft 10 to 1, Palermo 10 to 1. For the race: Thornhill 3 to 1, Lady O. 4 to 1, Letter B. 2 to 1, Maria P. 4 to 5, Ravenscroft 10 to 1, Flora G. 100 to 1, Palermo 20 to 1. They got off to a good start, Lady Thornhill carrying Maria P. to a break after passing the eighth pole. Lady Thornhill went to the quarter in 0:35, closely followed by Lady O., who made a break in the middle of the backstretch. Palermo went into second place. In this order they reached the half in 1:08½. Around the upper turn Lady O. came again, and Thornhill, Lady O. and Palermo were on nearly even terms at the three-quarter pole in 1:44½. Lady O. was coming fast on Thornhill's wheel, but made a break at the hundred-yard pole and lost two lengths. Ravenscroft, as in the previous heat, came fast in the stretch and was only beaten a length for the heat by Thornhill in 2:19½, Lady O. third.

Third heat 2:24 trot—Pools: Field, $10; Thornhill, $8; Maria P. $6. Books for heat: Thornhill 1-1, Lady O. 4-1, Letter B 3-1, Maria P. 3-1, Ravenscroft 3-1, Palermo and Flora G. 25 to 50-1. For the race, Thornhill 4-5, Lady O. 5-1, Letter B. 3-1, Maria P. 2-1, Ravenscroft 5-1. They got off to a good start, Letter B. breaking and falling back. Thornhill and Ravenscroft started out for a fight to the eighth. Ravenscroft made a slight break and fell back a length. Lady O. came up fast to the quarter and was on Thornhill's wheel in 34½ seconds. In the middle of the backstretch they were moving like a team and reached the half in 1:07½. Neither relaxed an inch. They reached the three-quarters in 1:41½. Through the stretch both drivers were carrying their horses steady and fast. A hundred yards from the wire Thornhill showed a head in front, but made a break twenty yards from the wire and Lady O. beat her out in 2:16½. Ravenscroft came again fast through the stretch and was on the wheel of Lady O., but made a break a hundred yards from the wire and had to be content with third place.

Fourth heat—Pools: Lady O. $5, field $10. Books for heat: Thornhill 3-2, Letter B. 2-1, Maria P. 5-1, Ravenscroft 3-1. For race: Thornhill 3-2, Lady O. 3-2, Letter B. 3-1, Maria P. 5-1, Ravenscroft 8-1, Palermo 50-1, Flora G. 100-1. They got off at the third score. Ravenscroft broke after getting the word. Maria P. came fast from the outside position and led all to the eighth by three lengths. Maria maintained the lead to the quarter in 35 seconds, Lady O. coming fast at the three eighths pole. She assumed the lead and kept it to the wire. She went to the half in 1:09½, three-quarters in 1:44 and the mile in 2:20½. Thornhill was cut off behind and fell back. At the half she was eight lengths away. From there she came fast, and from the draggate contested the heat, getting second place.

Fifth heat—No pools. Books on heat: Thornhill 2 to 1, Lady O. 2 to 5, Maria P. 8 to 1, Ravenscroft 6 to 1, the others 20 to 100 to 1. The race: Thornhill 3 to 1, Lady O. 3 to 10, Letter B. and Maria P. 10 to 1, the others 40 to 100 to 1. Another fearful start was made by the judges, probably owing to approaching darkness. Lady Thornhill, one of the favorites, was sent off behind and on a run. Lady O. was two lengths in the lead, Thornhill eight lengths behind, at the quarter, in 0:35. Lady O. reached the half in 1:09½. Lady Thornhill had diminished the gap and was on her wheel in the middle of upper turn. Sullivan made a masterly drive, but he had such distance to make up that it told on Thornhill, for she made a break near the wire and Lady O. came in a head in the lead. A howl of derision went up from the crowd on account of the send off, and after some deliberation the judges announced that they reserved their decision until 1 o'clock to-morrow.

FIFTH DAY—FRIDAY, AUGUST 30.

From early morn until two o'clock the roads leading to the race track were thronged with vehicles of every description, the occupants of which were dressed in the light and airy costumes which are so pleasantly suggestive of warm weather. This was business men's day, and all the leading stores in the prosperous town of Woodland were closed. Employers and employees raced along the level roads on an equality. Wives, families and sweethearts were not left home consequently the ticket taker at the gate had a very pleasant duty to perform, and the manner in which he exchanged tickets for coin would make a Tivoli Theater ticket-seller green with jealousy. The grand stand was filled; the band of music played the latest airs; the gamblers who were "out of sight" of the grand stand were busily engaged in calling on the horny-handed granger to play on the white or the red, and the pool-seller's voice was heard above the din, while quiet-looking, gentlemanly Geo. Rose and his assistants were taking in bets and chalking up the odds on the races.

Everything was conducted in regular race track style. The track itself is, and in fact always has been, the fastest in California, and although a little too hard on the surface, nevertheless its turns are well made and the stretches as smooth as a billiard table.

The judges to-day were Col. Hawkins, H. Forsland and L. Adams.

At one o'clock the decision in the 2:24 trot, which was ended last evening, was given. It was: Lady O. wins the heat and race. Time, 2:19½; Lady Thornhill second money, Ravenscroft third and fourth money; Flora G. fourth, Palermo fifth, Maria P. sixth and third money, Letter B. distanced.

The first event was a running five-eighths mile dash, with five entries. Middleton sold favorite at $17 to $10 for Blue Bell and $3 for the field. Regal was withdrawn. Middleton led from the start into the turn and down the stretch, where he was passed by Nellie G., who won by a neck in 1:02½. Middleton second, Blue Bell third and Little Tough last. In the books Nellie G. was a 10 to 1 shot, and Rose's stables sustained its first defeat of the week.

The second event was the 2:20 trot, all ages, with seven entries. Boodle sold favorite at 1 to 2, Irene Crocker 2 to 5, Chico 3 to 1, Jennie June 50 to 1, Myrtle Thorne 30 to 1, Escort 50 to 1 and Visalia 2 to 1. They were sent away on the fourth attempt to a good start. Visalia led to the quarter in 0:35, Crocker second and Myrtle Thorne third. These positions were unchanged at the half, made in 1:08, and the three-quarters in 1:12½. Into the stretch Myrtle Thorne broke and the race to the wire was between Visalia and Boodle, the former winning by half a length in 2:16, Boodle second, Jennie June third, Irene Crocker, who ended fourth, was sent back to seventh place, Escort fifth, Myrtle Thorne sixth.

In the second heat Visalia in the books sold favorite at even money, Boodle remained the same. Myrtle Thorne, Crocker and Jennie June were 50 to 1 shots. Visalia broke under the wire just as the word was given, and barely saved her distance. Boodle went into the lead and was never headed, winning in 2:15½, Myrtle Thorne second, Chico third, June fourth, Escort fifth, Crocker sixth and Visalia last.

In the third heat of the trotting race, Boodle led to the quarter in 0:35½, a length ahead of Myrtle Thorne, Visalia third. The half was made in 1:08 and three-quarters in 1:43½. In the stretch Visalia broke, but caught quickly. She came fast to the wire, winning by a head in 2:15½, Boodle second, Myrtle Thorne third.

For the fourth heat Boodle was slated 6 to 5 and Visalia 1 to 2. Visalia was held at the start and was led by Boodle to the half by three lengths. Into the turn Visalia moved up and down the stretch, was on even terms with Boodle, winning out by a length in 2:13½, Boodle second, Thorne third, Chico fourth, Jennie June fifth, Irene Crocker sixth and Escort seventh.

In the 2:19 pace there were four entries: Chehalis, Pathmont, Loupe and Dan N. Chehalis was booked at 11 to 20, Pathmont 4 to 1, Dan N. and Loupe 30 to 1. At the eighth Dan N. was in the lead. At the quarter Chehalis was leading him three lengths. Pathmont was in second place at the half. Chehalis was leading two lengths at the turn. Down the stretch the favorite was lapped and the race to the wire was close, Pathmont winning by a very small margin. Many thought the heat belonged to Chehalis, but Judge Hawkins gave it to Pathmont. Time, 2:12½; Chehalis second, Dan N. third and Loupe last.

In the second heat of the pace Chehalis sold 12 to 2, Pathmont 5 to 1 and 100 to 1 both Loupe and Dan N. Chehalis led to the quarter by half a length; at the half he had increased the pace to three lengths; into the turn Pathmont crawled up and down the stretch the race was close, Chehalis winning by half a length in 2:12½, Pathmont second, Loupe third and Dan N. fourth.

In the third heat Chehalis sold 1 to 15, Pathmont 10 to 1, Loupe and Dan N. 200 to 1. Chehalis led to the half by two lengths and doubled the distance at the turn. Into the stretch Pathmont moved up and came down half a length behind Chehalis, the Oregon wonder, winning in 2:10½, Pathmont second, Loupe third and Dan N. fourth.

In the fourth heat the books slated Chehalis 1 to 15, Pathmont 20 to 1, Loupe 500 to 1 and Dan N. 1000 to 1. Chehalis went away in the lead and at the half had increased it to five lengths. Chehalis won the heat and race easily in 2:11, Pathmont second, Loupe third and Dan N. fourth.

SIXTH DAY—SATURDAY, AUGUST 31.

This was the last day of the greatest race meeting ever held in California, and the truth of this statement is shown by the records, for there were forty-nine heats trotted and paced during the six days' meeting. Thirty were by the trotters and the average was 2:17½. Nineteen heats were paced and the average was 2:13. The slowest trotting heat was 2:22½, the next slowest heat was 2:20½. The fastest heat was 2:13. Among the pacing races the slowest was 2:21½ and the next slowest was 2:18½. The fastest heat was 2:09½. Fifteen heats were paced in 2:15 or better, and of this number several were better than 2:12. There were two time records made and they were only specials. The weather was warm, and were it not for the fact that a circus was in town, which exerted its magnetic influence over the young and old for miles and miles around, there is no doubt the attendance to-day would have exceeded that of any day of the meeting. The President and directors made many new friends at this meeting among the horsemen and the consensus of opinion was, "We will be back again next year, for no one could be more courteously treated than we were." George Rose, the progressive bookmaker, cannot have made much money, as bookmaking on trotters was a new departure, but he learned much that will be beneficial to him hereafter. It is needless to say that he and his corps of assistants created a most favorable impression here. Al Leech was the pool-seller and fulfilled the duties of his calling in an able manner. The stock parade to-day was most excellent and reflects great credit upon the horse and cattle breeders in this splendid section of California.

Secretary Barney and Directors Spalding and Hoppin were busily engaged from early morning until after the races began attending to the distribution of prizes.

At one o'clock Judge Hawkins called up the first event, a match against time by H. Hogoboom's strongly-built, well-formed chestnut stallion Swift Bird by Waldstein out of a mare by Poscora. Hayward started to beat 2:30 and accomplished the feat in 2:29½.

The first regular race was a one mile running race between Faro (112), Esperance (106), Rob Roy (100), Amigo (100), and Onti Ora (116).

In the books Faro $2, Esperance $3, Rob Roy $2, Amigo $4, Onti Ora $3. In the pools Rob Roy $10, Faro $5, field $2. The start was a good one for all but Rob Roy, who got away three lengths behind. Faro took the lead, but Amigo passed him at the quarter, and led to the wire, winning by two lengths from Faro, Onti Ora third. Time, 1:44½.

The match race, half mile dash, between Red Dick and Cora C., was won by the former in the easiest manner imaginable in 0:50.

The third race of the afternoon was a racing race, 2:35 class. The entries were Ruby M., Babe Marion, Delphi, Phenol and Estelle Wilkes. In the pools Phenol sold for $10, Ruby

M. $5, field $5. After several scores Judge Hawkins sent them away. Phenol led, with Ruby M. close up, Delphi third. At the quarter Phenol broke and Ruby M. passed her, and Sutherland brought Estelle Wilkes up and challenged the fleet daughter of Almont Patchen. Phenol caught and was only a half length away. The half-mile pole was passed in 1:05½. From this point the three sidewheelers raced on even terms, but on nearing the wire Phenol passed to the front and was a length in front of Ruby M., Estelle Wilkes half a length behind. Time, 2:11½. Babe Marion was fourth, three lengths further back and two lengths in front of Delphi. The wonderful showing made by the green mare, Estelle Wilkes, was commented upon. She was ably driven by Jas. Sutherland.

Phenol took the lead in the next heat. Estelle Wilkes took the second place away from Ruby M. As the latter broke at the first turn and in an endeavor to get on even terms with Phenol she broke and fell back to last place, the leaders were 150 yards ahead of her when she settled, but she could not get inside the flag as Phenol paced under the wire in 2:14½, Delphi third and Ruby M. fourth.

Phenol, ably driven by Millard Sanders, took the lead in the next heat and won by two lengths from Ruby M., Delphi third and Babe Marion fourth. Time, 2:14½.

The improvement in Phenol is remarkable, and if nothing happens her she will be in the 2:10 list before another month passes.

The next race was for the 2:27 class, trotting, three-year-olds. There were only four starters: Zombro, Stam B., Jasper Ayres and Lottie. Pools sold: Zombro $10, field $5. The start was a good one; Zombro led, with Stam B. at his wheel, Jasper Ayres was third and Lottie last. The half was passed in 1:06½. Stam B. kept behind the speedy Zombro, but in the homestretch he came up on even terms with him, and in an attempt to pass Zombro broke and the latter jogged in a winner in 2:13, three lengths in front of Stam B., Jasper Ayres third and Lottie last. This is the fastest mile made by a three-year old in California, and the easy way he finished shows that he can get a 2:10 mark in his next race. He trotted one quarter in this race in 0:31.

In the second heat Zombro sold in the auction pools at $15 to $4 on the field, with but few takers.

Zombro started out and Stam B., although footsore, was game enough to stay right by him, and the two passed the half pole in 1:07, not half a length between them. Jasper Ayres was third and Lottie fourth, not four lengths away. To the three quarter pole Stam B. was only a neck behind Zombro, and as they entered the homestretch they were on even terms. Coming to the wire Stam B. made an effort to go the front, but Zombro slipped past him and as he did so the gallant son of Stamboul broke, and thus his chances of winning were ruined. Zombro came home in 2:14½, two lengths in front of Stam B., who was a length in advance of Jasper Ayres, and the latter was two lengths in front of Lottie.

In the next heat Jasper Ayres trailed Zombro and kept him moving; Stam B. was third and Lottie fourth. Zombro took it easy until the stretch was reached, then Durfee saw that Jasper Ayres was gaining, and he had to wake up and make a drive down the homestretch to keep in front. He won with Zombro by a length and a half in 2:17, Stam B. was third and Lottie fourth. Thus ended one of the best races of the meeting and demonstrates that Zombro is a phenomenally fast and game young horse.

The 2:40 trot was the next event on the programme. There were five entries—Our Lucky, Coal Dust, Jasper Paulsen, Potrero and Leonor. Jasper Paulsen was the favorite at $10 to $7 on the field. In the books Our Lucky was 3 to 1, Coal Dust 3 to 2, Potrero 25 to 1, Jasper Paulsen 7 to 10 and Leonor 100 to 1. Jasper took the lead and was never headed. Our Lucky was half a length behind him at the half, but the former never let him come any nearer. To the wire the finish was exciting, but Our Lucky broke fifty yards from the goal and Jasper Paulsen won by a length and a half in 2:16½—wonderful time for a 2:40 horse—Coal Dust third, Potrero fourth and Leonor fifth.

Pools remained about the same for the next heat, and Our Lucky kept close to Jasper Paulsen until the half-mile pole was reached, when he broke and Leonor slipped past him and set sail for the leader. Our Lucky recovered his speed and passed Leonor on entering the homestretch, but he broke again, and fell back to last position. Leonor came in two lengths behind the easy-going Paulsen in 2:19½, Coal Dust third, Potrero fourth and Our Lucky last.

In the next heat Our Lucky made it very interesting for Jasper Paulsen, and had not the latter been driven by that general, Thos. Keating, there is no doubt the lame horse from the south would have won. Keating trotted his horse very fast to the three quarter pole and opened a gap of several lengths in front of Our Lucky, and when he entered the stretch he had this much advantage, but Geo. Maben, who was driving Our Lucky, was wide awake and his horse trotted like old Klamath down the homestretch, gained inch by inch on Jasper Paulsen until at the wire he was only a neck behind the latter. Had not Keating driven as he did with such good judgment Our Lucky would have won. The time of the heat was 2:17, Coal Dust third, Potrero fourth and Leonor last.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

STRANDED.—Much has been printed lately on what has been called the "forfeit system" in harness races. In the first place the forfeit system has not prevailed, but rather a sort of fungus growth on the entrance principle. The true forfeit was part of a stake, and unless guaranteed by the club which opened the stake—that being a rare occurrence—the winner of the stake was the recipient of the forfeits due. Certificates were issued by the secretary, and these turned over to the winner, and he could either enforce their collection by entering them against the debtor or make any other arrangement he saw fit. The club or association which opened the stake fulfilled their part of the obligation by collecting from starters and paid the "added money" to the winner, and that was the end of it.

Now all the sympathy is awarded to the parties who adopted this misnamed forfeit system and the dire result pictured in glowing terms. We are told that races had to be "declared off" on account of non-payment of those who had accepted these promises to pay, when it is beyond question that more money was received than if the rule of ten per cent. accompanying entry had been observed.

According to the Illinois decision, by which Williams, of Axtell and Allerton celebrity, obtained judgment against a man who had paid his entrance fees in part, the debt is collectable if property can be found to satisfy the judgment, and hence in addition to the assistance of the N. T. A. and A. T. A. the courts can be invoked to recover the claim. The worst feature of the credit system, however, is that it is a temptation to people to assume obligations which would not have been incurred under a cash system, and as a consequence hundreds of owners are now stranded, and that on a bar of such magnitude that an ordinary tide will not float the vessel which is doomed, hopeless and irreparable, wrecked from keel to bulwark, scarcely a plank left to form the nucleus of another craft. The inducement to make entries, which would have been forborn, save for the handiness of merely signing a paper, was supplemented by another pitfall.

When positively assured that the chances were a hundred to one against obtaining any part of the purse to "declare out" enforced a cash outlay. To comply with the conditions entailed using money which could not be spared from their business, in some cases that money was not in the possession of the person who made the entry, and with small chance of securing it as a loan. Not a loophole to escape by paying what was already due, the debt increased to the fullest limit, and that to a certainty out of the power of the victim to liberate himself, struggle as he might.

Before horses became so depreciated that sales could not be made, at almost any sacrifice, there was some show of paying back entrance money from that source of revenue. A good road horse, a filly bred in a way that gave promise of success in the stud, would find purchasers in the past. Now there are so many offered in excess of the demand that buyers are few and with a big gap between the one who might buy and the next similarly inclined. However forcibly the dread of suspension may operate on the delinquent in a majority of cases he is helpless and has to succumb to the inevitable with all the grace he can muster. There are few people who would accept the punishment if it were in their power to escape, and it may be taken for granted that poverty is the sole cause. Delinquents who have not that plea to offer, those who can pay and refuse, should be made to settle, and the Illinois decision will warrant associations in appealing to the law of the land as well as that of the N. T. A. and A. T. A. One of the turf papers depreciates that mode of procedure, on the claim that it is a "debt of honor." If collectable, through the judiciary, it is no longer that kind of a liability, merely a civil contract in which one of the parties defaults.

If those who are abundantly able to pay would square their accounts, associations could offer terms to those who could not which would relieve them from suspension and give the opportunity to continue in the business. Better for both parties interested that a settlement should be made than to have to carry a big deficit on one side, on the other ostracism from tracks which hold membership in either or both of the governing associations. When it is apparent that one who has been suspended for non-payment of entrance fees is incapable of making immediate payment, and who would pay if granted time, it strikes me that the best policy for the creditor is to offer relief. While it is merely an individual opinion, I feel quite confident that the P. C. T. H. B. A. would accept a compromise from the class of debtors which have a good claim for being favored by an extension. That individuals have suffered in a greater degree from the facility of running into debt is beyond question.

More money paid in than would have been the case if credit had not been given, and though the balance sheet shows a startling list of debtors, the credit side would fully over-balance the deficit.

But it is important that in the future the temptation should be eliminated. How shall that be accomplished? There must be "events" on the bills, so far off in the future when these will be decided, that the risks will be great on those who engage in them. Not a very hard problem.

John Randolph, of Roanoke—I like to give him his full title—when there was a lull in congressional proceedings, called to the presiding officer: "Mr. Speaker, I have discovered the philosopher's stone; pay as you go."

That must be the motto hereafter, and stakes with light initiatory payments, and purses with a very small fee accompanying the entry take the place of the "forfeit system."

H. M. LA RUE.—In this paper appears a communication from H. M. La Rue in reply to one from C. A. Winship, published two weeks ago, and to which was appended a petition signed by several drivers. The right of petition is one of the privileges which may be called sacred, inasmuch as that right is guaranteed by National and State constitutions, and had the prayer of the petitioners been confined to soliciting the Woodland Association to appoint Mr. Covey starting judge no fault could have been found. But when that was accompanied by charges against Mr. La Rue it is a fair object of criticism, especially as there were no specific counts, merely the assertion that decisions made by him at Napa led to the signing and publication of the petition and the accompanying statement. As that statement was signed by a responsible person, it was published in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, though if the object was merely to secure the appointment of Mr. Covey that would have been effected by directing it to the President and directors of the Woodland Association. Evidently then there was something else than a desire to secure the services of Mr. Covey, and the letter of Mr. La Rue affords an explanation. It seems that there were two points of difference, one of these the placing of horses in a heat, and if an error was made the associate judges were also in the wrong. I have no knowledge of the actual situation. If it was a close contest the judges have a much better chance to determine the result than the spectators; if a mistake was made in identifying the horses, that surely could have been corrected at the time. The second point, in all probability, was the chief grievance. When Mr. La Rue took the ground that heats should not be laid up, and that transgression would be punished, first by a heavy fine, and a repetition of the offense by expulsion, it should meet the approval of everyone who favors honest racing. In these days of general laxity in the judges' stand, when a man occupies the position of presiding judge, with sufficient knowledge of the trotting code to understand not only the letter but the spirit of the rules, and determination to enforce them, he should be heartily sustained, and when attacked upon that ground receive approbation in reply to unwarranted aspersions.

I have known Mr. La Rue for many years, been familiar with his work in the stand, and been so well pleased with what he did there that when President of the P. C. T. H. B. A. I urged his employment as presiding judge of the meeting.

It has been claimed that he was too rigid in enforcing the rules; the only exception that I took that he was not strict enough, and therefore it is seen likely that he struck the "golden mean."

I have written many articles lately in relation to the greatest drawback on harness racing there is, laying up heats. A single-handed battle apparently, against a host on the other side.

A change is coming, however, as in the Eastern department of the Horseman under the caption "The obligation to try," there are some strong arguments against the practice. It may be that the race between Joe Patchen and Gentry at Philadelphia last Wednesday will have a tendency to correct the evil, and had the judges been animated with the same spirit which Mr. La Rue displayed at Napa it would have been still better. In place of a fine of $500, had Curry been expelled, and if the owner of Joe Patchen was present, he and the horse subjected to like punishment, "skinning catfish" would not be so pleasant a pastime as it has been in the past. The attack on Mr. La Rue has recoiled on the party who made it, and in lieu of injuring him has been to his credit.

THE STATE FAIR.—So far the great Sacramento fair has been fully up to expectations, and, from the present outlook, there is little danger in prophesying that it will be superior of any which has preceded it. That is very high praise, indeed, as all will admit who have attended the fairs for the past thirty years.

There is everything favorable for such a result. The pavilion display could scarcely be excelled, and one essential to that department of the show, viz., music, elicits the applause of all.

Good as that is, the park end of the exhibition is in keeping. Never a better show of stock, from chickens to horses, a good representation of the highest type in the various classes.

At the time of writing Thursday, harness races have been the only ones on the programme, and from all accounts "eminently satisfactory." Too early yet to discourse at length on the merits of the contestants, as the next week may tell another tale. Very closely together several that have met, and a trifling turn of luck in favor of the defeated likely to reverse previous decisions. The most welcome intelligence to me is that not a single heat was "laid up" and not a murmur of the races not being straight. Then the management comes in for a good share of the encomiums, the weather all that could be desired, and even losers in good humor.

INDEPENDENT.—An independent press is said to be the bulwark of freedom. Were the horse papers of the country truly independent I should have far brighter hopes of the future of racing. While none of them, perhaps, are so absolutely under control as to wear a collar corresponding to that which encircled the neck of the swineherd, "Gurth, the son of Beourelph, is the born thrall of Cubric of Rotherwood," there are influences which forbid absolute freedom.

It may be that this bending to the blast is for the best of the interests which these papers are supposed to foster. I cannot look at it through these sort of spectacles. The time will come when there will be papers "devoted to the horse and his owners," which will be ready to call a spade a spade, and not embellish the description with the portraiture of a hoe or a pick-axe, or a grubhoe, bush-hook or some other instrument of husbandry, I am thinking it will be after my time, though I would fain believe that when disembodied, the ethereal part of this worldly frame will be cognizant of what is going on on this sphere, such a small part of the real world, and hovering over race courses and trotting tracks see all the contestants struggling to the best of their ability to reach the winning score first.

Even that would not be more satisfactory than to see recorded in the turf journals of the future, that these contests were appreciated. But—

The same old story. Corns which are so sorely tender that to step near them gives great pain, and a huge bludgeon poised to give fearful effect to the warning, "Keep off the grass" hanging, like the sword of ancient story, by a single hair.

Well, "after the world, the deluge," and so, "to keep step to the music of the times" may be the best. Still, I would like to see one instance where the ranks were broken, and, when disrupted, I will be ready to sing pans to the bold spirit which breaks the established order.

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

AN offer of $20,000 was refused for John R. Gentry recently.

MYRON McHENRY, brother to John R. Gentry, has cut his record to 2:15½.

ST. BEL is the only sire to have six of his get enter the 2:30 list in one day.

THE Stockton Fair this year will eclipse all others held in the famous slough city.

DIRECTION, 2:08½, by Director, has been timed a mile in 2:06, and a last half in 1:00½ in a race.

WIGGIN, 2:20½, by Aberdeen, dam by Stamboul, is now the fastest two-year-old trotting colt of the year.

ABELL, the greatest yearling of 1894, will make his first appearance this year at the San Jose meeting.

BRUNO, 2:19, is in Sacramento and will lower his record considerably before he returns to Salinas Valley.

H. HOGBOOM is to sell Swiftbird, 2:24½, and several other fast trotters at auction in Sacramento next Wednesday.

CHEHALIS grabbed his quarter and his owner deemed it wise not to enter him in any of the races at Sacramento.

ANSON, by Azmoor, was second to Orangelandier in a race at Rome, New York, August 13th. Time, 2:21, 2:19, 2:22.

LABELLE, 2:16, will not be seen on the race track again this season. Mrs. A. C. Severance will give her a year's rest.

ELF, by Steinway, driven by Goldsmith, won the 2:23 class trot at Syracuse, N. Y., August 29th, in 2:24½, 2:26½, 2:23½.

CARBONATE hit his knee at Buffalo and has been laid up for a few weeks. He worked a mile in 2:07½ before the accident.

EVERYTHING looks bright for the trotting meeting of the California Jockey Club. The fields in every way promise to be large.

MIKE BOWERMAN of Lexington, Ky., has sold Martha Wilkes, 2:08, by Alcione, to an agent of the German government.

HILIGO, a bay mare by Anteeo, won the 2:45 class trot at Franklin, Ky., August 29th, making a record of 2:28½ in the fourth heat.

KATE PHALLAMONT, by Phallamont, won the 2:18 trot at Independence, Ia., August 20th, and took a record of 2:12½ in a second heat.

THE sire of the fast mare Birdroe, 2:12½, is Mark Monroe, 2:25½; he was by Victor Bismarck, out of Maggie Monroe, by Jim Monroe.

JOHN BURY, 2:18½, by Antinous, is a game race horse. He trotted in 2:18½ at Sacramento when he appeared so lame he could hardly walk.

THE meeting at San Jose promises to be a good one. The track was never in finer condition and an excellent week's racing is anticipated.

ZOMERO has proved himself to be the great three-year-old trotter of California. He is very liable to trot in 2:10 before the Los Angeles meet is over.

ALICE BEL, 2:29½, is by St. Bel, out of Alicia Wilkes, dam of Allibel, 2:19½, by Guy Wilkes; Katrina Bel, 2:16½, is out of Katrina (sister to Voucher, 2:22), by Nephew.

THE Southern California people are right in this year, with Waldo J., McZeus, Zomero, Birdroe, Miss Jessie, La Belle, Roan Wilkes and Our Lucky, all money winners.

TRAIN BEL, 2:29½, by St. Bel, is out of Gambara, by Ansel; second dam Glencora (dam of Lot Slocum, 2:17½), by Mohawk Chief; third dam Lady Gilbert (grandam of Richards' Elector).

THE sale of Heilbron's fine trotting stock at the Fair Grounds, Sacramento, is attracting unusual attention among horsemen. There are some very choicely bred ones among them to be sold.

J. E. TERRY, the well-known lumber merchant of Sacramento, has a colt by Easter Wilkes, out of Daisy, by Prompter, that has shown him enough speed to warrant him in keeping him back until he is two years old.

MARCUS DALY's colt Practical, which won the two-year-old race at Galesburg this week earning a record of 2:21½, comes honestly by his speed, as he is a son of Prodigious, 2:16, out of the noted old mare Fanny Witherspoon, 2:16½.

AN exchange says that John A. Goldsmith was at Fleetwood Park last week, a looker-on, and his health is so much improved that he has fully determined to get together a new string of trotters in April and come down the circuit line.

THE fastest yearling, two, three and five-year-old and aged trotters of the year, Fanny Foley, Tommy Britton, Athanio, Fantasy and Azote, are all lineal descendants of Electioneer. Beuzetta, the four-year-old champion, belongs to the Wilkes family.

THE Texas colt Judge Hurt, by William M. Hill, paced a heat at Galesburg, Ill., in 2:09½ on Wednesday, lowering the race record for three-year-olds from 2:10, previously held by Whirligig, and the race record of 2:10½ for three-year-old colts, previously held by Directly.

FRED KOHL, 2:14½, by Guy Wilkes, is proving to be the race horse we predicted he would be. He won a good race at Philadelphia on Wednesday last defeating the famous Larabee and Menlo Prince. Time, 2:15½, 2:14½, and 2:16½. John Dickerson held the lines over him.

DICTATUS was timed separately in the heat won by Birdroe in Sacramento on the opening day. He paced the first heat in 2:14½, the second in 2:12½ and the third in 2:14. The time made by Birdroe was 2:14½, 2:12½ and 2:15, but Dictatus got off very far behind in two of the heats.

ED CONNOLLY, the well-known horseman, and Billy Emerson, the minstrel, were once stable boys for a man named Brady, who owned a lot of runners near St. Louis. Connolly rode in a number of races but Billy Emerson found that it was not the business he was best adapted for.

THE ten-year-old mare Utility, by Electioneer out of Consolation by Dictator, won the 2:18 trot at Decatur, Ill., on Tuesday in straight heats in 2:14½, 2:14½ and 2:15½. Wilber by Hurly Burley, won second money. Boreal was fourth while Volney French was behind the money with Franklin.

AT Fleetwood Park, New York, August 28th, there were three races, and two were won by California-bred horses, while the remaining race was taken by an animal sired to a California-bred stallion. The winners spoken of were Azote, by Whips; Fred S. Moody, by Guy Wilkes, and Bouncer, by Hummer.

JAMES NOLAN, the well-known horseman, who formerly had charge of A. B. Spreckels' string of trotters, is about to open a public stable for the training of thoroughbreds. Mr. Nolan spent a number of years developing hangtails, and is in every way qualified to make a success of this branch of the industry.

CHARIVARI, 2:20½, that won a game race at Sacramento on Tuesday, belongs to Chas. A. Hug of San Francisco, and the ease with which she won this race stamps her as a good campaigner. She is an inbred Flaxtail, her sire being Sterling and her dam by Prompter. Her second dam is Madame Buckner, by Tom Hal.

THE special race between the crack pacers, John R. Gentry and Joe Patchen, at Philadelphia, Wednesday, Sept. 4th, proved a lamentable failure. Curry, the driver of Joe Patchen, being caught deliberately pulling the horse was fined $600 by the judges and received a lecture from the judges which he should not forget.

JUDGE HURT, a fast three-year-old pacer from Texas, did a mile at Galesburg this week in 2:09½, which displaces Directly's three-year-old championship race record of 2:10½, made at La Crosse, and also heats Whirligig's Terre Haute record of 2:10 made last year, which was the champion race record for three-year-olds for both sexes.

THERE is a bicycle sulky on the California circuit now in Walter Maben's care that has been in use constantly for three years for racing and exercising horses which has not been oiled nor a cent expended on it for repairs in all that time. The wheels have the roller bearing hubs which have been so often described in these columns.

A NUMBER of tickets were sold by the bookmakers at Sacramento at $100 to $1 on Nellie W. for the first heat. She won it in 2:15½ and the $3,000 that made the lucky investors happy was the talk of the Capital City. Ed Connolly drove this daughter of Woolsey and was astonished to hear that such a price was offered against her when she started.

ROAN WILKES, the game three-year-old pacer that won on Wednesday at Sacramento is by Raymond (a son of Simons, out of Lady Carlisle, by Carlisle), and his dam is Berline, by Berlin. His three heats in 2:20½, 2:16 and 2:12½ stamp him as one of the gamest colts we have seen in California. Javelin, by Creole, was only half a length behind him in the last race.

W. D. NICHOLS, formerly of Vallejo, but now a resident of Sacramento, had his favorite mare Puss, by Gen. Taylor, destroyed last week to put her out of misery. Puss was thirty-six years old, and in her day was one of the greatest roadsters seen in Sonoma county. Her dam was by Callender's Black Hawk, and she had all the excellent qualities of that famous family. She was the dam of Maud, 2:29½.

JOHN BOGGS, of Colusa, bred nearly all his mares last year to Monaco, a son of Electioneer, and a prominent horseman who recently visited this gentleman's stock farm near Princeton, declares he never saw a finer or more uniform looking lot of colts and fillies on any other stock farm, not even excepting far-famed Palo Alto. The Electioneer blood put a finish on them that makes them desirable for all purposes.

LADY O., the game little trotting mare that won at Sacramento on Wednesday, and got a record of 2:16, is by T. O., out of a mare by Black Prince, a Black Hawk stallion brought to Stockton many years ago. T. O. is by Anteeo, 2:16½, out of a mare by Billy Roberts, a son of Easton's David Hill. O. Marchand, of Oakland, owns and drives Lady O., and in the race at Sacramento proved himself worthy of being rated among the best drivers on this Coast.

ORRIN HICKOK, the well-known California trainer, has bought the champion pacing mare, Angie D., 2:07, from G. A. Goodrich, of Shelbyville, Ind. Angie D. is only six years old, and is by Mikagan, dam Kit, by Tom Belair. She is a great race mare, and in the hands of the clever reinsman from the Pacific Slope she should be soon heard from in the ranks of the free-for-all. Angie D. made her record of 2:07 at the Detroit meeting.

BOODLE, 2:15, was bred to five mares the first year he stood for service in California, and the produce was three fillies and two colts. One filly died; another was badly injured and could not be trained; the other was Ethel Downes, that got a record of 2:16 at Sacramento Tuesday. One of the colts was Thompson, that got a record of 2:15 at Woodland last week, and the other was won by a subscriber of the San Francisco Examiner in one of the lottery drawings held by that journal. This colt will be handled next year. Boodle's showing is a remarkably good one. One thing can be said of his produce: they are all dead game and perfectly level-headed.

ON Wednesday Mr. Wm. Corhitt sat in a box on the upper balcony of the clubhouse at Fleetwood Park, and around him were such well-known gentlemen as Col. Lawrence Kip, Frank Work, David Bonner, Fred N. Lawrence, J. L. Argumhau, ex-Mayor Hugh J. Grant, C. J. Hamlin and Fred P. Olcott. He expressed the opinion that Fred Kohl could trot when just right in 2:12. Mr. Olcott then remarked that he had at Round Top Farm a three-year-old that he would match for $1,000 or $2,000 a side against any colt of the same age bred and owned by Mr. Corhitt, to trot as four-year-olds. Mr. Corhitt asked Mr. Olcott to name his colt, and when he said Princess Clara, remarked that next summer was pretty far away, and that he should like to have plenty of time to think over the proposition. Princess Clara was the great yearling of 1892.—Turf, Field and Farm.

MR. PAGE, the Forbes Farm trainer, is confident that Arion (2:07½) will prove a successful sire of colt trotters. They have eleven yearlings by him at Ponkapog which have been broken, and every one of the lot shows speed enough to warrant training. Three of them have been trained some, and any one of the three can crush a 2:40 gait. One of the fastest of the lot is out of Pandora, by Ben Franklin. This youngster is small, but has trotted a quarter in 41 seconds and can crush much faster.

NEARLY all the prominent drivers on the California circuit have ordered new suits of colors for the rest of the meetings. We would suggest that they all wear white duck trousers because they wash easily and always look neat. Nothing looks neater than bright satin jackets and caps of well-defined colors, and the quicker drivers understand the value of looking as tasty as the horses they drive and the sulkies they ride in, the quicker will the public appreciate the charm of witnessing trotting and pacing races.

"IN many respects," writes "Raymond" in the Horse World, "Beuzetta is individually superior to the other championship candidates, for even the most critical horseman would be troubled to indicate a weak spot in her make-up. She is an exceptionally strong filly at all points, and that she will stand a lot of hard racing before breaking down is apparent to all who have observed her closely. She is an exceedingly good headed mare when surrounded by the excitement of racing, and no trotter can force her to go fast enough to rattle her. When she scores at full speed the sound of the recall bell will cause her to stop within 100 yards of the wire, and she does not exhaust herself by a useless expenditure of speed as some horses do. To the writer Beuzetta seems the likeliest candidate for the trotting championship that has yet appeared. Before the close of the present season she should heat Directum's race record of 2:05½, and with good fortune attending her she should set a new mark for trotters in 1896."

THE recent death of the old stallion Florida recalls the circumstance that brought him into notice after he had been to the world practically dead. Prior to 1889 his fame principally rested upon what had been done by Walnut, 2:19½, a hardy horse, and years came and went with little word from Florida. But in 1889 came out one of the best three-year-olds up to that time, the gray gelding Faust, who closed the season with a record of 2:18½, and was out of Claire, 2:31, by Bayard, 2:31½; and from the maternal line, from which Faust inherited his color, what else did he inherit? The performances of Faust brought Florida again to public attention, and sporadically other performances served as a reminder of him, but many who read the other day of his death had forgotten he had not long ago died. Florida was by Hambletonian, out of a mare by Volunteer, and was in his time one of the best bred horses—speaking purely of blood lines, which were the only standard of the old days of Orange county breeding—in the region whence he came, and, while he has a list that will keep him in the books, he failed of marked success. But his blood, coupled as it has been with many excellent strains and good individual crosses, will be found in many a successful pedigree in the hereafter.

OF the older drivers Orrin A. Hickok has a great reputation for shrewdness and ability. In fact he is the logician of the sulky. His races are always logically driven and are planned out like a demonstration in geometry. He has failed in fact, for the past two years; Hickok has been unfortunate, a thing which he feels more than any of his critics. Hulda broke down with him in the Columbian free-for-all, and last year Directum went lame on his hands. This year, by the most careful work, he had the mare so that she was faster than ever. But the big Azote took her measure and showed a great flight of speed, so great that many think he can heat even Alix. Yet to-day there are millionaires willing to back Hickok's judgment and buy anything he recommends. Luck must change and Hickok is pretty sure to give more exhibitions of his shrewdness and skill. Hickok has one great qualification, greater than all other drivers—the best knowledge of pace. No matter whether against the watch or in a race, he can tell how fast he is going. This faculty is a gift to a certain extent, made perfect by long, patient work. In personal appearance Hickok is slender and dapper and always well dressed. He is a good talker and has very positive convictions. His nerve is great; in fact, he is one of the heaviest plungers among drivers and will back his opinion to the limit. Success has come to him in his long career and he in old times handled Lucy and had the champion St. Julien. At present his stable is small, but he sometimes has good things, like his green pacer, Miss Rita. He is not enthusiastic on the subject of early development, and believes in the aged trotter.—Chicago News.

THERE will never be another Grand Circuit meeting over the historic Buffalo track without pool-selling. Disappointment was the handwriting on the wall at the last races. In the beginning the attendance was satisfactory, but although the racing was of the highest class the crowds dwindled away to mere nothing. Even Corbett and lanky Boh Fitzsimmons and every imaginable special attraction failed to awaken the Bisons. Had there been pool-selling there would have been enthusiasm and good cheer everywhere. The association would have made money too, instead of losing over $10,000. The Messrs. Hamlin tried the experiment faithfully of conducting a so-called "higher plane" meeting without the silvery-tongued auctioneers. The "higher-plane" people stayed at home, instead of living up to the promises made in legislative halls last winter to turn out en masse, and the receipts at the gates were far below expectations. It's too bad, and I firmly believe the city, as a whole, will regret the day they turned a cold shoulder to an enterprise that has hoomed our good name, Buffalo, from ocean to ocean for the past thirty years. True, other hands may come to the rescue. Another track may be completed before the dawn of the thirty-first Grand Circuit, but it is easier to read of great enterprises than to realize. In other words, a bird in hand is worth two in the bush. The last straw left for us to grasp at is to go to the legislature next winter and ask for pool-selling upon association tracks in the State. Without such a law our trotting interests must dwindle away, and thousands, aye millions of dollars in enterprises go to waste. Associations owning large tracts of land within city limits will make money by cutting them up into building lots, but the cities cannot afford to let them go out of business. With sufficient encouragement a "stay of proceedings" may be granted, but this must be forthcoming quickly or it will be too late. The situation is far from encouraging.—Buffalo Cor. Clark's Review.

THE SADDLE.

DIGGS ran third to St. Maxim and Leo Lake last Saturday at Louisville in 1:15½ for six furlongs.

ARAB, the good old brother to Contribution, won a seven-furlong race at Detroit last Tuesday, doing the distance in 1:29½.

SALLIE WOODFORD, daughter of Salvator and Miss Woodford, won a mile race at St. Louis last Saturday over a heavy track in 1:46.

RAMIRO, Baldwin's Gano—Cuban Queen colt, won a five-furlong race at Sheepshead Bay last Saturday, The Winner being second and Captive third.

A GREAT crowd went up from this city to Sacramento Wednesday night and Thursday morning, to take in the running races of the State Fair meeting.

CALIFORNIA-BRED horses were quite successful at St. Louis last Tuesday, Mollie R., by imp. Mariner, winning a mile race in 1:43½ and Booze, by Cheviot, a seven-furlong event in 1:28½.

CHARLIE BOOTS, of the Elmwood Stock Farm, has forty-five colts and yearlings now in training. This is the largest stable at the Bay District. Most of Boots' lot are by imp. Brutus.

A YEARLING colt by Stromboli from Kate has joined W. Miller's string at Randwick. He was recently purchased in Brisbane by Mr. B. E. Fenwick for 43gs.—Sydney (N. S. W.) Referee.

C. HUESTON, the clever jockey, who formerly rode for Fred Foster, arrived at the Bay District last week and will handle the mounts for Charlie Boots. Hueston can ride at 100 pounds.

DORIAN, son of imp. Sir Modred and Glendora, won the Flight Stakes, seven furlongs, in 1:27 2/5, at Sheepshead Bay last Tuesday, Helen Nichols finishing second and imp. Matt Byrnes third.

TOM WELCH's Kilkenny won the Okolona Hurdle Stakes at Saratoga Tuesday. This was Kilkenny's initial appearance over the sticks, and he promises to be one of the best jumpers in the country.

SEVERAL improvements will be made in the grand stand at Bay District during the State Fair meeting. The passages upstairs in the club-house will be widened, a much-needed improvement, surely.

WHEN Wernberg made his new record of 1:19 2/5 for six and one-half furlongs, August 28th, at Sheepshead Bay, he had 113 pounds up and is reported as "winning easily" by three lengths from St. Ilario.

MIKE DONOVAN, one of the best-known horsemen of the East and a brother to the famous trainer, "Snip" Donovan, is here with a small but select string. He will in all likelihood race here until next spring.

MIDSTAR, by imp. Midlothian—Starlight, captured a six-furlong race in the mud on Saturday last at Detroit, while Maid of Honor, by the dead Maxim, ran second to Atlanta in a four and one-half furlong event.

BILLY DONATHAN, the popular San Jose turfman, had $5 each way on Sinbad last Saturday at odds of 75 and 15 to 1, representing a winning of $450 with a $10 piece. William went to Sacramento with a light heart.

PEPPER, a three-year-old that won a mile and a sixteenth race on the turf at Sheepshead Bay, August 28th, is by the mighty Hindoo, out of Francesca, sister to the American winner of the Epsom Derby—Iroquois.

LLEXINGTON, KY., Aug. 28.—The barn of Foxhall Keene was burned at daylight this morning. His imported stallion, Kallacates, by Hermit, and the American stallion, Hyderabad, by Hyder Ali, perished in the flames.

ISINGLASS's winnings amount to £57,455. This is the largest amount ever won by a horse, Donovan being next with £55,154 10s. Domino has won over $200,000, we believe and may yet beat his English cousins as a money-winner.

EMMA C., winner of the Dolphin Stakes for three-year-olds at Sheepshead Bay, August 27th, is the $10,000 Darchin—Guenn filly. Behind her finished, in the order named, Dotabra, Nanki Pooh, Salvation, Connoisseur, Monaco and Paladin.

LOCAL race-goers will welcome the day a host of unimpeachable jockeys arrive here from the East. Then those that do and have been doing unsatisfactory riding will have a chance to observe the racing from the outside fence of the race course for days and days.

MARCUS DALY's colt, imp. Bathampton, whose change to name to Batsman caused a lot of trouble, won the Turf Handicap at Sheepshead Bay last Saturday, doing the mile and a quarter in a heavy rain in 2:10 4/5. Counter Tenor finished second and Maurice third.

CRESCENDO was beaten last Monday in the Partridge Stakes at Sheepshead Bay by the imported bay filly One I Love, by the great Minting, from imp. The Apple, and from the Brookdale Stable. One I Love is a rare good one, hence the California crackerjack was not disgraced.

THE Adelaide Racing Club brought its credit balance up to £3775 17s 2d for the year ending June 30, 1895, the Birthday meeting proving the most profitable of the season. The sum of £369 was spent in improvements during the year, £685 10s in salaries, and £138 14s 8d on starting machines.

At the time the latest mail left New Zealand the list of successful sires was headed by St. Leger, whose progeny had won prize money to the amount of £4559. Nordenfeldt came next with £4157, and was succeeded by Maxim £3973, Ingomar £2857, Apremont £2439, Ascot £2309, and St. George £2150.

BARDSTOWN, Ky., Aug. 30.—Marion C., probably the greatest handicap race mare until the advent of Yo Tambien, that ever looked through a bridle on the Western turf, died yesterday at the farm of S. P. Lancaster, to whom she was sold by J. M. Young & Co. at the termination of her turf career in 1891.

THE latest acquisition to the book making fraternity is Charley Dwyer, son of the well-known turfman, M. F. Dwyer. He is associated with Joe Vendig, who quotes the price. The Dwyer family have hitherto been prominent plungers. It will be interesting to see now which side comes off best.—N. Y. Mercury.

THE best jockeys in America are expected here next winter, including Taral, Griffin, Chorn, Perkins, Marty Bergen, Carr and Simms. Wherever the best horses race there will be found these famous pigskin artists, and there will in consequence be some great hustling to secure horses of the higher class by the rival race track managers.

THE totalizer in France last year returned $1,040,000 for the charities, and $520,000 available for the encouragement of the breeding of thoroughbreds. A new machine has been introduced, by which horses may be backed for either a win or a place, with automatic registers supplying one copy for the club and one for the Government auditors.

B. J. JOHNSON is going to put Loudon, a horse of good class, into the jumping brigade and send him to California next winter. Oregon Eclipse is being schooled for the same class and Jim Shields will send Tom Skidmore to Andy Blakely for similar use. Skidmore, naturally a high class horse, has developed into a confirmed stalker.—Thoroughbred Record.

THE proprietors of the portable starting machine have received permission from the Coney Island Jockey Club to erect their starting apparatus on the track. Superintendent Clark has located it at the half-mile pole in the Futurity Course. The intention is to get trainers to send ten or a dozen horses to the post in the morning and give the machine a fair trial.

THE great race for the California Cup, two and a quarter miles, takes place next Saturday at Sacramento, and will attract thousands of people to the Capital City. Most people fancy the chances of Gilead, but the horse that beats Claudius will know that he has "been to the races"—that is, if the son of Brutus happens to be in good shape when that day comes around.

CHRIS MOORE's application to be permitted to ride work at Flemington has been refused by the V. R. C. committee, and that clever horseman will probably have to look for mounts outside the registered ranks if he wishes to appear in the saddle again.—Sydney Referee. Moore is one of the leading jockeys of the Colonies, and was in this country a few months ago, though he did not ride.

DAVID GIDEON has been owner or part owner of three Futurity winners whose aggregate winnings on this event exceed $160,000, viz., His Highness, 1891; The Butterflies, 1894, and Requit, 1895. No other owner has won the richest American stake more than once, though with Potomac and Masher the late August Belmont was first and second in 1870. Griffin is the only jockey who has ridden two Futurity winners.

THE defeat of the Western colt, Flying Dutchman, by Counter Tenor at Saratoga Wednesday, came in the nature of a big surprise, says a New York special. He was a hot favorite, and Chorn set a very slow pace with him to the stretch, and waited to make a sprint of it, which is just Counter Tenor's game. Chorn found his mistake too late, and in a drive his mount was beaten a head. Martin simply outrode Chorn.

CHARLEY BOOTS sent four horses to Sacramento last Monday, including Claudius and Lucretia Borgia. He will have nine in all racing there. On the same boat went J. H. Shields' Mary S., Capt. Rees and McLight, J. M. Capps' Ricardo, J. W. Donathan's Arnette, Alexis, Warrago and Ike L., White & Clark's Tim Murphy and Morven, Pleasanton Stables' Bernardo and Guadalupe and S. C. Hildreth's Rico and Bellringer.

WHILE in England Michael Dwyer's jockey, "Willie" Simms, became so accustomed to the salaams and obsequiousness of the English waiters that he could not brook the highly independent and breezy style that prevails in Coney Island's cafes, and the other night by way of protest rebuked a white-aproned gentleman with a brick. "Willie" secured bail, and now he knows the difference between the Coney Island Bowery and The Strand.

THE owner of Henry of Navarre, Mr. Belmont, said last Tuesday in regard to the proposed match between Henry of Navarre, Domino and Clifford, that he is perfectly willing to take Henry of Navarre out of the stable for three races at any amount each, the association to add any amount they like, but one mile was the shortest he would enter and there must be but one race at that distance. He did not think it was any test for four-year-olds to run them in sprint races.

ON Monday last one of Mr. W. Gray's starting machines was dispatched to England, consigned to Mr. S. A. Stephen, who intends to secure a trial of the Colonial starting apparatus on the Sandown Park track. Despite prejudice against such an innovation, the barrier will be well received in England if allowed to be publicly tried on the principal courses. Mr. Gray has protected his patent rights in France and India, in anticipation of success in England with the machine.—Sydney (N. S. W.) Referee, July 10th.

MR. NICK FINZER has permanently retired that great race horse, King Lee, to the stud. He was turned out last spring in the hopes that his legs would better, but no improvement was shown. Even this year it was hoped that there might be some change for the better, but he did not get into position to be trained, and now the remainder of his days will be spent in the stud at Glen Agnes Stock Farm. The performances of his get will be watched with more than usual interest by those who have known the sire in his brilliant but meteoric career on the turf.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

JUST at present no man is doing more to elevate and restore confidence in horse racing in America than is the President of the American Kennel Club, and it is possible we may have the pleasure of congratulating Mr. Belmont upon winning the Derby in England two years hence, for he has made four entries. America is quite well represented among the entries for the "Blue Riband" of the English turf of that year, for besides Mr. August Belmont's entries Mr. Richard Croker has made eight (all by Hanover). Mr. Marcus Daly five, Mr. Pierre Lorillard five and Mr. Charles Littlefield four. Twenty-six in all.—American Field.

THE story that Budd Doble is to abandon the trotters and train and manage the thoroughbreds of Mr. E. J. Baldwin is repeated day to day and week to week with many embellishments because, we suppose, there is not one word of truth in it. Some of our esteemed contemporaries prefer fiction to fact. Mr. Doble said to us at Buffalo on Wednesday, August 14th, that the only foundation for the yarn was that Mr. Baldwin recently telegraphed for him to come to Louisville and confer with him about another matter. He has no thought of becoming Mr. Baldwin's trainer. He is not seeking a position of this kind. The yarn, however, we presume, will continue to travel.—Turf, Field and Farm.

THERE is no curbing the enterprise of the New York daily press. When Michael F. Dwyer returned from Europe an evening paper sent out a rising journalist to interview him. The newspaper man did not find Mr. Dwyer, but that did not make any difference. He got the "interview" all the same. He found a young man who had heard Mr. Dwyer say something to somebody else, and with this for a starter only a little elaboration and embellishment was necessary to complete the "interview," in which Mr. Dwyer was made to say things about the English turfman, which he has been busy denying ever since, and which has brought down upon him the censure of the whole English turf press. As usual, the "interviewer" gets somebody else in trouble and escapes any inconvenience himself.—Horseman.

REY EL SANTA ANITA beat the great Henry of Navarre last Monday in the Twin City Handicap at Sheepshead Bay. Sir Excess set the pace to the last turn, where Taral took Santa Anita to the front and stayed there. The mile and a quarter was run in 2:07. The result was a disappointment to those that idolized the son of Knight of Ellerslie. The story is now given out that Rey El Santa Anita is a confirmed cribber, and if left in a stall over night without a bit in his mouth he becomes bloated. In this way an attempt is made to account for his perplexing in-and-out running. An effort is now being made at Sheepshead Bay to bring Henry of Navarre, Clifford, Domino and Rey El Santa Anita together in three races, one at a mile to be run at Sheepshead Bay, one at a mile and a furlong to be run at Gravesend, and another at a mile and a quarter to be run at Morris Park, the association in each instance to add $2,000.

THE stewards of the National Steeplechase Association at their meeting yesterday withdrew the license of the cross-country rider, P. McInerney, for the balance of the year. By doing so they sustained the action of the Saratoga stewards, who set McInerney down for foul riding on May Blossom. Fouls are rarely recognized in cross-country racing, the rules allowing considerable latitude on account of the accidents and incidents of the sport, but it is just as well that the stewards should read a lesson to jockeys that any act which may be construed into wilful interference will not be tolerated. It is really remarkable to what an extent the men—they are not boys—who ride cross country horses will risk the lives of their opponents at times. The action of the stewards comes at an opportune time to prevent uncalled for accidents at the forth-coming steeplechase meeting at Morris Park.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser, Aug. 27th.

THE Victoria Racing Club issued its annual report and balance-sheet last week, and notwithstanding a falling off in receipts during the year, the overdraft has been reduced by £3221, a result attributable to a reduction in expenses; and it is anticipated that in view of the recent retrenchment, a further saving of £7,000 will be effected during the coming year. The financial statement shows that on the Grand National Meeting of 1894 a profit of £1117 was made. On the Spring Meeting of 1894 there was a profit of £7,950, on the New Year's Day Meeting of 1895 a profit of £395, on the Autumn Meeting of 1895 a profit of £44, and on the Queen's Birthday Meeting of 1895 a profit of £326. The complimentary meeting to Lord Hopetoun resulted in a loss of £460. During the year the sum of £479 had been paid out of the distressed and disabled jockeys' fund to distressed jockeys and for funeral expenses. The club's liabilities are set down at £31,281.—Sydney (N. S. W.) Referee.

HANOVER's prestige as a stallion is becoming greater each day. Milton Young, his owner, recently received a telegram asking him to price the stallion, and replied that he did not want to sell, but needed ready money in his business and would take $75,000. Up to the time I write the sale has not been made. The telegram was, I hear, from John Hunter, of New York, who is said to represent somebody, as he personally has no use for a stallion, but he is said to represent various parties—Col. Thompson, Mr. Keene, Mr. Belmont and Mr. Vanderbilt. There is also a story to the effect that the offer comes from Mr. Allison, the English sale commissioner, who saw Hanover race while on a visit to America in 1887, and was greatly impressed by him. Mr. Allison told me that year at Jerome Park that he considered Hanover a higher class colt than any of the three-year-olds of that year in England. Besides, Hanover represents the male line of Herod, which is becoming scarce in England. Col. Thompson, I know, has expressed a desire to own the stallion. At all events, the success of Halma, The Commoner, Handsprung, Urania and Handspring has given Hanover in two seasons a prestige such as most stallions have not attained in a lifetime.

THERE seems to be a widespread error about the early history of Lissak. He was bred in England, imported in utero and foaled on the farm of Mr. Matt Simpson, of Fayette county, who then owned and still owns his dam. He was sold as a yearling by Mr. Simpson to Jack Chinn for $700. Mr. Simpson has a remarkable record as a breeder, he having never bred a colt which started which was not a stake-winner. The same year he sold Lissak he also sold Major McLaughlin and Montre. The former, although "touched in the wind," ran a mile in 1:40½ and was considered by Col. Chinn, who owned both, a better horse than Lissak. Just before Lissak won the World's Fair Stake Col. Chinn said to Mr. Simpson: "I believe the black colt will win, but I wouldn't give the bay colt (Major McLaughlin) for a field full like him." The year preceding the sale of Lissak, Mr. Simpson sent out Rhett Goode, Oh No and Whitestone; the year before that, The Ironmaster, Dago and Mary D., and the year preceding Simrock. Capability has been unfortunate since Lissak was dropped, and has never thrown a starter. The year after Lissak she dropped a colt by Favor, but it fell in a hole and was killed while still a suckling; the next year she missed, and this year slipped her foal during the big snow storm. This year she was bred to Sir Dixon. She is still a young mare and in fine health.—Thoroughbred Record.

California Jockey Club Stakes.

The splendid list of stakes offered by the California Jockey Club appears in another column. They will be read with pleasure by every lover of a thoroughbred in the land. The amount given in each and every one is large, the conditions most liberal, and with one of the best race tracks in the United States to race on, there is no reason why the largest list of entries ever sent should not be received by the secretary.

There are twenty-two stakes, in which $43,250.00 are guaranteed to the winners—a sum large enough to attract all the owners of big stables in the United States. The distances selected will suit all classes, and no complaints can be made that there are no chances for horse-owners to get races to suit their horses. Entries will close October 25th. Blanks will be issued at once.

ENTRIES for Los Angeles fair will close next Saturday, September 14th. The list of events appears in our business columns, and horsemen should avail themselves of this opportunity of going to this place. Railroad rates will be lowered for them and as the meeting precedes the one given by the P. C. T. H. B. A. there will be plenty of chances for good races. The purses given by the Los Angeles Fair Association amount to $17,500. Everyone in that section of California is enthusiastic over the annual race meeting held there. Do not forget to make your entry. It will pay you to be there.

The following ten Australian stallions comprise the principal winning ones for the year ending July 31, 1895: Grand Flaneur, £9,162; Trenton, £7,613; Sheet Anchor, £5,262; Robinson Crusoe, £4,544; Nordenfeldt, £4,467; Splendor (imp.) £4,353; Marvellous (imp.) £3,951; Chester, £3,425; Grandmaster, £3,421; Abercorn, £3,421.

The closing out sale of fine trotting stock belonging to A. Heilbron & Bro. which is to take place at Sacramento next Wednesday, September 11th, should attract the attention of all horse owners, for a better selected lot of broodmares, colts and fillies have never been offered for sale in Sacramento.

The Dawn of Prosperity.

The greatest race meeting ever held west of New York State has been closed out of deference to our annual State Fair, but the work of improving the Bay District course, where this meeting was held, is being rapidly pushed forward. President Thos. H. Williams, aided by the Board of Directors of the California Jockey Club and Secretary Milroy, has a plan of work outlined which will make this course one of the best in the United States for winter racing. A full account of these improvements appears in another column.

The Pacific Coast Jockey Club is also making great headway in preparing its splendid track for the reception of the horses that are to come there, and if all reports are true there will be very few first-class horses in the United States outside of those which are to appear at both these tracks.

The older association has merited a splendid reputation in the East as well as here, and the new one has to earn its spurs, nevertheless, we should all take pride in the fact that here on the western shore of the continent, in the land by the sunset sea, where a few years ago our thoroughbreds could be counted in five minutes, a magical change has been wrought. The influx of some many hundreds, aye, almost two thousand grandly-bred ones has done more to advertise the natural advantages this State possesses for horses (as well as for their owners and friends) than all the pamphlets ever published. The wealthy men of the East who have heretofore spent their winters in Europe and Florida, have heard so much of our mild and genial winters that westward their eyes are turning, and the knowledge that on this coast they can enjoy an almost tropical climate, see racing of the highest class, visit stock farms where the fields are ever green, and where hospitality reigns is leading their thoughts this way, and in the winter of '95-'96 we can look for hundreds of people who will, in every way, be creditable to us.

Many who came here last winter broken down in health have returned to their Eastern homes determined to sell their lands there and invest the proceeds here. Stock farms will be started and alfalfa fields be seen where naught but wild oats flourish in our valleys. The hillsides will be covered with thoroughbreds that trace to the greatest winners of England, France, Australia and America. The famous blue grass region of Kentucky will occupy a secondary position compared to California within the next five years, and buyers from all parts of Europe, Asia and the islands of the sea will flock hither to purchase stock to improve their breeds of horses.

The fame of our trotters attracted more attention to California as a stock-raising State than anything produced here, while our thoroughbreds are carrying on the good work in conjunction with them, but the latter are only in the commencement of it.

On all the stock farms, race tracks, and among the the wealthiest breeders who have other interests besides that of horse raising, California, and its advantages, are the principal topics of conversation, and why? Our horses are the largest, strongest-made, fastest and handsomest; they are perfection itself and are able to vanquish the very choicest that can be gathered from all other parts of the United States. Then, again, we give race meetings here the like of which has never been seen, and we are going to have two great meetings this winter where breeders can see their horses contest for most valuable purses. There is another reason, too, which men who understand racing appreciate, and that is, this is the best land in the world to winter horses in, and when President Williams returned East a month ago he was gratified to the expressions on all sides: "We heeded your advice last Summer, brought our horses to California, was royally treated while we were there, our horses returned here in better shape than they ever were, and this Winter we want twice as many stalls, for we are coming out and will bring better ones with us." It is a foregone conclusion then that every stall at both places will be filled with horses of a high order. Our hotels will contain many of the leading business men of the East who love the sport of kings and are determined to spend a winter here, and if they like it will decide to make their homes with us. California hospitality is something we have earned a world-wide reputation for ever since the days of '49, and, as a class, our horsemen are worthy exemplars of this, the greatest of all our "natural resources."

The good work established by the California Jockey Club will go on and on until the fame of Derby Day in California will be as great as that in Albion's Isle, and the greatness of the horses bred here will extend to the farthestmost parts of the globe.

Peace and Harmony For All.

After Governor Budd refused to sign the appropriation bills for our county fairs there is no doubt he imagined that by so doing he had killed forever the race meetings in this State, and made thousands of friends in San Francisco, in fact, more than enough to counter-balance those from the rural districts. By his action he found the result just the opposite to what he thought it would be. All of the county fairs were not crushed out of existence, the races were not stopped, and he made more enemies in the city than he did in the country. It was a mistake on his part which will be hard to rectify. The directors of the agricultural societies, and the citizens in the principal cities where races have heretofore been held, called meetings and subscribed liberally for the fairs and for the giving of race meetings, thus furnishing in point of fact, a week's enjoyment to the hard-working farmers and stock raisers, and the people in the cities where all the old and young who love to enjoy a holiday, could meet friends and neighbors and forget for the time being "hard times," "heavy mortgages," "short crops and low prices."

The meetings on the circuit in California in 1895 have been the best ever held, so far as good racing was concerned. The general depression which affects every branch of business has had its effect on the receipts at these places, but at every city the resolution to give a meeting in 1896 is stronger than ever. There may have to be a change in the conditions of entry for the races; undoubtedly this will be done, but it will be beneficial not only to the associations but the horsemen as well. The associations must be in existence if light harness horse breeders and trainers are to survive. Without places to show how valuable as well as how speedy horses are, the end of the industry would come quickly.

The protracted running meeting at the Bay District Track has not been a help to the circuit this year, but a change is spoken of, and no doubt it will be adopted for next year, and that is there will be no Summer meeting from June until November. When trotting-horse men understand this, there will be an ominous silence all along the line; there will be none of these low mutterings about what will be done in the next legislature and the breach between the two industries will not exist. There is no room for it here. In almost every State in the Union there has been a chasm widened between the two, into which the hopes of the breeders and trainers have been plunged beyond all hope of recovery. This State is not large enough for such a catastrophe. The directors of both the California and Pacific Coast Jockey Clubs are able business men who have been identified with light-harness horses as well as thoroughbreds, and by their declarations they will keep both industries united.

This is the Mecca for horses. We are just crossing the threshold of an era of prosperity for all kinds and breeds; we have the climate and natural resources to make this the market of the whole world, and if we protect it we will compel all nations to come to us. Enthusiasm among breeders is as keen to-day as it has ever been, and the small breeder is reaping as much of a harvest as the rich and wealthy one whose thousands of acres are stocked with the choicest-bred horses in the world. The enthusiasm displayed at the meetings this year shows that notwithstanding Governor Budd's action the industry will be kept alive. The harmony existing between the breeders and followers of the gallopers and those who watch the "bikes" is increasing instead of diminishing, and together they will hereafter stand ready to battle for their rights and forbid encroachments upon them. The two industries are closer allied to-day than they ever were in California, because of the announcement that there will be no more long protracted meetings. If this policy had been pursued in many of the Eastern States the disastrous race track war would never have taken place, and the talk about the antagonism of the light-harness horse managers to the running tracks would have been unthought of.

Stockton Races.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—The following races closing on August 24th were declared off by the Board:

Free-for-all two-year-old pace, 2:07 pace, free-for-all trot. The 2:15 trot has filled with the following entries: Hamrock, b g, by Ham—by Rockwood; Iago, by Tempest—by Com. Belmont; Poloma Prince; Margaret Worth, b m, by Alex. Button—by Effingham; Boodle, b s, by Stranger—by Jay Gould; Hillsdale, b s, by Antinous—by Nutwood.

Additional running, trotting and pacing races will be announced later.

President Shippee leaves for Sacramento to-day to make up races to take place of those declared off, and also specials.

C. E. DOAN, Secretary.

Pools sold: Ethel Downes $20, field $20, Native State $7. The start was an excellent one. Lady Thornhill, Dr. Puff and Mojave were in the lead, the rest bunched behind them. Half-way down the backstretch Mojave's harness broke and Snider, his driver, had all he could do to get the son of Dexter Prince steady; by the time he did so, all but Oliver C. were in front of him. Dr. Puff fell back as Lady Thornhill and Ethel Downes passed him. Native State came on the outside and the three leaders came about half a length apart under the wire in this order. Time, 2:17. Dr. Puff was fourth, Letter B. fifth, Rex Gifford sixth, Mojave seventh and Oliver C. last.

Pools sold on the next heat: Ethel Downes $50, Lady Thornhill $20, field $18. When the word was given all the horses were on their stride with the exception of Lady Thornhill, who was running; Sullivan had to bring her to a standstill before she got settled. In the meantime Ethel Downes took the lead, with Native State, Rex Gifford, Dr. Puff, all about a length apart, behind her, and ahead of the others, who were bunched. At the half there was a general closing up of ranks, but Ethel still kept the lead. On entering the stretch Native State came on the inside, but just as he was getting on even terms with Ethel at the seventy-five-yard pole he made a bad break, and the black daughter of Boodle came in an easy winner in 2:16. Dr. Puff third, Mojave fourth, Rex Gifford fifth, Letter B. sixth, Lady Thornhill seventh and Oliver C. last.

This was the most exciting heat of the afternoon. When the word was given Ethel Downes took the lead, but Native State was at her bike, Lady Thornhill third. At the quarter-pole Dr. Puff, who was in the fifth position behind Rex Gifford, now made a drive for the heat, and passed those in front of him in one-two-three order and then hooked onto the leader, Ethel Downes. It was an exciting struggle, but the game trotting mare had the most speed; then Native State, ably driven by G. Mahen, made a terrific drive to the wire, and was only beaten a half length in 2:16½ by the favorite. Dr. Puff was third, half a length further away, Rex Gifford, Mojave, Lady Thornhill, Letter B. and Olive C. coming in the order named.

Just as we predicted in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN three weeks ago she would win her race in Sacramento, for in this last heat after being carried to the quarter by Dr. Puff, she left her companion and won with the greatest of ease in 2:17½. Dr. Puff was three lengths behind, Letter B. fourth, Rex Gifford fifth, Mojave sixth and Oliver C. seventh. Ethel Downes lowered her record of 2:18½ made at Napa to 2:16 to-day. She is the second one sired by Boodle, 2:15, in this State, Thompson, 2:15, being the other one. This is a showing which has not been equalled by many stallions.

The next event was for the 2:40 class, trotters. The starters were Theresa, Coal Dust, Charivari, Fannie C., Dion and Anita. In the pools Charivari sold for $20 against $10 on the field and $10 on Anita. When Judge Wilson gave the word Anita challenged Charivari for the lead, and after Snider, who was driving the latter, saw that the clip was a little too fast he let Anita go by and lead him by seven lengths at the half. Half way down the back turn he began to drive, and at the head of the homestretch he was only three lengths behind her. Coming to the wire he drove well and landed his mare a winner by a length in 2:20½, Coal Dust was third, Fannie C. fourth, Theresa fifth and Dion last.

This was a repetition of the preceding heat, the driver of Anita going to the front and opening a big gap in front of Charivari. The latter gained very fast at the three quarter pole and passed the little mare in the homestretch. Snider, looking back, drove his mare with the Spanish name in under the wire a winner in 2:20½, Fannie C. almost getting the place from the tired Anita. Coal Dust was fourth, Theresa fifth and Dion distanced.

Richard Havey was substituted for C. Rodriguez behind Anita, and George Gray's place behind Fannie C. was taken by C. Durfee, and the hopes of the short-enders rose high. Charivari came in an easy winner, Snider looking back and seeing if they all got inside the distance flag. Fannie C. was second, four lengths behind, Anita third, Coal Dust fourth, Theresa fifth. Time, 2:22.

THIRD DAY—WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 4

Judging by the interest shown in the betting ring last evening in the races (which were decided this afternoon) the attendance ought to have been large, but when the gates were opened the crowd was only a little larger than that of the preceding days. The afternoon's card was the best of the meeting and the events exciting enough to keep everyone interested from start to finish. The weather was delightfully cool and the track as nearly perfect as it possibly could be. Several times during the afternoon the sprinkling cart was sent up and down the homestretch and the course dampened, thus accomplishing two objects, laying the dust and making the track like velvet. The band of music played a number of popular airs and the music sounded far more welcome to the visitors than it did when the band occupied its little space in the grand stand. The bright carnival colors are to be seen everywhere, and even on the race course wherever the green, yellow and red could be placed to the best advantage there they appeared. A number of visitors came from San Francisco on the morning train and returned to the Bay city on the overland train which left Sacramento at seven in the evening.

A stroll among the stalls where the various breeds of cattle are stabled is well worth a visit, for a better collection was never driven through the gates of these fair grounds. The judges will have a difficult task to perform when they try to select the prize winners in each breed.

The greatest system prevails in the management of the fair this year and everything moves like clockwork; no hitch anywhere.

Stalls containing the greatest thoroughbreds, trotters, pacers, draft horses and ponies ever seen in this State are also visited by admiring throngs previous to the race meeting and between the heats. Every owner takes a pride in keeping all animals in their care, as well as the stalls, as neat as possible, and the absence of drunken, dirty-looking hangers-on around the stables was noticeable. Owners and trainers now-a-days give this class a wide berth and are very strict about keeping such individuals away from them.

At half-past one o'clock the bell in the judges' stand was heard, and the crowds of people who were sight seeing proceeded to the grand stand and waited for the races to begin.

The judges were President C. M. Chase, J. Wilcox and J. Matthews. Timers were: H. J. Agnew, T. J. Crowley and Ray Falk.

The first event of the afternoon was the 2:20 pace for three-year-olds. The starters were Ed. Lafferty, Javelin, Roan Wilkes and Capt. Hackett. In the pools Javelin was favorite at $50 at $20 on field. When the word was given the quartette were on even terms. After passing the first eighth Javelin, who was leading by a length from Roan Wilkes, broke and fell back to third place. Down the back stretch the horses were in the following order, Roan Wilkes, Ed Lafferty, Javelin and Capt. Hackett. Coming to the wire the latter passed to third position. Roan Wilkes jogged home in 2:20½ three lengths in front of Ed. Lafferty, who was a like distance ahead of Capt. Hackett, the favorite last.

In the second heat Roan Wilkes sold at $20 against $11 on the field. Chaboya lay back with Javelin in third position until the quarter-pole was reached. Then he moved the mare up and at the half he had passed Ed Lafferty and was on even terms with Roan Wilkes. The pair then paced like a team all the way to the wire, Sullivan giving another one of his exhibitions of good driving by landing his horse a winner by a nose in 2:16.

The next heat of the pace was one that will never be forgotten. The two favorites, Roan Wilkes and Javelin, paced side by side all the way around; first one would be ahead and then the other. The half was made in 1:05½ and to the wire it was a great struggle, Sullivan sitting like a statue, urging his game little pacer by that wonderful magnetism for which men of his calibre are known to possess, while Chaboya was lifting his little mare in and using voice and whip, but Roan Wilkes had the most speed and landed the race a winner in the splendid time for a three-year-old of 2:12½. The winner is by Raymond (a son of Simmons), and his dam was Berline, by Berlin. Sullivan covered himself with glory in winning this race. Javelin's exhibition of speed was also commented most favorably upon. She was outclassed to-day. However, if she had not "stubbed her toe" in the first heat there is every reason to believe the average of the heats would have been much faster.

In the 2:17 trotting race there were ten entries—Margaret Worth, Stranger, Nellie W., Myrtle Thorne, Lady O., Geo. Dexter, Hillsdale, Thompson, Bruno and McZeus. Pools sold field $20, Thompson $15, Bruno $9 and McZeus $5. When the half field got the word Nellie W., a 100 to 1 shot for the heat, had the pole and kept this position all the way. Hillsdale and Bruno were at her bike, Myrtle Thorne fourth. At the half mile pole Hillsdale, who forged ahead, broke and ran nearly an eighth of a mile. Myrtle Thorne and Bruno then came like a double team and had a battle for place, the latter winning by a nose. Nellie W. was a length ahead in the excellent time of 2:15½, the three favorites not being anywhere near the front. Hillsdale was fourth, Lady O. fifth, Geo. Dexter sixth, Margaret Worth seventh, Thompson eighth, Stranger ninth and McZeus last.

Another surprise was in store for the talent, for after the word was given Nellie W. broke and fell back. Bruno took the lead and kept it to the three-quarter pole. Myrtle Thorne was second until the half-mile post was passed, then Lady O. came on and passing her was at Bruno's neck as the horse got into the homestretch. Down to the wire it was a horse race of the exciting kind, Lady O.; winning by a length. Myrtle Thorne was second, a head in front of Bruno, George Dexter fourth at the latter's bike, the rest inside the distance post. Time, 2:16.

In the pools for the next heat, field was $20, Stranger $10, Lady O. $10. The start was a good one for all but Thompson and Nellie W., both of whom were running, Lady O., Geo. Dexter and Myrtle Thorne taking the lead. The race was a good one. All the horses were bunched until the homestretch was reached, then the drivers began to urge their horses. Lady O. got on the inside and outtropped Geo. Dexter to the wire in 2:16, Hillsdale third.

In the next heat Geo. Dexter took the lead from Lady O. and was fully a length in advance of her going down the backstretch, when he broke, and before Bennett, his driver, could get him settled Lady O., Hillsdale, Myrtle Thorne and Nelly W. passed him and to the three quarter pole the horses were all hunched and many of them running. Hillsdale also did a little of the galloping. On entering the stretch Nelly W. fell back and the result of the race centered in Hillsdale and Lady O.; the former won by a length in 2:18. The driver of Lady O. protested against the decision on account of the long run, but it was not allowed. Myrtle Thorne was third, Bruno fourth, McZeus fifth, Nellie W. sixth.

According to the rule all horses that had not won a heat in four nad to go to the stable. This left but three horses to contend until the finish of the race. To the surprise of every one Hillsdale won the next heat from Lady O. after one of the most exciting finishes seen at this meeting. Hillsdale was capitally driven by Chas. Durfee, while the hard campaigner, Lady O., although having fought for the front in every heat, was handled in superb style by Mr. Marchand, and only lost the heat by a neck in 2:20½.

Odds on the deciding heat sold as follows: $20 on Lady O. against $7 on the field. The judgment of the backers of the favorite was good, for the mare won the concluding heat and race in 2:22½, Hillsdale second and Nellie W. third.

The 2:15 pace brought out six pacers, Phenol, Belle, Pathmont, Edna R., Del Norte and Hanford Medium. In the pools Pathmont was almost a prohibitive favorite, selling at $40 against $7 on Phenol and $5 on the field.

When the word was given Phenol took the lead. Pathmont trailed her until the half-mile pole was reached. Then he passed her, and Hanford Medium, who was third, closed up a big gap and was at Phenol's wheel. Down to the three-quarter pole Pathmont kept gaining a little and then as they entered the stretch he was a length in the lead. Phenol shot to the front for an instant, but Keating called upon Pathmont and the splendid son of Altamont left his gray competitor and won with the utmost ease by two lengths in 2:10½. Hanford Medium was third, Del Norte fourth, Edna R. fifth and Belle last, just inside the flag.

Pathmont had the lead and never lost it from start to finish. Phenol was second; Hanford Medium and Belle were right at her shoulder until the three-quarter pole was reached. Phenol broke, and Belle shot to the front and challenged the flying Pathmont, but the latter had no trouble to keep in front and won easily in 2:12. Del Norte passed Hanford Medium and came in third.

In the third heat Pathmont led from start to finish, Hanford Medium being only a few lengths behind as the son of the great Altamont come in a winner in 2:12. Edna R., the daughter of Sidney, was half a length behind Hanford Medium, Del Norte fourth, Phenol fifth and Belle, who was quite lame, last.

THE second annual announcement of the California Veterinary College has just been issued. The result of the year's work has been most satisfactory. The most thorough examinations are required of students, and every facility is afforded for the study of all that pertains to the anatomy physiology and hygiene of horses, cattle, dogs, etc. The curriculum of the college comprises the fundamental sciences and covers a period of three winter sessions of over six months each, commencing on the 1st day of October of each year, and ending April 1st of the following year. The theoretical instructions will be by didactic lectures, class demonstrations and recitations. The facilities for instructions are equal to any in this country, and the courses extend from the first element of medicine to the latest researches in veterinary science at home and abroad. The dean of the faculty is F. W. Skaife D. V. S. M. R. C. V. S. and the secretary is A. A. Cunningham, F. C. S., F. G. The faculty is composed of some of the leading veterinarians on this coast, and those who graduate from this college will be as well qualified to practice as those who have spent thousands of dollars in the European colleges. It is a thriving institution, and appeals especially to the young men of California who wish to engage in this splendid and at all times profitable profession.

Alameda Speed Track Races.

The Alameda Driving Association is sparing no effort to make their first races, to be held on the speed track on September 21st, a success. Nearly every member has entered a horse, and the collection of prizes offered will be a fine one. The entries so far are as follows:

Free-for-all pace—I. L. Borden's b m Allie Cresco, Mambry McMahon's h g Jessie P., Shell Martin's Big Bertha, O. K. Cohen's bl s Sable Steinway, Dr. Dunn's bay pacer.

Free-for-all trot—H. Wichman's bay mare, W. Baehr's black gelding, A. W. Finch's gray stallion, William Higby's b g Don, T. Moran's black gelding.

Half-mile trot—Judge Ellsworth's bl g Bob, H. P. Moreal's br g Dick, H. Koerber's brown gelding.

2:30 trot and pace—E. F. Arnold's black gelding, George Plummer's bay mare, William Bellinger's gray gelding.

Three-minut trot and pace—A. G. Bevin's b m Dolly B., Labben Bros' bay gelding, Stanford Bennett's bay mare, O. A. Gott's chestnut mare, E. B. Bain's b m Faunola.

Azote Lowers All Records.

GALESBURG, ILL., Sept. 5.—This has been another record-breaking day for the Galesburg track, and the great Azote was the one to lower his own mark of 2:05½, made at Fleetwood a few days ago, and also to trot the fastest mile ever trotted in 1895. Not only this, but it is the fastest mile ever trotted by a gelding.

A strong wind blew up the stretch during the afternoon, and it was not until after six o'clock that McDowell appeared on the track with Azote to go for the mile. He was accompanied by a runner, and after two attempts to get the word the horses were sent away. To the quarter they went in 0:29½, and around to the half they came in 1:01½. To the three-quarters with the runner close to him, Azote passed the pole in 1:34. McDowell urged his horse a little and he passed under the wire in 2:04½, the fastest mile trotted by any horse this year.

The Champion Trotting Gelding, Azote, 2:06 1-2.

Size is just now unusually conspicuous in the very fastest. Nearly all the champion thoroughbreds are from 16 to 17 hands high, and of late years the very fastest on the running turf have been considerably taller and larger than formerly. With the trotters and pacers there have all along been more or less that were decidedly above the medium in height and size, still quite a large proportion of the champions, particularly from Flora Temple to Alix, which as yet holds the trotting championship, and Robert J., whose pacing mark of 2:01½ has not yet been lowered, have been considerably below rather than above the medium in size.

The most sensational trotting and pacing records of recent years have been those of Arion (two years, 2:10½), Directum (race record, 2:05½), Nancy Hanks (2:04), Alix (2:03½). Flying Jih (with running mate 1:53½) and Robert J. (2:02½). As all of these are below the medium in height and size many breeders, and more especially those who own stock that is undersized, have been disposed to claim that small animals were much more likely to make extremely fast time than the largest. If there is any ground for such a claim as regards the trotters and pacers it lies in the fact that the undersized animals are still to far too great an extent in the majority of those bred for extreme speed. With the thoroughbreds, liberal feeding and superior care have had their effects on the size, so that beyond question the average thoroughbred of to-day is much larger than one hundred years ago.

One of the highest trotters that has yet appeared is the highly-bred gelding Azote, which at Cleveland, July 31st, so easily defeated Hulda and Ryland T., reducing the champion record for a gelding to 2:06½, that it is generally conceded there are now none capable of beating him in a race, and that he is the most likely to reduce the trotting mark still closer to the inevitable two-minute limit.

Among the pacers Joe Patchen holds a very similar place, and he is fully as large as Azote. Never before have two so extremely large been as prominent. Forty years ago the big pacing mare Pocahontas reduced the pacing record to wagon to 2:17½ and more decidedly out-classed all her contemporaries than does any one at the present time. She was very tall and large, yet not as tall or as large as either Joe Patchen or Azote. Since her time numerous large pacers have been prominent, Johnston, that reduced the record to 2:06½, being most conspicuous, though he was not so extremely large as the handsome black stallion, Joe Patchen.

Among the champion trotters Rarus was the first to approximate sixteen hands. St. Julien, his successor, was above the medium, and Maud S., that so long held the champion honors, was larger than St. Julien and nearly as large as Rarus. Sunol, her successor, is very tall, being fully sixteen hands forward and two inches higher behind, but not an extremely heavy mare.

Among the very noted campaigners that were large Lady Thorn stands out the most conspicuous, as she was 16.1 and a big mare in every respect. She was much faster than any other of her day, and there is not the least doubt that she trotted a mile in 2:10½ when the trotting record was at 2:17½. She has to her credit 106 heats in 2:30, a very large proportion of which were in 2:20. Ericsson, by the same sire and foaled the same year, was enormously large, being about seventeen hands high and heavy in proportion, still he was the champion four-year-old trotter of his day, and for his opportunities proved quite a successful sire. Great Eastern, that still holds the champion saddle record, was another enormously large horse. Fantasy, that now holds the champion three and four-year-old records, is considerably above the average, as is true of Martha Wilkes, that reduced the race record to 2:08½.

Of the champion stallions Geo. M. Patchen was large, particularly in contrast with Flora Temple, Ethan Allen and most others with which he competed. Smuggler was above the medium in size, while Mambrino Gift was 16 hands, Nelson is nearly as tall, and Allerton, the first stallion to beat 2:10, is upwards of 16 hands high, while Palo Alto, Kremlin and Stamboul are very decidedly above the medium.

Mr. Hamlin's horses have generally been of quite good size, and particularly those that have held the champion team records, as well as those making the mark for three abreast. Phyllis, with 130 heats in 2:30, was very large, and so was Clemmie G., with whom she frequently competed. Moose was another very large trotter that has more than fifty heats to his credit in 2:30, and there are plenty more that might be named, enough to demonstrate very clearly that size is no very special disadvantage in point of speed or endurance, while for most other purposes than racing it materially adds to the value.

An extremely good little horse may be better for numerous uses than an inferior large one, but there is no question but what a good big horse, for nearly every place, is more valuable and preferable to even a good little one.

Azote is so very large that even the 16 hand trotters with which he has competed look small beside him. He is a very well-proportioned horse, and as he is good-gaited, with neither awkwardness nor waste action, in no respect does his extreme size appear to be any disadvantage. He is a bay gelding with white hind ankles, is a bright, handsome though not very dark shade of bay, and at every point shows high breeding, together with a more than ordinary amount of finish. He is of the type of many of the most highly-bred Electioneers, and as his mark is now lower than that of any other bred at Palo Alto, his breeding and characteristics are of special interest.

Azote was foaled in 1887, consequently he is now eight years old. As a colt he attracted very little attention, chiefly from the fact that his dam was not at all superior, either individually or by breeding, had shown no speed herself, and had produced nothing of any prominence. Though she was bred as a three-year-old, and has been used constantly as a broodmare, but for Azote she would rank to-day as of about the least profit and importance of any that have yet been given an opportunity on that famous farm. During those years when Palo Alto was sending out the most trotters, so numerous were the foals at this noted establishment that only the most promising were trained for speed, and as it costs practically nothing to keep horses at pasture, many were sent up to the Vina Ranch that had they been developed would undoubtedly have been specially prominent on the turf.

Azote was one of the many regarded as of comparatively little value that were sent to this ranch, but as he was all along of good size and very pleasant disposition, he was when quite young put into service there, being used for a time on a four-horse team, and did his part remarkably well. Every one who has ever handled this big gelding has taken quite a liking to him, and he was an especial favorite with the superintendent of the Vina Ranch, who first called Hickok's attention to him when this noted reinsman was looking for something to campaign, and insisted that if trained he would make a very fast trotter.

Neither Hickok nor Gov. Stanford nor any of the noted horsemen who had been at Palo Alto had ever picked out this big fellow as a probable candidate for champion honors, and it was somewhat reluctantly that Hickok consented to see him harnessed, but when in harness Azote showed so well that he concluded to take him along, and ever since his first start, which was at Grand Rapids, Mich., August 9, 1892, where he won the three-minute class in straight heats in 2:24½, 2:25½, 2:21½, he has been thought well of as a trotter and a race horse. At Chicago, a week later, he reduced his record to 2:15½, and in the third heat of a seven-heat race at Indianapolis, which, however, was finally won by Lord Clinton, and a new record made on that occasion, the big gelding reduced his mark to 2:14½, winning first or second money in every race of that year.

In 1893 he started five times, but failed to reduce his record and won only one of those races, though in two of the others he was a close second to Pixley in faster time. In one of the others he was beaten by Muta Wilkes, Bush and Lightning in 2:12½, 2:12, and in the other by Directum, Phoebe Wilkes, Hazel Wilkes and Pixley in 2:11½, 2:11½, 2:09½, he being in this race for the first and only time in his whole career behind the money. It was then generally supposed he had practically reached his limit, and he was purchased about that time for a small amount by Monroe Salisbury, who has been so remarkably successful, not only in his selections, but also in campaigning those he has selected. Mr. Salisbury generally keeps his horses quite busy, and in 1894 Azote is credited with having started in seventeen races, in ten of which he won, was second in six and third in one, finishing with a record of 2:08½, and third heat team record of 2:23½, which was really a wonderful campaign. While horsemen generally were then well aware of his excellence, probably few if any then expected Azote had quite as much in reserve as is now apparent.

Low-bred horses often reach their limit quickly, but those that are very highly bred generally keep on improving until they are broken down, and Azote, notwithstanding his great size, has not yet apparently begun to give way, consequently it would be very difficult to predict just what will be his ultimate limit.

This year he began the season early by trotting a race at Fresno, Cal., in the free-for-all, February 1, against Nightingale and Klamath. Here he was not evidently in trotting trim, and the race was won by Nightingale in 2:14½, 2:12, 2:14, though Azote was second the first heat and well up each of the others. He started in two races in California in February, in one of which he won the second heat in 2:12, and in the other won in straight heats in 2:09½, 2:11½, 2:10½. Since crossing the mountains he has won at La Crosse, Wis., where he reduced the champion record for a gelding a half second also at Saginaw, Mich., and Cleveland, beating among others the famous Directum (2:05½), Fantasy (2:06), Ryland T. (2:07½), Hulda (2:08½) and Muta Wilkes, all of which he has vanquished so effectually that at present there appears to be nothing capable of competing with him. His career from this time on will be watched with especial interest.

Of the many stallions bred at Palo Alto it is safe to say that the favorites with Gov. Stanford were Palo Alto, 2:08½, Azmoor, 2:20½, and Whips, 2:27½, all sons of that famous sire, Electioneer. Of these as a performer Palo Alto was clearly entitled to the highest rank, and undoubtedly also on breeding, particularly from a trotting standpoint, as his dam, Dame Winnie, has proven such a famous producer. Still the dams of both the others, though also thoroughbreds, are in the great broodmare list.

Lizzie Whips, the dam of Whips, is by Enquirer, a superior son of imported Leamington, one of the most famous of thoroughbred sires. The next two crosses are quite similar to those of Palo Alto, Whips' second dam being by Vandal, a son of imported Glencoe, while the second dam of Palo Alto is by imported Glencoe, and the third dam of each is by imported Margrave, a strain that occurs in very many of the extremely fast trotters and pacers. Whips was not used as extensively in the stud as many of the other sons of Electioneer, still there is no question but what he is destined to hold a very prominent place as a sire.

Josie, the dam of Azote, has only three other foals that lived, and of those two are geldings, one by Whips and the other by Clay, but we are not aware that either of them have ever shown any special speed. The other is now a yearling colt and a full brother to Azote. Josie is by Whipple's Hambletonian, a fairly well-bred and quite successful sire, dam by Speculation, that was three-quarters brother to Whipple's Hambletonian and has four in the list; second dam Lady Joslyn, whose breeding is unknown. Both the sire and dam of Azote should be credited with more or less influence; still, there is scarcely a doubt that to this sire is this successful trotter most indebted.—"Vision," in Horse Breeder.

JOCKEY WILLIE FLYNN was reinstated by the Board of Stewards last Saturday night. He was thoroughly penitent, and declares that he will never, in future, veer from the path of righteousness. It was principally through the untiring efforts of Starter Ferguson (who really caused the boy to come to this coast) that he was reinstated, and Willie will accept no mount for some time to come that Mr. Ferguson does not pass upon. Young Flynn is a good rider and comes from a family of horsemen that has always borne good reputations. We earnestly hope that the lesson of the past few months will never be forgotten by this, the youngest member, and that he will, if approached to do a dishonest act in the saddle, expose the scoundrel without delay, as he deserves to be.

PIERRE LORILLARD has apparently tired of America, says a New York dispatch of September 3d. He is making arrangements to follow the example of William Waldorf Astor and go to England to reside. He has placed his magnificent household on the market through a well-known yacht agency, and it is said he intends disposing of his country seat at Jobstown, N. J., where he owns 1,000 acres. His household is a palatial affair, and cost a fortune. It is one of the pioneer households in this country, and a hobby with Mr. Lorillard. He kept it in Florida, and spent his winters on board of it, entertaining in princely style. It is luxuriously fitted up, and possesses all the comforts of an elegantly appointed country house.

Mr. H. M. La Rue's Reply.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—My attention to-day was called to an article published in the Sacramento Bee, being copied from the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, and signed by Mr. Charles A. Winship, referring to my rulings at the Napa meeting, to which he seems to take exceptions. A petition signed by Mr. Charles A. Winship, Thos. E. Keating and other horsemen was directed to President Adams, asking that Frank W. Covey be appointed Starting Judge instead of myself. The communication of Mr. Chas. A. Winship does not give to the public my decisions and rulings, to which he takes exceptions.

I am aware that the decisions of the judges in placing the two first horses in one heat was questioned as to its correctness. But the three judges were unanimous in the belief that no error was made, notwithstanding the opinion of other gentlemen who were outside of the stand. If a mistake was made in the decision of that heat (which is barely possible) the other judges were as much at fault as I. We are all liable to make mistakes sometimes. I did make a ruling at that meeting that I know was not satisfactory to Mr. Charles A. Winship, who framed, circulated and whose name heads the list of petitioners, and his driver and partner, Mr. T. A. Keating, follows next. Said ruling was made in accordance with the rules as I understood them, and in the interest of fair and honest racing, I know.

Mr. Keating, the driver of Hamrock, owned by Winship & Keating, pulled his horse and did not try to win the heat, so the judges believed. After the finish of the heat Mr. Winship was called to the stand and informed of the acts of his driver in holding his horse and not trying to win the heat. He admitted the fact, but contended that they had that right, that they were out to win the race and had a right to lay up the heat if they so desired. I informed him that I held differently, and asked him to inform his driver that such conduct was contrary and in violation of the rules, and would not be tolerated, and that if the act was repeated I would fine him $100, and for a second like offense I would rule him off.

Before the starting of the next heat I publicly announced that there seemed to be a misunderstanding as to the right to lay up a heat or heats.

That I held that under the rules and in the interest of fair racing drivers had no right to lay up a heat and must drive in every heat to win if possible to do so, without injury to the horse, and that so long as I was in the stand I would enforce the rules as I understood them.

At all times when in the discharge of the (not pleasant or desirable) duties of presiding judge at the numerous meetings throughout the State for the past seventeen years I have earnestly endeavored to enforce the rules as I found them, without fear or favor, to treat every owner and driver alike fairly and justly, and to further the interest of fair and honest racing.

If in so doing I have interfered to such an extent as to prevent the accomplishment of some job or fraud by the laying up of heats or otherwise, I can only say that I have no regrets or apology to make for doing my duty. I am firmly of the opinion that it is the duty of the judges in every instance to protect the other horseman engaged in the race and the public who desire honest and square racing and the strict enforcement of the rules. It is, I suppose, to my ruling in the case of his driver that Mr. Winship so much objects.

By publishing the above you will much oblige yours very truly,
H. M. LA RUE.

Bay District's New Track.

A part of the Bay District track will be cut up and graded, but not for building lots, as has been reported so often of late. The grading will be for the purpose of constructing a new track inside of the mile course, where racing can safely be conducted during the rainy weather.

Plans for the track are now in the hands of President Williams of the California Jockey Club, and work was commenced this week. A large force of workmen will be employed, and it is expected that the new track will be completed and ready to race on in thirty days.

The track will include some of the old steeplechase course, and will be a little over seven furlongs in circumference. Only sand and a little loam will be used for the track bed. It will not be as fast as the mile course, but it will be safe and the very best stake horses can race over it with perfect safety, no matter how bad the weather may be.

Racegoers will well remember what a condition the Bay District track was in during the rainy weather last winter. At one time the track was fully a foot deep in sticky and holding mud. Horses fell and the lives of jockeys were in grave danger every time they went to the post. Then the management tore out the steeplechase jumps, which at that time were stationary, and constructed a rough course where racing was conducted with safety until the main track dried out.

But this track had its disadvantages, the principal one of which was a steep hill which rose to a very short stretch run. Before making the hill the horses were lost to view from the grand stand and the public was left to guess what was going on until the horses came in view again, and before much could be seen of the finish the field flashed past the wire and the race was over.

It is to do away with the hill that the grading will be done, and in order to make a good job of it a new track must be built from the bend on the backstretch, near where the steeplechasers enter the main track, to the judge's stand, a distance of about three-eighths of a mile. This addition will afford the public a full view of the races, and virtually give the Bay District three tracks to race on, viz., the mile track, the new inside track and the old steeplechase course.

When seen last Saturday evening Mr. Williams said: "They have been keeping me hustling denying the stories that the Bay District is to be cut up, but now I must admit there is to be some grading myself, and when the work is completed I will show you the prettiest and safest track I have ever seen. We will have a track that will be absolutely safe and where any owner or trainer can speed the best he has in his stable. The new track will be used in wet weather. The main track has been greatly improved since last winter, and now it dries out much faster, and, of course, will be greatly benefited by not being cut up when soft."

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

The Empire Gun Club will shoot at its grounds at Alameda Point to-morrow.

The Olympic Gun Club will hold its last shoot of the season on Sunday next at Oakland Race Track.

The Pastime Gun Club of Oakland will open their club house at Alviso Bridges to-morrow, and will make extensive improvements.

C. Robinson and O. M. Feudner used Dupont Smokeless at the Sacramento tournament this week. J. S. Fanning used the new "Gold Dust."

J. G. Messner, the winner of the Grand American Handicap, accepted the challenge of E. H. McWhorter for a series of matches at 100 live birds for $100 a side and on the 23d he won the first of the series with a score of 93 to 91.

Clubs desiring to join the California Inanimate Target Association and participate in the tournament must join before September 15th. The annual dues are $10. There is no initiation fee. Address Geo. Schaefer, Sec., Stockton, Cal.]

The Alameda County Sportsmen's Club have moved their ark from beautiful Belvidere to the (to them) more beautiful Sonoma marsh, and are now getting ready for October 15th, painting the ducking boats, putting up new blinds and getting ready for the winter.

Forest and Stream repeats its assertion that the shipment of duck eggs from Alaska is a colossal fake. Tee same week the editor of the Northwest Sportsman states that he has talked with men who have seen the egg-hunters gathering them for market in Alaska and Behring Sea. As the latter editor is much nearer the seat of war, we are inclined to think that he is right. The Seattle Argus has also taken up the fight.

A Deputy Attorney-General, 15th assistant or something of that sort, put the sportsmen of this State all at sea a short while ago by giving his opinion that all the ordinances of the Boards of Supervisors of the various counties of their State, relating to game, were null and void. When the matter was brought to the attention of the Attorney-General he quickly contradicted the statement. This leaves the Alameda county rail law as it was, viz.: Rail cannot be shot until October 15, 1896, in Alameda county.

The Limited Gun Club of Indianapolis will hold a tournament on Tuesday and Wednesday next that is for amateurs only. Manufacturers' agents, professionals, 10 gauge guns and black powder are barred. This club has spent over $5,000 in the purchase, improvement and equipment of its grounds and proposes to look after the interests of the amateurs. Shooters will be classified as they enter and will be shifted only as it becomes apparent that they are out of their class. Class A will shoot known angles, reverse order, add Class B at known traps, known angles.

The average shooting is what makes the standing of a blue enthusiast. It is not the phenomenal scores, but the what are made under pressure. The following shooters five of the matches between the Lincoln, Electric and clubs and made the following percentages: Wehh Feudner 89, Bruns 88, Stewart 86, Nauman 85, H. Golcher 85, Daniels 83, Varney 81, Dehenham 80, Billington 78, Edg. Forster 77, Fischer 76, Baker 75, Fanning 75, Slade 73, Karney 73, Edg. Forster 72, Potter 71, Wenzel 68. Of those that shot four matches of the five, Quinton got 78 1/2 per cent., Ingalls 72 1/2 per cent., Andrus 70 per cent.

California Inanimate Target Association Tournament.

A meeting of the tournament committee of the California Inanimate Target Association was held at the Olympic Gun Club rooms on Saturday evening of last week, and considerable business was transacted. Col. S. I. Kellogg was in the chair.

On motion of M. C. Allen a committee on transportation was appointed by the chair. The committee consist of O. M. Judy, C. J. Haas and A. A. Martin.

The American Association rules with slight alterations will govern the shooting. Shooters who load the gun before going to the score and commit other offenses of like nature will be fined on the spot and must pay before they shoot. Every shooter will be given a good bird to shoot at, but it is quite likely that if a shooter puts a shell into the left hand harrel and pulls the right hand trigger he will not be called upon to shoot again until the next round.

In case of a tie all money prizes will be divided. All ties for merchandise prizes will be shut off in the next match, except in the Individual Championship match. A tie for the Association Medal must be shot off according to American Association rules.

The programme as given below is the proposed programme of the tournament committee, and is, of course, subject to alteration, but will give the shooters of this State an idea of what they are losing by not joining the association. Ten clubs have joined the association, and four more will unquestionably do so before the 15th. The proposed programme is as follows:

FIRST DAY—OCTOBER 6.

10 bird match, for practice, 50 cents entrance.
 15 singles, known traps, known angles, entrance 50 cents.
 Five classes, merchandise prizes.

15 singles, known traps, unknown angles, entrance 75 cents.
 Ten classes, merchandise prizes.

The Association Team Championship Trophy, for six men teams, one team only from each club, entrance $6.00, 20 birds per man, known traps, known angles. In future this match will be shot at known traps, unknown angles. Trophy must be won three times, not necessarily consecutively, before it can become the property of the winners. Each man competing in the winning team will be presented with an association button emblematic of the event.

20 singles, known traps, known angles, $1 entrance, second harrel breaks to count half.

SECOND DAY—OCTOBER 7.

The Individual Championship medal match at 20 singles, known traps, known angles, $1 entrance, must be won three times to become the property of the winner, not necessarily consecutively. After being once won, one-half of the entrance money to go to the holder of the medal. To induce a large entry there will be a large number of merchandise prizes added to this match. There will be fifteen classes.

Team shoot for the Overland Monthly Trophy valued at $125, 20 birds, 6 men teams. Conditions not yet announced.
 Consolation Handicap, 15 singles. Handicapped by a secret method and by a secret committee.

10 singles, entrance 50 cents, known traps, unknown angles, previous winners barred.

There will be six cash prizes for the six highest average scores. To compete for these the shooter must compete in all events except the team shoots. The prizes will be $10, $7.50, $6, $4.50, $2.50, $1.50.

The Selby Smelting & Lead Works have donated $50 in cash to the prize money. The Dupont Powder Co. and the U. S. Powder Co. will also give substantial donations.

Los Angeles Tournament.

The Inaugural Semi-Annual Tournament of the Los Angeles City Gun Club will be held at their grounds in Los Angeles on September 21 and 22 next. All are invited to come early and stay late. The entry fee includes price of birds. American Shooting Association Rules will govern all matches. The programme is a very good one. It is as follows:

FIRST DAY.

First—10 singles. $1.00 entrance, 3 moneys.
 Second—15 singles. $1.50 entrance, 3 moneys.
 Third—5 pairs, doubles. $1.00 entrance, 3 moneys.
 Fourth—Team match for Fifty Dollar trophy donated by the club. Five men to each team; 25 birds per man. Open to any team. Entrance fee $5.00, including birds. Trophy subject to challenge; match to be shot at place designated by holder of trophy, within thirty days from challenge. Conditions same as first contest as to number of birds and number of men composing teams.
 Fifth—20 singles. $2.00 entrance, 4 moneys.
 Sixth—10 singles. $1.00 entrance, 3 moneys. Reverse rules to govern.
 Seventh—15 singles. $1.50 entrance, 3 moneys.
 Eighth—5 singles and 5 pairs doubles. $1.50 entrance, 3 moneys.
 Pool shooting the rest of the day.

SECOND DAY.

First—10 singles, $1 entrance, 3 moneys.
 Second—10 singles, 75 cents entrance, 3 moneys. Reverse rule to govern.
 Third—20 singles. Prize shoot. $1.50 entrance. High guns to win prizes. Ties to be shot off, miss and out. 18 prizes.
 Fourth—5 pairs, doubles. $1 entrance, 3 moneys.
 Fifth—50 singles. Individual championship of Southern California. $1 entrance, birds extra. Open to all shooters of Southern California. Trophy to be contested for at the grounds of the Los Angeles City Gun Club at their Fall and Spring meets. Entrance money after first contest to go to the holder of the trophy.
 Sixth—15 singles. $1.50 entrance. 3 moneys.
 Promiscuous pool shooting the rest of the day.

The principal talk of the town now is the coming tournament of the California State Inanimate Target Association. It is thought that at least 150 shooters will compete in some of the events of this tournament.

Curlew shooting continues good. Some excellent hags have been made the past week at Ellia's landing.

The California Wing Shooting Club.

The California Wing Shooting Club is the only live bird shooting club in this vicinity that has any life left in it. The others bring out from 3 to 6 men each. The final shoot of the California Wing brought out sixteen shooters. Robinson was decidedly out of form and the birds were in grand form in the morning. Those used in the afternoon were a decidedly poor lot. The first class medal for the season was won by O. M. Feudner, Crittenden Robinson took the second medal. Feudner beat Robinson one bird for the medal and Robinson beat Wehh but one bird for second place. The regular monthly match was won by Feudner with 10, both of his lost birds were dead out of bounds. Warder, who shot with the club by invitation, also killed ten out of his dozen. David Thom officiated as referee and as usual gave good satisfaction. The score was as follows:

O. M. Feudner.....	211*11211*21—10
G. W. Warder.....	211201111022—10

Five six-bird sweepstakes followed the main event. Six men tied with six each in the first event and it was carried over into the next match. In the second sweep Wehh won first money in both events, Robinson, Slade and Fanning divided second and third. In the third Feudner, Hornung and Haight divided the purse. The money in the fourth was carried to the fifth, Wehh winning both. Robinson, Feudner and Fanning divided second and third. The score:

A freeze-out followed, Robinson winning with six kills. Fanning's sixth bird fell to the ground apparently dead, but when the dog reached it, it quietly skipped away.

At Sacramento.

The first day of the fourteenth annual tournament of the California State Sportsmen's Association at Sacramento brought out a fair attendance of blue rock shooters. Arthur Wehh of Oakland was an easy first, winning four out of the seven events. Otto Feudner of this city was first in two events and divided second and third in three others.

Feudner won the first event, at 10 single blue rocks, Wehh, Shield, Chick, Johnson, Judd and Zentgraf with 9 each, Dietz and Richards 8, Andrus and Fanning 7, Stevens and Haight 6, Robinson 5.

The second event at 20 singles, $20 added, $2 entrance, was won by Shield of Traver with 18, Warder second with 17, Zentgraf, Chick and Nicolaus third with 16. Johnson, Richards, Feudner and Stevens 15, Wehh and Robinson 14, Haight and Andrus 13, Dietz and Fanning 12.

The third event was at 10 singles and five pairs, $20 added, $2.50 entrance. Johnson won first money with 17, Feudner and Chick divided second and third with 16, Warder 05, Shiell 14, Fanning, Robinson and Richards 13, Nichols, Eckhardt and Zentgraf 12.

The next event was the team shoot at 20 singles. Three men-teams. Six teams entered, a made-up team winning, called the Siskiyou and San Diego, consisting of Chick, of San Diego, Warder, of San Francisco, and Winders, of Stockton. The scores were as follows:

Stockton—Johnson, 15; Richards, 20; Shiell, 12—49.
Tail-Enders—Nicolaus, 17; Zentgraf, 11; Stevens 13—41.
California Wing—Feudner, 18; Fanning, 16; Wehh 10—44.

San Diego and Siskiyou—Chick, 18; Warden 17; Winders 16—51.
Morrison Flanders—Eckhardt, 3; Morrisson 11; Robbins, 13—37.

The next event at 25 singles, $20 added, entrance $3 was won by Wehh with 22. Chick and Eckhardt divided second and third with 21 each, Feudner, Stevens, Johnson and Warder 20, Shiell and Andrus 19, Nicolaus and Richards 18, Zintgraf and Robinson 15, Fanning 15, Chapman 14.

In the sixth event, 10 singles, Eckhardt, Feudner and Haight divided the money with 9, Fanning and Johnson 8, Shiell, Wehh and Richards 7, Dietz, Upson, Chapman and Chick 6, Warder and Andrews 5, Winder 4, Sloane 2.

Seventh event, 15 singles, $12 added— Wehh first with 14, Chick and Warder second with 13, Andrus and Feudner 12, Nicolaus 11, Johnson, Shiell and Chapman 10, Sloane and Richards 9, Eckhardt and Chapman 8, Haight 7.

The last event of the day was also at 15 singles, Wehh first with 14, Chick and Feudner second with 12. During the day Feudner broke 111 out of 135 shot at, Wehh 104 out of 130.

Electric Gun Club.

The final shoot of the Electric Gun Club was held at Oakland Race Track on Sunday last. Nauman carried off the first money in the first class, Fanning second. Edg. Forster and Murdock divided first and second money in the second class and Crowell and Shaw divided the money in the third class. The scores were as follows:

FIRST CLASS.

C. Nauman.....11111111 10101111 1111—23

A match at 15 birds, known traps, unknown angles followed. The score made were very poor but the interest in the match proved beyond question that the most of the blue rock shooting will be on this system next year.

The Elcho Gun Club.

The Elcho Gun Club held their regular monthly shoot at Greenbrae on Sunday last. The match was at 25 blue rocks, known traps, known angles. The score was as follows: J. D. Coon 23, J. F. Nunan 21, C. H. Kewall 22, B. Schnelken 18, E. Healey 20, Dr. J. F. Gibbon 20, L. Holden 17, E. Crane 9, Wm. Ahren 7, D. Herring 12, D. Ayers 9, J. Maynard 8.

THE KENNEL.

"The Two Barks."

[From St. Nicholas by Frank Le Scul.]

We hadn't ought ter a' done it, Rover;
I spose we'll ketch it now for fair.
They said, "Come home when school is over
An not go playin' anywhere."

But it looked so shady down the river
With the willows hangin' haf way 'cross,
That I stopped to watch the ripples quiver,
An then I gave a stone a toss.

You started first down through the pasture,
An I was 'fraild 'twint right ter go.
But you said, "Wow, now," when I last yer—
Two barks means "yes," an one means "no."

An now we'll get a reg'lar trimmin
An have to tote a' old milk pail.
We'll ketch it too for goin in swimmin,
If yer know what I'm sayin, wag your tail.

Yer do? Good doggie! Don't you worry.
I'll take your lick in an take mine too.
When yer see'm comin, you scoot 'n hurry,
If I stay, they won't go chasin you.

On'y next time you remember, Rover,
When I ask whether we'd ought ter go
A-swimmin after school is over
Two barks means "yes," an one means "no."

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Over 38,000 dog licenses have been issued in Chicago this year.

The New England Kennel Club has abandoned its Terrier Show.

The Eastern Field Trial Club offers $1,700 in prizes at its trials in November next.

The Pacific Fox Terrier Club will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening next.

The Manitoba All-Age Stakes number 51 entries, 29 English setters and 22 pointers. A large increase over any former year.

Washington A. Coster, secretary of the Eastern Field Trial Club, will kindly accept our thanks for a copy of that club's running rules and instruction to judges.

Wm. Larsen, of this city, will brsed his English setter bitch Belle Gladstone (Ch Gladstone—Zell) to Del Monte Kennel's Rod's Chaff (Roderigo—Gladstone's Girl) in a few days. This combination of blood should produce winners.

The many friends of Miller and Pratber, the popular owners of the Pastime Cocker Kennels, will learn with regret of the death of their cocker spaniel dog Woodland Robbie by Ch Red Roland—Thompson's Queen II. He died on Tuesday last.

T. S. McGinley has been rather unfortunate with his May Queen—Hector of Hauenstein litter. She had three dogs and three bitches. Two of the dogs were born dead and the other one died soon after it was born. The three bitches are doing splendidly.

T. J. Wattson's recent litter from Miss Alice and Sam Weller should find a ready sale. Miss Alice is the dam of the field trial winner Starlight and Sam Weller is not only a good field trial dog but grandly-bred. Roderigo's stock is scarce on this Coast.

W. L. Prather, Jr., one of the owners of the Pastime Cocker Kennels, has moved to more commodious quarters at 537 Caledonia Avenue, Oakland. A fine large barn, new kennels of his own patent and a much larger yard will assist materially in keeping the dogs in still finer condition.

Four of Lord Hualpa's puppies out of Lola made their debut at the Grove Street Theater this week in Uncle Tom's Cabin. We regret very much that we were unable to see them before going to press. Geo. Olmi has them in charge. The dogs are Prince Othma, Leo II, Beppo and San Francisco Alton.

This cherished beliefs of boyhood are knocked over one by one by the vandal hand of Time. George Washington's hatchet has been shelved with the bow and arrow of cock rohn. In the daily press is a story that Billy Tell did not shoot the apple off his son's head; in short, it states that it is an old Norse tale, many centuries older than Tell's time, the only change being in the names of the chief actors and localities. In an unfeeling-like manner the story proceeds as follows:

"An equally well-known story is that of the slaughtering of the dog Gellert by Llewellyn. This has been so far localized that even the grave of the dog is shown at a place to which it has given name, in England. Yet in the old collection of stories called 'The Seven Wise Masters,' which was translated into English from the Latin, and into the Latin from the Hebrew, and into the Hebrew from the Sanskrit, relation is made of a lord who has an only son, an infant, and a hound which he loves greatly. The nurse goes into the room in which is the child's cradle, and seeing it overturned and the dog covered with blood, rushes out to tell her master that the dog has killed and devoured his son. The father draws his sword and stabs the hound; but when the cradle is removed the child is found to be beneath it, safe and sound, and near to it a dead serpent is discovered, which the dog had killed in defense of the child. This, with the substitution of the wolf for the serpent, is precisely the story of Gellert, and we may see that the circumstances, if they ever happened at all must have happened not in Wales five or six centuries ago, but in India at least a thousand years earlier."

Alas! that so noble a hound should be a myth.

"In sooth he was a peerless hound,
The gift of royal John.
But now no Gellert could be found,
And all the chase rode on"

"Hell hound! by thee my child's devoured!"
The frantic father cried,
And to the hilt his vengeful sword
He plunged in Gellert's side."

—Forest and Stream.

Barnum and Bailey must look to their laurels or they will awake some morning to find them adorning the brows of "Wormwood & Eberhart"—it glides off the tongue quite jauntily—which is the latest combination in the show business. For some years now Mr. Eberhart has occupied a place of his own making in the kennel world, and many will wish him luck in his new venture. He writes us that he has sold his cigar store in Cincinnati and has gone into partnership with Prof. Wormwood, the animal trainer, whose troupe of dogs, monkeys, cats, etc., is known to many who attend dog shows. Wormwood & Eberhart, then, will start out early next spring with something like forty dogs, thirty-five monkeys, twenty ponies, twelve goats, two kangaroos, two ant-eaters, tropical birds, a troupe of trained cats and other animals that will be added later on. Prof. Wormwood can train anything from a flea up to an elephant, and his power over and control of animals is said to be simply wonderful. The show will travel in its own cars and show under canvas. A team of bloodhounds from Mr. Roger Williams' kennel will be taken along with the intention of giving exhibitions of man hunting in the principal streets of the town and cities where the show is playing—great advertising scheme, this, if properly worked. In addition to all this Mr. Eberhart has an idea to hold local dog shows in many places where none have ever been given. If this idea is carried out in proper manner—even though the shows are small and unrecognized by the powers of dogdom—it should stimulate an interest in dogs. "Al. G." always was a hustler, and those who know him will watch with some interest the career of "Wormwood & Eberhart."—American Field.

One of our local dog fanciers received a query recently that should be framed and exhibited at the next bench show. It would certainly win first and all specials. It was, of course, written on a postal card. Men of that calibre would not waste a cent by using a stamp. The would-be purchaser wanted to buy a cocker spaniel about one year old, thoroughly trained for marsh work and positively would not pay over $5 for the same. However ignorant a man may be of dog lore, it seems to us utterly impossible for a man of good sound common sense to think for one instant that a broken retriever was not worth more than $5, even if the retriever be but a "yaller dog." To thoroughly break a dog for marsh work requires months of patient work. To raise a dog even though it be no larger than a cocker, would cost over $10 for food alone. Then, as in this case, where only thoroughbreds are in the kennel the first cost of the sire and dam of such a dog as this man wants to purchase is at least $200. Puppies of this breed sell readily when eight weeks old for $20 and $25 each. No one keeps a first-class specimen until it is a year old, unless he intends to keep it for his own use, or raises it expecting to receive a profit on his investment by selling the dog when thoroughly broken. The stud fee of such a dog would be placed at from $15 to $25, according to his quality, and yet the party we allude to expects to purchase such a dog for $5. In short, this man offers $5 for a $100 article, and there are lots more just like him.

C. A. Stone of Toronto writes the American Field that C. H. Mason, after two weeks' consideration and after publishing an article in the Turf, Field and Farm, and without even notifying the committee until asked last Saturday, has declined to judge the classes allotted him at the dog show of the Industrial Exhibition Association. To all intending exhibitors I beg to say that Messrs. Mortimer and Davidson have been tendered his classes. [The same old story.—Ed.]

Breeding Show Fox Terriers.

(From the Fox Terrier Chronicle)

The health of the dam during the period of gestation is a very important factor affecting the supply of milk. If she is troubled with worms, or has any form of skin disease which affects the blood, her quantity of milk will be decreased and what she has will be more likely to do harm than good. The number of puppies left on a mother must depend upon the strength of the dam, and the supply of milk she has. As a general rule five or six will be as many as an ordinary sized bitch can do properly, though I have reared eight successfully on one bitch. Some fanciers who have paid a big figure for the services of a prominent stud dog are particularly pleased if they get a numerous litter, but they do not properly consider whether the bitch is physically capable of raising them, and they evince considerable surprise when one or more of the puppies do not get on. All in a litter are not as strong as each other, and often the weakest puppy has "to go to the wall." The number in the litter should, therefore, be restricted to the capacity of the bitch, and this number may be reduced by destroying some of the least promising in the litter, or by putting some on to a foster-mother. It is desirable to watch the litter carefully, and if one or more puppies are found to be backward these should be put upon the dam and given first chance after she has been out for a walk or away from the puppies for a time, and when she is full of milk.

TREATMENT DURING EARLY PUPPYHOOD.

By far the greatest mortality takes place amongst puppies during the first six weeks of their existence, mainly because of their inability to resist the various derangements of the system to which they may be liable. Warmth we have already shown to be essential to the proper development of the young, and it will be at all times risky to let the puppies run about in damp places, or to paddle in water. When puppies are warm and comfortable they are up and about, and as happy as possible, or if asleep, they lie about singly, as though not troubled in any degree. If their quarters are cold or damp they will huddle up into a corner and crowd upon each other with a view to obtain the necessary warmth, and this in itself, does not conduce to their health and development.

It behoves every breeder, therefore, to see that his puppies are snugly and warmly housed. If artificial heat be employed in winter, the greatest care must be taken to prevent exposure to cold.

VENTILATION.

Free ventilation is absolutely necessary or the youngsters will sweat and make but little progress. Too much emphasis cannot be put upon the importance of pure air. Where we find a litter of puppies there will be certain emanations from their bodies, which will rapidly make the air impure. This brings with it a great number of evils which no medicine can remove afterwards. The mother's health will also suffer, and her milk become poor in quality and scanty in quantity. The young become weak and unable to properly assimilate their food, their blood becomes thin, and their vitality so greatly impaired that they are a very easy prey to ill, which would otherwise affect them but little. There are plenty of ways of obtaining air to puppies' quarters without causing a draught. If possible, the window should be arranged that the sunlight can fall into the kennel during the whole of the morning.

ROD.

Striped bass and Grilse fishing, is still good at Pescadero.

Al Cummins sent to M.C. Allen a fine five-pound rainbow trout from Bcca last week.

Grilse are said to be running up the Eel river now in goodly numbers. John Butler will take a party there shortly.

Benjamin A. Gould, of Gamanocque, Canada, landed a 41 lb. 9 oz. muskalonge on July 18 on an 8 oz. lancewood rod, double gut leader and No. 4-0 hook. It took one hour and a quarter to land the fish.

Fishing at San Andreas continues poor. It is thought that the trout are feeding on the snails at the bottom of the lake. At all events they rise to the fly very indifferently, and don't take the spoon much better. Lake Chabot fishing has improved slightly.

Geo. Deitz returned from Catalina recently and states that while the fishing is grand, one-half of the sport is lost to any man, that is an apology for a sportsman, on account of the enormous waste. There are no facilities for packing the catches and tons of fish are thrown into the ocean.

Rock cod fishing continues to be first-class at Tiburon and Angel Island. Edgar Forster and a friend caught about 50 pounds on Monday last in an off tide. Those who are fond of this kind of fishing should so time their trips that they can fish during the slack water at the small low tide. Larger fish and more of them will be caught in one hour than in the rest of the day.

The Battle Creek Hatchery.

The contracts for building the Battle Creek hatchery were let out last week and by September 25th the building will be completed and water in the ditch near the building. The building will be 40x90 and will have an eyeing capacity of 10,000,000.

The hatchery is situated at the mouth of Butte Creek, the largest stream flowing into the Sacramento from the East, between the Feather and the Pitt.

This creek is the dividing line between Sbasta and Tehama counties.

The cost of the building will be about $2,000, $500 of which has been donated by the Sacramento River Packing Co.

The hatchery will be used for salmon propagation only.

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB STAKES.

Prizes Offered for the Winter Meeting of this Racing Association.

Following are the stakes, including distance and value of guaranteed amounts to the winners, offered in the programme of the California Jockey Club's winter meeting, the entries to close October 25th:

THE ROSEMEADE STAKES—For two-year-old fillies. Entrance $10; $25 additional for horses not declared by the time of closing entries, the day preceding the race. JAMES H. TARR, Gloucester, Mass., writes: I find "Absorbine" the best thing I have ever used for swelling, etc.

Chas. H. Andrews, No. Easton, Mass., writes: I think "Absorbine" a valuable remedy for puffs and swelling, and think something every horse owner should have in his stable.

ELF, by Steinway, won a good race at Syracuse, New York, splendidly driven by Alden Goldsmith. She trotted the last four heats (one of them a dead one with Anson by Landmark) in 2:24½, 2:24½, 2:22½ and 2:22½ and proved herself a race mare of the finest type.

C. J. HAMLIN's horses won $7,200 of the $43,000 distributed at the Buffalo meeting, thus heading the list of winning stables. Among the other leading winners were: Marcus Daly, Hamilton, Mont., $4,300; P. J. Radeker, New York, $2,500; F. W. Smith, Boston, $1,500; Thomas W. Raymond, Santa Ana, Cal., $1,500; Charles Nolsn, Philadelphia, $1,500; John G. Taylor, St. Louis, $1,500; William Corbitt, Burlingame, Cal., $1,500; Dick Wilson, Binghamton, $1,400; Bob Stewart, Kansas City, $1,250; Timothy Anglin, Lexington, $1,250; Fred Noble, New York, $1,200; E. W. Ayers, Duckers, Ky., $1,200; J. W. Sale, Lexington, $1,000; Du Bois Brothers, Denver, $1,000, and M. E. McHenry, Freeport, Ill., $1,000. Monroe Salisbury, Budd Doble, Gil Curry and many other turfmen, who usually figure prominently as winning owners at Buffalo, are not in the list this year.

"FATHER" WILLIAM DALY has decided to bring his string of racers from New York to California this winter, and with him will go Jockeys Keefe and Sheedy.

Horse Owners Should Try

COMBAULT'S
Caustic
Balsam

The GREAT FRENCH VETERINARY REMEDY

A Safe, Speedy and POSITIVE CURE.

Prepared exclusively by J. E. Combauld, ex-Veterinary Surgeon to the French Government Stud.

SUPERSEDES ALL CAUTERY OR FIRING

Impossible to produce any scar or blemish. The safest best BLISTER ever used. Takes the place of all liniments for mild or severe action. Removes all Bunches or Blemishes from Horses or Cattle.

As a HUMAN REMEDY for Rheumatism, Sprains, Sore Throat, Etc., it is invaluable.

WE GUARANTEE that one tablespoonful of CAUSTIC BALSAM will produce more actual result than a whole bottle of any liniment or spavin cure mixture ever made.

Every bottle of Caustic Balsam sold is warranted to give satisfaction. Price $1.50 per bottle. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express, charges paid, with full directions for its use. Send for descriptive circulars, testimonials, etc. Address THE LAWRENCE-WILLIAMS CO., Cleveland, O.

SPECIFIC FOR

Cracked Heels
and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Boot Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heals without leaving a CALLOUS, and will always remove a Callous when caused from a wound.

It removes all Soreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callous remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KLAMATH, 2:08½, says: "I have been trying to cure Klamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are untended and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

A. HIRSCHMAN, 113 Sutter St.

THE trotting-horse business is a legitimate and respectable one, engaged in by the most prominent of the representative men of America. A lot of fool fanatics in New York, who have about as much knowledge of the trotting horse as a cannibal has of decency, have by reason of superior numbers been able to impress a hurrah legislature with the idea that the business of raising horses was wrong, and the Percy pool law is the result. There is a growing sentiment that the people of a great city and a great State should be represented in its legislature by men of broader views than those of last year in New York. We want men who can analyze more than one side of an important question, and who will recognize the value of great industries to a State and nation.

THE terrific rate of speed at which the horses have been going this season has told upon feet and legs. Every big stable is full of cripples. The average horse will not stand up under more than two campaigns, and as he has been knocked out by the hundred in the past few months the question arises as to where the future supply is to come from. Not one-fourth of the mares have been bred that were formerly sent to stallions, and with destructive agencies constantly at work we shall very soon be brought face to face with a deficiency. The breeder who breeds high and takes good care of his colts is certain to reap a harvest. Don't get scared and sacrifice your valuable brood mares. Keep them employed and gather in the dollars when the tide turns.

FOR SALE.

A FINE DOUBLE TEAM OF FAST TROTTERS.

A splendid pair of roadsters, one of the finest buggy teams in the city, is offered for sale. They are well-bred, fast, stylish, and perfectly gentle—safe for a lady to drive. In breeding they cannot be excelled, being of the most fashionable strains. Any gentleman wanting a last team will find a bargain in this pair of trotting mares. They are only four years old, and, being untrained, will continue to develop speed by careful handling. They are slightly below medium size, but of strong conformation and perfectly sound. This team may be seen at the Dexter Prince Stable, 1509 Grove street, near Baker. They will be sold at a low price.

ALSO FOR SALE

Fast Roadsters, Race and Business Horses

BRED AT THE

NAPA STOCK FARM,

Napa, Cal. By purchasing directly from the breeder one ensures getting sound and serviceable animals at lowest prices. "Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—
FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
SECOND It will not cause headache.
THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE
UNITED STATES SMOKELESS POWDER CO.
No. 13 Pine Street, San Francisco, Cal.

For sale by all dealers in Powder and Sporting Goods.

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:
First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.
Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

We have secured for premiums the most elegant line of horse portraits ever issued in the United States. These pictures are twenty-two by twenty-eight inches in size, on the finest plate paper and are made by the artotype process from oil paintings by celebrated artists. They are superior to the finest steel engravings, perfect likenesses and are works of art in the highest degree. In every respect they are equal to artist proofs, which bring five to ten dollars, printed from the same plates. Every one interested in horses should take great pleasure in possessing one of these handsome pictures. The following is a list of the subjects:

The Race Track at Ingleside.

Work at the new race track is being pushed rapidly, and as the frame work of the club house and grand stand is now in place, the accompanying view of these buildings, together with the saddling paddock and a row of stalls, will give a fair idea of the buildings and a portion of the two tracks.

When completed this will be the superior of any race course in the United States. No money has been spared to make it an ideal spot for racing, while the improvements have all been made with a view of making them satisfactory to the public. The Ocean House road is parallel with the northern end of the race course tract. The entrance and back of the grand stand will be toward this drive.

To the right of the grand stand is the club house, both buildings being connected by a glass-covered passageway forty-four feet long. At the left of the grand stand, and beyond promenade twenty-two feet wide. The entire back of the building, including that of the dining room on the first floor and the dressing room will consist of heavy glass. This will afford a splendid view. There is a balcony 16x112 feet over looking the ocean.

Along the front of the grand stand, extending from the western end nearly to the middle, fifteen private boxes for the use of the directors and their friends have been built. These will accommodate at least 1,000 people.

The plans were made by the well-known architect, T. J. Welch, and the superintendent of construction is A. M. Allen. The track itself will be a model one. The homestretch will be 85 feet wide and the rest of it 70 feet. The stretches are to be 1,320 feet long. There will be a raise of five feet on the turns. Chutes will be built so that horses will have a straight track for a start in the three-quarter mile and seven-eighths mile races.

THE climax of idiocy has been reached in New York, Judge Bischoff, of the court of common pleas, has decided that racing for purses is gambling, and there is a rumor that all races will be suppressed. The decision is the result of a cooked up case which had no merit and which was not argued to any extent, save from the side which wanted the identical ruling that was made. Interviews with prominent turfmen in New York show that there is on the one hand a disposition to view the situation with alarm, and on the other hand to make light of it. In reality it amounts to nothing. But if it does, then it must be conceded that we are proceeding upon a false notion of the rights of American citizens. If Judge Bischoff is right, then all competition outside of the regular avenues of trade must cease. Disputes as to relative merits must be settled by word-of-mouth wrangles. Men who would show their worth must reach the higher plane by patient struggle, and have that worth recognized only after years of the betting ring is the saddling paddock containing sixteen box stalls, each sixteen feet square.

The grandstand occupies a space of 110x134 feet, a porch at the back extending the entire length of the building. At the main entrance, for a distance of 108 feet, this porch is eighteen feet wide, the rest of it being ten feet wide.

The betting ring occupies a space 110x200 feet, and is five feet above the track.

The grand stand is so situated that from any part of it a splendid view of the homestretch can be had. It will be set at angle the part beyond the wire and nearing the first turn being forty feet from the track, while the farthest end of the building will be eighty-five feet from the track. The grand stand has 324 feet frontage. The quarter stretch will be paved with bitumen and will have a slight incline of five feet from the stand to the fence enclosing the track. The second floor of the grand stand will have a seating capacity of 4,000. At the rear of the highest tier of seats there is a patient waiting. Ambition must be curbed until we drop back into the humdrum of a mere existence. Men must get into grooves and stay there. But it is idle to thus speculate. When Judge Bischoff's decision gets into the higher courts it will be torn to shreds.—Horse Review.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT'S mares, Autrain, Helen Leybourn and Grace Simmons made a fine showing in a race at Paris, France, this week. The distance was 4,250 meters. Although somewhat heavily handicapped, the American trio, showed what training can do. Little by little they crept up, passing the Russians, Roussalka and Volsheonitsa, and then going for the leaders. The finish was one of the most exciting ever witnessed on a track, as Phillips, knowing what Autrain is worth kept her quietly in hand until the final round, when she overhauled Tamhour and going right away won as she pleased. The times were: Autrain, 6:42; Tamhour, 6:44; Helen Leybourn, 6:44 4-5. The non-placed trotters were Miss Tilford, Uncle Sam, Roussalka, Volsheonitsa, Grace Simmons, Ada and Boewy.

THE ten-year-old mare Utility, by Electioneer, out of Con-solation, by Dictator, won the 2:18 trot at Decatur, Ill., last week in straight heats in 2:15 1/2, 2:14 3/4 and 2:15 1/4.

TOMMY BRITTON (2) (2:18 1/4) is one of the liveliest steppers of his age out this season. He has trotted a quarter in 31 1/2 seconds, a 2:07 clip. He is an intensely trotting-bred chap. His sire, Liberty Bell, is by Bell Boy (2:19 1/4), son of Electioneer, out of a daughter of Pancoast (2:21 1/4), son of Woodford Mambrino (2:21 1/4). His dam, Keepsake, is by Pancoast, out of a daughter of Contractor. The latter was by Ajax, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian, his dam being by Green's Hambletonian, full brother of Volunteer.

MEPHISTO, 2:24 1/4, by Sidney, out of Lindora Wilkes, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15 1/4, is a pacer that lowered his record to 2:17 1/4 at McKee's Rocks, Pennsylvania, August 22d.

THE STATE FAIR MEETING.

Two Coast Running Records Shattered and One Equalled—The Best Racing Ever Seen in California—All the Events Closely Described.

FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5.

DELIGHTFUL day for racing was this, and a superb card brought by far the best crowd of the meeting to the time-honored course of the State Agricultural Society. There were eight books on in all, including two felders, and they did a business that was closely akin to that spoken of as "land office." About twenty feet of the track, from the inner rail, had been harrowed up, and it was lightning fast. Rincovieri's Band of about fifty pieces delighted the ears of the musically-inclined from the large band stand across the course, the airs discoursed being of a lively description and calculated to invigorate man and his noblest friend, the horse.

The day was made memorable by the crushing of a Coast record, Arnette running a mile and a sixteenth in 1:46½ in the Capital City Stakes, carrying 96 pounds. This was a cut of a quarter of a second from the mark set by Del Norte. Ferrier, the runner up, would undoubtedly have won, in our opinion, had Miller not pulled up at the post, thinking it no start. He lost close to three lengths and was beaten one length, hence the big Hobart horse must have run the distance close to 1:46½.

Libertine proved himself a great sprinter by taking up 122 pounds and running six furlongs in 1:13½, this after the horses had been at the post for thirty-five minutes. Vincitor, a three-year-old with 106 pounds up, ran a grand race also, as he was but a length away at the finish, and forced Libertine to drive hard to win.

The books fared exceedingly well up to the Libertine race, but this horse was played down from 2 to 1 to 1 to 3 by force of actual coin.

The win of A. B. Spreckels' Idalium—Mercedes filly was a most enjoyable one to the young millionaire turfman, as he owns the sire of the filly, an own brother to Sir Modred and Cheviot. She is the handsomest piece of young horse-flesh seen in California for many a day.

The judges to day were President Charles M. Chase, John Mackey and Senator John Boggs. They had but one close decision during the afternoon.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was a three-quarter mile selling race with seven starters. Rico was made a favorite, backed down from 11 to 5 to 3 to 2. Tim Murphy opened at 3 to 2 and closed at 8 to 5, Pat Murphy at 4 to 1, Lady Jane 4½ (6 at one time), Warrago 6, Duchess of Towers and Little Tough 50 to 1. They got off at the second attempt to a good start, Pat Murphy breaking from the rear. As they got straightened away the order was Warrago, Pat Murphy, Lady Jane. Pat, first, led his brother Tim a head at the half-mile ground, Lady Jane at their heels, Rico all but last. Tim Murphy was first by his head as they reached the final turn, Pat Murphy next, two lengths before Lady Jane. Tim drew away in the stretch and led by two lengths a furlong from home, but tiring, Lady Jane came on and won by a neck from Rico, coming fast on the outside, Warrago right there and looking to have finished second from the press stand, a head before Tim Murphy. Time, 1:14½. Little Tough was placed third by mistake, but the error was quickly rectified.

The second event, six furlongs, selling, for two-year-olds, brought eight youngsters to the post, three of which had never started before. Torsion was an even-money favorite, Idalium—Mercedes filly and Marigold colt 4 to 1, Rhettia 3½, El Primero 6, Lillie R. and Ollie M. 8, Little Flush filly 10 to 1. There was a long delay at the post, occasioned by Torsion's bad actions principally. Finally the flag fell to a fair start, Marigold colt first, Mercedes filly second, Lillie R. third. The Mercedes filly led past the half by a head, Marigold colt second, with Lillie R. at his heels. The black daughter of Idalium increased her lead to two lengths going to the homestretch, Marigold colt second, with El Primero third and coming up fast. Piggott hugged the rails with the Mercedes filly, who won easily at the end by three lengths, El Primero second, as far from the Marigold colt. Time, 1:16. Torsion was absolutely last, and sulked most of the way. The winner is the dead image of her sire, imp. Idalium, a beautiful creature, and A. B. Spreckels was mutually much pleased at the result, as he owns Idalium.

The Capital City Stakes, mile and a sixteenth, $400 added, had seven starters. Installator was a favorite, opening at 7 to 5 and closing at 9 to 5. Ferrier remained steadily at 2 to 1. Lovdal was at 4 to 1, imp. Candid 6, McLight 7, Arnette 8 and Del Norte 15 to 1. They went away in an almost perfect line, but two or three pulled up, thinking it no go, among the number being Ferrier. Installator at once took the track and led to the quarter pole by three lengths, Arnette second, four from Ferrier, who was a head before McLight. Installator came back to his field going the next quarter, his lead being but one and one-half lengths at the half-mile mark, Arnette second, a length from McLight, who led Ferrier, on the inside, a head. At the final turn Installator was two lengths to the good, Arnette three in front of McLight and Ferrier, together. Installator was beaten a sixteenth from home, Arnette passing him and winning cleverly by a length from the driven out Ferrier, who beat Installator one and one-half lengths. Time, 1:46½—a new Coast mark for a mile and a sixteenth, the former record being 1:47, made by Del Norte. The mile from wire to wire was run in 1:40½. The stake was worth $1,045 to the winner. Installator was cut down, though not badly.

The fourth race was a handicap for all ages, six furlongs. Libertine was a red-hot favorite, opening at 8 to 5 and closing at 1 to 3. He was at 11 to 5 at one time. Fannie Louise and Vincitor were at 4 to 1, Grady, Road Runner and Gallant 8 to 1. They were thirty-five minutes at the post, Gallant refusing to break and Road Runner being too anxious. They finally got away to a superb start, Libertine first, Road Runner second, Grady third. Libertine and Grady ran heads apart in the lead past the half, Fannie Louise third, a length away. The order was the same into the homestretch, though the leaders were three lengths before Fannie Louise and Road Runner was next to last. In the homestretch Vincitor came through, forcing Macklin to do some artistic riding to land Libertine a winner by a length in 1:13½, with Road Runner third, three lengths further away. Macklin came in for some applause for his riding of the winner. His rolling, flashy finish was something new.

The last race resulted in a race upset. Rear Guard was a 2 to 5 favorite, Nebuchadnezzar and Ike L. 5 to 1, Bellringer 12, Shirdy and Navy Blue 20. Ike L. led until nearing the homestretch, when Nebuchadnezzar passed him and won hardly by one and one-half lengths, Ike L. lasting long enough to beat Rear Guard a nose for place. Time, 1:41½.

FIFTH DAY—FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6.

There was an increased attendance and a deciding rise in temperature to-day, and the finishes in three of the five events were as close as a loving swain's embrace of his sweet summer girl and fully as thrilling. The class of horses contending in the various races would do credit to Morris Park and cast in deepest shade, for running ability, the gallopers that have been amusing the public in California recently. Racehorses seem to run faster in hot weather, and by tomorrow, if the mercury keeps on rising closer to the top of the thermometer, record cracking should be in order. Havey's starting throughout was good, but the delays at the post were tantalizing and it would perhaps please the public better if he sent the flyers away quicker, if not quite so closely aligned when the flag fell.

The judges to-day were President C. M. Chase, Senator John Boggs of Colusa and John Mackey, Superintendent of far-famed Rancho del Paso. They had two rather close finishes to decide, and in the opinion of very many onlookers they erred in placing Princess Noretta first in the Sunny Slope Stake. Sweet Rose, daughter of Flambeau and imp. Fairy Rose (a stable companion of Princess Noretta) appeared to win by a good neck, but the judges placed the Princess first. This made quite a difference to those that had bet down town, where the pair were not coupled in the betting, as at the track. Some persons thought Miss Buckley beat Crawford out in the last jump, too, but we think the filly was just a trifle late in getting up and the judges correct in their decision. Ab Stemler, trainer of Sweet Rose, felt very much cut up that Racine's half-sister was not placed first, as he trains her, while Princess Noretta was in the hands of Ben Timmons, also in the employ of Burns & Waterhouse. The race between Belle Boyd and Benham was one of the most exciting events ever seen over this time-honored course. When a furlong and a half had been run the four horses were abreast. Then Benham fell back last like a house afire, coming like a shot from last place in the homestretch and actually getting his head in front of Belle Boyd's twice. The filly, responding gamely to little Jones' whip call, got up and won by a scant head in the nick of time. Bright Phoebus showed what a stake horse can do with selling-plates. Miller felt of his field twice, taking Phoebus back thereafter each time. When he gave the horse his head nearing the homestretch the winner of the Realization simply galloped past his field and won eased up by one and one-half lengths, Little Bob out-gaming Capt. Skedance and Peter the Second for place honors.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race, six furlongs, selling, with six starters, was a good betting affair. Crawford opened at 2 to 1, and a steady flow of money on his chances reduced his price to even money at post-time. Gold Bug was at 2½ to 1, Warrago 3½, Miss Buckley 4 (opened at 6), Nellie G. 12 and Artemus 30 to 1. After a wait of nearly twenty minutes, caused principally by Piggott's trying to get a running start from the rear with Crawford, the flag fell to a good send-off. Hinrichs at once pulled Gold Bug up, and was soon out of the hunt. Crawford and Artemus ran heads apart past the half, with Warrago at their heels. Crawford was sent along nearing the three-quarter pole, and making the final turn was a length to the good, Artemus a head before Warrago, on whom Nellie G. was lapped. Crawford was apparently winning easily, when from the rear, with a fine burst of speed, came little Miss Buckley, on the outside. Piggott rode Crawford in the most determined manner, and in a very exciting finish got the verdict by a nose, Miss Buckley second, three parts of a length before Warrago, at whose saddle was Nellie G. Time, 1:15½. Hinrichs, called into the judges' stand, explained that he pulled up on Gold Bug to keep from running over Jim Brown, holder of the first flag.

A handicap for three-year-olds, mile and a sixteenth, followed. Bright Phoebus, winner of this year's Realization Stakes, had top weight up, 118 pounds, and was at all times a favorite, opening at 4 to 5 and closing at 3 to 5. Peter the Second was at 3 to 1, Little Boh 4 (5 at one time), Capt. Skedance and Fannie Louise 7 to 1. They got away to a beautiful start, Peter the Second leading by a head passing the stand, Capt. Skedance second, half a length before Bright Phoebus. Soon after rounding the first turn the favorite went up second, as a feeler, and then was immediately taken back by Miller. Capt. Skedance led by three parts of a length past the quarter-pole, Fannie Louise and Peter the Second half a length apart as named. There was no change at the half, though Bright Phoebus had felt of his field again and been taken back. About sixty yards of the three-quarter pole Bright Phoebus was given his head, and leading by half a length turning for home, won in a gallop by one and one-half lengths, Little Bob, close against the inner rails, coming very gamely and strong at the finish and beating Capt. Skedance out a neck for the place, Peter the Second fourth, half a length further away. Time, 1:49½. Bright Phoebus apparently could have won this race by from eight to a dozen lengths had Miller willed it so.

Four two-year-olds next came to the post in a handicap, five and a half furlongs. Rummel, a good-looking Flambeau colt that had run well at Los Angeles early this summer, was made a favorite at 6 to 5. Belle Boyd was at 9 to 5, Benham 2 to 1 and Midlo 10 to 1. They got away to an excellent send-off, Benham, Rummel, Belle Boyd being the order. At the half-pole the quartette were running in close order, Benham falling out of it shortly thereafter and being last turning for home. Belle Boyd was first in the homestretch by one and a half lengths, Rummel second, a neck before Benham. Twice Benham got his head in front of Belle Boyd's, but the game El Rio Rey filly, under the whip, came again and won by the scantest of heads, Rummel third, six good lengths away and a length before Midlo. Time, 1:09.

The Sunny Slope Stakes, for two-year-old fillies, brought seven good-looking misses to the post. The Burns & Waterhouse pair (Princess Noretta and Sweet Rose) were favorites and coupled, opening at 4 to 5, going to 3 to 5, closing at 4 to 5. Princess Noretta had won a five-furlong race at Saratoga and Sweet Rose is by Flambeau from imp. Fairy Rose (dam of Racine and Fairy), by Kisber. Lucille, of the A. B. Spreckels stable, was at 3½ to 1, Heartsease 4, Treachery 4 (backed from 6), Easel 6 (15 at one time), Miss Cunningham 20 to 1. After a delay of fully thirty-five minutes, which was very telling on Heartsease, weighted at 125 pounds, the flag fell to an excellent send-off. Heartsease, Lucille, Princess Noretta was the order. The latter lost no time in shooting to the fore, leading by a length passing the half, Easel (fifth away) second, as far from Heartsease. Lucille ran up fast nearing the homestretch, which Princess Noretta entered first by a length, Lucille second, with Heartsease at her saddle-skirts. Princess Noretta looked an easy winner a sixteenth from home. Here Sweet Rose was coming like a minnie-ball, and from the press stand appeared to win by from a neck to half a length. The judges, however, placed Princess Noretta first, Sweet Rose second, Lucille third. The latter was little over a length behind Sweet Rose. Time, 1:02½.

The last race of the day was at one and a quarter miles, over five hurdles. Bellringer was made a red-hot favorite, opening at 8 to 5 and closing at 6 to 5. Ali Baba was at 7 to 5 (opened at 2 to 1), Esperance 4 to 1, Uncertainty 6 and Onti Ora 12 and 15 to 1. They got away to a good start, Uncertainty showing first, Bellringer second, Ali Baba next. Onti Ora at once sailed for the front, leading at the stand by a head, Uncertainty second, as far from Ali Baba. Bellringer was a bad last at the first fence and refused the second altogether. Onti Ora, jumping lightly and gracefully, was first by a length over the second jump, Uncertainty second, lapped by Ali Baba, who led Onti Ora over the next jump by a very small margin. Uncertainty third, three lengths away and dropping out of it. Ali Baba led over the fourth obstacle by a neck, Onti Ora second and Esperance beginning to close up. The weight told on Ali Baba in the last part of it, Onti Ora winning easily by a length, Esperance just nipping the place by a head from Ali Baba, Uncertainty finishing a poor fourth. Time, 2:18.

SIXTH DAY—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7.

More glorious racing was never chronicled in the West than that of to day. And most of the glory went to the Elmwood Stock Farm's owner-trainer, Chas. Boots, and considerable to Jockey Tod Sloan, who rode three winners in the four races he had a mount in. Sons of Brutus, trained by young Boots, won three stake events and ran a close second in another race. Installator, a three-year-old with 108 pounds in the saddle, led nearly all the way in the Native Sons' Handicap, mile and an eighth, and won handily by one and one-half lengths from McLight in 1:53 1/4, crushing the Pacific Coast record, held by Wheel of Fortune, to the extent of half a second. This record has been beaten very few times anywhere over a circular track, and stamps Installator a real crackerjack. The first mile was timed by several in 1:39 3/4. In the very next race Vincto, also a three-year-old son of imp. Brutus, and ridden by Sloan, beat Ferrier a scant head for the Del Mar Stakes, one mile, in 1:40 flat, equalling the Pacific Coast record held jointly by Al Farrow and Mulberry. As the pair named carried but 93 and 92 pounds respectively as four-year-olds, and Vincto packed 112 pounds, there is really no comparison necessary of the performances of the trio. Grand as was Vincto's showing, Ferrier, with 122 pounds up, ran even a better race. Vincto had a trifle over a length the best of the send-off, in the first place, in the next, secured the rail, and then, in a terrific drive, beat Ferrier by the smallest of margins. Ferrier must have run the distance close to 1:39 3/4, this being the second time he has done this in three days, and yet has finished second on both occasions. The third stake captured by the Boots horses was the California Annual. Instigator simply galloped in first by two and one-half lengths in slow time, Sam Leake, a brother to Dare, beating Lucille, the "good thing," out half a length for the place. Lucille was originally a hot favorite, her price being 3 to 5 all over the ring. When Miller was substituted for Coffey on Instigator there was a great plunge on Installator's brother, his price going down from 7 to 5 to 3 to 5 eventually, Lucille's receding from 3 to 5 to 7 to 5. Regarding the splendid showing of the Boots horses, either Sloan is a far superior jockey to Chevalier or all was not as it should have been—in San Francisco, at any rate. At Bay District track both Installator and Vincto, with Chevalier up, were repeatedly beaten by horses that could not now (we should judge) come close to defeating them in any kind of race. Horses do not generally improve a dozen pounds or more in four days' time, as both Installator and Vincto appear to have done. What, then, is the secret of the great success of the horses named?

The last event was one of the closest imaginable, Bernardo, 10 to 1 at one time, coming from the clouds and winning by a nose in the last stride from Nebuchadnezzar, who beat Road Runner as far for the place. It was a fitting finale to a famous day's sport.

How the Races Were Run.

Mary S. went to the post an even-money favorite in the first race, six furlongs, backed down from 8 to 5. Pat Murphy opened at 6 to 5 and closed at 7 to 5. Rob Roy and Rosebud were at 7 to 1, Inkerman 8 to 1. They were sent away to a good start, Rob Roy, Inkerman, Pat Murphy being the order at flag-fall. The last-named at once shot to the fore, leading by three lengths past the half and into the homestretch, Rosebud second, a head before Inkerman. Mary S. made a fast run down the homestretch, and looked a winner eighty yards of the finish. Here Sloan commenced riding old Inkerman, who responded gallantly and won driving by about a length, Mary S. second, a short neck before Pat Murphy. Time, 1:15 1/4.

Gilead was a fairly well played favorite in the Native Sons' Handicap, mile and an eighth, opening at 6 to 5 and closing at 7 to 5. Installator was well supported, opening at 3 to 1, going to 3 1/2, closing at 2 1/2. McLight was backed from 3 1/2 to 3 to 1. Del Norte and Lovdal were at 7, Capt. Skedance 8 and Romulus 25 to 1. They got away to a superb start, Installator at once taking command and leading at the stand by half a length, Capt. Skedance second, a scant length before Romulus, McLight a head behind the Hobart colt. At the quarter Installator had increased his lead to a length, Romulus being second, with McLight at his saddle. McLight was now sent along by Macklin, and shouts went up for the Shields horse when he passed Installator near the half and led him a neck. Capt. Skedance was third, one half lengths away. McLight swung into the homestretch first by just a head, Installator second, two lengths before Del Norte, who was running well. McLight, closest to the inner rail, was in front a furlong from home, but Installator soon passed him, forcing Macklin to the bat a sixteenth from the finish. From here on Installator had it his own way, winning rather handily by one and a half lengths, McLight second, three from Del Norte. Time, 1:53 1/4—a cent of half a second in the Coast record formerly held by Wheel of Fortune. The winner was loudly cheered upon his return to the stand.

Ferrier went to the post a heavily-backed favorite for the Del Mar Stakes, one mile, opening at 8 to 5 and closing at 6 to 5. Libertine, the original first choice, opened at 4 to 5 and closed at 7 to 5. Vincto was backed from 6 to 4 to 1 and Wheel of Fortune went back from 4 to 6 to 1. They got away with Vincto, on the outside, in the lead by over a length, Wheel of Fortune second, Ferrier third. Vincto secured the rail nearing the first turn, Wheel of Fortune being cut off badly and Ferrier eased up to keep from being interfered with. Libertine had a lead of one and a half lengths past the quarter, Vincto second, three from Ferrier.

At the half Libertine had increased his advantage to the extent of a length, Vincto being second, a little over a length before Ferrier. Vincto now ran up rapidly on Libertine, who led by but a length turning for home, Ferrier three lengths further away. Miller made a close turn with the latter, however, the others going wide, thereby saving perhaps a couple of lengths. Ferrier was called on all the way down the straight, Libertine falling back beaten over a sixteenth from home, Vincto and Ferrier driving it out to the bitter end. The finish was one of the most exciting possible, Sloan keeping Vincto's head in front to the finish, Ferrier three lengths before Libertine, the record-breaker. When 1:40 was hung up as the time made in the race the crowd broke out into wild cheering. The Coast record at a mile had been equalled, but Vincto's performance was a thirty-pound better one than either Al Farrow's or Mulberry's. Ferrier, though defeated, really ran a better race than the winner, everything considered.

The California Annual Stakes, six furlongs, for two-year-olds, had but three starters. Miller was substituted for Coffey on Instigator about five minutes before they went to the post, and it made a great change in the betting. Instigator's odds were cut down from 8 to 5 to 3 to 5 in a very short time, Lucille's receding from 3 to 5 to 7 to 5. Sam Leake was at 5 to 1. They got away well together. Sam Leake and Lucille ran almost as one horse past the half and clear into the homestretch, Instigator about two and one-half lengths behind. Miller let the last-named have his head at the final turn and he soon shot by the pair as if they were tied up, taking to the inner rail and winning in a gallop by two and one-half lengths, Sam Leake in a drive beating Lucille half a length for the place. Time, 1:17 1/2—slow. The value to the winner was $510.

The last race of the day and week was at six furlongs, selling. Road Runner went to the post at 2 to 1 in most books (backed from 4), Tim Murphy 2 1/2 (from 4), Rear Guard and Nebuchadnezzar 3 1/2, Rico and Bernardo 5 (latter 10 at one time), Ike L. 12, Gold Bug 15 and Amarino 30 to 1. There was an awful delay at the post, Piggott trying to get the best of the send-off with Road Runner, while Bernardo lagged behind several times. Finally they were flagged to a good start, Ike L., Rear Guard, Gold Bug being the order at the send-off. Gold Bug led to the homestretch by a small margin, with Nebuchadnezzar second and Tim Murphy next, Road Runner fourth. It looked like the latter's race forty feet of the finish, but here Bernardo, who turned into the homestretch sixth, passed him, as did Nebuchadnezzar, Bernardo winning by a nose, Nebuchadnezzar second, as far from Road Runner, Ike L. another head away, a similar distance before old Tim Murphy. Time, 1:14 1/2. It was a great finish.

SEVENTH DAY—MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1895.

This is Admission Day, and the way Sacramento has been decorated because of its observance by not only the Native Sons and Daughters of this glorious State, but also by its leading business men and citizens, is most creditable. In the history of California nothing has ever approached in magnificence and brilliancy the display to be seen here. Everyone is happy, and, like children, all are forgetting the cares and troubles of this world while the procession to night is passing through the principal thoroughfares on its way past the grandly illumined capitol building, which is all in a blaze of incandescent lights, while the tiers in the park surrounding it are hung with incandescent lights of every hue. Like immense diamonds, pearls, amethysts and rubies, they add a fairy-like aspect to the scene which language cannot describe. The spectator stands in silent awe and contemplates the grandeur and magnificence of the spectacle, the like of which has never before been seen in any place in the world.

The floats were not placed on lumbering trucks but on car-wheels, and moved along as steadily and smoothly as if some invisible fairy hands were leading them past. The designs reflected great credit on the mechanical and artistic skill of their designers and makers, while the arrangement and manipulation of the thousands of incandescent lights which made them as light as day leave nothing but praise to be lavished upon the electrical engineers who placed these lights in so many advantageous positions.

There never were so many delighted people in Sacramento before and the Southern Pacific Railroad was very accommodating and left no cause for complaint from the thousands who rode over its lines. The carnival floats were made at their car shops and every branch of industry in this great institution was ably and fittingly represented.

The roads which branch from this city were lined with vehicles of every description all day yesterday and to day, many of them coming sixty miles in order that their owners and their families might observe this, the greatest day that Sacramento has ever known. Livery stables were crowded, while the absence of "bikes" showed that the love of good horses has not been destroyed in this portion of California.

There were nearly 8,000 people at the race track this afternoon, notwithstanding the fact that twenty parlors of the Native Sons kept "open house." The weather was cool and it looked as if a storm might come at any moment. The track had been used for runners for three days and was far from being fast, consequently the remarkable race won by Iago in the fastest time (2:11) made this year in this State stamps him as a race horse of a high order. The wonderful showing made by Zombro is not to be overlooked. He trotted the mile in 2:11 1/2, while Stam B., another three-year-old, trotted the second heat in 2:12 1/2. Such work stamps these youngsters as being worthy of classing them among the very best in America.

In the third heat Stam B. was sent off on a break, otherwise he would have made a far better showing.

The race which had to be postponed was a good betting one and Bookmaker Rose did an excellent business. The people are just beginning to understand the "booking" system.

The judges were J. Wilson, H. Matthews and C. M. Chase. In the first event of the afternoon was a free-for-all trotting, for four-year-olds, purse $800. The entries were Ravenscroft, Nellie W., McZeus, John Bury and Visalia. Pools sold: Visalia $20, field $5. The start was a good one. John Bury, having the pole, led to the half, where Visalia and Nellie W. were like a team a length behind him, Ravenscroft four lengths and McZeus six lengths further away. After turning to the three quarters John Bury broke and resigned his position as leader to Visalia. The latter never lost the advantage she gained. John Bury, who was second, broke at the seven-eighths pole and fell back to third position, Nellie W. essaying the hopeless task of challenging Visalia, but the little daughter of Iris jogged in a winner in 2:15.

In the second heat the talent got a tumble, for Visalia, who had the pole, broke at the first turn, and John Bury, Nellie W. and Ravenscroft passed her. John Bury led to the wire. Nellie W. tried to pass him on the homestretch but broke, and then John Bury made a "bobbie." Both caught and trotted under the wire, John Bury a little in advance. Visalia passed Ravenscroft a few feet from the wire. McZeus was last and quite lame. Time, 2:15 1/2.

John Bury took the lead in the next heat, Nellie W. at his bike and Visalia fifteen lengths behind, and kept there until the half was passed, then Jack Perkins called on the little mare, and the way she ate up space would make Azote green with envy, for at the three quarter pole she had passed Nellie W., and was only two lengths behind John Bury. To the wire she trotted well, and passing John Bury, who broke at the seven-eighths pole, won easily in 2:15 1/2, two lengths in front of John Bury, Nellie W. third and Ravenscroft fourth.

In the next heat Judge Wilson said "Go!" and they rang the recall bell, but the drivers did not hear the latter. Nellie W. took the lead, John Bury second, Ravenscroft third and Visalia last. Going down the backstretch these positions remained unchanged, but after passing the half Visalia moved up, and as John Bury broke she passed him and set sail for Nellie W., who was doing her best. Coming down the homestretch Visalia came very rapidly and outfooted Nellie W. to the wire, winning race and first money, her youthful driver, J. Perkins, being loudly cheered. Time of heat, 2:18.

The next race was one of the events of the meeting. It was a race for the 2:14 class trotters. The entries were: Zombro, Geo. Dexter, Boodle, Maria P., Iago, Stam B. and Bruno. In the betting Iago sold for $40, Zombro $22, Bruno $11, field $8. The start was an even one, but Zombro, who quickly shot to the front, was joined by Iago, and the two trotted like a team three lengths in front of Bruno. Stam B. and Geo. Dexter were three lengths apart, with Boodle bringing up the rear. All interest in the event was centered in the remarkable race being made by the three-year-old colt, Zombro, and Iago. The issue was in doubt until the distance pole was passed. Then Iago, ably driven by Thos. Keating, drew away and won by a length in the excellent time of 2:11. Bruno was third, Stam B. fourth, Boodle fifth and Geo. Dexter last.

For the second heat Iago sold for $20, Zombro $9, Bruno $4, field $4. The start was perfect. Iago led with Stam B., Zombro, Bruno, Geo. Dexter and Boodle each a length behind him at the quarter. Going to the half Zombro passed Stam B. and trailed the easy-going Iago to the middle of the homestretch. Stam B. then moved up and made one of his famous finishes and was only beaten a length by Iago in 2:12 1/2, Zombro, pulled up, was third. Boodle, Bruno and Geo. Dexter, lapping each other, were only three lengths behind the son of McKinney. Crowds who had backed Zombro rallied around the pool boxes and kept poolseller Eiseman busy selling pools so that they could plunge and save what they could.

The start was a poor one, Stam B. and Geo. Dexter being on a run. Iago took the lead and never relinquished it from start to finish. Boodle tried to get it at the first quarter but could not make it, then Zombro essayed the task and stayed with him until past the three-quarter pole, but he was not fast enough, then Stam B. started in, but he could not pass Zombro, who landed under the wire second by a head, two lengths behind Iago, who made the mile in 2:13 1/2. Boodle was fourth, Bruno fifth and Geo. Dexter sixth.

In the 2:27 class trot, there were seven starters, Our Lucky, Lady Vestal, Anita, Jasper Paulson, Charivari, Dr. Puff and Edwina. Pools sold Our Lucky $20, Jasper Paulson $20, Dr. Puff $16, field $10. When the word was given Jasper Paulson, who was on the outside, took the lead and was at the pole. Near the quarter he broke and Lady Vestal, Dr. Puff and Anita passed him and kept in front of him to the three-quarter pole. He endeavored to pass to the front, but broke. Our Lucky came right after him and as the leaders, Lady Vestal and Dr. Puff, entered the stretch he came very fast on the outside and won easily in 2:19, Lady Vestal second, Jasper Paulson third, Dr. Puff, who fell back, was fourth, Anita fifth, Edwina sixth and Charivari last.

Pools sold previous to the next heat: Our Lucky $20, Dr. Puff $11, Jasper Paulsen $7, field $3. When the word was given Jasper Paulson, Our Lucky and Dr. Puff led. Edwina was fourth, the rest, bunched behind. Anita, being sent off six lengths behind the rest was badly handicapped by it and could not get any nearer the leaders until the head of the homestretch was reached. Our Lucky broke at the three-quarter pole and fell back, Edwina coming up, was third as Jasper Paulson and Dr. Puff entered the stretch, but she broke and Anita came very fast and down to the wire it was a horse race between her and the leaders. Dr. Puff, out-trotting Jasper Paulsen, won by a length in 2:20½, Anita third, Our Lucky fourth, Edwina fifth, Charivari sixth and Lady Vestal last.

The next heat was a scorcher on the backers of Dr. Puff and Jasper Paulsen, for these two horses led all the way until the homestretch was reached at a much livelier clip than any other heat of the race. At this point Our Lucky, on the extreme outside of the track, passed Jasper Paulsen and was soon overhauling Dr. Puff. Thirty yards from the wire his nose was in front, and when the two got past the deciding point Our Lucky was in front by a head in 2:17½, Paulsen third, Anita fourth, Edwina fifth, Lady Vestal sixth and Charivari last.

It was almost dark when the horses started, after repeatedly scoring, for the next heat. Dr. Puff made a cross-country drive in front of Our Lucky at the first turn, causing the latter to pull up and then break. When George Maben got him settled he started after Dr. Puff and Jasper Paulsen, and although he could not win the heat, nevertheless he made Dr. Puff trot fast to win. The latter caught the judges' eye first in 2:19, Our Lucky a length behind, Jasper Paulson third, Lady Vestal fourth, Edwina fifth, Anita sixth and Charivari last. After giving the decision Judge Wilson announced the postponement of the finish of this race until 1:30 to-morrow.

EIGHTH DAY—TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10.

A heavy rain fell all morning and for a time it looked very much as if there would be no races to-day. About eleven o'clock the rain clouds passed away, although the sun did not cheer the hopes of the thousands who were interested. A strong, drying breeze blew and the track, which was a sea of mud in the morning, at one o'clock was dry enough to be lightly harrowed. A long programme of events was prepared, but when the condition of the track was considered, fast time was out of the question.

The wonderfully improved pacer, Fred Mason, who sold as a rank outsider in the betting, had no trouble in vanquishing his opponents. He never was as good a horse as he is to-day and F. H. Burke and his able trainer, Ed Lafferty, are to be congratulated upon their success in making such a good acting race horse out of such a sulking, willful one.

Waldo J. was also in better trim than we have ever seen him, and could pace faster to-day over a good track than any pacer in California, if necessary.

The judges thought there was a nigger in the woodpile in the deciding heat of the unfinished trot, but after drivers were changed they saw they had made a mistake. It was well that they took such precautionary measures, however. The defeat of Agitato was a serious one to Millard Sanders, for he had every reason to believe his colt was unbeatable. What caused him to make so many breaks is unaccountable. Jennie Mc, 2:22 is a new one to the credit of McKinney, 2:11½, and is the making of a very fast and reliable mare.

Seymour Wilkes was decidedly off in his race, and his many backers had "that tired feeling" when they saw the red flag dropped in his face.

In the two-mile race the Boodle filly, Ethel Downes, proved herself to be superior in every way to her opponents, and won the race with apparent ease.

When Dr. Puff and Our Lucky came out to contend for the unfinished race, Dr. Puff won easily in 2:26½. The judges did not like the way this heat was trotted, so they declared this no heat and all bets on it off. J. Sullivan was substituted for Thos. Keating and R. Hovey for G. Maben. The two horses started away on even terms. Our Lucky trailing Dr. Puff to the homestretch, then as the latter pulled to the extreme outside, Our Lucky on the inside. Hovey tried to win with him, but Dr. Puff was the faster and won by a neck in 2:22½.

The first regular event was a two-year-old pacing race. The entries were: King Cadenza, Agitato, Prince Bismarck and Jennie Mc. Pools sold: Jennie Mc $20, Agitato $15, field $6. When the word was given Agitato, who took the lead, was going well, but at the first turn broke and fell back to last place. Jennie Mc led with Prince Bismarck trailing. King Cadenza third; twenty lengths in the rear Agitato kept breaking, and as Jennie Mc came in a winner in 2:22, he was twenty lengths behind the flag.

Jennie Mc walked in under the wire in the next heat in 2:27½, Prince Bismarck second and King Cadenza third.

In the 2:13 pace, which was the next on the programme, there were four starters—Fred Mason, Hanford Medium, Plunkett and Ottinger. Pools sold at first: Ottinger $20, field $11, Fred Mason $6. Then they shifted: Ottinger $20, Fred Mason $15, field $6. When the quartette of side-wheelers were sent away Fred Mason took the lead. At his bike was Hanford Medium and Ottinger, Plunkett half a length away. These were the positions as they neared the quarter-pole, then Ottinger broke and fell back. Fred Mason increased his lead a length and never lost the advantage he gained, coming as steady as if he had never been known to make a mistake. He won easily, Ed Lafferty holding him well in hand. The mile was made in 2:15½, Hanford Medium second, Plunkett third and Ottinger, the favorite, last.

For the next heat, pools sold $20 on Mason, $14 on the field. Ottinger kept close to Fred Mason, Hanford Medium and Plunkett, who were half lengths apart, a length behind him. The four side-wheelers closed up, but Fred Mason drew away from his companions and won easily in 2:13½. The battle for place between Plunkett and Ottinger became very interesting, but the latter won it by a neck, Hanford Medium coming in last.

Fred Mason acted like a race horse, and gamely won the next heat without making a skip in 2:14½. Ottinger succeeded in beating Hanford Medium for the place. Plunkett was last.

Betting on the next race was lively and the pool-sellers had no trouble in getting plenty of bidders for the horses. It was a free-for-all pace, the entries being W. Wood, Waldo J., Seymour Wilkes and Pathmont. In the pools Pathmont sold at $20, Seymour Wilkes $12, field $6; after the word was given and the quarter reached Waldo J. broke and fell back, leaving W. Wood, Pathmont and Seymour to lead the way. These three paced within half a length of each other in this order until the head of the homestretch was reached. Mack brought Waldo J. from the rear and after passing Pathmont he challenged W. Wood and won by a length at the wire from the son of Steinway in 2:11½, Pathmont third and Seymour Wilkes who broke repeatedly distanced, being just behind the flag.

In the next heat Waldo J. sold for $20, field $17. When the three pacers were sent off Pathmont cut out the pace; Waldo J. broke at the first turn and fell back six lengths behind W. Wood, Pathmont three lengths in front of the latter. These positions remained unchanged until half way down the backstretch, where Waldo J. began to close up the gap and was a length and a half behind Pathmont. As the latter entered the stretch W. Wood was dropped out of the race and the struggle for the lead between Waldo J. and Pathmont became interesting. Inch by inch the grey gelding closed up on his game rival who was being driven by Keating for all he was worth, but Mack was not idle. Nearer to the wire they came, but Pathmont had a little the best of it for he landed the heat a winner by a head in 2:11½, W. Wood two lengths behind.

Waldo J. sold for $20 in the pools against $8 on the field and showed that he is a reliable race horse, for he went to the front and won with the greatest of ease in the slow time of 2:17, Pathmont a tired second and W. Wood last. J. Mack pulled his gray favorite to a walk to let the latter get inside the flag.

Waldo J. won the next heat after making a little break at the first turn, W. Wood was second, and Pathmont last. Time, 2:15.

The next event was a two mile and repeat race, the entries being: Ethel Downes, Letter B., Bonnie Ben, Peter W. Gilpatrick and Flora G. Pool sold: Ethel Downes, $30; Bonnie Ben, $20; field, $15. When the word was given Ethel Downes, Flora G., Letter B., Bonnie Ben was the order. At the half Bonnie Ben had passed Letter B. and was third, and the following was the way they finished the first mile: Flora G., Ethel Downes, Bonnie Ben, Gilpatrick, Letter B. and Peter W. At the half Ethel Downes had assumed the lead, Flora G. second, Bonnie Ben third. Ethel made a little skip at this point, but caught quickly and passed to the front. Coming down the homestretch Flora G. broke and fell back, Bonnie Ben and Letter B. passed her and came in behind the smooth-going Ethel Downes, who jogged in a winner in 4:49½, Flora G. fourth, Peter W. fifth and Gilpatrick last.

In the next heat Ethel Downes led from start to finish. Letter B. who was second, ran over an eighth of a mile, and was set back to third place, Flora G. being placed in front of him. Peter W. was fourth, Bonnie Ben fifth, Gilpatrick last. Time, 4:47½.

NINTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11.

There never was a more downcast set of men in Sacramento than that which assembled beneath the grandstand this afternoon, while big drops of rain pattered on the track and dampened the course until it was unfit to walk on. The cloudy sky in the early morning indicated rain, then when a southeast wind began to blow a little those who were cognizant of the changes in the temperature said: "We are going to have a big storm before many hours."

Notwithstanding this, the grandstand was packed from early morning until the announcement of the postponement of the races was heard. In the morning the stock parade took place and the horses and cattle were awarded premiums according to their merits. Having been a constant attendant at the State Fair for a number of years I must say there never was such a splendid display of choice animals. The very finest of beef and dairy herds in the world have at last found a foothold here, and the improvement is so noticeable that even the most unobservant is astonished at seeing such beautiful animals.

The horses, from the mammoth Clydesdales to the tiniest Shetlands, including famous thoroughbreds, trotters, pacers, coach and hackney horses are a credit to this great State, and the owners have just cause for being proud of winning premiums where there was so much opposition.

Great care was exercised in selecting judges, and the new members of the Board of Directors showed an aptitude for this work that must be gratifying to the older ones. Very few could decline to serve when John Mackey's persuasive powers were brought to play. He is as good a judge of humanity as he is of horses and cattle and was very careful in picking his men. President Chase and Directors Boggs, Matthews and De Long were also indefatigable workers, while Secretary Smith never seemed to tire in performing the arduous duties of his office.

The rain fell as it did in Noah's time and the crowds who waited for electric cars and hacks were a long time in getting home. The hackmen reaped a golden harvest and the train which left at seven o'clock at night carried the largest number of passengers of any that ever left Sacramento.

The racing promised to be most excellent, but alas, the vast audience, as well as those immediately interested in the sport were doomed to a damp and drizzling disappointment.

Loupe lowered his record to 2:14½ easily and proved himself to be one of the smoothest gaited pacers seen on the circuit this year. Jasper Ayres fulfilled all expectations, and if necessary he could have made a much lower record. Miss Jessie, the beautiful Gossiper filly, has not quite recovered from her injury, but trotted a game race. It is hoped she will be in fine condition when she strikes the Los Angeles track.

The first event was a trotting race for three-year-olds and under, 2:25 class. The value of the stake was $1,175. There were only three left out of the eleven that were nominated January 1st and they were: Jasper Ayres, Miss Jessie and Corinne Neilson. Pools sold: Jasper Ayres $20, field $4. When the trio started Miss Jessie led until the quarter-pole was passed, then Jasper Ayres trotted by her, Corinne Neilson being seven lengths behind. From this point to the wire Miss Jessie kept right beside Jasper Ayres, and when she made an effort to pass him about thirty yards from the goal he let out a link or two of speed and broke, but his driver, J. Perkins, pulled him to a trot and landed him a winner by half a length, Miss Jessie tiptoeing. Time, 2:20½.

The other two heats needed to decide this race were also won by Jasper Ayres in 2:24½ and 2:35, Miss Jessie being second and Corinne Neilson third.

In the 2:19 class pace there were six entries: Ruby M., Loupe, Prince Nutwood, Ella W., Birdroe and Dictatus. Pools sold: Birdroe $20, Loupe $11, field $15. The start was a good one for all but Ella W., who was six lengths behind the balance. Prince Nutwood essayed the task of being drum major and led by four lengths at the quarter, Loupe, the beautiful, moving as steadily as a clock, kept decreasing the gap to the half, the balance were bunched four lengths further away. The leader, Prince Nutwood, moved faster and faster, and at the half was eight lengths in advance. On going to the three quarter pole, McManus behind Loupe, called on him, and the way he eat up space was terrific. At the seven-eighths pole he passed Prince Nutwood just as the latter broke. Loupe jogged in an easy winner by three lengths in 2:14½, Ruby M. third, Birdroe, the favorite, fourth, Ella W. fifth, and Dictatus, who broke badly at the first turn, was distanced.

The 2:20 class trot had nine starters—Jennie June, Escort, Irene Crocker, Bay Rum, Lady Thornhill, Prince Ira, Columbus S., Chico and Native State. Pools sold: Field $20, Chico $16, Native State $10 and Jennie June $5. Irene Crocker took the lead, with Native State and Jennie June close up. At the half Irene broke and Native State passed her. Jennie June, Lady Thornhill and Bay Rum now closed up, but the leaders, Native State and Irene Crocker, made a hard fight when near the wire. The former broke and then the latter, both running under the wire, Native State ahead. Time, 2:17. Lady Thornhill, Bay Rum, Jennie June, Escort, Chico, Columbus S. and Prince Ira coming in in the order named.

Pools sold in second heat: Chico $25, field $17, Native Son $10. When Judge Wilson sent them away Lady Thornhill, Escort and Irene Crocker led, the rest bunched behind them. At the half the nine horses were all in a mass, and in this way moved to the three-quarter pole. It was a pretty sight, then the fastest began to leave the bunch, and Irene Crocker, ably driven by Ed Connolly, and Native State struggled for the lead to the wire, but the former had the most speed and landed the heat a winner by a length in 2:17½, Lady Thornhill third, Chico fourth, Bay Rum fifth, Escort sixth, Jennie June seventh, Columbus eighth and Prince Ira ninth.

A large number of "know it alls" thought that it was Jimmie Sullivan's opportunity to let Chico out and he surely ought to win this heat. They paid $20 on this horse against the field at $14 and Native State $5. When the horses came out to give themselves and their drivers a first-class mud bath rain was falling in torrents and the mud was three inches deep on the track. The horses apparently liked to cavort in it, and when Judge Wilson gave the word those in front made the trotters behind look as if they were going through a cyclone of mud and dirty water. It was impossible almost to distinguish one from the other. Chico was in the lead hugging the pole, while Columbus S., the Vallejo horse, was on the extreme outside and keeping clear of the flying mud. At the head of the homestretch Chico was leading, but he broke about one hundred yards of the wire and Columbus S. passed him and at the same time covered his rival with mud and defeat. He came in under the wire in 2:27½. The muddy-looking drivers of the rest of the horses all stood in a row in front of the judges stand, and after digging the Sacramento real estate from their eyes and mouths, looked up as well as they could and pleaded for a postponement. The judges were humane and accordingly granted their humble request. The unfinished pacing race was also postponed until to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

TENTH DAY—THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12.
Over a slushy, slippery track some phenomenal racing was witnessed this afternoon by a crowd of fully 5,000 lovers of the "sport of kings." Bright Phoebus is certainly a wonder in heavy going. Conceding every horse in the race from nine to twenty-six pounds, he won the Fall Stake, mile and a quarter, in 2:08½ pulled up to a common canter at the finish. It was simply a mere exercise gallop for the white-faced bay son of Falsetto and Buff and Blue, and it is questionable if such a mud lark was ever seen in this part of the Western Hemisphere. And we have seen Lucky Dog, too, run a mile in 1:43 in deep mud. Bright Phoebus did the first mile in 1:42½ to-day.

Belle Boyd won the two-year-old handicap in the gamest possible fashion by a length from that good colt, Grady, who was conceding her ten pounds.

A good two-year-old maiden was sprung in the first race in Palomacita, a full sister to the doughty Armitage. It was her first start, and she went right to the front and remained there easily to the finish, Treachery coming up fast in the last part of it and getting the place by less than a length from Ollie M., who was slightly interfered with by Treachery in the last sixteenth of a mile.

Pat Murphy, first all the way, won the fourth race with ease by three lengths, Nervoso second, two from Duchess of Towers. Capt. Rees, the original favorite, was absolutely last at the finish, while Abi P. ran a poor race also. The hook-makers' sheets were examined by the judges, but they looked all right and bets were paid.

The last race of the day was at a mile. Road Runner lost the race on the first turn, and it cost him the race, as Nebuchadnezzar sailed off in front and was not headed. He won by a length and a half from Road Runner in a hard drive, Lady Jane beaten off and pulled up.

The judges to-day were C. M. Chase, John Mackey and Edwin F. Smith.

How the Races Were Run.

Treachery went to the post in the first race a warm favorite, opening at 4 and closing at 2 to 1. Palomacita (sister to Armitage) went steadily at 2½. Pansy (originally 6) and Cyrene were at 3 (later receding from 6 to 5). Ollie M. was at 8, the Kyrle Daly-Chiquito Colt 10, Lillie R. 20 and Little Flush 50 to 1. They went away to a good start, the order being Pansy, Little Flush filly, Palomacita. The last-named at once sailed past the pair in front of her and led by three lengths at the half, Little Flush filly second, two from Pansy. Into the homestretch it was Palomacita first by three lengths, Pansy second, with Ollie M. at her saddle. Palomacita simply galloped down the homestretch, winning by three lengths, Treachery coming very fast and beating Ollie M. three parts of a length for place after a bump near the finish. Time, 1:03½.

The second race was at six furlongs, a handicap, for two-year-olds. Grady was plunged on at post time, closing a favorite at 2 to 1, backed from 3. Heartsease and Belle Boyd were well supported at 2½ to 1, Joe K. at 3½, Lucretia Borgia 4 and Brother John 20 to 1. They were over thirty minutes at the post, owing to Heartsease's mulish actions principally. Finally the flag fell to a fair start, Joe K., Belle Boyd, Lucretia Borgia being the order. Belle Boyd shot to the front when they had gone about a furlong, leading at the half-mile ground by one and one-half lengths, Joe K. and Grady close together. Belle Boyd's lead was cut to a length turning for the run home, Grady second, as far from Heartsease. Grady got up to Belle Boyd in the stretch, but the weight and waiting told on the colt, and Belle Boyd, driven out to the last ounce, won by a length, Grady second, three lengths from Heartsease. Time, 1:16½.

The Fall Stake, one and a quarter miles, next occupied the attention of the public. Bright Phoebus was a 2 to 5 favorite on the strength of his well known liking for heavy going. Lovdal was backed down from 3½ to 2½ to 1. Del Norte was at 6, McLight 7, Arnette 8 to 1. They broke quickly to a good start, Arnette going into the lead and being first by two lengths passing the stand, Bright Phoebus second, with Lovdal at his saddle, a head before McLight, who was under a pull. At the quarter pole it was Arnette still first by two lengths, McLight next, a head before Bright Phoebus. The latter was soon thereafter given his head, and showed just a trifle in front of McLight at the half-mile mark, Arnette another half length away and fast dropping out of it. Bright Phoebus shot away from his field at every stride, leading by three lengths at the final turn, McLight second, as far from Arnette. Bright Phoebus galloped down the homestretch and won eased up by two and one-half lengths in the phenomenal time of 2:08½ for a heavy track, McLight second, driving, four lengths before Del Norte, who beat Lovdal two. The fractional time was 0:25, 0:51, 1:16½, 1:42½. As the track record is 2:07½ for one and a quarter miles, the run of Bright Phoebus can be accounted nothing short of wonderful.

The fourth race was at six furlongs, selling. First Capt. Rees was an even money favorite, then was backed to 3 to 5, closed at 8 to 5, Pat Murphy being played down from 2 to 1 to even money. Nervoso was at 4 to 1, Abi P. 5, Warrago 8, Duchess of Towers 10 (backed from 15). They broke to a fair start, Pat Murphy going to the front like a shot and opening up a gap of three lengths in the first eighth. Nervoso crept up to him then, however, and past the half it was Pat Murphy and Nervoso, a neck apart, three lengths before Duchess of Towers, Capt. Rees dropping out at every stride. Murphy led Nervoso into the homestretch a length, Duchess of Towers another length away. In the last sixteenth Pat Murphy drew further and further away, winning easily by three lengths, Nervoso second, two lengths before Duchess of Towers. Time, 1:15½. The judges did not like the look of things, and called for the hookmakers' sheets. They must have been satisfactory, for the bets were paid as the horses finished.

The concluding race was at a mile, selling. Road Runner closed at 4 to 5, Nebuchadnezzar at evens (6 to 5 at opening). Lady Jane 3½ to 1. They got away to a good start, Road Runner against the inner rails. Nebuchadnezzar outran the Runner going to the first turn, and getting the rail, went away from the favorite like a shot. At the quarter "Nebby" was three lengths in front, at the half two, Road Runner and Lady Jane close together. Lady Jane soon thereafter fell back beaten, and the little horse led by two lengths turning for home. Road Runner was ridden vigorously, but Nebuchadnezzar lasted out well enough to win by one and a half lengths, Road Runner second, thirty lengths before Lady Jane, who was pulled up. Time, 1:44.

The Past and the Future.

If the highest class of two-year-olds are a little scarce this year, and the numbers of animals of that age that are able to reach the 2:30 mark have fallen off considerably from last year, how will it be in the coming years? In 1892 when the two-year-olds of 1895 were bred, there had been no great reduction in the number of mares bred. Probably there was some. But in 1893 this reduction began in good earnest, and has been even more marked since that time. It is thought that in 1892 there was a reduction of nearly or quite ninety per cent. from previous years. Next year's crop of two-year-olds will then of necessity be very small and trotting-bred animals of that age will be in great demand. In 1897 and 1898 they will be still harder to obtain. We believe, however, that they will be of a higher class, because in discarding a large proportion of their mares people were very liable to save their best. As stallion fees also went down in the general decline; many were in that year and have been since able to breed to horses of approved merit whose fee was in previous years out of their reach. With a very great decline in numbers there will, or at least ought to be, a very considerable improvement in quality. No matter how great the "slump" in prices, the very best mares will not be allowed to remain barren if their owners can help it. But many mares that might have become great by their produce will have been derived of the opportunity, says the Stock Farm.

The decline in the numbers of the older classes will be felt later. The three-year-olds of 1895 were bred in 1891. Trotting-horse breeding was then at its height. Everything in the shape of a mare with trotting breeding was bred. Consequently we ought to have this year as many trotting three-year-olds as we ever had before. But two years from now the case will be different. They will be conspicuously absent, and three-year-old classes will be comparatively small. After that the deficiency will fall on four-year-olds and aged horses.

It may be that this falling off was a blessing, although considerably disguised. In many respects the results will be beneficial. The horses that are left will bring better prices when the results of the diminished breeding begin to be felt. And then many worthless mares and indifferent stallions will have sunk into their well merited obscurity. Breeders have become more select. Better bred horses and mares have been required. The tin-cup business has received a death-blow, a consummation which had been ardently desired by most trotting horsemen for a very considerable length of time. Stable boys no longer feel constrained to put horses in the 2:30 list "before breakfast." Many of the old abuses have died out with the bursting of the boom. Counterfeits do not now so often take the place of the genuine article. "Old things have passed away, and behold all things have become new." We have been compelled to begin business afresh on a higher plane and a sounder basis. Merit shown in races is now the test of values. The foolish idea that a stallion's rank should be gauged by the number of 2:30 performers he sired has "vanished into thin air," leaving "scarce a wreck behind." We now measure stallions by their capacity to sire race winners, horses that can capture the shekels. Blood is as highly regarded as ever, but not the blood that produces our heat performers. That kind is dropping out. Speed is even more sought after than heretofore, but it must be accompanied by the qualities which alone render it useful.

We are thus rising on "stepping stones" of our dead past to higher things. Probably some such lesson as that of the catastrophe of 1893 was necessary. Our methods needed reforming. There was entirely too much ignorant and thoughtless breeding. There was also too much breeding for the sole purpose of selling without reference to quality. Had the machine run along quietly in the old grooves this would have never been changed. The ridiculous strife for tin-cups would have still been continued, and the stallion that could put the greatest number of worthless skates in 2:30 would still have been the greatest horse. Experience is an expensive but sometimes a very wholesome and salutary school. During the last two or three years breeders have been learning a good deal. The tuition fee has been high, but the lessons taught have been sound ones. They will not be thrown away. On the whole, breeders will profit by them. The "fools' paradise" of a few years ago could not last always. It was based upon illusions in which many wise men shared. It was a boom, and like all bubbles, had to collapse. However we may have wished to the contrary, it was inevitable. While possibly it might have been postponed, it could not have been, under these existing conditions, prevented. It is well the illusions have been destroyed, although the cost of their destruction has been great.

There are many great truths wrapped up in homely maxims, and there is none truer than the old one, "He that dances must pay the fiddler." We had great dancing for a few years, and we are now settling with the gentlemen who furnished the musical part of the entertainment. It comes a little hard, but we have to face the musicians. Don't attempt, however, to cast the blame on the trotting-horse business. It is all right when conducted on sound business principles. It leads, however, to unfortunate results when "boom town" tactics are resorted to. Any business carried on upon such methods will lead to disaster.

There is plenty money in breeding trotting horses as a legitimate business undertaking, and where it rests upon a solid basis of actual merit. Like all other kinds of business that bring good results, it needs care and judgment. It has its proper and healthful profit. The men who breed the best can always find a sale for their goods. "There is plenty of room on top." We have all in the past gone more or less astray. The time has come to reform our methods and fix the enterprise on a substantial foundation.

HOOF-BEATS.

ROBERT MCGREGOR is the sire of eight trotters with records of 2:15 or better.

FRED KOHL won another good race at Philadelphia September 11th. Best time, 2:16½. He's a good three-year-old.

DIABLO, 2:09½, won the first prize at the State Fair this year in the standard-bred trotting class; McKinney, 2:11½, was second.

THE pacing mare Laura M. is recovering from the injury she received at Napa, and will start in the free-for-all race at Santa Ana.

EROS JR., 2:28½, is by Eros, 2:29½, the Electioneer stallion formerly owned by F. H. Burke, of La Siesta Stock Farm, Santa Clara county.

NINE of the get of Oaward (2:25½) have already made new records in 2:20 or better this season. Three of the nine have entered the 2:30 list this year.

BELL GIRL, by the ill-fated Bell Boy, son of Electioneer entered the 2:30 list at McKee's Rocks, Pa., August 21st, getting a record of 2:29½ in the third heat.

MISS RITA, 2:09½, is the latest surprise. This three-year-old filly has been held back by Orrin Hickok until just right and now she can doubtless beat any pacer of her age out.

EDITH ROWE GRAHAM is the long name for a beautiful Sable Wilkes, three-year-old, that got a record of 2:24 at Rigby Park, August 29th. She is out of a mare by Don Carlos.

THOMAS BOYLE, it is reported on good authority, is to take Cy Mulkey's place as trainer of A. B. Spreckels' horses when the veteran retires. Boyle is a first-class man and a thoroughly honest one.

ONE of the best horses on the Eastern circuit this season is Prince Purdy, by Havelock, out of a mare by the famous old Geo. M. Patchen Jr. horse, Sam Purdy. His record is 2:15½, made in the fifth heat of a race.

THURSDAY five great horses were exhibited at Agricultural Park, Sacramento—the peerless Salvador and his rival, Tenny, and the English horses Midlothian, Goldfinch and Watercress. The last-named two are comparatively new arrivals. Goldfinch is by Ormonde; Watercress by Springfield.

THE discretionary powers of judges with regard to horses breaking are large. It is for them to decide whether a driver does not try to pull a horse to his stride, or whether he complies with the rule and simply gains by the break. If he does not pull the horse to the gait at which he is to go the race, the judges are required to place him behind all non-offending horses, and they must punish him in other ways. If the judges construe a break to be a gaining break, it is their duty to subtract from his position at the finish twice the distance so gained. The critic who says the judges have no discretion in this matter does not know what he is talking about. He considers only one-half of the problem.

ANDREW THOMPSON, a well-known horse owner and trainer who lived near the Sheephead Bay track, died yesterday of consumption. Thompson had an attack of pneumonia last Spring, and went out too soon after partial recovery. He contracted a cold, which resulted in a relapse and finally in the disease which brought about his death. Thompson began life as a horseman with the Dwyer Brothers, and had charge of Rhadamanthus and Bramble, and other horses that they owned early in their career on the turf. He was associated with James Rowe when he trained for the Dwyers, and was very popular, even though he was a colored man. He was one of the best dressed men about the track, was quiet, gentlemanly and thoroughly deserving of the popularity he enjoyed among horsemen. He was the owner of Mabel Glenn, George Dixon and other horses of the selling plate class. At one time he trained the horses of Col. W. L. Scott's stable.

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

HULDA has been in the hospital since her race with Azote.

ANTIDOTE, by Anteros, paced in 2:11½ at Galesburg August 31st.

SEND in your subscriptions to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN now.

UTILITY, 2:14½, is the ninth 2:15 trotter to the credit of Electioneer.

GEORGE MORRISON, by Anteros, trotted in 2:30 at Franklin, Ind., last week.

ALEXANDRE, 2:15½, by Dexter Prince, is now in Bither & Walker's stable at Charter Oak Park.

FRANK WALKER, the starting judge, fines the driver of the pole horse when he fails to come up.

KLAMATH, 2:08½, by Morookus, is the fastest trotter on record whose sire is not registered standard.

ALBINA DE MER, the dam of Wiggin, 2:20½, is the first of Stamboul's daughters to become a producer.

A THREE-YEAR-OLD colt by the Woodburn Farm stallion Expedition, 2:15½, has shown a mile in 2:18½.

THE Stockton races next week will attract large crowds of people. A splendid lot of specials will be prepared.

GENERAL, 2:19½, by Sidmoor (son of Sidney, 2:19½), lowered his record to 2:16½ at Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 2.

THE race meeting at Ventura this year promises to be the best ever held. This meeting follows the one at Fresno.

C. P. BACON's favorite road horse, at Portland, Or., Rock, is a half brother to Altao, 2:10½, and Pathmont, 2:09½.

WALDO J., 2:10, is a better horse to-day than he has ever been and will get a much lower record before winter sets in.

WALTER MABEN is rapidly recovering the use of his arm. It has been an expensive as well as painful accident for this prince of horsemen.

A NUMBER of prominent breeders have already signified their intention of having a string of trotters and pacers at the circuit next year.

IAGO, 2:11, is the fastest trotter that has appeared in California this year. He belongs to Williams & Morehouse, of the Silver Bow Stock Farm.

LARABIE, 3, 2:12½, by Jay Bird and Rschel, 4, 2:08½, by Baron Wilkes, 2:18, still remain the fastest new standard trotter and pacer of 1895, to date.

A LARGE number of Salinas people were in Sacramento Admission Day to see their favorite, Bruno, trot, but the company was a little too speedy for him.

THE light harness races "put a crimp in the bank rolls" of the bookmaker at Sacramento. They are harder to pick winners among than the thoroughbreds.

ALTHOUGH Belmont died six years ago, his fastest trotter, Ella Belmont, 2:12½, and his fastest pacer, Earlmont, 2:09½, have both taken their records this season.

W. C. HARLAND, of Winters, has a very promising three-year-old filly by Simmocolon, out of Wing Wing, by Privateer. She will be seen on the circuit next season.

THE performance of Chehalis and Pathmont pacing in the 2:10 list in one race certainly is wonderful. Two of the get of no other horse ever entered this list in one race.

JOE THAYER, of Lexington, Ky., has in his stable a great three-year-old. He is by Simmons, 2:28, dam Moonstone, 2:28½, by Sultan, and last week stepped a mile in 2:15.

MAZATLAN, William Russell Allen's son of Electioneer and Rosemont, by Piedmont; second dam Beautiful Bells, took a time record of 2:26½ at Rigby Park last Friday.

DIABLO, 2:09½, met with a slight accident last week, so Mr. Murray, his owner, decided not to run any risks with him and did not start him in the pacing race at Sacramento this week.

THE best way to accomplish the repeal of a noxious law is to enforce it, said one of our great men. The laws that interfere with racing at present surely, therefore, will be revised.

RACHEL, 2:08½, the fastest performer of the year that had no record at the beginning of the season, is an inbred Wilkes, her sire being a son and her dam a daughter of George Wilkes.

BEUZETTA, the great four-year-old which was purchased by Peter Duryea, of New York, for $16,500 last month in New York, will be trained and driven by Orrin A. Hickok next season.

TIERE is a five-year-old mare by Memo, out of a mare by Mambrino Wilkes at the Santa Rosa Stock Farm which will be one of the best and fastest mares seen next year on the California circuit.

RALPH WILKES, 2:06½, has now the fastest record of any stallion in the list of 2:30 sires, his two-year-old son, Pooh Bah having taken a record of 2:29½ at Rigby Park, near Portland, Me., last year.

STAM B.'s second mile in that race against Iago at Sacramento, in which the latter won by a length in 2:12½, stamps this colt as one of the best ever bred in this State. What a four-year-old he will make?

THE string of horses from the Palo Alto Stock Farm next year will consist of some older horses and mares. The colt stakes did not fill as well as they used to, and it is hard to get races for the youngsters.

THE exhibition of standard trotters, thoroughbreds, coach draft and Shetland ponies at the State Fair this year has never been surpassed. Most of the prize winners will appear at the horse show in San Francisco this winter.

JOHN SHEPPARD, the Boston road-rider, who sold all his trotters last spring and announced that hereafter he would have only high steppers in his stable, is buying trotters again, Benton Wilkes, 2:13, by Alcyone, being now his property.

At Muncie, Ind., August 21, the "gentleman's" road race, owners to drive, was called off. C. W. Wright, colored, entered Mutual C. and the other men refused to go, saying it could not be a "gentleman's race" with a colored man in.

McKINNEY's latest addition to the list is the smooth-going pacer Jennie Mc. She won her race in Sacramento Tuesday getting a mark of 2:22, and the ease with which she paced that mile proved that she is capable of going much faster.

A MAN naming a horse in a race pledges himself to honor his signature. If the horse does not come up to his expectations and he declines to pay what he has agreed to, in fact, repudiates his signature, he should be dealt with severely. It is a breach of trust.

Mr. WM. AYERS, who conducted the pool privilege during the Anaconda meeting, returned home this week. He says Anaconda put up the best meeting ever held in Montana, and everybody went away well pleased with the management. —Portland Rural Spirit.

AVENA, by Electioneer, will be placed in training at Palo Alto and put in readiness for the circuit next year, so will the bandsome mare Bell Bird, 2:12 (as a three-year-old), by Electioneer. There may be other good ones taken up on this farm soon and prepared for racing.

SOME of the cheap performers that are showing great form this year are Tom Dallas, 2:07½, bought from a liveryman at Rich Hill, Mo., last June for less than $100 by his present owner, Frank Erwin; Newman, 2:15½, who sold for $65 before he earned track fame, and Wesley R., 2:10, the latter once bringing only $40.

WM. GEMMELL, one of Butte's most enthusiastic horsemen, has purchased from Mr. Brown, of Salt Lake City, the fast pacing stallion Jay See, 2:17½. Besides owing Jay See, Mr. Gemmell has a very promising two-year-old by McKinney, out of the dam of Antioch, 2:21½, that is being developed by trainer Pat McEvoy.

BRILLIANTINE, 2:17½, the phenomenal dun-colored pacer by Brilliant will never appear in races again. She is at the Woodland race track in charge of John Blue, and can not walk out of her stall. In her last race she "corded up" and was unable to move after being led out of the sulky. This mare is owned at Vacaville.

THREE new 2:15 trotters have been added to Robert McGregor's list this season: Roxane, 2:12½, Miss McGregor, 2:13, and Sidner McGregor, 2:14. Onward is credited with the same number: Norther, 2:13½, Catherine Leyburn, 2:14, and May Morgan, 2:14, and Stranger also has three in Col. Kuser, 2:12½, Cebolla, 2:14½, and Boodle, 2:15.

THE blood of Electioneer is rapidly coming to the front just as we have all along said it would. The fastest yearling, two, three and five-year-old and aged trotters of the year, Fanny Foley, Tommy Britton, Athanio, Fantasy and Azote, are all lineal descendants of Electioneer. Beuzetta, the four-year-old champion, belongs to the Wilkes family.

ONOQUA's record of 2:11½ is a wonderful performance for a three-year-old, but we consider the mile made by Zombro on Monday over a track at least two seconds slow to be a far greater one. He was separately timed a mile in 2:11½, and had the track been anywhere near as smooth and hard as it ought to have been, he would have got a record below 2:10.

WM. CORBITT has not had his usual amount of good luck with the San Mateo horses this year. He said a few days ago that unless a number of the lame ones in his string get better, and certain others show a decided improvement in form, he will not attend any more meetings, but return at an early date to California, taking with him the entire outfit. —Sportsman.

W. WOOD, 2:07, is looking better than he ever did in his life, but he needs a little chastising to break him of his indolence. He is cunning, and will not try to pace as he used to a few years ago. Horses become spoiled by over-indulgence sometimes, and if W. Wood was made to feel that he had to do better he would make every free-for-all in California hustle to pass him.

PRINCE RUSSELL, a weanling by Dexter Prince, out of Gertrude Russell, sister to Palo Alto, and a weanling by Dexter Prince, out of Idlemay, by Electioneer, have been taken up and harnessed at the Palo Alto Stock Farm. The speed they show is remarkable. It is a question which of the two is the most promising. F. W. Covey, the superintendent, says "they are hard to beat in any country."

STEVE CRANDALL has four very promising two-year-olds by Knight, 2:22, at Rancho del Paso. This horse and his stable companion, Bay Bird, are destined to found two families of horses on this great farm that will be to the trotting horse world what the Haggin thoroughbreds have been to the racing turf. John Mackey deserves great credit for selecting such splendidly-bred and fine-looking individuals for his farm.

At Galesburg some world's records have been broken. Judge Hurt won the first heat of the 2:15 pace in 2:09½, pacing the fastest mile for a three-year-old in a race, and Miss Williams, also entered the 2:10 list in the same class. C. F. Emery's good Patron colt Ananias, whose dam is Annie W., 2:20, took a record of 2:12 in the second heat of a winning race and Fido once more took down first money in straight order, giving the Galesburg dead-level track its fastest race mark, 2:07½.

A CHICAGO gentleman, whose experience and opportunity of judging are not excelled in the United States, gives it as his opinion that great prosperity is in store for the breeders of horses within the next few years. He has observed that only a very trifling percentage of the mares in the country have been bred during the past three years, and as surely as the years roll by a great shortage will be encountered. It is easy enough to prophesy that this, that or the next thing will come to pass; but when a well-posted man has the right opportunity to fix data it is long odds that his predictions will be verified. There never was a better time in the world to go into the horse-breeding business than at this moment.

At Cleveland, Ohio, the other day Orrin Hickok drove Peter Duryea's new pacing team, Angie D., 2:07, and Josie B., 2:13½, a mile in 2:11½. This is not a record as there were no official timers, but the performance knocks the world's records for both pacing and trotting to smithereens. The pacing team record is held by Thomas Ryder and Belle Button, 2:16½, at Oakland, California, 1892. The record against time is held by Daisy D. and Silvertail, 2:18½ in 1887. Honest George and Belle Hamlin hold the trotting team record of 2:12½.

A CASE in which many horsemen are interested, because it was the first case of the kind ever decided by law, has recently been settled in the Knox Co., Ill., court. The case was one brought by C. W. Williams, of Galesburg, to recover from George Mosbier certain money due on entries made by Mosbier at the races there last fall. Mosbier paid a part of the entrance money, but before the race he decided to draw his horse and refused to pay the balance claimed by Williams to be due. The court returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the amount. The case will probably be appealed to the Circuit Court.

E. W. AYRES, of Duckers, Ky., breeder of the great filly Beuzetta, 2:06½, was sold last week to Peter Duryea, of New York, for $16,500. With the beginning made by this filly last year, she was brought into her owner's pocket between $40,000 and $50,000. Mr. Ayres shows he has a big head by selling the filly as he did, great as she is, for horse life is uncertain, and a sure thing much better than an uncertain one, however, promising. With proper care and handling Beuzetta ought to become the champion trotter of the world before another year closes. Now, Brother Ayres, go to work and give us a second Beuzetta.

JOHN MACKEY, of Rancho del Paso, bought a thoroughbred called Golden Dawn in the East last year, and in taking him to the farm he noticed that he was a "high stepper of the biggest kind." He is a beautiful horse, and Mr. Mackey saw that he would get a class of horses that would sell if this fellow was mated with the right kind of trotters. He selected fifty good mares and bred them to him, and when he contemplates what the result will be, he smiles. He can make no mistake in this horse, for there never was a backney in the country to compare in style, action, quality and perfect disposition with Golden Dawn.

THE breakdown of Directum is in the nature of a public misfortune. At the very least it will retire him from the track for a year or two, and it is not at all improbable that his retirement will be permanent. It consists in the rupture of a tendon in one of his hind legs. It is now certain that if the stallion record is to be reduced this season it must be done by some other horse. With all of the brilliant trotters of the present year, there is no stallion among them that is very likely to perform such a feat. With the death of Ralph Wilkes the probability of reducing Directum's stallion record seems to have vanished for the present at least. William Penn, 2:07½, is nearer the mark than any other trotting stallion, but, great as he is, he is hardly credited with the ability to beat 2:05½. There are youngsters coming on that, without some serious misfortune, will be contestants for the lowest stallion record, but their time has not yet come. There is, however, no stallion on the track whose record is not at least two seconds slower than Directum's, and two seconds means a great deal for horses whose records approach 2:05.

WE are indebted to J. Woolner & Son for some very interesting information relating to the trotting gelding Jimmy Hague, who has hitherto been said to have been sired by Antevolo, out of a mare by Daniel Lambert. They write: "Jimmy Hague is not by Antevolo, nor is his dam by Daniel Lambert. He was bred on our farm (the Baconsfield Stock Farm), by the party from whom we bought the farm, together with a lot of horses, Jimmy Hague being among the number. This gentleman had three stallions and several mares, all common breeding and none of them standard. He says that in 1889 he bred one stallion—a Babaw pacer—to all his mares, and he thinks that this colt was out of a mare that was half thoroughbred. Some take kindly to this view of the case, and reason that Jimmy gets his speed from his sire and his staying qualities from the thoroughbred blood of his dam; but there are very grave doubts as to whether he is a son of the half thoroughbred mare. We never thought enough of him to work him, as he showed no great speed, but was a high knee actor, in fact, too much so. Young E. H. Woolner, who drove him as a road horse in Peoria, had extension plates put on him, and they were still on when he was traded to a party who shipped him to Bloomington. On his arrival there the horsemen, on account of the plates, concluded that he had been worked, and for this reason, we believe, he was given a trial. His owners at that time disagreed, and Jimmy was sold to his present owners, who put him in good hands and gave him a fair show, which we are glad to see rewarded." —Horseman.

It may be possible that the big horse Azote would have gone just as remarkable miles as those of Wednesday, at Fleetwood, without the assistance of any artificial agency, but there will always be plenty of men to believe the contrary, and those most firm in this belief are the men who understand the use and value of ozonized oxygen in treating lung and pulmonary troubles in the human family. For fully twenty years the oxygen treatment has been endorsed by the leading physicians of America in all affections of the respiratory organs. On Tuesday last, for the first time recorded in history, ozonized oxygen was administered to a racehorse (Alix) before and after her mile in 2:08½. Her driver, Mr. McDowell, believes that the treatment was of material value to her. On Wednesday, Azote was given the same treatment and he performed, in the second heat of his race, the greatest mile, all things considered, ever seen on the turf. Oxygen is one of the greatest vitalizing agents, and it not only assists in the free and easy action of the lungs, but increases the muscular force and the power of endurance. After a fast heat and the consequent exhaustion on the part of the horse, oxygen acts as a reviving agent, relieves the lungs and air passages and reduces the temperature, enabling the horse to cool off rapidly and to regain quickly full control of expended force. Dr. Alfred Walton, of New York City, is the gentleman who must be credited with first introducing this treatment. He is now constructing a seven-pound tank, which can be carried on the sulky, with tubes running to a patent bridge and to the horses' nostrils, so that the driver can administer the oxygen during the heat. There is no doubt that this is another discovery which will hasten the 2:00 record for the light harness horse.

THE SADDLE.

It has been decided to put the $37,000 colt, Hastings, out of training and treat him for spavins.

MERRY MONARCH pulled up quite lame after the first race in which he carried J. E. Kittson's colors.

SWEET ROSE, by Flambeau, from imp. Fairy Rose, made a superb showing the first time she ever faced a starter, which was in the Sunny Slope Stakes at Sacramento last week.

CLIFFORD beat Sir Walter a head last Saturday at Sheepshead Bay in 1:53 1-5 for a mile and an eighth. On the same date Installator did the distance over Sacramento track in 1:53 1-4.

At the recent sale of Tocal yearlings in Sidney, N. S. W., a brother to imp. Candid brought $800, or £160. In the Duckenfield sale a yearling sister to Grand Lady fetched £100.

BOB ISOM has been engaged to ride for Col. Pepper's stable Chinn and Morgan having relinquished their contract. It was A. Isom, not Bob, who was hurt at the Lexington track last week.

B. C. HOLLY was perhaps the heaviest winner at Sacramento last week. He is reported to have won over $3,000 on Installator and Vincto on Saturday, getting 6 to 1 against the latter.

TOD SLOAN was the hero of the hour in Sacramento last Saturday, when he put three winners in succession over the plate and cut the mile and a furlong record from 1:53 3-4 to 1:53 1-4 with Installator.

Of the Futurity winners Potomac, His Highness, Butterflies and Domino were foaled in Kentucky, Proctor Knott in Tennessee, Chaos in Pennsylvania, Morello in Virginia and Requit in New Jersey.

J. H. McCORMICK has purchased from Eugene Leigh for the firm of Burns & Waterhouse, the two-year-old chestnut colt, Glacier, by Woodlands—Wanda, and the two-year-old Montgomery, by Hanover—Blessing.

IMP. LOYALIST, son of The Marquis and Loyal Peeress, by The Peer, has been given a royal chance at Palo Alto Stud. Among the mares he was mated with last spring might be mentioned imp. Flirt and Glendew.

JOCKEY THORPE has been engaged to ride for McCafferty for the balance of the season. Reiff is in disgrace. It seems that the boy became unmanageable, and McCafferty decided to keep him on the ground for a while.

WHEN Rey El Santa Anita beat Henry of Navarre for the Twin City Handicap, the weight on the Californian was 120 pounds, on the $60,000 colt 127 pounds. Rey El Santa Anita won easily by two lengths in 2:07 for the mile and a quarter.

At the last sale of Kirkham yearlings on Randwick track Sydney, N. S. W., the Abercorns brought excellent prices. The top-hotcher was the ch c Coil, by Abercorn—Copa, by Robinson Crusoe, William Bailey purchasing him at 1,000 guineas.

THE series of races between Rey el Santa Anita, Henry of Navarre and Domino should settle once for all the question of which is the best race horse in America and at the same time prove wonderfully paying events for the Eastern clubs.

CARACCAS, winner of the two-mile race on the turf in 3:37 at Sheepshead Bay, September 2d, is a four-year-old brother to Rey del Carrera and half-brother to Santiago, Santa Ana and Winona, being by Emperor of Norfolk from Clara D., by imp. Glenelg.

BUT two Idaliums have started in California thus far, and both have proved winners. They are Miss Pollard and the Mercedes filly. Mr. A. B. Spreckels owns the latter filly as well as her sire, and was naturally much elated at her victory last week in Sacramento.

In the Flying Stakes, run at Sheepshead Bay, August 28th California-bred horses were one-two-three at the finish. Rey del Carrera, by Emperor of Norfolk, won with 122 pounds up; Ina, by Sir Modred—Aigrette, was second, and The Bluffer, by Tyrant—Cheerful, was third.

PRESIDENT P. J. Dwyer's many friends will regret to learn that his colt Handspring, which was kicked by Axiom in the race for the Futurity, is quite lame. The injury seems to affect the colt more and more daily, and it is probable that he will not be able to race again this year.

DON CARILLO, Barney Schreier's much-beloved colt, won a six-furlong race at St. Louis last Tuesday, beating the crack Forget and others. Mollie R. ran third in a mile race to Miss Galop and Sullross, while old Oregon Eclipse was victorious in a six furlong dash, run in 1:16.

RICHARD BROWN, who has been acting as assistant starter at Kansas City, where his brother, H. D., wielded the flag, returned to California late last week in fine health and spirits and attended the State Fair meeting. Dick says H. D. Brown may accept the flag at Fred Foster's half-mile track, St. Louis.

THE veteran trainer, Cy. Mulkey, has about decided to quit the flyers and go into mining in El Dorado County, this State. Mr. Mulkey has trained many famous horses in his day, among the number Tim Murphy, Sinfax, Cadmus and Flambeau, and is perhaps the oldest active conditioner of horses in the West.

THE California Cup race, booked for to-day at Sacramento, and which bade fair to be the most memorable racing event that ever took place over the State Agricultural Society's track, was declared off last Monday, all being scratched out except Claudius, Bright Phoebus and Del Norte. A gentleman's race was substituted.

THE name, Del Mar Stakes, will be changed to Vincto, under the conditions set forth, and it is likely to remain the Vincto Stakes for years to come. How many three-year-olds are there in this country capable of taking up 112 pounds and running a mile in 1:40 over a circular course? They can be counted on the fingers of one hand easily.

THE first three races run at Sheepshead Bay on the 3d of September were won by California-bred horses—Falling Water (by Emperor of Norfolk), Manchester and Dorian, both by Sir Modred.

CRESCENDO is evidently just about right again. Last Saturday he won the Autumn Stakes at Coney Island, beating Hazlet, Captive and others. To Hazlet, considered to have a great chance in the Futurity, he conceded seventeen pounds and beat him easily in 1:10 1-5 over the Futurity course, this being one of the fastest runs of the season.

REQUITAL has again demonstrated that he is a champion. Last Tuesday at Sheepshead Bay, in the Flatbush Stakes, seven furlongs, he beat Ben Bush and our Crescendo in 1:26, a wonderful run for a two-year-old. Unless Bush and Crescendo were conceding Requit weight we will have to give in that the New Jersey colt is their superior.

EVIDENTLY racing is very popular in Canada. The attendance at the Windsor meeting has averaged 2,000 a day and twelve to fifteen bookmakers find business profitable, while the daily profits of the racing association, it is said, have never fallen lower than $500. In consequence it has been decided to continue the meeting until November 4.

IN the fifth race at Sacramento last Saturday there was not over one and one-half-length's difference between the first and sixth horse. Bernardo won by a nose from Nebuchadnezzar, who beat Road Runner as far. Half a length further away was Ike L. Then followed, heads apart, Tim Murphy and Gold Bug. Verily this was a wonderful wind-up.

CHARLEY BOOTS' feat of training the winners of three stakes, all captured in one afternoon, is not likely to be duplicated in many a long year. All the winners were bred at Elmwood Stock Farm and all are by imp. Brutus. In winning the Native Sons' Hannicap Installator was forced to break the Coast record for one mile and a furlong to the extent of half a second.

MILTON YOUNG, who secured Lamplighter at the Walbaum sale last week, is very jubilant over his bargain, as he was prepared to pay double the price he got him for. As Lamplighter is within a fortnight of a race, Milton Young has put him into Louis Stuart's hands. If he shows good enough he will be started and kept in training until after the Morris Park meeting.

TWO PACIFIC COAST records have thus far been shattered at Sacramento, while a third was equalled. We refer to the mile and a sixteenth record, cut by Arnette (96 lbs. up) from 1:47 to 1:46 3-4, to the mile and an eighth mark, cut from 1:53 3-4 to 1:53 1-4 by Installator, with 112 lbs. up, and to the mile record, 1:40, equalled by Vincto, who, however, gave Al Farrow a year and ten pounds.

HARRY REED is said to be going great guns in his work at the Gravesend track. In appearance the horse looks grand. He has muscled out and thickened considerably during his trip to England, and, speedy as he was, it will disappoint, or, to speak more accurately, surprise the training talent here, if he does not reveal improvement when called upon to show himself at his best.

A TORONTO (Ont.) dispatch says: "J. F. Caldwell, who was recently released from his duties as starter by the managers of the Windsor race track, has been endeavoring to secure the Woodbine and Hamilton race tracks for a ten days' meeting at each place, but although he made enticing offers to the Ontario Jockey Club, they both flatly refused to lease their tracks for any such purpose."

J. NAGLEE BURKE, who both owns and bred Crescendo, receives $7,333 33 as his share of the Futurity Stakes. The value of the stake was $69,250, divided as follows: Fifty-three thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars to the winner, $5,333.33 to the second, $2,666.67 to the third, $4,000 to the breeder of the winner, $2,500 to the breeder of the second, and $1,000 to the breeder of the third.

AFTER Lady Diamond had won the third race, in which she was entered to be sold for $700, P. Murray, who is looking for good selling platers at low prices, hid her up to $1,500. An additional bid of $5 saved her for "Lucky" Baldwin. Murray is an old hand at this business, as many owners of stake horses who enter them for ridiculously low prices in selling races have learned.—N. Y. Times, Aug. 30.

FERRIER was a very unlucky horse last week, surely. When Arnette beat him a length and broke the mile and a sixteenth record Ferrier was pulled up, Miller not thinking it a "go." He lost perhaps three lengths by the operation. In the second race, mile in 1:40, where Vincto just beat him, the latter got a bit the best of the send-off and Ferrier was taken to the outside on the first turn to avoid a collision.

GEORGE ROSE, official bookmaker at the State Fair meeting, lost heavily when Nellie W., at 100 to 1 in the betting, won a heat. Some say the genial Rose lost $12,000 by the mare's win of that heat. He got most of it back the first day the runners held the track down, but did not do so well on the second day, Onti Ora being well played at 15 to 1. On Saturday Mr. Rose did well on the races won by Inkerman, Vincto and Bernardo, and quit a neat winner on the afternoon.

JOHN HUGGINS, who trains Pierre Lorillard's horses, yesterday notified Mr. Lorillard that he would go to England for a campaign there next season if Mr. Lorillard so desired. One reason for this is that Mr. Huggins is suffering severely from an attack of rheumatism, that has been growing worse since its first appearance three years ago, and he thinks that a change of climate would be beneficial. Even if Mr. Lorillard decides not to make an English campaign, Mr. Huggins will probably go to Carlsbad for treatment for his trouble this winter.—N. Y. Times, Aug. 30th.

MR. G. G. STEAD's two-year-olds had things all their own way at the recent Christchurch (N. Z.) meeting, the Maxim—Sapphire colt, Mannlicher (a brother to Bluefire, and half-brother to Ballater), having no difficulty in winning the Champagne Stakes on the first day, and on the second he won the Challenge Stakes. In the first event he beat Gipsy Grand, who is said not to have been at all right at the meeting. Mannlicher's stable companion Mauser (or Manser, as he appears in the Stud Book), was successful in the Eusley Plate Handicap, for two-year-olds, carrying 8st. The latter colt, who is by Maxim—Auray, is a half-brother to Aureus.

J. J. McCAFFERTY has confirmed the rumor printed several weeks ago in this column that he would retire from the racing firm with which he is now connected, and would content himself with running two or three horses in some Western stakes, retiring from the turf, perhaps, at the end of the year. McCafferty has been very successful in the East with his partners, Messrs. Wishard and Duke. He has sold to them his interest in Wishard, Sun Up, Helen Nichols, Hugh Penny and other horses, and will retain only Applegate and two or three that have engagements in Western stakes.

SINCE July 14th August Belmont has paid out $105,000 for horses, and has increased his stable only four head at that, the figures above noted being the combined amount he paid for Hastings, $37,000; Henry of Navarre, $30,000; Dorian, $20,000, and Keenan, $18,500. This is the largest outlay for four horses in training ever made in a similar short space of time in the history of American racing. Still alarmists say the running turf is on the decline, but it's figures that talk. The next highest price paid for four horses in training in a short period of time was when R. Croker gave $69,000 for Yorkville Belle, Dobbins, Red Banner and Fairy in 1892, they respectively selling for $24,000, $20,200, $15,000 and $10,000.

BEFORE the Futurity race David Gideon was reported as having said that if Requit won he would exchange the colt for Hastings and give August Belmont $10,000 besides, which he could very well afford to do, inasmuch as he only paid $7,050 for Requit, as he already owned a half interest in the colt, while the firm of Gideon & Daly received $37,000 from Mr. Belmont for Hastings. After the race Mr. Gideon was quoted as saying that he would still make the exchange, if Mr. Belmont was dissatisfied, "if Hastings was sound." Mr. Belmont has not expressed any dissatisfaction with his purchase, and when questioned as to Mr. Gideon's offer he would say nothing other than that no such proposition had been made to him.

COL. CALEB DORSEY, of Oakdale, Stanislaus county, visited us last Monday, and during the course of conversation declared his intention of retiring from the ranks of thoroughbred breeders, his mining interests requiring all his attention. The Colonel has on his ranch some fifty head of thoroughbreds, including the stallion Cyclone (sire of Joshua and Arno), nineteen broodmares, also sucklings, yearlings, two and three-year-olds by Cyclone, who is by St. Martin, out of Kinloch, by Waverly, second dam by imp. Knight of St. George, winner of the Doncaster St. Leger. The mares are by imp. Partisan, Joe Daniels, Modoc Chief, Spectre and other noted sires, most of them well-known producers. It is Col. Dorsey's desire to sell all the stock to one man or firm at private sale, and he says he is willing to sacrifice them to make a quick sale.

IT is not often that the wheels of progress are clogged by a nickel. Such, however, was the case at Sacramento Fair one day last week, so far as the Brooklyn Club book was concerned. A bettor wanted to wager a dollar on some horse, and in doing so handed up three quarters and three ten cent pieces. Tony Cook returned him a ticket. "Where's my change?" said the plunger. "What change?" said Cook. "Why, my nickel." Immediately all business was suspended and every employe was asked to look closely to see if he had a nickel in his clothes. They hadn't, and a large crowd of warm bettors gathered around to book with their coin. The cashier was very busy paying off on the previous race and could not be disturbed. At last he had a breathing spell, and finding a nickel after quite a long search, the anxious plunger received his change and business was resumed, perhaps at a loss of several hundreds of dollars, and all on account of a nickel. There will be a stock of five cent pieces in the Brooklyn Club's box hereafter.

THAT flourishing charity, the Bentinck Fund, was originated by, and not merely named after, as many doubtless imagine, Lord George Bentinck (says an exchange). Shortly after his appearance with the flag at Doncaster, a public testimonial was got up for his lordship, and all sorts and conditions of sportsmen literally hurried up to hand in their contributions. It was a testimonial collected on a scale of which anyone might have been proud, and there is not the least doubt but that it was a source of intense gratification to its noble recipient. The sum subscribed amounted to several thousands of pounds sterling, and how nobly he acted when he received it. From his own private fortune he added a large donation to the amount presented to him by the unanimous vote of gratitude and esteem on the part of the motley community over whom he exerted such a lordly sway. And then he placed the whole sum in the hands of permanent trustees for the aid and maintenance of distressed jockeys, trainers' families, to be denominated forever, "The Bentinck Benevolent Fund." It is, we believe, to this fund that the guinea each jockey pays annually for his license to ride is devoted, while a further source of sustenance is furnished by sundry fines exacted by the stewards of race meetings and the Jockey Club.

AN English turf critic of note writes: "It must be a fine thing to be a successful jockey! M. Cannon, it is stated, has received an offer of £10,000 for first claim for the next three years. This is what Sir J. B. Maple paid Watts, and it is what the late Mr. Abingdon paid for the services of the same jockey. In addition to this, there are second and third claims, to which must be added riding fees and expenses, which must be paid separately. The important item of presents, too, must not be forgotten. Presents, of course, are not what they use to be, as jockeys are not supposed to accept them from strangers or parties not connected with the horse. Whether they do or not is another matter. I can quite understand that at one period of his life Archer was making £20,000 a year, or even more. He thought nothing of receiving £500 for riding the winner of a selling race—in fact, if I remember rightly, this sum has been given George Barrett. There was once a race at Sandown Park, £2,000 for the winner and £1,000 to the second. Sir J. B. Maple was second, and I recollect very well his telling me that he was as well off as though he had won, 'as,' said he, 'if I had won I should have had to give — half, whereas for being beaten he will get nothing beyond the riding fee.' I have known Archer to be 'put on' as much as £3,000 over a single race, and it will be gathered from this that this outside source of income would soon foot up to £10,000 to £20,000. I saw Archer's only daughter when I was at Newmarket recently. She is growing into a winsome girl, with the same quick, intelligent eyes that were such a remarkable feature in the face of the father. There will be the best part of £150,000 for her when she comes of age.

As will be seen by the advertisement on another page of this issue, the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will continue to give handsome premiums to its subscribers, under the conditions specified, for another week. These pictures are works of art, and the finest of anything of the kind ever offered. They are printed on heavy plate paper, and are excellent likenesses of the horses represented. Artists' proofs from the same plate—which from an artistic point of view are no better than the impressions we are giving away—would cost $10 to $15. Our subscribers, who have received bills for subscription within the last fortnight, will not only have the satisfaction of realizing they have done a good act, but be rewarded by receiving one of these handsome premiums by forwarding the amounts due at once.

A NUMBER of the Eastern turf journals derived considerable pleasure from calling attention to the fact that "Pa" Hamlin's experiment in wintering Robert J., Nightingale and the rest of his horses in California last winter was a failure, that the horses were no good on their return; but the way Robert J. and Joe Patchen are pacing in the East lately has silenced them. The former won at Louisville Thursday last. Time, 2:05½, 2:06½, 2:05½, 2:04½, the last-named being the fastest fourth heat ever trotted or paced. Joe Patchen won the second heat. Over 10,000 people were present to cheer the champion.

It is reported that Edwin F. Smith, Secretary of the State Agricultural Society, will officiate as presiding judge at the meeting of the California Jockey Club, until the arrival of Jas. Rowe. Mr. Smith's experience and knowledge of racing amply qualify him for the position. Races will be resumed at the Bay District track next Tuesday, September 17th. A number of new horses have arrived, and those that have been in attendance at the State Fair will have returned by that time. Good racing may be expected.

THE race meeting at Stockton commences next Monday. A large number of horses are there, and as the late heavy rain will make this celebrated track almost perfect, we can look for a number of fast miles being made over its smooth surface.

ENTRIES to the Los Angeles and Ventura race meetings close to-day, September 14th.

A Fortune for Brutus and a Few of His Sons.

The best material commands splendid prices the world over. Quite a sensation was created a couple of weeks ago by the sale of Henry of Navarre to Mr. Belmont for, it was reported, $60,000, while Milton Young refused $75,000 for the famous racehorse sire, Hanover. Now California is in the throes of fully as big a sensation. The Messrs. Boots, of Elmwood Stock Farm, Milpitas, are in receipt of an offer of $50,000 for their wonderful young sire of racers, imp. Brutus, and they have been asked to put a price upon the phenomenal Brutus colts, Vincto and Installator, and several other youngsters by their big bay horse. Burns & Waterhouse want Brutus and made the offer named, while three or four very wealthy men desire to purchase the Brutus colts spoken of. Last Saturday three stake races were won by Brutus colts at the State Fair meeting, a showing almost unparalleled in racing history. Not only were these races won, but the Coast record for a mile and an eighth was cut by Installator, 108 pounds up, from 1:53½ to 1:53¼ and the mile record, 1:40, equalled by Vincto, a three-year-old, carrying 112 pounds as against the 93 pounds of Al Farrow and 92 pounds of Mulberry, the latter pair being four-year-olds when they made the record mentioned. It will thus be seen what a superior performance was that of Vincto.

Imp. Brutus, the horse for which Burns & Waterhouse offer $50,000, is, to the minds of every thinking man in this part of the world knowing anything of horse values, worth every dollar of the sum mentioned. He is young, stoutly and fashionably bred and, opportunity considered, is the most phenomenal sire America has known for many years. We say this in the firm knowledge that Brutus' mates have, almost without exception, been what would be termed "unfashionably bred." What he would give to the world were he mated with matrons from the most noted producing families can only be guessed at, but it would naturally be something that would make the world ring with his praises. Brutus was brought from England to America in utero and first saw the light at Palo Alto Farm, April 25, 1885. He was what might be termed a fair race horse, showing a liking for a mile and a sixteenth or further. The horse was not started as a two-year-old, but at three took part in four races, winning one (the Shafter Stakes), one and one-quarter miles, in 2:17, running second in the Capital City and Golden Gate Stakes at Sacramento and being unplaced twice. At four years Brutus started five times, winning once, being third once and unplaced three times. This wound up his racing career. His victory was in a mile and a sixteenth event at San Francisco, run in 1:49, when he took up 117 pounds and beat a field of fifteen, including such good ones as Laura Gardner, Moses B., Al Farrow and Alfarata. If we remember aright, one of his feet caused his retirement to Palo Alto stud, where his half-brother, imp. Cyrus, was stationed and afterward became an excellent sire. The elder Boots gave Senator Stanford $800 for Brutus and took him to his Elmwood Farm near Milpitas at once. His first crop of colts (in 1891) were really a grand lot. Peter the Great, the Ariola colt (sold for $20,000), also Remus, Romulus and Claudius being among the number. The next year came Vincto, Installator, Nebuchadnezzar, Nervoso, Roma, Fortuna, Miss Buckley and Mt. Air to further swell his reputation. This season there are several good youngsters out by Brutus, such as Lucretia Borgia, Instigator and Firebrand.

Following is the tabulated pedigree of the horse that Burns & Waterhouse are so anxious to pay $50,000 for:

IMP. BRUTUS (B h foaled 1885.)	Macgregor.....	{ Sweetmeat by Gladiator (Derby winner)
	Necklace.....	{ Jocose, by Pantaloons
	Imp. Teardrop.....	{ The Fallow Buek, by Venison Bracelet, by Touchstone
	Niobe.....	{ Lord of the Isles, by Touchstone Miss Ann, by The Little Known
		{ Loupu-Gro, by Lancelot Miserrima, by Pantaloons

4th dam Phyrne, by Touchstone; 5th dam Decoy, by Filho-da-Puta; 6th dam Finesse, by Peruvian; 7th dam Violante, by John Bull; 8th dam Sister to Skyseraper, by Highflyer; 9th dam Everlasting, by Eclipse, and on the 11th dam, Byerly Mare, dam of Two True Blues.

There are few, if indeed any, sons of Macgregor in America besides Brutus, and as Macgregor, winner of the 2,000 guineas and the hottest favorite ever known for the Derby (for which he ran unplaced) dropped dead in 1884, hence his blood is quite rare everywhere. It seems to be THE blood for this country, as Brutus gets winners from any sort of mares he is mated with. It must be the Macaroni line that is so valuable. Macaroni blood is to be found close up in the unbeaten Ormonde and in our champion race horse, Morello, also in Crescendo, it being received in the last-named, through his dam, who, like Brutus, is by Macgregor. There are three Touchstone crosses in Brutus' pedigree and two of the great broodmare sire, Pantaloons. As the Messrs. Boots are wealthy and are having such success with Brutus' sons and daughters, we very much doubt, tempting as is the offer, whether they will part with the big bay horse that has brought them fame and fortune through his progeny.

Sacramento and the Fair.

The race meeting at the State Fair has been better attended (with the exception of Thursday, which was a rainy day) than at any other held in the Capital City. The two attractions, electrical carnival and Native Sons' celebration, helped to increase the gate receipts. The racing has been most excellent, and while the average of speed was not as high as that of Woodland in the light harness events (2:15), nevertheless, the races were well contested, the small breeders reaping the richest harvest. No records were made below 2:10, the track being a little heavy when the free-for-all pacers had their race.

There could be no fault found with the management of this meeting, everything being conducted smoothly and systematically; the directors understanding thoroughly how to please everyone, and that is one reason why the State Fair is so popular.

The stock exhibit was superior to any heretofore held there, and no better evidence of the great progress made in the improvement of all kinds of live stock was needed than a careful inspection of the animals sent there to compete for prizes. Scrub cattle, razor-backed hogs and poor-looking, ill-formed sheep have all had their day in California, and large sums of money have been expended to purchase prize winners of every breed to take their places. The island of Jersey, Holland, Scotland, France, Spain, England, and, in fact, all Europe, has been visited by progressive breeders who took pride in securing the best, and the result of their labors and the excellence of their judgment is shown by the grand-looking representatives they have brought to California to improve the stock brought here many years ago.

The horses are also of a superior class, and it would not be a bold assertion to make that at Agricultural Park, Sacramento, the choicest collection of thoroughbreds, standard trotters and draft horses in the United States were to be seen. All the great breeding farms of California contributed a few of their best to make this exhibit second to no other. Some were there not for premiums but just to add to the show.

In the pavilion the exhibit was most excellent. The great electrical display surpassed anything heretofore seen on this coast, and the spirit of progress which pervades everything in Sacramento to-day seems to have been kindled by the electric spark which nature flashed upon the people when the flowing waters at Folsom were tapped for this new purpose. The news of the success of this undertaking has been scattered to all parts of the universe, and if Sacramento will secure good water for drinking purposes and a new system of sewerage no city in California has a brighter future. Let us hope that a silurian atmosphere will not come up like a mist around its most progressive citizens, but that they will go on and on in the good work already started, and attract more of the sunshine of prosperity, thus bringing them health and wealth, and that among the few manufacturing cities of this State it will take a leading position, and that the Admission Day of 1895 will never be forgotten in the annals of the new Sacramento.

Polo at the Breeders' Meeting.

On the first day of the Northwestern Breeders Meeting at Washington Park, a game of polo was played in the infield and while, of course, the polo club was there by its own right and not by special arrangement with the association, no better special attraction could have been devised, outside, of course, of a race between two champions. The Horseman says, "there is about the game of polo a genuinely sporting savor that endears it at once to even those who can enjoy it in the capacity of spectators, and only increasing age and perhaps weight will estop those who have once become adepts at the game from playing it. It is essentially a manly game in which hard knocks are given and must be taken, not designedly perhaps, but they fall at all times, and unless a man is in hard training, has a good seat and a quick eye he may just as well eschew polo and be done with it at once. The ponies used must have plenty of blood, courage and bottom; they must be conditioned and trained, and above all they must themselves enjoy the game and follow the ball much as a cow-pony must follow the animal which it is designed to cut out from the bunch. The ponies must be fast, of course, and up to weight, and in this country where the breeding of such diminutive horses has not been reduced to a science the best are to be found in the Indian territory, where much good blood has been diffused on the ranges. Many a good thoroughbred stallion has been in service there, and what better preparatory training than cutting out cattle could a polo pony have? In Chicago, the game is quickly becoming a favorite; in New York, Buffalo and other cities similar clubs have been organized, and it will not be long until the game will, all over the United States, attain that popularity to which it is richly entitled."

We will not be behind the fashion here, for there will be a big polo tournament at Los Angeles during the meeting of the Pacific Coast Trotting and Breeders' Association, which will be held in that city during the last week in October. There will be three contestants in the field, the Riverside, Santa Monica and Burlingame teams. Riverside will be represented by G. L. Waring, C. E. Mand, R. A. Allan and Robert L. Bettner, who will ride his famous pony Cigarette. In the Santa Monica team Messrs. Young, Proctor, Machell and Bolton will play, and the Burlingame colors will be carried by Walter H. A. McCreery, Malcolm Thomas, Joseph S. Tobin and Walter S. Hobart.

The Burlingame team has begun to practice earnestly for the event, and will make a great effort to bring home the trophy, a handsome gold and silver cup. McCreery, of the Burlingame team, who will play No. 1, is considered by polo men to be one of the best players in that position in the country. The Santa Monica team is said to be very strong, and when the Riverside men turn out with Bettner and Cigarette they generally carry every thing before them.

Mr. Bettner, in speaking of the tournament at the Palace Hotel, said that it would be the best polo tournament ever held in California. It will be known as the Riverside Polo Carnival.

The Burlingame men will practice on W. S. Hobart's field, at his splendid stock farm, near San Mateo.

California Running Records.

Following are the best California records at the various distances from a quarter of a mile up to and including four miles. George F. Smith broke the five-furlong record at the recent meeting of the California Jockey Club, Ducat equalled the six-furlong mark; both Artist and McLight broke the seven-furlong record held by Motto for about two years. Installator equalled John Treat's record at fifteen-sixteenths of a mile, while last week at Sacramento Arnette reduced the mile and a sixteenth record, and Installator set a new mark at a mile and an eighth that will probably be unbeaten for many a day to come. Vincto, too, trained by Charley Boots, Installator's trainer, equalled the mile record, and it is much better than the performances of Al Farrow and Mulberry. The following are not only California records, but the best American as well: April Fool's half-mile on a circular track and Hotspur's mile and three-quarters. Geraldine and John Treat hold coast records at two distances, it will be noted. Altogether the table will prove of great interest to our readers, lovers of a good and true thoroughbred.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

THE WORLD WAGS.—That is, that it has a turn over every day in the year, and in its big circuit, it cavorts around the turn once in three hundred and sixty-five days. How much it wags in its decimal or annual revolutions is beyond the ken of our most astute scientists. A few thousand miles out of its course would be so slight a shake that the most skilful calculator would be troubled to know the divergence from its natural course. I am not so much disturbed by its erratic movements as to care whether it transgresses its usual orbit by a few thousand miles or not as to note the phases of the "horse world," and these are troublesome enough to bother the mind of one who is watching the signs of that Zodiac. There is one thing to gratify the horse fanciers of this Coast. By all odds the Kingpin of the trotting world of 1895 is Azote. Never a heat lost up to the time of writing; marching over all competitors, same when he of the scythe and hour glass was on the opposite side of the lists, and that clever field was by so small a part of time, as is measured by a second, that it may be called a substantial victory. That Azote can overwhelm any sublimary competition is beyond question, and his defeat by old Tempus takes away little of the credits he has scored. This will be granted must be acknowledged, that the Californian has won the garland of the year. What next? Zombro. The best three-year-old so far, either East or West, with two other Californians of that age, Athanio and Fred Kohl, not very far behind. In fact two more which have battled on horse tracks that are meritorious La Belle and Stam B. being worthy of high consideration. Jasper Ayres, too, is quite prominent, and though from present appearances Zombro will hold the championship among the home three-year-olds it is a question that will not be definitely settled until the circuit is closed.

NOT IN IT.—The "forfeit system" is nowhere. According the American Sportsman, Galesburg will carry off the premium without half trying. It seems that Williams claims that a horse entered for one purse is also entered in the same class all through the meeting of fourteen weeks. It is too much trouble to hunt up the advertisement of that famous meeting, but if that is one of the conditions, it is somewhat singular that there was such a big school of suckers.

The story told in the Cleveland paper is that a man won a pacing purse, the first money $250. He applied to William^s for the amount, and was told that he was indebted $750 for entrance money, and if anything was due him after the expiration of the meeting of fourteen weeks it would be paid.

It may be true when a stake advertised to be trotted at Independence, Iowa, is transferred to Galesburg, Ill., without the consent of subscribers, and that is carried through, the successful general can reasonably "bank" still further on the gullibility of harness horse owners.

The victim in the case mentioned consoles himself that in place of Williams being a — fool, as he was told the manager of the long-continued trotting meeting was, he made up his mind that he "was a — smart man."

Black Bart was smart, though in place of stopping stages, which finally landed him in the penitentiary, he should have tried his hand at a long trotting meeting with such peculiarities as would have given him the "swag" without risk. That is if he had sought an Eastern field. The game here would be more dangerous than following the role of Dick Turpin.

The first attempt, in all probability, would settle the dispute. The "bluff" called in the most forcible manner.

THE CALIFORNIA CUP.—I had firmly resolved to see the race for the Cup although I could ill afford to leave home even for a day, and now that it has been declared off and a handicap of nine furlongs substituted, the temptation is not so strong. Had the horses named been in condition to start or a fair portion of them, it gave promise of being the greatest race of the season. While handicaps may bring in a greater element of uncertainty than weight-for-age races furnish, the test is not so fair, and the best horse defeated, not by superior merit but through discrimination in the weight carried. The Cup weights were ten pounds below the scale, and while even that slight variation might be sufficient to turn the victory still it had a general application.

When two miles and a quarter had great force in the way of attracting the multitude, though a race of half that distance is somewhat of a novelty in these days. I regret, however, the causes which led to the change, as there is scarcely room for doubt that the attendance on the "Cup day" would have been the largest of the fair, and yet the chances are favorable for that being the record of the turnstiles this Saturday.

BEUZETTA.—"In my judgment, which the reader can take for what it is worth, the purchaser of Beuzetta now owns the greatest trotting filly ever foaled, and I do not bar any of the four great queens that have preceded her."

Thus writes Iconoclast, and in that judgment I heartily coincide. It is easy to write that others might have done as much under different conditions; there are no presumings in her case she has done enough to warrant the verdict.

Now then, the blood of Lexington and Levity must not be ignored in granting this high degree of excellence to the princess; it is a factor which cannot be eliminated with fairness.

NERVES, LUNGS AND MUSCLES.—When such a notable example of in-and out running is presented as that of Rey del Santa Anita, there must be some reason for the fluctuation. Failure of the muscles to perform satisfactorily might be the cause, in a few instances, but that would not cover so many cases as the calendar shows where this colt ran so disappointingly. Neither can the respiratory organs be charged with so many failures. The only hypothesis tenable is, that the nerves are at fault, one day leading to brilliant victories, others to defeats which baffle the understanding.

Better that that should be the explanation than that owner, trainer and jockey had something to do with the result.

THE OUTLOOK.—That the trotting meetings hereafter are likely to be exciting struggles is assured. Notwithstanding that there is such a brilliant array of speed and gameness already displayed, there are so many competitors so closely together that it would be a confident person who would undertake placing them in future contests, and venture much money on his judgment. In my opinion it will be a bitter controversy to the end, and the settlement in doubt until the "close of the season." The two meetings at Los Angeles will sharpen some, maybe dull the edge of others, so that the last of the series, that of the California Jockey Club in November, will be as full of interest as any of the preceding.

As I have oftentimes asserted, the long distance races of the C. J. C. will be the most interesting points. A good friend prophesies that records will be beaten in these contests, and I am so fully impressed with the same belief as to offer a wager of $500 that the predietion will be verified in one case, and $500 to a $1,000 that in two of the races the records will be beaten. That is not presented as an agreement, but as evidence of the confidence I have that the vaticination is correct.

THE HEART.—For centuries past the heart has been credited with the greatest share of promoting courage. A score or more of adjectives prefixed to denote that faculty in whatever degree it was held, from the most sublime exhibition of undaunted resolution to abject cowardice. That it is an important organ in the physical machine no one will question; that it is entitled to be considered the prominent factor in regulating the courage of man, animal or bird, I cannot believe. "Odic force" is clearly nerve power, and as the brain is the "nerve center" that is the true reservoir from which courage flows.

REY DEL SANTA ANITA.—When this notoriously in-and-out colt was given such exhibitions as he treated the spectators at the Bay District course with I wrote that the owner of such an animal was unfortunate. Owner and trainer could not escape the obloquy which these races were freighted, and it appeared very improbable that both could be innocent. From his last race in which he ran third, Henry of Navarre first, Domino second, however, it is nearly established that the colt must bear the whole blame, and that there is some defect in his nervous system which forbids uniform racing on his part.

YACHTING LAW.—That the decision which gave the race to the Defender is in accordance with yachting rules and precedents is assured. A queer law, though, that an accidental foul before the start should give the race to the vessel which was apparently beaten. It would not have that effect in horse racing, and if a sulky were injured before the word was given the winner of the heat would get it, notwithstanding that he had been the cause of the trouble. That Defender is the fastest, is granted by all who are competent judges, and it is to be regretted that any of the races should be won on a technicality.

EARLY RAIN.—The rain which commenced falling on Wednesday was the earliest known in the history of California. That is since records have been kept. Showers in July and August there might be, though so early as September 11th so copious a downfall has been unknown. The greatest damage probably is to the pasturage as enough rain has fallen to spoil the dry feed, without starting a new growth.

A serious drawback to the State Fair as it seems likely that the harness races not finished on Wednesday may have to be given up. The running is not so dependent upon the weather and that will undoubtedly come off as programmed.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

Silkwood's Battle With His Son.

Yesterday afternoon, while J. Willits, owner of the stallion Silkwood, 2:07, was away from home at Santa Ana, Wawasa, the five-year-old son of the great side-wheeler escaped from his stall to the corral, went to the door of Silkwood's stall, the upper half of which was open, and engaged in a fierce fight with him. The lower half of the door was soon hattered down and the two stallions had the corral to themselves.

A terrible conflict ensued in which Wawasa, though much the larger horse, was badly worsted. When Willits returned he found them standing in opposite corners of the corral, Silkwood being apparently uninjured, except for a slight cut upon the breast, and gazing with a look of deep disdain upon his vanquished son, who could scarcely stand, he was so terribly bruised and mangled.

The corral contains a number of jagged cypress trees, and after so fierce a conflict it is a miracle Silkwood should have escaped so lightly. He is in training for the free-for-all pacing contest here next month with W. Wood, Diablo, Waldo J. and Laura M., and is just recovering from a severely sprained leg. Injury to him at this time means much to the owner and to the Fair Association.

AN unexpected treat was enjoyed by the votaries of racing at the Sacramento track, September 4th, when Roan Wilkes won the three-year-old pacing stake in the easiest manner possible against well-known flyers like Javelin, etc., in three straight heats. The wonderful part of the performance, however, was the third heat, which Roan Wilkes paced without a break in the exceedingly fast time of 2:12 3/4. This broke the three-year-old pacing record for the Pacific Coast, and the fact of the fastest time being made in the last heat speaks well for the staying powers of Roan Wilkes, who we may expect to see plucking the laurels from the brows of some of the "big guns" before long. A. C. Jones, of Los Angeles (the owner), and John Pender (the trainer of the horse), had both reason to be proud of the achievement of this unparalleled youngster.

Ozone and Oxygen.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Californians have been very much in evidence at the Fleetwood Park trotting meet, which has just closed, and California horses have been out and away ahead as far as first honors are concerned.

Monroe Salisbury, Thomas W. Raymond and William Corbett have been in attendance with their strings, and have carried off more than a proportionate share of whatever was in sight, to say nothing of slashing into the figures of a record or two.

Azote's performance in making a new mark in the gelding class is of course common knowledge, but there is a feature in connection with his achievements that not much is known about. It is the commonly accepted opinion among turfmen that a horse's respiratory organs are the first to give out in a race. It was pointed out to Mr. Salisbury that ozonized oxygen, properly administered, would not only relieve any distress in breathing, but would give an animal greater nerve strength and muscular force besides.

The efficiency of this gas as a vitalizing force has of course been known to the medical profession for a number of years, and physicians of standing have regularly employed it in their practice. It has remained, however, for Dr. Alfred Walton of this city to conceive that it would be of equal value in fitting a horse for a supreme effort. Mr. Salisbury at once caught up the idea, and so for the first time in the history of racing the gas was administered to Alix preparatory to her attempt at the Fleetwood meeting to lower the trotting record. The Fleetwood track is notoriously slow, and besides, owing to the weather prevailing at the time of the attempt, had a soft cushion of mud fully an inch thick all the way round. As Alix is a big-gaited mare she requires a firm, smooth track. Under the circumstances she was not expected to do better than 2:10, but she went the mile in 2:08½, which performance both Mr. Salisbury and her driver, Andy McDowell, attribute to the use of the ozonized oxygen gas.

But it was in Azote's record-breaking performance, a day or two later, that the value of the treatment is supposed to have been most conclusively proved. The big gelding's time on this occasion was 2:15½, the fastest mile ever trotted on the Fleetwood track, and the fastest ever trotted by a gelding anywhere. When the fact is taken into consideration that the Fleetwood track is from two to three seconds slower than others that could be named it will be understood why many horsemen are inclined to bold their performance, everything considered, perhaps marks the fastest mile ever trotted. On this occasion Azote was treated with the gas both before he went on the track and between each of the three heats. In all he inhaled about 350 gallons of the gas, and, without exception, horsemen are confident that it aided him materially.

The only point on which those who are familiar with the facts differ is as to the legitimacy of resorting to such expedients. But if the treatments proves all that it now seems it is hardly likely that scruples concerning the legitimacy of the means will be allowed to interfere with securing the best results.

The gas—composed of equal parts of ozone and oxygen—is given by inhalation, by the aid of an as yet rather cumbersome device. It is said to be absolutely harmless, while it has the effect of increasing the heart's action, relieving any distress in breathing that may follow violent effort, and in general in doing the work of a powerful stimulant, without being followed, as is the case with other stimulants, by any reaction.

In these experiments the gas has been administered from the cylinders to the horse's nostrils, and allowed to flow through water in the same manner in which oxygen is given to the human subject.

The result of these first trials has convinced many that the treatment will eventually be adopted by all trainers, not only during races, but while the horse is being speeded. In view of this possibility an apparatus has already been suggested, consisting of a bridle having two rubber tubes, one running to either nostril and being connected by rubber tubing to a copper cylinder of the gas secured at the rear of the sulky. A small valve which the driver carries in his left hand will enable him to regulate the flow of gas to perfection, it is thought, thus enabling him to administer it to the horse while in motion in the proportion that may seem desirable.

This last may seem a bit fanciful, but horsemen are not noticeably given to dreaming, and a number of the leading turfmen are quite taken with the idea. At any rate it seems likely that all of them will follow Mr. Salisbury's lead and use the gas, however administered.

Crescendo, His Sire and Grandsire.

Crescendo's magnificent Eastern showing after a long voyage across the continent and a severe attack of sickness, makes anything in regard to his history or racing lineage of much interest now. Flambeau, Crescendo's sire, has always been considered by Californians the best racehorse ever bred in that sunny clime. He was out the same year as Racine, who first lowered Ten Broeck's mile record, which stood for thirteen years, and five times as a two-year-old he was beaten by Racine, who was his stable companion.

It has always been understood, however, that Racine was permitted to win these events on sufferance, and great as was the son of Bishop, Flambeau was the better horse. As a three-year-old, after winning two stakes early in the spring, Crescendo's sire was taken sick, and he raced no more until a six-year-old in 1893, when in six starts he was twice beaten, once each by Wildwood and Nomad, and that season he was only a cripple. He then won nine races out of sixteen starts, was never worse than second but once, and Wildwood was the only performer outside of Racine that ever finished in front of him until he broke down. Flambeau's winning performances are given below:

1889—One mile, California Annual Stakes, 110 pounds. Time, 1:43. Beaten horses, Felloweham and Kiro.

1889—Six furlongs, purse, 110 pounds. Time, 1:14½. Beaten horses, Rico, Thibert Earl, Capt. H., Night-time, King Hooker, Phny and Rosemede.

1889—Seven furlongs, purse, 110 pounds. Time, 1:29½. Beaten horses, Rico, Maitgold and Rosemede.

1890—One mile and a quarter, Trial Stakes, 118 pounds. Time, 2:09. Beaten horses, Racine and Rover.

1890—One mile and a half, Pacific Derby, 118 pounds. Time, 2:41. Beaten horses, Racine, Sacramento, Mohawk and Lord of the March.

1893—One mile, purse, 108 pounds. Time, 1:12¼. Beaten horses, Sir Reel, Quarterstaff, Morton, Adolph, Wyandshot and Royal Flush.

1893—Seven and a half furlongs, purse, 113 pounds. Time, 1:36. Beaten horses, Duke Stevens and Wicklow.

1893—Seven furlongs, purse 123 pounds. Time, 1:27¾. Beaten horses, Articus, Fidelia and Swiftsure.

1893—Six furlongs, purse, 126 pounds. Time, 1:12¾. Beaten horses, Romulus, Brodhead, Seaside, Anna Mayes and Florentin-Maid of Mist colt.

Owing to the accident and sickness in his three-year-old form he never raced out of California, still his turf earnings amounted to $7,970.

Wildidle, Flambeau's sire, a son of imp. Australian, out of the famous mare Idlewild, with a four-mile record back as early as 1863 of 7:26½, was a great racehorse, running four miles himself in 7:25½, and winning many important events. Outside of Flambeau he sired the crack Jim Douglas, Freda, E. J. Baldwin's sensational filly, and other famous performers.

Flambeau's dam, the imported mare Flirt, is one of Palo Alto's most noted thoroughbred stud matrons and of royal breeding, her sire, Hermit, and the sire of her dam, Wild Dayrell, both being Derby winners, while her great grand-sire, Melbourne, was made immortal in turf history by siring the wonderful racehorse West Australian. Though but fifteen years old, outside of Flambeau she has produced three stake-winners, being the dam of imp. Gorgo, Faustine and Flirtation.

Flambeau, only eight years old, with as brilliant a performer as Crescendo to his credit, backed up by his brilliant turf reputation and a pedigree absolutely flawless, makes him a worthy rival to the mighty Salvador and other great stallions that are beginning to blaze their way to turf fame as sires in the Golden State.—Cincinnati Cor. N. Y. Mercury.

The Kingston Yearling Sale.

The sale of the yearlings bred by Mr. J. B. Ferguson at his Kingston Stud took place in New York, August 27th. Although there was a good attendance of representative horsemen, there were few buyers of note. Mr. Eugene Leigh invested largely in fillies, no doubt to replenish his stock at his own stud farm, but among the leading horsemen of the East Mr. P. J. Dwyer was the only purchaser, securing the colt by Prince Royal, out of Blue Hood, for $400. The colt Searchlight, by Queen's Counsel, out of Dazzling Light, one of the finest lookers seen in a long while, went to Mr. E. H. Smith very cheaply at $2,100. He was the highest priced one of the sale. The only other one who fetched four figures was the brown colt by imp. St. George, out of that good mare Carrie Phillips, who went to William Wallace for $1,200. Following is a record of the sales:

B c by St. George—Attraction; E. Leigh, $250.
B c by Prince Royal—Blue Hood; P. J. Dwyer, $400.
B c by St. George—Carrie Phillips; William Wallace, $1,200.

Ch f by Prince Royal—Encore; H. Mason, $650.
Ch f by Prince Royal—Fanfare; W. C. Hayes, $274.
Ch c by Prince Royal—Heroine; C. Baker, $500.
Ch c by Prince Royal—Lady Hood; Sensation Stable, $525.

Ch f by Prince Royal—Lonely; L. Engle, $275.
Ch f by St. George—Lucretia; E. Moorford, $175.
B f by Prince Royal—Manzanita; E. Leigh, $150.
B f by Prince Royal—Minnie Williams; E. Leigh, $125.
B c by Prince Royal—Penelope; V. E. Bennell, $525.
B f by Prince Royal—Press Onward; E. Leigh, $150.
Br f by St. George—Sallie McAllister; E. Leigh, $100.
Ch c by Prince Royal—Tartarine; T. Dapman, $125.
Br c by St. George—Una B.; D. M. Dodge, $1,000.
Searchlight, by Queen's Counsel—Dazzling Light; C. H. Smith, $2,100.
Ch c by Elkwood—Benediction; A. White, $950.

Fined $50 for Dying.

Parvenue, who won "Pittsburg Phil" a fortune or two in 1893, has drifted into the minor game at Alexander Island and St. Asaph. In connection with Parvenue's last victory at St. Asaph a chapter of oddities turned up. The intrinsic Hugh McCarren—an oddity himself—short an eye but not at all a bear on native wit or ability to care for himself—owns Parvenue. He has a weakness for crippled greatness in horses. Parvenue was in the last race and a 2 to 5 shot. One of the starters was Putnam, one of the ex-Timmons collection who figured in the One Forty-Seven-Putnam-False Ahrens series story. Putnam died in the paddock and Starter Flynn did not notice his absence and sent the field away. Parvenue won. The race and bets were declared off and Putnam's owner—poor fellow—fined $50 for Putnam's "procrastination"—a new name for death. The race was run again and Parvenue, just as hot a favorite, won again. McCarren's story of the event is a gem.

McCarren is a wit. He cheats at times, does the best he can—for McCarren—always and is steadily in good personal standing—whole or broke. Just now Hugh is extremely whole and the McCafferty of the Washington tracks. McCarren is always popular. His tongue assures him that place. He lost his eye—on a race or something—years ago. He has a weakness for cards. When Hawthorne was a local fixture and the colony of cottages strong, there was a nightly heart game at which Pat Dunne, Tully Coulter and McCarren were fixtures. McCarren is an owl from choice. He like to plays. If ahead, he would not let the game break up. He wanted to give the others a chance. If behind he clamored for a chance himself. One morning, when all the players were nodding over hands, Pat Dunne said to McCarren: "Hughey! You are a fiend to keep us here. How do you stand it?" "Me boy," quote McCarren, "I ken stand it. I have only to rest one eye." And the game went on until the solitary optic demanded its due.

AN exchange remarks that Damewood, by Wedgewood (2:19), dam of John R. Gentry (2:03½ pacing), Theodore Shelton (3) (2:13 pacing) and Myron McHenry (2:15½ trotting), has produced three faster stallions than any other brood mare. All the trio are by the same horse, Ashland Wilkes (2:17¼). It is a curious fact that the second dam of Ashland Wilkes (2:17¼) was by the thoroughbred imported Knight of St. George, and the dam of Wedgewood was by the thoroughbred Woodford, a son of Kosciusko, by Sir Archy.

Horses Named for the California Jockey Club Trotting Meeting.

The following is a list of horses named on September 1st for the purses and stakes for the trotting meeting of the California Jockey Club. This list includes nearly all of the best horses on the Pacific Coast, besides such stars as Azote and Klamath, who will be here in time to trot stars at this meeting. The long-distance races will be a novelty that is sure to prove interesting and draw a large crowd. The California Jockey Club, by coming out early in the season and offering liberal purses, greatly benefited harness racing on this coast this year, as their large entry list encouraged other associations, that on account of losing the State appropriation might have held back, to go ahead and give meetings:

Trotting, 2:22 class, purse $1,200.
C. P. Harris' ch s Melvar
C. C. Crippen's bl h Leontot
Chas. A. Hug (for Agnew Stock Farm) b g Mojave

Entries to Running Events at Santa Ana.

The following entries have been received for the running races at the Santa Ana meeting, October 15th to 19th inclusive. The three-quarter mile dash for two year-olds has been declared off:

No. 12. Half-mile dash, two-year-olds—L. Dunlap's Jim Cook, Mrs. J. Wolfkill's Gladwin, M. A. Forster's George F., C. I. Thacker's Serva, Owen Bros.' Little Pearl, Mrs. Emma Ruggles' Nevere.

No. 14. One and one-half mile and repeat—A. Cook's Ben B., J. E. Gardner's Miss Rathburn, Al Morine's Lorena, M. A. Forster's Bogan, P. Weber's Waif, J. Weber's Gift, Singers & Whitney's Gracie S.

No. 15. One and one-sixteenths mile dash—J. E. Garner's Miss Rathburn, Al Morine's Piru, M. A. Forster's Naicho B., W. S. Maben's Juan Bernard and Red Head, C. Weber's Hello, Owen Bros.' Polasky, W. Short's Abi P., Judge Tam's Tobey, E. J. Edgar's John L. Palmer.

No. 16. One and one-quarter miles dash—Mrs. J. Wolfkill's La France, M. A. Forster's Naicho B., W. S. Maben's Juan Bernard, P. Weber's Jerome S., Owen Bros.' Two Cheers, W. Short's Abi P., Judge Tam's Tobey, C. J. Edgar's John M. Palmer.

No. 17. Three quarter mile dash—A. Cook's Ben H., Dickey & Knight's Mestesa, Mrs. J. Wolfkill's La France, M. A. Forster's Bogan, W. S. Maben's Red Head, C. Weber's Hello, A. Sprowl's George Daily, A. Garcia's Vestal, Owen Bros.' Polasky, Singers & Whitney's Gracie S. and Linville, W. Short's Abi P., Judge Tam's Tobey, C. J. Edgar's John M. Palmer.
CHAS. A. RIGGS, Secretary.

FROM Westfield Leader (N. J.): I have had an opportunity to examine "Absorbine," manufactured by W. F. Young, Meriden, Conn., and find it to be a discutient in which full confidence can be placed. It removes all puffs and swellings, from a skin roll to a fatty tumor, and at the same time it strengthens the muscles without doing the least injury to the tissues, or even to the hair. I am much pleased with it and could not suggest anything preferable. W. H. Morse, M. D., F. B. Sc., Chemist and Therapeutist.

 October 25-26—Tournament of the Washington State Sportsman's Association, Seattle, Wash.

The Sacramento Tournament.

The fourteenth annual tournament of the State Sportsmen's Association tournament has come and gone. The older shooters were most of them present but what laurels they won were hotly contested. A number of young men have entered the ranks the last year or two that promise to make not only local champions but the equals of any in America.

On the second day Crittenden Robinson won the Fay diamond medal with 35 straight, making 75 straight during the day. The best average of the tournament was made by M. O. Feudner and for a man of his years and experience it is a remarkable record. He killed 193 out of 201 shot at. Five of his lost birds were dead out of bounds and the others were all badly hurt. He made one run of 89 straight, including 6 or 8 birds shot in practice and extra events. Robinson killed 155 out of 165, Chick 135 out of 150, Fanning 108 out of 119, Stelling 106 out of 118, Zentgraf 61 out of 70, Merrill 58 out of 67.

THE SECOND DAY.

The first match of Thursday was a ten-bird event, $5 entrance. The straight scores divided the purse. The scores were as follows. (Our correspondent kept no record of second-barrel kills in the first few matches):

The Empire Gun Club.

The Empire Gun Club held its final shoot for the cash prizes for the season on Sunday last and will hold its final shoot for the gun on Sept. 22. Cash prizes amounting to $150 were divided as follows: First Class $50, Second Class $40, Third Class $30, Fourth Class $30, Fifth Class $10. Each class was again divided into two moneys 70 and 30 per cent. Stewart and Webb divided first and second money in the First Class, Daniels and Baum divided first and second money in the Second Class. Anderson won first money in the Third Class, Newton second; Gross and Gross divided first and second in the Fourth Class, Olsen won first money in the Fifth Class with Hall second.

The standing of the high men in the shoot for the gun that comes off on the 22d is as follows: Webb 153, Daniels 153, Nauman 157. The scores of the entire club for the season are as follows:

The Coming Tournament.

The programme of the coming tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association will be out the first of next week. It will be the best one ever issued on this coast by a large majority, and will unquestionably bring out a good attendance.

Among the valuable prizes that will be contested for will be the Association Individual Championship Medal. The "Gold Dust" medal. The Association Team Championship Trophy. The Overland Monthly Team Trophy. One L. C. Smith hammerless. One Clabrough hammerless. One hammer gun. One colts rifle and scores of minor prizes.

The Dupont Powder Co. has donated $50 to the purses. The Selby Co. $50, and other local firms will contribute liberally.

A. A. Martin, chairman of the Transportation Committee, has secured a special excursion rate from the Southern Pacific Co. for shooters who wish to attend the tournament from any portion of California.

To secure this rate the sportsman must pay full fare one way and get from the local agent a certificate (all agents will be supplied with them). This certificate must be countersigned by A. A. Martin on the grounds, and will then entitle the holder to a return ticket at one-third the regular rate.

Clubs not members of the association must join before the 15th, if they wish to participate in the tournament.

It has been estimated that a shooter can compete in every event given during the two days for the sum of $8, including entry fees and cost of shells.

The clubs that have joined the association up to present writing are as follows: The Empire Gun Club of Oakland, the Lincoln Gun Club of San Francisco, the Olympic Gun Club of San Francisco, the Nimrod Gun Club of San Francisco, the Electric Gun Club of San Francisco, the Stockton Gun Club, the Sacramento Gun Club, the San Joaquin Valley Gun Club, the Cyclers Gun Club of San Jose, the Watsonville Gun Club and the Mill Valley Country Club.

San Joaquin County Game Ordinance.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN—Have the Supervisors of a county a right to pass laws conflicting with the State law in regard to duck shooting. W. E. M.

Stockton, Sept. 4.

Mr. M. incloses the following clipping from a local paper: Many sportsmen are under the impression that the season for duck and snipe does not open until October 15th. In this county, under an ordinance passed by the Board of Supervisors last February, the closed season for these birds is from March 15th to September 15th of each year.

[Attorney General Fitzgerald has twice given his opinion that such ordinances as the one alluded to above are null and void. Boards of Supervisors may shorten the open season within the dates mentioned in the general State law, but may not lengthen the open season nor pass ordinances that conflict with the State law.—Ed.]

Every shooter will have a chance to win something at the Association tournament on October 6th and 7th. If high guns drop for place they will lose the tie in the former match and spoil their chances for the $50 purse for highest averages made during the tournament. The handicap match promises to be one of the most interesting events of the two days' shooting. Everyone must shoot to win in that race.

The Cyclers Gun Club of San Jose and the Olympic Gun Club will shoot a match for a silver cup on September 29th at San Jose. The match will be between ten men teams, each man to shoot at 25 birds, known traps, known angles.

The Deer Law.

The game law of Marin County is being tested in the courts, says the Call.

Adolph Sylva, of Mill Valley, went gunning for deer on September 1st. It was Mr. Sylva's deliberate intention to violate the law of Marin County if he should be successful in running down a buck. He took with him as a witness of his expressed intention E. Cramer, and brought down a deer in the presence of Cramer. Mr. Sylva is not only a law-abiding citizen, but a lawyer as well, and his purpose of violating the ordinance of Marin County regarding the closed season as to deer was to test its validity. Cramer swore to a complaint against Sylva before Justice of the Peace Bellrude of Mill Valley, charging him with violating ordinance 81, prohibiting the killing of a male deer on or after September 1st of any year and before July 15th of the following year.

Sylva immediately petitioned the Superior Court for a writ of habeas corpus, and on Friday last Judge Angellotti, of San Rafael, granted the writ, making it returnable yesterday morning. The question was laid before the Superior Court of Marin county, Sylva appearing as counsel in his own behalf and District Attorney Martinelli for the county. The case was quickly stated and briefly argued. Mr. Sylva contended that the ordinance was not violated for the reason that no provision appeared for a penalty, and, moreover, that the ordinance was in conflict with the general law enacted by the last Legislature, which provided for a closed season as to deer from October 15th to July 15th. He further argued that the general law superseded the ordinance, quoting in support of his contest the California Reports, various sections of the Penal Code and the county government act.

Mr. Martinelli supported the charge of violation of the law by the argument that the Board of Supervisors had the right to pass ordinances regulating fish and game under the provision of the constitution, section 11, article 11, as well as under subdivision 29½, article 25 of the county government act.

Judge Angellotti took the case under advisement.

Under recent opinions of Attorney-General Fitzgerald the county has the right to change the State law, so long as the ordinance shall be in consonance with the general law; and the Marin County ordinance is so considered, because by its provision the spirit of the general law is upheld by seeking to further the protection of deer.

There have been numerous inquiries received by District Attorney Martinelli as to the proper date of the beginning of the closed season from sportsmen, including one from the County Club.

Later: On Wednesday Judge Angellotti gave his decision acquitting the defendant. The substance of the decision is as follows:

"The complaint does not charge a public offense under any law of the State. The State law makes it a misdemeanor for one to kill a male deer in the State of California between the 15th day of October and the 15th day of July of the following year, and for such misdemeanor a punishment is prescribed by another section of the same code.

"It is apparent from the complaint that petitioner has not violated the provisions of the Penal Code, and there is no other section of the State law applicable. It is, however, claimed that the ordinance of Marin County, referred to in the complaint, makes the act of the petitioner a crime of public offense.

"To make an act a crime or public offense there must be a law forbidding the act and fixing the punishment for the commission thereof. The ordinance, which was enacted July 3, 1894, does not forbid any act, but simply provides that the closed season as to deer is changed.

"Nor does ordinance 78, of which No. 91 is amendatory, prescribe any penalty. Hence, these ordinances fail to create a public offense, and no provision of the laws of the State can be held to supply this defect unless it has been made especially applicable thereto."

Consequently the season for deer is still open in Marin county and as the Board of Supervisors do not meet until October 6th, the season must remain open until October 15th, when the State law closes it.

Chas. J. Adair, San Francisco, has sold a St. Bernard dog pup by Salvo (Barry—Bella)—Atalanta (Emperor of Bayonne—Lady Bayonne) to Eugene Hoffman, San Francisco.

Regensburg St. Bernard Kennels have sold the St. Bernard dog Lord Hualpa (Alton—Keepsake) to Miss Mary McGanney, Smartsville, Cal.

J. R. Kelly has sold his St. Bernard dog Duke Royal (waldo W.—Francis H.) to a party in Los Angeles.

WHELPS.

L. D. Rowell's (San Francisco) rough-coated St. Bernard bitch Laura Alton (California Alton—Tomah) whelped September 8th, thirteen, seven dogs, to Franz Frey's Hector of Hauenstein (Barry—Gemma).

Chas. J. Adair's (San Francisco) rough-coated St. Bernard bitch Atalanta (Emperor of Bayonne—Lady Bayonne) whelped July 12th, eight—three dogs—to Franz Frey's Salvo of Thuis (Barry—Bella).

W. H. Williams' (San Francisco) Irish water spaniel bitch Nora (King Marsh—Nora P.) whelped September 10th nine, six dogs, to J. H. Sammi's Handy Andy (Champion the Shaughraun—Duchess of Connaught).

VISITS.

Wm. Larsen's (San Francisco) English setter bitch Belle Gladstone (Ch. Gladstone—Zell) to Geo. Crocker's Rod's Chaff (Rodrigo—Gladstone's Girl) on September 10th.

Jos. McLatchie's (San Francisco) fox-terrier bitch Dauntless Suzette (Le Logos—Hillsdale Gaudy) to same owner's Mission Rival (Blemton Reifer—Rejoice) on September 7th.

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Whippet racing promises to become quite popular in the East.

A. C. Collins returned last Tuesday from a trip among the dog fanciers at Los Angeles.

The Pacific Fox-Terrier Club failed to secure a quorum at its regular monthly meeting night, Tuesday last.

Dr. D'Evelyn will send his fox terrier bitch Langtry K., by Oriole Bluffer—Dauntless Lilian, to the Omahashow next week.

A new breeder in the ranks of fox terrierdom has ordered from a well-known Eastern kennel the best fox terrier that can be purchased.

Hugh McCracken will be busy for a week or two. Gundred was due yesterday and Cleopatra is due to-morrow. Both were bred to Reglov.

The Pacific Kennel Club again failed to secure a quorum on Wednesday evening of last week. This par is getting to be a regular "chestnut."

The St. Bernard Club of California for the first time in its existence failed to secure a quorum on Wednesday evening last, but five members were present.

O. H. Williams has received the rough-coated St. Bernard dog pup that he has so long been expecting from A. C. Shallenberger, and it is a good one. It is by Ch. Melrose.

Dr. Thos. Bowhill will kindly accept our thanks for a fine photo of his new wire-haired fox terrier Jack. The new acquisition is a fine-headed terrier with good coat and great character.

Among our new advertisements this week will be found that of T. Hickey, who offers English setter puppies by that well-known fielder, Kittle's Luke. These puppies should be sought for eagerly.

Rod, Gun and Kennel tells of a man who has named his dog "Moreover." He claims it is a scripture name, and quoted a passage from the Bible to prove it, where he says, "Moreover, the dog, licked his sores," alluding to Lazarus.

T. J. Wattson has purchased a new English setter bitch by Champion Paul Gladstone, out of Gipsy H. She is said to be a good fielder. We thought he could not resist the temptation and predicted the purchase of a bitch when he went East some time ago.

Should Rods Chaff be lucky enough to win the match with Glenbeigh this fall and should Belle Gladstone be lucky with her coming litter, Wm. Larsen will be strictly in it. Between the breeding and the reputation and advertising, the litter would not be long in Mr. Larsen's hands.

J. G. Borglum, of Sierra Madre, has had the misfortune to lose another of his well-known Great Danes. His bitch Marjel was poisoned on September 6th by some unknown miscreant. Marjel was an imported bitch by Romeo—Mirka. She won 1st, San Francisco, '93; 2nd, Los Angeles, '93; 1st, Los Angeles, '94; 1st, Los Angeles, '95.

Robert Armstrong, the breeder of Jas. Mortimer's well-known wire hair Suffolk Toby, called at this office the other day and presented us with a number of old photos of Ch Carlisle Tack and the Champion Dandie Dinmonts, Border Queen and Tweedmouth. He will kindly accept our thanks for his valuable addition to our collection.

The Regensburg St. Bernard Kennels have sold to Miss Mary McGanney, of Smartsville, Cal., the well-known St. Bernard Lord Hualpa (Alton—Keepsake). She will use him as a companion at her mountain home. Lord Hualpa is docile, tractable and intelligent and should prove very companionable. Though it seems a shame to retire him from the stud.

The bitch puppy that W. H. Collins sold to W. R. Murphy of Los Angeles, recently, one of the Reglov—Lady Bute litter, is doing very well in its new home. At five months old it weighed 68 pounds and stands 24 inches. It is said to be almost the image of Lady Bute. Mr. Murphy received a few weeks back a dog pup, four months old by Champion Melrose, out of Findern Grace, from A. C. Shellenberger. It is quite a promising pup, well marked but lacking in shadings.

The entries to the Toronto Show this week were as follows: Mastiffs 23, Bloodhounds 12, Great Danes 24, Deerhounds 3, Greyhounds 16, English Setters 33, Gordon Setters 19, Bull-dogs 5, Whippets 5, Dandie Dinmonts 3, Scotch Terriers 5, Black and Tan Terriers 14, Field Spaniels 15, Cocker Spaniels 79, Dachshunds 9, Smooth Foxterriers 58, Yorkshire Terriers 2, Pugs 10, Italian Greyhounds 1, St. Bernards 52, Newfoundlanders 2, Russian Wolfhounds 5, Foxhounds 19, Pointers 10, Irish Setters 22, Collies 40, Bullterriers 21, Irish Terriers 24, Bedlington 10, Skye Terriers 5, Poodles 2, Irish Water Spaniels 7, Clumber Spaniels 2, Beagles 22, Wire Foxterriers 30, Toy Terriers 4, Toy Spaniels 10, Miscellaneous 4; total, 633.

Milton Young Buys Lamplighter.

Gottlieb Walbaum's string of racehorses were sold at Sheepshead Bay, and Milton Young secured Lamplighter for the McGrathiana Stud, says the Thoroughbred Record. The price paid was $7,500. During his racing career Lamplighter has earned $90,015 and beat many high-class horses. The other horses of the Walbaum string brought good prices. The Wolf Hill Stable sold all its horses in training to dissolve the partnership. The prices realized were poor. The prices paid were as follows:

Roan Wilkes' Sire.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—In your issue of 7th inst. we beg leave to make a correction for your benefit and our own, too. Raymon 12,007, by Simmons 2,744, dam Lady Raymon, by Carlisle 395, was the sire of Roan Wilkes, 2:12½, instead of Raymond. Roan Wilkes' dam was Berlinda, by Berlin. Lady Grace, 2:18, was also sired by Raymon 12,007, and several more that will be heard from later on in the season. Yours, PURDY & MAXWELL.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., September 9, 1895.

A Popular Remedy.

Absorbine is handled by all the large dealers in horse goods and the principal druggists on the Pacific Coast. It is becoming one of the best known and most popular remedies used about the stable. It removes all soft bunches on horses; does not blister the skin or destroy the hair, and the horse can be used while under treatment. It is manufactured by W. F. Young, of Springfield, Mass. Mr. Young has hundreds of recommendations for Absorbine from the most famous drivers and trainers in the world.

MONTURO, a bay three-year-old gelding, by Edgemark won a fine heat race at Rigny Park, August 29th, best time, 2:25½. Monturo is out of Nellie May, by Electioneer; second dam Lady Ellen, 2:29½, by Carr's Mambrino. Lady Ellen was one of the best broodmares on the Palo Alto Stock Farm.

Secretary T. H. Merry says: As the horses entered in the races that did not fill are also entered in the other races, no inconvenience can come to owners. Besides, overnight races can be made up from horses on the ground if the attendance will justify it. Owners and enterers of horses are notified that their entries have been received and are accepted as above.

Valuable Thoroughbreds Burned.

LEXINGTON, Aug. 28.—This morning, about 6:30, the stallion barn at Castleton, James R. and Foxball P. Keene's farm, about six miles from Lexington, at the junction of the Newton and Iron Workes pikes, was destroyed by fire and the well-known stallion, imported Kallicrates and Hyder Abad perished in the flames. When Maj. Foxball A. Dangerfield, manager of Castleton, discovered the fire, it was burning fiercely, but hard work on the part of the men on the ground saved St. Leonards, Tournament and Chorister, three other stallions that were in the barn. No one was at the barn at the time of the fire, the stud groom having left there some time before the fire broke out. Maj. Dangerfield has very stringent rules against smoking in or near the barns, and just how the fire started is a mystery. The barn was a new one and cost about $3,000. It was not insured. Imp. Kallicrates was a chestnut horse, bred by Baron Leopold Rothschild and imported in 1892 by James R. Keene. He was foaled in 1887 and was got by Hermit, out of Isabel, by Plebeian, etc. He was purchased for $31,000 and was considered one of the most promising young stallions in the country. None of his get have yet started, but they are nearly all good lookers and built on speedy lines. Hyderabad was bred by J. B. Haggin, California, and was purchased as a yearling by Albert Cooper, the well known colored trainer. He was got by Hyder Ali, out of Glorienne, by Joe Daniels, etc. Hyder Abad as a two-year-old was such a clinking good colt that Messrs. Keene bought him for a big sum from Cooper to keep him out of Domino's way, the black whirlwind being the same age as Hyder Abad.

Hyder Abad was unfortunate ever afterward, and as a three-year-old did not show high class. He was shipped to Castleton some time ago. Maj. Dangerfield does not know whether either of the horses was insured. The barn was not insured. Ten tons of hay were destroyed by the fire. Maj. Dangerfield will institute a thorough investigation as to the cause of the fire.—N. Y. Mercury.

THE game trotting mare, Visalia, 2:13, is out of Scratch (dam of Cecilia, 2:26½), by Loppy, be by Sultan, out of Cecilia Clark, by Clark Chief. In a conversation with J. Perkins, the youthful and competent driver of this game little mare, a few facts were learned regarding this mare Scratch. Her dam was a very high strung mare owned by Jasper Harold of Visalia; her pedigree was never learned. She was so nervous that it was a scratch if she ever got with foal to Loppy, and after she did so and had the filly (Scratch), she ran into a hay hook and cut herself so badly from the knee to the elbow that for three months she lay in the paddock without getting on her feet, and Mr. Harold said it was a scratch if she and her foal lived. The mare was fed daily and the little one had to suckle the best way she could so Mr. Harold called her Scratch. The filly was then sold to H. P. Perkins and bred to Iris, for it was found to be almost an impossibility to handle her. She has never had a halter nor a rope of any kind on her since Visalia was foaled and it is doubtful if she ever will. She is too nervous for anything but raising foals and fighting every other brood mare near her. In confirmation she looks like Visalia and every foal she has had was speedy from the time it was a few months old. Cecilia died this summer and Mr. Perkins contends she was much faster than Visalia. The sire of these youngsters, as well as Jasper Ayres, 2:20½, is also owned by Mr. Perkins. He is called Iris, and was sired by Eros, out of a mare by Chieftain. All of his progeny are good actors and speedy, and have the best of constitutions, feet and limbs.

H. S. HOGBOOM sold at the Sacramento race track last Wednesday a yearling colt by Waldstein, 2:22½, out of Gold Rose, by Sultan, for $600. The purchaser was that excellent judge of trotters and pacers, L. J. Rose, of Los Angeles. This youngster is a very fast pacer and individually is perfect.

LEONA, by Rockefeller (son of Electioneer and Edith Carr, by Clark Chief), got a trotting record of 2:22½ at Portland Maine, August 27th.

THE meetings at Buffalo and Rochester were unsuccessful financially, while the one at New York, held under exactly the same conditions, was a grand success. Close observers will be loath to admit that the meetings in the first two cities could not have been made to succeed had the managers of them used the same tactics employed by the Fleetwood management to secure and bold the interest of the people. Never before has the value of advertising as a factor in the success of a race meeting been more satisfactorily demonstrated than in the case of the Fleetwood meeting. The two meetings in the Western end of the State were carried through in a sort of a perfunctory manner as though failure was a foregone conclusion, and the assistance of special events and liberal advertising of the same was not called in. At New York arrangements were made early in the season whereby the most celebrated trotters and pacers were to meet during the meeting, and by liberal advertising the people far and near were kept informed of that fact. The wisdom of this course was manifest when the gate receipts were figured up. With new conditions new methods must be adopted, and the associations recognizing this and conforming thereto will be the ones that will make harness-racing pay.—Horse World.

MR. A. KOENIG, of New York city, who purchased a number of broodmares from the Allen Farm, for shipment to Austria, has added another to the collection, and one of the best-bred mares in the United States. He has just purchased from Mr. G. C. Gue, of New York City, the eight-year-old mare Massovia, by Belmont, dam Mosa (dam of Meredock, 2:22½, Inlaid, 2:26½, Moquette, 2:27½, Muscova, 2:28½, and Morale, trial 2:19½), by Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½; second dam Hermosa (dam of Hermes, 2:27½, three producing sons and four producing daughters), by Edwin Forrest; third dam old Black Rose, dam of Darkness, 2:27½, etc. The mare has a foal at foot by Anteeo, 2:16½, and will be bred to Freedom, 2:29½, ex-champion yearling. The introduction of such blood as this into Europe cannot help but redound to the credit of American trotting horses.

THE chestnut mare Maud C. trotted a notable mile at Fleetwood last Saturday, going an easy half down the hill in 1:10½ and coming up the hill in 1:07, which is faster than most of the Grand Circuit trotters could cover the same ground last week. Maud C. is a cast-off of the Salisbury stable that Charles Weiland purchased at auction for a road mare in Cleveland last spring. Nobody has ever improved the record of a trotter that the California turfman has done with, but Trainer Elmer Stevens says he will lower Maud C.'s mark of 2:15.

MENLO PRINCESS is by Anteros. She got a record of 2:30 at Cape Charles City, Virginia, Aug. 30th.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:--
FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
SECOND It will not cause headache.
THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:
First--It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
Second--It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
Third--It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
Fourth--It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
Fifth--Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
Sixth--Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
Seventh--This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.
Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN

Vol. XXVII. No. 12.
No. 313 BUSH STREET.

SAN FRANCISCO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1895.

SUBSCRIPTION
FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR

ALIX, 2:03 3-4, THE QUEEN OF THE TURF.

[DRAWN EXPRESSLY FOR THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.]

Alix is Still the Queen.

The peerless queen of the turf, Alix, who made her record of 2:03½ at Galesburg, Ill., September 19, 1894, has not appeared in many races this year. While on this coast last winter she made as many friends among horsemen as if she were bred here. Her praises have been written by every turf writer and correspondent who has seen her, and her marvelous speed and gameness placed her at the very front of all trotters in the world. She is seven years old and was bred by Daniel Hayes, of Muscatine, Iowa. Her sire was Patronage (a son of Patron) and her dam was Atlanta, by Attorney, grandam Flirt (dam of Patroness, 2:26½), by Gen. Hatch.

She is now with the Salisbury string in the East and next Wednesday she is going to try to lower her record.

The picture herewith presented was drawn by the celebrated artist, George F. Morris, who is at present on a visit to this coast. Mr. Morris' work on the Horseman is remembered by all who admire faithful likenesses of horses. In his chosen vocation he is the peer of any artist that ever came to this coast.

THE STATE FAIR MEETING.

Palomacita, Miss Buckley, Grady, Bernardo and Esperance Wins on Friday—Birdroe and Irene Crocker Captured the Postponed Harness Races—Long Lady, Lucretia Borgia, McLight, Capt. Skedance and Tim Murphy Victorious the Concluding Day.

ELEVENTH DAY—FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13.

DELIGHTFUL weather and an excellent card of racing events had the effect of drawing a crowd of 7,000 people to Agricultural Park this afternoon, and the sport furnished fully repaid the multitude that repaired to the time honored race course. Favorites were on four occasions successful in the five races, so that the figurers on form had a very fine day of it. There were no surprises, Miss Buckley, the only winner not a favorite, being well played at 2½ and 3 to 1. The Burns & Waterhouse filly Palomacita again demonstrated her worth, winning in a canter by three lengths from Easel in the first event after the latter had opened up quite a gap. Josephine, the gray half-sister to Hymn, was quite lame, but made up some ground in the homestretch and ran a game race.

Miss Buckley just beat old Gold Bug out a nose in the second race after the latter appeared to be winning handily. Gold Bug got away seventh in a field of nine, and not well on his stride, Miss Buckley second, consequently Gold Bug ran a considerably better race than the winner. Navy Blue was a bang-up third, and ran surprisingly well.

Grady retrieved his laurels in the third, beating Belle Boyd with such ease that many marvelled at his defeat of Thursday by the daughter of El Rio Rey. Belle Boyd led to-day to the final sixteenth, where Grady was given his head and came on to an easy three-length victory. Tiberius gave Boyd quite a tussle for place at the finish.

Bernardo, favorite, got the verdict in the fourth race over Rose Clark, whom many thought had won by a short head, while Duchess of Towers, off absolutely last, finished a good third. Ike L.'s chances went glimmering at the post, he being prominent in nearly all of the numerous breakaways, and on one occasion (when he got off well in front) running nearly a quarter of a mile before he could be stopped.

The last race, won by Esperance, looked mightily like a "shoo-in." Onti Ora was under restraint nearly every inch of the mile and three quarters, while Amigo, the leader half a mile from home, fell at the fifth jump. The crowd attending the races at Sacramento fairly goes wild over jumping races, and there will probably be a jump every day at the fair meetings in future.

The ladies' tournament and parade of live stock were fully up to the standard of the past, and in all particulars the fair of 1895 does not suffer by comparison with those of the past.

The warm sun of the morning had transformed the race course from a sea of slush into a springy, dusty track, and excellent time was made throughout.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was at five and one-half furlongs, selling, for two-year-olds. Palomacita opened at 2 to 5 and closed at 4 to 1. Josephine and Easel were at 5 to 1, Bell Oak 10. They broke to a good send-off, Palomacita, Josephine, Easel being the order. Easel soon shot by Palomacita and led by three lengths past the half. Palomacita went after Easel, passing her and leading at the final turn by half a length. Easel six lengths before Bell Oak, Josephine at the latter's heels. Palomacita drew away steadily, winning by three lengths easily. Easel second, handily, three lengths before Josephine, who beat Bell Oak half a length. Time, 1:02½.

A six-furlong selling race came next. Morven was made a red-hot favorite, opening at 2½ and closing at 2 to 1. Gold Bug was at 3 (opened at 4), Miss Buckley 3½, Foremost 4½, Mary S. 7, Abi P. 8, Rosebud 10, Navy Blue 15, Rob Roy 20 to 1. There was a long delay at the post and finally the flag fell to a fair start for all but Gold Bug (who was not in motion) and Mary S. Morven, Miss Buckley, Abi P. was the order as the flag fell. Rosebud led at the half by a head, Morven second, two lengths from Miss Buckley. Rosebud led turning for home by a head, Morven second, two lengths before Navy Blue, on whom Miss Buckley was lapped. Gold Bug had made up a lot of ground, and was fifth. Rose Bug and Morven fell out of it a furlong from home, and shouts went up for Gold Bug. However, he could not quite get up to Miss Buckley, who won by a head in a great drive, Gold Bug second, as far from Navy Blue. Time, 1:15. Gold Bug ran a much better race than the winner.

A five-furlong handicap, for two-year-olds, came next. Grady was a 6 to 5 favorite, Benham 2 to 1 (2½ for some time), the Elmwood Stock Farm pair (Instigator and Tiberius) 2½, Belle Boyd 4 to 1. Belle Boyd, Tiberius, Grady was the order to a good start after a tedious delay. Belle Boyd led by half a length at the half, Tiberius, Grady and Benham heads apart as named. Belle Boyd was first by her head into the homestretch, Tiberius second, with Grady at his saddle. Grady was given his head in the last eighty yards and won with ease by two lengths, Belle Boyd, driven out to the last ounce, second, a scant length before Tiberius. Time, 1:02.

The fourth race was at three-quarters of a mile, selling, and one of the warmest betting events seen in some time. Rose Clark was backed down from 11 to 5 to 7 to 5, but a heavy play on Bernardo sent his price to 9 to 5. Ike L. was steady at 5 to 1, Inkerman at 6 (opened at 8), Duchess of Towers 10 and Blue Bell 15 to 1. They broke away time after time, and in one of the breaks the flag went down, and Ike L., well in front, ran nearly a quarter of a mile before he could be recalled. In fact, Ike L. was prominent in nearly all the false starts, and his chances were killed at the post. Finally, after waiting nearly forty minutes, the bunting swished to an excellent send-off, Ike L., Silver State, Bernardo being the order. Silver State at once forged to the fore, leading by three lengths past the half, Rose Clark and Ike L. running almost as one horse. The latter closed up fast on Silver State nearing the homestretch, which the former entered first by a length, Ike L. next, one and a half lengths before Rose Clark. Ike L. appeared to be winning a sixteenth from home, but he tired badly, Rose Clark taking command and Bernardo coming like a flash on the outside. In a most exciting finish the latter was given the verdict, Rose Clark second, lapped by Duchess of Towers, who got away last and made a remarkable run. Time, 1:15½.

The concluding race of the day was one and three-quarter miles over seven hurdles. Esperance opened at 7 to 5, but a wild plunge sent his odds to 7 to 10 in less time than it takes to tell it almost. A stiff play on Alexis sent Esperance's price up to even money at post time, Alexis being backed from 4 to 2 to 1. Onti Ora's figures were 3½ to 1 at the close, 2 to 1 at the opening, Guadalupe going at 6 to 1 and Amigo at 10. Guadalupe went out and opened a tremendous gap, then Amigo got up and passed him. The further the latter went the further he went away from his field. He fell at the fifth fence and Esperance took command. Onti Ora had been under a heavy pull all the way around—a pull that was equal to any politician's in the land, but at the same time mighty suspicious-looking. Esperance came strong in the homestretch, winning easily enough by three lengths from the better animal, Onti Ora, who just beat the fast coming Guadalupe half a length for the place. Time, 3:22½.

TWELFTH DAY—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 14.

There was plenty to interest and excite the multitude on this, the concluding day of California's great State Fair of 1895. The unfinished 2:20 class trot and 2:19 pace were down for decision in the morning, while in the afternoon some of the most noted thoroughbred stallions were exhibited and five interesting events were run off. It is estimated that over 8,000 lovers of racing were on hand at Agricultural Park when the bell rang for the first race this afternoon. At 2 o'clock Salvator, pride of our horse-loving nation, was led on the track, his neck proudly arched and his superb chestnut coat glinting in the sun as so much gold. And when the vast assemblage heartily applauded the turf hero he tried to break away from his attendant and show that he still possessed the speed that rendered him famous throughout the world. Following Salvator came imp. Midlothian, imp. Watercross, Tenny and imp. Goldfinch. Midlothian, though twenty years of age, looks more like a five-year old, and is still a fine-appearing, little dark bay horse that "grows on you." He is "all horse," and one of the best sires in the country. Watercross is a big brown horse by Springfield—Wharf, dale, by Hermit with a beautiful head and neck, a broad hack, slightly swayed, immense quarters, and altogether a most taking individual, showing great muscular power. Tenny is a wonderfully strong-looking bay horse of good length with a back so greatly swayed as to make him look exceedingly odd. He has a shapely head, just of the right size, a sturdy though well-arched neck, the shoulders of a giant, a body of good length, wonderful depth through the heart, tremendous width of loin and legs that set under him just right, to our minds. If he doesn't make a sire of more than ordinary worth there is nothing in substantial appearance and royal breeding. Tenny, in short, looks like a stallion all over, and the longer one gazes at this Samson among equines the better one likes him. Goldfinch, chestnut son of Ormonde and Thistle (dam of Common and Throstle), by Scottish Chief, is the son of his father all over, though not of the same color. His head is perfect, his neck beautifully arched, his body of fair length, shapely, well-rounded and substantial, with graceful curves, his limbs betokening great strength and setting under him just as do those of his renowned sire. He is fully 16.1 of horee, and by a triple crown winner out of a mare that has thrown a triple-crown winner in Common and a St. Leger winner in Throstle. Last year's victress, Goldfinch is likely indeed to prove one of the country's best sires. He came in for little less admiration than Salvator, and seemed to appreciate it.

The bell rang up the 2:20 class trotters at 11 A. M. Three heats had been decided last Wednesday when the rain came on, Native State winning the first, Irene Crocker the second and Columbus S. the one in the storm. Chico was still a red-hot favorite, going at 7 to 5 in the books, Irene Crocker 4, the others from 5 to 15 to 1. Prince Ira, closely attended by Native State, led throughout in the fifth heat, winning after a slashing finish by nearly a length in 2:24, Irene Crocker, who came up strong in the homestretch, less than two lengths further away. Chico broke on the first turn and fell out of it rapidly.

All but four now went to the barn, under the rules. Native State was now a warm favorite in books and auctions on account of his good showing, but Irene Crocker beat him out handily in the last sixteenth, through Native State's breaking. Prince Ira was third and Columbus S. fourth. Time, 2:20.

Irene Crocker was now made a favorite and finished first by a couple of lengths in the sixth heat, but the judges set her back last for galloping and placed Native State first, Prince Ira second and Columbus S. third. Time, 2:21½.

In the last heat Irene Crocker trotted third to Prince Ira and Native State until well in the homestretch. About a sixteenth from home her rivals went into the air, the gray mare winning with ease by about five lengths in 2:22, Prince Ira second and Native State third.

Birdroe was still a hot favorite in the 2:19 class pace, notwithstanding Loupe won the first and only heat on Wednesday in 2:14½. The favorite indulged Prince Nutwood with the lead in a couple of the heats and Loupe in the second until nearing the homestretch, then came on and won away off. She paced the second heat in 2:13½, then the others were virtually done for and the bookmakers would not take a dollar on the daughter of Mark Monroe. Birdroe's time in the third and fourth heats was 2:16 and 2:19, and it was no race at all for her.

The first running race, five furlongs, for maiden two-year-olds, had four starters. Long Lady opened at 7 to 10 and closed at even money. Treachery was backed from 7 to 5 to even, Carnation opened at 3 and closed at 4 to 1, Pansy at 10. They got away to a good start, Treachery, Carnation, Long Lady being the order. Carnation led past the half by a length, Long Lady second, three lengths before Pansy. Carnation increased her lead to fully two lengths going to the homestretch, Treachery closing up a lot of ground and being second by half a length, Long Lady third. Carnation quit badly in the straight, Long Lady winning rather handily from the driven out Treachery by a length, Carnation third, two lengths further away. Time, 1:02½.

The Autumn handicap, one mile for two-year-olds, brought eight to the post. Bloomsbury was a sizzling favorite, opening at 2 to 1 closing at 6 to 5. The Boots pair (Instigator and Lucretia Borgia) were backed down from 2½ to 1 to 8 to 5. The Burns & Waterhouse stable (Elsie and Sam Leake), went back from 2 to 4 to 1. The Mercedes filly was at 5, Heartsease 8, Billy McCloskey 12 to 1 and well played. Sam Leake, Elsie, Bloomsbury was the order to a fair start. Sam Leake led past the quarter by a length, Bloomsbury second, three lengths from Heartsease. At the half the order was the same except that they had bunched up closer. Bloomsbury was here cut loose for all he was worth, and led by about a head turning for home, Sam Leake second, three lengths before Heartsease and Lucretia Borgia, close together. The last-named went to the front as they straightened away, and it was no race, Lucretia Borgia winning by three lengths, Sam Leake second, a neck before Elsie. Time, 1:44.

A mile handicap brought six to the post. McLight was a sizzling favorite, opening at 2 to 1 and closing at 7 to 10. The Boots pair (Claudius and Peter the Second) were at 3 to 1, Duchess of Towers 4, Candid 5 and Ike L. 8 to 1. Candid, Claudius, Peter the Second was the order to a good start. Duchess of Towers was in front about a length at the quarter, Ike L. second, with Candid at his heels. McLight soon thereafter moved up, and at the half was second, one length behind Duchess of Towers, Candid and Ike L. close together. McLight showed half a length in front into the homestretch, Duchess of Towers next, as far from Ike L. Candid, close to the inner rail, came very fast, forcing Macklin to whip the favorite and drive him out hard to win by a scant length. Ike L. was beaten one and a half lengths by Candid for the place. Time, 1:42.

A mile selling race followed, there being five starters. Nebuchadnezzar was a warm favorite, 7 to 10 being his closing price. Rear Guard was at 2 to 1, Capt. Skedance 4, Mary S. 7 and Navy Blue 9 to 1. Rear Guard, Mary S., Capt. Skedance was the order to a fair start, though Nebuchadnezzar on the inner rails was at once cut off. Little Jones took "Nebby" through a very narrow aperture on the first turn, and the wee son of Brutus showed half a length in front of Capt. Skedance at the quarter, Mary S. at the bay colt's saddle, two lengths before Rear Guard. Nebuchadnezzar, apparently going easy, had increased his lead to two and one-half lengths by the time the half-pole was reached, Capt. Skedance being second, but a head before Rear Guard, whom Sloane was hustling along on the outside. Nebuchadnezzar turned into the homestretch a length to the good, Capt. Skedance second, two from Rear Guard, who led Mary S. third. About half-way down the homestretch Piggott cut loose with Capt. Skedance, and a little less than a furlong from home Jones went to the bat on "Nebby," who was plainly in distress. Capt. Skedance finished like a wild horse, winning off handily by three lengths, Rear Guard second, as far before Nebuchadnezzar. Time, 1:42.

The last race of the State Fair meeting was a six-furlong selling event. Tim Murphy opened at 6 to 5 and closed at 2 to 1 under a heavy plunge on Nervoso, who was backed from 5 down to 2 to 1. Road Runner was heavily played towards post time, his odds being forced from 3½ to 2 to 1. Gallant was at 4, Warrago 8 and Amarino 30 to 1. They got away to a good start, all on the fly. Tim Murphy at once darted into the lead, being two lengths in front of Nervoso at the half and one into the homestretch. Gallant and Road Runner came strong in the homestretch, pocketing and bumping Nervoso, who fell back beaten. Tim Murphy was not headed, winning with ease by three lengths, Road Runner and Gallant having a very hot fight for place, the former securing it by a nose. Time, 1:14½.

Amnesty at Last.

The stewards of the Jockey Club at their meeting yesterday afternoon decided to reinstate all "outlaws" who had raced on tracks hitherto not recognized by the Jockey Club, provided there was nothing against their individual standing so far as integrity is concerned. The resolutions adopted provide that applications for reinstatement must be made prior to September 16th. I cannot say that the wording of the resolutions adopted is happy. In some respects they are what in the language of newspaperdom is called "gushy," in other respects they are vague, and in still other respects they do not tell enough. Any sample law which requires interpretation is apt to breed mischief. The generous and wholesome spirit of the stewards in passing the resolution is evidenced, and right-minded and right-working horsemen will appreciate it. But there should have been a clearer definition of terms. Of course, it goes without saying that officials that have been employed on such tracks naturally are also reinstated, and among the number none will be more welcomed than Mr. Stephen N. Stillwell, the secretary, and the Hon. Thomas Flynn, ex-Speaker of the Legislature of New Jersey, who has acted as starter. Both are men eminent in their respective professions. The resolutions adopted read as follows. I also print the supplementary resolution, the purport of which is to guard against future violations of the existing racing laws:

"Whereas, The stewards of the Jockey Club have received many applications for reinstatement from owners, trainers and jockeys who, owing to the uncertain condition of racing in this State prior to the enactment of the present racing law, raced, trained and rode on courses not sanctioned by the Jockey Club; and,

"Whereas, The stewards recognize that, under the extraordinary circumstances then existing, the temptation to derive a revenue from their property, even at the risk of disqualification, induced many horse owners to do what under other circumstances they would not have done; it is therefore

"Resolved, That an opportunity he and is given all owners, trainers and jockeys against whom no charges of fraud have been established, and whose only offense has been racing or riding at an unrecognized course, to be restored to good standing on filing an application with the stewards of the Jockey Club prior to Sept. 16, 1895.

"Notice is further given that on and after Sept. 16, 1895, any owner, trainer, jockey or horse concerned, directly or indirectly, in a race run at an unrecognized course shall be denied the privilege of this general amnesty."

The following resolution was also adopted:

"Resolved, That on and after the first day of October, 1895, any horse trained or stabled at an unrecognized course, or any trainer trained by the same, or any jockey riding the same, whether during a race meeting or otherwise, will be thereby disqualified."

I do not see how any advocate of turf interests can find fault with the action of the stewards yesterday, yet one of the turf critics employed by a morning newspaper which devotes its space largely to turf matters, for some unaccountable reason, appears to think it proper to assail the stewards for an action which, while it was tardy, was thoroughly well considered. In my own opinion the writer's remarks are ill considered, unjust and unfair. If after punishing men for a whole year, it might be said, they deem it a kindness to allow men at the close of the racing season to run horses that might have had a chance to earn money on the so-called big tracks during the height of the racing season, is there any wrong in that action? The horsemen reinstated will now have a chance to make their property in horses more valuable during the autumn and winter race meetings in the South. Surely that is no crime. It is really distressing to read a comment like the following:

Every one who has the best interests of the turf at heart will regret that the influential gentlemen who were elected or elected themselves stewards of the Jockey Club have thus begun driving nails into their own coffins. Surely the example set by the dead and gone Board of Control was example enough of what is known as "let sleeping dogs lie."

That defunct body of wisecracks took upon themselves to bar off anybody who raced on winter tracks, and, after doing so, displayed the weakness of their hand by going on their own lawmaking and mixing up the goats again with the sheep. Whoever has influence enough in the august body to have brought about the present amnesty toward the outlaw owners has miserably misused it.

How much better it would have been to have kept the doors shut and gone on with the good work of cleansing the Augean stable (which from recent events looks like a herculean task), thoroughly whitewashing it from stem to stern instead of loading up with perishable freight that cannot possibly do any good, and may, unless strictly watched, do irretrievable harm to the sport of kings.

Racing under the present conditions of the law is none too prosperous, and why the stewards of the Jockey Club should have had the stupendous folly to have done what they have is past understanding. They are the original originators of their own originality, and may bid goodby to the faith and good will of the owners and trainers who stuck by them through a long winter of discontent.

One and perhaps the main effect of the resolutions adopted yesterday will be the practical closing up of the illegitimate tracks at Alexander Island and St. Asaph. In their best days they contributed nothing to the best interests of the turf. They were speculative ventures, pure and simple, and some of the men who have latterly got hold of the properties have evidenced an almost cynical disregard for the first principle that should underlie the projecting of a race meeting, the development of the horse primarily and the amusement of the race-going public secondarily. Of course they will have a lot of very poor horsemen to stand by them, because these unfortunates have neither the means nor the horses to go elsewhere to make their livelihood, but the turf will hardly suffer from their absence.—N. Y. Advertiser, September 10th.

The State Fair.

The State Fair closed last Saturday night in a blaze of glory.

It is universally conceded that it was one of the best and most successful ever held, and had it not been for the rain that fell during the early part of last week, would probably have been the most successful financially of any that has ever been held. The receipts aggregate about $22,000, those at the Park being estimated at $13,033 75 and those at the Pavilion footing up $9,510.50, the total being about $1,500 ahead of last year.

At the last fair the receipts at the Pavilion and Park were nearly equal, and would probably have been so this year had it not been for the rainstorm and the unusual outside attraction offered by the Electric Carnival. The rain on Wednesday also made a difference of $1,100 in the receipts at the Park, the prizes hung up amounting to $1,700, while the attendance brought in only $600. The expenses of the society were more than they were last year, too, on account of the improvements made at the Park.

It is a fact worthy of note that at the Park no fines were inflicted by the judges on drivers or others, no drunken men on the track nor jobbing of races, but everything went smoothly and pleasantly.

The Directors have decided to open three futurity stakes—or rather two that might be called Nursery Stakes and the third one a Futurity Stake—to be run in 1896, 1897 and 1898, adding $1,000 to each stake. The entries for yearlings will close on November 1, 1895, and those for weanlings and mares will close on January 1, 1896. For two-year-olds the distance will be three-quarters of a mile, and full conditions will be given in due time. The race for mares will be a futurity stake.—Record Union.

Mike Dwyer and "Father Bill."

Ever since Mike Dwyer "unlinked arms" with W. C. Daly he has been sinking deeper and deeper in the quicksands of legitimate racing, until recently even his most ardent admirers—and they are legion!—have failed to discover anything besides his wooden leg above the surface. When Dwyer was his side partner the Sage of Hartford held a strong hand. You could never figure him out of a race, no matter what company his horses were meeting. Especially was this the case when one of Dwyer's horses was a starter against a "green above the red" candidate. His "I will do anything you say, Mr. Mike," invariably announced before a race, or scratch, as best suited the interests of the plunger. And it must be admitted that he was always loyal. Whatever he promised his friend he would do, accidents barred. While in this connection with Dwyer had much to do with his prominence in turf affairs, there is another thing which gave him considerable weight with prominent owners. Whatever else may be said of Daly, it is universally admitted that he is a skillful trainer of cripples. No matter how thoroughly broken down a horse might appear to be, Daly could always get something out of him. When his adroitness in this respect came to be recognized, the prominent owners took advantage of it by turning over to his care horses that their trainers pronounced useless. Sometimes it was for a consideration, sometimes for a small percentage of their earnings.

In this way "Pa" made himself useful to "the moguls," as he is wont to term them, and "the moguls" in turn protected "Pa" when he needed their protection. He has been in some very tight places during his varied career, but has always managed to escape the noose. Recently close observers have noticed the artificial part of "Pa's" anatomy, the only part which remains in sight, pathetically pointing towards California. At first the movement was scarcely perceptible, but at the present time the action is sufficiently emphatic to be observed by every one. In fact, he has cried out in his desperation with a voice which, though sweet and harmonious, is of sufficient volume to be heard by his old friends, "the moguls." Several of the latter have signified their willingness to aid "Pa" in his venture by consigning to his care a few of their cast-offs. This is all he wants. For years he has thrived and grown fat on the pickings of the turf. He will continue to do so until he is forced to leave it. If those who are responsible for the future of the turf in the East are really honest in their pretensions, they will see to it that nothing interferes with Daly's contemplated visit to the "glorious climate." The majority of Eastern racegoers will surely wish him a speedy journey and a long stay.—N. Y. Advertiser.

Burns & Waterhouse's New Trainer Talks.

J. H. McCormick, than whom there is not a more capable or popular trainer in the business, has not as yet completely recovered from his recent illness. His connection with the stable of the California firm of Burns & Waterhouse began when he left Walbaum last Monday, though it was not intended that he should take up his duties until he regained his health. The unexpected departure of Mr. Burns for San Francisco, whither he was called by urgent business, threw all of the Eastern end of the firm's affairs on McCormick's hands, and he has therefore been comparatively busy. If it is possible to do so, before his presence is essential in California, McCormick contemplates a trip to Europe. Physicians have advised him that a sea voyage would aid him in getting rid of the malarial poison which seems to have impregnated his entire system. Speaking of his experience in the West, while he had charge of Walbaum's string, McCormick said recently:

"The trip was not a satisfactory one by any means. We had very poor material, but the fact that the horses belonged to Walbaum and that Lamplighter was in the string gave the stable a prominence that it would not otherwise have had. With respect to a comparison of the racing, it does not materially differ from that in the East. It is in regard to the attendance that one notices a difference. At all the principal courses in the Western circuit there is very little difference in the daily average of the number of race-goers. There are no 'rush days' such as we have here."

When asked as to the possibility of favorable legislation in New Jersey next winter, McCormick said:

"I am very doubtful. I know that there has been some talk of remedial legislation, and that several politicians have expressed a desire to lend a hand. But it has been my experience that politicians are like yearlings—mighty uncertain. Speaking of yearlings, it is a curious fact that the shrewdest men in the business are very often led astray by a visit to the large stock farms. It is almost impossible for a lover of a good thoroughbred to go through one of these establishments without becoming 'stuck' on some likely looking youngster. An enthusiastic horseman, under these circumstances, always reminds me of an aged woman walking along a thoroughfare. She sees a red flag, announcing an auction sale. The irresistible impulse to secure a bargain forces her to enter the store, and before she leaves it is 100 to 1 that she has purchased that she has no use for, and for which she has paid a price and a half."

"I cannot tell at present whether I shall come East next year with the Burns & Waterhouse string. Unless some of their horse show high class I do not think it would be advisable. There is a great prospect of first-class racing in California next year, and when the trials and tribulations of the trip across the continent are taken into consideration it is easy for anyone to realize that the game is not worth the candle unless one has something approaching first class."—N. Y. Morning Advertiser, Sept. 9.

Johnny McCafferty.

And so the much talked of J. J. McCafferty is going to leave us for a while. In all truthfulness it must be said that the clever horseman's pathway on the Eastern turf has not been strewn with roses. Almost from the day he made his first appearance on metropolitan courses he has been more or less at odds with the powers that were and still are. In fact, it is asserted in some quarters that McCafferty has become so wearied of continually singing "They're after me," that he is going off somewhere to get his breath. Still another report has it that the genial John has been hit below the ribs on his left side by one of Cupid's darts and that the lady has named a day in next June. When questioned concerning this McCafferty brought into play all the artfulness in conversation, which has made a reputation for him in his encounters with the turf authorities. They do say—and with some reason—that McCafferty always has a satisfactory answer ready for any question that may be asked him, under any circumstances, anywhere. Dickens' Artful Dodger isn't in it with John.

Seriously, though, it is an open question whether McCafferty has been treated with entire fairness by the Eastern turf authorities. He is shrewd, to be sure—success in his business demanded that he should be. But if at times he has appeared to put a dent in the thin veneering which divides honesty and dishonesty on the turf, it can never be said that he has broken it. His methods were his own, and because they did not dovetail with those employed by others it was not entirely fair to question them. He has certainly been very successful, having accumulated, according to the best obtainable information, something over $250,000. He admits this as far as to say that he has enough of the coin of the realm to keep the wolf from the door for the rest of his natural life, and no man can desire more. He will keep Applegate and Religion, for whom he has more than the ordinary horseman's affections. He has several royally-bred yearlings. It is just possible, if everything turns out as expected, that McCafferty will spend his honeymoon in England, and that he will take Applegate, Religion and two or three of the best of his yearlings over with him. If he does there is not a turfman in this country who knows him intimately who will not contribute a basketful of good wishes for him to take to the other side.—N. Y. Morning Advertiser.

The Stockton Races.

FIRST DAY—MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16.

The first day's racing at the park was not largely attended, but those present witnessed a fine event in the 2:40 trot. Many went to the track under the impression that no admission would be charged and were surprised when the gate-keeper presented his hand for tickets. The first race was not called till after 2 o'clock, but the band kept the spectators in good spirits with a large number of selections.

The event of the day was the 2:40 trot, which was won by Jasper Paulson, driven by Tom Keating in straight heats. He was not extended, as the others that started were out-classed. The talent had everything their own way, picking both races. May Jones won the five furlong dash, although many thought Nevere had a good show to win.

Jim Bozeman delayed the start in the five-furlong dash for twenty minutes. The horses were sent off at a fair start with Bozeman in the lead and Nevere second. It was a procession to the stretch, when May Jones, who had been under a pull, came up fast and won by a short length, Nevere second, the others several lengths behind. Time, 1:05.

After several scorings the six horses were sent off to a good start in the 2:40 trot with Peter Jackson in the lead. Jasper Paulson went to the front and was never headed. It was a procession to the half, with Paulson, Charivari and Peter Jackson leading with daylight between. Just after passing the half Theresa came up fast and passed Charivari and Peter Jackson, and was making Jasper Paulson extend himself, when she went in the air. Paulson went under the wire in a jog with Charivari second and Peter Jackson third. The others finished just inside of the flag. Time, 2:20½. Paris mutuels paid $3.10.

On the third event the word was given to a fair start, Rodriguez nodding to the judges to send them off, he being in the rear. Paulson repeated the first heat, but was crowned by Charivari to the stretch. Peter Jackson went up at the half and Edwina passed him. Down the stretch it was Paulson's heat easy, with Charivari a good second, Peter Jackson third, Edwina fourth and Theresa and Anita were outside when the flag fell. Time, 2:21. Mutuels paid $2.60.

The third heat decided the race. Paulson went out and won easily in 2:23. The others fought for second and third money. Edwina made a game finish and secured second place and second money from Peter Jackson, who was driven by a colored and was also coal black. Mutuels paid $2.60.

SECOND DAY—TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17.

Those who went to the track were well paid for their time and money. It was a Waterloo for the talent up to the final heats of both the 2:25 pace and the special race, when by judicious hedging they managed to regain part of the money they had put on the favorites. There was considerable grumbling over the harness races, both of which were heavily played. Birdroe looked like a good thing in the 2:25 pace, but dropped the third heat and was never in it again. Prince Nutwood was named as a winner in the special, but did not finish better than second.

The runners in the eleven sixteenths dash were sent off on the third break well bunched, with George L. in front. At the five-eighths and one-half the positions were George L., Ike L. and Faro. When they turned into the stretch Prince moved up to third place and Ike L. assumed the lead and came home in a gallop. George L. took second money and Regal third. The others were strung out. Harry Lewis bolted while going to the post and was not in the race. Time, 1:09½. The betting was light. Most of the money went into the box on Ike L. at $10 against the field for $7. Ike L. was barred just before going to the post and Lewis sold favorite at $5 against the field at $5.

The pacers went away on the sixth score to a fair start, with Birdroe in the lead, Ruby M. trailing her. They flashed past the quarter in this order: Birdroe, Ruby M., Dictatus, Estelle Wilkes and the others strung out. The half was passed in the same positions. At the head of the stretch it was Birdroe, Dictatus, Ruby M. and Welcome. Ruby M. moved up fast and was crowding the favorite, when she went off her feet and Birdroe finished first, with Ruby M. second, Welcome third. The others, with the exception of Katie H., who was distanced, were back. Time, 2:14½. The pools on this heat sold, Birdroe $20, Ruby M. $17 and the field $4. The mutuels paid $3.65.

The pacers were started on the second heat on the first attempt. Dictatus was taken to the front with a rush, opening up two lengths before passing the quarter. Birdroe was going easy two lengths behind the leader with Estelle a head to the good. The half was left behind with Dictatus still two lengths in the lead, the favorite moving up. They turned into the stretch with Dictatus only a short length in the lead, the mare coming fast on the outside. She passed the leader at the seven-eighths pole and came home an easy winner by two lengths, Dictatus in second place and Little Alph distanced. Time, 2:15½. Pools brought $10 to $8 on Birdroe against the field.

Ruby M. upset the talent in the third heat by winning it from Birdroe in 2:14½, Welcome third. No pools on this race or this heat. The short-end men cashed their mutuels for $5 and felt happy.

The judges were not satisfied with Baker's driving and took him down and put up Keating behind Birdroe, but he could not bring in the favorite first. Birdroe was turning fast coming down the stretch when Ruby M. collared her and Keating, in attempting to force the hay mare out, sent her off her feet and Ruby M. passed under the wire an open length ahead of the favorite in 2:14, the fastest heat of the race. Birdroe brought $20 against $10 for the field. The short enders got $9 for their Paris mutuels.

The last heat was contested from the time the pacers were given the word till they passed under the wire. Ruby M. was first and won first money, Welcome was second and got third money, Birdroe was third and was given second money, Dictatus finished fourth and was given fourth money. Time, 2:20½. Ruby M. brought $70 against $20 for the field.

The first heat of the special pace was a gift for Ketchum, the leading from wire to wire. The prettiest drive of the meeting was between Harvey Mc and Ella W. down the stretch. The judges called it a dead heat for second place and gave Prince Nutwood third place. Time, 2:16½. Pools: Ketchum $10, Prince Nutwood $7 and field $5.

Ketchum went off his feet on the turn in the second heat and Prince Nutwood took the lead, with Harvey Mc pushing him hard. They went on around the circuit to the head of the stretch when a battle royal took place between the leaders. It was anybody's heat but Durfee drove Harvey out by a short head on Sanders, though both horses were very tired. Ketchum took third place. Time, 2:15½. The pools sold Ketchum $10, field $5.

Ketchum took the third heat easily from Prince Nutwood and Harvey Mc. The latter horse passed Ketchum on the lower turn, but could not finish it. Harvey Mc sold for $10 and the field $5 in the big box. Time, 2:16½.

Before the horses reached the half-pole in the final heat Ketchum broke and the others left him about an eighth of a mile behind. He finally regained his feet, came on to the stretch with a rush, but could never have won the heat had not the other horses been very weary. Ketchum won the heat and first money, Harvey Mc second and second money, Prince Nutwood third and third money, and Ella W. fourth and fourth money. Time, 2:19.

THIRD DAY—WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18.

Everything broke better for [the talent to-day] at the race track. The crowd was larger than on the two previous days and considerable interest was shown in the harness events. The knowing ones all changed their minds and made Ethel Downs a favorite with John Bury a second choice. This was all that saved the talent from running up against a snag. Barcaldine upset all expectations by flashing past the judges first in the five furlong sprint. Ethel Downs won the 2:22 trot in good time and hard finishes. The 2:27 trot did not take place, as one of the starters could not pay up the entrance. Babe Marion landed the 2:25 pace after Agitato, one of the gamest two-year-olds that every trot a track, had taken the first heat.

Starter Brown dropped the flag on the sprinters in the five and one half furlong dash on the first break with all of them hunched and moving. Barcaldine showed in front at the half and at the head of the stretch, with Claire second. The others could have almost been covered with a blanket. The leader passed under the wire in 1:10. Regal came up with a rush and got second place, with Claire a good third. The betting was: Regal $10, Guadalupe $8, field $5. Mutuels were worth $11.65.

After several attempts the trotters in the 2:22 class were given the word to a fair start for a large field. Ethel Downs went to the front and kept the advantage to the wire. John Bury broke on the lower turn and finished second, Native State closed a lot of ground in the stretch and got the place. Time, 2:16½. Ethel Downs was favorite at $30, Bury second at $20, and the field $5.

Keating made a killing finish in the second heat after Ethel Downs broke while going around the upper turn and finished a short nose ahead of John Bury, with Native State third. The crowd did some loud cheering when the numbers appeared on the board. Time, 2:16½. The pools sold Ethel Downs $20, John Bury $8, field $2.

The owner of Our Seth had not paid his entrance and the judges declared the 2:27 trot off and the horses went to the stable.

In the last heat Melvar was withdrawn on account of lameness. The final was won easily by Ethel Downs, who took first money, Native State came in second and secured third money, John Bury was third and was awarded second money. Escort was given fourth money. Time, 2:15½.

The first heat of the 2:25 pace proved an exciting one, not only to the drivers, but the spectators and judges. Babe Marion led from wire to wire, but the judges decided that she should be last as she changed her position in the stretch after the horses had started out for home. Agitato made a bid for the heat about an eighth of a mile from home, but finished second to Babe Marion. The two-year-old was given the heat, Captain Hackett second, Alco third, Babe Marion fourth and May Nutford distanced. Time, 2:18. The pools on this heat were: Babe Marion $10, field $6, Alco $3.

There was a discussion over the second heat, but the horses were allowed the position in which they finished. The two-year-old paced a game race, but the odds were too heavy against her. Babe Marion won the heat, Agitato second, Captain Hackett third, and Alco distanced for running. Time, 2:20. The favorite sold for $10 against $6 for the field.

Much dissatisfaction was expressed over the outcome of the third heat. The starter called to the driver of Hackett to hold back, but the driver of both Hackett and Agitato understood him to say "come back." Both pulled up to a jog while Babe Marion went out with a rush for the heat. When the horses that had slowed down got moving almost an eighth of daylight showed between them and the leader. Captain Hackett chased the favorite out in 2:22, Agitato third. Pools sold $20 to $4 on the field and favorite.

The final heat looked such a sure thing that no pools were sold. Babe Marion went out and won it from the start, and was given first money. Captain Hackett got second place and third money. Agitato was third and took second money. Time, 2:23.

FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19.

With each passing day the success of the San Joaquin Agricultural Association Fair is increasing, both in the sport at the race track and in the displays at the pavilion.

At the track to-day the audience was double that of any previous day of the meeting and the people enjoyed the sport, though the sports did not, as the short-enders had the best of it nearly all day. In the three quarter-mile selling race Warrago was a favorite at $15 to $5 on the field, but Linville won in a gallop. In the special race the talent had picked Mojave as the winner, but Edwina took the first heat. Bettors switched to Edwina and Potrero took the second heat. Then they went to Potrero and he lost the heat to Gilpatrick. The latter was in the field and the field sold favorite until Mojave secured the next heat. Then the talent went to him with a rush, saying they always thought so, but rushed too strong, for Gilpatrick took the last two heats.

The four horses that went to the post in the three quarter selling race went off on the third break to a good start, with Linville in the lead and George L. second. These positions were maintained till the head of the stretch, when Warrago attempted to go to the front, but Linville finished first by a head, Warrago second, and George L. third. Time, 1:15.

Outsiders received $7.65 for their $2 mutuels.

The talent backing Gracie S. heavily in the six-furlong handicap, she went to the post a big favorite at $15 to $7 on Harry Lewis and $2 for the field. Starter Brown, who had remarkable luck, sent the sprinters off well bunched, Syndicate went to the front and set the pace to the head of the stretch, when Gracie S., who had been running under a pull, came out of the rut and won handily, with Syndicate second and Harry Lewis third. Time, 1:02½.

Tom Keating of sensational finish fame drove out another heat in the special trot. He appeared to be hopelessly beaten at the head of the stretch, but by a masterly drive managed to snatch victory in the last stride from Potrero, Gilpatrick third, Laura D. distanced. Time, 2:21½. The lucky ones got $8.35 for the mutuels.

The talent plunged on the second heat of the special race, playing Edwina to win at $20, the field $15 and Mojave $5. They were turned down, as the little mare broke on the stretch when she had the heat won. Potrero was first, Mojave second, Gilpatrick third and Edwina last. Time, 2:21. The mutuels paid $12.40.

In the third heat Mojave broke twice, and Edwina went to pieces just after turning the stretch. Gilpatrick came in first, Mojave second and Potrero third. A hard finish and a long discussion over the finish were the features of the fourth heat of the special. Mojave and Gilpatrick finished under the drive. The former went off his feet, but caught handily and won the heat by the shortest kind of a nose from Gilpatrick. Potrero was third and Edwina was declared distanced for running. Time, 2:19.

Gilpatrick upset things by reaching the wire first in 2:21½ in the fifth heat, and had it all the way around in the sixth. Time, 2:24. Mojave took the second part of the purse and Potrero the third.

The district trot had three entries—Lady Vestal, Mariposa and Jasper Ayres. The race was taken by the last named in straight heats. Best time, 2:19.

To-morrow will be a busy day at the track, seven events being scheduled. They are the half mile and repeat, the one and one-quarter handicap hurdle race, with Guadalupe, Onti Ora, Barcaldine and Huguenot entered, the 2:23 and the 2:19 pace, and the 2:27 trot. Besides these there are two special races, one for gentlemen drivers for a lot in Escalon, and the other known as the Butchers' driving race, to settle a dispute between local butchers.

The crowds at the pavilion fill the great building nightly and the displays are now all in place, making an excellent showing. To-night the people were delighted with the concert of the Torbett Company, and the attraction will be the same to-morrow night. The band concert follows the Torbett Company and dancing is permitted until a late hour, one wing of the gallery being set aside for the dancers.

Following are the summaries of to-days races:

Santa Monica Races, 1895.

The sixth annual races at Santa Monica took place on September 9th and 10th. These races have always been carried on by voluntary contributions, as the track—which was built on the same plan—is not enclosed.

The programme is varied, consisting of pony races, races for big horses and trotting races. On this occasion no trotting race was included. From 1,500 to 2,000 people attended on each day, and most of the finishes were close.

The track is undoubtedly very slow on account of the steep grade from the quarter-pole to the three-quarters, though the footing is good enough.

The first race resulted in a great surprise, as Jack Pot, carrying 150 pounds, beat the favorite Wonder in the polo pony maiden half-mile race by a short head in 0:56. If Wonder, who started on the outside, and was two lengths ahead at the quarter, had then taken the pole he would have won.

The next race was three-quarters of a mile for ponies (a handicap). Charley Weber was on Lady Jane Grey, and she consequently had a good many followers; but she was not in it after a quarter had been run, nor indeed were any of the others except Kittiwake and Santa Clara (in the same stable) who went out in front and made a race of it, the latter winning with something to spare in 1:25½, carrying 135 pounds.

A great betting race followed. This was a mile for horses at ten pounds above scale. All had dropped out except the Spanish horses, Sleepy Charley and Pavilion, and W. P. Weber's Hello ridden by Charley Weber.

There was a big plunge on Sleepy Charlie, a winner here last year.

Pavilion led off with Hello trailing. At the half Hello began to move up but Pavilion was still in front. At the distance the latter opened out to let his stable companion through, but Sleepy Charlie was done and Hello came with a good run. If Pavilion could have been got going again he would have won. As it was, Hello just got the verdict. The time was 1:50½.

Pavilion is a pretty good maiden by St. David, out of a Hock Hocking mare and is therefore very in-bred.

A race for ponies at half a mile, 155 pounds top weight, close the day's proceedings, and was easily won by Geronimo in 0:55½, with John Day Zin second and Little Belle third. There were two good races on the 10th namely, the one-quarter mile and repeat for ponies and the one mile galloway race.

In the former there were six starters all close together on form. In the first heat Wonder, who had got off badly, was seen working his way through when they struck the stretch, and after a good race with Little Billee (who did a good deal of bumping) he eventually won by about a length in 0:25½, carrying 140 pounds.

In the second heat he had a better send off, and the pole, but Si (last year's winner) pushed him hard. Si, however, failed to catch him, this deciding heat being also done in 0:25½.

Some interest was manifested in the Galloway race as to whether San Joaquin, a race horse of some repute, could give the ponies Santa Clara and Kittiwake 35 pounds in a mile. All the others were scratched. The ponies started favorites and went out in front to cut out the pace. San Joaquin carried 175 and the ponies 140 pounds each.

It looked anybody's race when they turned into the stretch, and after an exciting finish San Joaquin managed to get up, beating Santa Clara by a very small margin, with Kittiwake lapped on the latter. Time, 1:58.

Geronimo beat Johnny Woods in a match at five-eighths rather easily. This is a good and improving pony. If he does not grow too big, he will be able to go against the cracks next year.

In a three-quarters, for non-winners, Little Belle won easily from John Day Zin and Lady Jane Grey.

The judges were Messrs. W. E. Pedley, W. Parker and M. G. Bolton. Mr. W. Russell Ward was handicapper and Mr. E. Ryan starter.

IMP. CLIEVEDEN (full brother to Chester, Roodee and St. George) is at the Merriwa Stock Farm. His progeny are doing so remarkably well in Australia and New Zealand that he may be sent back, as there is a general desire among the most progressive horsemen there breed to him. Clieveden is the strongest bred "Eclipse horse" ever landed in America. As an individual he is a horse of magnificent proportions. His colts and fillies at Santa Anita are all slashing big, racy-looking youngsters and are considered by competent judges to be the best ever bred there.

HORSES raised by Charles Kerr, of Bakersfield, won two grand races at Oakley last Thursday. Olive, by Apache—Virgie, won a mile race in 1:42, while Mobalaska, by Apache—Tricksey, won the Pearl Stakes, six furlongs, in 1:14½, the track record at the distance for two-year-olds. Both were owned by Ed Corrigan and were ridden by Marty Bergen.

A TELEGRAM was received Thursday night stating that Judge Morrow, St. Anthony and two other timber toppers were on their way to California. Judge Morrow, it will be remembered, was quite a race horse on the flat, and captured the Brooklyn handicap one year.

Galesburg Goes Down.

We regret to see that Mr. Williams has been compelled to abandon his Galesburg meeting. It was a very bold undertaking to attempt to hold a meeting of such duration at a town no larger than Galesburg, especially with betting prohibited. At the time when the meeting was announced, it was not, however, definitely determined that betting would not be allowed. Pool-selling was permitted for one day, but the authorities interfered and Mr. Williams was compelled to announce that the meeting would proceed without betting. During the first few days of the meeting he paid out $41,000 in purses and collected but $650 at the gate. Unless the entrance money filled the purses it would of course be impossible to continue this business very long. It is stated that the entrance fees did not fill the purses and the inevitable occurred, the races not trotted being declared off.

Mr. Williams has the energy, the enterprise and the executive capacity to make a very successful track manager. It is probable that at both Independence and Galesburg he attempted too much with too slender resources. To carry on the business on the gigantic scale upon which he attempted to conduct it, it is necessary to be at or very near some great center of population. The same ability expended near some city like Chicago, for example, with sufficient financial resources and under favorable circumstances, would have been rewarded with abundant success.

With betting permitted by law, the Galesburg track would have drawn thousands of people from Chicago, but with betting prohibited and with the consequent necessity of relying upon an agricultural population for gate money, it was a foregone conclusion that the meeting must fail.

We hope Mr. Williams' next venture will be in a field where he can have an opportunity to exercise his exceptional abilities. With his ambitious views and vast energy a track in a community of moderate population will always prove insufficient.—Stock Farm.

THE betting question in New York is still discussed, though it is impossible to see how it can be altered. When the agricultural societies find that the revenue derived from the racing and trotting associations, is a mere nothing compared to what it was under the lves law, they may bring pressure to bear upon their members to reduce the pains and penalties in the Percy bill, though it is exceedingly doubtful whether it would be good policy to attempt to tinker at that measure. Before that is done a strong and healthy public sentiment must be created in the various counties of the State, and it looks as if it was a formative stage now. With many tracks closed, and the majority of the trotting meetings conducted at a loss, the local markets up the State must be more or less affected adversely to the farmer. Twenty years is a long time to wait for a radical change, but in a year or two something may be done to ameliorate the present law.

BEN TIMMONS arrived Thursday afternoon with a string of ten belonging to Burns & Waterhouse. These include the horses that were East, except Loydal, who has since been turned over to Ab Stemler. Sam Leake, Princess Noreita and Duchess of Towers should secure winning brackets before the first week is over. Lucky Dog will doubtless be reserved for a muddy track, while Fanny Louise is a little out of form judging by her races at Sacramento.

CALIFORNIA-BRED two-year-olds ran one-two-three in a five and one-half furlong race at Oakley, O., last Thursday. Ramiro, by Gano—Cuban Queen, won, Don Carillo, by imp. Mariner—Sunlit, was second, and Sir Play, by Sir Modred, was third. The time, 1:07¾, was very fast.

BAYARD WILKES, 2:13¾, brother to Bertha (dam of Diablo, 2:09½, Elf, 2:22½ and Jay Eff Bee, 2:26½), by Alcantara, 2:23, had another addition to his list. One of his daughters Beatrice got a record of 2:25½ at Lewiston, Maine, September 3.

LARI, a camel in West Australia, recently carried a man on his back and traveled 110 miles in sixteen hours over a wild country. This is an average speed of nearly seven miles an hour.

SIR EXCESS, by Sir Modred, won a mile and a furlong race at Gravesend last Thursday in 1:56, Belman second and Leonawell third.

SINCE the totalisator was re-legalized in South Australia £2,176 has been distributed among the charities by one club alone.

THE Maxim filly Freda fell at Caulfield and hurt herself so badly that it is feared she may have to be destroyed.

YOUNG WILDIDLE, 2:25, by Electioneer lowered his record to 2:24½ at White River Junction, September 2d.

CHAS. HENRY LAWRENCE, Tex., writes: Send me large bottle "Absorbine" at once, as I am in great need of it, knowing by experience its great merit.

F. L. Coventry, Utica, N. Y., says: Send me another bottle of your excellent "Absorbine."

THE SULKY.

THE Wilkes family leads all others in the 2:10 list.

LA BELLE, 2:16, has been sent to her home in Los Angeles.

It is said that $10,000 has been offered for Lynne Bel, 2:11½.

MANDOLIN, by Chimes got a record pacing of 2:16 at Louisville, Sept. 10.

UNLESS there are some changes there will be no Grand Circuit in 1896.

THREE times has Azote reduced the trotting record for geldings this year.

LEA, 2:22½, by Sidney, lowered her record to 2:18½ at Columbus, O., September 9th.

SENATE, a bay horse by Sphinx, got a record of 2:20½ at Detroit, Mich., September 6th.

MONROE SALISBURY says that another year his string will be made up of a very select few.

GUY WILKES, 2:15½, leads all California stallions this year in the number he has in the 2:30 list.

WHEN a man wins in a fluke, you can't convince him that he hasn't played the best horse in the race.

THE 2:30 list which appears in another page shows that the Californians are not in the shade this year.

KETCHUM, 2:17, by Gossiper, lowered his record to 2:16½ in the third heat of a race at Stockton Tuesday.

AZMON, by Azmoor has a record of 2:19 made in the third heat of a race he won at Saugus, Mass., Sept. 13th.

A REPRESENTATIVE from the Horse Show Association is busy at the fairs getting entries for the coming show.

IT is said that Wm. Corbitt, of the San Mateo Stock Farm will sell all his campaigners in New York this winter.

HARVEY MC, 2:18, by McKinney, 2:11½, lowered his record to 2:14½ at Stockton, Tuesday. He is a very promising three-year-old.

PEEP O' DAY, by Dawn, was in a race at Cleveland Sept. 7th; he got third money. The time of the heats was 2:18½, 2:19, 2:17½.

HILIGO, a bay mare, by Anteeo got a record of 2:28½ in the fourth heat of a race she won at Franklin, Kentucky, August 29th.

THE principal topic among the polo managers is the great game of polo they are to play at the fall meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. A.

LEA, 2:18½, by Sidney, is very sick at Columbus. A dispatch from there Wednesday night states that she is not expected to recover.

THE postponement of the races at the Bay District from Tuesday until to-day, helped increase the attendance at the Stockton track.

By the arrangement in regard to the duration of the winter race meetings at San Francisco, the State and county fairs of 1896 will be greatly benefitted.

A LARGE number of horses were sent from Agricultural Park, Sacramento, to San Jose, and the meeting at the latter-named place promises to be a splendid one.

FRANK FRAZIER, the owner of Chehalis, 2:09½, is willing to wager any amount of money that he can drive his horse a mile in 2:12 with one hand tied behind his back.

MONROE SALISBURY has consigned a number of horses comprising his racing stable to W. B. Fasig & Co.'s great speed sale which will take place in New York, November 20th.

W. R. JANVIER's fast colt Potential, by Prodigal, out of Helen T., sister of Arion, was working well for Richard Curtis, but was hurt in shipment some weeks ago and is now in the hospital.

FRED KOHL, by Guy Wilkes, won a good race at Belmont Park, Philadelphia, September, defeating the famous Larabie and Menlo Princess in three straight heats. Time, 2:18½, 2:14½ and 2:16½.

JOHN MACKAY, superintendent of Rancho del Paso, will soon have a consignment of grandly-bred trotters, ready to be sold. There never was a better-looking or better-bred lot on the farm than at present.

PHOEBE WILKES, 2:08½, who has been sick all season, is rounding to. She was given five work-out miles at Philadelphia last week, showing quarters in 32 seconds, a half in 1:04½, and miles in 2:12½, 2:14.

ALL the horses belonging to the estate of A. Heilbron were not sold at Sacramento, the reason being that it rained on the day advertised, and the following day the running races kept everybody interested.

THE colts and fillies by Advertiser are the most uniform in appearance and color of any ever seen on the Palo Alto Stock Farm. There will be some records broken when these youngsters are properly handled.

L. L. D., 2:24½, is pacing this year, and at Galesburg, Ill. on September 2d he got a record of 2:15½. L. L. D. is a full brother to the grand-looking and game-trotting stallion Knight, 2:22, belonging to Rancho del Paso.

ETHEL DOWNES won a good race at Stockton Wednesday, and lowered her record to 2:15½ in the third heat. She will be in the free-for-all class before the circuit ends if she keeps on.

NIGHTINGALE, 2:09½, by Mambrino King, dam Minnequa Maid, by Wood's Hambletonian, is now the fastest trotter by a son of Mambrino Patchen, and is, after Alix, the fastest descended from Mambrino Chief in direct male line.

THERE is considerable activity among the officials having charge of the coming horse show. We understand the list of prizes is increasing every day; the collection already surpasses anything of the kind ever seen in the United States.

ONE world's record fell Wednesday, September 4th, at the Galesburg, Ill., races. Judge Hurt, the fast three-year-old colt of the Lone Star State, won the opening heat in the 2:15 class, pacing, in 2:09½, which beats Whirligig's Terre Haute record of 2:10.

THE colt Day Bell, by Palo Alto, out of Beautiful Bells, now a three-year-old, which Ed. A. Maneil secured at a Madison Square Garden sale last year for $5,500, is stepping very fast under the careful handling of the Springfield trainer, W. A. Baggs.

THE dam of the fast pacer, Be Sure (4), 2:06½, was by old Smuggler. Smuggler was forced to trot all his life in weights that would hold any horse to the earth to-day. Be Sure was bred by a lady, Mrs. Conkling, of Mechanicsburg, O., and is still owned by her.

THE equal of Nightingale as a campaigner has not been seen. She has been raced since she was a two-year-old, and now at ten years of age she is better than ever before, as is shown by her performance at Fleetwood last week, where she reduced her record to 2:09½.

SHOULD anyone of our readers who has capital desire to associate themselves with a man of experience to start a stock farm, or engage a man of rare ability as superintendent, they will do well to address veterinary superintendent as appears in advertisement columns.

ALCIDALIA lowered her record to 2:20 at Worcester, Mass., defeating the Electioneer stallion Pedlar, which took the first heat and lowered his record to 2:21½. She is entered in the $5,000 2:30 stake at the New England Breeders meeting, where she will meet Larabie, 2:12½.

THE well-known driver, William Kelly (Geyser), died September 2nd, in New York city. Kelly was one of Dan Mace's boys at the same time as "Knap" McCarthy, Ike Fleming, Johnny Murphy and others, who were graduated from the rub rag in Mace's stable to the sulky.

BABE MARION, a three-year-old by Steinway, out of Ida Wood, by Simmons, is gradually becoming a fast pacer. At Stockton last Wednesday she won a race in 2:20, 2:22 and 2:23. In the same race Agitato, 2:18½, another Steinway, lowered her record to 2:18. Pretty good for a two-year-old.

A HALF interest in Fannie Foley, the phenomenal yearling who went a half-mile at Springfield, O., last week in 1:09, breaking the world's record, was sold to John D. Rockefeller, the Standard Oil magnate, for $2,500 by the owner, James Clark. Rockefeller wanted to buy the animal outright, but Clark would not sell. It is said Fannie Foley made a half this week in 1:06½. She is by Redwood, 2:21½, son of Anteeo, 2:16½, that was bred and owned by A. McFadyen, of Santa Rosa, Cal.

KLAMATH has trotted 117 winning heats in 2:30 or better. This season he has won about $6,000. His quality as a race horse has never been questioned. Whenever he has been beaten it has been because he could not win. He has, however, suffered but two defeats this year, and one of them was inflicted by Benzetta, 2:06½. There is probably no trotter on the track that has trotted as many winning heats, and a large number of these have been below 2:20 and not a few below 2:12.

OVER 20,000 people crowded the grand stand and filled the place along the track at the State Fair Park, Milwaukee, last Wednesday, to see the great race between Joe Patchen, John R. Gentry and Vera Capel. The race was for a purse of $3,000, and was won by John R. Gentry in three straight heats with apparent ease. The third heat was a great disappointment to the crowd, as Curry had announced that he would try to break the record in this heat. Right after the horses had passed under the wire Patchen went off his feet and fell about a sixteenth of a mile behind. The handicap was too much for him to overcome, and Gentry won easily. Time, 2:05½, 2:05½, 2:07.

FOR over eighteen years J. W. Morshead has had a stable on the city front where all the horses and cattle shipped to and from this city have been cared for. The reputation achieved from integrity and through business methods by these gentlemen has brought an increase in his business. He recently moved into one of the finest, largest, best fitted up and best ventilated brick stables in this State. It covers a lot 100x150, is four stories high, contains 125 wide stalls and has room for over three hundred vehicles. This stable is situated at 20 Clay street. Mr. Morshead has his son associated with him now in business at this place, and for handling live stock or for taking care of horses we take pleasure in recommending this firm.

MR. WM. H. MOODY's two-year-old filly Adwild is a little the handsomest piece of equine goods that we have seen this season. She is in trainer Nevens' string now at Mystic Park, who believes that she is the coming trotting queen. She has a remarkably rich trotting inheritance. Her sire, Advertiser, 2:15½, is by Electioneer, out of Lula Wilkes, by George Wilkes, 2:22, and Lula Wilkes' dam was Lula, 2:15, by Alexander's Norman. Adwild's dam is Wildmont, which took a three-year-old record of 2:27½, and is by Piedmont, 2:17½. The dam of Wildmont was Wildflower (2), 2:21, the world's champion two-year-old trotter of her day, by Electioneer. Wildflower's dam was Mayflower, 2:30½, by St. Clair. Mayflower was also the dam of Manzanita (4), 2:16.—Horse Breeder.

BINGEN, who set the New England two-year-old record at 2:20½ at Lewiston, Me., last Friday, is one of the most "trotting-bred trotters" in the world. His sire is May King, 2:20, son of Electioneer, and the famous old race mare May Queen, 2:20. His dam is Young Miss, by Young Jim, grandam Miss Mambrino, by Red Wilkes; third dam Miss Clark, by Alvin, son of Almont; fourth dam Kate, by Clark Chief; fifth dam Lida (thoroughbred), by Vandal.

THE State Board of Agriculture at Springfield, Illinois, has just closed for the appearance next week at the Illinois State Fair of the celebrated race horses Azote and Alix. They will be raced against the world's record. Azote will make an attempt to lower that record on Wednesday afternoon of next week, while Alix will be sent against the record on Friday afternoon. Special purses will be given should either horse lower the record, and purses will be given if the record is equalled.

THE Bourbon Wilkes stallion Tilford, 2:17½, owned by D. H. Moore, Athens, O., recently established a remarkable record as a variety performer. At Point Pleasant, W. Va., Aug. 10th, he trotted the two fastest heats ever trotted over the track there, in a race with Marquette. On the 22d he was started in a pacing race against five horses over the Athens half-mile track, and won in straight heats in 2:24½, 2:24½ and 2:24½. His shoes were not changed between the two races and he did not wear hobbles in either.

THERE was a rumor afloat at Buffalo, August 13, that in order to draw a crowd C. J. Hamlin had arranged with Monroe Salisbury for a big race, in which each was to drive his own horse. When the report was sifted down it was found to have originated in one of the bluff Californian's jokes. In talking about the slim attendance, Monroe said to Cicero: "It would be a good scheme for us to drive our horses. A big crowd would come to see the race, hoping that one or both of us would break our necks. You know how many enemies we have, Cicero." Such an exhibition would undoubtedly draw a crowd.

IN the free-for-all trot on August 28, and in his trial against time August 31st, Azote wore only six-ounce front shoes, and three and a half ounces behind. August 28th a new twenty-six pound Caffrey sulky came to hand, made according to Mr. Salisbury's latest ideas on the sulky question, and Azote won his race in 2:09½, 2:05½, 2:07, August 28th, and went his last trial August 31st with this sulky. As Andrew McDowell had gone to Toledo with Alix, Myron McHenry drove Azote August 31st for the first time. Dr. Alfred Walton's ozone oxygen was administered to Azote on August 28th between heats. He was cooled out and came for the word each time in as fine condition, apparently, as if he had just come out of the stable for a single heat.

AZOTE, 2:04½, is the third trotter to take a record below 2:05, and just at present he seems to be the only one with a chance of placing the world's record below the 2:03½ now at the head of the list. The big bay gelding seems to be improving constantly, and, although he did not trot as fast at Galesburg as some of his admirers expected to see him, it is quite possible that in a couple of weeks he will be in shape to clip more than a second from his present record. Should he do so, it is to be hoped that he will be hooked to a high-wheel sulky and he allowed to take a shy at the 2:03½ which Maud S. scored to such a vehicle. Should the son of Whips succeed in beating that record it is quite probable that the coterie of cranks who have long claimed that the feat would never be accomplished, would refuse to acknowledge the merit of his performance, unless it should be accomplished over the Cleveland track where Maud S. made her record. The parties referred to should also insist that Azote be driven on the same day of the month and week, the same hour of the day, and to a sulky painted the same color as the one the daughter of Harold drew. Even then something else would be discovered to show that the old-time champion's performance was the best on record.—Horse World.

ALTAMONT, 2:26½, by Almont, has joined the list of sires having three 2:10 performers each to their credit. Altamont's three are the pacers Doc Sperry, 2:09; Pathmont, 2:09½, and Chehalis, 2:09½. Besides these 2:10 performers Altamont is also represented by Altai, 2:10½, Touchet, 2:13, and Del Norte, 2:14½, while the sensational Klamath, 2:08½, was sired by one of his sons. Altamont was bred in Kentucky, and when a youngster was brought and taken to Oregon by Jay Beach, a Pacific Coast breeder who relied a great deal on individuality as denoting the worth of a horse. The older breeders will remember the many sound articles on the breeding question by Mr. Beach in Wallace's Monthly, and whenever Altamont was mentioned his good individuality was the principal claim made for him. After going to Oregon, Altamont made a record of 2:26½ to wagon, and although his opportunities were not of the best, from obvious reasons he has sired speed with rare uniformity and his performers are of a quality superior to those sired by any other son of Almont. His long list of performers, seven of which are in the 2:15 list and three in the 2:10 list, attest his merit as a sire, and that his superior individuality may have had much to do with his success in the stud is quite likely, for Trouble, an own brother to Altamont, that once stood in New York, has proved an absolute failure as a sire.

IT is a little remarkable that after Alcyone has been dead so many years, the members of his family should still keep entering the list about as freely as those of his brother, Alcantara, says Iconoclast. This year each of the brothers has thus far contributed five new ones. Alcyone died in 1887. The youngest of his get are therefore at least seven years of age. The fastest of his new ones is Star Alcyone, 2:14½, the fastest of Alcantara's new ones is Leonatus, 2:17½. It is somewhat singular also to observe the number of stallions that have exactly six new ones to their credit. These are Baron Wilkes, C. F. Clay, Dumas and Wilton. Pilot Medium and Guy Wilkes have seven each. Onward eight and Red Wilkes leads them all with ten. These facts are, however, rather more curious than important. In the first place they are not sure indications of the relative positions of the horses at the close of the season and then very much less stress is now laid upon mere numbers than in the halcyon days of the 2:30 tin-cup performer. It is a decided pleasure to be relieved from the fierce competitions of those years and from the senseless scramble to get horses in the 2:30 list. The stallion owners that were then in the wild rush for 2:30 records must now experience a delightful sense of repose. Let us fondly hope that the methods of those times are gone never to return. They are among the dead things that we would not recall.

THE SADDLE.

McLIGHT is one of the most improved horses in training in this vicinity.

WE understand Johnny Humphrey will have the field hook privilege at the California Jockey Club meeting.

THE Elmwood Stock Farm heads the "winning owners" list by a considerable margin at the State Fair meeting.

LOVDAL has been turned back into the hands of Ab Stemler, who did splendidly with the horse last fall and winter.

RICHARD HAVEY has been appointed patrol judge at Bay District track, the position so long occupied by Sam Morton.

ALVARADO, a two-year-old colt by Amigo—Santa Margarita, won a four and one-half furlong race at Windsor in 0:55.

HANDSOME, Ed Corrigan's Hanover colt, won a six-furlong race at Oakley last Tuesday in 1:13½. Paul Pry was second and Overella third.

BERNARDO was started twice at the State Fair meeting and won on both occasions. The same can be said of Palomita and Bright Phoenix.

FLORA E., a mare that ran here and at Oakland two years ago last spring, won a half-mile heat race at Omaha last Tuesday. Her best time was 0:49½.

C. HUGHES, who was training for C. H. Smith, has left that gentleman's employ, and W. Hueston, who recently left Ed. Corrigan, will train the string.

In the first race at Windsor last Monday Le Pros Lyon fell at the last turn, rolled on Jockey Ream and injured him so badly that he died an hour later.

THE win of Tim Murphy of the last race the last day of the State Fair meeting was a most popular one. White & Clark have been playing in hard luck.

In the list of entries at Santa Ana the following were omitted: Bell Oak in one-half mile dash for two-year-olds and Red Dick in one-half mile and repeat.

W. S. HOBART recently purchased the fast polo mare Lady Greensleeves from Mr. Bettner after she had defeated Comanche, one of the best ponies in the United States.

GEORGE F. SMITH won a five-furlong race at Windsor last Wednesday in 1:01½. This is the horse that made a new coast record here at five-eighths last winter—0:59.

LADY DIAMOND, of the Baldwin string, won at five and a half furlongs last Monday at Windsor, doing the distance in 1:08. Metropole finished second and Warren Leland third.

REQUITAL's fractional time in the Flatbush Stakes, seven furlongs, was 0:12, 0:24, 0:36, 0:48, 1:00, 1:13, 1:26. It will be noted that he went every furlong up to and including the fifth in 0:12.

JOE COURTNEY, the nine-year-old son of Joe Hooker and Abbey, won a mile race at the Nebraska State Fair, Omaha, last Monday. Berwyn was second and Capt. Hardy third, and the time 1:45½.

LUCRETIA BORGIA can in all probability beat any two-year-old in training in California—at seven furlongs or a mile. Her win of the Autumn Handicap at Sacramento was one of the easiest of the entire meeting.

THELMA, by John Happy—Pansy, holds the six-furlong Coast record jointly with Charmion and Ducat. She carried 107 lbs. and ran it over Bay District track in this time. We left it out of our table of Coast records by mistake.

COL. JACK CHINN says he has sold his interest in the Kentucky Stable to George Morgan, his old partner, and the latter subsequently sold all the horses to a son of his (Chinn's). Jim Flood and Ingomar are in great form just now.

SAM SUMMERFIELD and John T. Minor have dissolved partnership. A recent arrival from Chicago states that neither party will come out and book this winter if there is a race track war, and hundreds of betting men feel the same way.

GEORGE ROSE, the official bookmaker at the State Fair, is reported on good authority to have quit well ahead on the Sacramento meeting, notwithstanding he gave $16,100 for the privilege, all told, and was hit pretty hard on several races.

THE Messrs. Boots last Saturday concluded not to accept the $50,000 offered by a young capitalist for their grand young sire, imp. Brutus. They came to the conclusion that they could sell his colts and make more money than this large sum, even.

BEN BRUSH won the Holly Handicap at Gravesend last Tuesday, Margrave finishing second and Crescendo third. Time, 1:01½. At this writing we do not know what the weights were. Twice Ben Brush has beaten Crescendo, while Requitel has beaten him on three occasions.

THE MALLARD, now in the stud at Kapapala Ranch, Kau, Hawaii, has been bred to seven mares. His foreleg, that was weak, is now as strong as iron, and the superintendent, Mr. Monsarrat, writes us that he believes the horse, if trained, would run better than he ever did in his life.

BARNEY SCHREIBER will ship his first consignment of horses to California on the 1st of next month. The second string will be sent about October 15th, and Schreiber will also leave about the same time. Schreiber will have even a better string than he had out here last winter.

W. C. DALY says he will take his stable and his two jockeys, Keefe and Sheedy, to San Francisco this winter. Daly recently bought from Mr. Belmont the three-year-old Firebrand, by St. Blaise, dam Feu Follet, and from M. F. Dwyer the three-year-old colt by St. Blaise, dam Lady Primrose.

IKE L., with 105 pounds up, easily won the handicap, five and a half furlongs, at Stockton on Tuesday. George L. was second and Regal third and the time 1:09½.

SALVATOR, Tenny, imp. Midlothian, imp. Watercress and imp. Goldfinch were exhibited on the Sacramento track last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. For substance, the great essential in a stallion, our choice of the lot would be Watercress and Tenny, and if they do not prove great sires we much miss our guess.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY CULLEN announced last Monday that it is now a certainty that both the outside and inside tracks at Ingleside will be ready for racing by November 1st. The inside track will be covered with sand, and is especially constructed for the wet weather. The outside track, which is a mile in circumference, will be covered with black loam, and should be very fast.

IMP. WATERCRESS, the big, handsome brown stallion exhibited at the State Fair last week, is by Springfield (son of St. Albans, by Stockwell), from Wharfdale, by Hermit; second dam Bonnie Doon (half-sister to Blink Bonnie and Bonnie Scotland), by Rapid Rhone; third dam the wonderful Queen Mary, by Gladitator. This is the female line most sought after in England now.

JAMES B. CLAY, the grandson of Henry Clay, and one of Fayette County's most prominent breeders of thoroughbred horses, made an assignment last Tuesday afternoon at Lexington, Ky., to Banker J. Will Sayre. The liabilities or assets are not known. Mr. Clay owns the stallion Chance and Vocalic, besides a number of richly-bred broodmares. His farm is known as the Iroquois stud.

IN New Zealand during the past year, where the totalisator (French mutuels) is the recognized mode of betting, seven winners each paid $500 and upward. Of these, one, Martinia, paid $795, and another, Minnie II., paid $735. The winnings were on £1 tickets. The largest paying $5 mutuels in this country were Nickajack, at Jerome Park, in 1872, $1,178, and Wapakonita, at Saratoga, in 1882, $1,080.80.

THE new inside course at Bay District is nearing completion. When finished the California Jockey Club will have three excellent and distinct tracks. Considerable whitewashing has been done and some needed changes made in the grand stands. The inside course, to be used during the rainy season, will be made with a view to thoroughly draining it, so that it will be a model winter race course.

LAST Monday morning Ohivesa, the Palo Alto-bred gelding, foaled 1890, by Argyle, dam imp. Amalia, by English Salvator, was shot at Bay District track, he being afflicted with big head. Ohivesa was quite a good racer, and was sold by Matt Green to Pat Dunne last winter for $2,000. Later Dunne disposed of the animal to White & Clark for $1,200, as the former did not have room on the car he was sending to Memphis.

THE race for the Doncaster Cup, worth £600, September 13th, was won by Capt. Machel's brown horse Kilsallaghan, five years old, by Brown Prince, out of Gipsy. Mr. Lowther's Houndsditch was second and L. Brassey's Pride third. Four horses ran. Brown Prince, sire of the winner, is a brown horse, foaled at A. J. Alexander's Woodburn Stud, near Lexington, Ky., in 1874, by Lexington, from imp. Britannia, by The Flying Dutchman.

AT the beginning of the meeting on Tuesday, September 10th, the Great Yorkshire Handicap Plate of 1,300 sovereigns, for three-year-olds and upwards, over the St. Leger course, (one mile six furlongs and one hundred and thirty-two yards), was won by Mr. A. Taylor's chestnut colt Bard of Avon, 4, by Exile II, out of La Trappe; Mr. E. Bonner's chestnut horse Merrywise, 3, by Wisdom, out of Gaiety, was second, and Mr. A. D. Cochrane's bay horse Egerton, 5, by Hampton, out of Pompeia, was third.

HENRY OF NAVARRE again proved himself the champion race horse of America last Tuesday when he won the mile and a quarter special at Gravesend from Clifford, Sir Walter, Rey El Santa Anita and Domino, who finished in the order named, the time being 2:09. Sir Walter led at the mile, then Navarre was given his head, and won by several lengths, Clifford by dint of hard driving beating Sir Walter for the place. Domino quit when he had gone a little over six furlongs. Griffin rode the winner.

THE recent ruling of the Jockey Club reinstating owners, trainers and jockeys who have raced on outlawed tracks, exclusive of such as have been ruled off for fraud, has provoked considerable discussion. While it hardly seems fair to the men who at great personal sacrifice remained faithful to the Jockey Club, yet there are two sides to the question. During the past winter the outlook for racing in New York State was very doubtful indeed, and owners could scarcely be blamed, under the circumstances, for trying to pick up a living elsewhere. It was no doubt this view of the case that influenced the Jockey Club to exercise clemency in this particular instance.—Spirit of the Times.

W. M. MURRY, of Sacramento, owner of Three Cheers, was much elated over the success of his horses in the show ring at the State Fair. In all they took six first premiums, five seconds and the gold medal for the best display of thoroughbreds. Three Cheers and nine youngsters took the last-named prize. Jessie C., by Bishop, and two colts won first premium, likewise the Morello suckling filly out of Miss Pickwick, Rey del Bandidos among the two-year-olds colts, also Circe for the three-year-old mare. The Islington—Miss Pickwick suckling colt won second premium in his class. The showing is one that Murry can well be proud of.

J. MONSARRAT, of Kapapala Ranch, Kau, Hawaii, sends the following list of Hawaiian names to us. Some are very pretty: Alii, regal, of royal blood, king prince, etc. (This name would suit a Dexter Prince); Nive, Chili pepper; Kanani, beautiful, lively, etc.; Maile, a highly-scented Hawaiian evergreen; Pipili, sticky, hard to get rid of (stays with you); Hauwela, hot iron, red hot; Wiana, piano; Pwaloki, rose, or rosebud; Ilikini, indian; Uwela, electricity; Moi, king; Kilawea, name of the greatest active volcano; Ke Au Hou, new enterprise; Lunamakaaiana, representative; Manukohala, pheasant; Kuikahikili, thunderbolt. I give below the vowel sounds. If you study them for a minute I am sure you will be able to get the hang of it: R (Hawaiian), A; A, E; E, I; O, o; Ou, w.

CAPT. SKEDANCE, one of A. B. Spreckels' string, is a good race horse. The ease with which he defeated Icar Guard and Nebuchadnezzar on Saturday by many lengths shows just how good he is now. Imp. Candid made McLight stretch his neck too, and Gallant is fast rounding to.

THE California Jockey Club meeting was postponed four days this week, owing to few of the horses getting down from Sacramento. The entries secured were few in number and of a poor class, hence the action of the club. A trainload of flyers arrived from the Capital City last Thursday. The disappointment over the postponement felt by bookmakers, some horsemen and race-goers in general was intense.

A LONDON dispatch of September 11 says: Lord Rosbery's bay colt, Sir Visto, by Barcadine, the winner of this year's Derby, won the St. Leger stakes at Doncaster to-day. W. M. G. Singer's chestnut colt, Telescope, by Tyrant, was second, and Mrs. L. Brassey's bay filly, Butterfly, by Hampton, was third. Eleven horses ran. The betting just before the start was 9 to 4 on Sir Visto, 1,000 to 35 on Telescope, and 8 to 1 vs Butterfly. The distance was six furlongs and 132 yards, and there were 202 subscribers.

A WRITER in an English paper says: "After making observations for some time, I have come to the conclusion that jockeys occasionally get off form, the same as horses do. When a rider, however fashionable he may be, has had, say a dozen consecutive losing mounts on horses that on paper seemed to have good chances, he should take a rest for at least a fortnight. It is the same in riding races as in shooting or playing billiards—a man to succeed must be successful. A few reverses unnerve the best of sportsmen, whether they are riding, shooting or handling the cue."

WILLIAM SIMS made a short, sharp, incisive address to the jockeys in the weighing-room after the race for the Omnium Handicap. He said: "I have tried my best to ride fairly in the races in which I have mounts. When I am on a horse that is beaten I try to get out of the way of horses that have a chance to win. Some of you jockeys, who ride horses that have no earthly chance to win, do your best to interfere and cut off horses that attempt to get to the front. I am tired of it, so in the future some of you jockeys must look out for yourselves, as that sort of riding is a two-handed game."

How the leading jockeys of the present day would stare if asked to accept the fees given to the riders of the older time, says an English paper. Past records show that the Chaloners and Bradfords in the time of Henry VIII. received 20s and, in the apprehension that they might unduly fancy themselves and "swagger," prematurely, the fee was afterwards reduced one-fourth; while on the principle that sauce for the jockey was suitable for the trainers, Dawsons and Porters stood in for a corresponding emolument. How strangely such things sound in these days of leviathan prizes and huge retainers.

It was given out last Monday that Jimmy Rowe, formerly presiding judge at Bay District track, would not come to California next winter as he did not wish to preside at Bay District track. The California Jockey Club is trying to secure Judge Joseph J. Burke in his stead. Mr. Burke is by many considered one of the very best officials that ever graced a judges' stand, being vigilant, just and at the same time strict. He is thoroughly posted and is an old newspaper man. Most of the racing officials of the country come from newspaperdom nowadays, and seem to make the best judges and secretaries.

DAVID GIDEON has decided to sell Requitel, the winner of the Futurity and the best two-year-old of the season, together with Hazlet, Waltzer and the Iroquois Carlotta colt, at public auction. "I have lost my jockey and my trainer," said Mr. Gideon, "and I will not trust such valuable property as Requitel to new people. John Hyland, who has handled my horses for so many years, will train for Belmont, and Griffin will ride for him. If Hyland could still train my horses in addition to training for Mr. Belmont, I would not sell out, but Belmont thought that would be impossible, and I decided to retire."

AT Louisville, September 12th, Eddie Cassin, Baker & Gentry's jockey, was indefinitely ruled off for pulling Simon W. in the third race. The chestnut colt was favorite at 3 to 5, and was even well backed at these odds. When the flag fell Cassin pulled his mount up suddenly and trailed around to the stretch. In the final run Simon W. got his head for a moment, and would have been in command in a few jumps, but Cassin shot him into the rail, attempting to get in a pocket. Even then Simon W. would have come through with ease but for Cassin's strong arm. All bets and the race were declared off.

PREVIOUS to the racing at Sheepshead Bay September 10th W. Easton sold at auction in the sale paddocks nine yearlings, the property of Messrs. S. Sanford & Sons. The pick of the lot was secured by the Brookdale Stable for $1,300. Details of the sale are as follows: Chestnut colt, by Potomac—Queen Mab, W. M. Wallace, $650; chestnut colt by Potomac—Lavinia Belle, J. E. Seagram, $675; black filly, by Laureate—Alfonie Carter, F. Dahlman, $200; chestnut colt, by Potomac—Elvira, Brookdale Stable, $1,300; black colt, by Potomac—Ethelair, A. Lakeland, $725; bay filly, by Potomac—Golden Rod, Connolly & Co., $175; bay colt, by Potomac—Garoga, W. M. Wallace, $1,000; bay filly, by Potomac—Kitty Clark, Connolly & Co., $200; bay colt, by Potomac or Laureate—Alta C., Connolly & Co., $275.

THE immense stable for race horses which A. B. Spreckels has built on his farm below town is now finished and ready for occupancy. The structure is elliptical in shape, enclosing a court, and surrounded by a covered track one-eighth of a mile in length and about twenty feet wide for exercising the horses in bad weather. There are thirty-eight large box stalls and four rooms for the hostlers. Entrance to the inner court is gained through a covered driveway on either side. The immense size of the building may be imagined when one is told that in the neighborhood of three hundred thousand shingles were required to roof it. The walls are of clear pine lumber, fitted closely with tongue and groove. Through the center of the court runs a covered drainage gutter, in the middle of which is a grating on which buggies may be washed. At either end of the court are two manure bins. A shed roof projects from the building around the court. The stable stands on an elevation overlooking the whole ranch and is rather ornamental than otherwise.—Napa Journal.

To Our Subscribers—the Delinquent Ones.

Within the past few weeks we have sent out bills for subscriptions to the Weekly BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN aggregating not less than $7,000. This amount, or even a tithe of it, would be most acceptable in these days of arguments on the silver and gold questions. On these questions we will take no decided stand, either gold or silver being acceptable—yea, even greenbacks, though they are aged and greasy. We will not even turn up our noses very high at postage stamps in payment of these subscription bills. It is just as essential to the success of a paper of the high class of our journal that subscription bills be paid as those for advertising. No favors are asked; justice only being desired. The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN entertains you week after week; it is also a complete record of racing on this Coast. If you go to the theatre or secure any other kind of entertainment you must pay for it in advance. With a paper it is different—you are highly entertained and instructed, yet are not required to "pungle up" ahead of time, so you forget that the newspaper entertainer is of the earth, earthy; that he has to have food and clothes and live like any ordinary mortal. We assure you we are not of the Dr. Tanner stamp, as regards stomach, and that we are required by the authorities to keep clothes upon our backs, limbs, etc. Bearing this in mind and leaving all levity aside, you will make us happy (and yourselves as well, we trust), by sending on the money justly due for subscription to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. We help you in many ways and deserve your support, in a monetary sense. As an incentive to delinquent subscribers to send on the sums due us at once, we will give a handsome premium to each debtor that, in one week's time after the receipt of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN bill, sends us the amount he owes us. Avail yourself of this offer and at the same time feel happier than you have for a year.

REMEMBER the great horse show that is to take place in this city December 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7. Make entries in it and let us see the best lot of horses ever assembled under one roof competing for the biggest cash and finest special prizes ever offered by any association in the United States.

Peace and Prosperity.

A race-track war has been averted and the silver lining to the racing cloud shows out brilliantly. The decision to "agree not to disagree," as Secretary W. S. Leake put it, was arrived at last Tuesday night in a meeting held in Parlor G of the Palace Hotel, this city. There were present A. B. Spreckels (President of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club), Thomas H. Williams (President of the California Jockey Club), Henry J. Crocker, Col. D. M. Burns, Moses A. Gunst, R. B. Milroy (Secretary California Jockey Club), and Secretary W. S. Leake, of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club. The way had been paved last Sunday night at an informal meeting held in the rooms of Thomas H. Williams, and after a thorough discussion of the subject, "To War or Not to War," the representatives of the rival jockey clubs came to the conclusion that in a division of dates lay the salvation of the turf and breeding interests of the Pacific Coast.

Each club will race alternately two weeks at a time until the 1st of March. The dates for the running off of the big stake events have not yet been agreed upon, but they will be so arranged that each club will reap the benefit of the holiday crowds. All of the gentlemen present at the meeting were in a jubilant frame of mind and that the threatened conflict was to be averted was undoubtedly a pleasure to all, for otherwise it was felt that racing to financial loss was a forgone conclusion. We have all along urged the local racing associations to take the action they have, pointing out the irreparable damage that would result to the breeding and racing interests if there was a race track war in San Francisco. The racing magnates have shown their good sense in avoiding a clash of dates, and we congratulate them.

San Jose Fair.

The programme of the fair to be held at San Jose next week will be found in another column, and will be read with pleasure by every lover of light-harness sports. The list of entries in all the events contains the names of the most prominent stars that are on the California Circuit. Some of them have trotted and paced to their limit and will not be able to get lower marks, while others that have been "coming on" slowly will surprise "the talent" by defeating those which were considered almost invincible. The track is in most excellent condition; the stalls have all been put in readiness for the horses, and interest in the meeting is increasing among the residents of Santa Clara and San Mateo counties. There will be three races every afternoon, and no purse is less than $500. Everyone who can possibly do so, should attend this meeting.

WORK at the new Ingleside track is progressing nicely. All the rough work on the grand stand has been done and the structure should be entirely finished within the next ten days. Some 325 stalls have been completed. The lumber in them is all tongued and grooved, making it impossible for horses to injure themselves in any way in the stalls, the floors of which will be of earth. The fence around the entire grounds, some twenty feet in height, is rapidly nearing completion. The work of grading is about all done. There remains to be built the club house, fences around the tracks, saddling paddock and perhaps 500 additional stalls, but as an immense force is at work, as matters look now, everything will be in readiness by the date set for the opening of the finest course in the whole West—November 1st.

THE attention of all lovers of a good race horse on this Coast is called to the advertisement in this issue of the various sales of thoroughbreds that take place in November. First comes the Palo Alto Stock Farm sale of yearlings by Flambeau, Racine and Flood. The Winters sale of Rancho del Sierras youngsters follows, the colts and fillies offered being by El Rio Rey and Joe Hooker. All Mr. Winters horses in training will also be disposed of, Malo Diablo and Uncle Giles being in this consignment. On the heels of this sale comes the disposal of all the horses owned by the late Col. H. I. Thornton, imp. Mariner, Sobrante, the choice broodmares he had collected and their produce, by Mariner and Sobrante.

THE latest report in regard to the condition of Directum is that he is being jogged daily and his injured leg is improving very rapidly. James Dustin, his driver, was too ill last week to leave Maine to come to see how well the champion was getting along.

Racing To-Day.

The gates of the Bay District track will be opened to-day and the first racing of the fall season will commence. It was announced that the meeting would commence last Tuesday, but on account of the detention of a large number of horses at Sacramento it was found impossible to get entries enough to warrant a good programme being issued, so President Williams concluded to postpone the races until to-day. It seems that the railroad charged $85 for a special car to take the horses away from Sacramento; this was a most exorbitant sum, and the horsemen declined to pay it. The steamboat which plies between Sacramento and San Francisco has only room for twelve horses and no additional boats were put on, so horsemen determined to wait until they could ship their horses right. The last lot of horses arrived yesterday morning, and next week they will be sporting silk.

A number of improvements have been made at the track. The inner fences and the fences around the track have all been whitened. A new track has been made at the upper turn from the half to the seven-eighths pole. This is on the inside of the main course and is practically a third course. Drain pipes have been put in along the inner rail of the main track so that it will not take so long to drain it as it did last winter. The surface of the whole track has been plowed, harrowed, rolled and scraped until to-day it is asserted by competent judges to be better, faster and safer than it has ever been.

A wonderful revival in the interest of racing is noticeable in horse circles, and when the following was announced every one who had been frightened about the so-called race track war smiled and felt extremely happy:

"Articles of agreement were signed to-day by President Williams and Secretary Milroy of the California Jockey Club and President A. B. Spreckels and Secretary Leake of the Pacific Jockey Club whereby each club stipulates to have no clashing of dates during the coming season."

There will be no racing during the Summer months and the greatest harmony will henceforth prevail between all who are engaged in breeding and racing thoroughbreds and light harness horses on the Pacific Coast. Horse-owners in the Eastern States, who have been "legislated out of the business" by objectionable laws, are inquiring for lands here on which they will bring their immense studs of horses and engage in the business. The powers of Europe and Asia and the horse-breeders in the Islands of the Pacific beside Central America and Mexico will soon be sending agents here to purchase fine horses, for the fame of those bred in California has extended to the farthestmost portions of the globe. A bright prospect for all is dawning, and the dark clouds which for such a long time obscured the sun of prosperity in this fascinating and lucrative business are passing rapidly away.

THE greatest interest is being taken in the Polo meeting which is to take place at the Fall meeting of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' meeting at Los Angeles. The search for first-class polo ponies continues and when the exemplars of this exciting sport engage in the game we predict that the enthusiasm of the thousands of spectators will be wrought up to the highest pitch.

JUDGING from the talk one hears among horsemen there is bound to be a big boom for winter racing. The splendid programme issued by the new Pacific Coast Jockey Club, in which money has been used in the characteristic liberality of the Slope, seems to have added to the sport, and there will be more large stables to keep horses in training than has ever been known in the history of American sport. The profits of racing this year were, save in a few instances like that of Mr. Gideon, and two or three other owners, very modest, indeed. Other States will derive the benefits that short-sighted legislation denied to the Empire State. The Macon, Ga., meeting, which will certainly continue for thirty days, and, if financially successful, for ninety days, will give the moderate horses a chance to earn money before they journey either to New Orleans or to San Francisco.—"Centaur" in Morning Advertiser.

In a conversation with Jos. Cairn Simpson after his article on Clifton Pilot had gone to press, he said Clifton Pilot must have been out of Grey Bacchante (the dam of Bacchante Mambrino), by Bay Messenger, and the next dam was by Whip Comet. It is over thirty years since the breeding of this horse was brought to his recollection. R. A. Alexander, of Kentucky, sold the latter named (Bacchante Mambrino) to Chas. S. Dole. Bacchante Mambrino appears in the pedigree of a number of fast trotters and pacers.

THE thoroughbred mare St. Odille, purchased by Messrs. Eales Bros. from Mr. D. Wallace for 400 guineas, and which was suspected to have been stolen, has been found floating in the creek with her back broken. The mare was carrying a foal by Carbine.—The Australasian.

California's 2:30 List.

Following is a list of all trotters and pacers which have lowered records or entered the 2:30 list this year that were either bred in California, sired by horses that were bred here or were identified with our horse industry. Some have been bred in the East, but earned their records here. Should any of our readers notice any mistakes we would be pleased to make the corrections:

Some Interesting Facts About Klamath 2:08 1 2.

When a trotter gets a record of 2:10 or better in a race his blood lines are a matter of interest to every breeder. A reporter of the New York Sun, who lately interviewed a horseman familiar with the early history of Klamath (2:08 1 2), writes of him as follows:

"Klamath has been at Fleetwood ever since the close of the Buffalo meeting, and many horsemen have heard Tom Raymond tell the interesting story of his famous trotter's career. "Raymond is an old-time trainer, although never very well known in the East until this year. He was with Orrin Hickok in California as long ago as 1869, and he had learned a thing or two about trotters at the old cinder track in Chicago before he crossed the mountains. In the spring of 1887 Raymond was hushwhacking, as he expresses it, with some trotters and quarter horses in northern California and southern Oregon, and in roading his horses overland through the Klamath Indian country he stopped one night at an out-of-the-way ranch on Lost River, 110 miles from the nearest railroad, where a man named Clark was breaking a lot of colts that had just been taken off the range.

"When Clark found that his guest was a trotting-horse man he commenced to talk enthusiastically about a two-year-old that he had, and nothing would do but that Raymond should have a look at the youngster. So Clark led the way to the corral and there singled out a little, long-bodied, low-set, snaky-looking gelding with a tail that brushed the ground, and a mane about two inches long.

"I tell ye, they's hot cakes in that un," was Clark's way of praising the rough, under-sized specimen of horseflesh, and Raymond was ready to believe him, for the wild, nervous two-year-old kept walking back and forth across the enclosure like a caged panther, and with a stride as lithe as that of a cat. It was dusk, but Clark insisted in putting the colt in the shafts of his break cart, and showing how he could step. When they got him hitched and let go his head he made a sudden dive for the sage brush, and went through it on a dead run until he came to a stretch of level alkali plain. Here the hawkish youngster struck a trot, and held it for about thirty yards.

"That was all I wanted to see," said Raymond, in telling the story a few days ago. "He could just simply fly. I made up my mind then that some day the little cuss would be a world heater if he ever got a chance, and I determined to buy him if I could do it. I didn't let on to Clark that I liked the colt. I told him he had better put the youngster away for fear he might hurt him, but, of course, the only fear I had was that the little fellow would break out again and show so well that my man would ask a big price when we came to dicker.

"I tried to talk about my own horses and everything else except the colt after we went back to the house, but it was no use. Clark kept coming back to his baby trotter, always saying, 'I tell ye he's hot cakes, is that un.' He was so full of his hot cakes that I didn't dare to try to buy him myself, but after running down the youngster's breeding, and saying he was too small, I came at the point by telling Clark I knew of a man who might buy a cheap two-year-old.

"Before I left he had priced the colt at $110, saying he needed that much money to prove up on his claim. As soon as it was safe I sent a man to the ranch with the money, and he came back with 'Hot Cakes.' That was what I called him for a long time, and came near starting him as Hot Cakes, too, but I always liked Indian names, and finally chose Klamath, because the horse had been foaled near the Klamath Indian reservation, and ran out on the range there for two years with nothing but the ace of clubs brand on his shoulder to identify him. The stable boys shifted after awhile from Hot Cakes to Cookey, and that is the only name the horse knows to-day."

"The story of Klamath's development from the wild, turbulent two-year-old of 1887 to the steady going, finished campaigner of 1895 is a strong illustration of the almost infinite patience sometimes required of a trainer of race horses. Raymond says he felt confident from the first that Klamath was the making of a phenomenal trotter, and for that reason determined to 'hold him out,' to use his own expression, until the horse was fit and ready to race with the best. In 1889 Cookey was good enough to win, but he went lame behind just as the campaign opened, and for nearly two years Raymond tried in vain to locate the ailment, consulting every competent veterinarian he could find. Klamath's front and hind feet on the right side grew smaller than the others, and altogether the horse was in a bad way.

"At last a backwood's horse doctor solved the problem, and by blistering the hip joint severely helped the lameness sufficiently for Raymond to fit Klamath for the campaign of 1891. In that year he started twelve times through Oregon and California, winning nearly every race and earning a record of 2:23 1/2, but a new ailment overtook him the following season. This time it was rheumatism, and so violent were the attacks that at times Klamath's head was drawn around to one side and he was unable to move. His owner started him a few times in 1892, but the great horse was never free from lameness and soreness. Raymond says he used to take Cookey out on the track when another heat was on, so that nobody would be likely to observe him. Walking his horse around to the furthest point from the grand stand he would jog him slowly up and down the backstretch until the cripple warmed out of his soreness to some extent, so as to be presentable.

"From being asked to race when lame and sore Klamath soured, and acquired the habit of refusing to score down in a field of horses. He would let go of the bit and dance under the wire as persistently as Flying Jib or Guy, and for a time after the rheumatism left him this threatened to be his ruin as a race horse. To meet the new emergency Raymond invented a novel contrivance which takes all pressure off the bit, the over-draw check rein resting upon a steel frame work supported by a strap passing beneath the horse's jaw, while the lines are attached to a stiff elastic nose band. Thus rigged Klamath has trotted all of his great races during the past two seasons, defeating about everything he has met East and West, except Azote and Beuzetta, and showing speed enough to warrant the belief that he may yet turn the tables on the big Whips gelding and the little Onward mare.

"Raymond says the Year Book is in error on two or three points touching the pedigree of Klamath. The horse was not bred by Clark, the man from whom his present owner bought him, but by one Ogle, of Olene, Ore. Morookus, the sire of Klamath, was by Altamont (2:26 1/2), the son of Almont, and out of a catch filly, supposed to be by a range horse of Lum-mox blood. The dam of this catch filly was the noted quarter mare Minnie Rifle, by thoroughbred Rifleman, the son of imported Glencoe. Klamath's dam, Bob, was by Ophir, son of Shenandoah, a horse that was raised in Madison county, N. Y., and that came from the same Kentucky Hunter family which produced Flora Temple and Edwin Forrest. Her grandam was by Mike, a great grandson of Hill's Vermont Black Hawk."

So it seems that Morookus, sire of Klamath, gets a thoroughbred cross close up through his own dam as well as through his sire's dam. Minnie Rifle, the second dam of Morookus, is recorded in Bruce's American Stud Book, Vol. I. Her sire was Rifleman, by imported Glencoe. Her dam, Lady Franklin, was by imported Lawyer (The Lawyer). Her second dam was by the great race horse Boston. Her third dam was by Medoc, a son of the renowned four-mile race horse American Eclipse. Her fourth dam, by Moses (Haxhall's), fifth dam by Sumpter, son of Sir Archy, and sixth dam by Top Gallant, son of old Diomed. Boston, sire of her second dam, Medoc, sire of her third dam, and Sumpter, sire of her fifth dam, are all direct descendants of the old Derby winner Rifleman, sire of Minnie Rifle. The second dam of Morookus was by imported Glencoe, dam the Rodolph mare, by Rodolph; second dam Butterfly, by Sumpter, son of Sir Archy. The sire of Rodolph was Sir Archy Montorio, and he, too, was by Sir Archy, out of Transport, by Virginian, another son of Sir Archy. Rifleman was the sire of Col. Lewis, which took a trotting record of 2:18 1/2 at San Francisco, Cal., September 14, 1878.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11, 1895. EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—By to-day's mail I have received from the Queensland Government a proclamation regarding the importation of cattle, horses, etc. to that colony.

As this is of importance to your readers I herewith send you a copy. Yours truly, WILLIAM F. EGAN. Inspector of live stock for the New Zealand and Australian colonies at the port of San Francisco.

COPY.

A proclamation by His Excellency, General Sir Henry Wylie Norman, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George, Companion of the Most Eminent Order of the Indian Empire, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of Queensland and its dependencies.

WHEREAS, By an act passed in the thirtieth year of Her Majesty's reign, and numbered 19, entitled the "Diseased Animals Act," it is amongst other things enacted that it shall be lawful for the Governor, from time to time, with the advice of the Executive Council, by proclamation, to prohibit or put restrictions on the introduction or importation of cattle, horses, sheep, goats, pigs, poultry, and other animals, and of any one or more kind of animals into the Colony of Queensland, or into any district thereof from such places and during such time as may appear necessary, and any such proclamation to alter or revoke by a similar proclamation. And

WHEREAS, It is desirable to prevent the introduction of cattle suffering from tuberculosis and of horses suffering from glanders and farcy, which diseases are readily communicable from cattle and horses respectively to the human subject. And

WHEREAS, Tuberculin has been found to be an almost infallible diagnostic of tuberculosis, and mallein an equally effective diagnostic of glanders and farcy: Now, therefore, I, Sir Henry Wylie Norman, the Governor aforesaid, in pursuance of the provisions of the said Act, and by and with the advice of the Executive Council, do hereby notify and declare that until this, my proclamation, shall have been altered or revoked all cattle arriving from any place beyond the Colonies of Australia, Tasmania and New Zealand shall, on arrival, be subjected by a duly qualified Veterinary Surgeon to a tuberculin test, and all horses be subjected to a mallein test, and that if any such cattle or horses shall be found to reach to such test, they shall either be returned to the place from which they were shipped, or be destroyed, or shall otherwise be dealt with as the Minister charged with the administration of this act shall direct.

Given under my hand and seal at Government House, Brisbane, this nineteenth day of June, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, and in the fifty-eighth year of Her Majesty's reign. By command, HORACE TOZER. God save the Queen.

The season's records, to date, at both gaits and all ages will be found in the following table:

In consequence of the reports that have gone from there that C. W. Williams is to leave Galesburg a party of prominent business men conferred with him at Galesburg on Wednesday last regarding his intentions. After a long and friendly interview he promised that he would remain there another year. It is understood next year he will give a fine programme of races and live up to his contract to the letter. He will, if he does this, get the track and all the improvements for the first cost of the land. Williams now admits the smallness of attendance on the races was not peculiar to Galesburg, and that there seems a general falling off in interest.

SAN MATEO STOCK FARM BROODMARES.

A Remarkable List of Dams of Great Performers Which Will Be Valuable for Reference —A Splendid Showing for California-Bred Mares and Their Produce.

The fame of the San Mateo Stock Farm is world wide, for the excellence of the stock bred and developed there has gained for it a place in the annals of the turf that makes everyone in this glorious State proud of calling attention to it. The proprietor, Wm. Corbitt, purchased this farm near San Mateo when there was nothing but grain growing on it. He erected buildings, barns and stables; divided the fields into paddocks; made a three-quarter race track; had wells dug, trees planted and fitted the place up in every particular to make it an ideal stock farm. How well success followed his efforts is shown by the praises heard from the hundreds of horsemen from all parts of the world who have visited it.

The cordiality of the proprietor and his appreciation of well-deserved remarks in regard to the appearance of the place and the healthfulness of every animal there is well known. That Mr. Corbitt is one of the best judges of conformation in this State is shown by the collection of excellent individuals that are or have been seen here. As a breeder he can rightfully be considered a success. He started in the business to attain a certain object, and how well he succeeded is shown by the surprising list of wonderfully fast and game trotters and pacers that he bred, raised and developed. No money was spared in the purchase of desirable individuals, even if the breeding was not as fashionable as those who were to be seen in the paddocks on some of our Eastern stock farms.

From boyhood Mr. Corbitt understood the true value of perfect-formed, strong-limbed, level-headed game roadsters. The first money he ever saved in his old home in Canada was expended for a trotting stallion, and this was a number of years before Rysdyk's Hambletonian was heard of; and the hope of his early life was that some day he would own and stock a farm from which he would send forth horses that would be the equal of any in the world. He has realized that hope, and when we come to peruse language like the following, which he used in his stock farm catalogue, we have a fair index of his work, and the great objective point he was seeking:

"It is with no little self-gratulation, which I hope is pardonable, that I am able to look back and see that the trotting records made by my stock during the past two years that have elapsed, have been even greater than my sanguine expectations led me to predict. I have not only had faith in Guy Wilkes and Sable Wilkes as sires from the days that I was able to judge of their greatness as individuals, but I also had faith in the foundation of my stud, which I had been quietly preparing for many years before they were introduced to it. I think it would be difficult to find in any stud of equal size in California a better selection of brood mares, nearly all reared in the State, than those which are to be found in this catalogue. I have heretofore preferred to raise my own brood mares, or to buy of strains that have been successful in California under my own observation, than to purchase upon the general reputation of Eastern strains, because a personal knowledge of the character of the mare, and of other parts of her family, than the particular line which gives fashion to her pedigree, seems to me very important.

By paying liberally I was enabled some years ago to obtain from one of the earliest and most successful breeders in the State my choice of his young mares and fillies. These I utilized immediately as broodmares, knowing that they were fast, I thus obtained, in different installments, many valuable mares by The Moor and his best sons, Sultan and Del Sur, and bred them to my own stallions. My earlier stallions, the brothers Arthurton and Irvington, were bought at high prices in Orange County, N. Y., and were regarded as among the very best bred sons of Rysdyk's Hambletonian. Preferring Arthurton, I kept him until I had saved out a sufficient number of his best daughters for breeding purposes, then sold him back East into a prominent stud. I also bought in Kentucky Le Grande, son of Almont and Jessie Pepper, and turned in his daughters as broodmares, as fast as I could satisfy myself of their superiority. Those not good enough to keep I sold. I hardly regarded myself as breeding for the public while using these stallions, and neither advertised much nor issued a catalogue. My wish was only to secure from them a satisfactory collection of broodmares before attempting to compete with other leading studs for the patronage of the public market. Through The Moor and his sons I obtained the Clay blood at its best, often united with other popular lines like Pilot Jr., Mambrino Chief and Hambletonian. Through Arthurton I obtained the Hambletonian and American Star blood, and through Le Grande double lines of Mambrino Chief, with crosses of Alexander's Abdallah and Pilot Jr. In combining all these I tried the fillies early, and if found good enough put them to breeding undeveloped; later, selecting from year to year those by both Guy Wilkes and Sable Wilkes, which seemed to me best adapted for breeding purposes, and have added them to my list of broodmares. By taking time I secured, in this way, a collection of mares whose blood partakes of most of the great families of the East, with the advantage of knowing the personality of my stock for two or three generations, during which I had weeded out all that was not up to satisfactory standard, however well bred.

I have also purchased a few mares in the East, and others bred in California, so that, as you glance over my catalogue, you will find there daughters of Nutwood, Electioneer, Alexander's Belmont, Almont, Steinway, Director, Anteeo, Volunteer, and other sires of more or less repute, but I have bought none merely because their sires are fashionable. Merit in the mare and her near progenitors I must have as well, for while I do not despise fashionable pedigree, knowing well that only by merit can fashion be maintained, yet fashion is transient and progressive, and only follows those currents in which the highest merit is continuous, so I must have something more than the mere name to keep fashion by me. More than one prominent horseman of recognized experience is reported to have expressed the opinion that a no distant day will show that Guy Wilkes is the greatest sire the world has yet seen. It is common enough to flatter owners with extravagant praise of their horses, and as much has been told me to my face when I attributed it only to that purpose. But this good opinion appears to have been expressed by reticent men, where there was little probability that I would hear it. I do not hesitate to avow that belief as my own, yet I know that however great Guy Wilkes is, he cannot reach the highest position as a sire and maintain it without the best mares—not alone those by fashionable sires, but those that have the class of merit which makes and maintains fashion. Therefore, while I place great dependence on Guy Wilkes and Sables Wilkes, I trust that I have not been so foolish as to permit their efforts to be hampered by any want of merit in my mares; particularly after having spent so many years and so much money with no other thought than to have them right in personality and family as well as of the most approved strains.

As inquiries about my horses are more and more frequent from the older breeding States, I will add a word about the foundation blood from which the trotting stock of this State has been bred up. No Californian who is familiar with the horse history of this State needs any laudation of many of the earlier California strains to make him duly appreciate their worth, and value them higher than some of the more boasted Eastern strains; but Eastern horsemen, unfamiliar with their quality and character, regard them as little better than unknown blood as far as they affect the value of the pedigree. There are two kinds of value in a pedigree; a selling value dependent upon present fashion and an intrinsic value upon which depends the quality of the stock you can breed from it. To the mere speculator the latter is of little importance, but to the investor who intends to stand by the fortunes of his purchase for better or worse until results are tested, both kinds of value are of much importance. Immediate fashion helps him to a better start with the public, but that avails little unless intrinsic value afterwards enables him to show good trotters when it comes his turn. Back of the more generally recognized trotting families will be found, not only in the pedigrees of my own broodmares, but also in those of most of my neighboring breeders, crosses of Belmont (Williamson's) and his sons, Langford, Capt. Webster, Bell Alta, Venture, etc.; General Taylor and his son, Eugene Casserly, Gen. McClellan 144; Jack Hawkins and his son, Jim Hawkins; John Nelson 187; Winthrop 505; Skenandoah 926; George M. Patchen Jr. 31 and his son Billy Hayward 489; Signal 3327, St. Clair, Echo 462, Whipple's Hambletonian 725, Speculation 928, A. W. Richmond 1637, Buccaneer 2656, and others that with scant opportunity have shown great merit. All these strains familiar among the foundation trotting stock of California, are of much greater intrinsic value than is usual among Eastern strains that appear with about equal frequency in the pedigrees of the 230 list. The reason is, that opportunity was vastly greater in the East than in California at the time these strains forced themselves into notice. But very few people developed trotters in California until within a few years. With advantages offered to contemporaneous horses in the East every one of the above-named horses would have become distinguished in the stud.

Even the unknown blood that lies back of all trotting pedigrees is of much better average quality in California than in the East, for obvious reasons. The 'American' horse stock of California of early days, so called in distinction from the mustang or Spanish, was all ridden or led across the plains from east of the Mississippi—a journey that none but the most hardy could survive. They were selected by men who fully realized that possibly their own lives as well as the survival of their animals depended upon their fitness and endurance. Pedigrees rarely came with these animals, but they were of sterling timber and they and their progeny constitute the 'untraced' element of our present trotting stock. The mustang is rarely found mixed with the 'American' stock in California, and, when it is, plainly discernible for several generations. At the East an untraced pedigree dating back twenty-five years is liable to run into coarse farm or draft stock devoid of conformation or characteristics adapted to speed—a thing that could hardly happen in California."

Following is a list of the broodmares that have produced anything in the 230 list which were owned by Mr. Corbitt or bred by him. It will be noticed there are a few that produced after being sold by him but they were all owned at some time by Mr. Corbitt.

We know of no better proof of the excellence of the California sires and mares than this instructive list. Most of the mares on the farm are still in their prime, and have at their sides brothers and sisters to performers which we have every reason to believe will be as fast as their famous relatives.

Mr. Corbitt had that prince of reinsmen, John A. Goldsmith, in charge of his trotters for a number of years, and his name will always be connected with the great Guy Wilkes family. He never was afraid of any family of horses while holding the lines over the sons and daughters of this great sire and the declarations he so often made of their superiority have been verified wherever they have been driven: "They never tired and were never defeated before the wire was reached."

John Dickerson is now in charge of a select few in the East, and in every race he starts them he manages to get some share of the purse. A number of the best horses were disabled on the cars in their journey from one of the Eastern cities to another, and were unable to start in the races for which they were entered. This is greatly to be deplored and every one in this State will regret to hear of it.

ROD.

The Old Clergyman's Last Trout.

On the great rock at the edge pool stood the trapper, in one hand his rod, in the other his landing net, while a large trout patched the gray rock with its glorious colour at his feet. "He'll weigh three pounds ef he'll weigh an ounce," said the trapper, as his eyes rested admiringly on the catch, "and the thickness of him shows he's had good feedin'." The Lord puts the same colors into rainbows and stormy sunrises, but nowhere else, as I conceit. But how he can put so much of the glory of the upper world into the cold depths of the lower and keep it all aglow there is more than I can understand. Yis, one fish he enough," continued the old man, reflectively, as he scanned the whirling water as if longing to make one more cast. "I sartinly believe that the one that rose first was a pound heavier than this one, but one fish be enough for a Christian man, especially ef he be shaped and colored as this one is," and the old trapper proceeded to gather his flies to his reel. It was then that his ear caught the sound of a step coming down the trail. In a moment a man of venerable appearance came to the edge of the river and gazed in placid contemplation at the swirling stream. His face had the scholar's paleness, and his shoulders the scholar's stoop. In one hand he carried a small volume and in the other a sway of cedar he had evidently plucked from some overhanging bough as he came down the trail. He was dressed in a suit of black cloth, and his necktie was as spotless white as his linen. A close-fitting skull cap of velvet rested on his snowy locks. He spied the trapper, and approaching him said in a finely-modulated tone: "If I am not mistaken this is John Norton, the trapper?" "Yis, I be John Norton," replied the old man, "ane I have trapped a good deal off and on in the last seventy year. And who be ye?" "I am a clergyman," said the other pleasantly, "and in the city where I preach they call me the Rev. Dr. Davenport." He held out his hand in a formal but courteous manner. The latter took the pale, thin hand in his own strong palm and shook it heartily, saying: "I am glad to see you face to face and nigh hy, reverend sir, for I remember hearing ye four summers ago up at St. Rigio. Ye was preaching from a text, 'woe be to the Pharisees.' I managed to get the line of yer talk, and the way ye warmed them Pharisees made me feel comfortable in my mind, for the Pharisees of the Scrip'ture be very like the thievin' halfbreeds and vagabonds that steal an honest trapper's skins in the woods, and I have spent a good deal of powder and led in edicatin' the knaves toward righteousness when I have ketch'them pilferin' on the line of my traps." "Well, well! I am glad to meet you, and that I may almost call you one of my parishioners, John Norton," and the doctor rubbed his white, thin hands together, and laughed a decorous and good-natured little laugh. "I don't know as I ketch the full meanin' of yer words," responded the trapper, "for I have never been taught in the churches of the settlements, and know leetle of yer agreements or their differences, but I sartinly conceit ye had the right of it teachin' them Pharisees, and that you and I will stand side by side in the day of judgment, and tell the Lord what we know of their devilments, whether they lived a thousand year ago in Judee or was sneakin' round the woods here when I was on the arth—" "Good gracious!" screamed the doctor, "where did that monstrous trout come from?" "From the Lord, parson, yis straight from the Lord," answered the trapper promptly. "As straight as a brown hackle, a nine-foot leader, an old bamboo rod and a good grip at the butt of the rod could bring him. Do you know how to make a cast for a four pounder yerself, parson?" "No, no!" exclaimed the old doctor of divinity. "That is," he continued, "it is long years since I have allowed myself to touch a rod or gun for fear of the consequences." "Consequences?" returned the trapper, "I don't understand ye." "No, I know you cannot," replied the other. "How can a man of your manner of life understand it? But a man of my calling, Trapper, should not even have the appearance of evil, or allow himself to fall into the least semblance of worldliness, much less to allow the pleasures of this world to fasten their grip upon him, and as a young man I was excitable—very excitable—and I loved to shoot and row and fish, loved the sports of flood and field as they are called. Yea, Trapper, I loved them like a sinner, and so, to avoid even the appearance of evil and overcome the riotous motions of nature within me, I broke away from all the exercises that were so wildly exciting and joyous to my nature, and—" and here the old doctor's voice shook—"it is forty years since this hand has grasped a rod or this finger put its pressure on a trigger." "Heavens and arth!" exclaimed the trapper, "What a useless life ye must have lived." "It seems so to you, I dare say," cried the doctor. "But placed as I was—why, John Norton, when I had been twenty years in the ministry it was regarded as a deadly sin for a clergyman to skate or slide down hill or shoot a rifle, and in the winter months when the snow lay soft on the hill and the clouds were as lead and the air hollow, I have locked myself in my chamber and buried my head in the pillows that I might not hear the glorious music of the hounds, as they raced, noses breast high, after the flying game." "Friend," said the trapper, "ye have done injustice to yer natur', that fine natur' the Lord give ye at birth, and sold yer birthright o' happiness for a mess of miserable pottage. Ye have fed yer feelin's on husks when the plenty and merriment of yer father's house was open to ye. Here, take the rod, take the rod, I say, and let yer old fingers feel the heft of it, and yer ears hear the whirr of the reel once more," and the trapper literally thrust the rod into the white hand of his hesitant companion. But, oh, the change that came to the old minister as his tapering fingers closed on the polished butt. He fairly caressed the reel with his white, thin hands; his eyes lighted as he poised it as for a cast; his form straightened and his left foot was pushed forward, a slight flush glowed through the pallor of his cheek; he seized the leader, and with a wide sweep of his hand drew a dozen yards from the reel, and laughed a low, happy laugh at the singing thereof.

"Make a cast, make a cast," cried the trapper. "Lengthen the line and make a cast to the far edge of the pool where yon bubbles be in line. If the Lord sends ye the trout he ought to send ye, he will take twenty years from yer head to the bottom of the river with him." Then and there, on the ledge that juts into the mouth of Cold River, did the Church of Common Sense become incarnate. In an instant came the motion of the arm, the turn of the wrist that all anglers know but no words may describe, and up went the flies into the air, flew backwards, and then shot straight out over the whirling tide. Downwards they floated lightened like, vagrant feathers amid the bubbles, and—"Salvation!" screamed the doctor. "A trout!" A trout such as is rarely seen hung in air, three good feet above the flies and bubbles. Tail flat and as big as a shingle, mouth open, belly red as a stormy sunrise, fins like a rainbow, the huge sides dotted with shot of reddest rose—so hung in full sight for a moment above the dark stream, then fell with a mighty flash and was gone! "Cast agin, cast agin at the same spot, and if he lifts, strike quick and strike hard, in honor of the rod and the pool and yer boyhood days, and be hanged to the Pharasees," yelled the trapper. Oh, the cast that the old doctor made and the answer that flashed from the depths! The nervous old wrist struck quick and struck true, the twisted silk shrunk to the strain and the water flew in fine mist from the braids, so strong was the stroke and so heavy the fish. Then down, downward he plunged, full force, full of fire, a line breaker, a rod smasher is he, and through the strong swirling current he tears like a submarine bolt fired to kill. See the line cut the water! See the rod sway and quiver! Hear the shrill cry of the reel, see the minister's face, the flash of the cheek, the gleam in the eye, the set look of the mouth, the white hair flying free. Then see the great fish on the bank, the two white-headed men bending over it; hear their laughter; see their clasped hands; see the old divine fling a caper like the flourish that precedes the jig, and the green balsams and pines, and through their dark branches patches and spaces of blue sky. Can you see the picture and sketch, you brother angler, that hangs in my memory over the big ledge, just below where the cool current of Cold River flows in?—W. B. B. Murray in Canadian Sportsman.

Coming Events.

September 21-22—Los Angeles, Inaugural Semi-Annual Tournament of the Los Angeles City Gun Club.
September 29—Oakland Race Track, Clabrough Golcher & Co.' blue rock tournament.
October 6-7—Tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association at Oakland Race Track.
October 25-26—Tournament of the Washington State Sportsman's Association, Seattle, Wash.

W. L. Robertson, the sixteen year old son of W. R. Robertson, of "Gold Dust" fame, is one of the proudest boys in the State, but we don't know which is the proudest, the son or the father. The boy is on an outing at Applegate Sta., near Auburn, Placer County, and has just written his father that he had killed a spike buck. He tracked him for several miles alone and killed him with a charge of No. 3 huck, propelled by 45 grains of Gold Dust from a 12-gauge gun. Young Robertson is an athletic young man, a member of the Electric Gun Club and no mean blue rock shot.

The pamphlet of the game laws issued by the State Board of Fish Commissioners contains the following list of game wardens. Alameda—John L. Donovan, San Leandro; Fresno—Frank A. Rowell, Fresno; Humboldt—Edwin McDowell, Eureka; Sacramento—R. Helms, Sacramento; Santa Barbara—Jas. Elliot, Garey; Santa Clara—J. D. McKenzie, San Jose; San Diego—C. H. Ingelo, San Diego; San Francisco—Joseph A. Morgan; Tulare—M. L. Weaver, Visalia. Is it possible that these are the only game wardens that have been appointed?

The Stockton Gun Club will send two teams to the Association Tournament.

The Lincoln Gun Club.

The annual picnic shoot of the Lincoln Gun Club held at Greenbrae last Sunday was a decided success. The picnic was held under the trees in a pretty valley about a half mile from Greenbrae station.

Nearly fifty of the members and their wives and invited guests were present and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

The weather was all that could be desired, and a strong wind made a lively lot of birds leave the traps like blue rocks.

In the morning the wind came from behind the shooters and made strong drivers of most of the birds, but in the afternoon the wind shifted to the West and changed the flight of the birds, making the most of them right quarterers.

Considering the fact that most of the shooters shoot only at blue rocks, the scores were very good. Fifty-six dozen birds were trapped during the day.

The first event was a practice shoot at three birds. There were eighteen entries. Precht, Daniels, Baum and Karney killed straight.

The event of the day was the team match between chosen teams of twelve men each designated as the Reds and Blues. Daniels officiated as captain of the Blues and Wenzel as captain of the Reds. The Blues won with a score of 113 to 10. The scores were as follows:

Doves are very plentiful at Cappelle in Berryessa valley. Chas. Pearch and Robert Armstrong killed 142 in less than two hours there one day last week. Armstrong killed 36 in 40 shots at single flying birds. From Cappelle they went to Monticello and with Mr. Gosling of that place they went deer hunting. The bounds started five or six but the only one killed was shot by Mr. Pearch, a 125 pounder. The following morning Mr. Gosling and his shepherd went out and killed two more, one 165 pounds and the other 135 pounds.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

The Empire Gun Club shoot will hold its final shoot for the hammerless gun to-morrow.

The Olympic Gun Club will shoot at Oakland Race Track to-morrow, the final shoot for the season's medals.

Quail promise to be unusually plentiful throughout the State, if the pot hunters don't clean them out before the season opens.

Copies of the present fish and game laws with names and addresses of the Game Wardens can be procured of the California Fish Commission at their office in the Flood Building.

The team match between the Stockton Gun Club and the Empire Gun Club of Oakland has been abandoned. There are no dates available this month and next month will open the game season.

Interest in the great tournament of October 6th and 7th does not lessen a particle. Nothing else is talked of among the blue rock men. There will be events enough and prizes enough for every shooter to take home something.

The second set of traps will be put down next week at Oakland Race Track, Clabrough, Golcher & Co.'s tournament on the 29th will be a grand chance for the shooters to practice. The shooting is open to all.

The medal that the United States Powder Company have donated to the California Inanimate Target Association will cost $100. It is patterned after a blue rock, with a diamond in the centre and can be worn as a medal or detached from the bar and worn as a watch charm.

The scores at the Lincoln Gun Club's picnic shoot at Greenbrae on Sunday were very good considering the birds and the wind. Fanning killed 34 out of 36, Daniels 31 out of 34 and Robertson 23 out of 30 with Gold Dust powder. Feudner shot Dupont Smokeless and killed 34 out of 36 and Webb killed 33 out of 37.

Programme of the State Tournament.

Average prizes—The sum of $50 in cash will be awarded to the shooters making four highest averages for all events, exclusive of team and handicap events. First average, $20; second average, $15; third average, $10; fourth average, $5. This money has been kindly donated by the Selby Smelting and Lead Company.

Special prizes—All shooters who are in the ties in the Association's diamond medal event will receive from the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, 50 Selby-loaded Leader shells with No. 4 primer. The shooter making the largest number of consecutive breaks in the tournament will receive a box of 100 cigars, given by H. Quinton. A case of Union League Club Bourbon whiskey will be divided among the shooters who participate in all individual events and fail to win a prize.

Association dinner—The tournament will be brought to a close with an association dinner to be held on the night of Monday, October 7th, at a time and place to be hereafter designated. Secretaries of clubs are requested to at once notify George P. Schaefer at Stockton of the number of members who desire provision made for them at the dinner. All sportsmen are invited, and entries for the dinner will be received on the grounds in the same manner as for the shooting events. The cost of the dinner is not to exceed $1.50 a man.

Transportation—Shooters and others desiring to attend the tournament may secure the benefit of reduced rates of transportation. The Southern Pacific Company makes the concession of a full rate to San Francisco from all points, and a one-third rate on the return trip. To secure advantage of this rate, it is necessary for the shooter to use one of the certificate blanks issued for this purpose. Blanks may be obtained from the secretaries of association clubs, or upon application to A. A. Martin, 110 Montgomery street, San Francisco. The Pacific Coast Steamship Co. will allow return trip tickets at one-half rates, and a reduction of twenty-five per cent. from regular rates has been conceded by the San Francisco and North Pacific Coast Railroad.

Practice shooting—For the convenience of shooters desiring practice, the grounds at the Oakland race track will be open for all-comers on the afternoon of Saturday, October 5.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Rules—American Association Rules will govern the shooting in all particulars not otherwise provided for. Referees and judges, however, will be instructed that a bird must be shot at in order to score. Class shooting will be the rule in every event, and to save time ties will be shot off in the succeeding match or matches until decided.

Entrance—Shooters are required the first thing each day to enter in all events of that day, in order that squads may be kept together. This arrangement is necessary in order to avoid annoying delay. If the shooter should not participate in an event, his entrance for that event will be returned.

Time of shooting—Shooting will commence promptly at 9 A. M. each day. Shooters should take 8 o'clock broad-gauge boat from San Francisco, with tickets for Berkeley and return. At the Oakland Mole take Berkeley train, and leave the train at Shell Mound Station.

Lunch—An intermission will be allowed each day for lunch, which can be secured on the grounds.

Cartridges—Loaded cartridges of all kinds may be secured on the grounds at regular San Francisco prices.

Pool shooting—Shooters may arrange outside pools in all events. Moneys will be received on this account by one of the office force, who will be assigned to that duty.

Fines—Any shooter discharging his gun except when at the score and in proper turn, will be fined $1, and until such fine is paid the offending shooter will not be allowed to participate further in the tournament.

A team rule—In team matches no man will be allowed to shoot in more than one team.

The Stockton Gun Club.

There was a large attendance of both shooters and spectators on Sunday last at the final medal shoot of the Stockton Gun Club, says the Mail. The day was a perfect one for trap shooting, as there was very little wind or dust blowing. One of the features of the shoot was the work of Wm. Funck, a lad of 11 years, who broke 13 out of 25 blue rocks—a remarkable performance for one so young.

Sunday's shoot determined who are the winners of medals for the season. Ten matches of 25 birds each were shot during the summer, and those securing the highest averages were declared winners.

The following-named were successful in their respective classes:

Champion class—E. S. Richards, gold medal, with a score of 223 out of 250, or an average of 89½ per cent; G. Ellis, second prize, a silver trophy, with a score of 213 or 85½ per cent.; C. A. Merrill, third prize, a silver trophy, with a score of 208, an average of 83 1/5 per cent.

First Class—George Blain, gold medal, with a score of 197, an average of 78 4/5 per cent; F. Merrill, second prize, a silver trophy, with 193 to his credit, an average of 77 1/5 per cent.; A. Lang, third prize, a silver trophy, with an average of 74 4/5 per cent.

Second Class—A. J. Comfort, gold medal, score, 181; average, 72 2/5 per cent.; W. Ditz, second prize, silver trophy; score, 177; average, 70 4/5 per cent.; Henry Lonjers, third prize, silver trophy; score, 172; average 68 4/5 per cent.

Third Class—George P. Schaefer, gold medal; score, 178; average, 71 1/5 per cent.; L. Payne, second prize, silver trophy; score, 164; average, 64 3/5 per cent; Nels Brown, third prize, silver trophy; score, 142; average, 56 4/5 per cent.

The club also held a meeting, selecting two teams to compete at the shoot of the California Inanimate Target Association, to be held on October 6th and 7th. The following-named were selected to represent Stockton: First team—E. S. Richards, George Ellis, C. A. Merrill, C. J. Haas, H. G. Balkwell and George Blain; second team—A. Lang, F. Merrill, D. Winders, H. Lonjers, William Ditz, L. Payne, A. J. Comfort and H. Ralph.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The Presidio Kennels have added E. J. Benjamins' R. C. St. Bernard bitch Empress Juno by California Alton—Tomah to their kennels. She will be bred to Reglov.

C. W. Travers received last week a pair of R. C. St. Bernard puppies by Fernwood King (Fernwood Bruce—Arline) out of Francis H. (Anderson's Duke—Menie.)

Dr. Regensburger's R. C. St. Bernard bitch Cleopatra has presented her owner with forty-six puppies in three litters. All by Reglov. This is pretty near the record. While this par was laying on our desk a wag entered in our absence and wrote under it: "46 pups at $150 a pup—$6 00, total for three litters. Nothing like the dog business on earth."

W. H. Williams' litter of Irish water spaniels that we mentioned last week by Sammi's Handy Andy out of Williams Nora, are as nice a lot of spaniels as were ever whelped on this coast. There is not a white speck on the lot. They should be as good as any. Handy Andy is not only grandly bred, but is the sire of winners and Nora is almost equally as well bred.

The entries to the Toronto show were as follows: Mastiffs 23, St. Bernards 52, Bloodhounds 12, Newfoundlands 2, Great Danes 24, Borzois 5, Deerhounds 3, greyhounds 16, foxhounds 19, pointers 16, English setters 33, Irish setters 22, Gordon setters 19, collies 40, bulldogs 5, bull terriers 21, poodles 2, whippets 5, Irish terriers 24, Dandie Dinmont terriers 3, Bedlington terriers 10, Scottish terriers 5, skye terriers 5, black and tan terriers 14, Irish water spaniels 7, field spaniels 15, cocker spaniels 79, Clumber spaniels 2, dachshunds 9, beagles 22, fox terriers (smooth) 55, fox terriers (wire) 30, Yorkshire terriers 2, toy terriers 4, pugs 10, toy spaniels 10, Italian greyhounds 1, miscellaneous 4; total 638.

Our Dogs of Aug. 31st contains the following: R. Toon, of Sheffield, informed us that his partner, Mr. Thomas, sailed last Saturday by the ss Lancastrian for Boston, taking with him a team of twenty-four dogs. These comprise four whippets with records in this country for racing, which were being taken out to the order of Mr. Ames. Amongst the rest were the well-known winning fox terriers Raby Reckon and Fyde Spinster, and six Irish terrier bitches, mostly winners, and all carefully bred, which ought to be very valuable for breeding purposes in the States. Indeed, there are few really good bitches in this country, and the expatriation of such a team will, of course, only further impoverish the breeding stock on this side. A very promising Scotch terrier puppy by Errol, who is by the deceased Gipsy King, and which was procured from Mr. J. F. Smith, jun., was amongst the canine emigrants.

Continental Field Trials.

The Inaugural Field Trials of the Continental Field Trial Club held at Morris, Manitoba, on prairie chickens were a decided success. W. B. Wells officiated as judge. He gave general satisfaction, but we do not believe it possible that circumstances could possibly arise that will warrant a judge placing 12 winners out of 19 entries as he did in the Derby. The awards in the Derby were as follows: First, W. W. Titus b, w and t English setter dog Sam T., by Luke Roy—Bettie B.;

Second was divided between F. R. Hitchcock's l and w English setter bitch Toy Fashion, by Count Gladstone IV—Fleety Avent and A. P. Heywood Lansdales' lliv and w pointer dog Ightfield Mentor, by Ightfield Loveridge—Ightfield Musa.

Third was divided between Thos. G. Davey's b and w English setter dog Brighton Dick, by Brighton Tobé—Lady Brighton; Avent and Thayers' b w and t English setter bitch Feu Follet, by Count Gladstone IV—Folly; N. T. De Pauw's w and t pointer bitch Sister Sue, by Jingo—Rooney, and C. P. Mingst's b and w English setter dog Rex, by Antonio—Columbia.

Fourth was divided between H. T. Schmidts' l and w pointer bitch Lady Rush, by Rush of Lad—Pat S.; P. H. O. Bannon's b, w and t English setter Domino, by Antonio—Ruh's Girl; Manchester Kennel Co.'s b, w and t English setter bitch Gleams Dart, by Count Gladstone IV—Gleams Maid; same owner's black, white and tan English bitch Gleams Ruth, same breeding, and Richard Merrill's black and white pointer dog Stridemore, by Strideaway—Hope II.

The All-Age brought out twenty-four starters. The winners were as follows: 1st, W. W. Titus' black, white and tan English setter bitch Minnie T., by Dick Bondhu—Bettie B.; 2d, N. T. De Pauw's black and white pointer dog Jingo, by Mainspring—Queen II; 3d, Norwin T. Harris' black, white and tan English setter dog Tony Boy, by Antonio—Laundress; 4th, Stoddard & Kidwell's black and white ticked pointer dog Tick Boy, by King of Kent—Bloom.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

JUBILATE—Elsewhere I have commented upon the action of the Jockey Clubs in signing a treaty of peace, but feel as if that paragraph or two were not sufficient to express the satisfaction which followed the announcement of the agreement. It has great significance, it has so nearly assured the permanent welfare of the turf in California that there are slight dangers to guard against, and in lieu of a struggle, which would have involved a host of participants on both sides, harmony will prevail. In place of stubborn contention a spirit of emulation, good wishes taking the place of heart-burnings; an era of prosperity for "horse folk."

WHAT A RACE.—The exhibition of drivers at Belmont Park, Philadelphia, will come very nearly taking the prize, so far as crookedness is worthy of a premium. I have been cautioned not to make adverse comments on races that I have not witnessed, and were that a restriction which I considered binding there would be few races which could be criticised from my point of view. But I feel more like taking the horse papers to task than the drivers as they have only a small bearing on the future welfare of harness racing when compared with the influence that the press should exert.

The Horseman has an editorial which is very fair; the point being that McHenry should have been punished as well as Curry, but the other departments of the paper score the judges, apologize for the drivers. While it would have been better for the association to advertise that the race was for a division of the gate money, not a purse or match, whenever horses are started in a race, to see which people are in attendance and pay for the privilege of witnessing it there must be an endeavor to win. An honest straightforward endeavor regardless of all other conditions. The Horseman is not alone in pursuing a "trimming" policy.

The Review says: "The episode is not one to arouse enthusiasm, but we have no sympathy with the attack which has been made on implicated horsemen, while the real offenders go unpunished and unrebuked." Taking all the accounts I have read and the judges were clearly in the right when Curry was taken out and eventually punished, as anyone the least familiar with Section 5, Rule 28, N. T. A., must admit.

These same papers, however, are abundantly anxious to secure a better attendance in harness racing, and it is beyond question, that when every heat, as well as every race, is an honest contention for victory the effect will be more potent than any other remedial project which can be offered. The foundation of all kinds of sport, and though it may be too much to expect, that such a desirable condition will ever prevail, the nearer the approach the better for all concerned. When heats or races are "laid-up," in place of apologizing, "let no guilty man escape."

O. A. HICKOK.—Much pleased am I at the prospect of their being a turn in the run of bad-luck which has pursued this eminent driver for the past three years.

The pacing filly, Miss Rita, has placed her name among those of the champions, and now that Beuzetta is under his charge I have the utmost faith that she will take a still higher mark in the hippic world. In all probability she will winter on this coast.

The improvement in Miss Rita, in size, development, form, and also speed, from wintering at the Oakland Trotting Park, was certainly gratifying. Some little time before she started for the East she was showing so much speed that Hickok signified his willingness to match her for half a mile against any horse on the track, and as Directum had moved a quarter handily in 31½ seconds it was, to say the least, a great show of confidence on the part of her driver. Beuzetta with a mark of 2:06½ as a four-year-old has an arduous task on hand to better it though with the benefits which will assuredly follow an outing in this genial climate there are valid reasons for the expectations that she will accomplish it.

And by the way the fastest quarter I ever "timed" was made on the homestretch of the Oakland track nearly sixteen years ago, and that by St. Julien. Thirty seconds flat was the story my watch told, and though that was partly corroborated by a man who timed the mile, 2:18, three-quarters in 1:48, I was loth to publish it inasmuch as at that day Eastern folk were ready to question the accuracy of California watches, and also the length of California tracks. It is several feet up grade from the three-quarter pole to the finish on that course.

Hickok had a lucky streak at that time, and Dame Fortune continued to smile upon him for many succeeding years, but ever since Hulda had the mishap in Chicago the blind goddess has been anything but favorable. The hope that his luck has changed, and with that many years of prosperity in the future is quite strong in my mind, and the fulfillment of that prophecy will be greeted by his hosts of friends.

PLAIN AND TO THE POINT.—There is no uncertain meaning in the words which Iconoclast presents, in his department of the Kentucky Stock Farm, in relation to the pulling of Joe Patchen at Philadelphia. Emphatic words. For instance: "The safest and best way, however, is to have judges and Boards of Reviews who will rigidly enforce the law, and when a driver deliberately pulls a horse to assist a fraud let him be ruled off for life."

"I want no innocent man punished, no matter how humble a position he may hold, and I want no really guilty man to escape, no matter how exalted."

It is a notorious fact that prominent drivers are favored, the writers for the press and associations granting them privileges which would not fall to the lot of one who is not distinguished. I have a good deal of sympathy for those who may be driven by poverty to commit a crime, not a particle for people who have not that excuse.

The report of the race—Patchen and Gentry—in The American Horse Breeder is equally emphatic in denouncing the driving of Curry, and as that was written by one of the editors of that paper, and a very capable critic of harness-horse racing that account can be accepted as a correct representation of the facts, though in fact I have not seen a single account, however favorable to the driver, which did not warrant the action of the judges, and even though the association misrepresented the true status of the horses, that blameable conduct does not exonerate the guilty parties.

I do not offer apologies for false statements of that kind although these have been of such common occurrence, ever since the "hippodrome" was inaugurated, that, in all probability, there have been thousands of instances.

This race has brought the practice into such prominence that the evil will be corrected, and the N. T. A. and A. T. A. should pass stringent laws against such misrepresentation.

But had the true conditions been published, viz., that such a proportion of the gate receipts were to be equally divided between the contestants that would not have absolved them from pacing an honest race. That, as stated before, is the fundamental principle on which racing stands, and the only stable foundation that can be built to sustain the sports of the turf. If it is conceded that absolutely honest racing, in which every heat and every race is honestly fought, is far beyond the limit of probability, a close approximation to the much desired standard will be of great value, and that can be reached through a strict enforcement of laws by judges and governing bodies, and by the aid of horse papers. The last named adjunct is powerful to effect good, and when in place of apologies for and laudations of "smart drivers" who transgress, there are severe criticisms of the course pursued, whether in the stand or sulky, when that course is inimical to the interests depending, there will be augmented assemblages at the trotting meetings, so largely increased the attendance that the most sanguine optimist will be surprised.

Am much pleased to learn, however, from papers received since the opening of this article was written, that quite a number of horse papers and writers on horse affairs condemn in "plain words" the Philadelphia-Gentry-Patchen race. The Horse World publishes: "The Philadelphia affair in which Joe Patchen and Gentry figured throws a new light upon the $5,000 free-for-all at Fleetwood, and upon Joe Patchen's unaccountably poor performance in that race."

Anyhow, it is very doubtful whether the stallion could have beaten the gelding, good as the latter was on that day, but the Philadelphia hippodrome casts a shadow upon the New York contest which it will not be easy to drive away.

Hail! All hail!! The era—which is surely close at hand, when there will be a united press, united in denouncing violations of law and sustaining those who seek to enforce them, not only insisting that rules shall be enforced but strenuous that fair play shall be shown.

HUGELY GRATIFYING.—That the two jockey clubs of San Francisco have come to an amicable settlement, and the "racing war" which has been the theme of so many articles in the daily papers is no longer dreaded. It is a subject in which everyone who is interested in horse breeding, whether for saddle or harness racing, can offer congratulations at the happy culmination, and though I felt quite confident, from the time I wrote the first article in relation to "compromise" until now, that such would be the result when all apprehensions are allayed, the feeling is much more pleasant. For quite a while I was alone in the opinion, that peace would prevail and it may be that the arguments I offered had greater weight with the author than on those who read or listened to them. Then again it may be that I overestimated the danger which would have followed a contest, though many shared in my estimate, and there were certainly good reasons for the belief. As it now stands there could not be a better outlook for racing here this winter than is now presented, and it is safe to assert that it will be on a par, in many respects superior to the meetings of the East.

THE OLD STOCK.—There are few people who have been engaged in breeding horses for any length of time who do not take a deep interest in the stock they have cherished. Not merely the individual animals they have bred or owned but kith and kin, several times removed, come in for a goodly share of their esteem. There must be, of course, a sentimental turn of mind in those who are the most deeply imbued with the feeling mentioned, though this class is numerous, and it is not far out of the way to claim that there is a "working majority." Fast horses bring out sensibility more acutely than any other part of the animal creation, greyhounds next in the category.

One cause for this is the absolute test afforded by race courses and trotting tracks. A "degenerate son of a noble house" cannot sustain his claim, his incapacity is soon shown. The lineaments may favor those of a noted ancestor whose picture hangs upon the wall, he may be of the finest form and highest type of beauty, but if sluggish or coward all that avails him not. The "crucial test" makes or mars. When it proves him worthy of his lineage rejoicing follows.

To revert to the caption. Soon after the fall meeting of 1894 opened I was in the press stand at the Bay District. When looking over a programme there was a horse on it from a mare I once owned. "What is the rate on M—?" I asked a reporter. "Four to one," he responded. "I must put ten dollars on him," was my reply. And coming back forty dollars "ahead" there was a lot of questions, and the answer that he was one of the old stock had to be explained. The explanation that it meant an animal of which I had either owned the sire or dam, or grandsire or grandam, seemed rather a weak "tip" to put money on, but on several subsequent occasions it proved worthy.

The Turf Guide (San Francisco) issued May 4, 1895, was consulted to see what light that shed on the question. From the opening of the meeting until May 4th there were forty-two winners of ninety races, and in addition to the brackets quite a proportion of stars. From the few number of thoroughbreds I have possessed since living in California that may be called a very good showing, and whenever one of the old clan is in a race when I am present it enhances the interest very materially. Even far slighter relationship than that mentioned excites gratified feelings when the one which bears it is among the very noted division. Thus Joe Patchen has a strain of Simpson's Blackbird, and though quite remote, the Blackbird mare being the fourth removed, it may be quite an essential part of his make-up in furnishing a share of his gameness. For that quality and endurance coupled I never knew the equal of "the old horse."

Then the pacing champion of the year, Fido, is not so far from a horse I owned, Clifton Pilot, the grandam of Fido being by that horse, and it may also be that there is a strain of Blackbird back of that. I bought C. P. of M. S. Patrick, then living in Chicago, and sold him to C. A. Vogt, of Iowa City. Mr. Vogt had several Blackbird mares which were bred to Clifton, and there is a chance that the blood might be there. Some of the turf papers claim that the dam of Clifton is untraced, but I feel sure that is an error. He was bred in Kentucky and my impression is that Mr. Patrick bought him of his breeder. At all events he got the pedigree with the horse, which he gave me, and I turned it over to Mr. Vogt. According to my recollection the dam of Clifton Pilot was by Whip Comet, his grandam said to be of Messenger blood.

C. S. Dole, of Chicago, had a mare, Bacchante Mambrino, which I think was from the same mare as C. P., or the sister of C. P.'s dam.

A long while ago, 1865, when I sold C. P. to Mr. Vogt, so that remembrances are not entirely trustworthy, and still these old happenings are oftentimes recalled with a good deal of certainty of correctness. The original bill of sale and pedigree may be in the possession of Mr. Vogt, for I am very sure that they were delivered with the horse.

CALIFORNIA STATE FAIR, 1895.—The prediction that the California State Fair of this year would prove still better than any which had preceded it was fully and completely verified. In one sense there was little hazard in making the prophesy, inasmuch as there has been constant progression, every year adding to the completeness of the exhibition, and a firm determination on the part of the managers not to omit anything which would tend to improvement. The president, several of the directors, and the secretary have served for many years in promoting its welfare, intimately acquainted with every part of the big concern, its machinery under perfect control, not a bearing, box or cogwheel that was not attended to, and it will not be an unapt comparison to liken it to one of the huge modern steamers which, notwithstanding the hulk, runs with as much precision as a well regulated chronometer. That the new members of the board "played well their part" is abundantly in evidence and hence it can be termed an "unqualified success" and that beyond the most rosy anticipations.

So far as I can learn from printed and oral accounts the races gave thorough satisfaction. Few, so very few, suspicious movements that this oftentimes most troublesome feature was nearly eliminated, and when presented, checked so vigorously and promptly that repetition was not ventured. I also am informed that the awards in the various exhibition classes raised fewer growls than had been customary, and therefore, these most trying departments were carried along smoothly.

I offer my hearty congratulations to the officers of the Society over their triumph.

Why Some Trainers do not Succeed.

It is a curious fact that there are many men who have made their living for many years by training and driving horses, but who never seem to have any success in their particular vocation and who almost invariably finish behind the money when they start any of their horses in a race. It has ever been a mystery to us how this particular class of drivers make a living or how they persuade their patrons to entrust to their management every year horses that if properly handled should make successful campaigners. Among drivers and in fact among the representatives of every other kind of business there is always to be found a class that never attain anything like prominence or success. Many of these same unsuccessful ones too, seem to lack not in energy, honesty or a desire to succeed, but every effort on their part seems to be misapplied and falls short of the mark. The success of a man in any business is due largely to his natural ability for that business and particularly is this true as applied to the trainers and drivers of our light harness horses. The saying "drivers are horn not raised," may be partially true, but it is also true that many drivers of the present day could attain greater success if they would discard "old fog" ideas and make room for many of more modern origin. No set of hook rules can be set down as exactly the right thing to follow in training every trotter or pacer. The methods of the most successful trainers vary considerably, and there are not two horses among a hundred that should be handled exactly alike. To the inability of many trainers to realize this fact we can doubtless attribute much of their non-success. At the beginning of the season they will start in with a string of horses from two years of age up to eight or ten. The peculiarities of disposition, natural inclination to trot or pace and the physical ability of the different individuals to stand work are all overlooked; every animal is treated alike and consequently few of them after going a mill of this kind can be expected to race successfully with horses that have received their training from some man who took all their individual peculiarities into consideration when fitting them for a supreme effort. There are many men who are quite capable of gaiting, fitting and properly educating a horse but who are utterly unable to drive a race successfully; while others are experts in the sulky but lack the ability to properly condition their horses for a race. In fact such men as Geers, Dohle, Hickok or men in whom are combined all the attributes of successful trainers and drivers are scarce even at the present day. The methods of training, shoeing and conditioning horses have within the last few years greatly improved for the better, and unless those engaged in it keep pace with the times, they cannot expect to succeed. The man who chooses such an occupation should be a man of sound health and energetic; a man of close observation, quick to perceive and take advantage of the peculiarities of disposition, etc., of the different animals placed in his charge; a man who does not know it all, but is willing to profit by the methods and success of another; a man who can realize that races are not won by beating the field to the half-mile post, but by carefully rating his horse from one end of the mile to the other; a man who cares more for the welfare of his horses than he does for the plaudits of the people in the grand stand, and who instead of putting in his time between heats making kicks to the judges or flirting with some giddy female in the audience, follows his horse to the stable in order to see that it is properly cooled out and prepared for the next heat. In fact, there is so much that a successful driver or trainer should be that we have not the time nor space in which to tell it. There are some things, however, derogatory to success that every one can avoid; for instance, the senseless habit of constantly drilling a string of horses every day until they are muscle sore and track sick; trying to make some horse go at a gait contrary to what his physical conformation or natural inclination has adapted him to go. Starting a horse in a race before he is properly conditioned for it or trying to make race horses out of a lot of cold-blooded, ill-gaited horses that are better adapted for the plow or family carriage than the sulky or race track. Monroe Salishury, whose wonderful success with both trotters and pacers have gained for him the title of "King Maker," says, "I never handled a horse that I would not handle differently if I had it to do over again," which would indicate that he is a man who profits by experience and one who has proved to his own satisfaction that no rule will apply to all horses. Let every man in the business apply himself, profit by his own experience and that of others, be careful to know that a certain mode of procedure is correct and then be firm enough to carry it out and he will be more apt to become a successful driver and trainer than to be forever experimenting at other people's expense.—Spirit of the Turf.

MISS RITA goes without boots or weights and her four shoes weighs less than three-quarters of a pound.

Lynne Belle.

One of the most notable performers of the year is the five-year-old black stallion Lynne Bel. Starting with a record of 2:27½ at the beginning of the season he has steadily reduced this until it now stands at 2:11½, and still his limit has not been found. Out of nine starts, he has won seven races and was second and third in the other two. He is one of the best-gaited trotters now on the turf, and in none of his races this season has he made a single break. He seems to know nothing but trot. He is now the fastest son of that great sire St. Bel, the leading producing son of Electioneer. His dam is Vashti, by Bayonne Prince, and his grandam is Luella, by Mambrino Pilot 29; third dam Minnie H., by Kentucky Pilot, son of Clifton Pilot.

Lynne Bel was bred and is owned by Mr. N. Burgess of Flemington, N. J., proprietor of East Lynne Stock Farm, and his dam and grandam are still the property of Mr. Burgess.

Lynne Bel was started as a two-year-old, taking a record of 2:48 in a winning race. As a three-year-old he got a record of 2:27½. Last year he was not out, but this season he was placed in the hands of the well-known trainer and driver, Ed. Bither, the champion maker. Bither is not an over-sanguine man and is not given very much to prophecy, but he is firm in his belief that Lynne Bel will take a record of 2:08 or better another season.

VILLAGE FARM heads the list of winners at the recent Fleetwood meeting, having won $5500. Billy Andrews captured $3050, Monroe Salishury $2800, besides what he got for special exhibitions, and James Golden also won $2800.

MAY KING, 2:20, sire of Bingen, 2, 2:20½, won a free-for-all in Kentucky the 6th inst., beating Bannermark, Red Bud and Lizzie Harold in 2:24, 2:26½, 2:25½.

CHIMES BOY (2:7½) has been converted to the pace, at which gait he is said to be showing considerable speed.

SAN MATEO, by Simmons, a three-year-old, owned by Joe Thayer, of Lexington, recently stepped a mile in 2:14½.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

BLUEPOINT, L. I. N. Y., Jan. 15, 1894.
Dr. R. J. KENDALL CO.—I bought a splendid bay horse some time ago with a spavin. I got him for $30. I used Kendall's Spavin Cure. The spavin is gone now and I have been offered $150 for the same horse. I only had him nine weeks, so I got $120 for using $2 worth of Kendall's Spavin Cure.

SPECIFIC FOR

Cracked Heels
and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Boot Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a Callous, and will always remove a Callous when caused from a wound.

It removes all soreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salishury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the soreness with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callous remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KLAMATH, 2:08½, says: "Have been trying to cure Klamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are uneasy and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

A FINE DOUBLE TEAM OF FAST TROTTERS.

A splendid pair of roadsters, one of the finest buggy teams in the city, is offered for sale. They are well-bred, fast, stylish, and perfectly gentle—safe for a lady to drive. In breeding they cannot be excelled, being of the most fashionable strains. Any gentleman wanting a fast team will find a bargain in this pair of trotting mares. They are only four years old, and, being untrained, will continue to develop speed by careful handling. They are slightly below medium size, but of strong conformation and perfectly sound. This team may be seen at the Dexter Prince Stable, 1509 Grove Street, near Baker. They will be sold at a low price.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—

- FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
- SECOND It will not cause headache.
- THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
- FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
- FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
- SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
- SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
- EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
- NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST".)
- TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

- First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
- Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
- Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
- Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
- Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
- Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
- Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.

THE PROPOSED NEW GRANDSTAND AT OAKLAND TROTTING PARK.

[PHOTOGRAPHED FROM A WATER COLOR SKETCH FROM PLANS MADE BY M. J. LYONS.]

The Proposed New Grandstand for Oakland Trotting Park.

The above cut represents the style of grand stand to be built at Oakland Trotting Park under plans drawn by M. J. Lyons, the San Francisco architect, and which will be finished by the 1st of January, 1896. The architects are now securing bids on closing contracts on the different kinds of work to be performed. The structure will be in design most unique—something entirely new in the line of grand stands. It is to be modeled after a Japanese temple, with pagoda rising from the roof from twenty to fifty feet, affording to spectators a superb view of the track grounds and surrounding country. The same can be said of the port-cochere in the rear. The timers' stand will be built on the same lines as the grand stand—a miniature Japanese temple, light, handsome and attractive.

We are informed that the main building will be 240 feet long by 80 feet deep, and will have a seating capacity of 2,200. On the west side there will be three grand staircases communicating with the intermediate and upper levels. The betting ring will be 70 feet wide on the ground floor, and will open on the track side. Adjoining will be a bar, lavatories, etc., with separate entrance to the course. The remainder of this floor will be occupied by a restaurant, 44 by 45 feet, kitchen, pantries and an entrance for tradesmen. On the intermediate story will be a large and elaborately finished dining-room, bar, cafe and storerooms. Separate approaches will lead to the center level and the grand stand at three points in addition to the main staircase, affording ample and comfortable exits for large crowds.

An odd point to most race-goers, is that the grand stand proper will be located on the top floor. A feature will be twenty-seven private boxes for patrons of the turf and eleven large boxes for the accommodation of the officers and members of the association. At the top level back of the stand will be a boulevard fifteen feet in width and a 240-foot ring overlooking the entire property. The range of the line of sight has been accurately calculated, so that the crowding seen in many other race courses in this country will be entirely obviated, as from any point on either of the levels on this building the entire track can be seen. At the rear of the grand stand on the upper level will be a bar; in the center ladies' cafe, private dining rooms, while the entire front towards the track is to be of glass.

The towers in the roof will be utilized for officers' quarters and a station for the press and telegraph operators. The grand stand will be built at an elevation of 7 degrees above the present level, and will be set at an angle of 12 degrees from the actual line of stretch. This, with the absence of posts on the front of the grand stand in accordance with the Japanese style of roof-hanging, will permit of an unobstructed view of the races from all parts of the building.

A better picture would have been obtained than the above if the drawing from which the half-tone was made had been in black and white. It was made from a water color sketch, but will serve to give an idea of how the stand will appear. The difficulty of making a half-tone from a water color sketch where reds, yellows, browns and blues predominate will be appreciated by all those who understand the process.

Closing Days of Stockton's Fair.

FIFTH DAY—FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 20.

The races yesterday were the best of the week, and the large crowd at the track enjoyed the sport. The programme was long, and the gentlemen's huggy race and the butchers' contest of speed were postponed with the unfinished 2:15 trot. The district 2:23 pacing race was declared off, but enough was left to make a lot of fun for to day. The best time of the meeting was made yesterday by the pacer Loupe, who won a second heat in 2:12½. The excitement of the day was in the 2:15 trotting race, in which the old campaigner Boodle won two heats from the fast fago, and left the score, two and two, to be settled to-day. Iago was a big favorite in the early betting, as he has a record of 2:11, made in Sacramento, and was known to be faster than the horse, but Boodle held to him and took the third and fourth heats. There was some dissatisfaction over the decision of the judges in the third heat, and hackers of Iago thought the heat should be given to their horse, as Boodle made three skips in going the circuit, but the ruling was for the old horse. If Iago is in good fix to-day he ought to win the deciding heat with ease. Under the rules Hillsdale must go to the stable, not having won a heat in four, and the unfinished race will be between Iago and Boodle, to be settled in one heat.

Bernardo was an easy thing in the first heat of the half mile and repeat running race, but when he came back to the judges' stand he was bleeding at the nose and had a slight limp. Cloud was second and Regal third. El Rey was left at the post after making a number of breaks and changing his position. It was no fault of the starter, as he was moving while the hunch were coming up. Time, 0:50½.

The favorite brought $10 to $6 for the field before the horses went to the post again. Connaught set the pace to the stretch, when Bernardo moved up to his saddle and Regal made a bid for first place, but the favorite was under a pull and came home an easy winner in 0:50½, Regal second and got second money, Cloud third and third money.

The mile and a quarter run over five hurdles proved an exciting event and a very enjoyable one as well. "White Hat" McCarthy's Guadalupe, an old-time jumper, won easily from Barcalaine in 2:22½. The others failed to clear the hurdles and were disqualified.

The knowing ones plunged on Loupe to win the 2:19 pace, but Javelin upset them by taking the first heat from Prince Nutwood in a close finish, with Loupe third. The favorite made a bad break on the lower turn and spoiled his chances of winning the heat. Time, 2:17. Loupe $20, Javelin $15 and the field $5 was the way the pools sold. Mutuals paid $5 55.

The men who had rushed to the favorite hedged on Javelin in the second heat but were not good guessers, for Loupe was driven out on Javelin in a close finish in fast time. Prince Nutwood as usual went out with a spurt, but quit at the head of the stretch. Loupe first, Javelin second and Ella W. came in third. Time, 1:12½.

Javelin, who was leading a hundred yards from the wire, tired to a walk, and Loupe came on and took the third heat by over a length in 2:14, Javelin second, Ella W. third. The betting was Loupe $20 to $5 for the field.

Loupe took the final heat in 2:17 and first money easily from Javelin, who made his highest effort and got second money. Ella W. also made a bid for the position, but the pace was too hot for her and she finished third and got third money.

The judges were compelled to sandwich the heats in the 2:19 pace and 2:15 trot. The trotters were given the word to as near a perfect a start as was ever made. Hillsdale led to the head of the stretch when the favorite, Iago, moved up and won without being crowded. Hillsdale was second and Boodle third. Time, 2:16. The betting was light, as the talent conceded the race to Iago, the favorite being $25 against $5 for the others in the field.

The favorite won the second heat in a drive from Boodle, a very game horse, in 2:14. Iago led all the way, with Boodle second and Hillsdale third. Iago was harried in the betting and Hillsdale sold favorite, but those on the inside were slightly wrong, as game old Boodle burned up their money.

The third heat came near breaking the talent, as Boodle drove a nail in their coffin by passing Iago about thirty feet from the wire and winning in a short length. He made three skips, but Van Bokkelen set him down with but little loss. Hillsdale got the place. Time, 2:14. Some big hedging was done immediately after the heat by those who had been playing Iago earlier in the day.

Boodle went out and won the fourth heat in 2:16½, with Hillsdale second and the favorite, Iago, in third place—an awful disappointment to the knowing fellows who had backed the fast Iago to win. Hamrock was drawn on account of lameness, leaving the race to Iago, Boodle and Hillsdale. The race could not be finished, owing to darkness, and the perplexed hackers of the trotters who had each two heats came into town to guess on the winner of the next day. Men who backed Boodle thought he could have won the race if another heat had been trotted, but Iago's hackers were confident that he could get up to his speed on another attempt, for they saw him trot in 2:11 at Sacramento.

The gentlemen's driving race and the butchers' race were postponed and the district 2:23 pacing contest was declared off.

SIXTH DAY—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21.

To-day was a very disagreeable day at the track, and the people who went out to see the sport had to look through clouds of dust and flying things to see the contestants. The wind made all the races slow and dried out the track so that the horses could not do themselves justice. There was considerable sport, however, despite the weather.

The contests were hard fought, and in the half-mile dash there was considerable complaining because the judges set Jim Bozeman back for fouling Nevere and gave the race to the filly. The decision also suspended the jockey, Walter Gilbert, who rode Bozeman, but the boy hoped to be reinstated before the night was over, as the rider of Nevere, Joe Narvez, and the owner of the filly, W. R. Ruggles, assured the judges that the fouling was accidental.

Iago took the deciding heat of the 2:15 trot, after making a bad break on the upper turn, in which he lost five lengths. Boodle was driven off his feet in the stretch. Time, 2:15½.

The horses in the protested race went to the post well backed, at $10 for Lady Gray, $8 for Nevere and $8 for the field. The short-enders thought they had made a killing, as Jim Bozeman, with Gilbert up, led all the way, but Joe Narvez, who rode Nevere, entered a protest.

He claimed that Bozeman interfered with him just after starting, when Gilbert pulled in to take the position next the pole, and struck the filly, who was running in the lead, sending her back so she could not get together in time to make up the loss. The collision forced Nevere into the fence and tore off one of the rider's stirrups.

After hearing both sides the judges decided that Nevere, who had been selling second in the pools, was entitled to the race and first money. Lady Gray was given second money and Peixotto third.

The five-furlong sprint was a betting race. Money poured into the box at $10 for Gracie S., the field at $7 and Blue Belle $5. The favorite was sent to the front as soon as the flag fell and was never headed. Harry Lewis was second and Blue Belle was third.

Seven horses were given the word to a fair start in the 2:19 trot for the $1,000 purse. Bruno went to the front and kept it till the head of the stretch, when Zombro moved up and won the heat by half a length from Bruno, Chico close up and Irene Crocker next.

With Zombro harried in the betting, Bruno and Irene Crocker sold for even money—$20 to $10 for the field. The second heat was one of the best contests of the meeting. Zombro led all the way around, with Chico second. Bruno and Irene Crocker made a bid for the heat, but the pace was too fast. Crocker got second place by a nose.

The pools sold Bruno $10 and the field $8.

The deciding heat of the race was taken by Zombro as easily as he landed the others. A hard drive took place down the stretch between Irene Crocker, Chico and Bruno. Crocker finished in the lead, with Chico second, but the judges placed the pair tied for second, and gave Bruno third position.

The 2:15 pace was declared off as it would have been impossible to have finished it, as darkness had set in when the final heat of the trot was finished. The judges gave out their decision in the last race and announced that the meet was over.

Running, half a mile, purse $100—Nevere (Narvaez), 115 won; Lady Gray (Glover), 115, second; Peixotto (Dennison), 115, third. Pembroke (110), Colleen Bawn (105) and Jim Bozeman (115) also ran. Jim Bozeman finished first, but was disqualified for fouling.

Running, five furlongs, owners' handicap; purse $1,000—Gracie S. (Gilbert), 110, won; Harry Lewis (Fitzgerald), 88, second; Blue Belle (Hazlett), 98 third. Ike L. (113) and Garcia (100) also ran. Time, 1:03.

Gideon Heads the List at Sheepshead.

At the autumn meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club, which ended yesterday, eighty-four races were run, in which 286 horses started. The amount raced for was $153,875, divided among fifty-one owners. Those who won $500 and over follow:

D. Gideon, $60,060; Blemton Stable, $10,345; Pueblo Stable, $10,058; Marcus Daly, $8,741; Brookdale Stable, $8,415; Santa Anita Stable, $7,125; P. Dunne, $3,360; J. W. Rogers, $3,085; L. Eziel, $2,890; J. R. & F. P. Keene, $2,800; Erie Stable, $2,735; P. Lorillard, $2,427; J. J. McCafferty, $2,337; J. E. Seagram, $2,290; W. M. Wallace, $2,215; P. J. Dwyer, $2,170; J. Ruppert Jr., $1,885; Ramapo Stable, $1,855; A. H. & D. H. Morris, $1,710; Duke & Wishard, $1,530; R. L. Rose, $1,500; G. E. Smith, $1,330; Pastime Stable, $1,300; C. Littlefield Jr., $995; Ed Brown, $965; C. H. Smith, $825; Oneck Stable, $750; B. McClelland, $735; D. Higgins, $680; J. H. Kelly & Co., $600; J. McLaughlin, $585; W. Donohue, $580; F. Burtin, $535; M. F. Dwyer, $530; A. Atkins, $530; D. Stuart, $500.

Of the above the Brookdale Stable received $4,000, Pueblo Stable, $2,500, and J. B. Haggin $1,000 as breeders of the first, second and third for the Futurity stakes.

It will be noticed that the names of a number of owners that did not send horses out last winter appear in the stakes of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, while nearly every one of those that had strings here from the other side of the Rockies last year are represented.

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

Two Records of Long Standing Shattered in One Day—Some Superb Racing—Favorites Generally Successful.

FIRST DAY—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21.

HE weather on this, the opening day of the fall meeting of the California Jockey Club, was delightful. Bright sunlight made the newly-painted fences look like new, the track was like a piece of brown plush and the large flag in the center field added to the scene. But the attendance was very, very light. The presence of fifteen pool rooms down town free to the public had a more magnetic influence in drawing the old timers who used to grace the race track with their presence than the excitement of seeing the horses increase or decrease their little rolls. The lookout for some of these pool rooms was safely ensconced in a tower which was built on a convenient roof not a hundred yards from the track. From here, by the aid of powerful field glasses and a confederate to signal the proper numbers of the horses that won, a telephone carried the news to town.

There was no excitement at the track, the racing was excellent, the judges did their part well, the bookmakers gave good odds, but the people who have been enjoying a three weeks' rest hardly seemed to get over the effects of that vacation.

The entries in the various events were light because a number of horses that would have entered to-day are on the circuit, battling for fame and coin, their owners having an idea that a change is beneficial. They will be returning soon, then we shall see large fields and enthusiastic crowds. Seven books in the big ring were counted, two combination books, a field book and the wheel of fortune gave bettors opportunities enough to win big simoleons in any way they chose.

The absence of the band of music was noticeable. The dulcet strains of "You Can't Lose Me, Charley," "If I Could Only Pick the Winner," and "The Band Played On," were not heard, and no one felt like going in mourning for the wind-charmers.

This was a bad day for "the talent." Only one favorite, Duchess of Towers, a 1 to 4 shot, winning, second choices capturing the rest of the events. More books will doubtless be put on next week, the bookmakers having had a very encouraging opening day.

The judges were that well-known newspaper correspondent, Charley Trevathan and President Thos. H. Williams Jr., and their decisions were correct. Edwin F. Smith, of Sacramento, will not take his place in the stand until after October 1st. A number of changes were noticeable among the employees at the track, many new men taking the place of the older ones.

The card to-day contained six events, but one of them, the hurdle race, was scratched. The start in two races was not quite up to Starter Ferguson's standard, Sir Richard and Belle Boyd getting the best of their fields by over a length apiece.

The riding of Jockey Donahue on Duchess of Towers and Claudius stamps him as one of the best we have ever seen at this track, while Sloan covered himself with glory by the way he rode Belle Boyd from the seven-eighths pole home.

How the Races Were Run.

The first event was a selling race, six furlongs, for maidens. Duchess of Towers was favorite at 1 to 4, played down from 2 to 5. Bob Tucker 5, Jefferson 10, Tyrena 30, 200 at post time, Yreka 5, Jim Corbett 15, Willie Gibson 10, Charlie W. 8. Jefferson took the lead, Bob Tucker and Tyrena at his shoulder, Duchess of Towers was fourth. Going to the half-pole Tyrena passed Bob Tucker, but Duchess of Towers, coming on the outside, passed all but Jefferson. At the three-quarter pole Donahue, sitting still, guided his mare, passed this colt and led the bunch by two lengths. The battle for place was between Bob Tucker and Jefferson, but the former seemed the stronger and won the coveted position by one and a half lengths, Duchess of Towers was fully two lengths further in the lead. Tyrena was a length and a half behind Jefferson, the rest strung along in procession-like order. Time, 1:15½.

The five and a half furlong selling race brought out four good, strong-looking sprinters. Tim Murphy, who was favorite in the pools at 9 to 10, Sir Richard 7 to 5, Rosebud '6 and Lady Jane 5. The start was delayed some time; finally the flag dropped with Sir Richard a length in advance of the trio. He ran like a scared wolf and kept well in advance of his pursuers until rounding the back turn. Rosebud closed up the gap and at her neck was Tim, the roan, Lady Jane at his saddle. Tim stumbled and almost fell to his knees, while Rosebud was gaining on Sir Richard. It was a struggle to the wire between these two. Sir Richard only won it by a head, and were it not for Willie Flynn's vigorous ride Rosebud would have captured all the money. Tim Murphy beat Lady Jane at the drawgate for third place. Time, 1:07½.

The next race was one in which the talent gratified their tastes by indulging extravagantly in bets on Gratify at even money and putting fifty dollars up to win forty. Belle Boyd was second choice at 2, Joe K. was heavily played at 5, Instigator 6 and Elsie at 6, while the handsome, unknown Loury O'Connor was nibbled at by a few at 15 to 1. The start was a miserable one for all but Belle Boyd. She had at least a length the best of it, and with Sloan on her back she was not slow in making the best of it. Joe K. was the first to leave the bunch, then Gratify, at his saddle, joined him; the rest seemed outclassed. Until the homestretch was reached Sloan never looked backward, but rode like a demon, while Hinrichs, on the heavily-weighted favorite, was riding as only Hinrichs can. On the inside, close to the rail, the brown colt Instigator was making a bid for place and Donahue was lifting him at every stride. At the seven-eighths pole Sloan used his whip when he saw Gratify's nose at his side. He just managed to get his good mare past the wire a head in front of the favorite, Instigator two lengths behind. Time, 1:13.

A mile and a furlong race is always interesting, and when the following-named came past the post every one knew there was to be a good race. Wheel of Fortune was the favorite, and $10 had to be placed in the bookmakers' hands to get $7 against it on this chestnut filly. Rear Guard, a little tender on one foot, sold at 2 and 3 to 1. His gameness being acknowledged in this way by the knowing ones, Claudius, by Brutus, was selling at 4 and Carmel at 12, when the quartette was lined up. The start was a good one. Rear Guard cut out the pace, but before he had gone an eighth of a mile, Wheel of Fortune rolled by him. Carmel was third and Claudius, going under a pull, was last. These positions remained unchanged until the three-quarter mile was passed. Then Claudius passed on the outside, and ran head and head with Rear Guard to the head of the stretch. Donahue was then seen to lean forward and begin to ride. He soon left Rear Guard, and inch by inch gained on the flying Wheel. At the seven-eighths pole he was on even terms with her, and won in a driving finish by half a length in the splendid time of 1:53½. The last mile of the journey was made in 1:40½. Rear Guard was third and quite lame, Carmel fourth.

The last event, a dash of about six furlongs, brought out four two-year-olds, Grady, a favorite at 9 to 10, Mainstay 7 to 5, Long Lady 5 and Verdette 50. Mainstay got away in the lead and was never headed. Long Lady surprised the talent by making a splendid run, coming from the last place and being second. Grady ran a disappointing race, while Verdette was last on the homestretch, just out of his class. The time made was 1:12½.

SECOND DAY—MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 2.

The attendance to-day was poor and the desire to wager bets on the horses very weak. The bookies were not as actively engaged in taking in coin as they would like, and the talent was not as anxious to get tickets as they might have been had the crowd been larger and more enthusiastic.

The weather was lovely; no other word could express it—clear and warm, no banks of fog were lying on Farallones beach nor high winds swaying the branches of the trees in the park. Light summer dresses were worn by the fair sex and the gentlemen wore their coolest suits. The racing was excellent. Two track records were broken, showing that the track and the condition of the horses were up to the record-breaking standard.

The wonderfully easy way Tim Murphy landed his race in 1:06½ was in marked contrast to the way he ran last Saturday. He had a good runner-up in Burns & Waterhouse's Duchess of Towers to-day, and any one who says these gentlemen do not know how to select a race horse does not speak the "plain, unvarnished truth," for they will, before 1897, have the best stable of horses in America. Tim Murphy is a race horse of the highest class when he is right, and it is very seldom he is behind the money. Willie Flynn rode him with good judgment to-day. The other record-breaker, Remus, is a well-made, small brown horse by Brutus and was ridden by Tod Sloan in an admirable manner. This jockey never touched him with whip or spur but just let him run of his own free will, and the way in which he ran the mile and seventy yards in 1:44½ was one of the prettiest sights ever seen on a race track. Judge Trevathan signalled two fields away, leaving two bad actors, Steadfast and Carmel, at the post, and we want to commend him for it. If horses are not trained so that they can behave at the post they should not be allowed to start. Coleman is another unruly, Pescador-like horse, and were it not for the masterly work done by Jockey Hinrichs this horse would be trying to dig the clouds out of the sky with his fore feet yet. Agitato ran an excellent race, the favorite, Elmer F., running a yaller dog race from start to finish, his jockey seeming to forget whether he was out for pleasure or profit. A little more ginger in the saddle on this black horse would have been appreciated by the talent. After Johnson, the jockey, got off this horse he was bitten or kicked in the head by the latter, but it did not help him to win the next race he was in, although he seemed to put more vigor in his work.

Nephew, another favorite, could not run the first part of the mile race he was in, and ran a Happy Day race, but he did not start in time to make the run for Mamie Scott won with Chevalier up in 1:41½, Nephew gaining at the finish. Olivia, a mare owned by Frank Van Ness, was suffering from a lame foot and her owner wanted her scratched just before the race, but could not do so. She won easily, while Van Ness had $5 on her straight and $5 for place.

The winning jockeys were Shaw, E. Jones, W. Flynn, Chevalier and Sloan.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was a six-furlong selling event for three-year-olds and upwards. Elmer F. was favorite at 3 to 2, Agitato selling at 2 to 1 and played down to even money, Coleman 12, Mendocino 12, Haymarket 20, Steadfast 50, Dr. Gardner 200. Steadfast ran away two miles before he was stopped, then Coleman indulged in enough capers to make a circus horse leave his oats. The start was delayed thirty minutes by him, finally the flag fell, he having the best of it by a half length, the favorite, Elmer F., in the rear to keep any of the stragglers from retreating past him. Agitato colared Coleman at the head of the homestretch and came in a winner by two lengths in an easy jog in 1:15½, Coleman second and Mendocino last, Elmer F. away behind the fast ones.

In the second event, a six-furlong dash, the following appeared: Olivia, 3 to 1; Conde, 2½ to 1; Normandie, 3½ to 1; Johnny Payne, 6; Arno, 6; Vernon, 15, and Dick O'Malley, 100 to 1. The start was an excellent one. Conde and Johnny Payne left the balance of the horses, opening a gap of two lengths at the first quarter, Normandie third and Olivia fourth. These positions were unchanged until they entered the stretch. Then Olivia was seen to shoot out to the front, close to Johnny Payne, and Arno, who was fifth, was at her saddle. Conde quit at the seven-eighths pole, and Olivia and Arno passed him and then left Johnny Payne behind them. To the wire it was an easy race, Olivia coming in a winner by a length and a half, Arno second and Johnny Payne last. Time, 1:15½.

The five and a half furlong race had five starters: Tim Murphy 3 to 5, Duchess of Towers 5, Rico 7, Candor 12, Nervoso 4. The start was an excellent one. Tim Murphy took the lead, with Duchess of Towers at his saddle and Nervoso third, a like distance behind her. The roan gelding kept in front all the way, with Duchess of Towers close beside him. Nervoso fell back in the homestretch, and Candor passed him, coming in third. Tim Murphy won by a length, whipped out, from Duchess of Towers. Candor was third. The time hung up was 1:06½, beating the Coast record.

In the one mile selling race there were five starters: Nephew 1 to 2, Mamie Scott 7 to 1, May Day 3, Silver 50, Nellie G. 30. The start was one of Starter Ferguson's best. Nephew, May Day and Silver led, but before the first eighth was reached Nephew dropped back to last place. May Day, Silver and Mamie Scott was the order they were bunched going down the backstretch, with Nephew seven lengths behind. Going to the three quarters they separated, Mamie Scott in the lead, Nellie G. second, May Day third, Silver fourth and Nephew fifth. Rounding into the homestretch Nephew came like a racehorse and Sloane rode him with all the skill and persuasiveness he is possessed of, but he began his ride too late, for although he passed every horse but the leader, Mamie Scott, he was enabled to gain on her, and the fleet little mare won in the excellent time of 1:41½, a length and a half in front of him. Nellie G. third.

The last race of the day was for a mile and seventy yards. The entries and odds were as follows: Remus was favorite at 11 to 5, Fannie Louise 3, Malo Diablo 2, Little Bob 3, Charmer 7 and Carmel 15. The latter horse acted so badly at the post that Judge Trevathan ordered the starter to let the rest off without him. Remus, Little Bob and Fannie Louise took the lead, Remus kept well in front, Sloane, his rider, never urging him from start to finish. Charmer who was fourth on entering the homestretch, passed Fannie Louise at the seven-eighths pole and was third, one length behind Little Bob, who was a length behind the easy-going winner in 1:44½ (last mile in 1:40), beating the record of 1:45½.

THIRD DAY—TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24.

The races to-day were good enough to attract a splendid attendance, but for down-town pool room reasons the crowds failed to flock to the Bay District track. The weather was perfect and everything favorable for good racing was presented.

There were five events listed, and good racing was anticipated. Those who attended enjoyed every event, and many took interest in the activity of Mr. B. C. Holly, who never failed to bid up the winner. He did not get any he bid on, but he swelled the receipts of the association, and his action will, no doubt, force owners to put a higher valuation on their horses.

Four favorites finished in front, and those of the talent who were plucky enough to give odds felt very happy as they stood in line behind the bookmakers' boxes.

There was only one decision of the judges that caused any comment, and that was in the first, where Tamalpais was given the place over Gondola. The latter was thought by all those who were behind the wire and on both sides of it to have got the place by a good head, but the judges saw the finish in a different light and gave it to Tamalpais.

There were no records smashed to-day, but the time made in all the events was excellent. Burns & Waterhouse owned two winners—Long Lady and Rosebud—and have reason to be proud of them.

There was not much betting in the ring to-day; the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN tipped four winners and one second horse, and those who followed these "good things" had no reason to complain.

The winning jockeys were Chevalier, Donahue, McIntyre, Jones and Flynn.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was a five furlong dash. Corinne Buckingham was favorite at 2 to 1, Royal Spirit 11 to 5, Gondola 7, Red Will 3, Rayo 7, Gonzales Maid 60 and Tamalpais 60. The start was a fair one. Rayo, Red Will and Tamalpais took the lead. Gondola was a length behind the others. The horses kept well bunched, and Hinrichs on Gondola went around on the outside and passed them all except Tamalpais and Red Will, and under the wire he seemed to have Tamalpais beaten a head, but the judges decided that Tamalpais was second and Gondola third. Red Will won by a length. Time, 1:01½. B. C. Holly bid the winner $200 above his entered price, but his owner retained him at $305.

The second event, a five and a half furlong race, brought out seven horses. Long Lady was at 4 to 5, Veragua 4, Tiberius 9, Cardwell 9, Virgie A. 15, Josephine 25, Von Dunk 60. Veragua, Cardwell and Von Dunk spurred to the front, Lady Long last. At the three-quarters Cardwell passed Veragua and Tiberius came up and passed Von Dunk. Long Lady on the outside was making her way to the front, and at the seven-eighths pole was leading. She won by three-quarters of a length from Tiberius, who was a like distance in front of Cardwell. Time, 1:07½. B. C. Holly bid the winner up $500, but she was bid in by her owners, Burns and Waterhouse.

The next race was a five-furlong spin for maidens, with maiden jockeys in the saddle. There were seven starters, with Rosebud a prohibitive 1 to 4 favorite. Jefferson and Bob Tucker received the most support for the place. The boys were all so anxious to get out of the maiden class that they gave the starter all sorts of trouble at the post, causing him to first remove his coat and then to expostulate with them, but without avail. Then, throwing both arms in the air, he burst forth in a passionate appeal, which proved successful, and the bunch was sent away in good order. Jefferson led to the stretch, when the favorite walked past him and won by two lengths to 1:01½. The winner, entered to be sold for $300, received a raise of $400, her owners bidding her in.

The next race was for six and a half furlongs. There were only three starters: Mainstay 2 to 5, Capt. Rees 8 to 5 and Adam 7 to 1. The start was fair. Mainstay took the lead and opened a gap of one length at the half pole in front of Adam, who was a good length in front of Capt. Rees. At the three-quarter pole Mainstay had increased his lead three lengths, and Capt. Rees was abreast of Adam. On entering the stretch Mainstay slackened in his speed a little, and Capt. Rees came up to within a length of him, and as the latter crossed in front and took the rail he kept his advantage to the wire and won in 1:21, one length in front of Capt. Rees, and he was two and a half lengths in front of Adam.

The next event was a mile race. The entries were Candor 1 to 2, Mary S. 3 to 2, Hanford 7, Elsie 10, Sympathetic's Last 2½. Hanford took the lead with Candor and Mary S. at his saddle. At the half Candor pushed to the front and soon had the front of the procession. Hanford came in a length behind, Mary S. third. Time, 1:42.

FOURTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25.

Four favorites made the hearts of "the talent" beat with joy this piping hot afternoon, and of course there was corresponding unhappiness in the speculative arena among the knights of the chamois-skin and slates. The weather was of the sort that inspires horses to their highest flights of speed—a red hot sun beating down from a cloudless sky. The track was never in finer shape, the fields contained horses of fair caliber, and the races were quite exciting throughout. Donahue was up on two winners, while L. Lloyd, Shaw and Chevalier piloted the remaining victorious ones. Eight books drew in, and they seemed to do a very fair business.

Red Will, second choice at 5 to 1, was the longest shot to win, and he was not without admirers. The Duchess of Towers' performance in the fourth race was truly remarkable. She was nine or ten lengths behind the leader at that point, yet came on and wonderfully by a length in very fast time.

Kathleen and Easel alternated in the lead to the homestretch in the first race, then Gold Bug, third, came through and won handily by one and a half lengths from the fast-coming Joe Cotton, Kathleen a good third.

Agitato, the favorite, led nearly all the way in the mile race, winning handily by two lengths from Vernon, who was three from the quitting Tom Clarke. Elmer F. ran a better race than on his first appearance.

Key Alta, a red-hot first choice, led to the homestretch by two lengths in the third race. Red Will stuck gamely to his work, however, and heading Key Alta in the final sixteenth, beat him out about three-quarters of a length. Warago was a distant third.

In the fourth Fly and Red Bird, a length or so apart, appeared to have the race to themselves for nearly three-eighths of a mile. Then Duchess of Towers, the favorite, began moving up from a bad last place, winning in the end quite handily by a length in 1:07 for five and a half furlongs. The run she made from the half in was truly phenomenal, and stamps her a great filly.

Sam Leake, under the stoutest kind of restraint, ran third to the homestretch, and when given his head won easily from Benham by a length, Fireman a poor third.

How the Races Were Run.

Gold Bug was made a hot favorite in the opening event, five furlongs, light welter weights, selling, opening at 9 to 5, closing at 7 to 5. Sligo was at 4 to 1, Easel 6 (7 for some time), Joe Cotton and Kathleen 8, Nabopolasser 20 and Margaret M. 30 to 1. To a good start Kathleen at once shot to the front, opening up a gap of three lengths in the first sixteenth, then Easel went up to her in good shape, the pair passing the half close together, two lengths before Margaret M. and the favorite, head and head. Easel led by a neck as they turned for home, with Kathleen second and old Gold Bug now at her heels. Lloyd rode the Bug with his hands to some extent in the homestretch, but at the end the compact little chestnut won handily by about two lengths, Joe Cotton coming strong enough at the finish to beat Kathleen out half a length for the place. Easel tired badly the last part of it. Time, 1:01½—a good run with the weight up.

The second race, one mile, selling, had six starters. Agitato reigned a warm favorite, his general price being 7 to 10. Tom Clarke was at 6 to 1, Snow Blossom and Elmer F. 8, Vernon 10 and Mendocino 25 to 1. They went away to an excellent send-off, Tom Clarke, Elmer F., Snow Blossom being the order as the flag fell. Agitato, close to the inner rails, was soon ridden into the lead, being over a length to the good at the quarter, Elmer F. and Snow Blossom heads apart as named. At the half Agitato was leading by two lengths, while Tom Clarke had run up second, a head before Elmer F., Vernon at his heels. Into the homestretch it was Agitato first by two lengths, Tom Clarke second, as far from Vernon. Vernon was cut loose coming down the straight, but Agitato was not to be caught, winning handily by two lengths, Vernon second, three from Tom Clarke, who beat Elmer F. half as far. Time, 1:42½.

Key Alta was a sizzling hot favorite in the third event, a five-furlong selling race, opening at 2 to 1, closing at even money. Red Will was steadily at 5 to 1, Warago 6, Duchess of Milpitas 8, Soon Enough 9 (12 at the opening), Monarch 25, Royal Spirit 30 and O'Bea 50 to 1. They were sent away to a good start for all but Soon Enough, who was about three lengths behind the last horse in the bunch as the flag fell. Red Will, Warago, Key Alta was the order. Key Alta soon passed his friends, leading Monarch and Red Will, running head and head. Into the homestretch Key Alta was still two lengths to the good, Red Will second, as far from Monarch, who was a head before Royal Spirit. Key Alta was in distress a sixteenth from home, and Red Will, vigorously ridden, won cleverly by three parts of a length. Key Alta second, four lengths in front of Warago, who beat Soon Enough two. The latter ran an awful good race from where he got away. Time, 1:01.

In the fourth event, a five and a half furlong handicap, Duchess of Towers opened an even money favorite, was backed down to 4 to 5, closed at even money. Royal Flush was backed from 3½ to 1 to 11 to 5. Fly was at 6 to 1, Rico 12, Red Bird 25 to 1. They got away well hunched, the order being Red Bird, Rico, Fly. Fly led by one and a half lengths past the half, Red Bird second, six lengths before Royal Flush. The favorite was absolutely last, and her backers were not enthused. But heavens! how she closed up going to the three quarter pole. Fly led into the homestretch by a length, Red Bird second, as far from Duchess of Towers. Fly quit about a sixteenth from home, Duchess of Towers coming on to a clever length victory, Red Bird lasting long enough to beat Rico out a neck for the place. Time, 1:07—a very fast run.

Sam Leake was made a torrid first-choice in the last race, five furlongs, for two-year-olds, opening at 8 to 5 and closing at even money. Benham opened at evens and closed at 9 to 5, Fireman 5½ to 1, Encino 25 and Mollie Bradford 100 to 1. They were away well hunched, Benham, Fireman, Encino the order. Benham led Encino a head at the half, Sam Leake, cut off once, another length away. The order was the same entering the homestretch, where Leake was under a terrific pull. In the last furlong Sam Leake was given his head a little, and simply romped in a winner by a length, Benham second, two and one-half lengths before Fireman. Time, 1:01½.

AT THE GARDEN CITY.

Successful Opening of the Annual Fair at San Jose—Excellent Contests.

FIRST DAY—TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27.

The opening day of the annual fair of the Santa Clara Valley Agricultural Society was a success. The weather was clear and sunny, the track was never in better condition and the crowd, while not large, was of good size for a first day. Most important of all, the races were excellent and the time made satisfied even the most exacting race-goers. The feature of the day was the fast mile made by Fred Mason, who, in the first heat of the initial race, paced a mile in 2:10.

The time made was remarkable from the fact that five heats were made in less than 2:15, something which has never before happened at this track. The speed to which the drivers put their horses bore conclusive evidence that the public were witnessing genuine races, in which the best horse was certain to carry away the money.

The officials in charge of the speed contests were as follows: Judges—William Buckley, George H. Bragg and R. D. Fox; timers—James Boyd, M. F. Edwards and John Morehead.

It was 2 o'clock when the bell tapped for the special 2:13 class pace for a $500 purse; beats, best three in five. L. H. Warburton's b m Ella W. had been scratched early in the day, leaving four contestants. These were Morse & Misner's b g Plunkett, driven by D. R. Misner; La Siesta Ranch's b g Fred Mason, driven by Ed Lafferty; W. K. Robinson's b s Ketchum, driven by George Mahen and S. C. Tryon's b s Hanford Medium, driven by his owner.

Fred Mason was a hot favorite in the betting and sold for $20 to $10 for the field. That was the opening figure, but a little later the quotations were Fred Mason $10, field $4.

In the toss for positions Plunkett won the pole, Fred Mason was given second place, Ketchum third, with Hanford Medium on the outside. After scoring a dozen times the horses were sent away with Fred Mason in the lead, Plunkett second, Hanford Medium third and Ketchum last. Ketchum has a reputation for ill-temper, and yesterday he was at his worst. He is capable of putting up a good race, but only went as far as the eighth-pole, at which point he deliberately ran into the fence. He was then sent back to the stables. The positions of the other three horses never changed. Lafferty put Fred Mason through at a clip that prevented Plunkett and Hanford Medium from even becoming dangerous. The quarter was passed in 0:33, the half in 1:04 and the three-quarters in 1:36. Mason finished well in the lead, making a new record for himself, having paced the mile in the fast time of 2:10.

No pools were sold on the second heat, as no one cared to risk money against Fred Mason. This heat was a repetition of the first, although not so fast. Mason won all the way around. Plunkett again followed him under the wire, with Hanford Medium an indifferent third. The time for the mile was 2:13.

The third heat furnished a pretty contest between Mason and Plunkett, and coming up the stretch it looked as if the favorite would be beat-n out. Mason had just enough left in him to win, hard pressed, beating the game Plunkett by a head. Hanford Medium was again a poor third. The time made was 2:13½.

The 2:23 class trotting race called out five horses—O. Marchand's bay mare Lady O., driven by the owner; W. S. Mahen's bay stallion Native State, driven by George Mahen; Winship & Keating's black mare Ethel Downs, driven by Keating; Weathera & Lowery's bay mare Letter B., driven by S. E. Kent, and E. T. Breen's sorrel mare Maud H., driven by C. Rodriguez.

In the betting Ethel Downs was a great favorite, selling for $20, while only $5 could be obtained for the field.

In the first heat the start showed Ethel Downs in the lead. At the quarter, which was reached in 0:35, she was still in front, Native State second, Maud H. third, Letter B. fourth and Lady O. fifth. The half was passed in 1:09, the position of the horses remaining the same. At the three quarters, which was reached in 1:50, the positions were unchanged as to the two leaders, but Letter B. had forged ahead of Maud H. and held third place. A pretty race ensued when the stretch was reached, at which point Ethel Downs led Native State by a length. Native State made a great effort, but the black mare was too fast for him. Ethel Downs won the heat in 2:14, Native State second, Letter B. third, Maud H. fourth and Lady O. fifth.

No pools were sold on the second or third heats of this race, as the sporting men to a man wanted to place their money on Ethel Downs and no other horse. In the second heat the black mare again started off in the lead, and was never headed. Letter B. broke shortly after crossing the wire, and dropped back from third to last. Ethel Downs won the heat in 2:14, State second, Lady O. third, Maud H. fourth, Letter B. fifth.

Native State gave Ethel Downs a great contest for the third and final heat of the race, but Keating let the black mare out coming down the stretch. Native State was beaten by a head. Lady O. was third, Maud H. fourth, Letter B. fifth. The heat was run in 2:15. The purse of $500 was divided as follows: Ethel Downs, $250; Native State, $125; Lady O., $75; Letter B., $50.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25.

The weather god must look with kindly eyes upon this beautiful valley, for this has been an ideal day. No one could wish for a lovelier one. And the trains which carried so many from the city to witness the races this afternoon seemed to move noiselessly past the orchards, grain fields and beautiful residences into the depot, where the people in light summer dresses were congregated to show the dwellers from the north that this is summer here.

The race track, to which so many people turned, was never in better condition, and the prediction that fast time would be made over it was verified, for the record for two-year olds was broken easily by Palita, who trotted the mile in 2:16½. Nordica, by Advertiser, got a record of 2:19½. This makes the second one to the credit of the premier stallion of the Palo Alto Stock Farm.

In the 2:40 class race Rex Gifford, a rank outsider in the betting won in straight heats in 2:17, 2:16½ and 2:14, and if right will, before retiring for the season, get a mark close to 2:10.

The fourth race was full of surprises. Birdroe, the favorite, after winning two heats in 2:11½ and 2:12½, pulled up lame and was distanced. Javelin, the Oakwood Park Stock Farm filly, captured the third heat in 2:13½, and in the next heat met with an accident, and after throwing her driver, ran around the track, was caught, and found to be without a scratch, the hobbles she wore preventing her from extending herself in her mad run. The Sidney filly, Edna R., won the heat in 2:16½, and the race was postponed until to-morrow.

The judges were: Frank W. Covey, Thos. E. Keating and Geo. H. Bragg. The timers were: James Boyd, Thomas Smith and John Morehead.

The decision were all well received, the starting excellent, and everything passed off as smoothly as if trotting and pacing races were seen every day in the year on this splendid course.

The first race was Nordica, by Advertiser, out of Sally Benton (dam of Starlight, 2:16½) started to heat 2:30 and did so quite easily, going to the half in 1:09½, the three-quarters in 1:43½, the mile in 2:19½. This makes the second in the 2:20 list out of this daughter of Gen. Benton. Nordica is a fine-looking gray filly, three years old, and is just recovering from a bad attack of distemper. She is like all the Advertisers—pure gaited, level-headed and fast.

Palita, 2:19½, by Palo Alto, out of Elise, by Gen. Benton; second dam Elaine, 2:20, by Messenger Ducro started to heat her record and trotted to the quarter in thirty-five seconds, the half in 1:09, the three quarters in 1:42 and the mile in 2:16½, beating all records made by a two-year-old in the United States this season. Palita has often been described as one of the fairest-looking fillies seen on the California Circuit.

The first regular event was a trotting race, 2:40 class. The entries were Charivari, Anita, Our Lucky, Rex Gifford, Theresa and Leader. Pools sold: Our Lady $20, field $7. Rex Gifford started out in front, Charivari and Our Lucky like a team behind him. Going to the quarter the horses were strung out. Anita, who was fourth, passed all those in front of her, with the exception of Rex Gifford, going to the half, and kept in the second place until near the seven-eighths pole, when Our Lucky passed her and came in second under the wire, two lengths behind Rex Gifford, Charivari was nose and nose with Anita one length behind. Anita was given third place, Charivari fourth, Leader fifth and Theresa last. Time, 2:17.

Pools sold in the second heat: Our Lucky $10, field $4. Rex Gifford led, Our Lucky, who was second, broke at the first turn and Charivari passed him and Anita, who was third, kept moving up and kept abreast of him until past the three-quarter pole. Rex Gifford kept in the lead and won in a walk, Anita got in second, three lengths behind the gray stallion, Charivari third, Our Lucky fourth and Leader fifth. Time, 2:16½.

The next heat was a good one. Our Lucky trotted around the first turn without making a skip and kept close to Rex Gifford, and as Connolly, the driver of the latter, saw the little horse coming up to him he tapped the gray stallion with his whip and passed the quarter-pole in thirty four seconds. To the half it was a pretty contest, Gifford leading by a length. The time was 1:06½. Charivari was third, Anita fourth. The three quarter pole was passed in 1:40. Our Lucky's clip was tested. He could not heat that, so Connolly drove his game stallion home in 2:14, winning the heat and race easily, Anita third and Charivari last. Rex Gifford is a large grey stallion sired by Atto Rex, dam Nellie, by A. W. Richmond. He was bred in Los Angeles, the home of so many circuit winners this year, and has been prepared for this race by S. C. Tryon. Ed. Connolly never pulled a line over this horse before this afternoon and declares this to be one of the best race horses he ever drove.

The 2:18 class, for pacers, brought out a field of seven good ones—Birdroe, Edna R., Javelin, Fresno Prince, Loupe, Our Boy and Ella W. Pools sold: Loupe $10, Birdroe $8, field $4. Judge Covey started them off on the fourth score. Fresno Prince took the lead, with Birdroe second, Our Boy third, Loupe fourth, the rest hunched behind them. Fresno Prince kept the lead until half way down the backstretch. At this point Birdroe passed him, and Edna R., who was fifth, passed to the front and was at Birdroe's sulky as the latter reached the half. Loupe came up fast and was getting dangerously close to the leaders, when he broke. Birdroe kept to the fore, with Edna R. making her pace. Fresno Prince kept moving, and as the leaders entered the homestretch he was three lengths behind. Coming to the wire Baker, the driver of Birdroe, allowed her to jog in easily three lengths in front of Edna R. Time, 2:11½. Fresno Prince third, Loupe fourth, Ella W. fifth, Javelin sixth and Our Boy last.

Pools before the second heat sold: $20 on Birdroe, Loupe $8, field $3. Fresno Prince again took the lead, Edna R. at his saddle girth, Birdroe third, Javelin fourth. Going down the backstretch Edna R. passed Fresno Prince and was a length in advance of him at the half. Birdroe passed Fresno Prince and was head and head with Edna R. to the three-quarter pole, the drivers of both mares urging their game little mares to do better, but Birdroe was a little the faster, and won the heat by a length in 2:12½ from Edna R., Fresno Prince third.

The next heat was a surprise. Edna R. took the lead, Javelin was second, Loupe third. Birdroe broke at the first turn and fell back; she did not seem to be able to pace, and all interest centered in the race between the leaders. Edna R. kept the lead until the seven-eighths pole was reached, then Javelin paced by her and won by a head in 2:13½. Loupe was third, Fresno Prince fourth, Ella W. fifth and Birdroe, who was quite lame, was distanced. Holders of tickets that called for $28 for their $3 felt jubilant, and the sure-thing bettors who had been playing favorites began to feel blue, and tried their best to get some of their money back, but it was almost a hopeless task.

The next heat furnished a sensation. Edna R. and Fresno Prince led Loupe third, and Javelin fourth after passing the quarter pole.

Ben Chaboya in trying to pass Loupe with Javelin collided the sulky wheel collapsed and Chaboya was thrown out and the mare ran with the broken sulky dangling all the way around the track and was stopped just about where the accident occurred. In the meantime Edna R., Fresno Prince and Loupe were fighting for the lead. Edna R. won by a length in 2:17½, Fresno Prince second, Loupe third and Ella W. fourth. The judges after deliberation decided that Javelin be given the fifth position on account of the unavoidable accident.

THIRD DAY—THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 26.

Another beautiful day and a larger attendance at the track made the directors of this splendid association feel happy. The programme offered was an excellent one, and every heat was a race. Edna R. won her race easily and lowered her record to 2:13½. Joseph Ayers defeated Dr. Puff and lowered his record to 2:17. He trotted the slowest heat of the meeting, 2:21, but did much better in the following three. Waldo J. had no trouble in defeating W. Wood and Prince Almont. In the first heat he paced the mile in 2:09. This is the fastest mile trotted or paced in this State since the circuit opened. Native State captured his race in straight heats but he had all he could do. He was ably driven by George Maben. The judges were Frank W. Covey, Geo. H. Bragg and Wm. Buckley. The timers were T. Edwards, J. Boyd and T. Morehouse.

The track was in fine order and the horses were not allowed to get tired out scoring.

The unfinished pace was a good one. Edna R. took the lead in front of Fresno, Loupe, Javelin and Ella W., who got away ten lengths behind, was last. The quarter was made in 1:06½. Edna R. never lost her advantage and kept well in front; Fresno Prince was at her bike, and although Javelin tried to pass him she was unable to do so. For Fresno Prince came in second, a length behind the winner, Javelin half a length further back, Ella W. fourth. Loupe lost his toe-weight on the backstretch and came in last. Time, 2:13½.

Edna R. won the next heat and race by two lengths from Javelin in 2:18.

The next race was for the 2:27 class trotters; only three horses appeared—Dr. Puff, Jasper Ayres and Juana Treat. Pools sold, Jasper Ayres $20, field $7. The start was an even one, but Dr. Puff took the lead and kept it to the wire. Jasper Ayres, who was second, closed up a big gap on the homestretch, but was unable to pass the son of Bay Bird. Juana Treat just dropped back behind the flag Time, 2:19½.

Pools sold second heat: Jasper Ayres $20, Puff $5. The two horses moved around like a double team. Jasper Ayres left his game companion at the seven eighths pole and came in a winner by half a length in 2:21. The heat was one of the prettiest seen on the track.

"A change came o'er the spirit of his dream," for Jasper Ayres, the favorite in the next heat fell back in the first quarter and Dr. Puff opened a gap of five lengths at the half. J. Perkins, the driver of Jasper, closed this up and forced Dr. Puff to trot in 2:17 to beat him a half length to the wire.

Jasper Ayres kept a length behind Dr. Puff until the half was passed, then he passed the latter and won as he pleased in 2:17.

Jasper won the next heat in 2:18½. He led from start to finish. Dr. Puff was two lengths behind him at the finish.

The next race was for the free-for-all pacers. There were only three sidewheelers to appear—W. Wood, Waldo J. and Prince Almont. No pools were sold, as everyone conceded that Waldo J. would win when the word was given. W. Wood and Prince Almont took the lead and passed the quarter in 0:32, Waldo J. two lengths behind. At the half the "gray ghost" of Santa Paula passed Prince Almont and was a half length behind W. Wood as the latter paced by the half-mile pole in 1:03½. From this point on he gradually gained on the bay gelding and won the heat by half a length in the fastest time made by any trotter or pacer this season in California—2:09 flat. This lowers Waldo J.'s record of 2:10.

W. Wood broke at the quarter in the second heat and fell back six lengths. Waldo J. took the lead, and with Prince Almont at his bike paced to the half in 1:05 and then came home in a walk in 2:14½, James Mack, his driver, holding him back. Prince Almont was three lengths behind and W. Wood ten lengths further away.

In the next heat Prince Almont and W. Wood led to the half. Waldo, in coming to the front at the three quarter pole, broke, and so did W. Wood. Waldo J. got settled first and J. Mack drove his gray horse around to the wire in 2:15. On dismounting it was noticed that the harness on Waldo J. was broken and his driver had carried part of it in his hand most of the way. The battle for place between Prince Almont and W. Wood was a close one, but the former won by a nose.

The next event was for the 2:30 class trotters. There were seven starters—Mojave, Jasper Paulsen, Stella, Native State, Lady Thornhill, Lady Vestal and Gilpatrick. Pools sold: Native State $20, Lady Thornhill $7, field $5. When the word was given Jasper Paulsen, Native State and Lady Vestal took the lead. Mojave was fourth. Gilpatrick and Stella were last. At the quarter Jasper Paulsen was a half length in advance of Native State, and Lady Vestal a length behind the rest scattered around the first turn, Stella last and breaking badly. At the half Native State was in the lead a head, Jasper Paulsen and Lady Vestal a length further back. These three horses outclassed their fields and were three lengths in front at the head of the homestretch. Native State was leading, and the battle between Lady Vestal and Jasper Paulsen became interesting, but the latter was the speedier and won the place a length behind the big bay stallion. Time, 2:16½, Lady Thornhill fourth, Mojave fifth, Gilpatrick sixth, Stella last.

Pools sold: Native State $25, field $4. When the horses were started Mojave was running, Jasper Paulsen, Lady Thornhill and Native State leading, the rest in procession-like order behind. The race became very interesting down the homestretch, all the drivers using their whips and yelling. Native State came in first, winning by half a length from Lady Thornhill. Jasper Paulsen was a head behind her and a like distance in front of Lady Vestal. Gilpatrick was fifth, Stella sixth and Mojave last. Time, 2:16½.

No pools were sold on the next heat, as Native State was conceded to be the best horse in the race. Stella led to the three quarter pole, Jasper Paulsen was second, Lady Thornhill third. On passing this point Native State trotted past them and took the lead. The horses were being driven for all they were worth. Most of them ran under the wire. Native State was first, Gilpatrick, who came like little Klamath from the head of the homestretch to the wire, second, Stella third, Lady Thornhill fourth, Jasper Paulsen fifth, Mojave sixth and Lady Vestal lost. Time, 2:19.

Oh, Those Bloomers.

Two bright daughters of the Golden West have recently collaborated in song writing, and the latest of their productions promises to achieve more than local fame. Miss Ada Dougherty, daughter of the well-known Chas. M. Dougherty, has just fitted the music to a song written by Kate Clark Brown entitled "Oh, Those Bloomers." So well has this effort been received by competent musical judges that Meyers' Orchestra have adopted it to be played by them, while Stapleton (Frohman's comedian) has secured the right to produce it in New York and other Eastern cities, and says he is sure it will catch on. The words have an easy flow, and whilst slightly satirical, are still interesting enough to carry one's interest from introduction to denouement. The arrangement of the music is spirited and in every way calculated to not only accompany the words, but to emphasize the best points. We have had the pleasure of meeting Miss Dougherty and found her to be unusually attractive in person and sprightly and impressive in conversation. As she is happily financially well off, being an heiress of no mean pretensions, the attention she is giving to music lends an additional charm in contradistinction to the frivolity of most young ladies of wealth and position.

CHARLEY THORPE will not ride for McCafferty again this fall, as has been reported, nor next season in that section either, for that matter, he having signed a contract for the rest of this year and 1896 for first call on his services to W. H. Laudeman. Charlie says he likes the Western tracks and their officials, and then, again, his best friends are in this section, and if he goes East he has to meet new faces and make fresh acquaintances. He has also attained his present standing as a jockey in the West, and for that reason he is also loth to become a regular jockey on the Eastern tracks.

A CINCINNATI dispatch of September 24th says: "Lewis Long of Tennessee, who lost his suit against Barney Schreiber in the Nashville court, has brought a similar action here to-day. He sued for $13,650 on what he says is a contract, under which Schreiber agreed to pay him $250 a week for the services of Jockey Carr during 1893 and $300 a week during 1894. Long says Schreiber won $100,000 in California on Carr's riding. Five horses are now in the hands of the Sheriff—Theresa, Don Carillo, Barbarossa, Schiller and a day gelding.

THE BREEDING OF BRUTUS.

And to What Must We Ascribe the Prepotency of This Wonderful Sire?

I read a very interesting editorial in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of the 14th about that wonderful young sire Brutus, and while I fully coincide in all that is said about the merits of the horse himself, I must be allowed to dissent from the meed of praise that is given all to his sire, Macgregor, winner of the 2,000 guineas, and to his sire's sire, Macaroni, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas, Derby and Doncaster Cup of 1863. There could be nothing more beautiful than Macaroni, with his sweet face and expressive head, his exquisite neck and his beautifully placed shoulders. But he defeated Lord Clifden in the first two of those races solely on account of the uneven ground, he being a short but knurly horse. When it came to the dead level of the St. Leger course at Doncaster Lord Clifden galloped away from him as easily as he could desire. In point of value as sires Lord Clifden towers above him generally, though inferior to him as a broodmare sire. I rank the great broodmare sires of Europe as Pantaloon first, Melbourne second and Macaroni third. But you must remember that Melbourne served scores of Pantaloon and Touchstone mares, while Pantaloon was never mated with a Melbourne mare at all; and Macaroni's dam was by Pantaloon, out of Touchstone's dam. That Macaroni's female line was stronger than his male line, like that of King Tom in England and Lexington and Glencoe in America, there can be no reasonable doubt. He got two winners of the Oaks, while Lord Clifden got but one; one of the 2,000 to Clifden's one, making things even. Neither of them got a Derby winner while Lord Clifden got four of the St. Leger, ranking second of all sires (Stockwell being first) in the 126 years of that race. Macgregor bred as well as any son of Macaroni has done and yet he got nothing but Scot Free, who won the 2,000 of 1884.

Now come on and look at the dam's side of the house. Here is first imp. Teardrop, dam of Cyrus, who ought to have bred better than he has done—and he has had several good ones to his credit. Knowing Wenlock to be a better performer (as well as the sire of the dams of Sanfoin and Isinglass, both Derby winners), one would naturally infer Cyrus to be the better sire of Teardrop's two colts, but no one will waste his breath in such an assertion at this late day. The performances of Installator, Vincitor and Remus have given the public such a taste of Brutus' quality as to silence all captious disputants once and forever.

But my idea is that Brutus' excellence comes from the maternal line. You must remember that his dam's sire won the Ascot Cup of 1864, and got that marvelous race mare Marie Stuart, who won the 1,000 guineas at Oaks and beat old Doncaster (sire of Bend d'Or and second sire of Ormonde) for the St. Leger. He also got Thistle, dam of Common, who won all three of the classics, and dam of Throstle, who beat Ladas and Matchbox for the St. Leger. Likewise he got Mowerina, dam of Donovan, who won the Derby and St. Leger, and dam of Semolina, who won the Oaks and 1,000 guineas. The Scottish Chief mares in 1890 stood right where the Wenlock and Hermit mares do now, and where the Macaroni mares did in 1887.

Next you come to Niobe, by that despatcher game horse Loup Garou, who was always finding company a trifle too speedy for him. He got Fairwater, who won five races and ran second nine times in a year that boasted such cracks as Kettledrum, Dundee, Diophantus, Brown Duchess, Caller Ou and Vergiss-Mein-Nicht. Loup Garou was by Lanercost, the only horse that ever beat Beeswing at weight for age. He won the Ascot Cup of 1841, beating Charles XII and others, and won the Newcastle Cup, beating Beeswing by a nose, which led to a desperate fight over the decision, in which two men were killed and forty or more badly injured. Lanercost got Von Tromp, winner of the St. Leger and Emperor of Russia's Cup, and Catherine Hayes, winner of The Oaks.

Next you come to Miserrima, own sister to Hobbie Noble, The Reiver, Elthron and Windhound. Elthron won the Cumberland Plate and City and Suburban of 1848 and got two winners of the French Derby. The Reiver was second in the St. Leger of 1853, won by West Australian, and a very high-class horse. Windhound is already immortal as the sire of Thormanby, for it is now a well-established fact that Melbourne (for whom the paternity of Thormanby was also claimed) was impotent in 1856 and got no foals that year. And as for The Hobbie Noble, he was the handsomest horse of his day, by long odds, and made Kingston and West Australian look like butchers' hacks beside him. That he would have won the Derby appropriated by the comparatively worthless Daniel O'Rourke, I never have once doubted, had he not been poisoned on the night before the race.

Next comes Phryne, by Touchstone, whom Admiral Rous pronounced "the Pearl of the whole British stud." She was own sister to Flatcatcher, who won the 2,000 guineas of 1848, beating Surplice by a neck; and in addition to the great ones above given (who were all by Pantaloon) she produced Blanche of Middlebie and Katherine Logie, afterwards famous as the dam of Bothwell, who won the 2,000 guineas.

Next comes Decoy, by Filho da Puta, the Leger winner of 1815. She produced that capital cup horse Sleight of Hand and his full sister Legerdermain, who won the Manchester cup of 1850, and produced Toxophilite, who ran second to Beadsman for the Derby of 1858, and he got the great Musket who, with 126 pounds, ran second to Rosicruoian for the Alexandra Plate of 1871 and won the same race a year later with 134 pounds. Musket was sent to New Zealand, where he got Martini Henry and Carbine, winners of the Melbourne Cup; Matchlock, winner of both St. Legers; Martini Henry, winner of both Derbies and A. J. C. St. Leger; in addition to Maxim, Trenton, Nordenfeldt (both Derbys) and Volley, winner of the V. R. C. St. Leger. Musket got Petronel, winner of the 2,000 guineas of 1880. In addition to these cracks, Toxophilite got Stray Shot, dam of Shotover, 2,000 guineas and Derby of 1882, and Quiver, the dam of La Fleche, who won the 1,000 guineas, Oaks, St. Leger and Ascot Cup.

To sum up, Brutus is good enough in any country, but I cannot help attributing the excellence of this marvelous young sire to his dam's side of the house.

HIDALGO.

TURF AND TRACK

THE SULKY.

KLAMATH seems to have gone back decidedly in the last few weeks.

CALIENTE, by California, got a pacing record of 2:15½ at Columbus, September 11th.

KREMLIN, 2:07½, is getting early speed. He has a new two-year-old 2:30 race winner.

ELECTIONEER'S trotting descendants are surely getting their share of the honors this season.

THE race meeting at Salinas commences next Tuesday. A large number of horses will go there.

HUENEME'S race meeting begins next Tuesday. The programme offered is a most excellent one.

MAJOR CENTILEVRE, by Electric King, paced to a record of 2:22½ at Elkhart, Ind., September 12th.

PALO ALTO SPRITE, by Palo Alto, dam of Sphinx, Ego-tist, etc., is in training at Fleetwood Park.

AZOTE had a cake-walk at St. Joseph last week. The big gelding has won over $7,250 in races this year.

ELECTION TIME, a bay horse by Electrottype, got a pacing record of 2:20 at Des Moines, Iowa, September 12th.

It is pretty safe betting that if Zombro was East he could beat all the three-year-olds that side of the Rockies.

TRUMAN (2:12), Adair (2:17½), Elwina (2:27½) and Ercs (2:29½), all by Electioneer, have died since January 1.

JAY BEACH has decided to take Altamont to Kentucky, and will leave here early in December.—Rural Spirit.

TOMMY MAC, a chestnut gelding by Hambletonian Wilkes, got a record of 2:25½, pacing, at Napoleon, Ohio, September 6th.

ANDY McDOWELL is reported as saying that he will sever his connection with the Salisbury stable at the end of this season.

SINCE Nightingale beat Azote out in California last February, no other trotter has finished in front of the big bay gelding.

THE bay mare, Effie L., by Sphinx, who recently took a record of 2:25½, is a sister of Gift o' Neer, 2:20, and Sandy Boy, p, 2:16½.

PLEASE send in any corrections you may see ought to be made in the 2:30 list, which is published in another column of this issue.

GILPATRICK, by Junio, lowered his record from 2:29½ to 2:21 at Stockton, and won a very hard-fought race at Stockton last Thursday.

ROBBIE P., the trotter that was out here last season, broke the track record at Davenport, Ia., September 20th, when he went in 2:10½.

POTRERO is a bay horse by Redondo, 2:28½ (son of Stamboul and Dido, by Hiatoga), got a record of 2:21 at Stockton on Thursday last.

ALTAMONT is the sire of three 2:10 performers, with two more knocking at the door, and out of the five only one is out of a standard-bred mare.

FANTASY has not realized, Alix has been oxygenized, Azote is being idolized, Patchen and Gentry criticised, Robert J. eulogized.—Rural Spirit.

BOODLE, 2:15, lowered his record to 2:14 at Stockton Friday, and if the race had not been postponed he would have won it easily. He is a racehorse.

JAS. CHESLEY'S handsome brown pacing gelding, Loupe, lowered his record to 2:12½, and won a good race at Stockton last Friday in 2:12½, 2: 4 and 2:17.

ALIA, 2:29½, the five-year-old black gelding by Red Wilkes, has been sold to Eli Kindig, of Philadelphia, by Mike Bowerman, of Lexington, Ky., for $1,000.

BARON ROSE, by Stamboul, owned by J. W. Daly, of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., trotted a mile in 2:15 and a half in 1:06½ in his work at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., recently.

A LARGE number of horsemen started from Stockton to Fresno in order to have their horses in readiness for the race meeting which commences next Tuesday.

THE three-year-old colt Boreal, by Bow Bells, won an eight-heat race at Louisville. He won the first heat in 2:15½, the second in 2:15½ and the eighth in 2:17½.

AZOTE'S mile in 2:11½ is the fastest that has been trotted, in a race, over the St. Joseph, Mo., track since September, 1892, when Lohasco defeated Jack by a half length.

BRIGHT REGENT, 4, by Prince Regent, 2:16½, dam Bright Eyes, by Blackwood Chief, who won a heat in 2:08½ at Louisville last week, is now the fastest new pacer of the year.

THE San Mateo Stock Farm Freds, Fred Moody and Fred Kohl, are doing as well in the East as we predicted they would last spring. They win money every time they start.

MCKINNEY, 2:11½, will stand for the season of 1896 at Oakland. We predict that his book will fill rapidly. Mr. Durfee says the horse finished a good season at Portland this year.

LOU MITCHELL, a three-year-old by Direct, out of a mare by Antevolo, won a good race at Indianapolis, Ind., September 17th. She lost the first two heats, but won the last three in 2:22½, 2:26½, 2:29.

ANTHELIA, a mare belonging to T. C. Angelin, of Lexington, Ky., dropped dead at Evansville, Ind., on the morning of September 20th. She had a record of 2:18 and her owner had refused $5,000 for her.

WIGGINS, 2:19½, son of Aberdeen and Albina de Mer, by Stamboul, 2:07½, is proving himself the greatest racing two-year-old ever campaigned. He has started in five races this year, won each in straight heats and reduced his record in each.

ONWARD, 2:25½, is now the leading sire of 1895. The son of George Wilkes and Dolly has twelve new standard performers to date. He also has six new 2:20 performers, five new 2:15 performers and one new 2:10 performer to his credit.

MONROE SALISBURY'S filly Lou Mitchell, by Direct, won the three-year-old trot at Indianapolis, Ind., on Tuesday. She trotted the third, fourth and fifth heats in 2:22, 2:26½ and 2:29. The first two heats were won by Bay B. in 2:24½ and 2:25½.

WHAT the Jewett Farm lost when Almont Lightning died in the flower of his youth can be better appreciated when it is remarked that Zombro, 3, 2:13, King Princeps, 2:16, and Stam B, 3, 2:16, are all descendants of the son of Almont and Belle Bowman.

THAT was a great race which Nightingale, by Mambrino King, won at Louisville, Ky., recently. David B. by Young Jim, got the first heat in 2:00½ and B. B. P. the second in 2:00½, but the Village Farm mare outlasted them. The time of the last heat was 2:11.

It would not surprise us if Zombro was sold for a good long price by some prominent Eastern horseman. This is the best campaigner ever seen for his age on this Coast and in fact in the United States. He meets horses of all ages and vanquishes them easily.

VILLAGE FARM have castrated the pacer Peerless Chimes, record 2:18½, and will put him in shape to be sold for road purposes this fall. They have also castrated several great young horses, as they find there is more demand for gentlemen's drivers than for stallions.

THE Terre Haute Gazette discusses the propriety of the application of "who" and "which" to horses. It is not a good enough rule for us to use the former to a horse with a name, and the latter to those without—which are just horses? We use "he" and "she," why not who?

WILLIAM KELLY (Geyser), a well-known trotting horse driver, died recently in New York. Kelly was one of Dan Mace's pupils at the same time as "Knap" McCarthy, Ike Fleming, Johnny Murphy and others, who were graduated from the rub rag in Mace's stable to the sulky.

MOJAVE, Chas. A. Hug's grand-looking Dexter Prince gelding, got a record of 2:19 in the fourth heat of a race at Stockton, last Thursday. He was close up in every heat and with one or two more such races will be one of the best horses on the circuit. Thos. Snider handled the ribbons over him.

THERE has been as much "evolution" in the improvement of trotting appliances as in the horse himself. In 1829 the first sulky was built, and weighed 160 pounds, and was the frailest structure of the kind ever put together, writes L. C. Underhill. The "bike" of 1895 weighs as little as twenty pounds or less.

A CURIOUS pneumatic ball tire, which has been patented in England, substitutes for the continuous tubular tire a series of rubber balls, set in cups at the outer end of the spokes. The balls are so arranged that they may be simultaneously inflated. The invention is meant for bicycles, but it could be adapted to the pneumatic sulky.

THE suspensions ordered by the Galesburg Association amount to $52,000. When the horsemen get these claims paid and incidentally others at various meetings which took entries under the forfeit system they will, no doubt, realize that said system is a delusion and a snare. Next year the cash plan will be adopted generally.

PROF. THOS. BOWHILL, the well-known veterinarian, severed his connection with the veterinary department of the University of California, not of the University of the Pacific, as it erroneously appeared in this journal last week. This is a serious mistake, and we hasten to correct it. The two institutions are of an entirely different nature.

DICKERSON and Geers have made a good little thing on the side as "substituted" drivers. Geers was presented with $500 at Detroit, Dickerson was presented with $100 at Philadelphia and also another $100 at Providence, R. I., last Monday, where he drove Russell Eghert in the 2:40 trot after the third heat, winning the next three straight.

MILLARD F. SANDERS has given up his string of trotters and pacers and stowed his sulkies and harnesses away for this year. It would not be surprising if he, like B. C. Holly, W. Donathan, F. Van Ness and a number of other old-time trotting horse trainers, should soon be seen handling a big string of runners. Mr. Sanders is one of the most capable men in the profession.

BOUNCER'S defeat of such a field of aged horses as Lightning, Lynne Bel, Early Bird, Edith H. and Gertrude last week is another proof that this four-year-old daughter of Hummer is one of the greatest campaigners of the year. She has now started in eight races the present season, winning six, and $5,620 in pure money. Her record at the opening of the campaign was 2:18½; it is now 2:12, and of her eighteen winning heats this year, fifteen have been trotted in 2:15 or better, their average time being 2:13 72-100. William Simpson, as her owner and breeder, and W. J. Andrews as her driver, may well point with pride to her remarkable record.

GEERS was at Louisville last week with the Hamlin string. It has been decided that he will take thirty head of horses of the Hamlin string to Europe this winter, the most of which will be left over there. He does not think Robert J. is a back number yet by any means, and he is also of the opinion that Star Pointer, 2:05½, is one of the best. He thinks a great deal of the Titled horse.

I HAVE used "Absorbine" on my bay mare and have found it to be the only thing that would remove wind-puffs, which it has done to my full satisfaction in this case; also used it on another case to remove callous bunch on fore leg, with most excellent results. I cheerfully recommend it to horsemen. Yours truly, JAS. P. ALLEN, Pres. Hartford Driving Club.

THE fast trotting mare Moment, 2:16½, by Kentucky Prince, out of Instant, 2:14½, by Startle, died at Rutland, Vt., a few days ago. Moment was brought out this year by William C. Trimble, of Newburgh, and won all her races, taking a record of 2:22½ in her first start at Poughkeepsie, August 1. The cause of the promising mare's death is said to have been pneumonia.

AT a breeders' meeting held at Portland, Ore., two weeks since, three new performers entered the list, viz.: Nettie Ham, 3, 2:25, by Hambletonian Mambrino; Stamwix, 2:22½, pacing, by the same sire, and Hugo, 2:20, by Altago, son of Altamont. At the same meeting the pacing mare, Altawood, by Alamont, reduced her record from 2:24½ to 2:21 and Frank O'Neil, by Whippleton, cut his from 2:29 to 2:27.

THE success of Village Farm at Louisville has been remarkable as well as brilliant. The victory of Robert J., of course, "capped the climax." Nightingale won the 2:11 trot, Moonstone the 2:10 pace, Bright Regent the 2:20 pace, Fritz Royal the 2:29 trot and Mandolin the 2:25 pace. All of the above, with the exception of Robert J., were bred by C. J. Hamlin. The record made seems to be unequaled this year.

THE record for a six-heat race was twice lowered in one week. The record had stood since 1892 when the race at Terre Haute, Ind., in which Ryland T. defeated Charleston and Little Albert, averaged 2:12 29 100. At Boston last week Col. Kuser's race averaged 2:12½, and later on the record was lowered in the hard race between David B., B. B. P. and Nightingale, the six heats being trotted at an average of 2:11 54-100.

JOHN R. FARRIS is just in receipt of a telegram from Geo. Offutt, dated at Hanover, Pa., saying that he had won two races in one day with Greendale Girl in 2:20½, and a three-year-old colt by Electricity in 2:26½. These two animals were purchased from Joe Thayer not two months ago by their present owner, J. A. Ocher, of Harrisburg, Pa., and Offutt is to be congratulated for the good showing made by them over a half-mile track.—Horse Review.

THERE will be a select string of trotters on the circuit next year from the Mokelumne Stock Farm (home of Silver Bow, 2:16). A well-known horseman who visited this elegantly appointed farm near Clements says Mr. Fox has some of the handsomest-formed youngsters by Silver Bow he has ever seen, and the game stallion is looking one hundred per cent better than he did while on the circuit. A year's rest will help this horse to lower his record if he is started next year.

ONWARD leads all sons of Geo. Wilkes this year in the number of additions to the 2:20 list. One of his best bred sons, Hart Boswell, out of Nancy Lea (dam of Nancy Hanks, 2:04), by Dictator, is at the Laurel Creek Farm, San Mateo County, and his first crop of colts and fillies are a credit to him. They are heavy-boned and well-muscled and in action seem to know nothing but trot. They are all good sized. Hart Boswell is destined to become a prominent sire judging by what he has already shown.

ROBERT STEEL, the well-known Philadelphia breeder, says he is one of those who think that the demand in the near future will more than exceed the supply because of the falling off in breeding in the past two or three seasons. Mr. Steel has about seventy mares at his farm on the outskirts of Philadelphia; eleven of these he bred last year, but he intends to breed many more this season. He says it is quite surprising how few really good horses can be picked up in the vicinity of Philadelphia to-day. He has disposed of several head recently at private sale for fair prices.

LOCKHEART, by Nutwood, defeated Klamath in straight heats at Hedrick, Iowa, September 19th; time, 2:09, 2:08½, 2:09. Lockheart is the fastest son of Nutwood. His sister, Bye Bye, is owned by Pierce Bros. of Santa Rosa Stock Farm. These gentlemen have two fillies by Guy Wilkes out of this mare that are considered the finest-formed and most promising on their immense farm. They will receive careful handling by J. Rodgers, formerly of the San Mateo Stock Farm, and, with several other royally bred youngsters, will compose a string of youngsters that will be hard to excel in any country. Bye Bye was bred to Directum early this spring, but did not prove with foal. Mr. Pierce then bred her to the handsomest horse in California, Sidney Dillon, by Sidney, and she is believed to be safe with foal. Sidney Dillon has been seen next season on the circuit.

FRESNO COUNTY has the most beautiful fair ground in the State, and it is admired by all who visit it. It was recently sold under foreclosure of a mortgage and is likely to be cut up into farming property. A few enterprising citizens who have not a cent's interest in the property are trying to prevent this from being done, and are giving this race meeting solely for the purpose of ascertaining if the citizens of the county will patronize race meetings and annual fairs sufficiently to enable citizens who do not wish to see Fresno take a backward step, but keep progressing and building up elegant homes in and around our city, to organize a new association that will purchase the grounds and preserve it as a park for picnics, fairs, races, out-door sports and pleasure driving. These grounds, being the only place that Fresno has as a sporting or picnic park, a lack of patronage of the October races means their permanent closing.—Fresno Expositor.

THE SADDLE.

THERE is a noticeable lengthening of the distances in races at the far East.

JOE NARVEZ showed something of his old form in the saddle at Stockton.

THE great horse, Huron, of the Corrigan string, will never face the starter again.

THE defeat of Gratify made a difference to Johnny Coleman of $4,000, it is said.

GEORGE COVINGTON's horses, Find Out and imp. Thorn, ran second at St. Louis yesterday.

DONAHUE, Burns & Waterhouse's new jockey created a very good impression by his ride on Claudius.

THE good Flambeau filly Piquante, of the A. B. Spreckels string, has been fired and is being given a rest.

LISSAK is now at Colonel Chinn's ranch, near Harrodsburg, Ky. He will not be raced until next year.

TIM MURPHY stumbled to his knees about three-eighths of a mile from home in the race won by Sir Richard.

GRADY ran an unaccountably bad race Saturday. He was a hot favorite, and on public form was justifiably so.

SEVERAL down-town pool-rooms received the reports and betting over the Western Union wires on Saturday.

W. S. HOBART's horses will not be seen at the track for about ten days. Mr. Hunn is getting them in shape.

A DETROIT dispatch announces the death of Ed. Kinney, a well-known bookmaker. He was aged forty years.

ALVARADO, the Amigo—Santa Margarita colt in Baldwin's stable, won a five-furlong race at Windsor yesterday in 1:01½.

CICERO, My Luck and Tyro are on the way to San Francisco. They will be trained by Frank Taylor when they arrive.

ROSEBUD showed considerable improvement Saturday over her Sacramento form, and she showed not a little speed there either.

LEHMAN won the Grand Hotel Stakes, one mile, at Oakley last Saturday in 1:40½, Handsome second and Buck Masie third.

CY MULKEY left on Wednesday for his gold mine in El Dorado County, and it is said he has given up training race horses for good.

THE attendance last Saturday was the poorest ever seen in San Francisco for that day, in all probability, 1,000 being about the figure.

WINSHIP & KEATING have purchased from Millard Sanders the grandly-bred two-year-old pacer Agitato, record 2:18. Price, $500.

THE Pacific Coast Jockey Club has received between 400 and 500 entries to their splendid stake events, while many are on the way by mail.

SONG AND DANCE, winner of the Autumn Cup, one and three-quarters miles, is unusually well named, being by The Bard out of Heel and Toe.

BARNEY SCHREIBER's three-year-old filly, Mollie King, won a mile and seventy-yard race yesterday at Oakley, near Cincinnati, going the distance in 1:46.

COLEMAN, the three-year-old gelding that ran here fairly well Tuesday, the first time out, is by imp. Sir Modred from Blithesome (dam of Comrade), by Onondaga.

DEL CORONADO, by imp. The Hook—Jennie B., by imp. Glenelg, won a six-furlong dash at Windsor Tuesday in 1:16, Doubtful second and George Smith third.

ROSEBUD, by imp. Sir Modred, out of Rosemary, will be one of the best broodmares belonging to Burns & Waterhouse. She is strongly built, game and speedy.

AGITATO shows signs of returning to his two-year-old form. He was pretty nearly a stake colt then. The son of imp. Cyrus and Frolic was recently added to "the list."

MAID MARIAN ran six and a half furlongs in 1:20 yesterday at Oakley. This is close to the record at the distance. Buckwa was second and good old Lottie Mills third.

J. H. SHIELDS' horses, Capt. Rees, McLight and Mary S., arrived Saturday night from Sacramento, looking well. They were walked up Market street to Golden Gate avenue.

REMUS broke the mile and seventy yard coast record Tuesday to the extent of half a second. Duke Stevens ran it in 1:45½ with 110 pounds up last fall at Bay District track.

REAR GUARD pulled up a very lame horse in the fast mile and a furlong race Saturday. He went to pieces at the head of the homestretch, up to which time he was quite prominent.

POTENTATE, Goodwin, Gladius, Montgomery and Mt. McGregor left Chicago Saturday on their way to California. These racehorses were recently purchased by Burns & Waterhouse.

THE Santa Anita Stable furnished two winners at Detroit on Saturday. La Fiesta won at six furlongs in 1:15, while Sinaloa III was victorious at four and one-half furlongs, run in 0:54½.

THE Ormonde-Kissing Crust colt, Orestes, at the track is one of the finest-formed youngsters we have seen. He is with the rest of W. O'B. Macdonough's horses, and the gem of the collection.

CLAUDIUS' mile and an eighth run in 1:53½ last Saturday is the local track record and but a quarter of a second behind the Coast record, 1:53½, made by another son of Brutus (Installer).

WILLIAM DONATHAN's string, consisting of Arnette, Alexis, Warrago and Amen (the latter a two-year-old maiden by Kyrle Daly—Chiquita) arrived at the track from Stockton this morning.

OVER 550 entries to the Pacific Coast Jockey Club stakes are now chronicled, some of the most famous race horses in America, outside of Henry of Navarre, Domino and Clifford, being entered.

EDWIN F. SMITH does not act as presiding judge at Bay District until about the 1st of October. Charley Trevathan presided over the stand last Saturday, President Williams acting as associate judge.

DUCHESSE OF TOWERS comes pretty close to being a crack three-year-old sprinter. Tuesday she carried 106 pounds to Tim Murphy's 102 pounds, forcing him to break a record to beat him. Murphy's jockey, however, carried neither whip nor spur.

FRANK VAN NESS wanted the judges to excuse Olivia Tuesday. His reason was that he was afraid he could not get a plater to shoe her properly in time. A blacksmith appeared on the scene in time, however, and the daughter of Emperor of Norfolk and Dolly L. won easily.

THERE will be some fifteen pool-rooms in operation in San Francisco to day. This will take largely from the attendance at Bay District track. Corbett has spent several hundred dollars in improving his pool-room. On one block on Ellis street there are no less than five of these rooms.

SONS of imp. Brutus hold two Coast records and also share honors on the mile record. Vincter ran a mile in 1:40, Remus a mile and seventy yards in 1:44½ (Tuesday), Installer one and one-eighth miles in 1:53½ at Sacramento. Remus carried 99 pounds and seemed to win easily. Verily the Brutuses are great.

TIM MURPHY made a new Coast record for five and a half furlongs Tuesday, the old roan carrying 102 pounds and leading almost from the first jump. The former record was 1:06½, made by Gibson November 17, 1892, at Bay District track with 117 pounds up. Tim ran it in 1:06½ yesterday, and might have gone a shade faster.

THE Great Eastern Handicap was a grand race this year. One I Love won by a head from Margrave, who was half a length in front of Hazlet, he in turn a head before Silver II, who just beat Crescendo. Ben Brush, with 126 pounds up, finished eighth. One I Love carried 122 pounds, Margrave 110, Hazlet 122, Silver II 116 and Crescendo 126 pounds.

JAMES B. CLAY, the grandson of Henry Clay, and one of Fayette County's most prominent breeders of thoroughbred horses, made an assignment last Tuesday afternoon at Lexington, Ky., to Banker J. Will Sayre. The liabilities or assets are not known. Mr. Clay owns the stallion Chance and Vocalic, besides a number of richly-bred broodmares. His farm is known as the Iroquois stud.

THERE will be no dearth of good jockeys out here next winter. The following will almost surely be on hand: Felix Carr, Marty Bergen, Lonnie Clayton, Willie Martin, Sam Doggett, Jerry Chorn, Eugene Van Kuren, C. Slaughter, "Soup" Perkins, Henry Griffin, "Doc" Tuberville, Si McClaine, Frank Leigh, Earl Cochran, Irving and Keefe. We now have some very fair pigskin artists in George Miller, Macklic, Donabue, Eddie Jones, Chevalier and Hinrichs.

BARNEY SCHREIBER has made more nominations to the stakes of the Pacific Jockey Club than any other owner. Over 550 entries had been received up to Saturday night. This is an average of forty to a race, but a big list of entries is still expected from the East. The four-mile race has already twenty-four entries. Had the association given the same money for a one and a quarter mile handicap they would have received more entries than for both the Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps this year.

ONE of the happiest men at the track was Thomas Flynn, father of the capable jockey, William Flynn. When the latter won on Sir Richard Saturday, he said, as the boy dismounted: "My boy, Tom, that was killed, used to ride that horse long before he came to this country, and this race brings up remembrances of him, and especially when Willie rides the horse just as my poor boy would." Thomas Flynn was killed at Guttenburg about two years ago.

A LONDON dispatch of September 11 says: Lord Rosbery's bay colt, Sir Visto, by Barcadine, the winner of this year's Derby, won the St. Leger stakes at Doncaster to-day. W. M. G. Singer's chestnut colt, Telescope, by Tyrant, was second, and Mrs. L. Brassey's bay filly, Butterfly, by Hampton, was third. Eleven horses ran. The betting just before the start was 9 to 4 on Sir Visto, 1,000 to 35 on Telescope, and 8 to 1 vs Butterfly. The distance was six furlongs and 132 yards, and there were 202 subscribers.

CALIFORNIA-BRED horses were much in evidence at Gravesend track last Saturday. Nanki Poob, by Sir Modred, was first in a mile and a half race, Pepper second and Connoisseur, by Sir Modred, third. Walzer, by Darebin, won a six-furlong race, beating Derfagilla and Pop Gray. In the special, mile and a quarter, Clifford won, with Sir Excess (by Sir Modred) second and Henry of Navarre third. Rey del Carrera won the Atlantic Stakes, beating Applause and Hand-spring in 1:01½ for five furlongs, the track not being one of the fastest in the country.

IT was given out last Monday that Jimmy Rowe, formerly presiding judge at Bay District track, would not come to California next winter as he did not wish to preside at Bay District track. The California Jockey Club is trying to secure Judge Joseph J. Burke in his stead. Mr. Burke is by many considered one of the very best officials that ever graced a judges' stand, being vigilant, just and at the same time strict. He is thoroughly posted and is an old newspaper man. Most of the racing officials of the country come from newspaperdom nowadays, and seem to make the best judges and secretaries.

MR. LORILLARD and Mr. Croker, who will surely race on the other side, will probably have to race against some of the horses owned by August Belmont, who expects to spend some time in England next Summer. M. F. Dwyer will probably tempt fate there again next year if he can find any horses such as he wants for another English campaign. His recent visit posted him as to the kind of horses that can be raced there to the best advantage. So if he can get what he wants he will go over again and try conclusions with the racing men once more. There is also a possibility that Marcus Daly will have a string of horses there next year, as he is anxious for turf honors in that country won with some of his Montana-bred animals.

KINGSTON's first son was dropped at La Belle Farm on the 5th inst., and is as lively a youngster as can be found for his age. As the mare was not a thoroughbred, this, the first of his get, will never be prominent in the turf world, but may be a useful fellow at pulling the family carriage around the country. Mr. Leigh bred Kingston to this mare on trial, and was soon made aware that the "Brown Whirlwind" was to be a success in the stud. It will be 1898, however, before the real test will be made, as his two-year-olds will then begin their career on the turf.

A WRITER in an English paper says: "After making observations for some time, I have come to the conclusion that jockeys occasionally get off form, the same as horses do. When a rider, however fashionable he may be, has had, say a dozen consecutive losing mounts on horses that on paper seemed to have good chances, he should take a rest for at least a fortnight. It is the same in riding races as in shooting or playing billiards—a man to succeed must be successful. A few reverses unnerve the best of sportsmen, whether they are riding, shooting or handling the cue."

BURNS & WATERHOUSE, outside of the great army of yearlings they have purchased this year, have four rare-bred two-year olds they bought last fall of Palo Alto Stud, with which Trainer McCormack may cut a wide swath in three-year-old races next year. Three are untied. They are: Salisbury, by Racine—imp. Flirt, by Hermit, cost $2,500; Sweet Rose, by Flambeau—imp. Fairy Rose, by Kisher, cost $2,500; Cassius, by Flambeau—imp. Teardrop, by Scottish Chief, $650; Coloma, by Flood—imp. Cornelia, by Isonomy, cost $1,100. Salisbury is a half brother to imp. Gorgo and Flambeau, sire of Crescendo; Sweet Rose is a half sister to Racine and Fairy and Cassius a half brother to imp. Brutus, sire of Peter the Great.

AS BYRON McCLELLAND has not accepted Mr. Belmont's offer to train Henry of Navarre and some other horses he intended sending to England, the chances are that the President of the Jockey Club may change his mind about racing on the other side next year, especially as Margrave, his Derby candidate, does not seem to be within twenty pounds of Derby form, and before sending Henry of Navarre over to England to compete with the best horses there—over two miles and upwards, with from 130 to 140 pounds on his back—he ought to demonstrate his ability to give our best horses at least twenty pounds and a beating at a mile and a half. If he cannot do this his chances for defeating the best horses in England at weight for age would not be very rosy.

JUST what Requit would do at weight for age with the best horses in England is an interesting problem, and, as Mr. Belmont is likely to own him before long, he may send him over, as he gives every promise of developing into an even better horse as a three-year-old than what he has been at two. He is a beautifully bred colt, and it is almost a certainty that he will go much further than any of his dam's previous produce. As the colt has too many valuable engagements in this country next year it would be flying in the face of Providence to take the off chance of trying to win glory across the herring pond. It is Mr. Gideon's intention to dispose of all his horses in training; therefore the good-looking and highly tried Iroquois-Carlotta colt is likely to winter at Babylon.

IT was only the other day that the announcement was made that William K. Vanderbilt, principal stockholder in the Coney Island Jockey Club and in the great yacht Defender, was about to start a stud farm in France; and now comes the news that J. W. Mackay, Jr., son of "the Bonanza King" has registered racing colors in France, and is therefore of course to become a figure on the French turf. One can not but regret that all of the millionaires whose millions were accumulated in America do not, like August Belmont, James R. Keene, etc., give their patronage to the support of home racing. John W. Mackay, Sr., was, and presumably is, a warm admirer of the trotting horse, and once owned the great mare Fleetwing, the dam of Stamboul, 2:07½, etc. The colors registered by young Mackay in France are black and silver—suggestive of the origin of the Mackay millions.

IT is expected that there will be some move made by Peter De Lacy at the Brooklyn track to enforce the racing law as interpreted by Judge Bischoff in his decision in the trumped-up case made by De Lacy to get ammunition to fight the Dwyers with. It was the fight made by the Brooklyn Jockey Club that forced De Lacy to close his city poolrooms, and he is out for revenge, and has fought them tooth and nail since they were broken up. Just what action he will take is not known, but the managers of the track will be ready for him. The Jockey Club's attorneys have also been preparing the necessary legal ammunition with which to make the expected battle. It is needless to say that they do not believe that the Bischoff law is good law, and they will carry the matter to the highest courts in the State in order to get a test of the constitutionality of the law. It is not anticipated that any step can be taken which will interfere with the successful carrying out of the meeting as already planned.

THE last of the trio of the great English classic races for three-year-olds in 1895 was run at Doncaster last week, and ex-Premier Lord Rosebery was somewhat recompensed for the failure last year of his Derby hero, Ladas, to carry off the St. Leger by the success in that event this year of his Derby winner, Sir Visto. The title and conditions of the race are as follows: The St. Leger Stakes of £25 ($125) each, for three-year-olds; colts 9 stone (126 pounds) and fillies 8 stone 11 pounds (123 pounds); second to receive £200 ($1,000) and the third £100 ($500) out of stakes; old St. Leger course, about 1 mile, 6 furlongs, 132 yards; 207 subscribers. There were eleven starters and the placed—the first three—horses were: Lord Rosebery's b c Sir Visto, by Barcadine—Vista (S. Loates), first; W. M. G. Singer's ch c Telescope, by Tyrant—Astrology (Allsopp) second; L. Brassey's b f Butterfly, by Hampton—Merry Duchesse (Bradford), third. The price against the winner was 9 to 4, 33 to 1 being the quotation about Telescope, while Butterfly, who had been heavily supported during the last three weeks and backed down from twenties, started at eights. An absurd blunder was perpetrated by several of our Eastern papers in publishing the news of the race, the betting returns being given respectively as 9 to 4 on, 1,000 to 35 on and 8 to 1 on. It was the one hundred and twentieth St. Leger that has been run and made the fifteenth occasion in which the Derby winner proved victorious. The St. Leger winners are, in America, our native-bred Iroquois, Rayon d'Or and Ormonde.

There's Money in the Business.

The wonderful strides made by our trotters and pacers toward the two-minute mark are causing many breeders great uneasiness, for they have an idea that it will not pay to breed horses that cannot beat 2:30. While there may be some logic in their conclusions on this subject, there still remains so many reasons for them to look at it in a different and more favorable light that a little closer study will convince them that never before in the history of the trotting turf was there a greater necessity for using better judgment in breeding, greater care in raising, and more practical intelligence in developing trotters than the present.

Every industry has to undergo a change before it becomes perfect, and this applies to the interests of light harness horses as well as it does to scientific agricultural or mechanical pursuits. Different conditions demand different treatment. This is an age of progress, and in no other pursuit has progressiveness manifested itself so strongly as in the development of our fast trotting horses.

A few years ago those that were termed fast trotters were far from being beautiful either at ease or in action. Most of them were of nondescript breeding and looked as lean and hungry as if they were fed on shavings. Worked to death at any gait that would get them to the wire first; shod with shoes of the heaviest kind to give them action; booted with pieces of gunny sack turned over tight straps; pulling sulkies that weighed from eighty to one hundred and twenty pounds each; harnessed with strong and poorly-fitted harnesses and fed entirely on grain, they had a trying experience. When racing they were yelled at as if driven by a band of commanders on the warpath. Jobbery of all kinds indulged in to make them win, and then after long and tiresome scoring and hard driving the poor horses were forced to be rubbed and walked until every muscle was sore to the touch. Even then it was predicted that to "engage in the business of breeding and raising trotters would be a losing investment; that fast trotters were only accidents anyway, for out of the thousands of horses bred only a very few were worth spending money on."

A few men did not let this opinion, which was almost universal, stop them; they paid a little more attention to the pedigrees of their horses, bought good, well-formed mares and bred them to stallions that had pedigrees even if they were only by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, out of a mare of unknown breeding. The colts and fillies that had natural speed were taken up and handled, and as the attention of some of our wealthiest citizens were called to them, it was not long before these trotters brought good prices. Budd Doble and a few other knights of the sulky then devoted their time to the subject of training horses by a more humane process, and the pleasure of having a horse look fat and strong, in comparison with one that was thin and weak, caused a general awakening throughout the horse breeding centers of the United States.

When Dexter made his memorable mile in 2:17½ we remember how often the statement was made: "There's no use breeding or training trotters; there's a mark that never will be beaten." But horses were bred by the most observant breeders and trained to beat that mark, and they did so, and the work of trying to get horses to trot fast that would neither hitch nor run thirty times in a mile commenced in earnest. The beautiful, machine-like gait of Ethan Allen and the faultless, frictionless stride of old Dexter were the absorbing themes of all horsemen and turf writers of that day. The work of converting pacers to trot was also commenced, and many were the marvelous stories told of these converted side-wheelers.

The same arguments held forth then "that the bottom had dropped out of the business" gained credence, and many who started in on a small scale became frightened at it, sold their promising colts and fillies and engaged in other pursuits for which they were no doubt far better qualified.

Prices for trotters and pacers reached their highest mark two years ago, when the idea of having a market outside of America was unthought of. People became excited over "the boom," but, like every other kind of inflation, there must be a loss, and when the collapse came and the weakest, who had never reasoned that the prices for horses were entirely too high, disposed of the horses they had, and since then have been preaching "there's no money in the business; it will not pay to breed any animal that cannot beat 2:20," etc.

Let us see about this. Notwithstanding the wonderful speed shown by our horses on the tracks, where, outside of those 2:15 performers, are there any 2:30 horses?

Where are the matched teams that can trot in 2:35 or 2:40? Where are the stylish, high-stepping, pure-gaited trotters, perfect in disposition and gait, that are not afraid of locomotives and bicycles and never need a boot? Where are thousands of perfect roadsters? Surely this country is not over-supplied with them even at this late day.

Buyers from Central America, Mexico, Australia and Europe are here looking for the very best and strongest-made, stylish horses they can find, but they cannot get them.

There were fewer mares of every breed mated with stallions the past two years than any compiler has any idea of, and the scarcity of first-class colts and fillies is already becoming apparent. The market is beginning to assume a healthier tone, and the wise breeder who profits by what he has learned from the experiences of others and from the leading turf journals will soon see an increased demand for just the horses his judgment has taught him must be needed.

We have better stallions, better mares, more experienced men and better vehicles, boots, shoes, etc., for the development of the horses we breed than ever, and if the idea to breed for speed with style, substance, soundness and gameness is kept prominently before the eyes of all our breeders a rich and profitable future will be theirs.

California Running Records.

As two Coast records have been shattered in the last week, we have concluded to print a corrected table of records. Two records were broken on one afternoon, that at five and one-half furlongs and at one mile and seventy yards. The former mark had withstood the onslaughts of our best sprinters since November 17, 1892, the mile and seventy-yard mark, crushed by Remus, son of imp. Brutus, since last fall, when Duke Stevens ran it in 1:45½. Tim Murphy, the old roan flyer, did five and one-half furlongs in 1:06½, and quite handily, too.

George F. Smith broke the five-furlong record at the last meeting of the California Jockey Club, Ducat equalled the six-furlong mark; both Artist and McLight broke the seven-furlong record held by Motto for about two years. Installator equalled John Treat's record at fifteen-sixteenths of a mile, while recently at Sacramento Arnette reduced the mile and a sixteenth record and Installator set a new mark at a mile and an eighth that will probably be unbeaten for many a day to come. Vincto, too, trained by Charley Boots, Installator's trainer, equalled the mile record, and it is much better than the performances of Al Farrow and Mulberry. The following are not only California records, but the best American as well: April Fool's half-mile on a circular track and Hotspur's mile and three-quarters. Geraldine and John Treat hold Coast records at two distances, it will be noted. Altogether the table will prove of great interest to our readers, lovers of a good and true thoroughbred:

Distance.	Time.
1-4. April Fool, 4, by Confidence, 112 pounds, Fresno, Cal., Oct. 2, 1891.....	0:21½
3-8. Red Light, 4, by Little Alp, 123½ lbs., San Francisco, June 17, 1891.....	0:34½
1-2. April Fool, 5, by Confidence, 121 lbs., Sacramento, May 14, 1892.....	0:47½
9-16. Geraldine, 4, by Gristad - Cousin Peggy, 115 lbs., Oakland, Cal., Jan. 21, 1893.....	0:54
5-8. George F. Smith, 4, by Inspector B. - North Anna, 100 lbs., San Francisco, March 7, 1893.....	0:59
11-16. Tim Murphy, 4, by imp. Kyle Daly - Maggie K., 102 pounds, San Francisco, Sept. 23, 1895.....	1:06½
Charmon, 2, by Tyrant - City, 10 lbs., San Francisco, Nov. 18, 1892.....	1:13
3-4. Ducat, 5, by imp. Lee ver - Jennie Flood, 105 lbs., San Francisco, March 8, 1893.....	1:13
Thelma, 4, by John Happy - Pansy, 107 lbs., San Francisco, June 18, 1893.....	1:13
13-16. Geraldine, 6, by Gristad - Cousin Peggy, 85 lbs., San Francisco, Nov. 3, 1891.....	1:19 3-5
Artist, 3, by imp. Darebin - Hironelle, 102 lbs., San Francisco, Nov. 5, 1894.....	1:26½
7-8. McLight, 4, by Macduff - Longlight, 99 lbs., San Francisco, March 2, 1895.....	1:26½
John Treat, 4, by Shiloh - Mary Bell, 110 lbs., Oakland, August 31, 1891.....	1:34½
15-16. Installator, 3, by imp. Brutus - Installation, 104 lbs., San Francisco, June 28, 1895.....	1:34½
Al Farrow, 4, by Conner - Della Walker, 93 lbs., San Jose, April 5, 1889.....	1:40
1. Mulberry, 4, by imp. Deceiver - Jennie McKinney, 92 lbs., San Francisco, July 6, 1893.....	1:40
Vincto, 3, by imp. Brutus - Mollie H., 112 lbs., Sacramento, Sept. 7, 1895.....	1:40
1m. 70y. Remus, 4, by imp. Brutus - Leda, 99 lbs., San Francisco, Sept. 24, 1895.....	1:41½
1-16. Arnette, 3, by imp. Midlothian - Elena, 96 lbs., Sacramento, Sept. 5, 1895.....	1:46½
1-8. Installator, 3, by imp. Brutus - Installation, 108 lbs., Sacramento, Sept. 7, 1895.....	1:53½
11-1. Laura Gardner, 4, by Jim Brown - Avall, 113 lbs., Los Angeles, Aug. 8, 1888.....	2:07½

THE FRESNO FAIR.

Good Prospects For a Good Meeting at Fresno
—The Best Horses on the Coast Will Be There.

Everything is in good shape for the Fresno races, and the people of that enterprising city are enthusiastic over the prospects of having a race meeting there once more. The races commence on October 1st and last five days. Nearly all the horses that have been attending the San Jose meeting this week leave for Fresno Sunday night. Applications have been made for over two hundred and fifty stalls, and they are still coming in. The association has already sold over $2,000 in privileges, and everything points to a prosperous meeting. The management deserve great credit for the enterprising way they have gone about it this year, and it looks as though they will be able to inaugurate a new and more prosperous era in racing in that city.

With the exception of the speed trials of Monroe Salisbury's flyers there last fall, there have been no races on the Fresno track for three years. The hard times and the big mortgage made things look dubious for the Fresno track for the last two years, but all it needs now is the help of their local people to place the association on a sound financial footing once more and revive their regular annual meetings, which will be a great help to the town. A complete list of the entries were published in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of August 10th. The following are the entries in some of the faster classes:

In the free-for-all pace the following entries have been recorded: Diablo, 2:09½; Seymour Wilkes, 2:12; Waldo J., 2:09; W. W. Wood, 2:07; Prince Almont, 2:10.

For the 2:13 pace, with a purse of $1,000, there are entered Chehalis, 2:09½; Pathmont, 2:09½; Waldo J., 2:10, and Haulford Medium, 2:15, Fred Mason, Baywood and Belle.

For the 2:17 trot the entries are: Hillsdale, 2:16; Visalia, 2:13½; Prince Ira, 2:15; Manning, 2:17½; Hamrock, George Dexter, Knight and Margaret Worth.

The entries for the 2:20 trot are Jennie June, Miss Jessie, Lady Grace, Prince Ira, Chico, Maud Patchen, Myrtle Thorne and McZeus.

There will be two bicycle races, one on Tuesday, October 1st, and one on Thursday, October 3d.

The following is the arrangement of the programme:

Tuesday, October 1st—2:40 district trot, 2:25 pace, running, half mile and repeat, bicycle race.

Wednesday, October 2d—2:27 trot, 2:17 pace, 2:17 trot, running, quarter-mile dash.

Thursday, October 3d—2:40 trot, free-for-all pace, running, five eighths mile dash, bicycle race.

Friday, October 4th—2:20 trot, 2:20 pace, seven-eighths mile dash, bicycle race.

Saturday, October 5th—2:27 district trot, 2:13 pace, 2:24 trot, half-mile dash.

WALDO J., 2:09, is the fastest horse that has won a race in California this year.

BENEFITS FROM COMPROMISE.—The evils which would have followed a "racecourse war" are happily averted. That these apprehensions were not fanciful is beyond dispute, and, if the teachings of the past can be relied upon, would have been disastrous to the racing interests of this coast. With sunshine in place of shadow, however, there is no necessity for dwelling on what might have been, but rather consider the situation as it is.

With alternating meetings on courses several miles apart the evils of continuous racing will, in a great measure, be overcome. The interval between the races on one track will give a breathing spell, something approaching a holiday affair rather than a business pursuit which occupies the whole time. In a former article, published some weeks ago, I presented the argument that races between the same horses would be more attractive when one came off at Ingleside, the other at the Bay District, though that will be of infrequent occurrence. Even in that case the different surroundings would change the features, and defeated horses at one place would make a better showing at the other. That there will be new competitors, in the same class of races, when the locality is changed, is sure to be the case, and the "glorious uncertainty" heightened to a degree which will intensify the attraction.

With racing on both courses at the same time there would be a divided attendance, let us suppose, equally divided. Now, it is not to be expected that the attendance will be doubled with one closed, as a rule, though there will be occasions when it will be more than doubled. The same, or nearly the same, expenses, however, with the small attendance, and the expense account of a modern race meeting shows an outlay that amounts to many thousands of dollars every month. Bookmakers divided, and there is little question that if the war-cloud still hovered over this peninsula Eastern pencilers would hesitate before making the long journey.

With two race courses in operation within bounds of San Francisco county it might be a temporary benefit to owners of racehorses, eventually ending in the same way that brought to a close the life of bird and her golden eggs at the same time. The welfare of jockey clubs and owners of racehorses is so intimately blended that they cannot be separated. Both must depend on the support of the "general public" for sustenance; as soon as one preys upon the other the internecine strife will be fatal to all engaged. That there will be a wholesome emulation between the two clubs, an ambition to excel, without entering into an embittering strife, is more than probable. That will secure an increased attendance, the superior attractions arising from the friendly controversy stimulating the fondness for sports of the turf, two prominent theatres, the actors of each taking lessons from their rivals; the plays mounted with superlative skill by the dual management. This week at Ingleside, and the spectators so well pleased with the representation that they cannot be kept away from the Bay District when its turn comes to present a like spectacle. There will be staunch patrons of either club, some of them, perhaps, carrying the feeling so far as to refrain from visiting the one that is not so much fancied, though that feeling will wear away in time and so long as the racing is good, and the utmost care taken to have it "straight" race-going people will lend their support without bias. That proximity will exert an influence in dealing which course will be visited is beyond question, but in a city like San Francisco the largest proportion of the home patrons will never bring that into calculation. Both are handy enough. Few of the large towns are so well fixed in that respect, with better arrangements for rapid transit. Notwithstanding the "hard times," the outlook is certainly promising, now that the most disturbing element is dispelled.

HURRAH!!! FOR THE SPRECKELS STAKE.—Those who claim that owners of good horses will not name them in long-distance races are clearly mistaken. That is, when California is the selected ground for the race to come off. Twenty-five nominations in the Spreckels Stake, and so far as can be told from pedigrees they are of the right sort and should go the route. The very first in the appended list, Sir Reel, after his sire, has on the paternal side three champions which have gained high distinction over long courses. All of them have accomplished great deeds. Norfolk at heats of three miles, the fastest, I believe, to this date, and 5:27½, 5:29½, and that some thirty years ago, with full weight up, is something to be proud of.

The second, Despot, by Judge Murray, from a mare by Springbok, is rarely bred, whichever of the trio of Judge Murray's is credited with being the sire, one being by Falsetto, one by Ten Broeck and one by Vauxhall.

The third is Junius, by Longfellow, his dam Modesty, by War Dance; the next dam Ballet, by Planet, and the next John M. Clay's great broodmare, Balloon, by imp. Yorkshire, the dam of Revolver, The Banshee, True Blue et al.

Mr. Clay had Gilroy and Victory at the Chicago races in 1869, and Banshee, which he had sold to Mr. O'Fallon of St. Louis, was also there.

While eating dinner together after the races, Mrs. Clay and quite a number of others at the table, I congratulated him on Gilroy winning a very good race that afternoon. "Oh, my dear sir," he replied, "The Banshee was beaten, The Banshee was beaten." The earnest tone in which these words were enunciated, and his countenance, so expressive of grief, were convincing proof that the victory of the colt was small consolation for the defeat of the filly.

The next one on the list, Bright Phoebus, is by Falsetto, from Buff and Blue and Buff and Blue is a daughter of Balloon. Falsetto, by Enquirer, by Leamington, and Longfellow by Leamington, so that the two last mentioned are bred in very much the same lines. With the exception of Leamington and Australian, the other strains are of the "real old hard-bottomed sort." The dam of Balloon was Haldery, by Herald, who ran in the great Peyton Stakes, heats of four miles, won the second heat, was the "runner-up" of Peytona in the third and fourth, and it was thought that if he had been better managed he would have won the race. The Peyton Stake was a produce stake of $5,000 each, $1,000 forfeit and there were thirty subscribers. Herald was by the great Plenipotentiary, out of Delphine, by Whisker, so there are the very choicest of English blood in that strain, and the second dam of Balloon was Margaret Woods, by imp. Priam, and the next Maria West, the dam of the game Wagner.

It will not do, however, to present even a synopsis of the breeding of the twenty-five aspirants for the rich prize in the Spreckels Stake. As I glance over the list scarcely one name that does not awaken recollections, and many of them a train of remembrances extending quite a way back in the "dim and misty past." Here they are, in all likelihood duplicated in another part of the paper, though even at the risk of recapitulating I must have them in the "Special Department."

THE SPRECKELS STAKES.—A handicap sweepstakes for three-year-olds and upwards, the association to guarantee the value of the race, $5,000 to the first, $300 to the second, $300 to the third and $200 to the fourth horse. Four miles.

There is one of the modern racing usages that I do not favor. That is making entries and nominations in the name of a "stable." There may be some excuse for using the name of a well-known breeding establishment, as Palo Alto, Rancho del Paso, Santa Anita, etc., but when stable is tacked on to the name of the place it is ultra-nonsensical. "Elmwood Stock Farm" is much better than Elmwood Stable, and I am well pleased to see that Mr. Boots has shown good taste. Inasmuch as fourteen of the twenty-five are signed with the names of the owners, there are hopes that the awkward nomenclature will be abandoned in time.

STRAIGHT-AWAY-WITH-A-TURN.—For the first time in my long connection with harness racing I saw, on Saturday last, a regular afternoon's trotting and pacing on a peculiar course. Not only that the track was nearly straight, as racing on the ice and on the road had similar features. The Alameda track, speedway, drive, boulevard or whatever title may be given it, is the best of the kind I ever saw. It is about one and a quarter miles in length and one hundred feet wide. There is a slight angle about midway, so that from the finish line the start can be seen, and admirably adapted as it is for training purposes, or driving, it is not satisfactory to the spectators. Still there was a large attendance and plenty of cheering when favorites won. There seemed to be some dissatisfaction over the way that two of the free-for-all pacers were driven, and there were reasons for displeasure, it being evident that there were apprehensions on the part of the drivers that grievous bars, if not records, would be the result should the animals be compelled to do their best. Whether regular or not, whenever there is a public contest of speed, the requirements of the code in the main should be complied with, the judges should enforce the rules which govern harness sports, and though in this case, were penalties inflicted, that could not be made operative on other tracks, the offending parties could be punished by being deprived of any share of the prizes, and debarred from further participation in the races of the Alameda Driving Association. There was some complaint of a lack of method, but when it is borne in mind that it was a "free gate," in fact, free entrance and exit for the whole length of the course, no seats, excepting those who had wagons or carriages, and without fences of any kind to keep the people from crowding on the course, due allowance must be made. The timing was done by electricity, or rather the signal at the start was conducted by wire, the timers starting their watches when the bell rang and stopping as the leading horse crossed the score.

I am much pleased to learn that at a meeting of the directors of the association, which was held Monday last, it was resolved to build either a regulation or kite-shaped track, using a portion of the straight-away for the homestretch. The soil is certainly the very best kind for a dry weather track; in the wet season I am thinking it will not be good, still there is some sand mixed with the clay, and plenty of sand within convenient reach. It strikes me that as the purpose is to use it entirely for harness racing a track of three quarters of a mile would be sufficient, not only materially lowering the expense of construction, but also more satisfactory to the spectators. With a schute to start the horses from giving the word at the "head" of the homestretch, the turns could be made as easy, and just as much straight work as in the regulation course. Should the contemplated track be built it will be a very good thing to keep the straightaway, too, for training, as I am well satisfied that there is far less risks to legs than when circles are to be made at speed.

There was a good deal of talk while the races were in progress whether the time announced would be a record or a bar, and since then the following letter has been received:

ALAMEDA, CAL., Sept. 22, 1895.

MR. J. C. SIMPSON,

DEAR SIR:—I take the liberty of asking your opinion upon a matter which is causing considerable discussion at present among the members of the Alameda Driving Association, viz.: What condition is placed upon the horses winning heats in the races given by the A. D. A. upon our straightway track Saturday, September 21st. Does the time made constitute a record, a bar, or neither?

By answering the above query through the columns of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN you will greatly oblige, respectfully yours, WM. HIGBY.

Not an easy thing to answer that apparently simple question, inasmuch, to the best of my knowledge, it has never been presented. It may be that the A. T. R. A. would not accept time made under the conditions which prevailed as warranting a record, and it is just possible that neither of the trotting associations would recognize it in that light. Still they were clearly "public races" as that it defined to be in Rule 42 Sec. 1. "Any contest between horses for purse, premium, stake, or wager, or involving admission fees, on any course, and in the presence of judges and timers appointed in accordance with Rule 24 shall constitute a public race."

So far as I know the provisions of Rule 24 were complied with, and all the other rules which bear on the management of the races observed. Drivers weighed, positions drawn for, the starter instructed, distance judge placed, and as nearly as possible races called on time.

As stated before, the time of the miles taken by the timers, stationed at the finish line, their knowledge of the start being derived from the ringing of the bell, the finish, of course, being the same as on regulation tracks.

Sec. 1 of Rule 43 reads "A record can be made only in a public race, or in a performance against time, the horse to trot or pace a full mile according to rule; and time must be taken by at least two timers selected for the purpose, or, if in a performance against time, by three timers, and the record of their names, as well as the time, must be kept and signed by the judges and timers."

Presuming that all of these conditions were complied with—so far as I could tell from personal observation they were—the only ground to throw out these races would be the nearly straightaway track and the divergence from the usual method of timing harness races. The quotation from Rule 42 "on any course" is clearly applicable in this case, and as there is nothing in the rules to govern the method of timing that adopted by The Alameda Driving Association should not invalidate.

I am also taking it for granted that the distance was correct. If an "associated track" it would be necessary to file a certificate of a competent surveyor that it was, but as records can be obtained on non-associated tracks such a certificate is not required, though if it could be proved that the course, over which the horses were timed, was short of a mile then a bar would take the place of a record. If the timing were proved to be incorrect that would also change from record to bar.

And now for the only rule which could be twisted to throw out the races of last Saturday is 44, "Sec. 1—Time made under the saddle, or on snow or ice, as well as time made when two or more horses are harnessed together, shall constitute a bar for races of the same character, and shall not be a bar for races of a different character."

A special pleader might argue that as races on the ice were usually nearly straightaway, the shape of the Alameda course should place it in the same category.

When there is a lack of definitiveness in the trotting codes, or rather, when, as in this instance, the burden of proof is that the laws of both trotting associations would warrant records being granted under the conditions presented, then racing law, "customs and precedents" would govern, and that authority places it beyond question. Salvator holds the record for a mile, 1:35½, and that was made on a nearly straight course, and several other racing records have been obtained in the same way as those of last Saturday.

Therefore I have no hesitancy in answering that the horses engaged secured records, to the query of my correspondent.

IS THAT FAIR PLAY.—"When Starter Walker gave them the word in the first heat they were off to a good start. Robert J. and John R. Gentry going away from Joe Patchen before the first turn was reached. They raced pretty closely together until the homestretch was reached, when the Hamlin gelding began to pull away from Gentry. The latter was urged a little by McHenry, but could not catch Robert J., who passed under the wire winner by two lengths in 2:05½. The last quarter was paced in 0:32½ a 2:09 gait. Jack Curry laid up with Joe Patchen in this heat, and it was evident that he and McHenry had combined to beat Robert J."

Kentucky Stock Farm, September 19th, report of race at Louisville.

No one can possibly claim that was a fair test of the merits of the horses or that sort of "two pluck one" contest can be classed as sport that fair-minded men can commend.

Neither is it to be expected that spectators will take as much interest in races where such flagrant practices are permitted as when it is a square strife, every man for himself and the best to win.

Before harness racing becomes as attractive to the people, who love sport for the sport itself as "legitimate" racing, all that kind of "management" will have to be squelched. Every heat must be honestly contended for, and not in accordance with the tactics of such cunning confederate card sharps.

IMPETUOUS.—There are good reasons for the belief that the strictures on the race which Impetuous trotted in Dubuque, when she was laid up four heats, huge larry-ups, 8th, 9th and along there in a field of ten horses, had a good effect.

Very properly Major McDowell would have issued orders against the repetition of that sort of tactics without adverse criticism of his driver, and yet these criticisms may have worked a more emphatic condemnation than otherwise. At all events, the races of this grand filly, since the Dubuque seven-heat affair, so far as can be told from published accounts, have not been marred by enforced dilatoriness.

At the Louisville meeting she won the two-year-old purse of $2,000, and the figures stood Impetuous 1, 2, 1.3, 2, 1, in a field of five starters, and the time of the beats 2:16, 2:17, 2:18½, 2:19, 2:20, 2:21.

Oakland, Baron, Athanasio, Killona and Pansy McGregor were her competitors, so a victory gained so gallantly must have been hugely gratifying to her owner.

PALITA, 2:16½.—Now that the daughter of Palo Alto has secured the fastest two-year-old record for this season, I hope that Iconoclast will credit her with being more than mediocre. And at the same time if my esteemed friend will look over the history of the Electioneers he will find that among the same number of the get of the sire the son has far the best of the comparison. That is, that to take the same number of the first of the progeny of Electioneers, even after discarding those which were got in New York, Palo Alto is so far in the lead that after making due allowance for better opportunities, he is surely the superior.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

Pacific Coast Jockey Club Stake Entries.

We print below a number of the entries to the rich stakes of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, to be run off next winter. Assistant Secretary Cullen informed us on Tuesday afternoon that 560 entries had thus far been received, and still they come. Every event has filled beyond the fondest expectation of the officials of the new organization, and a splendid season of equine sport is assured at the new Ingleside course next winter.

Secretary Leake calls the attention of all owners intending to race their horses over the new Jockey Club's track to rule 26 of the American Racing Rules, which govern all tracks members of the American Turf Congress, regarding the registration of horses foaled in the United States or imported since January 1, 1892, which reads as follows:

"No horse foaled in the United States since January 1, 1892, and no foreign-bred horse imported since that date shall be allowed to start in any flat race unless they have been named and registered as this rule provides."

As the Pacific Coast Jockey Club is a member of the American Turf Congress, they will no doubt live closely up to the rules of the congress, and it would be well for horse-owners who have failed to register their foals since January 1, 1892, to forward the necessary information for registration to the American Stud Book in the city of New York.

Successes of Riley Grannan and "Pittsburg Phil."

Riley Grannan's alternate winnings and losses at the Sheephead Bay track have been the principal sensations of the Coney Island Jockey Club's Fall race meeting. His "plunges" and successes have been chronicled and commented upon locally and telegraphed over the country. But he is not the only big operator at Sheephead Bay, neither is he the star "plunger." His daily transactions do not exceed those of George E. Smith ("Pittsburg Phil"). Last Tuesday Grannan's net winnings were said to be $52,000. The same day Smith probably won more money than was ever before won in any one day on the American turf, and it was done so quietly that nobody in the ring, excepting the principal and his commissioners, suspected that anything of the kind had happened. The facts did not develop until the bookmakers began comparing, when one of them remarked: "Well, if Grannan got $52,000, 'Phil' must have taken $30,000 out of the ring."

"He got $17,000 from me," answered Joseph Ullman, and this was followed by "Three thousand from me! 'Five from me!' 'Four from me!' 'Eight from my book!' and numerous other sums until the result of the raid was seen to be over $100,000. Now, anybody can get a bet that last Tuesday 'Phil' won more than twice as much as did Riley Grannan, and the latter's winnings are conceded to be $52,000.

"Phil" played Helen Nichols, Margrave, Requitel and Redskin, but to what extent he alone knows. The bookmakers whom he patronized have a painful knowledge of his investments with them.

That night Mr. Ullman declared that he was not going to do any more business with the big bettors. The next day he laid $12,000 to $10,000 against Henry of Navarre with Grannan, and Thursday he did business on a corresponding scale. Thursday Grannan believed the bookmakers were trying to "cinch" him on prices, and his betting was comparatively light. But "Phil" was a liberal operator, and had a good day, ending with a strong play on Merry Prince for a place. When Merry Prince nipped Argentina on the post for the place it was a bad ending of a bad day for the layers of odds.

During the past week betting on the races has been heavier than ever before in the United States. According to a prominent bookmaker, there have been in the ring at Sheephead every racing day this week twenty men who have each bet at least $10,000. George E. Smith's operations have averaged the most extensive, while not being accompanied by the demonstrations and comments incidental to Grannan's plunges. Everybody in the ring, and on the grounds heard what Grannan was doing, but little was heard of "Phil's" movements. Grannan's play of $45,000 on Henry of Navarre was undoubtedly the heaviest made on any one race. A. J. Levy, "Bob" Rose, "Will" Wallace, "Bob" Aiken, "Joe" Ullman, "Jack McDonald, and George Wheelock regularly bet from $10,000 to $20,000. Levy and Rose laid Grannan $12,000 to $10,000 against Henry of Navarre. Thursday Levy won $15,000 on Ramapo's victory and a round sum on Merry Prince for the place. Wednesday Wheelock won $20,000 when Nanki Pooch captured the September Stakes, and on the last race on the same day was "nosed" out of $20,000 more that he stood to win on Lookout.—N. Y. Times.

Sales in France.

The third and most successful of the Deauville annual sales of English brood mares was brought to a conclusion by M. Halbronn on Monday afternoon in the accustomed place in front of the weighing room. Most of the regular consignors to these and the Paris sales were well represented.

Those who only stood at the ring side during the sale probably went away with the impression that about half the mares would have to be taken home again, but in point of fact Merrie Carrie is the only one who makes the return journey, and when we called at the Villa Reseda, where Madame Cheri and M. and Mme Halbronn were at afternoon tea, about an hour after the auction, the total result was that eighteen mares had been sold for 7,880 guineas, being an average of 437½ guineas each. This surely ought to convince even the most skeptical of the solid and certain character of the French market, now that confidence has been fully established, as it was bound to be when scrupulous care was time after time exercised to offer at these sales thoroughly genuine animals. The Paris sale will be held as usual about the middle of November.

The prices realized were:

Ludwick Belle, 1888, by Sir Bevis—Wanda, 400 guineas. Welfare, 1884 (half sister to Ormonde), by Doncaster—Lily Agnes; M. E. Blanc, 2,500 guineas.

Dancing Princess, 1891, by Saraband—Princess (covered by Hampton); M. Sieber, 800 guineas.

Mrs. Bob, 1891, by Chittabob—Jennie Deans; M. Sieber, 600 guineas.

Attractive, 1888, by Melton—Mirabolante; M. Sieber, 600 guineas.

Supplie, 1885, by Rosicrucian—Inquisition; Count Foy, 240 guineas.

Hide and Seek, 1889, by Child of the Mist—I Spy; M. Devaux, 124 guineas.

Lady Joscelyn, 1883, by Muncaster—Arrowroot; M. du Temple, 66 guineas.

Princess Muncaster, 1886, by Muncaster—Queen of Kildare; Baron Leotine, 84 guineas.

Snack, 1882, by Kieber—Fasting Girl; Count le Marois, 320 guineas.

Marie Antoinette, 1887, by Kingcraft—The Beauty; M. Hague, 32 guineas.

Galleon, 1887, by Sterling—Typolite; Count Andre de Ganay, 64 guineas.

Kilvorita, 1891, by Kilwarlin—Favourite; Count le Marois, 60 guineas.

Mons Meg, 1888, by Martini Henry—Malacca; Mr. Jean Pratt, 920 guineas.

Edessa, 1887, by Sweetbread—Crusade; Count le Marois, 240 guineas.

Queen, 1885, by Kingcraft—Soham Lass; Count Andre de Ganay, 400 guineas.

Ducking, 1884, by Albert Victor—The Tees; Mr. Ridgway, 68 guineas.—London Sportsman.

Coming Events.

September 29—Oakland Race Track, Clabrough Golcher & Co.' blue rock tournament.
 October 6-7—Tournament of the California Inanimate Target Association at Alameda Race Track.
 October 25-26—Tournament of the Washington State Sportsman's Association, Seattle, Wash.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Grey geese have appeared in the market. They were shot near Lemoore.

The entries in each match should not be less than 125 at the great tournament of October 6th and 7th.

The Olympic Gun Club will have a special tent at the tournament for the use of the club members and friends.

Ed. Funcke, a well-known local shooter, killed nineteen out of twenty sparrows at a sparrow shoot in Yokohoma recently.

Leslie Simpson, the well-known spaniel breeder and trap shot, left for Johannesburg, South Africa, on Tuesday. He will make his future home in that vicinity.

Ned Fay and E. B. Hornung had a fine dove shoot last week at Marysville. Fay shot over six dozen in two hours' shooting. They are very plentiful in that section.

The Eureka Gun Club has joined the Association. This makes thirteen clubs now in the fold. We trust that at least one more will join before Oct. 1st just for luck.

The E. C. powder company have donated $50 to the coming tournament, and several other prizes have been received. A supplement to a programme will be printed shortly.

The "kindergartens" of the Pelican Gun Club have challenged the "old bucks" to shoot them a live bird match for a French dinner. The event will come off in the near future.

There will be an open tournament at Clabrough, Golcher & Co's grounds at Oakland Race Track to-morrow. The two sets of traps will be running and those who wish to practice should not miss this opportunity.

The Olympic Gun Club will shoot against the Garden City Cyclers Gun Club to-morrow at the latter's grounds in San Jose for a silver trophy. The clubs will be represented by ten-men teams. Each man will shoot at 25 birds, known traps, known angles.

The Dupont Powder Co.'s donation of $50 cash, the Selby Co.'s donation and the E. C. Powder Co.'s donation of like amounts to the California Inanimate Target Association's inaugural tournament are appreciated by both the association's officers and the shooters.

The ponds about Teal Station are said to be alive with ducks. We trust the boys will let them alone until the season opens. By the way there is liable to be trouble on the Suisun marshes this season. That little joker "except salt water marsh lands" opens up the desirable lands and the parties in possession will neither vacate nor allow others to shoot near them without a protest.

The Sacramento Industrial Improvement Association has notified Chas. J. Swift of the Board of Directors of the Ostrander Gun Company that the association will procure a suitable site and erect a building for the factory, to be rented to the company with the privilege of purchasing the building to be erected according to specifications furnished by the company, and preparations for the removal of the plant commenced immediately.

Why is it that none of the Southern California Clubs have joined the Inanimate Target Association? The most distant clubs are the San Joaquin Valley Gun Club, and the Eureka Gun Club. In addition to those mentioned the other clubs that have joined are The Garden City Cyclers' Gun Club of San Jose, The Sacramento Gun Club, The Watsonville Gun Club, The Stockton Gun Club. The shooting annex of the Stockton Athletic Association, The Mill Valley Country Club, The Empires of Oakland and the Lincolns, Electrics, Olympics and Nimrods of San Francisco.

Olympic Gun Club.

The final shoot of the Olympic Gun Club brought out a very good attendance. Only a very few had a chance to win the medals but the club wanted to practice for the tournament and turned out in force. Nauman and Golcher tied for the first-class medal, and in shooting off the tie Nauman won with a score of 5 to 4. H. White won the second-class medal in shooting up back scores. W. Golcher got 21, Bekeart 17. Street 10, Allen 11, White 10, Jackson 12. The score in the regular event at 25 singles, known traps and known angles, was as follows:

After the main match the balance of the day was spent in shooting pools at known traps, unknown angles. Soon after noon the Empire Gun Club came over from Alameda and swelled the entry in the practice shoots to a goodly number.

The Empire Gun Club.

The final shoot of the Empire Gun Club for the L. C. Smith hammerless gun was held at the club grounds at Alameda Point on Sunday morning. Webb won the gun with a score of 28 out of a possible 30, known traps, known angles. His total for the season was 186, Daniels 181. The scores of the main event were as follows:

Cocking and safety mechanism for breakdown guns—Emil Flues, Bay City, Mich.

Magazine pistol—Henry F. Wheeler, Peterborough, N. H.

Fish or seal spear—Homer F. Norton, Seattle, Wash.

The Dupont Powder Company will hold a grand smokeless powder championship handicap live bird contest and tournament at Baltimore, Md., on October 22, 23 and 24. The handsome sum of $1,000 is guaranteed in the main event, the winner of same also to receive an elegant championship trophy valued at $650, which will be redeemed each year by the Dupont Powder Company, from the holder, paying therefor $109 in cash. Those shooters who attended the Dupont tournament at Cincinnati last May know that the company's tournaments are managed in elegant shape, and those who did not attend the tournament above referred to can rest assured that they will have no room for complaint, but that everything will run like clockwork and every man get the fairest and squarest treatment.

Does the Pheasant Drop Its Scent?

The following opinions on the above subject, from the Northwest Sportsman will prove very interesting to those who are interested in the introduction of the Mongolian pheasant into this State:

Certainly when the Sportsman published the contrary opinions of two Portland hunters week before last, it little dreamed what a storm of argument and invective would result. It is probable that the gentlemen who set the ball rolling never imagined the "fuss in feathers" destined to spring up over the question of whether or no the crippled Mongolian can suppress his scent, and, metaphorically speaking, put a dog's nose out of joint.

As a fact, however, every man in town who ever handled a gun, and not a few who don't know the stock from the barrel have given opinions pro and con in the argument since it was started. Carefully winnowing the chaff from the wheat, the Sportsman has gathered opinions from nimrods guaranteed to have killed at least one "China" each, which it publishes for the benefit of the man who doesn't know anything about it and who will receive a year's subscription free by calling at the office and putting his ignorance on record.

In the first place, Watt Monteith, who was away when the discussion started, but who was confidently reckoned upon by the Burckhardt crowd to support their side of the contention, that a dog could scent a crippled pheasant across the continent and back, if his nose was in healthy condition, has turned out a veritable boomerang.

So far from taking this stand, Watt Monteith, who has probably dropped more gaily-plumaged pheasants than any ten hunters in Portland, says emphatically and unqualifiedly that a winged bird can and does suppress his scent so completely that the best dog that ever followed trail cannot run him down except by chance or sight.

Coin talks, and Watt challenges any proud possessor of an educated dog to put in a day with him in the hunting field. He will take him to haunts where pheasants are thick as leaves in Vallambrosa or good liars in Portland, and bet him $5 to $1 every time he wings a pheasant that his pet animal won't fetch him to bag. Just how the Mongolian effaces his habitual aroma Watt does not profess to explain, but he will gamble that he does it; and so far as experience goes he ought to know whereof he speaks.

Now, per contra, comes Dr. Cauthorn into the contention, and disagrees with Watt. He says it is undoubtedly true that fewer winged pheasants are taken by a dog than other upland birds, but attributes this to the fleetness and sagacity of the bird, and not to suppression of scent, which he considers physiologically impossible. The Mongolian, says Dr. Cauthorn, is not only swift but foxy. He zigzags in his run when winged, crosses his own trail, and will frequently by such wiles so far outwit a well-bred dog as to escape capture. Sometimes the dog overruns him in his eager quest, and sometimes in nosing around in a circle gives the bird too much start to catch up with him; but to claim that a Mongolian can suppress the odor emanating from his oil glands I believe as clearly against natural laws as for an African gentleman to perform a similar feat in the dog days. Then again, if a pheasant can cover his scent at all, why does he not do it when hard beset and unwounded, which nobody seems to claim.

D. J. Fraser disagrees with Doctor Cauthorn. He hunted the Mongolian in Scotland from the time he was a ten-year-old kid until he came to this country, and says that the ability of the bird to suppress his scent and the fact that he does it when wounded and seeking to escape his natural enemy is recognized as an axiom and never disputed in the old country. Hereditary gamekeepers, whose sires and grandsires followed the same vocation, consider it indisputable that the "china" can render himself scentless from the moment he is wounded.

United States District Attorney Dan Murphy says he is absolutely positive the "damaged" bird becomes odorless the minute a shot clips a feather off him. He has repeatedly seen his dog nose a pheasant for half a mile while unwounded and lose him in less than a hundred yards when shot.

A. W. Lambert, who should be educated, as he looks after educational matters, says that even when a pheasant is dropped in the open, in full sight of a dog, he can't keep scent of him for fifty feet, in some cases that have come under his observation.

Doc Langworthy gets off at the other depot. He says that he never yet struck a trained pheasant who could drop his scent as a monkey does a hot copper. It is true "chinas" get away, but it is because they run a mile a minute, not from lack of odor. Doc gets his share of birds somehow, and, right or wrong, is entitled to an opinion.

Ivan Humason, the heavy-weight bicyclist and all-around sport, says: "Bet your life, they drop their scent, drop everything, when they are in a hurry, and don't you forget it." A hunter who really is a hunter, is in demand at House's restaurant to take hold of the novice class and teach their ideas to shoot.

Judge J. W. Whalley, nothing if not original, puts it in this way: The dog can follow the scent of the cripple all right, but sometimes his (the dog's) legs aren't good enough. Then, too, when his nose is lowered on a hot scent he sometimes gets it too strong in his nostrils to follow a rapidly diminishing odor. Put a man in a room impregnated with musk, and afterwards in a room scented with lavender, and he won't be cognizant of the changed aroma.

C. E. Holmes, while claiming but little experience, says the dogs he has hunted behind are mighty keen before the feathers fly, and afterwards acquire a sort of puzzled expression, difficult to comprehend unless you accept the suppression-of-scent theory as correct.

Herman Burrell has not been caught by the Sportsman reporter, but is understood to be a strong believer in the power of a crippled Mongolian to let go of his scent-bag and give any dog the slip.

Eli Davis remarks that it is certainly queer how fast a dog will follow a "china" when he is still unhurt and how tired he suddenly grows when feathers fly. He thinks the bird drops something, but whether his scent, his pocketbook, or a letter from his best girl, does not feel equal to deciding.

Charles Burckhardt still sticks to his original contention that a dog can follow a cripple as well as he can a sound bird, which is to his credit, as some of his adherents have tried to crawlfish and swallow themselves since they learned Watt Monteith's opinion. Burckhardt further says that he will take up $100 worth of Watt's challenge; man and dog ready on twenty-four hours' notice.

The Doe-Slayer.

Attorney Silva, of Sausalito, the gentleman who recently gained considerable notoriety by proving that the Marin county deer ordinance was not worth the paper it was written upon, will soon have another chance to test the law. This time it is the State law, and if we mistake not he will find that he is kicking against a brick wall.

He was arrested on Thursday morning for killing two female deer, a doe and fawn near Mill Valley. This doe and fawn have been running about the town of Mill Valley for some two months past, and had become quite tame. They have been seen almost every morning feeding on the flowers in the orchards and nipping off the young shoots from the fruit trees. The pair were well known by most of the inhabitants of Mill Valley, and were looked upon as public pests.

On Wednesday two ladies who reside at Mill Valley saw this man, Silva, shoot first the doe and then the female fawn and another lady saw him disembowel them and cut off the heads. He threw the heads into a small gully. The lady who was watching him notified a Sausalito constable and led him to the place where the heads were hidden. Mr. Silva was immediately put under arrest, and the sportsmen of Marin county intend to make up a purse and engage a noted criminal lawyer to prosecute the case and give this doe-slayer the full benefit of the law.

A few days ago, at a shooting party in the north of Scotland, a lady appeared clad in the orthodox outfit hitherto monopolized by the sterner sex. Although she expended a considerable number of cartridges she did not succeed in bringing down a single bird. The gamekeeper, after the return of the party expressed himself as follows regarding the lady's performance: "She afit the gentlemen a' that she cud. She wore the same claes, she smoked, drank a nip o' whuskey, ay an' ance gied a bit swear laich in, hit as for shutin', she cudna hit a barn door at ten yairds, an' she never ance said 'thank ye' tae maesel. If ony mair o' her kind came aboot I'll throw up ma job.—Shooting Times.

A consignment of Mongolian pheasants was received at San Jose on Thursday last week. They will be kept on the mountain ranch of M. Arnerich near Guadalupe, and as fast as they breed the young ones will be distributed as soon as old enough to take care of themselves. R. R. Bulmore, Jas. Harry of Almaden, H. Cattermole of Wrights and V. Poncelet Llagas will each breed from one trio. The birds were purchased through game warden McKenzie by a party of San Jose sportsmen. The Garden City Cyclers' Gun Club contributed $25 toward the fund.

The Giant Powder Co. will soon make a bid for a portion of the Smokeless Powder trade. Their new Smokeless will be called the Monarch Smokeless. It is a greenish yellow in color, a fine hard grain, and is claimed to be the equal of any smokeless now on the market. This company also manufactures at the works at Clipper Gap four different brands of superior black powder known as Imperial Shooting, Champion Ducking, Peerless Rifle and Invincible shooting.

The United States Smokeless Powder Company have engaged J. S. Fanning, the well-known trap shot, to represent their powder. He will introduce Gold Dust throughout the State. In Mr. Fanning the company has secured the services of a good steady shot, a popular sportsman and a good talker. We wish him every possible success in his new field of labor.

The Mallard Club have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Robert J. Boyer, of Oakland, president; R. Lloyd Eaton, of San Francisco, secretary; V. V. Harrier, of Vallejo, treasurer. Honorary members: Senator Eli S. Dennison, Sheriff B. Rush of Solano, Attorney Thomas Garrity of Oakland, and Assemblyman J. M. Bassford of Napa.

The $50 donation to the tournament by the E. C. Powder Co. and the five expert traps donated by the Cleveland Target Co. will be given as prizes in the Club Team Championship Contest. The first in the form of souvenirs to the team winning second place and the traps to the third team.

There will be a practice shoot and tournament at Clabrough Golcher & Co.'s grounds at Oakland Race track to morrow. The second set of traps are in readiness and all those who intend to participate in the tournament should not miss the opportunity to practice over the new traps.

The Olympic team that will compete against the Garden City Club at San Jose to morrow will consist of M. O. Feudner, J. S. Fanning, C. Nauman, W. J. Golcher, H. C. Golcher, C. A. Haight, J. R. Carroll, M. C. Allen, P. Bekeart and H. White.

The Cleveland Target Co. have donated five expert traps to the winning team at the coming tournament.

ROD.

A. V. La Motte placed 60,000 cutthroat trout fry in Seward, Robertson and Mill creeks last week. The good work of the S. F. and N. P. is becoming apparent. One party caught 125 trout from 7 to 16 inches in length in Pieta creek recently in two hours' fishing. These fish were planted last year. Last year Mr. La Motte put 90,000 Lake Tahoe trout into the Blue Lakes, and they are said to be about 6 inches in length now. Several hundred thousand more have been planted this season.

The Fish Commission report four arrests in San Francisco for the illegal possession of fresh salmon and 2,000 pounds of confiscated fish. One of the deputies arrested the wharfinger at Bouldin Island on Wednesday. He shipped the fish that were received in San Francisco. His case will come before the court in Stockton next week.

Mr. Johnson of Ukiah reports excellent black bass fishing in the Russian river near Guerneville. On the first of the week he caught a fine mess averaging 3½ pounds each. They have been caught near there weighing as high as 8 pounds. Clams, shrimp and worms are used for bait and at times they take the spoon very well.

John Benn, the world-renowned fly tyer, will whip the waters of the Eel River next week.

John Butler started for his favorite fishing ground, the Eel river on Tuesday last. He will fish to the west of Mt. Sanhedrin. Capt. Cummins went up Sunday but he will fish further down the river. The fishing is said to be very good this year, but the Supervisors have closed the stream after October 1.

Al. Cummins returned on Tuesday from a month's outing at Boca and Lake Webber. He reports but indifferent luck. The weather has been too cold most of the time for good fishing. He killed several fine bags of mountain quail and grouse.

Deputy fish commissioners confiscated seven nets on the Sacramento river this week. Six of them belonged to unknown parties and one man was caught and convicted by a jury at Vallejo.

The fishing at Lake San Andreas is still poor. A fair mess and good sized fish can be caught with bait, but fly fishing or spoon fishing will not catch one fish a day.

H. Landsberger returned on Monday from Boca. He brought back with him a nine pound trout caught in the Truckee.

Baron Von Schroeder started for his ranche at Santa Margarita, on Friday, on a fishing and shooting trip.

The San Francisco and North Pacific will erect a large fish hatchery near Ukiah in the near future.

THE KENNEL.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The Pacific Kennel Club should hold its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday of next week.

The Fox-Terrier Chronicle for August contains an excellent half-tone of Belmont's Blenton Victor II., by Dusky Trap—Verdict.

Judge Brittan's new pug did not come over with Mr. Thomas' string owing to the absence from home of Mrs. Forster when Thomas sent for him.

W. F. Worthington's puppy by Reglov—Queen Bess W. weighs 96½ pounds at six months old and stands 27 inches at shoulder. This is excellent weight, considering that the pup is thin in flesh.

We are pleased to learn that L. G. Rowells has succeeded in saving ten of the big litter by Hector of Hauenstein, out of his Laura Alton. There are five dogs and five bitches left and they are doing nicely.

The Waterloo entries, Burrell and Rossiter's Emin Pasha, San Joaquin and Wayfarer, by Major—Daisy (both from Col. North's kennels), and J. H. Perigo's Longfellow, started on Tuesday for the East. They will be run at the Aberdeen meeting on October 1st and for the American Wattertoo Cup at Huron, S. D., on October 8th. C. W. Peyton's nominations, Flying Buck and Royal Buck, by Royal Crest—Daisy, will start for the East in a few days. The four that have gone are in charge of J. H. Burrell and Henry Perigo.

Manitoba Field Trials.

The Manitoba Field Trial Club's Field Trials were run on Sept. 9-12 at Morris, Man., with the following results:

AMATEUR STAKE.

First, Chimo Kennels' b w and t English setter dog Dodo III., by Orlando—Atlanta; second, John Wootton's b and w English setter bitch Bonnie Lit, by Orlando—Lady Lit; third, Chimo Kennels' l and w English setter dog Larry Noble, by Ezra Noble—Cornelia G.

Harris' b w and t English setter dog Tony Boy, by Antonio—Laundress, and N. T. Harris' b w and t English setter bitch Cynosure, by Roderigo—Norah II.

The Glenbeigh Rod's Chaff Match.

Geo. Crocker has chosen Andrew Jackson as his judge and Howard Vernon has chosen Wm. Dormer. When these two succeed in choosing a referee that is acceptable to all parties the preliminaries to the match will be nearly arranged.

Our readers will remember that this match is for $500 a side. It will be run on Thanksgiving Day, probably at Bakersfield.

Whenever it is held there will be a good attendance and the interest in the outcome will be intense. Rod's Chaff is reported to be very fast and clever. He divided third in the New England Field Trials Club's Derby. Glenbeigh's triumphs are too recent to need to be repeated.

SALES.

A. N. Baveley, Oakland, has sold an Irish setter dog pup by Barrymore (Finglas—Ch. Ruby Glenmore), out of Ruby M. (Mike T.—Lady Elcho T.) to O. M. Campbell, Marysville, Cal.

Death in the Ranks.

Death was busy among the harness horses last week, and at least four of note passed to the "happy hunting grounds" during its course. Most prominent among these was the celebrated trotter and sire of trotters, Hambrino, 2:21½, who died on Saturday, 4th inst., at M. L. Hare's Grasslands Farm, Fisher's Switch, near Indianapolis, Ind., at the ripe age of twenty-six. Hambrino was a bay horse, foaled 1869, bred by L. Curtis, Brooklyn, N. Y., and was a son of Edward Everett and Mambrino, by Mambrino Chief; grandam the thoroughbred mare Susie, by imp. Margrave. He passed to Mr. Hare at an early age, to whom he proved one of the best investments ever made by a breeder in horseflesh. As a race horse Hambrino was a conspicuous success, his best season being that of 1879, when he was a Grand Circuit winner at both the Rochester and Hartford meetings, making his record at the latter place in the second heat of a six-heat race. In all, Hambrino started in fifteen races, winning eleven. Retired to the stud on the close of his racing career, he proved an unqualified success as a sire; his list of standard performers numbers thirty-two in all, headed by the great stallion, Delmarch, 2:11½, and including six others that have beaten 2:20. His daughters have produced well, the famous filly Silicon, 2:13½ (2:15½ at two years), and twenty others being from them, while his sons, for their chances, have done well as sires, his best being Nephew, long one of the sires at Palo Alto Farm.

Hambrino died in the peace and quietude, with the deserved and accredited honors of old age. Not so with Repetition, Novardine and Navarre, who also "crossed the great divide" last week. The two former succumbed to the effects of hard races at Louisville, where the heat was so intense as to prove prostrating to a horse not perfectly ordered for a race. Repetition's name has been a familiar one in trotting circles for ten years. He was one of Crit Davis' star pupils, taking a three year-old record of 2:21 and a four-year-old record of 2:19½. Thereafter the son of Red Wilkes and Nannie Dillard never came up to expectations until he was allowed to pace this year. The lateral gait, his natural one, proved also his fastest, as he beat 2:26 early in the season, took a record of 2:14 at Galesburg and was very close up in much faster time. In his last race, at Louisville, he was third to Sable Gift and Ella T. in 2:10.

Norvardine, son of Norval and Onwanita, by Onward, took a three-year-old record of 2:25½ last season and the present one had proved himself a much more than average four-year-old, winning a good race at Terre Haute and reducing his mark to 2:18½, and again at Galesburg in 2:18, where he beat Ella Belmont and a good field. His last start was in the eight beat 2:17 class at Louisville, where he won the fifth heat in 2:18, but died the following night.

Navarre, 2:23½, son of Nuncio and Jane, by Frank Woolford, died under almost similar circumstances at Elizabethtown, Ky., after winning two heats in a postponed eight-heat race.—Horse Review.

Death of the Great Enquirer.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sep. 15.—The stallion Enquirer, by imp. Leamington, out of Lida, by Lexington, foaled in 1867, died at Belle Meade yesterday. He was the sire of Falsetto, Inspector B., McWhirter, Reporter and other famous horses. Up to, and including 1893, his get won nearly $600,000.

By Ed.—Enquirer was not only one of our very best sires, but a first-class race horse as well. He started during his turf career in ten races, winning seven, and defeating such cracks as Longfellow, Lynchburg, Hamburg, Remorseless, Maggie B. B. (dam of Iroquois), Susan Ann (dam of Thora and Henlopen), Kingfisher and Lytleton. His winnings on the turf amounted to something like $22,000, of which $20,800 was earned when he was a three-year-old. Enquirer was a bay horse standing 16½ hands and weighing 1,200 pounds, and was bred by H. F. Vissman, of Louisville, Ky. His great grandam was the renowned race mare, Gabriella, by Sir Archy. Inspector B., one of the best racing sons of Enquirer, is now one of Belle Meade's leading stallions.

Our Premiums.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 21, 1895.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.—The picture of Miss Russell has arrived, and is such a pleasant surprise as a picture and in the work that I am anxious to get one of Hambletonian 10, and also another of Miss Russell.

Yours faithfully, H. W. LATHAM.

A Testimonial.

Read the following letter from A. McDowell, driver of Alix, queen of the turf:

RED OAK, Iowa, June 28, 1895.

ILLINOIS KNEE SPREADER.—Dear Sir: I think the Illinois Knee Spreader the best I ever used. I would not be without them in my stable for any amount of money, and recommend everyone to use them. Yours respectfully, A. McDOWELL.

AMONG the famous horses entered in stakes at the new Ingle-side track of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club are the following: Bright Phoebe, Cadmus, Cash Day, Rey el Santa Anita, Flying Dutchman, Crescendo, Yo Tambien, Maid Marian, Silver II., Mobaloka, Rey del Carrera, Libertine, George F. Smith, O'Connell, Santiago, Sister Mary, Hawthorne, Derfagilla, Applause, Ferrier, Victor, Installer, Despot, Senator Irby, Lucky Dog, Lady Diamond, Strathmeath and Pop Gray. A mile race between Flying Dutchman, Rey el Santa Anita, Bright Phoebe, Cash Day, Libertine, Installer, Victor, Ferrier, Maid Marian, Despot, Senator Irby and Cadmus would be worth going many a mile to see, while a record at six furlongs would go glimmering if Rey del Carrera, Libertine, George F. Smith, O'Connell, Ferrier, Installer, Despot, Pop Gray and Crescendo met in a race. O'Connell holds the circular track record of the world—1:12½—made this season at Oakley with 121 pounds up.

HOOE-BEATS.

PALITA, 2:16½, is the queen of all two-year-olds of 1895.

THE Hollister meeting this year will be the best ever held there.

CHAS. A. DUFFEE will have his string of fast trotters at Fresno next week.

ED CORRIGAN's Handsome won a mile and an eighth race in Oakley yesterday in 1:56½.

JOCKEY CLAUDE BURLINGAME is back from Montana and is looking in good health.

JAVELIN, 2:14½, by Creole, 2:15, keeps lowering her record at San Jose. In the third heat of a race she lowered it to 2:13½.

ADVERTISER, 2:15½, by Electioneer has two in the list Abdell, 2:23, as a yearling, and the three-year-old filly Nordica, 2:19½.

HUGH JONES, Johnny Coleman's partner, took $500 out of the combination book man's hands Tuesday, picking all the winners.

FRESNO PRINCE is "rounding to" and will be in the 2:13 class before long. L. J. Smith, his trainer, has reason to be proud of him.

ZALDIVAR won a six and one-half furlong race in fast time (1:20½) Tuesday at Windsor. Metropole was second and Halloween third.

CALIFORNIA-BRED horses did well at St. Louis Wednesday, Booze winning a mile race in 1:41½, Oregon Eclipse a six and one half furlong event.

HAMBLETONIAN WILKES, the handsome Geo. Wilkes stallion at the Green Meadow Stock Farm, was bred to thirty-five mares this season.

WM. MURRAY had his horse Diablo, 2:09½, at San Jose this week, but as the free-for-all pacing race did not fill he sent the horse back to Pleasanton.

JOHN R. GENTRY won the $4,000 special purse at Dubuque, Iowa, Wednesday, pacing the third heat in 2:03½, the world's sidwheeling record for a third heat.

THE Fresno races next week will be well contested. A large number of horses are there at present and a number that were in San Jose will be sent there to-morrow.

APPLICATIONS for the services of Boodle, 2:14, next year, are coming from horse breeders from all parts of California. What an outcross he would be on Electioneer mares.

MAGNETIZER is quite a sire. On the 17th of September two by this horse were successful at Brooklyn—Jack of Spades and Woodvine. The latter is quite a two-year-old filly.

MAID MARIAN, the Great Tom mare that will be out soon, beat Buckwa a whisker at Oakley Wednesday, one mile in 1:40½. Simon W. also a fast horse, won at the same place in 1:41½.

THE A. W. Richmond mares are all good matrons. Rex Gifford, the gray horse that made a record of 2:14 in the third heat of his race in San Jose, is out of a mare by this grand stallion.

THERE were fifteen heats trotted and paced during the first two days of the San Jose race meeting, and the average time made was 2:14½. The slowest heat trotted was 2:19½, and the fastest 2:10.

THE once cracking good race mare, Misty Morn, by St. Paul—Why Not, won a half-mile heat race at Victoria, B. C., September 19th, after losing the first heat to Rifton. The track was a sea of mud.

J. T. WISDOM has sold his running mare Miss Gentry, by Chesapeake, to Joe Thomas for $1,500. Miss Gentry was quite a good mare while in Montana. She was bred and raised in Baker county, Oregon.

EDNA R., by Sidney, was the contending horse in the pacing race in San Jose on Wednesday. She was second in 2:11½, 2:12½, 2:13½, and won the fourth in 2:16½. Edna R. is out of a mare by Director, and is a game little race mare.

At the Green Meadow Stock Farm near Santa Clara there is a filly that is a perfect likeness of La Belle, 2:16. She is by Hambletonian Wilkes, out of Anna Belle (dam of La Belle, 2:16), by Dawn. Next season she will be seen on the circuit.

CAPT. TOM MERRY ("Hidalgo") came up from Los Angeles Tuesday by steamer, looking in superb health and with the vigor of a twenty-year-old. The veteran turf writer is compiling a book that will be of great benefit to breeders and students of pedigrees some day.

TOM BOYLE, the well-known conditioner of Road Runner, Crawford, Tioga and others, has been selected by A. B. Spreckels to take the place of the veteran Cy Mulkey as trainer of his big string. The selection is a good one, for Boyle is both conscientious and competent.

SANTA CRUZ, of the Santa Anita Stable, was victorious in a five and a half furlong dash at Windsor Wednesday, Ethel W. second and Hanzeatic third. The latter dropped dead soon after she finished. She was by imp. Dutch Skipper, out of imp. Little Minx, and a good performer.

ED CORRIGAN has fired the $10,000 Ducat and sent him to his farm in Kentucky, along with Vassal and Senator Irby, and the trio will rest up until next year. Huron, having given signs of not standing training again, has been permanently turned out and will go in the stud in the spring.

CALIFORNIA-BRED horses won three races at Gravesend Tuesday. Salvable, by Salvator—Lydia, won at five furlongs and landed a lot of money. Rey del Carreras was successful at six furlongs and Connoisseur at one and one-half miles, Pepper second and Caracas, another Californian, third.

BYRON McCLELLAND has another good colt in Prince Lief, son of King Eric and Elmi, by Asteroid. Thursday at Gravesend he won the Youthful Stakes, five and a half furlongs, beating Bloomer, One I Love (the best filly out this season) and several others, and going the distance in 1:07½.

ADDIE M. clearly does not like a journey of over six furlongs.

LEORA won a half mile dash at Salem, Or., in 0:48½. Daylight won the two-year-old race at six furlongs.

INGOMAR won a mile race at Oakley Thursday in the mud, Grannan finishing second and Sigurd third.

HAD Clacquer been given a race or two he would in all likelihood have won Thursday's race, in which Favory was victorious.

WILLIE FLYNN had but two mounts Thursday, and both won in fine style. This boy is doing excellent work in the saddle these days.

MACKLIN, the crack jockey with J. G. Brown & Co., came down with the string from Sacramento Thursday afternoon, and may be seen in the saddle to day.

H. H. HUNN, trainer of the Hobart gallopers, will bring Bright Phoenix, Ferrier and the rest of the string down from the San Mateo ranch week after next.

SAM C. WAGNER of Dayton, Ohio, is reported to have won $30,000 Thursday on his horse, Umbrella, at Oakley. He won $5,000 from Riley Grannan alone.

ROSEBUD improves steadily, and Thursday showed ability to go a long route. The mile was simply galloped in 1:41½, and had the Sir Modred filly been pressed she could have gone close to 1:40.

ALARM, a bay colt by Torso from Hana, beat a good field of two-year-olds at Brooklyn September 19th, running five furlongs in 1:02 with 107 pounds up. Falling Water was second and Kamsin third.

BARNEY SCHREIBER won the Gem Stakes, one mile, value to the winner $1,130, with Don Carillo Thursday at Oakley. It was in the mud. Ben Eder was second and Ann Garth third. The time was 1:47.

FICTION and Zaldivar, bred in California, were successful at Windsor Thursday, the former at five and one half furlongs, the latter at six. Fiction is by Ben Ali, from Prose; Zaldivar by Joe Hooker, out of Lena's First.

ONE of the prize-winning carriage horses in his four-in-hand is called Harry Wilkes, and is by a son of Geo. Wilkes. No hackney in the land can show more style than he, and as for knee and hock action he would make John A. Logan's famous hackney, Bonfire, retire to his stall. He is perfect at this respect.

THERE are five fillies by the dead Martenhurst at Rancho del Paso. Martenhurst was by Wenlock, dam Hironnelle, by Adventurer, second dam Lady Langden (dam of Hampton and Sir Bevy); third dam Haricot (dam of Caller On), by Lanercost; fourth dam Queen Mary (dam of Blink Bonnie, Bonnie Scotland, etc.), by Gladiator.

THE great trotting gelding, Ayres P., 2:03½, which W. S. Hobart purchased in the East, is as round and fat as a Percheron. When "Pa" Hamlin had this horse it was almost impossible to fatten him. Ayres P. as used as a free-for-all horse on the farm. He is driven to a huckboard, and is one of the most useful horses in the country.

RED WILL is running in races just now as well as he showed in private many months ago. "Moose" Taylor tells of a three-quarter mile trial of the colt last spring that made him believe Red Will ought to beat most anybody's horse. The chestnut son of Jim Gore carried 126 pounds and did the distance in 1:14 flat, and handily too, at that.

SANTA ANITA bred horses won two grand races at Gravesend Thursday, Rey del Carrera leading all the way in the Brookwood Handicap, mile and a sixteenth, the track very heavy. It was thought that the son of Emperor of Norfolk and Clara D. was only a sprinter, but he won eased up by three lengths, Counter Tenor being second and Dolabra third. Rey El Santa Anita's win was also at a mile and a sixteenth.

SAM LEAKE, the dark bay colt that made Benham, Fireman at a look like saffron-hued canines yesterday, is an own brother to Dare, whom the late Col. H. I. Thornton sold for $6,000 as a two-year-old to Chas. L. Fair. Leake improves with every race, and after being pocketed and restrained nearly the whole distance, won in a big gallop by three parts of a length from the hard-driven Benham.

DUCHESSE OF TOWERS is the highest class filly we have seen in many months. At the half-pole, in the fourth race Wednesday, she was absolutely last, nine or ten lengths behind Fly, the leader. At the three-quarter mark the brown filly was but two lengths away, and she won easily by a length in 1:07—a fast run in any country. There is nothing in the Duchess' looks to indicate her powers, she being of medium size.

CENTAUR writes as follows in the New York Commercial Advertiser: "The two rival race courses at San Francisco have at last come to an amicable understanding, and the official announcement is made that each track will alternate every two weeks. This is certainly good news, and the exodus of stables from the East for the winter racing season will now be very heavy. Most of the big stables will send representatives."

A ST. JOSEPH (Mich.) dispatch of September 25th says: "Horses are going crazy here daily with a disease which is supposed to be caused by eating marsh hay. The horse is taken with a high pulse and in a short time is crazy, and will break everything within reach. Some of them have got out of the barns and then have run around in a circle. The skill of the veterinary surgeon is baffled. Out of fifteen cases three have proved fatal within three days after the malady appeared."

THE excellent stable of J. Galen Brown & Co. arrived at Bay District track yesterday afternoon from Sacramento. In the lot were the record-breaking Libertine, Uncertainty, Treachery, Princess Rose II., Wyoming, Buckkinner, Claude Hill, Moran and a chestnut colt by Strathmore, sire of Strathmeath and Monrovia. There is some good material here, and many a race should fall to the lot of J. G. Brown & Co. this fall and winter, no accidents intervening.

EUGENE LEIGH and Dick Brown sold the crack two-year-old Ben Brush to M. F. Dwyer September 20th. Ben Brush is by Bramble, out of Roseville, and in size, conformation and appearance is the exact counterpart of his famous sire, who did much toward laying the foundation of Dwyer Bros.' fortune. Ben Brush is in the first ranks of two-year-olds, but was ineligible for the Eastern stake events, owing to improper registration. The terms upon which he became Dwyer's property are private.

CHARLES KERR, the Bakersfield breeder, arrived Tuesday in good health and spirits. He reports that he has the finest lot of yearlings ever raised at Antrim Stock Farm. They are by imp. Midlothian, imp. Martenhurst, imp. Sir Modred and Apache, twelve in all. A sister to Olive (by Apache—Virgie) and a colt by imp. Midlothian, from Sister to Tournament, are especially fine-looking youngsters. He will sell them in November in this city at auction.

AN absurd story to the effect that the proposed fall meeting at Morris Park by the recently organized Westchester Jockey Club was to be abandoned got into circulation last week. There was, of course, no foundation for it, as the track has now passed out of the hands of the Morris, and has been turned over to a syndicate of gentlemen who propose to have there only racing of the highest class. The new mile track at Morris Park is now completed, and the horses will be saved the journey over the top of the stony track that they have previously had to negotiate before the run to the home-stretch. That track has resulted in the breaking down of a lot of fine animals, and it has therefore been avoided by owners of first-rate horses, as their trainers have always been afraid of it. With that bugaboo out of the way there is no reason why the very best of sport should not be had at the Westchester track.

AS AN investment Hanover has proved a rare bargain to Milton Young. He paid $15,000 for him on his turf reputation alone, has sold two crops of his colts, has one on hand and another coming on, and now if he disposed of him it is at a profit of $45,000. He also derived a revenue of large dimension from him as long as he let him serve as a public stallion, and, counting up all together, the son of Hindoo in four years has put not less than $100,000 clear profit in the treasury of McGrathiana. When in the racing stable of the Dwyers, with Kingston and Tremont, breeders seemed to prefer the latter two horses as sires, but Mr. Young openly expressed the opinion that Hanover was the horse of the three. Kingston raced on and on, and now has just gone to the stud, after Hanover has written his name across the continent with the fame of his produce, while Tremont has far from earned his name as a stallion success in the stud. This shows again the keen judgment of the successful proprietor of McGrathiana, who has very few mistakes charged to his account as a breeder.

FOR SALE.

A FINE DOUBLE TEAM OF FAST TROTTERS.

A splendid pair of roadsters, one of the finest buggy teams in the city, is offered for sale. They are well-bred, fast, stylish, and perfectly gentle - safe for a lady to drive. In breeding they cannot be excelled, being of the most fashionable strains. Any gentleman wanting a fast team will find a bargain in this pair of trotting mares. They are only four years old, and, being untrained, will continue to develop speed by careful handling. They are slightly below medium size, but of strong conformation and perfectly sound. This team may be seen at the Dexter Prince Stable, 1509 Grove street, near Baker. They will be sold at a low price.

ALSO FOR SALE

Fast Roadsters, Race and Business Horses

BRED AT THE

NAPA STOCK FARM,

Napa, Cal. By purchasing directly from the breeder one ensures getting sound and serviceable animals at lowest prices. Colts and fillies are offered for sale by that great young sire, PILOT PRINCE; also by Dexter Prince, Sidney, Victor, 2:22, Grandissimo, 2:23, George Washington, 2:16, El Benton, 2:23, Don Martin, 2:22, etc. These have all been bred at the Napa Stock Farm and are out of first-class mares.

Promising colts of tried speed lines will be supplied to trainers at very low prices. A large number now ready for track work are offered for sale.

Broodmares are also offered for sale by Woodnut, 2:16, Dawn, 2:18, Grandissimo, 2:23, Dexter Prince, Hawthorne, Arthur, Napa, etc. A feature is also made of supplying good lively and business horses for city use.

All stock guaranteed sound and as represented. Having been raised on the upland pastures of the Napa Stock Farm they have the best of feet and legs and will therefore stand hard work. All stock sold from this farm has given the best of satisfaction. Bargains are offered to all desiring to purchase good stock of any kind.

If you wish to purchase horses of any kind, write for information.

Full particulars may be had regarding the above by calling at Heald's Business College, or by addressing

DR. E. W. BOVETT'S

SPECIFIC FOR

Cracked Heels and Scratches.

It will also cure all Sores, Wounds, Foot Chafes, Rope Burns and Grease Heel without leaving a CALLOUS, and will always remove a Callosus when caused from a wound.

It removes all soreness with a few applications, and is the only remedy known that will heal a Cracked Heel and leave the skin soft and pliable.

The great horseman, Monroe Salisbury, says: "I have used it on ALIX (Queen of the Turf), and DIRECTLY (two and three-year-old champion pacer), for Cracked Heels and find that it removes the sore, new with the first application and the heel is soon soft and pliable, without any callosus remaining."

T. W. Raymond, owner and driver of KLAMATH, 2:08 1/4, says: "Have been trying to cure Klamath's Cracked Heels for eight years, and this is the first remedy I have ever found that did the business."

Many horses are unsound and refuse to extend themselves, simply because their heels are sore and tender.

Price, $1.00 per bottle; six bottles, $5.00. Delivered anywhere in the U. S. and Canada at 25 cents per bottle, with reduction for each additional bottle.

"Gold Dust" Smokeless Shot Gun Powder.

THE BEST SHOT GUN POWDER MADE.

Its claims for superiority are as follows:—

- FIRST It is not affected by heat, cold, moisture or age, and will not detonate.
- SECOND It will not cause headache.
- THIRD It is under all conditions the safest powder in use, as it contains no nitro-glycerine or gun cotton. It will not explode unless confined and ignited by fire, as in the loaded shell in the gun.
- FOURTH It has a light recoil and great velocity.
- FIFTH It is the quickest and has the greatest killing power at any distance.
- SIXTH It gives the best pattern at any and all distances.
- SEVENTH Its action is the most uniform in all respects.
- EIGHTH It can be used in cheap paper, or brass shells with any primer.
- NINTH It is the cleanest powder in use, and if the gun is not cleaned for weeks after using, a dry cloth is all that is required for that purpose, when it will be noticed that there is no corrosive action, but, on the contrary, the residue has preserved the metal. The residue does not accumulate with long continued shooting, there being no more after fifty shots than after the first. (After shooting other powders, the gun barrels should be wiped out and cleaned before using "GOLD DUST.")
- TENTH It is the cheapest powder to use, as every package sold contains full weight (16 oz. to the lb.); and each pound contains more than double the number of loads to the same bulk of any other powder (with the exception of one brand, which sportsmen generally hesitate to use, considering it dangerous).

THIS POWDER IS MANUFACTURED BY THE

DUPONT SMOKELESS SPORTING POWDER

Now Ready.

AN AMERICAN NITRO POWDER OF HIGH MERIT.

The Claims made for Dupont Smokeless are briefly as follows:

- First—It may be loaded the same as black powder, using the usual Dixon measure.
- Second—It gives best pattern and best penetration of any nitro powder at this time before the public.
- Third—It is cleaner in the gun than any nitro powder in use.
- Fourth—It is what its name would indicate, smokeless.
- Fifth—Recoil, while noticeable, is far less than that incident to the use of any other powder.
- Sixth—Its shooting qualities of the best; hard, quick, well-suited to trap and wing shooting.
- Seventh—This powder is not affected by extremes of heat, cold or moisture, which is not the case with many other nitro powders.

Prices and instructions to be used in loading, free on application.

BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN

Vol. XXVII. No. 14.
No. 813 BUSH STREET.

SAN FRANCISCO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1895.

SUBSCRIPTION
FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR

THE SAN JOSE FAIR.

Greatest Racing Seen on the Circuit—Coast Records Smashed—Closing Days of the Meeting.

FOURTH DAY—FRIDAY, SEPT. 27.

The 2:27 class trot was an easy win for G. K. Hostetter's Boodle, San Jose's great campaigner securing first money by taking three straight heats.

The sensation of the day was the time made by the famous Oregon pacer Chehalis. In the second heat of the 2:15 class pace he went a mile in 2:07½, smashing the track record of 2:09 made by Waldo J. Thursday. This heat was also the fastest mile paced or trotted in California this year.

The Fruitmen's Stake for foals of 1892 was won by Cressida in hollow style, her only competitor, Our Seth, being distanced in the second heat.

The 2:17 class trot was called first and brought out four horses—Boodle, Visalia, George Dexter and Nellie W. Boodle sold favorite, bringing $20 to $15 for Visalia and $4 for the field. Visalia was played favorite in the mutuels to win the first heat.

Boodle started off in the lead, but lost it at the first turn to George Dexter. At this point Visalia broke and was passed by Nellie W. Dexter led at the quarter, Boodle second and Nellie W. third. Boodle broke but recovered his feet quickly and, passing George Dexter, led at the half. Dexter was second and Nellie W. third. Nellie W. and Dexter changed positions in the finish. Boodle won in 2:18, Nellie W. second, George Dexter third and Visalia fourth.

Boodle sold at $10 before the second heat, the field, including Visalia, selling at $4. Dexter led at the quarter, with Boodle second and Nellie W. third. Boodle broke while nearing the half, but recovered his feet quickly and did not lose second place. The positions were the same at the half. Boodle broke twice more before the stretch was reached, but he managed to retain second place. Coming home he passed Dexter and trotted under the wire a winner in 2:17. Visalia was third. Nellie W. was last.

There was no money placed before the third heat. Boodle led all the way, winning the heat and race in 2:18. Visalia lost what chances she had by a bad break near the quarter pole. She managed, however, to make up enough of the ground lost to finish a good second. George Dexter was third and Nellie W. fourth.

The 2:15 class pace had four contestants: Frank Frazier's famous Oregon horse, Chehalis, S. C. Tryon's Hanford Medium, H. R. Ward's Baywood and Winship & Keating's Ottinger. There was no money bet on this race, as it was conceded by the knowing ones that Chehalis would win as he pleased.

Baywood got off in the lead and stayed in front past the quarter, which was reached in just thirty-one seconds; Chehalis was second and Hanford Medium third. At the half the positions was changed. Chehalis was first and Baywood a good second, with Ottinger close up. Chehalis led into the stretch with Ottinger second and Hanford Medium third. Ottinger came toward home with surprising speed, and the closest finish of the week was the result. Frazier had held back with Chehalis almost too long, and narrowly escaped losing the heat. As it was the Oregon horse passed under the wire a short head in front of Ottinger. The heat was so close that to those not near the wire it looked like a dead heat. Hanford Medium was third and Baywood fourth. Time, 2:10½.

In the second heat Frazier did not keep Chehalis waiting for any one, but kept him going at a record breaking pace from start to finish. As a matter of course he was in front all the way. The quarter was passed in 0:32, the half in 1:03½ and the three-quarters in 1:36½. Baywood was second at the half, but Hanford Medium passed him and followed Chehalis home. Frazier plied the whip near the finish. Chehalis responded and won by a dozen lengths in the remarkable time of 2:07½, beating the track record and also the State record for this year. Hanford Medium was second, Ottinger third and Baywood fourth.

Chehalis led all the way again in the third heat and succeeded in breaking another record. He finished in 2:08½, the fastest third heat paced in California this season. Ottinger finished second, Hanford Medium third and Baywood fourth.

The Fruitmen's Stake for three year-olds brought out the Palo Alto Stock Farm's Cressida and A. D. Porter's Our Seth. There was no betting on this event. In the first heat Cressida went out in front and stayed there, winning easily in 2:36.

The second heat ended the race. Cressida took the lead from the start and by a little exertion clipped over thirteen seconds off of her time for the first heat. Our Seth acted badly and kept getting farther and farther in the rear until he was a sixteenth of a mile behind. Cressida finished in 2:22½, winning the heat and race, as Our Seth was badly distanced.

FIFTH DAY—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28.

The closing day of the races drew an appreciative crowd to Agricultural Park. It was a good day for outside horses, and only one of the three regular events was won by a favorite.

The judges were F. W. Covey, Samuel Gamble and President Buckley.

The Vendome Stock Farm's bay stallion, John Bury, was a strong favorite for the 2:20 class trot, but Chico, the second choice, won in three straight heats. It required six heats to decide the 2:27 class trot. Our Lucky and Jasper Paulsen were the choice of the talent, but the winner turned up in the outsider, Columbus S. The 2:25 class pace was won by a favorite. Ruby M. was played as a sure thing, and she disposed of her field in one-two-three order.

The first event on the card was a race against time, and Thomas Weeks' bay stallion, Henry Nutwood, started out to beat 2:30. He was well driven by J. W. Gordon, and succeeded in making the circuit in 2:29.

The 2:20 class brought out seven horses—John Bury, Jennie June, Chico, Thompson, Prince Ira, Irene Crocker and Myrtle Thorne. In the betting John Bury was favorite at $10, Chico sold at $7, Irene Crocker at $3 and the field was quoted at $4. John Bury and Irene Crocker were heavily played in the mutual box to win the first heat.

Myrtle Thorne took the lead at the first turn and kept it at the quarter. John Bury was second and Irene Crocker third. Chico came out of the bunch, and, passing all three, led at the half. Myrtle Thorne was in second position, closely followed by Bury. Shortly after passing the half Bury broke and fell back. At the head of the stretch Myrtle Thorne had passed Chico and held first place. Chico and Irene Crocker were neck and neck just behind. Irene Crocker broke, but recovered her feet quickly, and a hot finish ensued. Chico came home very fast, and passed under the wire first in 2:15½. Myrtle Thorne was second, Irene Crocker third. Jennie June fourth, Prince Ira fifth, John Bury sixth. Thompson acted badly all the way around, and was shut out.

When the second heat was called Chico sold favorite at $15 to $8 for the field. John Bury went out in the lead, and at the half was still in front. Myrtle Thorne was second with the favorite in third place. Bury broke, and Chico came on with a rush and took the lead. Myrtle Thorne followed Chico into the stretch. Bury was third, but he acted badly and did not retain that position. Chico won the heat in 2:15½. Irene Crocker finished strong and got second place by a narrow margin from Jennie June. Myrtle Thorne was fourth. John Bury fifth and Prince Ira last.

Chico was a prohibitive favorite for the third heat. One or two pools were sold at $20 against $4 for the field. Chico went out in the lead and was never headed. He won easily in 2:16. John Bury was never prominent, and Myrtle Thorne lost all chance of winning by breaking at the first turn. Irene Crocker and Jennie June had another close finish for the place, the first named secured the coveted position. Prince

Ira was fourth, and John Bury fifth. Myrtle Thorne failed to save her distance, but was allowed sixth place on account of having been interfered with on the first quarter.

The 2:27 class trot had seven starters, Our Lucky, Jasper Paulsen, Bonnie Ben, Columbus S., Anita, Letter B. and Silver Bee. Our Lucky was $10 in the betting to $7 for the field.

Jasper Paulsen started off in the lead followed by Our Lucky and Bonnie Ben. The positions were the same to the wire. In a whipping finish Paulsen won by a neck from Our Lucky, who beat Bonnie Ben a short head. Time, 2:19½.

Our Lucky brought $10 before the second heat, Jasper Paulsen $2 and the field $8. Our Lucky took the lead at the head of the stretch, and finished first in 2:22. Jasper Paulsen was second and Letter B. third.

Our Lucky now sold at $15 against $7 for the field. Columbus S. led to the three quarters, where he made a break. Paulsen then came on and won the heat in 2:21½. Letter B. was second and Columbus third. Silver Bee was withdrawn after this heat, in which he finished last.

The field was installed favorite, as neither Our Lucky nor Paulsen were in good condition. Our Lucky brought but $7 and Paulsen $5 against $10 for the field. Both Our Lucky and Paulsen showed lameness in this heat, and Columbus S. won all the way. Bonnie Ben was second and Letter B. third. Time, 2:21.

There was little or no betting on the last two heats. In the fifth heat Columbus S. again kept in front and won handily in 2:20½, Bonnie Ben second and Anita third. Not having won a heat in five Letter B., Bonnie Ben and Anita were sent to the stables, and only Columbus S., Jasper Paulsen and Our Lucky started in the final heat.

Columbus S. was in the best condition of the three, and had but little trouble in winning the heat. Our Lucky was second. Time, 2:30½. Bonnie Ben was awarded fourth money for this race, having finished second twice. The judges, not liking the way the betting looked, declared all bets and pools off. This decision gave satisfaction to all but those who had backed the field.

The 2:25 class pace had seven contestants: Colonel Benton, Dictatus, Captain Hackett, Dan N., San Luisito, Lynette, Babe Marion and Ruby M. The talent picked out Ruby M., and she sold at $20 to $6 for the field.

In the first heat Dictatus led until the stretch was reached, at which point he broke and was passed by Ruby M., Babe Marion and Colonel Benton. The finish was in that order. Ruby M.'s time was 2:15.

There was no betting after the first heat. In the second time around Dictatus led at the quarter, but was soon overhauled by Ruby M., who kept well in front from that point on. Ruby M. won in 2:14½. Babe Marion was again second, Dictatus was third.

The final heat was another easy one for Ruby M., Dictatus secured the place in a drive from Lynette, who showed unexpected speed. Time, 2:17.

CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

Friday was the Greatest Day for Long Shots Ever Known Here—Yreka, Sir Richard, Long Lady, Uncle Giles and Gold Dust First on Saturday—Grand Racing.

FIFTH DAY—THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 26.

IT WENT the way of the festive bookmaker this afternoon, three heavily-played favorites being "snowed under," much to the disgust of the talent. Perhaps the hardest of the falls was on imp. Ivy, who looked a certainty if she liked a mile, appearing to outclass her field completely. The winner turned up in Morven, who took command of the field when a little over a furlong had been run and won with ease by one and a half lengths. The defeat of Warrago was another hard blow to the talent, Ledalia simply smothering her at the finish. Rosebud is a great three-year-old filly. She ran a mile in 1:41½ fighting for her head nearly every inch of the way, her opponents whipped and spurred to no purpose. That she could have run close to 1:40 few doubt that saw her run today. Like yesterday, the weather was to the liking of the racers, the sky being cloudless and the sun red-hot.

Willie Flynn carried off the riding honors, landing the only two mounts he had first past the post in fine style. Donahue, Sloane and Donnelly were also up on winners.

■ Portugal, a hot favorite on his first appearance in this part of the world, won the first race cleverly by a neck after Bob Tucker had led into the homestretch by one and a half lengths. Tucker, second, was six lengths before the third horse, Gold Dust.

Favory laid second to Clacquer until about fifty yards of the finish, when Donahue brought him up and won handily by a length, Clacquer second, nearly three from Normandie.

Rosebud galloped in front all the way in the mile, winning fighting for her head by three parts of a length, Little Bob second, two lengths from Ike L. Miss Buckley quit in the homestretch quite badly.

Ledalia beat Warrago, the favorite, and others in the fourth like breaking sticks, Addie M. a far distant third.

Morven won the concluding race, also at a mile, with ease, leading most of the way. Ivy, the hot favorite, was a fair second, Uncle Giles third.

How the Races Were Run.

Portugal, heavily played, went to the post a 1 to 2 favorite in the first race, five and a half furlongs, selling. Bob Tucker was at 2½ to 1, Gold Dust 15, Red Rose 40, Spendthrift 150 and Charlie W. 200 to 1. They broke to a fine start. Spendthrift at once took the track, followed by Red Rose and Bob Tucker. Spendthrift was first past the half by a length, Bob Tucker and Red Rose heads apart as named, two lengths before the favorite. Tucker passed to the fore as they neared the three-quarter pole, and was one and a half lengths to the good as they turned for the run down the straight. Portugal was second, as far from Red Rose. Bob Tucker was not headed until the last couple of jumps, Portugal winning cleverly by a neck, Bob Tucker second, six lengths before Gold Dust. Time, 1:08.

Sligo, played from 3 to 1 to 2½, was favorite in the second race, six furlongs, selling. Favory was at 3 to 1, Arctic 3½, Normandie 4, Clacquer 10 and Silver 30 to 1. Arctic and Sligo acted badly at the post, and finally the flag fell with Sligo, the favorite, off last, four lengths behind the bunch. Clacquer at once assumed command, leading by a length past the half, Favory and several others in a bunch. Clacquer turned into the homestretch first by a length, Favory second, two from Normandie. Donnelly went to the bat on Clacquer in the last sixteenth, and Donahue, hand-riding Favory, landed him a handy winner by a length, Clacquer next, two and one-half lengths before Normandie, third. Time, 1:15.

Rosebud, the favorite, opened at 4 to 5 and closed at 7 to 10 in the third race, handicap, one mile, for three-year-olds. Little Bob was at 2½ to 1, Miss Buckley 4½ and Ike L. 12 to 1. They went away to an almost perfect start, Rosebud, with her great speed, going right into the lead. At the quarter, under a pull, she was first by a length, Miss Buckley and Little Bob lapped. At the half Rosebud was still a length to the good, Little Bob, being ridden hard, second by his head, Miss Buckley third. The order was the same to the homestretch, Rosebud simply buck-jumping. She won fighting for her head by three parts of a length, Little Bob, hard driven, second, two lengths before Ike L., Miss Buckley quitting the last part of it. Time, 1:41½.

The fourth race was at a mile, selling. Warrago was a red-hot favorite, opening at 4 to 5 and closing at 3 to 5, Addie M. 3 to 1, Ledalia 4½ and Tyrena 100 to 1. Warrago, Ledalia, Addie M. was the order to a good start. Addie M., close to the inner rails, took command on the first turn, leading Warrago one and a half lengths at the quarter, Ledalia third. At the half Addie M. and Warrago were head and head, two lengths before Ledalia. Warrago shook Addie M. off three furlongs from the end and led turning for home by a length, Ledalia second, lapped by Addie M. Ledalia got up close to Warrago a sixteenth from home, and seventy yards of the finish Hinrichs went to the bat on Warrago. It was all over, however, Ledalia winning easily by a length, Warrago second, eight lengths before Addie M. Time, 1:42½.

The concluding race was at a mile, selling. Imp. Ivy was a favorite, opening at 3 to 5 and closing at 4 to 5. Uncle Giles was at 18 to 5, Nellie G. 5 to 1, Morven 6 to 1. Ivy broke away a trifle in front, Nellie G. second, Morven third. Donahue took a wrap on Ivy when she had gone a little over an eighth of a mile, Morven going into the lead with a rush. He was two lengths to the good at the quarter, Ivy and Nellie G. lapped. At the half Morven was one and a half lengths to the good, Nellie G. second, Ivy third, close against the rails. There was no change worth mentioning in the run to the homestretch, though Ivy had crept up just a little closer. Morven continued on in front, winning handily by one and a half lengths, Ivy beating the fast coming Uncle Giles a neck for the place. Time, 1:42½.

SIXTH DAY—FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27.

A better day's racing than this one seldom sees in any country. There were three thrilling, whisker finishes, and surprises were numerous. The first race was won by a 50 to 1 shot, the second by a 10 to 1 chance, the third by a 20 to 1'er, the fourth by a 5 to 1 shot, while a favorite did manage to win at the last. Verily the bookies reaped a great harvest of gold, few playing the long shots mentioned. Several books made a clean sweep on the first race. The track was never in better shape nor the weather, most of the afternoon, of a description more calculated to make the flyers fly their fastest. The riding honors were carried away by Chevalier, with two wins to his credit. Peoples, Sloane and Eddie Jones had a fair measure of success also, riding one winner apiece, Little Jones was also on two horses finishing second. Valiente and the Torso-Little Flush filly took turns at leading in the first race until the homestretch was reached, when Billy McCloskey took command, looking like a winner. Phyllis came up strong in the last part of it, however, and won by a good head, McCloskey a length before the Midlothian-Marigold colt, who made a fine run from the rear. The winner was backed from 50 down to 10 to 1.

Tobey, 10 to 1 for some time, backed down to 6, got away a trifle in advance, and was not caught, winning by three lengths in fast time for six and a half furlongs, 1:20½. Elmer F. was second, two lengths before Rogation, who just beat the favorite, Ransom, for show.

Hanford, a 20 to 1'er in the books, came like a flash at the finish, beating Rose Clark a nose in the last stride, Midlo (who had set the pace) third, a head further away and a nose before Gold Bug, the favorite, who would in all likelihood have won but for being pocketed.

Mainstay, backed from 5 to 4 to 1, led from "eend to eend" in the fourth event, just lasting long enough to beat the game, fast-coming McLight out a head, while less than a length away came the favorite, Duchess of Towers. The time made, 1:13½, was good.

Wheel of Fortune experienced no trouble in winning the last race, one mile. Mary S. set a lively pace to the homestretch, then Wheel of Fortune sped by and won by three lengths, Mary S. second, as far from Nephew.

How the Races Were Run.

Rejected, at 16 to 5, went to the post a favorite in the opening race, five furlongs, for maiden two-year-olds. The Marigold colt receded from 2 to 1 to 5 to 1. Valiente was at 6 (10 once), Decision 7, Little Flush filly 8, Phyllis 10 (backed down from 60), Richtia 12, Billy McCloskey and Lowry O'Connor 15 (both backed from 20), Ruinart 30, Von Dunk 100 and Mabel L. 150 to 1. They got away to a fair start, Valiente, Billy McCloskey, Little Flush filly being the order. Valiente led by a head past the half, Little Flush second, two lengths from McCloskey. Into the homestretch Valiente, tiring, was first, Lowry O'Connor second, lapped by Billy McCloskey. Phyllis came through against the inner rails like a shot, and lasted just long enough to beat Billy McCloskey a head, Marigold colt third, one length further away. Time, 1:03.

In the second race, six and a half furlongs, selling, Ransom was a well played favorite, closing at 2 to 1. Elmer F. was at 3 (backed from 4), Vernon 4, Tom Clarke and Tobey 6 (latter 10 at one time), Rogation 8 and Auteuil 20 to 1. They got away quickly, Tobey in the lead, Elmer F. second, Ransom third. Tobey led past the quarter by one and a half lengths, Elmer F. second, his head just in front of Vernon's. Tobey increased his lead to three lengths going to the half, now, Vernon third. Ransom moved up third nearing the homestretch, Tobey leading Elmer F. three lengths at the final turn. Tobey continued on in front, easily winning by three lengths, Elmer F., ridden out, second, two lengths before Rogation, who beat Ransom a neck. Time, 1:20½—a very fast run for horses of this class.

Gold Bug went to the post a favorite at 2 to 1, and was played heavily. Rose Clark receded from 8 to 5 to 3½ to 1. Midlo was at 3½ and plunged on, Joe Cotton 4, Olivia 7, Hanford and Encino 20 to 1. They went away with Midlo slightly in advance, the others in a compact bunch. Midlo opened up a gap of a couple of lengths, but at the half was but a length to the good, Rose Clark second, lapped by Joe Cotton, at whose saddle ran Encino. Midlo drew away again until, turning for home, he was four lengths in front of Rose Clark, who was a head before Joe Cotton, Hanford fourth, another length away. Midlo tired in the last sixteenth, Rose Clark looking all over a winner. Hanford, however, came like a ghost on the outside, crowding Rose Clark a little and winning in the last stride by a nose, Rose Clark second, a good head before Midlo, who came again. A nose further away came Gold Bug, who had been pocketed. Time, 1:08½.

The fourth race, a handicap, six furlongs, had a hot favorite in Duchess of Towers, whose closing price was 4 to 5. Mainstay was backed from 5 to 4 to 1, Sport McAllister closed at 4½, Rico 6 and McLight 8. They went away to a perfect start on almost a dead line. Mainstay lost little time in shooting to the fore, leading past the half by one and a half lengths, Sport second, with the favorite at his saddle. McLight had come up like a flash from last place. Mainstay turned into the homestretch a length to the good, Duchess of Towers, Sport McAllister and McLight heads apart as named. Eddie Jones kept at Mainstay, Macklin rode McLight like a demon all the way down, and at the end he came in the gamest fashion, being beaten just a good head by Mainstay, with Duchess of Towers third, three parts of a length further away. Time, 1:13½.

The concluding race was at a mile, selling. Wheel of Fortune was at 9 to 20, Remus 4½ to 1, Nephew 6, Mary S. 25 and Charmer 50 to 1. They got off to a good start, Mary S. first, Remus next, Nephew third. Mary S., close against the inner rails, at once took a commanding lead, being about two lengths to the good at the quarter, Remus second, as far from Wheel of Fortune. The fog was very thick at the half, but Mary S. was made out as leading by a good length, the Wheel second, as far from Remus. Into the homestretch they thundered, Mary S. first by a length, Wheel of Fortune second, two from Charmer. Once straightened away, Wheel of Fortune came on, and passing Mary S. over a sixteenth from home, won galloping by three lengths, Mary S. second, three and a half from Nephew, who beat Remus a neck for show. Time, 1:41½.

SEVENTH DAY—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28.

For a Saturday the card looked a trifle emaciated, but the racing was good and enjoyable and the spectators, close to 2,000 in number, went home with some joy in their hearts at what they had seen, if, indeed their pocket-books looked thin and wan. The races were won by two favorites and three long shots—one of them a 12 to 1'er, two others at 5 to 1. The successful favorites were Sir Richard and Long Lady, both of which ran in fast time—Sir Richard doing five and a half furlongs easily in 1:06½, Long Lady the short six furlongs in 1:13. Donahue did the best riding, putting two winners over out of three mounts that he had. He is one of the coolest pigskin artists ever seen on the local track. Chevalier rode a 12 to 1 shot in a winner—Yreka in the first race—while the other successful pilots were Hinrichs and Stanford.

Coleman, the favorite, led up to the last eighty yards in the opening race, where Yreka was given his head, shooting in an easy winner by a length, Jefferson by dint of hard driving beating Coleman out half a length for place.

Tim Murphy acted as pace-maker in the second event, five and a half furlongs, up to the last seventy or eighty yards, when Sir Richard, who trailed nearly to the homestretch, went by the old roan warrior with astonishing ease, and won by two lengths, Tim beating Veragua twelve lengths for the place. Easel, with little Jimmy Woods up, quit badly, finishing a poor last.

Long Lady annexed the third race to her winning list with great ease, though Donahue had the hearts of the filly's admirers up in their mouths by waiting as long as he did before giving his mount her head. Benham, the pace-setter, was second, beaten a length, Grady third, one and a half lengths further away.

Morven, favorite in the fourth, set a hot pace until well in the homestretch. He tired badly in the final sixteenth, and Uncle Giles, superbly ridden by Donahue, came on and won driving by three parts of a length from the stretch-runner, Rico, who was a length before Morven.

Gold Dust led most of the way in the mile and a half hurdle, and though it looked as if Bellringer had him beaten when they had gone about seven furlongs, the thin son of Oro came again and won easily at the end by four lengths from Bellringer, who, in a hard-whipping finish, beat Esperance three parts of a length for the place.

How the Races Were Run.

The first race was at six furlongs, selling, had six starters and Coleman for a 1 to 2 favorite. Conchita was at 5 to 1, Jefferson 6, Yreka 12, Valanta 30 and Dr. Gardner 50 to 1. They went away quickly to a fair start, Coleman shooting to the fore without ceremony, and leading by two and a half lengths past the half, Jefferson and Yreka lapped. The order was unchanged to the homestretch, though Jefferson had crept up to within good striking distance. In the last furlong Yreka was given his head, and Coleman was plainly beaten when eighty yards of home, Yreka coming on to an easy length victory, Jefferson after a drive beating Coleman half a length for the place. Time, 1:15½.

The second race was at five and one-half furlongs, selling. Sir Richard went to the post a favorite at 9 to 10, Tim Murphy at 21 to 20, Easel 10 to 1 and Veragua 30. They made several long breaks, before a start was effected, Veragua acting badly. Sir Richard was first away, Tim Murphy second, Easel third. Tim soon passed to the fore, leading by a length passing the half, Easel second, two and one-half lengths before Sir Richard. Easel was beaten a little past the three-eighths pole, and Murphy opened up a big gap. Nearing the homestretch Sir Richard closed up in great shape, and a sixteenth from home old Tim was in distress, Sir Richard winning with ease by two lengths, Tim Murphy beating Veragua twelve lengths for the place. Time, 1:06½, but a quarter of a second behind the Coast record at the distance. The winner was "boosted" $200 by an unknown.

A handicap for two-year-olds followed. Long Lady was a favorite at 11 to 10 at the post, Grady 2 to 1 (backed from 3½), Benham 6, Fireman 9, Marjorie 15 to 1. They went away to a fair start, Fireman and Long Lady together, Benham third. The last-named was rushed along by Jones, leading at the half by a length, Long Lady second, a head before Fireman. Benham increased his lead to two lengths going to the homestretch, Long Lady second, with Grady at her heels. Benham was in distress over a sixteenth from home, and when Donahue let Long Lady have her head she came on and won with utmost ease by a length, Benham in the place, one and a half lengths before Grady, who beat Fireman half a length. Time, 1:13.

A mile selling race, fourth on the programme, brought six to the post. Morven was a torrid favorite, backed from 4 to 2 to 1. Rico was at 3 (opened at 8 to 5), Imp. Ivy 4, Uncle Giles 5, Arno 6 and Ledalia 15 to 1. They got away to a good start, Rico, Ledalia, Ivy the order. Morven got to the front on the first turn and led by two lengths at the quarter, Ivy second, lapped by Arno. At the half it was Morven first by one and a half lengths, Arno and Ivy head and head. Arno was beaten a little less than three furlongs from home, Morven leading at the final turn by one and a half lengths, Ivy second, with Arno at her heels, a head only before Uncle Giles. The latter improved his position all the way down, and Rico came like a shot from the rear. Morven had enough eighty yards of the finish, and Flynn went to the bat. Uncle Giles came on like a race horse, and won cleverly by nearly a length from Rico, who beat Morven a length. Time, 1:42.

The last race was over the hurdles, one and a half miles. Esperance was plunged on, driving his odds from 8 to 5 to even money, he closing at 6 to 5. Bellringer went back from even money to 8 to 5, closed at even money. Guadalupe was at 4 to 1 and Gold Dust 5. To a fair start Gold Dust at once went into the lead, taking the second jump three lengths in front of Bellringer, who, however, at the next fence, went up to Gold Dust, the pair running in close order. Guadalupe made a poor jump at this fence, ran out and nearly upset his rider. At the fourth jump Gold Bug began drawing away, and though a little over three furlongs from home Bellringer got pretty close to him, Gold Dust, switching his tail, drew away once more, never to be headed. Esperance was now cut loose, and had made such progress that at the head of the homestretch he was not over three lengths behind the leader. Taking the last fence two lengths in front of Bellringer, Gold Dust steadily drew off, until at the finish he was four lengths to the good, Bellringer, after swerving and crowding Esperance somewhat, finished second, three parts of a length before Esperance. Time, 2:47.

EIGHTH DAY—MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 30.

Anyone wishing for better racing than that seen at old Bay District this afternoon would indeed be a first-class crank. There were three of those close finishes that send the blood tingling through the veins of even the unenthusiastic. The weather was most disagreeable, a chill wind blowing fog around the track and making the race-goers want a fire pretty badly. But one favorite won during the afternoon, hence the laugh was on the lips of the gentle pencil, who had money to burn at the conclusion of the day's festivities. Edwin F. Smith, of Sacramento, took his position in the judges' stand this afternoon, and he and his confreres had some very close running to decide on at the winners' end of the route. Willie Flynn did the best saddle-work, with two wins to his credit. Other successful jockeys were Madison, Peoples and Donahue.

Elmer F., as good as 2½ to 1 in the hetting at one time, got off in front and led all the way in the opening race, Navy Blue, the favorite, being a neck behind the big end of the purse. Bravura, who ran second for over five furlongs, finished a fair third.

Rey Alta, favorite, set the pace in the second event, and though Model made a bold bid at the finish, the son of Alta lasted out and won by a length, Warrago third, two lengths further away.

Malo Diablo, 30 to 1 in the betting for all you wanted, beat Capt. Rees, a tremendous favorite, by half a length very cleverly, though had the Captain not been shut in by Remus for over a furlong he would have won, in all likelihood. The time was, however, very fast.

Morven, the pace-maker in the fourth race, just lasted out long enough to win by the scantest of noses from Nephew, the red-hot favorite in the race. Raindrop was a fair third.

Claudius, heavily backed, won the last race, one mile, easily at the end by a length, Rosebud in a terrific drive just beating Olivia a nose. Olivia made all the running. Donahue is certainly a warm article at finishing.

How the Races Were Run.

Navy Blue was a rousing favorite in the first race, six furlongs, selling, opening at even money, going down to 4 to 5, closing at even money. Elmer F. opened at 7 to 5, went back to 2½ to 1, closed at 2 to 1. Boh Tucker was at 12 (opened at 5), Bravura 4 and Willie Gibson 20 to 1. Elmer F. was off about a length in front, Boh Tucker second and Bravura third. Elmer F., Bravura and Boh Tucker ran lengths apart as named passing the half. Elmer F. held his advantage to the homestretch, Bravura being second, a length before Navy Blue, the favorite, who had already received a taste of the whip. Navy Blue slowly crawled up to Elmer F., and sixty yards of the finish looked a winner, but the black gelding came again gamely and won in a drive by a neck, Navy Blue second, being two lengths before Bravura. Time, 1:15½.

The second race was at five furlongs, selling, light welter-weights. Rey Alta was a well-played favorite, opening at 2 to 1, being backed to 8 to 5, going up to 2 again, closing at 8 to 5. Johnny Payne was played down from 4½ to 3. Soon Enough was backed down from 4½ to 18 to 5. Model was at 4, Uncertainty 20 and O'Bee 75 to 1. They were sent away to a fair start, Rey Alta first, Warrago second, Model third. Rey Alta led by two lengths past the half, Warrago being second, one and one-half lengths before Model, who had been taken back very suddenly by Chevalier. There was no change on entering the homestretch, except that Warrago and Model were closer together. Rey Alta was not headed, and won handily by a length from Model, who looked as if she was going to beat him out sixty yards of the finish. Two lengths away came Warrago, third. Time, 1:02—a good run with the weight up.

The third race was at seven furlongs, sellings. Capt. Rees opened at 3 to 5 and closed at 9 to 20. Remus was at 6 to 1, Mamie Scott 8, Rico 10 and Malo Diablo 25 to 1. They got away to a good start, Capt. Rees, Rico, Remus being the order. Remus led by two lengths at the quarter, Malo Diablo second, a length before Mamie Scott. Capt. Rees had fallen back next to last, Rico last. At the half Remus and Mamie Scott were heads apart in front, a length before Malo Diablo. Capt. Rees was five lengths further away, two lengths before Rico. There was no change in the positions, though Rees was coming up fast close to the inner rails. Remus kept him hemmed in in the homestretch until about a sixteenth from home, when he got through and came like a shot. Malo Diablo, though, was now given his head, and having lots in reserve, came on and won by half a length, Capt. Rees second, a length before Remus. The time, 1:26½, marked a very fast performance—but a quarter of a second behind the record for the Coast.

Nephew opened at 7 to 10, went back to 7 to 5, closed at 4 to 5 under a heavy play. Morven and Mary S. were at 3 to 1, Raindrop 8 and Fin Slaughter 100 to 1. Raindrop, Mary S., Fin Slaughter were the order to a good start. Morven, on the outside, and going like a shot, got the rail on the first turn and led by two lengths at the quarter, Raindrop second, nearly as far from Fin Slaughter. The order was the same at the half, except that they had bunched up a little closer. Nephew was absolutely last. Morven turned into the homestretch with a good two lengths' lead, Raindrop still second, as far from Mary S. Nephew was now moving very fast. All the way down the homestretch he ate space, but Morven had just a little link left, and lasted long enough to win a most exciting race by a nose, Nephew two lengths before Raindrop. Time, 1:41½.

The last race of the day was at a mile, selling. Candor was a 6 to 5 favorite, Claudius at 2½ to 1 (backed from 3), Rosebud 13 to 5, Olivia and Charmer 25 to 1, Carmel 60. To a rather ragged start, after a long delay caused by Carmel, Olivia was away first, Charmer second, Claudius third. Olivia led past the quarter by two lengths. Candor (who had run around her field) second, one and a half lengths before Rosebud. At the half it was Olivia first by one length, Rosebud second, a length before Candor, who was falling back. Olivia still led reaching the final turn by a length, Rosebud second, two lengths before Charmer. Claudius got into a pocket soon after turning for home, but Donahue got him out, and hand-riding him like a demon, got up sixty yards of home and at the end landed him an easy winner by a good length, Rosebud and Olivia finishing short noses apart as named in a terrific drive. Time, 1:41½.

NINTH DAY—TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1.

A crowd of over 1,000 went out to Bay District track this afternoon to see the "hoss"-racing, and some good sport was enjoyed. Only two favorites got home in front in the five events run off, the remaining events being taken into camp by a 10 to 1 shot, a 3 to 1 chance and a strong second choice. The book-makers thus had a shade the best of the argument. The weather was cold and disagreeable until about the third race, when the sun came out, the fog dispersed and it became quite pleasant. The surprise of the day was Detective's easy win in the first race at the juicy odds of 10 to 1. Midlo was run up $700 over his entered selling price in the two-year-old race, but the chances are he was played strong enough by his owners to cover the "boost" twice over. Fannie Louise, also of the Burns & Waterhouse stable, was run up $300 in the fourth race. Verily the millionaire firm of sportsmen are having hard luck at racing their horses in selling races. Donahue rode two winners and a second, W. Flynn, Rowan and Shaw one apiece. The last named boy was fined $25 for drawing such a fine finish on Agitato in the last event.

Detective, at 10 to 1 in the hetting got away second, went right to the front, and was not headed thereafter, winning with great ease by two lengths from Yreka, a 12-to-1'er, who beat Tamalpais two lengths. Gondola, the favorite, ran a poor race.

Midlo, one of the warmest favorites seen in some time, off absolutely last, won cleverly from Charlie Boots by a head in the last stride. Had Hinrichs hand-riding Boots instead of going to the bat a sixteenth of a mile or so from home, when well in the lead, the chances are that Charlie would have won the big end of the purse.

The Alexander-Little Flush colt, 3 to 1 in the betting, led throughout and won with astonishing ease by a length, Jefferson, second choice, second, three lengths before Coleman, the favorite. The winner showed ability to win off by four or five lengths.

Kathleen, the black Little Alp mare, led up to the last sixteenth in the fourth race. Here Fannie Louise, a favorite that had been played off the board, was given her head, and she simply galloped in a winner by about a length, Kathleen beating Arctic three lengths.

Agitato, second choice at 2 to 1, off first to a poor start in which Uncle Giles, the favorite, was away absolutely last, led all the way, and won with a little shaking up at the finish by a neck, Uncle Giles three lengths before Ransom. With an even break it looked as if Uncle Giles would have won the race all right. Giles had been played down from even money to 3 to 5 in the books, and his defeat hurt many a plunger's bank account.

How the Races Were Run.

Gondola was at all times a favorite in the first race, five furlongs, selling, her closing price being 2 to 1. Sooladain was backed down from 7 to 4 to 1, Addie M. was at 6, Detective 10, Yreka, Corinne Buckingham and Rayo 12 (latter 20 at one time), Tamalpais 20. They got away to a grand start, Addie M., Detective, Rayo being the order as soon as they could be separated. Detective at once forged to the fore, leading Addie M. two and a half lengths at the half, Tamalpais another half length away. Going to the homestretch there was some changing of positions, but Detective was two lengths to the good, Gondola second, with Tamalpais at her heels. Detective simply galloped down the straight and won by two lengths, Yreka coming up strong at the finish under Macklin's strong urging and getting the place handily enough, two lengths before Tamalpais, who just beat Addie M. Time, 1:01½.

The second race was at five and one-half furlongs, selling, for two-year-olds, with nine starters. Midlo was a sizzling hot favorite, opening at 6 to 5, going to 8 to 5, closing at even money in most books. Charlie Boots was at 2½ to 1, Treachery 4, Ruinart 20, Miss Brummel 30, others 50 to 1. Charlie Boots acted badly. Finally the flag fell to a good start, Treachery first, Margaret M. next, Billy McCloskey third. Charley Boots was off next to last, Midlo absolutely. Charley Boots went right to the front, closely attended by Margaret M., Treachery at her heels. Boots led by two lengths turning for home, Midlo having run up second, two lengths before Treachery. Steadily Midlo closed up on Charley Boots, who quit at the finish somewhat, the favorite winning cleverly by a head, Charlie Boots second, under the whip, three lengths before Treachery. Time, 1:08½. The winner was run up from $300 to $1,000 by Leon Legg, the owners of Midlo retaining him with an additional $5.

The third race was at six furlongs, selling. Coleman went to the post at 7 to 5 favorite. Jefferson was backed down from 3 to 1 to 8 to 5. The Alexander-Little Flush colt was at 2 to 1, Willie Gibson and Dr. Gardner 50 to 1. They got away to a ragged start, Little Flush colt first, Coleman second, Dr. Gardner third. Little Flush colt, Coleman and Jefferson (latter last away) ran necks apart as named passing the half. Into the homestretch Little Flush colt easily led by a length, Jefferson second, two lengths before Coleman. The Little Flush colt took things easy coming down the straight and won by a length from the whipped-out Jefferson, who beat Coleman three lengths for the place. Time, 1:16.

The fourth race, at five furlongs, selling, was a substitute for the original on the programme, which failed to fill. Of the seven starters Fannie Louise was a red-hot favorite, opening at 1 to 2 and plunged off the boards; Red Will came next a public favor at 3 to 1, Kathleen at 12, Arctic 15, Virgie A. 40, Veragua and Encino each at 60 to 1. Arctic, Kathleen, Red Will was the order to a good start, but Kathleen immediately commanded first place and led all the way into the stretch. From fourth in the string Fannie Louise moved into second position at the head of the stretch, where she trailed the leader about a length and a half, half a length before Red Will, Arctic lapped on to the latter. Within the last hundred yards the favorite moved along rapidly, passed Kathleen, who was under whip, and won easily by a length and a half. Kathleen second two lengths from Arctic. Time, 1:01½. The winner, entered to be sold for $800, was bid up to $1,100 by the owner of Kathleen, but retained by her owners at $1,105.

The last race was at one mile, selling. Uncle Giles was selected to carry the bulk of the talent's money, and his price was steadily lowered from even money to 3 to 5 (barred in some books). Agitato was a consistent second choice at 2 to 1, while Ledalia was well enough thought of to force the odds against her down from 20 to 12 to 1. The bay mare was also played heavily for place. Ransom was at 10 and Silver 50 to 1. The start was a poor one, with Agitato away two lengths before the others. Ransom and Silver were in the second division, but at the first turn Silver had closed on the leader, two lengths before Ransom, who was half a length from Uncle Giles. This order was maintained until the horses neared the three quarter pole, when Giles attempted to move up, but was headed off and went back again. He came on again, however, after a few strides, went around Ransom and challenged the leader. The drive down the stretch was a very hot one. Donahue lifted Giles along and almost caught Agitato, who had been eased up by Shaw. Shaw shook Agitato up again and won by a short neck, but his win was more by good luck than masterly riding. Uncle Giles was second, two lengths from Ransom, third. Time, 1:41½. Shaw was fined $25 by the judges for his careless ride.

TENTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 2.

The weather was unusually pleasant to-day, the air was as balmy as in the spring, the card was most attractive, and a splendid day's sport was witnessed. The fields were small in three events, but the caliber of the horses in each was so nearly on a par as to make hetting lively and the contests most interesting. Nearly every event proved a horse race. But when it came to guessing the winners, the talent was all at sea. One favorite, two second choices and two long shots, one at 12 and the other at 8 to 1, caught the judges' eye first. Gratify, the post favorite in the two-year-old dash, was the lonely exception and he was made so by stable money.

Joe Cotton, a fairly-well backed second choice, showed some of his old-time speed and vigor, and came from the bunch at the drawgate and won with ease, Johnny Payne getting the place easily from the favorite, Crawford.

Capt. Rees, the favorite in the third, got away last and could not improve his position early enough to secure better than second place. A little more vigorous ride would have won the race. Rose Clark, a second choice, took the lead early in the race and never was headed.

The surprise of the day came in the fourth race when Red Bird, a 10-to-1 shot (12 to 1 at one time) won from Mainstay after the favorite had been ridden out from the start to stretch. Red Bird was the extreme outsider in the betting. Morven looked in fine fettle and was considered a dangerous element, but he could not last beyond the half-pole. Mainstay, the favorite, died away near the post, but rallied just sufficiently to beat the flying Duchess a nose for the place.

Rosebud, another long-shot, led from flag to wire, and won easily from McLight, the heavily-played favorite in the last race.

Madison, Lloyd, Hinrichs, Reidy and Flynn were the successful jockeys, each landing a winner. Lloyd, Madison and Reidy had one mount each, Flynn three and Hinrichs two.

For the time being white-winged peace has settled down on the selling-platers, not a single one having been "boosted" during the day.

How the Races Were Run.

The first event was a five and a half furlong selling race, light welter weights. Crawford was made a strong favorite, closing at 7 to 5, Joe Cotton second choice at 3, Monitor 4½, Johnnie Payne 8, Easel 12 and Carmel 20 to 1. Carmel delayed the start, as he usually does, but when the horses were sent away to a good start the order was Johnny Payne, Joe Cotton, Easel, Crawford. Easel took first place in the first few strides and held it safely till the head of the stretch was reached, where she gave up. Coming home Joe Cotton began to move up and for a moment Monitor seemed to have a run in him, but quickly died away. Old Joe came on at the drawgate and won with ease by one length, Johnny Payne second, a length and a half before Crawford, third. Time, 1:08½.

Three two-year-olds went to the post for the second race, a dash of five and a half furlongs. Long Lady and Gratify alternated as favorite in the betting, Gratify the most favored at post time, at even money, Long Lady at 8 to 5, and Grady at 4 to 1. The start was a perfect one at the first break, the three horses moving away as one animal. At the half Grady had shoved his head in front of Gratify, Long Lady lapping him. Nearing the turn Gratify spurred ahead of Grady and led down the stretch by a length, Grady leading the Lady two. In the last sixteenth Gratify drew away with ease, and won by two lengths and a half, Long Lady under a drive getting second place in the last few strides. Time, 1:06½.

The third race was at about six furlongs, with seven starters. Capt. Rees was a pronounced favorite, closing at 9 to 10. Rose Clark and Candor were both well thought as second choice, closing at 4½ and 5 to 1 respectively. Mamie Scott was backed down from 15 to 10 to 1, Gold Bug 10, Olivia 15, Amigo 250 to 1. After considerable delay a fair start was made, with Capt. Rees, the favorite, off last, Gold Bug, Amigo and Rose Clark were the first to get on their stride. Hinrichs soon had his mount in front, and she was never headed, slowly increasing her lead from a head to a good length coming into the stretch. Next came Gold Bug, a head before Mamie Scott, Candor close up. Capt. Rees was trailing along in the ruck. Macklin did not make his ride on the Captain soon enough, or he would have won from Rose Clark. As it was he mowed down his field and secured the place by a head from Gold Bug, the latter a nose before Scott. Time, 1:12 3/4.

In the five and a half furlong handicap, Mainstay was the public's choice, closing at 9 to 10, the Duchess of Towers at 2 1/2 to 1, Morven 5 and Red Bird 10. Mainstay was the first to show after a good send-off, with Morven, Duchess of Towers and Red Bird in the order named. Eddie Jones kept his mount in the lead, with Morven a length and a half away at the half-pole, and Red Bird close up at the last turn. The quartette came down the stretch in a bunch, with Red Bird drawing away, Duchess of Towers challenging the favorite for second position, and Morven tiring. Honors were not easy by any means and it was a fight to the wire, with Red Bird a neck to the good. Mainstay seemed fairly beaten just at the post, but he rallied sufficiently to beat the fast-coming Duchess a nose for the place. The time, 1:07 1/2, was slow for the horses engaged, and was beaten by the two-year-olds in the second race.

McLight was the favorite in the last race, a mile handicap, with Rosebud and Claudius about equally well thought of, the odds offered being 4 to 5 on McLight, Claudius 2 1/2 and Rosebud 3 to 1. Rosebud showed in front at the start and hugged the rail all the way, Claudius and McLight close up. In the first furlong Rosebud led two lengths, increased to nearly three at the half pole. Then McLight began to crawl up on her, and it looked as though he would negotiate the race, but only when it seemed secure to the backers of the favorite Flynn let out a wrap and the filly left him. She did it so easily that the race was conceded, all but the shouting, and speculation centered on the place. McLight held his own, however, and was a good second to Rosebud, who had won as she liked by a length and a half. Time, 1:41 1/2.

The Hueneme District Fair.

[Special Report to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.]

A stranger entering for the first time the busy little town of Hueneme on Tuesday morning, and finding all the buildings and public places gaily decorated and the ever-glorious flag of our country unfolding its stars and stripes to the breeze would naturally ask himself: "What is the occasion of all this?" and the inquiry would be promptly met with the answer that "this is our fair week."

The town was thronged with people, many of them sports from our neighboring "Angelic City," who attend the fairs for the purpose of plying their vocation. Spring wagons, carriages and buggies, filled with farmers' families, and occasionally a gallant rustic with his best girl, all bound in one direction—the fair grounds. So your correspondent accepted the invitation of one of the directors, and behind a handsome span of well-bred trotters, drove out to the fair grounds, known as the Hueneme Driving Park. The ride was made more enjoyable by the entire absence of that curse of our California roads in summer time—dust. There was none of it here; the two roads leading to the Driving Park had been covered with bean and barley straw, which added to the enjoyment of the ride.

Another innovation I found here that other district fairs should adopt is the feed yard attached to the fair and conducted by the association; 180 single and double stalls around three sides of a square, covered and boarded up. Here a man who cares for his horses can have them cared for and fed hay for twenty-five cents, and thus while he is enjoying the races his team is resting for the return drive. A just man should be merciful to his beasts.

On entering we find Secretary Merry and his assistant as "busy as bees," matrons and maidens were crowding his office to make entries of the handiwork of their hands—fancy work of all kinds imaginable, of every color and device—these all go to the "Ladies'" Department. Jellies, preserves, bottled fruits, cakes, pies, breads of all sorts and kinds, far too numerous to mention, are all being arranged in the Culinary Department. Fruits, vegetables and farm products, with the usual array of big beets and pumpkins, fill one large section of the building.

The display in the Art Gallery was rather slim. A very fine and meritorious display of painting on china and porcelain claimed our attention by its attractive beauty. But by far the prettiest part of the Pavilion display was found in the departments of plants and flowers. Here in the greatest profusion, and most beautifully and tastefully arranged, were flowers of every hue and in endless variety, making that department, which was presided over by two prominent society ladies, a lovely bower of fragrance and beauty.

The Pavilion forms the lower floor of the grand stand, and is built alongside the track, one door opening to the track at the quarterstretch gate. Numerous slick and handsome thoroughbreds were on the track warming up.

We join the throng and first greet that prince of horse-men, Don Marco Foster, of Capitanito, the owner of a fine string of runners led by Naicho B., the handsome son of Wanderer, dam Flower Girl. Doc Dickey is watching his erratic Pescador. Al Morine with a smile of contentment that predicts victory for his stable, with the blanket on his arms, greets us with a friendly shake. Charley McDonald, the owner of our own favorite Hueneme, still wearing the laurels of victories gained at the Bay District, is there, too. Gentlemanly Peter Weber and his fine boys and "Bob," their pet monkey, are all there.

What handsome horse is that coming down the stretch? That is Paloma Prince, owned by genial and jolly Pat Murphy, now known as General Murphy of San Luis Obispo, behind him sits his able and careful driver, R. E. Toll. Next in the trotting procession comes Wilkes Moor, or Fez, the property of that great lover of good horses, Thomas Clark; this horse has quit his foolish ways and now, in the hands of Charley Vanina, trots his miles without a skip. That big powerful grey is H. M. Stanley, unfortunately now with a bad leg, which reduces his show of winning his race. Henry Delaney, his trainer, having had the misfortune of being accidentally shot by a drunken man whose pistol he caught by the barrel, has been laid up for more than a month by his wound. Hosts of other drivers, trainers and owners crowd the tract where one hears nothing but records and horse talk.

THE FIRST DAY'S RACES.

The weather was all that could be desired, a gentle breeze from the sea made the air cool and enjoyable. At 1:30 p. m. promptly J. E. Plessants of Santa Ana, the presiding judge, mounted the judges' stand, accompanied by Secretary Merry; he tapped the bell and called for the first race, a half mile dash for two-year-olds.

Daisy R., George F., Sieva, Gladwin and Chico responded to the call and were placed in position in this order. They proceeded to the one-half mile post, to be started by Henry Delaney. After considerable scoring they got off in good form, Gladwin in the lead. She was never headed, and came under the wire a winner.

The next race called was the five-eighths mile dash for all ages and was responded to by a fine field of seven horses, viz: Brilliant, Mannella, Bogam, Hueneme, Ben H., Mestesa and Piru, and were assigned positions in this order. After much tedious scoring they got a very fair start, and made a very pretty race of it. Hueneme shot forward and took the lead, with Mestesa on his flank, and gallant Ben H. making a struggle for the victory, but Hueneme again proved himself the better horse and came home a winner.

SECOND DAY'S RACES.

Promptly on time the judges' bell called out the horses for the first race of the day, three-quarter mile dash for non-winners of 1895. The trainers did not seem to be in a hurry to respond, and it required several trips of the marshal to bring them all out. Red Head, Vestal, Santa Fe, Combat, Hock Hocking Jr. and Lorena were the starters. The usual tactics at the post; they did not seem to be ready to go at the same time, until the starter's patience gave out and he sent them off as they were. Santa Fe appeared in the lead, and around he came like a hurricane. In the homestretch he was still in the lead and looked a sure winner, but Hock Hocking put on a little more steam and passed Santa Fe within thirty feet of the wire and thus won the race.

The second race called was five eighths mile and repeat. There were only three starters—Johnny Capron, Gladwin and Howard. They got a good send-off and made a very pretty race of it, but Howard was too much for the horses of the Citrus Belt and came home an easy winner.

The day's fun closed with a very pretty and well-contested race in the 2:30 class pacing. The horses were in first-class condition and eager for the fray. The starters were Montecito Boy, Eva, Colton Maid and Adventist. In the first heat Montecito Boy had the best of it all the way around and won the heat. The second heat was a very interesting event, but the Colton Maid wanted the lead and the boy gallantly let her take it because he could not prevent it. She took the heat in good shape. After that Montecito Boy would stand no nonsense and won the next two heats and race.

THIRD DAY'S RACES.

Thursday was one of the loveliest days of the season, often and properly called a perfect day, when all Nature seems to smile a glad welcome to all. There was a much larger attendance, owing doubtless to the baby show which is always a drawing card, when proud and loving mothers exhibit their darlings, and are delighted to show them to the best advantage, so as to win one of the elegant silver prizes offered by the association.

Judge Plessants was in excellent humor. Secretary Merry looked pleased with the increased attendance and larger gate receipts.

At 1:30 p. m. the tocsin sounded and called out the horses for the three-quarter mile dash. The field consisted of Reno, Brilliant, San Juan, Mestesa, Juan Bernard, La France and Ben H. After the usual formalities they went to the post for the start. The same old thing again, scoring for nearly half an hour, and they are off.

The race seemed to be between Reno and Ben H., but speedy Mestesa slipped by and won by two lengths, Reno coming next.

The next running event on the programme was seven-eighths of a mile dash for all ages. Red Head, Naicho B., Howard and Pescador entered the contest. Pescador was at his old tricks at the starting post and kept it up until everybody was tired out, then he took a notion to go and went, but Howard proved too speedy for the one-eyed devil, and won easy enough. The result was

This was followed by a Farmer's race, for all sorts of buggy horses. There were seven starters for the first heat; two of these were distanced in the first heat. After trotting four heats and the score standing—Henry 1 1 and Fayette King 1 1—the race was unfinished and was carried over to the next day at 1 p. m.

FOURTH DAY'S RACES.

Promptly at 1 p. m. the farmer's horses were called to finish the race, which they did by Henry winning the heat and race.

FIFTH AND LAST DAY.

The first race on the card was a half-mile and repeat, for all ages. The field consisted of Paloma, Brilliant, Bogam, Waif, Rinfax, Hueneme and Ben H., and were sent for a start in this order. Of course Hueneme was the favorite and was barren at the pools, and did not disappoint his admirers, winning the race in good shape.

The race was followed by a very interesting and well-contested race, being a mile dash for all ages. As the start was made in front of the judges' stand and grand stand there was not so much scoring, though Pescador was at his tricks again. They had a good send off, within fifty yards of the wire. Howard cut in ahead of Naicho B. and fouled him, a protest was promptly made by Mr. Foster, and as the judges had all seen the foul the claim was promptly allowed and the race given to Naicho B. Howard, though declared disqualified under the rules, was allowed to take third money. At the finish they stood:

The closing race of the meeting was the 2:19 trot. El Molino, Ben Corbitt, H. M. Stanley and Bijou appeared on the track eager for the fray. Stanley and Corbitt were only starting for their entry money, distance having been waived. Neither of the horses were in condition to race. The contest between Bijou and El Molino was very spirited. Toll and Garnsey each did his level best to win, but Bijou got there in three straight heats.

This closed the fair and the races. It is to be regretted that the 31st District meeting was not financially a success. One of those terrible desert wind storms three days before the opening of the fair swept through the valley, destroying more than half the bean crop; farmers were too busy gathering the remnant of their crops to be able to attend even their own fair.

To Transfer Harlem Stakes.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—That the Harlem track management has about given up all idea of holding a race meeting there next summer is shown by the fact that it several days ago wired Barney Schreiber, Pat Dunne, Green Morris, Eugene Leigh and others asking them if they would be willing to have the National Derby of 1896, the entries to which still stand, run on St. Louis Fair grounds track. The answers received were favorable, and the chances are that the National Derby of next year will be run there, as it is also likely to be the Chicago Futurity of 1897.

MR. FOXHALL P. KEENE said on Tuesday last, in reply to a query as to why Domino was not started against Rey del Carraras in the six furlongs dash that day: "Domino has turned 'sour,' and we think we will retire him permanently to our Kentucky stud farm. Since the First Special last Tuesday Lakeland has been unable to get Domino to do any work at all. He positively refuses to be taken to the track, and under the circumstances his early retirement is probable."

FRESNO RACES.

Great Racing, Fast Track, Good Management and Large Attendance Declare the Meeting a Success.

Special Correspondence of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.

The Fresno meeting opened most auspiciously, many of the best horses on the Pacific Coast being present to participate in the races. A clear sky, a fast track, excellent sport and a large and enthusiastic attendance has delighted the hearts of the directors every day of the meeting. The grand stand and balcony of the club house are well filled with ladies each day and a first-class band led by Prof. D. C. Smith discourses beautiful music during the intermissions and is highly appreciated by the audience. The splendid condition of the track, the smoothness with which everything goes on reflects great credit upon the management. The Directors and the Secretary are untiring in their efforts to please the horsemen and the public, and the success of the meeting demonstrates that the popularity of racing in Fresno has been revived and almost makes a certainty of the prospect that the Fresno track will be a permanency and that races will be held there regularly each year hereafter. The track, grounds and buildings are among the finest on the Coast, and all it needs is a successful meeting or two like the present one to insure its preservation for the purpose for which it was intended.

The judges were F. W. Loeber, of St. Helena, S. Crane, of Turlock, and F. P. Wickersham, of Fresno. The first race was a special for the 2:27 class trotters with six starters. Toggles, a green four-year-old trained and driven by Mr. Clarke, who developed the great three-year-old, Athanio, won in straight heats, and proved to be the best green horse out this season. This was the first race he ever started in, and his taking a record of 2:17½ in the third heat was a most remarkable performance. He sold a favorite throughout. The contending horses in the race were the three-year-old filly, Stella, by Geo. Washington, and the horse owned by Mr. J. B. Haggin and trained by S. C. Tryon.

SECOND DAY—OCTOBER 2.

This proved to be one of the best day's racing of the entire circuit thus far, and the enthusiasm displayed by the large crowd of spectators attested the appreciation of Fresno people for good racing. The races were all closely contested, and fast time was made in every heat. This was Charlie Durfee's day, he winning two races out of three, and giving two of his horses new records. Judges Loeber, Crane and T. C. White officiated. The first race on the programme was the 2:17 pace, with three starters. The first heat of the hot contest between Fresno Prince and Ketchum, Fresno Prince slipped in and won the heat from Ketchum. In the second heat Ketchum holted to the fence on the first turn and refused to make the circuit, and was declared distanced, and the concluding heats Harvey Mc won all three of them handily, giving him the race.

The second race, for the 2:24 class, was a disappointment, as a great contest was expected between Ethel Downs and Rex Gifford, who trotted the third heat so easily at San Jose last Saturday in 2:14. He seemed sore and unable to extend himself, and Native State was left to make the fight with the daughter of Boodle. She was a big favorite of 10 to 5 for the field; she won the fifth heat in a jog in 2:16½. In the second heat Geo. Maben came through the stretch with Native State so fast that he caught Keating napping, carrying Ethel off her feet and beating her out in 2:14½. She won the next two heats as she pleased, going to the half in 1:06 and jogging home; it is believed she could have trotted in 2:12.

The 2:17 trot brought out five starters, and was another surprise. Visalia was a big favorite, and after a hard racing was defeated by Hillsdale in the first heat by a short head in 2:18½. The second heat was a dead heat in 2:16, and the third heat Hillsdale only beat her a nose in 2:15. Visalia showed plenty of speed, but invariably broke on the first turn and lost from ten to twenty lengths, the distance being too great to close and win. Geo. Dexter made a good showing in the fourth heat. He was only beaten out a length in 2:16. Manning was withdrawn after the first heat on account of lameness.

A Good Thing.

DETROIT, Mich., August 27, 1895.

Illinois Knee Spreader, Gentlemen:—We have sold about two dozen Spreaders this season, and think it but justice to you that we inform you of the success we have had with them. We have sold every set under a positive guarantee, and have never heard one word of complaint regarding them. The Illinois Knee Spreader is without any question in our minds, the only Spreader on the market. We do not write this in the way of flattery, but the horsemen in our vicinity have had such splendid success with it that we thought we would write you regarding the matter, and we trust that you will see your way clear to give us the agency for it next year. You may rest assured that we will do everything in our power to bring the merits of the device more and more prominently before the public.

Very respectfully yours,
TUTTLE & CLARK.

THERE is a bit of interesting history in connection with Ben Brush that well illustrates the luck of racing. Mr. Leigh formerly owned Roseville and bred the colt at his La Belle Stud, near Lexington. Before foaling, however, he sold the mare to Messrs. Clay & Woodford, of the Runnymede Stud, for $2,100. At Messrs. Clay & Woodford's sale of yearlings in 1894, Mr. Leigh and "Brown Dick" (Ed Brown), the well-known Western colored trainer, were the bidders for Roseville's colt, "Dick" ran the youngster up to $1,200, and then stopped bidding, the colt going to Mr. Leigh at that figure. After the sale "Dick" told Mr. Leigh he wanted the colt badly, but added: "I did not like to bid against you." "Dick," then offered $1,500 for the youngster. Mr. Leigh refused the offer, but finally told "Dick" he might have a half interest in the colt at cost, $600. Ben Brush has won this season $11,000 in purses and stakes, so that the transaction has been a profitable one for both his former owners.

NICK HALL and J. C. McWilliams, owner and trainer of Jefferson, became involved in a row across from the track, on Fifth Avenue, last night at about 7:30 over the running of McWilliams' horse on Tuesday last. Hall bet several hundred dollars on Jefferson and claimed he got no run for his money. Hot words followed, and then the latter went into his stable under the betting ring and procured a pitchfork, with the handle of which he struck McWilliams over the head, felling him to the ground. He then jabbed the pitchfork several times into the prostrate man's left arm and tore ruts in his face and head. McWilliams, while down on the ground, fired three shots at Hall, one of which went through his hat. But for Jasper Madison's timely interference McWilliams would surely have been killed. Hall then escaped. The injured man was picked up by a policeman and taken to the Receiving Hospital, where his wounds were found to be not serious. Hall was not arrested last night.

THE writer is inclined to the belief that horsemen are needlessly worrying themselves over the bicycle craze. The horse is not going to become extinct. The fashionable world cannot go to the opera, to dinners, to receptions or to balls on bicycles. Such calls upon society demand the carriage, and they will always be careful necessities to that class who can afford to keep or hire them. One reason why horses are so cheap is that the present hard times have taught people the necessity of saving rather than spending their money. What would the average man have to talk about were there no horses? Horses are interesting as well as useful. The horse is ever a fruitful subject for conversation. It is a result of this fact that horse shows have grown so fashionable and profitable.

AT an auction sale of Palo Alto broodmares held in this city three years ago, J. B. Iverson, of Salinas, purchased a mare called Belle, by Kentucky Prince. She was in foal to Good Gift (the stallion afterward shipped to Russia), and the next spring she dropped a filly. Last Monday this two-year-old broke the track record for two-year-olds at Salinas by winning her maiden race and getting a mark of 2:27½.

THE Palo Alto filly Palita that got a record of 2:16½ at the San Jose meeting did not make it against time. It was a walk-over for the Capitol Stakes, which were worth $415 to the winner. The correction is made in the summary as published last week in justice to the great filly and her owner.

C. Z. HEBERT'S broodmare Dolly, by Mozart, is now entitled to enter the broodmare ranks. She is the dam of Bruno, 2:19, and Altoonita (p), 2:25, by Altoona, the latter named entering the list in the second heat of a race at Salinas on Monday last.

J. B. IVERSON'S handsome mare Ivola, by Antevolo, got a record of 2:24 (pacing) in the fourth heat of the district race at Salinas last Monday.

JOCKEY SHAW was fined $25 for his careless ride on Agitato in the last race Tuesday. The hoy was very confident, and allowed Uncle Giles to get up dangerously close to him.

TOD SLOAN received a telegram Tuesday from his brother Cash, also a well-known jockey, stating that he (Cash) had been reinstated, and that he might come out to California soon.

POTENTATE, Garcia, Montgomery and other Eastern purchases of Burns & Waterhouse, are being galloped at the Sacramento track.

RICHARD CROKER thinks Victor Wild about the best horse in England this year.

The Salinas Races.

FIRST DAY—MONDAY, SEPT. 30.

The opening of the nineteenth annual fair of the Monterey Agricultural Association, District No. 7, took place at Sherwood Park, this city, yesterday. The day was cool and the track in fair condition, but a little soft. The attendance was smaller than usual on an opening day, but that was probably due in a great measure to the fact that the fair began on Monday this year instead of Tuesday, which is an innovation to which our people have not become accustomed. However, the splendid first days' racing enthused those who were there and from now on the attendance will be largely augmented. The splendid racing card for each day justifies the prediction that the efforts of the directors will be appreciated by a big turnout the remainder of the week.

The officers of the day were Judges H. S. Ball, O. Cayer and Sam N. Matthews. Timers: Z. Hebert and W. J. Lynn. Marshals: D. R. Martin and John Sexton Jr.

The first race was the two-year-old district trotting stake, value $300. Of the original twenty odd nominations only two came up for the word—J. B. Iverson's h g Prince Gift, by Good Gift—Belle, by Kentucky Prince, and J. D. Carr's br g Tanhauser, by Eros. Prince Gift won this, his maiden race, in 2:27½ and 2:52. In the first heat Tanhauser had to do some lively sprinting to keep from catching the flag. No pools were sold on the race.

The second race, the 2:20 trot, brought out the campaigners Boodle, Irene Crocker, Bay Rum and Bishop Hero. In the pools Boodle brought $20 to $10 for the rest bunched as a field. After tedious scoring, in which Bishop Hero was the cause of the delay, they were sent off. This was a pretty race between Irene Crocker and Boodle, the former winning by a neck in 2:17, making for herself a new mark and clipping two and one-half seconds from the race record of the track for trotters.

For the second heat Boodle still sold favorite at $20 to $8 for the field. Irene Crocker finished a nose ahead, but broke just before the wire was reached, but as Boodle had broken three times, the judges after considerable discussion gave the heat to Irene. Time, 2:18½.

Boodle still sold favorite at $20 to $10, and lauded the heat from the tiring Irene by a short length in 2:18½, and justified the confidence of his backers by landing the next two in 2:19 and 2:20. Bay Rum finished third in each heat and Bishop Hero fourth.

In the first heat Paris mutuels paid $10, on the second heat $11.25 and on the third $6.25.

Hebert & Son's Altoonita, J. B. Iverson's Ivolo and S. E. Kent's Susie K. contested in the 2:25 district pacing stake. Ivolo won the first heat in 2:27½, Altoonita the next two in 2:25 and 2:27, but Ivolo outlasted her and won the fourth and fifth heats in 2:24 and 2:25. Susie K. finished third in each heat.

As a result of the day's racing "Doc" Williams put two in the list for J. B. Iverson, viz: Prince Gift (2), 2:27½, and Ivolo (p), 2:24. This is the first of Good Gift's get to enter the list, and Ivolo adds one more to Antevolo's list.
